Y. M. C. A. TAKES OVER MINOR SPORTS BASKET BALL TOO

New Management for These Activities Insures Success This Year.

Minor athletics at Rollins will be taken care of by the local branch of the Y. M. C. A. this year as is the practice at many colleges and universities. Besides these sports basket ball will be under the control of the association, if plans of basket ball men materialize. As The Sandspur goes to press it is not possible to include the results of yesterday's Y. M. C. A. meeting, but it can be stated as certain that officers were elected as follows: President, Robert Donaldson; vice president, Paul Potter; treasurer, Kenneth Warner; secretary, Merle Weaver. Weaver has been taking care of all business since the opening of college and will continue in the same role the rest of the year.

Membership cards for members of the local Y. M. C. A. are wanted by the officers of the Rollins branch. Wight, Y. M. C. A. leader at the University of Florida, and the Florida secretary will both be in Winter Park to investigate the matter before long. It is thought likely that membership cards will be granted immediately.

Funds available for the Y. M. C. A. from the student association will be turned over to the basket ball manager, unless present plans are abandoned. (Continued on page 6)

DEAN SPRAGUE TALKS ON BOK PEACE PRIZE

Addresses Audience at Sunday Services as Planned; Next Services in December

Last Sunday saw the first of the monthly Vesper services planned by the college. The service was held in the chapel at four o'clock in the afternoon as planned. Dean Sprague spoke on "How Would You Win the Peace Prize?" and an interesting musical program was given.

"There must be co-operation of the nations to produce lasting world peace" was the keynote of Dean Sprague's speech on "How Would You Win the Peace Prize?" War in times past has been an advantage to men and nations. Advancement was stimulated by war. War forced the savage to look to his own resources, and gradually civilization was produced. But the time for war has passed. The time for peace and international friendship has come. All nations will have to work together for this end. No one nation can stand by and criticize, but all must co-operate if international peace is to be had, said Dean Sprague.

SOUTHERN AND ROLLINS WILL USE GRIDIRON FOR FIRST TIME ON MONDAY

FIELD NOW COMPLETED

Work of Rolling Grid Has Kept Force Busy All Week

The long looked forward to athletic field has at last become a reality and is fast nearing completion on the west side of the Orlando-Winter Park highway. Financed by the Business Men's Club of Winter Park, the field has been planted to Bermuda grass and six acres of grounds are enclosed within the fence and cement block wall which has just been erected.

Seats for 1000 people are under construction and will be completed for the Southern game Monday. Space reserved for automobiles will take care of another thousand. From time to time additions will be made until a stadium seating at least 6,000 people will be the result. Practically all the expenses are being paid by the Business Men's Club, though some other friends of the college have donated to the fund.

Located on the main Jacksonville-Tampa highway and within a block of the newly completed Apopka-Leesburg road the field will draw large crowds at all times, the football committee believes.

Football fans will see a real struggle when Southern meets the Tars Monday on the new grid. Charges for admission to the game will be reasonable and a large crowd is expected to turn out.

Fresh men spent part of the week in looking for small pieces of glass which appeared in a small spot in the middle of the field. Before the grounds were cleared it is thought that old bottles were dumped here on several occasions. However, the rats have seen to it that no glass remains.

During the spring and summer the park will be used as a baseball field by the college and town. A diamond will be completed immediately after the last football game of the season.

ANNUAL DRIVE OF RED CROSS STARTS

SEVENTH ROLL CALL

Begins Armistice Day and Continues to Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 29.

The seventh annual roll call of the American Red Cross will be held from Armistice day, November 11, to Thanksgiving day, November 29. This is the only request the Red Cross makes for funds during the year. The Red Cross publicity bureau has asked that The Sandspur give space to the following article:

There is probably no word harder worked in the colleges and universities today than "vision." And it is because of this quest of vision that students are thinking with a clarity, a degree of penetration, an inclusiveness, and an earnestness of purpose which did not characterize preceding generations. Underneath a certain surface lightness engendered by the healthful give-and-take of present day campus life, here is developing a fibre which will stand the test of the epoch upon which the world is entering.

REAL ESTATE DEALER ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Paints Picture of Golden Opportunities Offered by Florida to Young Men

"Opportunities for young men have not been so great since the days of '49," said Hiram Powers, Winter Park realtor, speaking at the weekly assembly on Florida's future and what the state offers to college men and women. Following the address students asked Mr. Powers questions about Florida, particularly with regard to the real estate business, which were answered by the speaker for the benefit of his audience.

