HAMILTON HOLT ASKS STUDENTS TO HELP IN OBTAINING FOR ROLLINS $300,000 IN EXPANSION PROGRAM

Last Thursday in chapel, Dr. Holt outlined to the student body his plans for Rollins together with the proposed method of student aid in the campaign. Proposing that the student body pay, man for man and woman for woman, two dollars a month or more for the next five months, the students took up the proposal with eager enthusiasm and voted unanimously to pledge themselves to provide at least three thousand dollars of the three hundred thousand that must be raised at once—one percent of the total.

Dr. Holt believes that there can be no better sales talk than to be able to say that the Rollins drive started at home. He told of the need for cash to run a college, and went on to enlarge upon his ideas for the future of Rollins. His whole idea is based upon group association, and a doing away with the old quizzing method.

"If a student is a student, he will not have to be quizzed by the professor; he will quiz the professor."

Rollins students are backing the program one hundred percent strong. After the student body had voted unanimously to support the campaign, follow-up committees were appointed by Mr. Short, manager of Dr. Holt's financial campaign. It will be the duties of these committees to further financial possibilities among the students.

Dr. Holt's plan for the upbuilding of Rollins is outlined elsewhere in this paper.

OLYMPIC MERMAIDS SWIM AGAINST STRONG WINDS

Dorothy Colter Stars on Rollins Course
By Beating National Champion in 50-
Yard Back Stroke Race

WINTER PARK, Feb. 17.—A high wind and the cold water of Lake Virginia handicapped the participants in the women swimming champions' exhibition meet here this afternoon along the Rollins College course. While no records were set, the women champion swimmers of the United States and Honolulu thrilled the spectators that lined the shores of the lake with their expert swimming and fancy diving.

EMINENT SPEAKERS TALK AT SANDSPUR BANQUET

On Thursday evening February 18th, the annual anniversary dinner of the Sandspur and Delphic Literary Societies was held at the Rollins College Commons as one of the outstanding events of the Founders' Week program.

Both students and invited guests attended and after a delightful dinner under the capable direction of Mrs. Steile, director of Commons, the pro-

FRESHMEN DEFEAT UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA YEARLINGS 32 TO 19 AND CLAIM CHAMPIONSHIP OF FLORIDA

THE DREAM OF A MAN

A man stood on the east shore of Lake Virginia. As he stood, he gazed out across the mirror like expanse of water before him. Here and there the smooth surface rippled where fickle gusts of wind kissed the surface whisked away again to tell the story to other playful gusts. Something seemed to urge him, to call to him, to insist upon recognition. The virgin shores seemed incomplete. Indigenous creatures of the woods called in vain. Something should be there that was not, something was lacking in the scheme of things on the beautiful shores of Lake Virginia.

Suddenly, a vision flashed before the eyes of the man. In his vision he saw buildings surrounding a verdant expanse of green. He saw majestic oaks reared splendidly toward Florida's blue skies. He saw garrulous squirrels, playful little busy-bodies, scamper here and there across the green sward. He saw canoes drifting lazily on the waters of the lake. He saw Rollins.

It was forty-two years ago that A. W. Rollins stood on the shores of Lake Virginia and dreamed his dream. Today his dream stands a reality vital, intense, pulsating with the youth of a nation. It seethes with ambition. Hopes, longings, are born and prodded on to materialization with indefatigable industry. Within its walls, men are being made, character is being molded. Americans are being built!

To you, O dreamer of a dream, we pay tribute! Your work has been well done. Your vision is being ably carried out. Only from little acorns can great oaks grow; the oak of your vision is spreading its branches now, a strong oak, with roots of character, boughs of moral strength, and leaves of everlasting knowledge.

Your dream has come true.

FOUNDERS' DAY IS CELEBRATED WITH COLORFUL PAGEANT, SPEECHES, AND EXCITING EXHIBITION OF AQUATICS

Scott is Outstanding Caner of the Day, Winning in War Canoe, Singles and Mixed and Men's doubles.

Rollins College Founders Week came to a close last Monday in a galaxy of entertainment, sponsored by the students and townspeople of Winter Park, the celebration being combined into what was known as Washington's Birthday Civic Celebration, commemorating the founding of Winter Park and Rollins College.

The first event on the program of the day was the civic parade participated in by everyone, the line of march starting from East Park Avenue and terminating at the Brewer Estate, known as "The Palms."

Here, those attending had the pleasure of seeing a pageant: The Coming of Osceola, written by Mrs. Rena Sheffield, and directed by Mrs. Orpha Grey assisted by Rollins College students. The story of the pageant was written about the dominating figure of Chief Osceola so prominent in Florida History, and was judged by critics to be one of the most beautiful ever staged in the State of Florida, because of its relation to the natural surroundings, its relation to Florida, and in a measure, to the superb acting of the participants.

