CHASE HALL ELECTS OFFICERS FOR SECOND SEMESTER; BOB WILSON IS RE-ELECTED HEAD PROCTOR AGAIN

Wednesday evening, January 12, Dr. Weir called a meeting of all residents at Chase Hall for the purpose of electing proctors for the second semester. The previous officers were re-elected, Bob Wilson being chief proctor and Guy Colado, Bob Chandler, Max MacRoberts and Alvin Krohle assistants; Prof. Jaynes and Coach Duyck faculty advisors.

In former years Chase Hall has enjoyed student government, members abiding by rules made by the majority. Study period began at 7:45 p. m. and ended at 10:45.

Dr. Weir stated that reports had come to him of many midnight carousals lately and a general inability of studious persons to apply themselves because of the noise. He said such reports were not official but there had been various rumors. Bob Wilson being proctor, was asked to account for past Chase Hall affairs. He stated that while he was proctor it had been given him to understand that faculty advisors would take matters in their own hands anyway, so he thought it better to say nothing to the boys. Later in the year Bob resigned and assistants naturally discontinued duties.

Dr. Weir then stated that faculty representatives were not supposed to keep order but merely to act as an advisory council should complicated situations arose. Under those conditions old officers consented to re-assume duties, it being decided that weekly meetings be held to discuss any problems which might come up. The committee was given full judicial authority over other members. It is (Continued on page 6)

Y.W. HELD INTERESTING MEETING WEDNESDAY

Miss Martha Dennison, Y. W. C. A. missionary to India, was unable to speak to the girls at the Y. W. meeting Wednesday, January 20, because of illness. Mrs. Hart, who knows Miss Dennison very well, told the girls about her work and about the Y. W. C. A. foreign missionary.

Those women desiring positions as foreign missionaries must have had experience in some city managing a local Y. W. C. A. They are then given a rigid training for nine months, after which the appointment is given. The young woman must take a contract to work for five years at a salary of $1,800. She has the privilege of a month's vacation during the summer each year. After fulfilling the five years' work she returns to the U. S. for a year's leave of absence.

Miss Dennison has traveled through Japan, China, India, Spain, France and England. Her work was carried on in Jubbulpore, India, and her summer vacations were spent in traveling through the different parts of India—Kashmir and Bombay. She has re-

TENTATIVE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

The tentative announcement of the football schedule of the Tars of Rollins College, for next fall, leaves no room for doubt, say those connected with the institution, that the college is due to carry out an attractive program of intercollegiate athletics for 1925.

This schedule is the first as an actual member of the S. I. A. A., although Rollins played under rules of that organization last season.

The hardest game will be with the University of Florida. Other outstanding opponents are the Citadel Military College and the College of South Carolina, Mercer University, which won over the 'Gators in '24, Centenary College of Louisiana, coached by Bo McMillin, Newberry College of South Carolina, Howard College of Alabama, and Oglethorpe University of Atlanta, 1923 champions of the S. I. A. A.

The longest trip will be to Shreveport, La., and games will be played in Macon, Ga., Jackson, Demorest, Ga., and Miami.

The schedule as it now stands follows:

Friday, September 25, Freshmen at Winter Park.

Monday, September 28, Citadel Military College at Winter Park.

Saturday, October 3, Springfield Athletic Club, at Jacksonville.

Tuesday, October 13, Piedmont College, at Demorest, Ga.

Saturday, October 16, Centenary College at Shreveport, La.

Saturday, Oct. 31, University of Florida at Gainesville.

Wednesday, November 11, Newberry College at Orlando.

Saturday, November 21, Southern College at Winter Park.

Thursday, November 26, Howard College at Winter Park.

Saturday, December 5, post-season game by special permission of S. I. A. A. with Oglethorpe at Miami.

Rollins Follies Coming Monday, February 16th

On Monday, February 16, the 1925 Rollins Follies, one of the unique and interesting events in the school year, will be given in the gym by the Physical Education Department under the supervision of Miss Jones.

There will be seven feature acts, including dances and other surprises. The costumes will be very pretty and appropriate for the dances.

