A BELOVED TRUSTEE OF ROLLINS COLLEGE PASSES AWAY

Death of William C. Temple Occurred Last Tuesday.

The numerous friends of William Chase Temple were shocked to hear of his sudden death, which occurred Tuesday morning at 2:20 o'clock.

Although Mr. Temple had not been well for some time, his most intimate friends did not realize that the end was near. Mr. Temple was fifty-four years old, having celebrated his last birthday on the 28th of December.

The funeral services were conducted from the residence at Winter Park, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. George Morgan Ward, president of Rollins College, was in charge of the services.

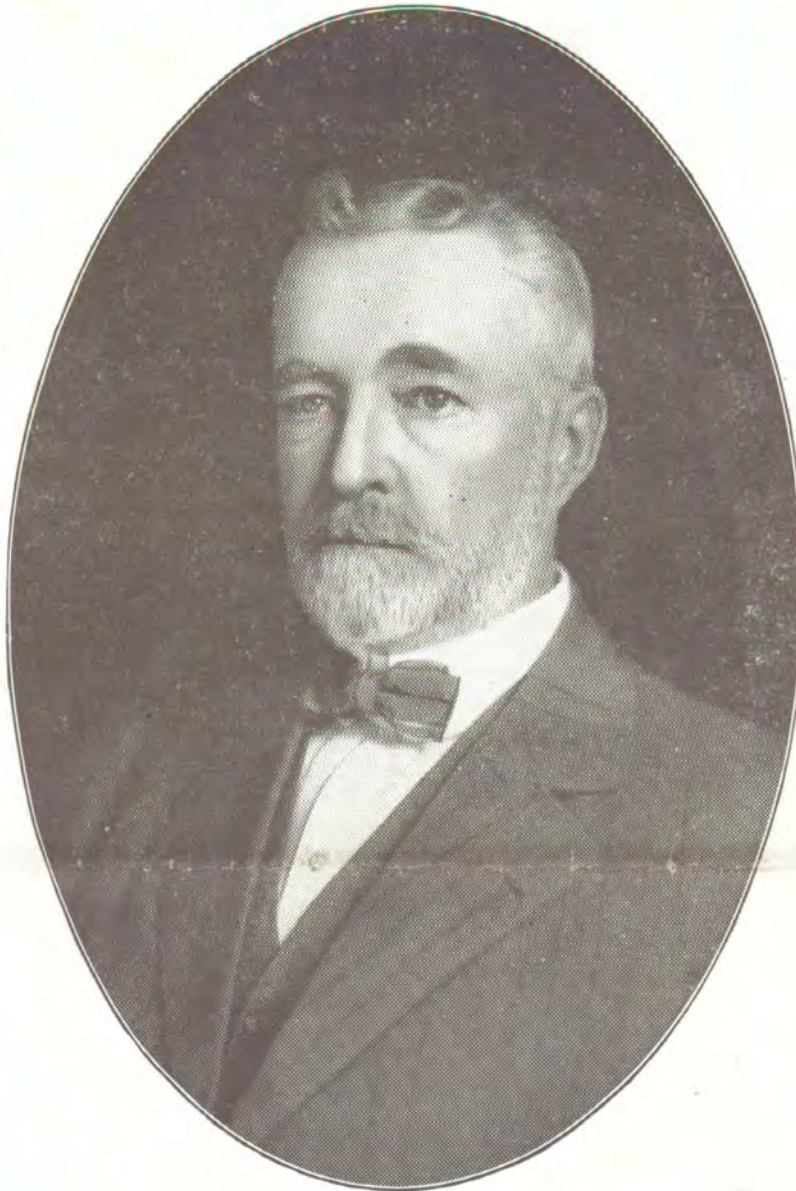

The floral tributes, which were numerous and beautiful, testified to the love and esteem in which Mr. Temple was held by his fellow-citizens and admirers. Following the service the remains were shipped to Washington to be cremated, according to his wish.

