ROLLINS COLLEGE DEBATERS LOSE TO TEAM OF POLISHED SPEAKERS FROM BAPTIST UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA

Excellent Speeches and Telling Arguments Presented by Both Sides

By Ray More

The question was, Resolved: That the United States should join the League of Nations. The affirmative was upheld by Rollins College and the argument was presented by Messrs. Curtiss Atkisson and Walter Johnston. The negative was upheld by the University men, who were Mr. Ballard and Mr. Ross.

Mr. Atkisson, the first speaker for the affirmative, introduced the question and gave his points upon which the argument of the affirmative rested. The first point was: The operation of the league thus far and the obligations of its covenant justify the existence of the league and demonstrate the fallacy of our fear of foreign entanglements.

The second point for the affirmative was: the whole trend of modern civilization has made a world league inevitable. The League of Nations, however imperfect it may be, is the only one that has been organized and is in perfection. The United States ought to enter that league, making from within whatever changes are needed.

The third point for the affirmative was: the financial prosperity of America in the long run depends on the prosperity of Europe, so that from the point of view of her own financial interests, the United States ought to enter the league. The last point of the affirmative is: the United States ought to enter the League of Nations because in a world struggling to retain its life, a strong independent nation has no moral right to withhold any assistance which within moral limits it can give.

The argument on the first point was, that the operations of the league thus far has proven itself to be of good faith and trying to do justice to all parties, in order to promote justice and peace between all nations.

The league maintains a health commission that has to its credit the prevention of typhus in the European Empires since the world war.

A GREATER ROLLINS IS ASSURED AS RESULT OF COMPLETE UNION OF THE CHURCH COMMITTEE MARCH 26

STUDENT BODY EXTENDS SYMPATHY

A cloud of sorrow shadowed the campus last Friday when it became known that Mrs. Irving Bacheller, wife of the famous writer, had passed away. In view of the great services rendered the students by Mr. Bacheller as one of the trustees and as President of the Chapel Association, his great sorrow was deeply felt.

Mrs. Bacheller has been seriously ill for the past two or three months as the result of influenza. Everything had been done to make possible her recovery.

The funeral services were held in All Saints Episcopal Church on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, with the Rev. J. B. Thomas, D.D., officiating. Students of the college served as pall-bearers, and assisted in the choir. Prior to the church service, prayer was held at the Bacheller home for the family. Mr. Bacheller accompanied the body to Canton, N. Y., where it will be interred.

Mrs. Bacheller was always interested in the welfare and activities of the students. She was an honorary member of the Kappa Epsilon sorority, took a leading part in the activities of the Winter Park community, and last year served as vice-president of the Woman's Club. She was greatly interested in music and had published a number of compositions. For several years she took a special course in Pipe Organ at the Rollins College Conservatory.

The following letter of sympathy was sent to Mr. Bacheller by the Student Association:

Mr. Irving Bacheller,
Winter Park, Fla.

Dear Mr. Bacheller:

The Student Association of Rollins College has heard with deep sorrow of the great affliction that has come upon you. They have all learned to cherish for you a real and personal affection, as for one who has always had a personal interest in them, and they wish through me to extend to you their individual and united sympathies.

President of the Student Association.

All Believe a New Epoch Reached and Look Forward to a Bigger and Better Rollins In the Future

"Rollins Goes Rolling Along" in her plans for co-operation with the two Presbyterian churches and the Congregationalists. A great meeting was held on the campus last Wednesday, March 26, which will in all probability be a turning point in the history of the old institution on Lake Virginia. The development of the college will in many important respects be dated from this meeting.

The secretaries of the national boards of education of the three churches concerned met in the college offices with the Florida committees of said churches and the Rollins Board of Trustees on that day, to work out the solution of the various problems concerned with the Rollins Union. Everybody who came went into the conference with a strong spirit of co-operation and determination to stick together until the various obstacles had been overcome and fundamentals had been laid for realizing the high ideals and strong expectations of those who had entered into this new and interesting union.