Enthusiastically boosting central Florida, Mr. Powers predicted a growth for Orlando during the next ten years which will surprise even the boosters themselves. Winter Park too is slated for a great development, in fact the two cities will really be one at the end of the ten year period. Real estate is the logical business for many college men and women for these reasons, according to him. Real estate investments will make many fortunes for the wise investor.

"Real estate demands a good mixer," said the Winter Park realtor advising his audience as to the requirements of the profession. "College (Continued on Page 6)

Southerners Have Expectations of Avenging Last Year's Overwhelming Defeat

Armistice day the Rollins Tars will take the field against their age-old rivals the Methodists from Southern College. The Southerners are out for revenge for last year's defeat while the Tars are out for a win in every game. Putting these two together fans have what gives promise of being the stiffest, hardest scrap ever seen on a Winter Park grid field. The Southerners have a heavy smashing machine that is hard to stop. They drive through the line with the power of a battering ram for gain upon gain. It is up to the much lighter Tars to stop these advances in their very tracks. In many respects the Methodists have had the most successful season in the history of the school. They won from Stetson by a 14-13 count and won from Piedmont by a 33-0 count. Later Stetson beat them 27-7.

The Tars have been working hard for the past two weeks to get themselves into the very tip top notch of perfection when they hit the sturdy down state crew. They have had scrimmage every night that has been as hard and as wearing on them as any game. Never a word has been said. Each and every man is out to get himself in shape to beat Southern and to beat her bad. The backfield will have a task on their hands such as they have never had before. They will have to back up the line and help hold the weight of the Blue and White in check. Not only this, a great deal of the scoring will be done around the ends. This means work and more work for the backs. They must be just as good on the defensive as on the offensive to stop these rushes. The Tars will go into the game with their strength as high as it can get. The lineup is fully intact in every respect. Two of the (Continued on Page 7)

VESPERS

The number of students attending the first vesper services was not large, according to reports which have reached this office. The writer was unable to be present for very good reasons, but will be on hand the first of December when the next services are held. Those who heard Dean Sprague talk Sunday say that his address alone was worth going miles to hear. Why not have at least half of the college present next time? Only once a month. Let's be there.

TENNIS

While we have heard few complaints, it seems that the college tennis courts are being used entirely too much by townspeople and high school students. Would-be tennis players who live on the campus have all too often been obliged to give up the courts to these outsiders during the past two weeks. If Rollins had more courts it would be a different matter, but at present only a few students are able to play because of these unnecessary interruptions. Should a general interest in tennis spread over the campus, what would result? The matter will bear investigation.

THE HUNT FOR PLEASURE

Much has been said about the mad rush for pleasure in America. All sorts of bad ends have been prophesied for it from the destruction of the race to the annihilation of civilization. However, it must be recognized that it is only natural for people to desire pleasure and that the hunt for it is only indicative of a healthy mind.

The pleasure itself is the important thing as the public itself believes. Self-constituted critics are candidly disgusted with the public for entertaining this belief, for they feel that caste to which the means of producing the pleasure belongs is the important thing. This is their reason for diatribes against jazz, the silly sentimental bosh sold as songs, and the continual superficiality of the movies.

It would be a sad commentary, indeed, if such stuff were indicative of the intelligence of the nation, but, as a matter of course, it is not such. The enjoyment of jazz everywhere is not a matter of the indictment, nor does it indicate that true music is being displaced in the likes of the people. The utilization of jazz for mere pleasure will never result in the displacement of real music despite all the pessimism that may be promulgated in that regard. Music is lasting and enduring, while jazz and all that connotes jazz is most fleeting of ephemeralities.

The popular song of today may be on every tongue today but a month from now it is forgotten. It means nothing more than a few moments of fleeting pleasure, it makes no impression, it has no value and is discarded as soon as its novelty has worn away. The movie, so much decried, and so much prophesied as the destroyer of our sense of reality and worth, lasts its little hour or two to the individual and then passes into discard. It has afforded its brief moment of relaxation from cares, from business, from labor, and that was all that was desired and all that was obtained.