Dr. Ward says of him: "It is a great loss. He was a leader, a born organizer and a gifted man." Among his gifts could be enumerated wisdom, foresight, strength of opinion and conviction, intellectual brilliance, personal magnetism, power, generosity and nobility of character. It has been truly said of him: "His heart was in whatever he took hold of and he made things accelerate with his energy and forcefulness." This was, indeed, true of him in regard to his connection with Rollins College. In the early days of its history, when the struggle for existence was difficult, William Chase Temple proved one of the staunchest and most loyal supporters of this institution. During Dr. Ward's first administration he acted as trustee, withdrawing his connection from the College at Dr. Ward's resignation and again resuming the duties of this position last year upon the acceptance by Dr. Ward of the acting presidency of Rollins. His interest in Rollins and the good he accomplished for the institution can scarcely be estimated. This was manifest in certain plans he was formulating for the benefit of Rollins prior to his death.

Tuesday morning the sad news was communicated to the student body by Dean Enyart, who conducted the chapel exercises. Immediately following chapel, the flag was lowered to half-mast and taps were sounded.

Mr. Temple recently resigned the mayorship of Winter Park. Before and during his term of office he was

DR. WARD ADDRESSES BANQUET

At the San Juan Hotel, in Orlando, last Monday evening, fifty or more of Orlando's most prominent men and women attended the Y. M. C. A. banquet, arranged by the general committee, of which Mr. C. P. Dow is the chairman. The banquet was a most enthusiastic affair, and Dr. Ward and other speakers held the closest attention of all as they told of what the Young Men's Christian Association is doing in Florida, and emphasized the benefits which would accrue to Orlando by the organization of an association there. Raymond Greene, general secretary of the Rollins Y. M. C. A., and Mr. O. E. Maple, the Y. M. C. A. secretary of Florida, were among those to give addresses.

The banquet succeeded in arousing much interest in the organization of a Y. M. C. A. in Orlando. A commit-

MR. RANOUS WILL GIVE RECITAL

Rollins students who were here last year will learn with pleasure that Mr. Arthur Ranous, of Chicago, whose singing was so greatly enjoyed a year ago, is to be in Winter Park again next week as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Switzer.

Mr. Ranous will give a song recital in Knowles Hall on the evening of Wednesday, January 17, under the auspices of the Rollins College Conservatory of Music.

All Rollins students will be admitted free. It is hoped that the student body will turn out in force and give Mr. Ranous the reception to which his delightful art and wide reputation entitle him.

tee was appointed to arouse public interest in the project, and it is hoped that before long Orlando will be the home of a lively Y. M. C. A.

THE CONSERVATORY FACULTY GIVE HIGHLY ARTISTIC CONCERT

Annual Event Shows Exceptional Efficiency of Department.

Perhaps no concert given in Knowles Hall ever elicited greater praise or gave more artistic pleasure than that presented by the faculty of the Rollins Conservatory, Monday evening. The program was unusually well arranged and every number was received with an enthusiasm which attested to the genuine appreciation of the audience.

A real musical event was the Double Concerto for violins, by Bach, played by the directors, Miss Dyer and Dr. Julia C. Allen, with Mrs. Helen O'Neal Palmer at the piano. To hear the famous and difficult work so magnificently played in Florida and by members of our faculty was something to boast of as well as the clarity of tone, accuracy of attack, etc., in this wonderful contrapuntal work. Rollins is to be congratulated upon possessing three artists capable of such a masterly interpretation.

Miss Waterman further entrenched herself in the regard and admiration of her audience by her exquisitely smooth, even voice and the excellence of her interpretation of German leader. The bit of song with Miss Dyer's obligato gave distinct pleasure and made a charming close to a program of the highest order.

Dr. Hanchett's pianoforte solos were given with the authority and musicianship which always characterizes his

INTERESTING MEETING.

The first meeting of the Y. W. C. A. of the new year was held on the 9th of January, under the leadership of Miss Ruth Greene. Miss Greene referred to the first meeting of the school year, when the girls packed their suitcases for a journey along the "Road of Friendly Hearts" and she suggested pausing a while and inspecting the contents of the bags, to see whether they had been used to the best advantage. Miss Greene made special mention of kind words and thoughtfulness.

She suggested making New Year resolutions somewhat in the shape of planting a garden, and resolving not to put into it merely bright flowers, but to plant the stable things that would be worth while in "winter weather."