This is the first year such a performance has ever been put on and it ought to hold a great interest for students. Admission price is 25 cents for college students and 50 cents for outsiders. The program for the big event will be published in the next issue of the Sandspur. Watch for it.

SECOND SEMESTER STARTS FEB. 3; MANY NEW COURSES ARE ADDED TO CURRICULUM; NEW STUDES REGISTER

GILLILAN LECTURE IS SUCCESS; WELL ATTENDED

On last Tuesday evening the populace of Winter Park, Orlando and the surrounding communities had the opportunity of hearing Strickland Gillilan, the famous humorist, give a lecture at the Helen Morse Hall, commonly known as the Woman's Club in Winter Park. A great many of them took advantage of the opportunity and attended, in fact so many that it was a complete success both socially and financially.

As on former occasions, Mr. Gillilan entered at once into the spirit of the occasion and kept the audience roaring with laughter from the time he started until he strode off the stage at the termination of the lecture. He quoted humor for the benefit of the dentist, doctor and clergyman, thus causing sly glances to be cast in the direction of those who practice these professions. He then quoted rural and moral poetry seasoned with witty satire and humorous jokes for the benefit of all concerned.

The proceeds of the affair are to be used by the Phi Alpha Fraternity towards furthering the erection of their new Fraternity house at Rollins and it is with extreme gratitude on their part that they wish to thank those who attended and helped to make the affair such a success.

Eva Thompson's family has "arrove" to spend the winter at their home in Maitland; and Eloise Arm's ditto are in Winter Park for the next few weeks.

The Pledge Is Getting Worried; What Next?

Now that the strain and stress of the midyears are over the thoughts of many are turning to a far greater and more lasting examination, that is physically, the thought of pledge initiation to the various fraternities and sororities.

There are many who are bemoaning their fate not having made the grade of eighty, which is required, and shudder at the thoughts of being ordered around by those who once were fellow pledges. On the other hand, there are those who are waiting in breathless and wondering anticipation as to what will happen during the ensuing week.

The Phi Alpha and Theta Kappa Nu Fraternities, along with the Kappa Epsilon, Phi Omega and Sigma Phi sororities, are getting all primed to welcome their new members and such a welcome it will be. There will no doubt be many queer happenings this next week which will probably furnish amusement for everyone except the participants, but never mind, it only happens once in a lifetime and it sure is worth it.

Rollins students will begin a new semester of school Wednesday, February 3, when classes will assemble as scheduled, it has been announced.

The first semester of the school year will end tomorrow when the last of the examinations will be given. The passing of examinations will not be mourned, according to many students who are said to have an abiding fear (said to have come from the days of grade and high school) for any variety of tests. Those who have been making above ninety in all their subjects have been enjoying the weather since Wednesday noon.

"Just think, I had 88, but I won't get out of that old exam," is the wail that has come from many a tongue during this week. But many who have missed their goal of ninety this semester have announced to some of their classmates that they are determined to reach the mark the coming semester.

A class in harmony, a class in public speaking, a class in business administration and Spanish and American History are among the courses offered the second semester for beginners in these subjects.

An increased enrollment for Rollins has been predicted for the second semester because of persons who come to Florida late in the season to attend school.

Monday, February 1, and Tuesday are registration days. Students then will prepare their next semester schedules, but as most courses continue through the entire year little change in schedules is expected, it is said.

If Dean Sprague's plans are carried out, most of the Seniors will be registered before the appointed time, which will give him more time to discuss courses with the other undergraduates who wish to arrange their schedule so that they may get in all their majors and not have to carry a heavy load the last year in order to obtain their degree.

MANY NEW BOOKS ARE ADDED TO THE LIBRARY

During a recent interview with Dr. Taintor, librarian of Rollins College, it was learned that several new books have been added to the shelves of the college library through the generosity of several people who are greatly interested in this department of our institution.

Mr. W. A. Lichtenwallner has sent from Los Angeles, California, to Dr. Taintor a copy of his book, "Problems Vital to our Religion." It has been placed on the library shelves for the use of those interested and is the result of long personal study.

Although taking positions unacceptable to the majority, it is interesting and stimulating reading.