Under the original plan of the Rollins Union, made up last spring, each church body was to have the election of eight of the twenty-four trustees. But under the new proposition the college will retain its self determination and self perpetuating principle, and will select from the nominees of each of the three churches six representatives. Six more trustees will be elected from the other classes of citizens and friends who are not especially connected with the churches concerned. This change was made after long deliberation and thorough consideration of the various interests involved.

The church bodies have agreed to co-operate with the college in raising money for the immediate needs of the institution and for making improvements on the campus and in the various lines of work where they are most desirable.

The new selections which will place

SOCIETIES ASSURE DR. IRVING OF THEIR HEARTY SUPPORT

A joint committee composed of representatives from the Congregational Christian Endeavor, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. met Wednesday to petition Dr. Irving.

The following letter was drafted and signed by the committee and sent to Dr. Irving:

Dear Dr. Irving:
The Christian Endeavor Society of the Winter Park Congregational church and the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. of Rollins College wish to assure you of their judgment and conviction that with you as leader at the college many young people during the next years would give themselves and all the time to missionary and social service work in this and other lands. The outlook is the best it has been for six years. Every young man in the college is a member of the Y. M. C. A. The girls are very active in the Y. W.

THE PLACE FOR EDUCATION

The question has often been asked by well meaning parents: Is the South the place to send my boy or girl for the continuance of his or her education?

If one will just think for a moment and make a few comparisons, you will find that, due to the social charm, friendly hospitality, openmindedness to approved ideas, up-building of fine schools, the South really is and always will be the logical place to send your boys and girls for education.

It is the native growth of the Southern schools in the past five years that commands our confidence and one's loyal support. Schools may be alike in structure and faculty elsewhere, but because of location and climatic conditions the Southern schools have no apologies to offer.

The opportunity for education is ever present in the South. Rollins College has all these and more. Her doors are ever open to the individual seeking learning. She will administer the educational wants and will so train you both physically and mentally for the college of hard knocks and experience that you will be a blessing to society, an honor to your country, a credit to your Alma Mater.

The Y. M. C. A. is willing also to help you and will give you all the information and assistance that you may require. Always remember, the "Y" believes, "A man's education may be neglected, but it can always be improved." Your church will assist you and will give you the proper guidance in selecting the correct school, best fitted for your particular wants.

With this assurance who then in 1926 dare say, "I did not have the chance for an education that you now have?" W. F. A.

The "Y" staff wishes to express their great appreciation to the girls who so diligently aided them in the editing of this paper.

The "Y" staff takes this opportunity to hand the original little leather medal on a wooden string to the Cloverleaf crew for the shine they gave to the contents of the Trophy case. Although it is suspected in some quarters that this sudden excess of energy was to procure a substitute for the mirrors lacking in Carnegie Hall. The fair damozels assuredly deserve our unbegged appreciation. WHO claims Cloverleaf is an unnecessary appendage?

The "Y" staff is wondering why the Southern debaters fail to accept or reject our challenge for a debate. How about it, Southern?

A LETTER IDEA

Four hundred and fifty French students in the Cleveland schools are corresponding with the same number of English students in the French schools. In this way mutual correction is effected and opinions are exchanged. There is also exchange of newspapers and magazines.

An effort was made, when this exchange was being planned, to match the English and French pupils. That is, for example, a Cleveland pupil interested in athletics was given the name of a French pupil interested in the same subject.

VICTORIES OF EVERY DAY

There are great victories and struggles and noble acts of heroism done every day—in nooks and corners, and in little households, and in men's and women's hearts—any one of which might reconcile the sternest man to such a world, and fill him with belief and hope in it.—Dickens.

All Penn State students who have automobiles at school are required to dispose of them before April 20. It is estimated that hardly more than 100 of the 3,300 students are owners of cars or have cars at school that belong to their parents.