Following the pageant was a tableau effect of the return of George Washington and the Spirit of 1776, the principal figure being personified by Dean Sprague.

The invocation was given by Dr. Clarence A. Vincent, followed by addresses by Hamilton Holt, Irving

CHARLES LUTHER WINS SPRAGUE ORATORY BOUT

On last Friday evening the Sprague Oratorical Contest was held at the Womans Club, for the purpose of determining the winner of the annual prize offered by Robert J. Sprague, in oratory.

Students in the department of public speaking participated and first prize was given to Charles Luther who spoke upon the subject of Rollins. Austin Lacy was given second place. There were many interesting speakers and the subjects were varied enough to make them extremely interesting. During the program the Rollins Glee Clubs sang "Goin' Home," from the New World Symphony, and music was furnished by the college orchestra.

Bachelor, and George Washington (Dean Sprague). During the entire celebration the Orlando Pythian Band gave a musical program.

When the more serious aspect of the affair had terminated, water sports under the direction of Fleetwood Peeples, were participated in by students of the college. These consisted of war canoe races, doubles, mixed doubles, singles, and canoe tilting.

In the evening a civic reception honoring President and Mrs. Holt was held at the Womans Club after which a civic dance was held, thus winding up in a perfect manner, Founders' Week.

The Rollins College freshmen are claiming the state championship in basketball, following their defeat last night of the University of Florida freshmen cagers in the Rollins gymnasium by a count of 32 to 19. The Rollins yearlings piled up a lead early in the game and were never headed. During the closing period Rollins ran in a number of substitutes who carried on the fight and piled up a still higher lead.

The Rollins Rats have not lost a game to any other college freshman team in the state, having defeated both the Southern College and the Stetson University yearling combines twice each.

In jumping away to an early lead, the Rollins Rats by accurate and fast passing kept the ball well into the Florida territory while occasional shots at the goal proved successful in keeping the score mounting ahead of the Gator count. At the end of the half the count stood 16 to 6 in favor of the Baby Tars.

Coming back strong in the opening minutes of the second half the Gator cagers worked the ball down the floor repeatedly only to lose it and have it drop through the Rollins goal from almost impossible angles. During the closing minutes of the

HOLT OUTLINES PLANS AT ALUMNI LUNCHEON

The Angebilt Hotel was the gathering place last Saturday, February 20, of more than 200 representatives of Rollins College in the annual Alumni dinner. The gathering represented the largest assemblage of alumni to attend the annual dinner ever known in the history of the college. Ray Green presided, and Hamilton Holt and Irving Bacheller were the headliners on the program of speeches.

Dr. Holt outlined his plans, ideals, and visions, for the future of Rollins. In an address inspired by his great imaginative vision and that

THE ROLLINS OF THE FUTURE

Hamilton Holt said:

"Great men look to the future for inspiration, not to the past."

Washington, Hamilton, Franklin, and Wilson looked to the future. Hamilton Holt, himself, is a man who looks to the future.

So it is that we of Rollins must look to the future for the inspiration in building up of the college. Dr. Holt has said that Rollins will be the ideal small college in the south, if not in the United States. He is a man of ability and truth, and what he announces as his intention to carry out will probably be a reality before many seasons have passed.

But Dr. Holt will not look to the the simple reason that there is no past for his inspiration. And this for past look to which he may. There has never been a college in the country such as he proposes. If his plans are carried out (and there seems to be no apparent reason why they should not for they are based upon true principles and sound logic) they will not be imitations of the past.

Imitations are not great. Rollins is entering into a period which is truly great; thus, its development cannot be an imitation. Practicably ideal, the Rollins of the future is dawning. Its development will be a great work. Since the next thing to being great is to be associated with greatness, let every student of Rollins put his and her hand to the wheel. Individually there will be little glory attached to achievement. But for Rollins—let us build our Rollins of the future.

WE WANT BASEBALL

It is encouraging to note this year the increased and revived interest that has taken place in baseball at Rollins. Last year Rollins did not have a baseball team, but almost any day now a passerby can hear the thud of the ball in the catchers mitt and the ring of the bat as it connects with the proverbial sphere. Rollins is going to have a baseball team.

Critics say that baseball does not pay in the state of Florida. As a paying proposition it is practically negligible. This, no doubt, is entirely true, for countless Florida teams have gone to the wall because of a lack of financial backing. It is this very thing that has made it so difficult for the Florida State League to remain an active organization.

Rollins is not in the game, however, to make of it a paying proposition. It is in to build up the young bodies of red blooded American men. It is not yet certain as to how the team will be financed; but, since players at Rollins are so determined to have a team, there exists no doubt that the team will in some way be financed to the extent of equipment.