Miss Elizabeth Russell then read a most worth while article from the "Association Monthly" by Miss Burner, entitled "Making Friends."

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1917.

In the death of Hon. William Chase Temple, Rollins College has lost a firm and true friend. How much good he accomplished for Rollins not only by giving financial aid, but also in giving unsparsingly of his time and energy, can never be estimated.

Alumni, as well as present-day students are indebted to him more deeply than they will ever know.

As a mark of the respect and esteem in which he was held, all school exercises were suspended after noon on Wednesday.

Exams are rapidly approaching. Face them squarely. You can't dodge now.

We are just beginning to feel again as if we really belonged in The Sandspur office. Perfect order, absolute cleanliness—not a grain of dust—and new curtains made us feel a bit out of place in the office after Christmas.

Now, however, there's the old-time atmosphere which has returned with the disarrangement of equipment, which, after all, isn't disorder, that follows in the wake of those who transact business in the office.

We're glad for the perfect order which we found after Christmas, however—it keeps us from becoming too careless.

Those who attended the faculty recital in Knowles Hall last Monday evening were more than delighted with the evening's entertainment.

Rollins College is rarely fortunate in having artists of such unquestioned ability among its faculty, and the students should avail themselves of every opportunity to hear them.

We have heard rumors of arguments and of lively debate on the campus recently. Spirit runs high at times and the interest in burning questions is intense. No, these debates aren't settling the fate of the European nations. They are merely trying out the wit and the gray matter of the members of the Freshman College and Senior Academy classes. The annual Freshman-Senior debate will take place early in the second semester; and, judging from the interest already manifested, it should be the best ever.

More than this, the victory this year will mean much to the class winning it, for last year the Academy class won the laurels, while the year before the College team was victor.

In the bustle and rush of class work and various student activities literary pursuits are too often neglected; but once each year at least the student body of Rollins, with one accord, turns its attention to a lively debate upon some vital question of the day.

Real school spirit then shines forth in all its brilliancy and academy and college students alike point to the debate as one of the red-letter events of college days.

The Conservatory of Music presented its first faculty concert of the current year last Monday evening. It was unmistakably the rarest treat given to the College and community in the experience of the present generation of Rollins students. Not only did the numbers show great ability, but such talent as of only musical geni.

We are sure that the general mass of students do not appreciate as it ought the rareness of the opportunity that we have here at Rollins. Sure, we not all understand fully classical music, but such recitals will help us to appreciate the excellence of it; and for those of us who do, it is a treat seldom given.

The only regret we can express is that other activities so occupy our time that we do not leave proper room for this work and the availing ourselves of these privileges. In some college towns the chief recreation and diversion are movies or some such institution, which is purely an amusement. Here we may economize time and grow in developing a cultured taste through our entertainment.

The tennis season is about to open in all earnestness. We have seen already considerable activity on the courts and a schedule of the tournament is being worked out, to begin Monday. The Sandspur is glad to announce that the inter-scholastic contests begin today with a match with the Stetson team. The outcome we will not publish at this writing, but we believe in our team individually and as a team. Our cub reporter says that the boys have not "plain" very regularly lately, but we feel sure that five days' systematic work-out will find them in fine condition. The tournament last season with Florida provoked much interest here on the campus and we are hoping for many such occasions this year both on our own courts and those of the other colleges of the state.

Personals

Lauretta Barr, of Cleveland, O., who is spending the winter in Maitland, has entered the Expression Department.

Mrs. Albert Weaver and cousin, Ersula Hill, arrived Saturday in Winter Park, having made the trip by automobile from Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. F. R. Blount of Punta Gorda, accompanied by her daughter, Elise, arrived at Rollins last Wednesday. Mrs. Blount left Thursday afternoon for her home, after having enrolled Elise in the Special College Course.

Elenor and Oscar Bachus visited Orlando Friday evening.

Howard Weaver will entertain with a dinner this evening at the Seminole Hotel, followed by a dance at the Country Club, in honor of his cousin, Ersula Hill. Mrs. C. H. Morse will be chaperon for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Barbour, of Chelmsford, Mass., arrived Sunday evening in Winter Park. They will occupy the Kirby House for the season.