BUM CLUB MEETS

The regular weekly meeting of the Bum Club was held last Sunday morning. All the members were present and plans were discussed for the future. Those present were Dickie Dickson, Eleanor Pressey, Billie Mulligan, Lucille Kingsley, Homer Parker, Johnnie Bostwick, Ted McCown and Jack Evans.

EDMUND HALLEY

1656-1742

Son of a London soap-boiler who became Astronomer-Royal. At the age of 20 headed an expedition to chart the stars of the Southern hemisphere. Financed and handled the printing of Newton's immortal Principia.

The comet came back

The great comet that was seen by William of Normandy returned to our skies in 1910 on its eleventh visit since the Conquest. Astronomers knew when it would appear, and the exact spot in the sky where it would first be visible.

Edmund Halley's mathematical calculation of the great orbit of this 76-year visitor—his scientific proof that comets are part of our solar system—was a brilliant application of the then unpublished Principia of his friend Sir Isaac Newton.

The laws of motion that Newton and Halley proved to govern the movements of a comet are used by scientists in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company to determine the orbit of electrons in vacuum tubes.

As spectacular as a comet has been the world's electrical development. By continuous scientific research the General Electric Company has accelerated this development and has become a leader in the industry.

B. O. M. PICNIC

At five thirty last Sunday morning the B. O. M's and a few friends took seven canoes and paddled to Mud Lake. Some tried to make a sail boat out of their canoes by using a blanket as a sail but the wind was blowing in the wrong direction, sad to state. Herb Mosher made two sad attempts to land and finally succeeded. Everyone tried his hand at cooking and throwing egg shells and Billie capped the climax by stepping in the bacon.

Those eating were: Annabeth Wilson, Jimmie Weaver, Dot Grey, Herb Mosher, Fannie Mae Barnes, Ray Colado and of course the B. O. M's Dickie, Homer, Lucille, Jack, Billie, Ted, and Eleanor and Johnnie.

College Comment

Eva Misseldine, Frances Montgomery and Fern Dakin treated themselves to a good time by taking in Keiths Vaudeville Saturday afternoon.

Kay Beall spent Sunday afternoon in Daytona with her mother.

Mrs. Thomas Starling, formerly Martha Sanderson, a last year's student, paid the college a short visit Monday afternoon.

Webber Haines tried out for Keiths Saturday night.

Jeanette Dickson spent the weekend at her home in Mt. Dora and from reports came back with a double coat of tan. We do not know where she got it—That's not right. We know where she got it but do not know how she got it.

Louise Harris and Jerry Sledge made the usual trip to Winter Haven.

Lucille Kingsley returned to Rollins Friday after spending several days in Orlando with relatives.

Jimmie Shoesmith, Cotton Thomas and Homer Parker were in Mt. Dora Tuesday night attending a dance.

all kinds, local, state, sectional, national, and even international.

The delegates to these assemblies always come away from them helped and inspired to better life and work, both on account of the interesting discussions and helpful surroundings. The meetings are held at an altitude of 2,700 feet, and the bracing mountain air, in which the representatives indulge in all kinds of athletics, swimming, tennis, basketball, and hikes to nearby beauty spots.

In the summer, a college is held at Blue Ridge, at which twenty-eight courses are offered to students.

The coming conference is under the auspices of the Student Department of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. with the co-operation of the State Committees of ten states. The local Y. M. C. A. is planning to send five delegates to the convention, and any one desiring to go should see either Weaver or Donaldson at once, in order to reserve space in the car which will make the trip. Those who go will certainly be helped and uplifted mentally, morally and physically, and will come back better fitted to carry on the work which the Y. M. C. A. is doing on the Rollins campus.

author of "Joint Owners in Spain," is very well-known in the literary world. The title itself, although it follows the context of the play, gives no idea of the real situations. The plot concerns two of the most disagreeable residents of an Old Ladies' Home, who are made room-mates because neither has ever found anyone she could live with in peace. The outcome is screamingly funny. Billie Mulligan and Eleanor Pressy have the parts of these two old ladies—need more be said?