The movie, the jazz, and the popular song of today have no true value and so cannot live, much less replace music, drama, and poetic utterance. These latter are still appreciated and always will be. Hence there is no ground for doleful predictions and bitter railings against the present generation.—Exchange.

TIME TO THINK.

The following excellent editorial appeared in the Utah Chronicle and is reprinted here for the benefit of suffering Rollins students:

It is becoming a practice at the University for each instructor to assume that his is the basic course offered and as such, should be given precedence over all others in the amount of time which may be demanded of the student in preparation. The result is that if a student finds himself subjected to a combination of two or three such instructors he must needs drive himself at break neck speed through a mass of textual content as would have confused Plato. He must blind himself from society and, in close confinement, must stack great ill-assorted heaps of information in his mind which must be immediately used and replaced with other matter.

Of course a certain amount of this knowledge is retained for permanent use in the mind; but is it reasonable to believe that the value of the knowledge retained is greater when gained from a plunge into a heavy mass of material than that gained from a more leisurely and studious application?

There is a well supported belief among educators that not above one-tenth of the knowledge gained in school is remembered for use afterward. If this is the case it is certainly desirable that the matter retained in the memory for use be something of the fundamental elements of the subject in preference to a great dissociated maze of hopelessly useless matter. It is very evident that the principal recollection which some students have of certain courses is of the frenzied battle to complete assigned work. The information impacted into their brains in connection with the subject has entirely dissipated, leaving only a few trifling details as a member of the assault.

The amount of textual work prescribed by these instructors is far in excess of that which a student can attend to carefully without infringing upon the time properly allowable to other subjects. He is thus compelled to neglect other subjects in the good preparation of one or two in particular or must be satisfied with a mediocre preparation of all—and the latter is not a desirable method.

It must be possible to make some adjustment whereby the student can make satisfactory preparation. If mileage is required, a narrow road can be chosen; if area, a wide road but short.

"I did not think—I investigated"

One day in 1895, Roentgen noticed that a cardboard coated with fluorescent material glowed while a nearby Pluecker tube was in action. "What did you think?" an English scientist asked him. "I did not think; I investigated," was the reply.

Roentgen covered the tube with black paper. Still the cardboard glowed. He took photographs through a pine door and discovered on them a white band corresponding to the lead beading on the door. His investigation led to the discovery of X-rays.

Roentgen's rays have proved an inestimable boon to humanity. In the hands of doctor and surgeon they are saving life and reducing suffering. In the hands of the scientist they are yielding new knowledge—even of the arrangement and structure of atoms. The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have contributed greatly to these ends by developing more powerful and efficacious X-ray tubes.

THINGS I'D CONSIDER IF I WERE A FRESHMAN

By Dr. J. A. Ellis, in the Technician.

It has been sixteen years since I entered college. As I look back over those happy days and the years that have passed since my graduation, and then ask myself what I would have as my goal if I were entering college this fall, some very definite things occur to me, things that I would strive to do.

In the first place I would seek to have strong friends among the members of the faculty. These men understand the problems of college men as few men understand them, and are in a position to be wise counsellors of those who study under them. They have not only been over the way along which the Freshman is now beginning to walk, but have also had exceptional opportunity to study other men who have passed through their classrooms, and have followed them in their after lives of successes and failures. There are also men and women in every college community, not officially connected with the college, who have the highest good of the student body at heart—these, too, I would seek to know, their friendship I would cultivate.

In the second place I would seek to win the confidence and friendship of every member of the student body, as far as this could be done. Only a small group would be intimate friends but I would strive to so live among my fellow students that I would have their highest respect and esteem. The best way to have friends is to be a friend. The ancient sage uttered a great truth when he said: "He who would have friends must show himself friendly." He who has so conducted himself in college as to win the confidence of the faculty and his fellow students has not spent the days in vain.

Again, if I were entering college I would strive diligently to master every study in the course that I had selected. The fellow who tosses his book aside as soon as he thinks he knows enough of the subject to "get by with" is cheating himself. He is cultivating the habit of doing things in a superficial way; he is contenting himself with less than his best. When he faces the tasks of life after he leaves college he does so as a crippled man for he has been content with the mediocre while in college, and no man rises very high in any walk of life who is content merely to "get by." He may get by, but he will not get very far.