Established in 1894 with the following editorial:

"Unassuming yet mighty, sharp and pointed, well-rounded yet many-sided, assiduously tenacious, yet as gritty and energetic as its name implies, victorious in single combat and therefore without a peer, wonderfully attractive and extensive in circulation; all these will be found upon investigation to be among the extraordinary qualities of The Sandspur."

CRAMINATIONS

Now is the time when all good students who were so wise as to work hard all semester and pull down a 90 percent average are packing their grips and going home for the week. However, not enough students have announced this as their intention as to warrant either the closing down of the dining hall or Cloverleaf. From which it is to be feared that only a few are to be classified as "lucky."

To a number of the freshies the 90 percent edict came as a complete surprise. Not a few of them are bemoaning their lack of application in the good old days when exams were still away off in the dim, sweet future.

Along with the freshies are a bunch of other folks who did know about the ruling but didn't take advantage of it. And now the very people who wouldn't be afraid to be quizzed escape everything. The others burned the "midnight oil."

Some people are so conceited as to think they can dawdle along with a subject for four months, sleep through classes and never crack a book outside of classes and then read the textbook over the night before and pass with flying colors. This is a sad mistake. It was proved to be such in grammar school and high school, and a lot of us should have learned about exams from them. But we failed, somehow.

And to our unlimited surprise we find that although a college student is often exempted from many things—such as bus fare to Orlando—we are not exempted from exams, exams like those we used to have.

Even the most ardent cramming falls short of giving the right results. A befuddled brain, weary and dull from prolonged night work, is hardly the instrument by which to pass any exam with flying colors. The only difference between a cramination and an examination is that one is eminently unsatisfactory both before and after taking, and the other is only unsatisfactory after. Neither adds to personal glory. Which did you take this time, a regular exam or a cram? And, by the way, now is a good time to be thinking about what it'll be next time.

ANOTHER "LITTLE THING"

Not long ago we heard a talk by Dr. Taintor on "Little Things" and how they betray one. Although Dr. Taintor put a great deal into a few words, there was one phase of the college's little things that was not mentioned. That was table manners, a thing in which we were drilled at home and which is as popular with the etiquette books as halitosis is with the Listerine company. However, in spite of the good work put in by our fond parents, it would seem that we are inclined to slip every now and then back into the grab ways associated with the old Neanderthaler.

If you fail to "get" what we mean, perhaps a few examples will refresh your memories. For instance, have you ever been guilty of sizing up and appropriating the largest piece of meat while the rest of your companions at meal were waiting for grace to be said? Haven't you? Or, perhaps you have—just as a joke, of course. It was funny to you and it never occurred to you that such a thing would be unappreciated by your associates. Honestly, though, you could hardly expect it to win roars of applause. Maybe the man next to you had designs on that same piece of meat.

Such breaches as eating peas with a knife are never committed and because we don't eat with our knives we somehow get the idea that we have "good manners." So, we time Dr. Taintor while he says grace, and he takes a second over time, we gently remind him of the fact by drawing out our chairs and sitting down, sometimes enjoying little extemporaneous races to see who can get seated first.

At tables slices of bread fly like brickbats in an Irish riot. The heads of the tables are rushed for water and become proficient in the rather difficult and dangerous art of juggling glasses full of water. Those at the sides become proficient in the art of politely jostling each other. Dempsey could learn a great deal from them.

But we all pass for being good-mannered!

Prof: "Have you done your outside reading?"

Frosh: "No, sir; it's been too cold."

SIGMA PHI DINNER PARTY

On Thursday last, Mrs. Shreve very charmingly entertained the Sigma Phi Sorority and pledges at a lovely dinner party at the Weaver Tea Room in Orlando.

The sorority colors, green and white, were carried out in the table decorations and even in the china. At each place was a musical instrument of some sort and on the backs of the place cards were answers which were read out when Mrs. Shreve asked the question which belonged to it.

The entertainment for the evening was furnished by the pledges in the form of a one-act playlet.

This is the cast: The curtain and orchestra leader, Gladys Wilkinson; the open window, Louise Holland; Wrigley's Chewing Gum, Frances Howard; Crossword Puzzles, Wilfred Carswell; the Unmade Bed, Grace Jaquith; Rouge and Lipstick, Barbara Sheffield; The Flirt, Violet Sutherland; Spirit of Sigma Phi, Isabel Green.