Among former students to attend the faculty concert last Monday evening were Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Tilden of Tildenville, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Landstreet of Winter Garden, and Mr. and Mrs. Werner Nehrling of Gotha.

The Civic League of Winter Park, of which Dr. Ward is president, held its regular meeting last Thursday evening in the Town Hall.

L. J. Brock enjoyed Sunday and Monday at his home in Oakland.

Wyman and Ellis Stubbs spent the week-end at their home in Winter Garden.

Last Wednesday evening Miss O'Neal attended a banquet of the "Merry-Go-Round" Club at the Colonial Inn, in Orlando. Miss Eva McQuarters and Miss Mary Branham, alumni of Rollins, are among the members of this society.

Dean Enyart was among those present at the Y. M. C. A. banquet in Orlando, Monday evening.

Friends of Helen Warlow and Grace Tilden will be glad to hear that they have succeeded in making the college and normal basketball teams, respectively, of the Florida State College for Women. Helen and Grace were formerly basketball enthusiasts at Rollins.

Ethel Moughton, Claire Walker and Clifford Walker of Sandford motored over and took supper with Katherine Waldron, Sunday, returning home by moonlight.

Margaret Rogers left Sunday afternoon to resume her mission work in West Tampa, after being the guest of Miss Enyart in Cloverleaf for a few days.

Margaret Rogers was the guest of Loretta Salmon at dinner Thursday evening, the 4th.

Exchanges

We have decided to vary the exchanges this week by printing, instead of the usual criticisms, interesting bits of news or humor taken from the latest exchanges.

The Southern favors us with a criticism, as follows:

Rollins Sandspur: Yours is a good paper and shows a large amount of work. Your students should appreciate it. Your only fault found by us is that your material is spread out too much. Some of your articles do not warrant the amount of space devoted to them.

We are obliged to the Southern for this friendly criticism.

Southern is raising the question of whether the College shall put out an Annual. An editorial in regard to this says: "Southern has not had an Annual for the last few years, while all the other Colleges of the State have published one each year. Now, if they can do this, why cannot we do it? College spirit, real live college spirit, finds few obstacles in its path which it cannot overcome. It is entirely up to the individual student if we are to have a college annual."

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber,

Who pays in advance without skipping a year,

Who lays down his fifty and offers it gladly,

And casts round the office a halo of cheer.

How welcome is he when he steps in our sanctum,

How he makes "our heart" throb, how he makes "our eye" dance.

We outwardly thank him, we inwardly bless him,

The steady subscriber who pays in advance.

"Howard Burchard Lines—'Rainy' Lines, of Dartmouth '12; Harvard Law School '15, and the American Ambulance Corps in France, is dead somewhere in the battle-scarred Argonne region of France," so the Boston papers of December 26, 1916, announced. "Rainy" Lines was the son of Dr. E. H. Lines, of Paris, an intimate friend of Dr. Ward's. The heroic persistency of this young man in repeatedly returning to his work after illness contracted on the field, and the sacrifice of his life in helping to relieve the suffering of the wounded stands as a rebuke to our smug complacency.

His last letter to his Dartmouth classmates was an appeal for money to furnish and support a "Dartmouth bed" in the "Ambulance."

Do unselfishness and cheerful, willing sacrifice such as this, hold any significance for you? Have they any message for you?

"Is this a second-hand store?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I want one for my watch."

MUSEUM ATTRACTING VISITORS

The Rollins College museum during recent days has attracted a number of interested visitors. The museum is, indeed, worth seeing. It now has a number of new exhibits, pictures and the like. Among the out-of-town visitors of January 4th were Hon. W. S. Eversole, of Aurora, O., who was formerly superintendent of Wellington, Marion and Wooster schools; Miss Jeanette E. Jackson, teacher of Greek and Latin, Wooster O.; Mrs. B. E. Baumgarten and Miss Irma Baumgarten, of Keenah, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Newton, of Providence, R. I.

DELIGHTFUL CANOE PICNIC TOOK PLACE SATURDAY EVE.

Saturday evening a jolly party, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Webster, enjoyed a canoe trip on the lakes, followed by a most delicious "steak roast" at Shaffer's Landing on Lake Maitland. It is reported that not only the wonderful moonlight, but also "English conversation" added to the evening's pleasure.

