GLEE CLUBS TO GIVE JOINT PROGRAM OF CHRISTMAS MUSIC FRIDAY NIGHT IN KNOWLES HALL; TO BEGIN AT 7:30

The two glee clubs under the direction of Professor C. P. Jaynes, will give a Christmas program on Friday, December 19th, at 7:30 o'clock, in Knowles Hall. The short cantata by Paul Bliss, The Christ Child, will be given as the second part of the program. It expresses freely and interestingly the spirit of Christmas as based on the Biblical story as found in Mathew II, chapters one through eleven. Luke II, chapters eight through fourteen and Luke II, chapters fifteen, through twenty, which will be read by a representative of the expression department, as may be noted in the program which follows. The music of the cantata is very beautiful and blends in with the subject as it should.

The glee clubs have been very enthusiastic in their work this year and are planning some very good program dates for the term. February will be the first definite date and a program will be given there about the middle of January or February.

Ray Moor, manager of the Boys' Glee Club, is spending considerable time in corresponding with numerous towns in Florida in making arrangements for program dates. To date he has had several replies of interest and the arranged dates will be announced later. The men are showing extreme interest in the preparation of their programs and have asked for an additional day a week for their practice. This has been granted and they will use for the present the assembly period on Thursday mornings, meeting as usual at the School of Music.

The girls' program is rounding out nicely and most of their program numbers are well in mind. Eva Thompson, the girls' manager, has also planned a number of engagements which will be announced later.

After the musical program Friday night everyone will be invited to the gym to the Christmas tree and an informal evening will be spent.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX COURSE TO BE OFFERED

Federal income taxes have been levied for the past ten years and it is the accepted saying that "federal income taxes are with us to stay," in spite of the fact that the voters of Florida have elected not to have a state income tax law.

To meet the demand for a course that will meet the requirements of a student able to understand the federal income tax and its many changes, the Department of Business Administration of Rollins College is going to offer a course in the study of this law to the public of Orange County.

The course will consist of three one-hour lectures a week for ten weeks, beginning January 6, 1925.

FOOTBALL FORMAL TO BE HELD AFTER HOLIDAYS

Owing to a basketball trip to Fort Lauderdale, planned for the 17th, the football formal will be postponed until some time after the Christmas holidays. Mr. McRoberts, chairman of the formal, stated that it will probably take place the second week after vacation. The dance will be held at the Woman's Club in Winter Park. There will be a supper served about midnight and then more dancing till two or three o'clock. The fee for the students will be four dollars. The invitation list includes several townspeople, who will be invited. Mr. McRoberts hopes to have at least fifty couples present in order to meet the expenses of the dance. The Fort Pitt orchestra will play and it is hoped that this will be one of the best football formals ever put on at Rollins in honor of her letter men.

THE ART OF MAGAZINE SELLING IS EXPLAINED

No art ever required a more tactful combination of bunco and bull than that of selling magazines. The fact that America is every year producing more and more followers of America's national game of forcing people to buy reading material which they never read, augurs well for the future of the American language. During the process of every sale, the native language of the American people fast becomes more eloquent, more forceful, more flexible, more everything desirable for the broadening of a language, and many more things undesirable. I here take the liberty to predict that the art of magazine selling it is practiced today will revolutionize the American language—or maybe do even worse than that.

The reason I make such a rash prediction is because I sell magazines. Several days ago, while touring the streets of Orlando, I sighted what appeared to be a promising residence. I made the usual cautious approach and rang the doorbell. A young lady whose appearance could hardly be called hard on the eyes, answered my summons.

"I'm a student of Rollins College," I began, in an attempt to arouse pity and, too, admiration for my brave attempts to work my way through college. (The striving to succeed under difficulty plea nearly always takes.) "We're attempting to put before the people of Orlando this fine magazine, and—"

"Really!" exclaimed the nice young lady. "So you're one of those boys who have to work their way through college? I think it's perfectly wonderful—such fine spirit and ambition!"

"Yes'm, we all have a wonderful

DEAN SPRAGUE ELECTED TO UNITED STATES EUGENIC COUNCIL; TO AID IN BETTERMENT OF AMERICAN RACE

ANNUAL Y.W.C.A. BAZAAR TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Cloverleaf will be the scene of great bargaining tomorrow when its doors will be open to the people of Winter Park. Xmas presents will be on sale, made by the more industrious Cloverleafites. Food donated by the kind housekeepers of the town will be the main drawing card of the day. Fortunes will be told and it is certain that none will come away dissatisfied. Y. W. is endeavoring to make the money to send representatives to the annual conference of Y. W. C. A. next June. Plans of having the annual Xmas tree and dance the same day have been changed, the date, however, is still uncertain. But one of these busy days before taking their way home for the holidays the students will be able to enjoy a little of the spirit of Xmas here.