Another thing that I would do if I were a Freshman—I would do a great deal of reading aside from my regular course of study. I would make the best books and magazines in the library my friends, and would be often found in their company. I would keep up with present world movements. We should remember that we are makers of history today as well as students of history of other days.

I would join one of the literary societies and take part in all of its activities. Every man, certainly every college man, should know how to express himself in writing and by means of the spoken word. Men learn to write by writing. Men learn to speak by speaking. It matters not what a man's profession or work may be, there will come a time when he should know how to give utterance to his ideas in an intelligent and very straightforward way. The literary societies in college are places of all places for him to train himself for such occasions.

Another thing that I would do, I would take part in athletics. I would have two things in view in my athletic ambitions, the one to win honors for my college, if such were possible, the other to develop a strong body, which is ever necessary for the highest attainment in the world of affairs. No man has a right to be content with a weak body if he, through the proper training, through wholesome exercise, can develop a strong one.

Fundamental in the life of every man is the development of the spiritual. I am placing this last, not because it is of least importance, but because I would have it linger longest with you, for it is of first importance, of supreme moment. A man might live up to all the above suggestions and many others that will occur to him, and yet fail in this one; if so he has failed at the vital point, and of all men most to be pitied. Believing this as I do, if I were a Freshman I would find my place in the church of my choice; I would attend the services; take part in the work of the Sunday School and young people in the church, and would avail myself of every advantage offered by the college Y. M. C. A.

RADIO NEWS

Saturday evening at a late hour while a majority of Rollins students were attending the house-party at Daytona Beach, James Bartlett and Jack Evans enjoyed a splendid musical program by the Elk's entertainment club of Atlanta. This musical entertainment was afforded by the new radio outfit which has just recently been installed at the T. L. D. house. The program included five latest jazz songs, one saxophone solo, one piano solo, one violin solo, numerous other selected lullabies and also fifteen minutes of snappy jokes.

This form of entertainment is far superior to any other which has been introduced upon the campus, according to Bartlett and Evans.

PEP MEET YESTERDAY SAW MUCH ENTHUSIASM

Practicing for the Southern game Monday, Rollins turned out for a short rousing pep meeting yesterday. Things bode ill for the Lakeland invaders, if the spirit displayed is any indication of what the Tars will hand the Southerners on the new grid.

FLORIDA-STETSON GAME SLATED FOR TOMORROW

Stetson is feeling more confident tomorrow in DeLand for what is expected to be a Waterloo for the Hatters. False reports as to the date of this game were received at the Sandspur office last week and an article stated that the game was to be played November 3. This was an error.

Stetson is feeling fore confident since the 27-7 victory over Southern last week. A real fight will be put up against the 'Gators. The outcome of the game cannot be foretold. Rollins will be on hand to witness the game, according to talk among fans on the campus.

HUNTING SEASON NOW LOOKED FORWARD TO BY CERTAIN NIMRODS

With the opening day of the hunting season not far off, a number of Rollins students have been oiling up their shotguns in preparation for some real sport. Residents of Florida have no trouble in getting hunting licenses for Orange county, but students from out of the state are required to pay a license fee which almost prohibits shooting. Quail are said to be more numerous this fall than they have been in five years.

Grid-Graphs

The Tars are all set to christen the new athletic field with a win over Southern.

Hard scrimmage has been in order all this week and a few minor injuries were reported.

The line is charging more and should be able to rush the Methodists off their feet.

The backfield is showing more drive and putting more power into the line plays.

Tommy Quinn has been putting the boys thru some calisthenics with the result that some of them found muscles that they didn't know they had.

Coach has been specializing on the line this week since it is reported that Southern has a strong line of forwards.

And the results should show on Monday. A shift has been made in the line which should work better.

The same lineup will probably start that started against Piedmont. Ray will probably start at quarter with Cotton in reserve.

Dutch at full, Toad and Tommy at halves, Wulf and Red at ends, Ken and Six at tackles, Pop and Bozo at guards and Wilson at center.

Cecil Draa will, of course, be in the game as water-boy, with Shorty as sub.

Everyone should be full of pep by Monday and have some real organized cheering at our first home game.

Save up all your excess energy and wind and we'll show Southern how to yell as well as how to play football.

Walter Johnston was elected basketball manager yesterday.