Those composing the party were Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Webster, Freda Siewert, Margaret Rogers, Ruth Greene, Loretta Salmon, Ray Greene, Fred Hanna, Halstead Caldwell and Mr. Weaver.

MRS. M. B. DAVIS ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF ROSE POWERS.

Mrs. M. B. Davis of Orlando gave a dinner at her home on New Year's evening in honor of Rose Powers, her house guest. Those present at this delightful affair were: Mrs. M. B. Davis, Rose Powers, Dorothy Galey, Leona Wells, Edith Foley, Randolph Cobb, Russell Davis and Ellison Adams. After the dinner the party attended the New Year's dance at the Rosalind Club.

The Tennis Tournament which was to have begun on Monday has been postponed a week to allow the team the use of the courts prior to the tournament with Stetson. The squad has had several interesting work-outs, two challenge matches being played off, incidentally.

It is time for baseball practice to begin, and the fellows are working their "wings" out pretty regularly now. It is rumored that "Son" Roberts will return to College for the second semester, and if he does we certainly have the nucleus for a good infield. Roberts was captain of the baseball team the last two years that he was here and his return would be welcomed.

CAPTAIN LAYTON WRITES FROM THE MEXICAN BORDER.

A Former Rollins Student.

Mrs. Clara B. L. Ward of Winter Park has recently received a letter from her brother, Capt. C. Rodney Layton, a former Rollins College student, who is now in Laredo, Tex., with the Florida troops. He is adjutant and on Colonel Blanden's staff. Captain Layton attended Rollins during the year '90-'91, and was practicing law in Gainesville when he responded to the call for border troops. Captain Layton writes as follows:

"We had a merry Christmas, plenty of things from home for everyone and plenty to eat here. We are very comfortable for campers. Of course, the sudden changes in weather, usual to this climate, bother us, and also the sand-storms and continued dustiness of everything. But I have electric lights in my office and sleeping tent; each is heated by gas; each has wooden frames and floors. Also, all the companies have gas for cooking, and electric lights for mess halls and kitchens, and can have electric lights in their tents if they will pay about 10c per month per man. Stoves are furnished for all tents for enlisted men, and we have nearly enough lumber now for floors and frames for all the tents and the rest is promised.

"Shortly after January 1st the regiment will go out on border patrol duty and will be scattered along the river from forty miles west of here to sixty miles east. Only the lieutenant colonel, the colonel, myself, one or two other officers, the band and a small guard, will be left here. They will fare well, for there is plenty of game in the country, and the country people treat soldiers much better than the people do in Laredo. We have had lots of hunting parties out. I've eaten more venison than I ever did before in all my life; also plenty of doves, quail and duck.

"Much love to all and wishing you and yours a happy and prosperous New Year, I am affectionately, ROD."

The Student's Opinion

I wonder if the other students have really noticed the annoyance which is always caused at a recital or any other program given in the auditorium by people who come into the room after the entertainment has been started? Especially in a musical program this habit is most annoying; it is discourteous to both the one performing and to the hearers. Can there not be something done to correct this bad habit? At least we students can make a more pronounced effort to be punctual. Would it not be well, too, to start a custom of locking the doors?

Aaron (as Bob passed his plate a second time): "Have a heart."

Dorothy: "He has an appetite, anyway."

Al: "A hearty appetite."

STATE Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE ATTENDED BY ROLLINS MEN.

Convened In DeLand.

The third annual conference of the Young Men's Christian Association of Florida was held in DeLand at John B. Stetson University on January 2-4, 1917. Dr. W. D. Weatherford, of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. and student secretary for the Southern States, was general director of the conference, and spoke at many of the sessions. Other prominent speakers were Dr. O. E. Brown, member national committee of the Y. M. C. A. and chairman of Tennessee State Committee and Professor of Church History at Vanderbilt University; Dr. Charles to Hounshell, traveling secretary of Student Volunteer Movement in the South for past six years; Mr. O. E. Maple, state secretary of Y. M. C. A.; Mr. H. W. Nelson, general secretary of the University of Florida Y. M. C. A., and Mr. R. W. Greene, general secretary of the Rollins College Association. The meetings were held in Carnegie Hall, all of which were very inspiring and instructive. Much gratitude is due to the students of Stetson and to the townspeople of DeLand for the delightful entertainment and kindness shown the visiting delegates. One of the features of the entertainment was an auto ride to DeLeon Springs, where the boys enjoyed a delightful swim, after which a picnic supper was served. The conference closed on Thursday evening with a splendid address by Dr. Weatherford.