The best the students can do is turn out in full force to support their team. If every student of Rollins turned out to the first game, and regardless of their student association ticket, pay fifty cents or a dollar as a price of admission, the team could buy its equipment, and get along thereafter in a right healthy manner.

We have good material out for the team. In fact, excellent material.

Is it worth a dollar to see a Rollins team beat a Florida team, or a Stetson team, or a Southern team?

CONGRAULATIONS

Founders' Week is a thing of the past. Programs were carried out splendidly, cooperation by the students was admirable. Founder's Day marked an achievement in the Hall of Rollins events.

Now, is the time to celebrate. Congratulate your friends on everything—the pageant, the canoe races, the dinners, the banquets, the entertainments. Then congratulate yourself for being one of the "Rollins Family."

HOLT OUTLINES PLANS AT ALUMNI LUNCHEON

other side of his nature, the practical man, he swayed his listeners for approximately thirty minutes with words that brought forth at their close effusive demonstrations of loyalty on the part of the alumni.

Dr. Holt plans to do away with the old policy of instructor quizzing student.

"That is wrong," said Dr. Holt. "If a student is a student, he should be the one to be asking the instructor questions."

He told of the inside working of a newspaper or magazine office—how a subordinate, when he wished to know anything, arose from his desk and came to the editor and asked him to solve his problem. Dr. Holt would have Rollins work on that same principle. Many comfortable gathering rooms, with easy chairs, and fireplaces, and desks. When a student wished to read a text book, he would sit down in an easy chair or a cushioned divan and read. When he wished to write, he would rise from the seat and go to a desk somewhere in the room, wherever it happened to be, and write. The instructor would be at his desk in the room exactly like the editor of a newspaper or magazine sits at his desk, and whenever a student worked under difficulty, he could go to the "editor" and ask him for aid.

"Thus, you apply practical life conditions to education, and something is accomplished. If a student is dilatory, the instructor will know just as certainly as the editor of a newspaper knows when one of his reporters is not on the job. "Then, if necessary, that student can be taken into another room and quizzed."

Dr. Holt's idea revolves around the association of the student body in small groups. He believes that environment and surroundings are all-conductive to study.

"What strikes me as being pitiful to the extreme," said Dr. Holt, "is to walk into a school room and see row upon row of desks and chairs—nothing but desks, and chairs."

The plan of Rollins chief executive is indeed ideal. Yet, there is enough of the practical in his makeup to know that whatever Hamilton Holt goes after to accomplish is usually accomplished. If not wholly, then in a great degree.

Irving Bacheller gave a delightful talk on Rollins—the support that should be given Rollins, the willingness that people should manifest in giving.

"One reason why I like the people of this community is because they are constantly asking me to contribute to something," said Mr. Bacheller. "If they didn't, I wouldn't live here."

Mr. Bacheller supplemented Dr. Holt's statement that, when it was announced to what lengths the trustees had gone to help in the drive for Rollins, people would be surprised and gratified.

Mr. Short, who is working with Dr. Holt in his drive to make Rollins the ideal college of the south, also gave a talk and introduced Dr. Holt in a way that thrilled his hearers.

Arthur Schultz, introduced by Ray Green as "the leading citizen of Winter Park," gave a few words on behalf of the loyalty of the alumni and expressed his sincere faith in the growth of Rollins.

"Lady, could yer gimme a quarter to get where me family is?"

"Certainly, my poor man, here's a quarter. Where is your family?"

"At de movies."—Ex.

K. E. NEWS

Pledges of the Kappa Epsilon, Fraternity of Rollins College, entertained Friday afternoon at a valentine bridge party, at the Winter Park Golf Club.

The color scheme of red and white was effectively carried out in club decorations of red streamers and hearts. Each pledge wore a red rose on her shoulder. Heartshaped boxes of candy, ranging in sizes according to place won, were awarded to Miss Florence Bumby, high score Miss Eloise Arms, second; Elizabeth Atkinson, third, and Eva Thompson, booby.

Following the bridge game the guests were entertained with an original stunt in which the "Queen of Hearts" brought greetings to the K. E. girls from every country. The costumes of the girls taking part were quaint reproductions of the native dress of each country.

Refreshments of heart-shaped sandwiches, fruit salad and tea were served.