The "Flower Shop" is of a different type, but it is also a light comedy. The settings are quite spectacular the interior of a flower shop being reproduced on the stage.

Music by the Rollins Trio is sure to keep away boredom between the plays, and altogether the evening promises to be one of the most entertaining of the year.

Y. M. C. A. Activities

Very soon there will be an election of a new cabinet for the Y. M. C. A. This thought brings to mind the activity of the Y. M. C. A. during the past few months. A brief history of what was done this year may be of interest to those who will have to make the selections for next year's leaders.

The first thing that was done was to organize. The word "organize" rather than "reorganize" is used advisedly. At the opening of college last September there was no Y. M. C. A. Old students who had been at Rollins in the past could remember that there had been "a sort of one" some time ago, and even thought that "perhaps they have had officers every year."

After the election of a cabinet a short meeting was held, and a committee appointed to rewrite the constitution. The old constitution was obsolete in its purpose and very ambiguous in several of its provisions.

The cabinet proceeded very slowly with its arrangements for the first meeting. Great care was taken to have such arrangements made that the meeting would be of interest to those who came. The cabinet had no means of knowing how much interest there would be in the project, and it was therefore with much trepidation that the first meeting was announced. Mr. Mileham, secretary of the Orange County Y. M. C. A., was asked to speak.

The meeting had been called for 7:30, and at 7:25 there were but five people present, besides the cabinet. However, at this time they began to arrive, and when time came to call the meeting there were over forty present.

This meeting was one of enthusiasm, and much good advice was received from Mr. Mileham, Dr. Sprague, and Professor Hart. Plans for the year were made and discussed, and the new constitution adopted. This meeting has been repeated every two weeks with success, and each has been accompanied by some interesting feature.

Aside from interesting and beneficial meetings, the Y. M. C. A. has made itself felt on the campus in many ways. The Athletic Committee arranged an intra-mural basketball league, and carried it through to a successful conclusion.

The "Gospel team" has visited and conducted services in the churches of many nearby towns. They have had some very fruitful meetings and stand ready to accept invitations to hold services in any church in the state.

The Y. M. C. A. has made an effort to bring the student into a closer relationship with Jesus Christ and a clearer understanding of God's great plan of salvation.

A man must first develop faith in himself, then love for his family, then his friend, then his country, and then for his God. The love of these things having been developed, he finds his first duty to his God; second, to his country; third, to his home; and last, to himself.

ONCE UPON A TIME

A party of dry land sailors and sailorettes started on a cruise and sailed—I mean paddled—across Virginia and into Osceola. As is usually the case with dry land sailors the trip was a huge success until it became necessary for the sailors to prove that they were sailors. We use the term sailor advisedly because a gale came up during the voyage and everyone knows there is no use in a gale coming up unless the party effected are sailors. For instance, what does a steam-boat or its crew care for a gale. Well then they were sail-ors. It may be well to insert here the fact that these people did not belong to the old school of sailors who believed in going down with the ship. They had often heard the old adage "never leave the ship till the ship leaves you" but it meant not a thing to them. Therefore the gale assumed the proportions of—well whatever the next larger thing there is than a gale and the crew and crewette immediately came into port and abandoned ship. The canoe—pardon me I mean the schooner—was firmly fastened to the nearest thing at hand and all hands and the ship's cook took to the dinkey line. So the fair members who had spent their time at the rail going out also came back by rail.

ROLLINS COLLEGE DEBATORS LOSE TO TEAM OF POLISHED
SPEAKERS FROM BAPTIST UNI-VERSITY OF OKLAHOMA

Through the instrumentality of the league many wonderful high objectives have been accomplished and the following are a few of them: Over a million Russians have been saved from starvation, the Austrian nation was bankrupt and starving. The league obtained a heavy loan for them and they are the most progressive of all the Central powers. The Corfu-Italian question and the Albanian question were settled by the league. If these could be settled by the league without our help could not more be settled with our aid on the inside?