THE INTER-FRAT TENNIS TOURNAMENT COMING SOON

As the college tournament is about terminated, the elimination leaving only a few survivors, the interest is now centered upon the arrangement of a series of inter-fraternity matches to be played between the logical contenders from Chase Hall, Phi Alpha and Theta Kappa Nu.

The exact teams have not been chosen as yet and although there are many crack players from all three houses, it may be safely assumed that the following men will be chosen to represent their respective teams: Chase Hall—MacRoberts and Peebles; Phi Alpha—Bowers and Tilden; Theta Kappa Nu—Shoesmith and Colville.

After the doubles are played off between the teams mentioned above, the winning men will compete in a series of singles, thus affording all tennis fans a chance to see some snappy individual playing as well as team playing.

It is the plan this year to make tennis play an important part in the athletic activities of the school, because of the fact that there are so many among the student body who are ardent devotees of this sport.

Many of the inhabitants of Cloverleaf are also looking forward to participating in this line either in sets among themselves or in mixed sets with the boys.

Tennis is a clean, healthful sport, invigorating both to the mind and the body. It will have in the future as in the past, the tendency to lend toward elevating Rollins. It is hoped that it will continue to have the support of the students and the Athletic Association.

Who threw that cowardly egg that hit and ran?

Dean R. Sprague of Rollins College has recently been elected to the Council of the Eugenics Committee of the United States which is created by the International Congress of Eugenics.

Some of the noted men already on the Council are Dr. W. W. Campbell, director of the Lick Observatory; Professor T. N. Carver, Harvard University; Professor E. G. Conklin, Princeton University; Dr. Charles W. Eliot, Harvard University; Dr. David Fairchild, Dr. Livingston Farrand, President of Cornell University; Professor Franklin H. Giddings, Columbia University; Dr. David Starr Jordan, Bishop William Lawrence, Dr. J. C. Meriam, President of Carnegie Institution of Washington; Professor E. A. Ross, Wisconsin University; Dr. Ray L. Wilbur, President of Leland Stanford University.

In past years Dean Sprague has written and lectured much on the eugenic and race betterment needs of America and it is in recognition of this work that he has been chosen to help lead in the greater movement of today.

Professor Irving Fisher, Yale, chairman of the American Committee, says: "The time is ripe for a strong public movement to stem the tide of threatened racial degeneracy following in the wake of the World War and America must defend herself against indiscriminate immigration, criminal degenerates and the race suicide of our finest American stock, which was so much deplored by the late President Roosevelt and so evident to every student of race welfare."

The International Commission of Eugenics under whose direction the American organization comes has struck out a very ambitious program which is nothing less than the improvement of the human stock which is now under the influences of Western Civilization. Eugenic influences are the only ones that can overcome

FRESHMEN BURN CAPS; HOLD BIG CELEBRATION

The Freshman class celebrated the end of the wearing of the green caps on last Tuesday night. A bonfire was prepared in front of Cloverleaf and after making a round of the town with an old wagon in which President Zehler rode triumphantly, they lit the fire and held their ceremony.

After a general jubilation President Zehler burned the caps and made a very impressive speech concerning the occasion. The substance of the speech was the following: "Classmates, we are gathered here tonight to celebrate the ending of our long period of suffering under the relentless hand of the Sophomore. We have endeavored to carry out to the best

REWARD?

Reward—as the world understands it—for work done or results obtained, is the last thought of a student of Science and should be the uppermost thought and spirit of our students of today.

"I have no time to make money," was the reply of the Naturalist, Louis Agassiz. "In Science," Pasteur replied, "men of Science would consider that they lowered themselves doing so." This statement was given in reply to Napoleon the Third who expressed surprise at Pasteur for not endeavoring to make his discoveries and their application a source of profit. While in conversation with Tyndall Faraday once he stated that he could not serve two masters. It was a case of Wealth or Science. He chose Science and died a poor man.

Does the student of today go to college for the knowledge that he may and can get by close application? Or is it for social standing or to get methods and a means to procure wealth? These are questions that it will be necessary for the colleges of the near future to answer. My dear students, remember! "No good work is ever lost." Your reward may not be in the wealth of the land, but it will surely be in that honor and glory of service to our fellow man, our country and our God.