GOLF NEWS

It is with the greatest of sorrow that the golf instructors wish to announce the closing of the golf course which will necessitate the closing of the books to new comers who have the golf instinct.

It will soon be officially announced that Coach Wight has quit golf for reasons not known. Rumors have it that he has taken up a more serious job since his trip to Daytona.

Ken Warner has been going out golf hunting quite often lately and it has been advised that all strollers who happen to go by the golf course between the hours of sunrise and sunset please look both ways before venturing across the course as he has a powerful swing.

MA BARRETT ABOUT TO GO ON EUROPEAN TRIP

Miss Anna Barrett, former Dean of Women at Rollins, and well known to old students, writes as follows in regard to her trip to Europe:

156 Charles St., Annapolis, Md.,
Oct. 22, 1923.

Dearest Mayme:

I sure enjoyed your long newsy letter and have only a minute to dash off a reply. Came here Saturday. It was some rush getting away. All my Grand Rapids friends seemed to want to make this the trip of my life. They gave dinners, luncheons, parties, etc., and loads of presents. Even Mr. Ramsey, the steamship agent, got us the finest room on the boat at the lowest price. The hospital trustees gave me a check for two thousand and said I needed more they would never forgive me if I didn't let them know. Mr. Blodgett came himself to see me off with a lot of others. Isn't it wonderful, Mayme. We sail Saturday morning on Royal Maie Orbita, Pier 42, New York (Oct 27), and Paris address will be care of American Express, 11 Rue Scribe, Paris, France. Bob Murray and Bill Hyland will be there when we arrive. We are rushed to death but will write you again from Paris. Am so glad you are happy and everything is O. K. at Rollins. Much love to you and Virginia.

California's new stadium is rapidly nearing completion and will be ready for the "big game" with Stanford university, according to the last reports of the construction company. It is similar, in shape to the Yale Bowl," being a huge, oval concrete structure situated in the mouth of Strawberry canyon.

The stadium, which will seat 72,000 spectators, represents a cost of $1,263,000. The money to meet this cost, was raised by subscription among the students and alumni of the university.

One-sixth of the entire Princeton Freshman Class recently entered an editorial competition for the "Daily Princetonian," reports the New York Herald. "One hundred and ten candidates, the largest number in fifty years' history of the campus daily," continues the report. "Several prominent persons heeled the 'Princetonian' in their under-graduate days, including ex-President Wilson and Dean Fine, head of the Department of Science at Princeton."

KNOX COLLEGE STUDENTS PRINT COMPLETE DIRECTORY

"The Knox Student," Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., recently printed a complete directory of the student body. In explanation, says the Student, "the college needs such a list and heretofore the task of publishing a directory has fallen to the Y. M. C. A. The work being bothersome and generally a financial failure, that organization did not feel equal to the task this year."

The list appeared in two parts. Non-subscribers to the "Student" were offered the complete directory for ten cents.

A freshman wrote this on his pad before an exam:

Lord of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget.
and this was added after the exam:
Lord of Hosts was with us not,
For we forgot, yes, we forgot.
—Crimson and White.

One of the athletic activities Bessie Tift is proud of is the golf club. It has been reorganized this year under the direction of Dr. George W. Macon, a golf player of South-wide reputation.

Each year, at the University of Utah, logs are placed around the "U," which is located on top of a hill near Salt Lake City, and the two lower classes fight for possession of them. This year the freshmen came off victorious. The freshmen defend the top of the hill, while the sophomores creep up from the surrounding country. At the recent contest, the freshmen outnumbered the sophs three to one, and the twenty extra freshmen were utilized to capture sophomores. The freshmen also had scouts mounted on horses who scoured the hills without danger of being caught.

national, recognizes the fact that in the American colleges and universities of today is to be found its leadership for tomorrow, in a work which perhaps more than any other is interpreting to the world at large the full scope and meaning of the ideal of the Brotherhood of Man. Consequently it voices at this time an appeal to the students of America, not only for support in the oncoming American National Red Cross Roll Call, November 11-29, but for serious constructive study of the work and methods of the Organization, looking toward the day when they will assume their rightful positions of community, State and national leadership.

The demands of the time are increasingly complex, and the future is heavily charged with forces which as yet defy analysis. It is not by chance that you have come to your high place in life. We believe that it is for a purpose, and that without the best each one can do in service to his fellowmen, all life must be poorer in the end.