The great mission of the league is to promote justice between nations of the world, and in the larger question of today that the league has not settled, is because to bring a question before the league for question there must be a nation that will have the courage to introduce the question. All the nations in the league today are afraid of the large powers and if the United States were in the league the questions could be brought before the league for discussion as we are not to make another country angry with us so as to affect our trade.

Mr. Johnston told of the great amount of trade that the United States has with Europe and how the future of the country depends on the European trade. Since the war the European money has been made worthless and consequently the trade of America has fallen to a low degree. Our farmers can not sell their wheat because we can not use it and Europe can not afford to pay cash for it. The European powers need a government that can regulate their affairs by being on the inside and decide what is best for them to do with their internal affairs. If the United States would join the league and stabilize the European currency, our prosperity would jump by leaps and bounds.

If Europe should have another great war the United States would be drawn into it as she was drawn into the last one. We could not remain neutral, so therefore if a war comes into the world we will have to send our men overseas. Why not join the league and help to the best of our ability to create a high public opinion against the nation that is causing the trouble? Peace might be held between the nations where before there was war. Therefore, why should the United States stay out of a league when there is no better league of its kind, when it affects her own interests as long as she stays out? At least no harm can come of it because after two years notice any nation can drop out of the league. We say, the United States should join the League of Nations to protect herself and the rights of others.

The negative tore down the arguments of the affirmative by giving a history of the league and the history of leagues that have been made after every war of importance. After every war was over and the peace had been signed, the victorious nations formed a treaty with each other by means of which they could hold on to their ill-received spoils. This covenant with one another was called a league. The loser of a war was not allowed to enter, and therefore the nation that lost in the conflict had no voice in the matters of importance that occurred in the world. The property that they lost was held by the victorious powers by means of the league until the power that was vanquished in the war was able to recuperate its strength and win back its stolen provinces. This system caused a long war about every ten years. Thus, it is possible to see that this league has a very bad origin, though this does not prove the present league bad.

The league to be a success must have the full unselfish co-operation of every power that signed the covenant of the league. This is impossible as Premier Poincaré of France and Benito Mussolini of Italy have both made statements saying that the league is no good and that they would not listen to the decisions of the league. They proved that they would not listen to the command of the league when the league asked them to settle the Corfu question and other questions of international interest. Neither Italy or France will listen to the league and how is it possible to make them do so, without starting another war? This shows that the present league is a failure.

The League of Nations has yet up to the present time failed to settle a single event of national importance without the countries that were involved first starting a war to settle the question themselves. As these nations were pledged not to start a war without first asking the league to arbitrate the question, and as these nations have all agreed not to start a war, all of them have acted in bad faith towards the league and the league cannot be a success if the nations act in bad faith. Several nations have already withdrawn from the league and this shows that the league is a failure. Why should we join a league that has proven itself to be so much of a failure that the nations that are in the league will not support it? We can do more for the peace of the world if we remain outside the league where we will be able to do as we wish in our foreign controversies and not be hampered by foreign powers that are jealous of our power and prestige.

Thus, why should the United States join the league when the league has acted in bad faith, shown that it has no power to avert war, is the instrument of powerful nations to hold ill-gotten lands, and when we can do more for the peace and prosperity of the world if we remain outside of the league and be free of foreign entanglements? Why should the United States join the League of Nations?

C. A. and the Congregational young people are a loyal bunch, and all have a vision of such a group of volunteers through the coming years.

We especially want you to come because we are sure that you would be in active sympathy with this call for service and we promise you that we will stand by you in prayer and activity for such an end.

Sincerely yours,

Symphony

Ain't it tough,
When you're out with
The "only" girl,
And you've told her
How much you
Love her
For her beautiful face
And pretty ways;
And you've told her
You'll give up
All other girls, and You'll reform and be good
For her sake;
And then,
When you've sealed it
With a marvelous,
Blissful, holy Kiss;
And you take off
Your frat pin
And you're putting it on
Her dress;
And then you stick yourself
On some other guy's
Fraternity pin,
Ain't it tough?