Students, now is the time to prepare and now is the time to come to the study of not only ourselves but our fellow man. Now is the time to so lay the foundation with real hard study that in the years to come we can construct on this foundation a building that will stand through all the ages and will be a living monument to Education and a benefit to humanity.

E. F. W.

IS IT PAYING TO ADVERTISE?

The amount that students spend in Winter Park and Orlando during an academic year at Rollins has been estimated, conservatively, at $50,000. No inconsiderable amount in the trade of a community. In placing this trade the student should stop to consider which stores have the interest of the school at heart. Those who by their advertisements in the Sandspur make possible the most vital of school organisms. Every possible want of a student can be supplied by our advertisers. It is but meet that some dividends be paid on these, turn them into real investments. It is not our aim to have the paper supported by the charity of our well-wishers.

At Christmas time it is but natural that student expenditure should reach its peak. Few of us indeed who haven't our share of this transferring of shekels at the present time. In doing so let us bear in mind that it is our advertisers who are giving us the Sandspur.

After the parable given by Dr.

Dresch in chapel the other day, which was extremely interesting, we might offer the following:

Any gentleman to another would say: "Have an orange."

A lawyer would word it as Judge Foote of Topeka said:

"I hereby give, grant, and convey to you all my interest, right, title and advantage of and in said orange, together with its rind, juice, pulp and pits; and all rights and advantages there-in, with full power to bite, suck or otherwise eat the same or give away with or without the rind, skin, juice, pulp or pits; anything hereinbefore or in any other deed or deeds, instruments of any nature or kind whatsoever to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding."

"Thought is the property of him who can entertain it; and of him who can adequately place it. A certain awkwardness marks the use of borrowed thoughts; but, as soon as we have learned what to do with them, they become our own. Thus all originality is relative."

LITERARY

According to a recent vote of the senior class at Harvard the greatest advantages of a college education are obtained from readings aside from those assigned or class work. If this is correct the average student is wasteful of higher learning. He is ing his biggest opportunity in an unusually trying to get by with the least reading possible. His usual alibi is that such time as the library is open is consumed in preparation for class work.

A certain amount of systematic reading is undoubtedly an essential to the achieving of the final goal of a college education, original thinking. Not only a foundation of the standard classics but a constant communion with the thinkers and writers of the current day forms the literary structure of the true student.

The student at Rollins is offered a wonderful opportunity on this line. Not only has he access to a complete store of classical literature but also to the foremost magazines and periodicals of the country. But when is all this excellent material to be put to use? Such time as the library is open on week-days is hardly sufficient for the covering of daily assignments. While it is closed at the end of the last class Saturday morning and not opened again until Monday morning at 8:15.

What time then is there for the reference work attendant on themes and double assignments usually awarded on week-ends?

If the library were opened Saturday afternoon or for a few hours on Sunday at least a chance would be offered for realizing one of the college's greatest assets.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

The family tree was the scene of another hilarious picnic last Friday night. It was Fran Howard's birthday so some kind of celebration was in order—consequently, the picnic.

Of course, being the guest of honor, she took advantage of her position and sugared the steak. Everyone appreciated this unique method of seasoning naturally and showed their appreciation by getting sick—sick enough—so they couldn't clean up!

When the merriment was at its height, and the potatoes were cooked enough to eat, someone remembered the basketball game in the Gym. The canoes were immediately paddled across the lake and as the girls were naturally financially embarrassed, access to the game was gained by the second story method (for particulars see Dickie).

Needless to say, everyone had a good time (even if no one got any potatoes).

ANOTHER BIRTHDAY PARTY

The cutest group of precious little girls left Cloverleaf Saturday evening, Dec. 6, for a birthday party at the Campbell residence. Dressed in their best bibs and tuckers, with hair bows erect, socks of all colors and descriptions, dolls and teddy-bears securely tucked under their arms, lolly-pop sticks protruding from their mouths, these youngsters caused much excitement in the business section of Winter Park.

More children and lolly-pops welcomed them at the Campbell home. After a pleasant hour of games, the girls made life books with magazine pictures. These brought out many delightful surprises and uncovered a number of deep secrets in the experiences of some of the girls. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses later in the evening.