Will you not therefore, stand with the unconquerable will of a Sidney Lanier to the ideal of service? Through years of poverty which he could have changed by sacrifice of his ideals, and through a greater number of years of illness from tuberculosis which he had not the power to change, the beloved poet of the Southland struggled on, until with a temperature of 104, and while too weak to feed himself, he penciled his last and greatest poem, "Sunrise," afraid that he would die ere the completion of his task.

"Knowledge we ask not—knowledge Thou hast lent;
But Lord, the will—there lies our bitter need;
Give us to build above a deep intent,
The deed, the deed!"

offers great opportunities for developing his talent," he continued. "The student who goes to college to become a bookworm is wasting his time, the social side of life must be cultivated as well," he said.

Young women have great opportunities in real estate at the present time, according to the views of Mr. Powers. While they must work under certain handicaps in this business, they also have great advantages which make for success.

Mr. Powers was formerly a professor of languages at Rollins, but abandoned the teaching profession some years ago to enter what seemed more promising fields. While Mr. Powers regrets somewhat having left college, he says that real estate is after all the best field for him.

done. While women's basket ball has not yet been financed, it seems likely that the Y. W. C. A. will take charge of this activity and finance it in the same way that the Y. M. is financing men's basket ball this year.

Aquatics will also be controlled by the Christian organizations.

Benefits from the membership cards in the Y. M. C. A. will be many, in the opinion of college faculty members. Next year letters from the association to the parents of all men applicants for admission to Rollins will be included with other literature advertising the advantages of the college. The good influence of the organization of the campus will be an additional attraction, they state.

Interest in minor athletics are expected to take a sudden jump very soon as a result of the new arrangements.

added variety to the program. The string quartette, composed of Martha Marsh, Dorothy Cole, Gretchen Harrell and Robert Chandler, played several numbers.

The vesper service will be a monthly event, coming on the first Sunday of each month. The service last Sunday was held in the chapel, but it is planned to hold them out of doors at a later date. The Rollins student body was not very well represented at the services Sunday.

CANOE BUSINESS PICKS UP, SAYS TED CARROLL

There has been more of a demand for canoes during the week than usual, if reports from the boat house keeper can be trusted. Sunday saw every canoe rented and on the lake, though Rollins students did not have the canoes out in every instance.

Oranges are ripe in the groves, which is a big attraction to canoeists. Grove owners are said to be lying in wait for intruders in search of fruit. However, as a rule little damage is done by the canoeists and practically none by Tars and Tarettes.

The Hall of Fame may interest some, but we are much more interested in the haul of fame.

The Girls' Glee Club has been very busy this week getting in extra rehearsals for the concert next Thursday night at the Methodist Church in Orlando. Unfortunately, because of a football trip to Tampa, the Men's Club will not be able to appear at this concert. However, this will make no difference in the date, as no other date is possible. It only means that the rest of the performers will have to do double duty.

Invitations have been issued this week for the Niles Concert on the 22nd. Everyone is looking forward to this concert, as Miss Niles comes to Rollins with a very interesting career behind her as artist and teacher.

Last Monday night, prior to their regular rehearsal, the Men's Glee Club held a business meeting, at which Walter Johnston was elected business manager. Letters have been received from different points, asking for dates with the club, and just now, the prospects for some trips this season seem very favorable.

Preparing a program to fill a part of town engagement calls for real work, so come on, boys, let's get busy, and make every rehearsal count.

Y. M. C. A. HOLDS PRELIMINARY MEET

Plans for the Year Announced
by Officers; Meetings
Semi-Monthly

Wednesday night saw the first meeting of the Y. W. C. A. in Cloverleaf. Eva Missildine, president, presided and informed the members of the work outlined for the year.

Meetings will be held regularly every two weeks this year instead of weekly as last, according to the plan of the officers. Lectures from prominent business men will be featured at every other meet. A prominent banker from Orlando will talk on banking in the near future, the date to be announced later.

Y. W. meetings will be given over to entertainment on other occasions and some real evenings are promised.

backfield men have been out with a few minor injuries but are again in uniform and ready to go. The line-men, always a game bunch of scrapers, are in better shape in every respect than they have been all season. This is largely due to the scrimmage work Coach Wight has been giving them. It is without a doubt the best line the Blue and Gold has ever turned out. They have perfected their defensive play until it is almost futile to try and gain through it. In all Wight has his eleven ready to go and to win from Southern no matter what their weight or speed may be.