Dear Aunt Mathilda:

I am a young girl in my teens and a man forty-five is in love with me.
Should I encourage him? Youth.

Youth:

Drop him like a hot cinder. He's a dead give away for you. Remember, dear, after they pass forty they like
'em good looking, young and foolish and the youth and good looks are not essential.

A GREATER ROLLINS IS ASSURED
AS RESULT OF COMPLETE
UNION OF THE CHURCH COM-MITTEES MARCH 26th.

Rollins under the control of the church bodies will take place in all probability after this financial work has been done, at the annual meeting next winter. The drive for a great increase in the endowment will not be attempted at once but will be taken up after the reorganization of the college on the new plan. It is thought probable that in Florida the times will be more propitious for such an enterprise next year or the year after.

The meeting of March 26 generated a strong confidence in the minds of all that the big enterprise will be carried out and that Rollins will come to be one of the outstanding collegiate institutions of the South. In fact it is quite possible that she will represent the beginning of a great movement which is of great interest to the people of the whole country. With the culmination of this effort Rollins will feel behind her hundreds of public men and tens of thousands of people who will for all time be interested in her welfare. This background of the people belonging to these three liberal churches will give her financial support, a great opportunity for moral influence and students of the best stock. It is noticeable already that people throughout the state have developed confidence in her future and are talking about sending their children to her halls.

The question of religious differences and controversies that might arise when these three churches attempt to work together in the Rollins Union has always been brought up as a possible source of difficulty. The determined men who met on the campus
last Wednesday tackled this problem and after long and careful consideration came to a unanimous agreement that they were united on the general principles of religious thought and deals which should be worked out and established in the college. These principles are so broad and so sensible that they can be accepted by anybody who wishes to realize the simple and direct facts of the Christian life and the Christian religion. It is hard to see how anybody of the broadest and most liberal minds could object to any of these statements of fundamental beliefs which these churches would adopt as the basis for Christian Education at Rollins. They are as follows: (1) That in all the departments of the college we shall seek teachers who shall teach their subjects from a positive Christian viewpoint; (2) We shall seek to give a constructive faith in the Bible as the inspired word of God; (3) We seek to develop a loyalty to Christ as He is revealed in the New Testament and taught in the standards of our churches; (4) In this institution the students shall be taught to love and participate in the worship and work of the Christian Church.

Rollins will next year start out with new visions, with stronger confidence, and with definite plans for great improvements. The trustees have voted to offer very attractive scholarships for honor students from Florida high schools and the administration is going out after strong Christian leaders that will enable the college to realize on its own campus
the highest ideals of student Christian fellowship and general Christian education.

Rollins realizes that in some re-

Summer Days Mean Summer Duds

Some are duds, maybe, and some are not, yet you can hardly afford to go on without some cool clothes. The summer days are with us, and will be for some months.

Come on in while the selection is good. We have Palm Beaches, Dixie Weaves, Linens, Whipcords, and Flannels in price for $16.00 to $37.50. If you are hard to fit Hart Schaffner & Marx or International will tailor one especially for you.

Other trappings that you will need is a straw, a new pair of Walk-Overs, or Smith Smart Shoes, and a Jantzen swimming suit. This will give you a complete summer outfit.

spects the eyes of the country are fixed upon her, that throughout the great liberal churches of the North she will be under observation and she must live up to the high ideals that she has placed before herself and that the liberal minded Christian people will expect her to realize. These are no easy things to accomplish and they will take time but the sturdy little institution has set her sails and her rudder towards the fulfillment of these big things as fast as her means and her trustees and teaching staff, backed up by the great multitude of friends, that she has, can bring them about. In the name of the Christian ideals and the effective education of our American young people the college would enlist the support, the sympathy and the prayers of all her old friends and those who are interested in such things. A new confidence and expectation has already come to the student body and the campus life, and every alumnus, alumna and student can look forward and work for the newer and greater Rollins that is about to come, with assurances that their efforts will yield results and help along a great cause.