The event was to celebrate the birthdays of the Misses Annie Campbell, Frances Valette and Althea Miller. Those who participated in the fun were Florence McKay, Emily Whitmore, Carolyn Mitchell, Pansy Ahik, Treva Lou Blanton, Martha Mathis, Dorothea Forbes, Bertina Congdon, Lucile Pipkorn, Margaret Johnson, Evelyn Dula, Palmer Argo, Willard Hosack, Gertrude Ward, Ellen Lerch, Edithe Draa, Freda Kuebler, Vivian Heide, Elizabeth Atkinson, Hope Anderson, Ruth Ward and Louise Ferguson.

Mrs. A. E. Dick, an honorary member of the Phi Omega, entertained the members and pledges at her home on Sunday with a lovely dinner. Those enjoying the dinner were: Ruth Amy, Virginia Richardson, Marcia Converse, Hildagarde Robinson, Virginia Nagel, and Mrs. Earle Robinson. Pledges: Pearle Wright, Charlotte Foster, Freda Kuebler, Edithe Draa, Lucille Waters and Florence McKay.

A dinner was given the Phi Omegas by the pledges Tuesday night at the Green Parrot tea room.

The dining table was centered with a huge basket of pink and white rose buds, and at each place were attractive little place cards and favors.

A five-course dinner was served. Those enjoying the evening were: Ruth Amy, Marcia Converse, Hildagarde Robinson, Virginia Richardson and Mrs. Earle Robinson and Virginia Nagel. Pledges: Freda Kuebler, Lucille Waters, Charlotte Foster, Edithe Draa, Pearle Wright and Florence McKay.

Vaudine received an unexpected bath while on the dock Sunday. Oh, well, true love never runs smooth.

Eloise still likes salt water taffy. Don't ask her about it though, she might get mad.

JOKE

Billie—Dickie, will you ask the waiter for some more crackers?

Dickie—I'm not the head of the table.

Zehler—No, but you're the foot and ought to do the kicking.

A kindergarten was turned loose in Cloverleaf Saturday night. You should have seen the cute little girls with big beaus n' everything.

Dickie, Vivian, Annabeth and Fran have gone into training for ladder climbing, especially when there is a basketball game going on.

Prof. Uphof—Miss Kuebler, where do all the little bugs go in the winter? Freda—You can search me.

Coach Duyck—What was that cracking noise?

Charlotte Foster—Oh! don't worry, that was just my history resolution being broken.

Ruth Amy (to Grace, who had just come from the beanery)—How did you find the pork today?

Grace—Easy; I just turned over a bean and there it was.

Edithe Draa—I got a zero in Math today.

Martha—That's nothing.

Edithe—What's nothing.

Martha—Zero.

Plumber—I've come to fix up that old tub in the kitchen.

PHI BETA WEEK

A charming tea was given by Theta Chapter of Phi Beta at the home of Mrs. Roy Lenfest recently in honor of the Rushees, about thirty-five enjoying the occasion.

In the receiving line were: Mrs. Lenfest, Miss Ruth Amy, Marjorie Ufford, Virginia Richardson and Betty Dickinson.

Refreshments of pineapple sherbert and cakes were served.

Miss "Billie" Mulligan entertained during the afternoon by a reading in her own inimitable manner.

Miss Virginia Richardson rendered a beautiful piano solo and Miss Ruth Amy sang several numbers, one of them a negro spirituelle.

Theta Chapter entertained the Rushees at a dinner party at the Green Parrot Tea Room on Friday evening, Dec. 6.

The table was beautifully decorated with roses and ferns. A delicious dinner was served, followed by speeches from members of the fraternity concerning the ideals and attainments of Phi Beta. The president, Ruth Amy, welcomed the guests, while Mrs. Grey acted as toastmistress, introducing the speakers with anecdotes fitting (?) the individual.

Considering the great dramatic talent represented in such a notable group, Mrs. Grey announced that a play would be put on. After elaborate preparations, a classic was produced. Its great dramatic possibilities are suggested by the title, "The Gathering of the Nuts by the Dumbbells."

THE ART OF MAGAZINE SELLING EXPLAINED

spirit and ambition. As I was saying, we're attempting to get the people of Orlando to subscribe for this magazine, and—"

"Really!" exclaimed the nice young lady. "So you're one of those boys who have to work their way thru college? I think it's perfectly wonderful—such fine spirit and ambition!"

"Yes'm, we all have a wonderful spirit and ambition. As I was saying, we're attempting to get the people of Orlando to subscribe for this magazine, and—"

"Do many of the boys work their way thru college?" inquired the inquisitive young lady.