Rollins was represented by C. Norman Fletcher, George L. Cutler, T. DeWitt Taylor, Maurice A. Wheldon, R. W. Greene, Aaron A. Taylor, Raymond C. Phillips, Robert C. Hutchinson, Leslie L. Hanawalt, James I. Noxon and Marshall D. Dancy, the largest delegation in the session.

"TUESDAY EVENING" DANCE.

The usual "Tuesday Evening" dance which was postponed from the second to the last Saturday evening was held at the Country Club, with Miss Emily Nicoll as hostess.

Preceding the dance, Mrs. E. J. Cleave and son, Bertram, gave a dinner to the members of the "Tuesday Evening" at Virginia Inn.

Those invited for the affair were: The patronesses and their husbands, Mrs. Charles H. Morse, Dr. and Mrs. George M. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Powers, and Mrs. Beach; the Misses Emily Nicoll, Emma Myers, Eva Purdy, Edith Foley, Rose Powers, Ruth Thompson, Dorothy Galey, Leona Wells, Howard Weaver, Ellison Adams, Paul Thoren, Douglas Street, Sherwood Foley, Byron Stevenson, John Wells, Allen Jones, William Beardall, Edwin Beeman, Samuel Thompson and Frank Galey.

Miss Bellows (absent-mindedly serving soup): "Which will you have, Miss Bennett, hot or cold?"

WORTHINGTON BLACKMAN REPORTS ARMY EXPERIENCES.Alumnus Serving In Militia.

The editors of The Sandspur received recently a very interesting letter from Worthington Blackman, who is in Texas with Uncle Sam's border troops. Space forbids the publication of the entire letter, but the following extracts will be of interest:

LAREDO, TEX., Dec. 8, 1916.

Dear Editors:—

After having partaken of a hearty dinner, cooked in true camp style over an open fire, and having reposed myself to rest and quiet for a few moments by lighting a real Tampa Smoker, the gift of a friend of mine in Company "H," I allow my thoughts to wander homewards to my dear little Alma Mater in the Land of Flowers, and to your fine paper, which, arriving every week, seems like a breath of Florida's balmy breezes on the parched, sun-dried lands of the Rio Grande. And as my thoughts turn toward home, so do I remember that once upon a time I promised you a little note of news, etc., from Rollins' representative with the border forces.

Today, in my capacity as Sergeant, I am in absolute command of an army consisting of three men and myself, engaged in the hazardous enterprise of standing guard over several thousand railroad ties and seeing that they do not get up and walk away. The ties are piled in a space between two sidetracks in the I. & G. N. freight yards and both tracks are full of empty freight cars belonging to the Mexican railroad and awaiting, in the security of Uncle Sam's territory, the resumption of peace and prosperity in their own country.