Miss Mulligan begun acting "English," which is very unbecoming to her, and as a punishment was made to give a number.

The party ended with the singing of Sigma Phi songs and everyone was certainly sincere when she said, "I had a fine time at your party."

The Beginners' Canoe Class had a picnic at the family tree on Friday, January 22. It took the crew just 10 minutes to paddle across the lake. When they arrived it was time for supper. Miss Jones, official fire-master, started the blaze for roasting bacon and cooking coffee. The girls all say that it tasted "grand," and contrary to former picnics there was plenty and more. A whole bag of cookies was brought home. The picnickers came back by seven o'clock, in time to go to the movies.

The picnickers this time were: Ellen Lersch, Margaret Johnson, Althea Miller, Edyth Draa, Willard Hosack, Vivian Heide, Annie Campbell, Kay Beall and Miss Jones.

PERSONALS

Alvin's heart is broken! Why? Because his lady-love, Trixie, is quite ill in bed with the "flu." P. S.—It is rumored that Bob Colville is in the same state of collapse.

Jinny Davis has been seriously ill at home for a week, but got up to attend the exams n'things.

Judge seems to have a new lease on life since Dot gave him that famous bath in flea soap!

Jack Joiner has moved over to the Phi Alpha House where he will reside during the next semester.

Violet Sutherland spent the weekend at home in Daytona.

Bob Wilson's family plus car and Georgia clay hit Winter Park the other day, to stay for the next two months.

All Cloverleaf enjoyed the five batches of fudge made last Saturday afternoon. The girls hope it will rain again!

Sheik Ham seems to be conducting himself so well these days that he has not been forced to make any more public appearances, much to the disappointment of the Rollins public.

Doug is once again honoring the Beanery with his presence.

Chick Townsley is leaving the Sunny South after the fatal mid-years. Good luck and hope he survives all the blizzards up at the University of New York!

Although Mr. Kelley was sick all last week, Miss Betty Dickinson made all her classes.

Paul Potter came down to spend last week-end. We wonder why?

Larkin has invested in a new Nash touring car. Ritzey, what?

Miss Jones and Miss Lingenfelder left Wednesday for a trip to Miami.

Chemico-Metrical Madrigal
I know a maiden, charming and true,
With beautiful eyes like the cobalt blue
Of the borax bead, and I guess she'll do
If she hasn't another reaction.

Her form is no bundle of toilet shams,
Her beauty no boon of arsenical balms,
And she weighs just sixty-two kilograms
To deci-decimal fraction.

Her hair is a crown, I can truthfully state,
'Tis a meter long, nor curly nor straight,
And it is as yellow as plumbic chromate
In a slightly acid solution.

One day I said, "I will leave you for years,"
To try her love by rousing her fears;
She shed a deciliter of tears,
Turning brown the turmeric yellow.

To dry her tears I gave her, you know,
A hectogram of candy; also,
To bathe her red eyes, some H₂O;
She said, "You're a naughty fellow."

I have bought me a lot, about a hectare,
And have built me a home ten meters square,
And soon, I think, I shall take her there,
My tart little acid radicle.

Will be the salts of this chemistry,
And the lips of the infantile A, B, C
Be the refrain of this madrigal.

PHOTOGRAPHER HAVING HARD TIME WITH YEAR-BOOK SNAPS

Human nature is seen at its queerest in a photographer's studio. The following "skit" (that's what the author was told to write, by the associate editor) is an impression of a visitor to Mr. Hallen's studio in the basement of Knowles Hall:

"Er—er—Good morning, Mr. Photographer Man. Is this where we have our faces shot? Why, yes, sir, I'm a freshman."

"Well, let's see, my boy, your face is too wide and round for a full picture, and your ears are too prominent. Let's try a profile. No! That will never do! Your nose is frightfully large. Just have a seat on that stool over there and rest your feet on that chair. What? Why, of course, I don't intend to photograph your feet! Be calm."