"Thousands. As I was saying, we're attempting to get the people of Orlando—"

"Then how in the world did Jimmy ever get a job with so many others asking for them, too?"

"Who in th—I mean, who's Jimmy?" I politely asked, determined to preserve my patience. Who knew but what I might be able to sell a subscription for my wonderful magazine to Jimmy.

"Oh, Jimmy's my—I—er—that is, Jimmy is a very dear friend of mine who is working his way thru the University of Florida."

"Ah—h-h, I see. Well, Jimmy is too far away to help my cause. As I was saying, we are at—"

"You see," interrupted Jimmy's girl, "Jimmy is a freshman this year at the university—"

"—attempting to get the people of Orlando to subscribe for this magazine, and—"

"Oh, you're selling magazines? Wait a moment and I'll call mother."

It would never do to put down on paper what I thought at that particular moment. That's the chief fault I find with female prospects—they talk for half an hour before they get to the point, and then you find you've been talking to the wrong person all the time. Or else you discover you have the right person but she is in the wrong mood, or—oh, well, a fellow who sells magazines can discover a million things about the female of the species and still know nothing whatsoever.

The important point that I am trying to drive home is: when a magazine salesman meets such an obstreperous prospect as the one mentioned above, there is no limit to the extent to which he may improve on the American language. I am loath to admit the sad fact, but once I escape from such an individual, I can present our native language with so many uncomplimentary, yet eloquent, forceful, flexible phrases and epithets that literary authorities, should they chance to hear me, would be astounded that one person had at his command such an eloquent use of the American language.

Yes, a tactful combination of bunko and bull can sell any magazine on earth, but, when bunko and bull are pitted against pure, unadulterated dumbness, may heaven provide the salesman's next meal—it's a dead certainty humanity won't.

Paul Hilliard (Special Writer).

The color blooms on woman's cheek,
For less than fifteen cents a week;

But for a man, as price now goes,
It costs a lot to paint a nose.

Oh, I never could believe it,
Though I often have been told,
That a fire's always hottest
Whenever it is coaled.

As happy as could be,
But now it makes her seasick,
He has water on his knee.

CULTURE IN AMERICA

A Co-ed last year admitted that she had never read a newspaper. Yet she knew all of the latest jazz and was well versed in everything that pertained to the movie world. One may well wonder what her ambition in life was! No wonder she and her kind are not capable of appreciating an attraction which has culture behind it. FEDERAL INCOME TAX COURSE TO BE OFFERED (Continued from page 1)

The college authorities have made a special concession and have opened the course to the general public for the nominal sum of $15 for the entire ten weeks work. There will also be a small charge for the textbook used.

Those who are interested in the course are invited to attend the first session without any obligation to enroll. No collegiate standing is required for entrance to this course, which is given as a service to those requiring assistance in an understanding of the tax laws.

The following is a short outline of the course: Gross income, inclusions, method of accounting, gross income deductions, taxable persons and periods, rates and computation of tax, administration, preparation of return, excess profits tax. The many phases of the law will be illustrated by application of them to problems representative of actual cases.

Enrollments for the course may be made with Dean R. J. Sprague or Prof. G. E. Spaulding, acting director of the Department of Business Administration.

DEAN SPRAGUE ELECTED TO UNITED STATES EUGENIC COUNCIL; TO AID IN BETTERMENT OF AMERICAN RACES.

the losses of the selected stocks in the World War and prevent the European races from degeneration. Europe needs this work even more than America, altho a program of education along this line in Amerca would do a powerful lot of good. No intelligent and general effort has ever been made by the enlightened peoples of the world to exploit the tremendous possibilities in the development of our own race. Perhaps this is the next wonder of the world to come. General education in eugenics principles is the first great object to be obtained so that an enlightened public opinion may be ready to back up laws and institutions which may be necessary for the improvement of the racial stock.

Just before the World War started a great convention for race betterment was held at Battle Creek, Mich., to which eugenists and scientists from many countries came. The war paralyzed this effort, but now the movement, still in its infancy, but still more needed than ever before, has started up again with a world organization and with a clearer understanding of its field of operations and its possibilities.

of our ability all the things that they have required of us. We have taken our beatings when they came. I shall now burn this cap, signifying that our life as rats is ended."

A tremendous ovation greeted the speech, supplemented by loud applause from Cloverleaf. After a few cheers the crowd dissolved and quiet reigned supreme.

"What are you buying?"

"A thermometer."

"Why? You won't need a thermometer until summer."

"They're always lower in the winter."