Possibly a short statement of our daily toil would be appreciated by those of your readers that think they are worked so hard in school or college. We get up at 5:30, stand reveille formation and have setting up exercise until 6:15. Then breakfast call blows at 6:30. Breakfast consists of coffee, rice, bacon and gravy, and oatmeal. Then at 7 we form up and police the street, picking up all the paper and other trash which accumulates during the day and night. At 7:30 the bugle summons us to drill, which lasts until 10:30. Sometimes between getting up and drill one must find time to clean up the tent, make and arrange the cots, and perform such necessary toilet necessities as washing up. From 10:30 to 12 the soldier may rest, provided there is not some special detail work which has to be done. At 12 dinner is served. Dinner is somewhat of a problem, as one never knows up to the last moment what the cooks and mess sergeants are going to serve up to you. It runs the gamut from steak to cold tomatoes. We have meat two days a week and vegetables the rest of the time. At 2:30 drill call sounds again, and for another hour we do "squads right, squads left," etc. Then we are off for the rest of the day. Being off means that we have time in which to wash our clothes, bathe, shave, clean guns and other equipment, shine our shoes and eat candy and crackers purchased at the regimental canteen with that blessed canteen check, blessed every day in the month except when the amount that you have drawn is taken out of your pay on pay day. In the evening one-fourth of the company can go to town, while the rest lie around camp, writing letters, reading or sleeping, not to mention shooting crap and other gentle diversions not exactly peculiar to army life, but always adjunct thereto. Saturday is inspection day, the one day in the week when the real lazy ones have to be dressed up and clean, while Sunday is free, except that you have to procure permission to go to town. I am favored with a regular Sunday pass, for all day, thanks to singing in the choir in the Presbyterian church and being active in the C. E. society. Every day, however, whether Saturday, Sunday or week day, one must stand retreat formation in the Company Street at 5:30 p. m., followed by supper at 6. Supper is fairly stable, either beans or meat (generally beans), coffee, rice and potatoes; bread without butter without extra charge.

So you can see that there is little lost time in the day. Night is generally welcome, and late hours are the exception rather than the rule, for one will hardly spend much of his sleeping time in town when the next day has to be faced. And the food, though hardly home-cooked nor home quality, is probably much better adapted to the men than home eats would be and is generally plentiful and nourishing. Naturally, I often long for home and the friends there, but if asked whether I regret the move I made in signing up and coming along, I can only point to my 158 pounds as against my old 140; my present health as against the marks of two years in an office, I can now do twenty miles a day, and hardly feel it, am tough as nails, and in the best health I have been in since my days with the old Rollins football team of '07 to '09. I don't think that I would enjoy this life as a regular diet; but it is alright for a change.

Keep up the good work that you are doing with the paper, and may Rollins always prosper, and carry on her mission in Florida.

Very sincerely,
WORTHINGTON BLACKMAN,
Care Co. C, 2nd Fla. Inf, Military
Camp, Laredo, Tex.

GREAT LOSS TO TOWN AND COLLEGE IN DEATH OF MR. TEMPLE

Organizer and Promoter of Many Business Interests.

identified with all projects for the up-building of the town and its prestige.

His claim to national recognition comes through the organization by him of the world's championship baseball series—a series conducted every year between the major leagues.

During his life he organized and was connected with many large corporations in the North and East as well as in his native State of Florida, where he benefited thousands when he organized the Florida Citrus Exchange, placed it upon a firm foundation and made it a paying proposition. More recently he organized and served as the first president of the South Florida Chamber of Commerce. Many are the monuments over the whole State left as a testimony to his enterprise and ability for organization.

The following biographical sketch of his life appeared in The Morning Sentinel:

The years of Mr. William Chase Temple's career have been teeming full of useful activity — of activity punctuated by successful achievement in many and diversified fields of endeavor. A man of vigorous intellect, untiring energy and directness of purpose, he has displayed qualities of ability as an organizer and executive that have made him a conspicuous figure in many of the large financial, industrial and commercial developments of our time; a constructive force in the promotion of movements looking to the advancement of municipal and community interests; and in the midst of all these occupations he found time to leave his indelible imprint upon our great national sport—baseball.

William Chase Temple was born December 28, 1862, at Starke, Bradford county, Florida, the son of William Clemmons and Mattie Josephine (Chase) Temple. Through the paternal family he is of the lineage of an ancient and sturdy English ancestry. The maternal line is of Irish origin. Mr. Temple's great-grandfather served his country under the famous Admiral John Paul Jones; his mother's sister, Elizabeth Akers Allen, who was editor of the Portland Adviser, being one of the pioneer women in the journalistic field, and was the author of the famous song, "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother."

Mr. Temple received his earlier education in the public schools of Wilmington, Del., and was graduated from the high school when 12 years old. Later, entering the Delaware State Normal school, he was graduated therefrom in 1879.

Mr. Temple entered upon his business activities at an early age, as newsboy in Wilmington, Del. Following this initial enterprise, and continuing until his 16th year, he worked on a Wilmington newspaper, attending the school in the daytime.