Then follows a heart-splitting scene. The artistic photographer is given one homely face and one camera only, to prove that the said face is handsome and shows a resemblance to the owner. He twists the victim's face to the left till the jaw-bone cracks, then to the right till the vertebrae tingle; then he bends the head back to see how the "angelic pose" fits. Alas! He must try suggestions to get a decent expression upon the face. "Think of a nice dinner at the Beanery." "Desist!" shrieks the man behind the camera. And after suggesting several other "pleasant" phrases of the campus the photographer draws this conclusion: "It's utterly impossible to get a handsome likeness of your face, Mr. La Froos" (Q. E. D. nit).

Mr. Hallen then turns to his next problem. Miss — wishes to have her physiognomy taken, and, of course, it must do her justice.

"Er—Miss —, I'm very sorry, but you must go over to the dorm and remove that rouge and those cosmetics (many laughs from the chemistry lab students who are interested lookers-on).

Enter about seven juniors who demand to see their pictures. "Oh, Mr. Hallen, can you remove this mole here? I don't want it to show." From some one else: "Say, take off that hair that's sitting, I mean standing straight up there."

In the meantime Hugh Poole has been "holding that pose" for three-quarters of an hour. The photographer snaps it and hanging up his "Closed" sign, winds his weary way homeward.

Construction Competition

To Increase the Interest in the Most Delightful and Instructive of all the Modern Sciences we ~~Attract~~ this Radio Construction Competition.

—In announcing this competition we are opening it to every student in Rollins College, Winter Park, who is interested in receiving. It is the one opportunity you will have of constructing a fine five-tube set, built by one of America's foremost manufacturers, that will enable you to receive every station on the American continent. The following information about this competition will interest everyone and it is our aim to enroll a great number of radio enthusiasts.

—We have just completed arrangements with one of the leading makers of fine Radio Equipment to supply us with all of the essential parts to build a limited number of receiving sets. The price at which we secured these unassembled sets was so low that it enables us to put them within the reach of every Radio enthusiast.

—Before we can start this competition it is absolutely essential that we secure a sufficient number who are willing to enter this competition and at the start there is nothing to pay unless we secure the desired number of entries.

—Our plan is as follows:—each week every competitor will be supplied with a part of the set and will be given all instructions by which to assemble it. When the set is completed you will find that the cost is very small.

—At the end of the competition, that is when all sets are completed, we will give one prize for the best set in each class.

Class A. Men and Boys over 18 years of age.

Class B. Boys under the age of 18.

Class C. Women and Girls.

—The completed sets will be judged by a committee that will be appointed by the Radio Club of Orlando. The prizes that will be given will also be selected by this same committee.

hoped that Chase Hall will soon be known as CHASTE Hall.

Two questions of interest to the entire school were brought up at this meeting, one being the installation of a hot-water system in Chase and the other, an improvement of food at the Commons. Plans had already been made concerning the first so the paramount subject of eats was given undivided attention. Dr. Weir stated that too much could not be expected for $6.30 a week. He was then informed that it was not quantity but quality which was most wanted and a house was named where the best products could be obtained at a nominal price. It was found that the best beef could be served in place of salmon or pork chops that were nothing but bones and fat. Everybody wanted fruit for breakfast and it was found that a man in town had offered this free of charge. Dr. Weir said that he would be glad to investigate the matter. Many boys plan to eat elsewhere next semester unless an improvement is made, it was said.

cently come back to the U. S., having completed her five years of work. Miss Dennison, it is hoped, will be able to speak to the girls at some other meeting.

A plan to keep open house from 5 to 9 o'clock on Sunday was proposed by Mrs. Hart. The boys will be guests of Cloverleaf girls and spend the afternoon making fudge, pop corn or toasted marshmallows, just as they please.

As a means of "inflating" the deflated treasury of the Y. W. some of the girls will serve luncheon for the Women's Club next Friday afternoon. This plan, which was tried by the K. E.'s last year, was found to be a successful means of earning money.

It is hoped that many who dallied along this semester will step on the gas and profit by their last record. They should not forget that the nearer to spring they get the more difficult it will be to study because of the heat and the prospect of taking the finals in a temperature of 90 or 95 degrees is not exactly pleasant. Plug away now while it is cool and stay in the lake during the finals.