GIRLS GROWING TALLER STATES STANFORD PROF.

Lighter Clothing and More Physical Activity Have Their Effect on College Students.

Less and lighter clothing, more physical activity and bigger appetites have made the college girls of today larger and stronger than those of three decades ago, Dr. Celia Duel Mosher, medical adviser of women in Stanford university, declares in a report to be published in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

She has analyzed the results of thousands of measurements made on women in three prominent colleges, Stanford, Vassar and Smith, and as a result believes that the increase in height and weight are due largely to the exercise indulged in and the more hygienic clothing worn by the modern woman. A study of the physical activities of women at Vassar shows that during the years 1896 to 1900 over a quarter of the entering girls had engaged in no form of sport before entering college, whereas from 1916 to 1926 only six-tenths of 1 per cent were so classified.

The increased height and weight are explained by the argument that increased physical activity and lighter weight clothing cause increased appetite and permit better functioning of the body organs. "It is time," says Dr. Mosher, "that we cease thinking in terms of the unfitness and weakness of women. This splendid modern woman, grown taller and more vigorous because free from restricting fashions of dress, exercises more and consequently eats more, and has become better fitted to become the mother of fine sons and daughters, the promise of a stronger race."

During thirty years, 4,170 women who have passed through Stanford university show an increase of 1.2 inches in average height, Dr. Mosher found. Out of 7,064 women passing through Vassar in thirty-seven years, there is a gradual increase to 1.5 inches in height, and the same measurements are confirmed by the examination of 10,149 women during a period of twenty-two years at Smith.

Eva Missildine's "associates" that accompanied her to Lake Wales wish to state that they are not "associates" at all, but merely her "traveling companions."

Ray Greene has been in town again this week, having returned from Jacksonville.

Prof. Dresh (in Bible)—"Can anyone tell me who Elijah was?"
 Voice from back row—"He was a chauffeur."

Prof.—"I don't understand. There's nothing in the Bible about that."

Ted McCown—"That's nothing. Do you know who I am?"

Curt—"Now who are you?"

Ted—"I'm the reason why they come back."

SHORT ARTICLE ABOUT COLLEGE IN MAGAZINE

A clipping from the November Presbyterian Magazine follows:

A CHRISTIAN INSTITUTION WITH A THIRTY-EIGHT YEAR RECORD OF CHARACTER BUILDING

The above is the slogan of Rollins College, located at Winter Park, on beautiful Lake Virginia, Florida. Imagine, you who do not rejoice at the cold northern winter, attending an up-to-date college amidst orange groves, lakes, in a southern resort where orange blossoms fill the air with fragrance in mid-winter. Would you like a booklet?

LOSS OF FORMALS TO IOWA STUDENTS CAUSED BY LIQUOR

Iowa university will have no university formals this year R. E. Renow, dean of men said. Military ball, freshman party, sophomore cotillion, junior prom, senior hop, and men's and women's Pan-Hellenic are all included in this statement.

This decision of the faculty is thought to be a step in their campaign against the excessive drinking of liquor among the male students of the university.

"Parties last year were entirely unsatisfactory," he declared, "and unless sufficient assurance is given the committee on social organization that the respective affairs will be properly conducted, no formals sponsored by university organizations will be held."

ELECTRICAL EYE

An electrical eye that appears to see, to select and to discard with perfect judgment, is the latest addition to the list of electrical developments.

The sensitiveness to light of the strange metal silenium is the motivating force behind the electrical eye, which is already being used to sort and select fruit and vegetables in canneries.

The fruit is moved on a carrier and light thrown upon it is reflected through a tube below on the silenium cell. The least change of color, as in a bruised or blackened cherry causes the silenium cell to alter its electrical resistance. This, in turn, alters the current from a small battery, which trips an electro-magnetic device and causes the discolored fruit to drop through a trap in the carrier. The electrical eye acts instantaneously, and returns to normal with the resumption of the normal reflection of light from the sound fruit passing over it.

"How time changes," said Fay Hall as she adjusted the hands on her wrist watch.

Fannie—"Eddie speaks plain English."

Coach—"I like it."

Fannie—"I don't, I like Dutch."