After his graduation from the Normal school in 1879, he went to Milwaukee, where his first employment was with the packing concern of Plankinton & Armour. His next position was with the Mitchell Bank, from 1880 to 1882. In the last-named year he went to Florida, and was there engaged in the lumber business until 1884. Through 1884 and 1885 he made his headquarters in Chicago, occupied with organization work in connection with introducing the Johnson Automatic Temperature Control. The four succeeding years he devoted to electrical engineering activities in New York City. From 1889 to 1895 he was the manager of the Pittsburg district for Babcock & Wilcox Company.

It was during this period that Mr. Temple entered the baseball world as owner and operator of the Pittsburg National Baseball Club. In 1895 he conceived the idea and formulated the governing rules for the world series baseball games, which have since remained the great annual classic of our national game. He donated the famous Temple Cup, to be awarded as a champion trophy.

During the decade from 1895 to 1905 he was actively engaged in general lines of manufacturing, organization and promotion of steel, iron, machinery, coal, plate-glass, telephone and railroad enterprises.

He retired from active business in 1905. In 1909, however, after three

FIRST BASKET BALL GAME PLAYED AND LOST AT STETSON

Score 45 to 10.

Stetson University defeated Rollins in a well-played basketball game on Monday night at the University Gym. Team work featured the game for both sides, but the work of the Stetson forwards was far superior to Rollins and accounted for the large score.

Miller and Rutherford starred for Stetson, and Hannawalt and Faulkner played consistent games for Rollins. The line-up:

Stetson.	Position.	Rollins.
Miller	R. F.	Fletcher
Gardner, Capt.	L. F.	Hutchinson
Rutherford	Center	Arrants
White	R. G.	Hannawalt
Bailey	L. G.	Faulkner

Field Baskets—Stetson: Miller 6, Gardner 3, Rutherford 3, Bailey 4, White 4, Gilliland 1. Rollins: Hutchinson 2, Arrants 1, Faulkner 1. Rollins: Fletcher 2.

Substitutions—Stetson: Coro for White, White for Gardner, Fenno for Coro, Hodgen for Bailey, Fink for Hodgen, Bassit for Rutherford, Peek for White, Gilliland for Miller. Time of halves, 20 minutes. Referee, Royal. Umpire, Gee; alternating.

Little Willie was on his first visit to the farm. He was being shown about the place, when he saw a cow, grazing on the pasture. He was greatly excited and asked: "Oh, Uncle, what is that?"

"That is only a cow," replied his uncle.

"And what are those things on her head?"

"Horns."

They turned to go, when the cow mooed long and loud. Willie was astounded. Looking back, he demanded: "Which horn did she blow?"

Coach: "Is this where they get mated?"

Cheesy: "Yes, but there's no chance here for you."

MR. W. C. TEMPLE DIES VERY SUDDENLY.

years of investigation in California, he undertook the organization of the Florida Citrus Exchange; and with the view of putting the company on a firm foundation, he served as its general manager from 1910 to 1913. In this he was eminently successful, as is evidenced in the fact that at the beginning of his regime the company, with an indebtedness of $80,000, was doing an annual business of only $200,000, and by the end of this period he had not only lifted the entire amount of the debt, but had accumulated a surplus of $124,000 in the treasury and had increased the volume of the company's business to more than $5,000,000 a year.

Mr. Temple had many important corporate interests, and was identified with the Rex Carbon Coal company, Hastings Lumber company, St. Louis Plate Glass company, Pittsburg and Hecla Mining company and the Davison Lumber company. He was a director in twenty-two corporations, among which were three of Pittsburg's leading banks—the Bank of Pittsburg, Guarantee Title and Trust company and the Iron City National bank.

In 1916 he retired for the second time.

Mr. Temple has long been an influential factor in movements for the community up-building. He organized and served as the first president (1915) of the South Florida Chamber of Commerce, which includes twenty-two counties. He was one of the organizers and is vice president and treasurer of the Southeast Mayors' association, of which there are 650 members. He is mayor of Winter Park, Fla. In 1913 he was tendered the nomination to the United States senatorship, an honor which he declined.

Mr. Temple was married on April 13, 1884, to Miss Carrie Lee Wood of Chicago. They have one daughter living, Mrs. Dorothy Temple Mason.