The guests of the Kappa Epsilon pledges were the active chapter, a number of the alumni, Miss Mary Robinson, Mrs. David Fisback, Mrs. Don Cheney, Mrs. Leroy Giles, Mrs. Harry Kelly, Miss Jean Wagner, Miss Virginia Davis, Miss Florence Bumby, Mrs. O. L. Sutliff, Miss Dixie Hill and the honorary members of Kappa Epsilon who are: Mrs. J. K. List, Mrs. F. W. Cady, Mrs. W. D. Freedman, Miss Eleanor Flood, Mrs. Walter Rose, Mrs. Irving Bacheller, Mrs. D. K. Dickinson, Mrs. A. E. Brewer, Mrs. McQueen, Mrs. Blackman, Mrs. H. F. Harris, Mrs. Hamilton Holt, Miss Lela Holt, Mrs. Elba Johnson, Mrs. Vera Crandel, Mrs. Draymus and Mrs. Gartland were also guests of Kappa Epsilon lodges.

Receptions and dances have proven very popular this past week. The annual reception given by the President and trustees of Rollins College which occurred last Saturday evening was a delightful affair. Cloverleaf was artistically decorated with shrubbery, making it look like a real garden. The walls were entirely covered by green branches and the Cloverleaf girls were the flowers of this setting. A large number of guests were present who were received by President and Mrs. Hamilton Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bacheller, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Tilden, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Caldwell. Refreshments were served about nine-thirty after which the town guests left, leaving the floor clear for dancing. Music was furnished by the college orchestra.

The Charleston was furnished by the Rollins students who have become proficient in this dance. Everyone enjoyed themselves to the utmost and the student body thank President Holt and the trustees for their good time.

PSYCHOLOGIST HERE

Dr. Baker, professor of psychology at the University of the South, spoke briefly in chapel Tuesday morning. Dr. Baker is an eminent psychologist, and Rollins students are indeed fortunate in having the opportunity to hear him speak.

BEACHAM IS SCENE OF
PHI ALPHA FROLICKERS

Friday evening, February 19, at 8 p. m., the Beacham theater was invaded by the Phi Alpha fraternity in mass formation. The 25 front rows were reserved for them, and to the laugh-provoking production, "No, No, Nanette," was added the enthusiasm and virility of a battalion of "collegiate boys."

The three-days annual reunion of the Phi Alphas is one of the features of Founder's Week at Rollins College, and the fraternity members gathered in large numbers to renew old ties and enjoy the events arranged for them.

On Saturday at 1 p. m., they attended the annual luncheon meeting of the Rollins Alumni Association. The fraternities of the campus were represented at various sections along the long banquet table, and Phi Alpha ably represented itself.

At 6 p. m. Saturday, the annual dinner occurred at the Phi Alpha House, at which President Holt was the guest of honor.

Saturday at 8 p. m. the annual business meeting was held and the election of new directors for the board of the Phi Alpha Association and election of president, vice-president, and secretary treasurer.

SWIMMING TEAM BEGINS
TRAINING FOR SEASON

Tuesday afternoon the Rollins swimming team got under way for the first time this year following a call from captain Calhoun for all eligible material to be on hand at the appointed hour. Those who answered the call were Paul Hilliard, Elbert Winderweede, Cleland Van Dresser, "Buddy" Goodell, Ernest Zoller, Herbert White, Monroe Arroyo, Jack Evans, and Ray Moore.

A wealth of raw material has reported. Much of it is very promising. Captain Calhoun and Hilliard, last year's men, will constitute the nucleus around which this year's team will be built.

It will be recalled that the team of last year came back from its season with two wins and two defeats. Considering the fact that coach Peeples began only last year to build up his team, that was a remarkable showing. Calhoun met defeat only twice in the breast stroke, while Hilliard established a state collegiate record of 25 and 2-5 seconds for the 50-yard free style.

A beautiful cup now rests in the trophy case as a result of their victory in the Fort Pierce meet.

Last year's chief handicap lay in the lack of a well-rounded relay team. Much is expected this season of such swimmers as Arroyo, White, while others, including Goodell and Van Dresser, who have not yet "shown their stuff."

Meets are being arranged with Miami, St. Petersburg, Indialantic, and probably the colleges and the university.

Mr. Skidmore: "Well, my dear young lady, didn't you ever hear of the Mayflower Compact?"

Marjory Mitchner: "Oh, is that the new Djer-Kiss product?"—Ex.

"ON ONE HAND FORCE; ON THE OTHER REASON"

Hamilton Holt addressed the people of Winter Park last Sunday morning from the pulpit of the Methodist church on the subject of world peace. For more than an hour, the President of Rollins gripped his audience with flowing words steeped in sound arguments for the cause of world peace.

In a biting piece of sarcasm, he told of Rhode Island—that little state which held the proud distinction of being the last to enter the colonies, the last to sign the constitution of the United States. Then he depicted the situation of the United States—holding aloof from world affairs; fearful of entering into the League of Nations; afraid to "enter into foreign alliances" with European powers. Of those countries which at present are not members of the League, United States rank with Chile, Peru, Afghanistan, Ecuador, and others of the extremely insignificant powers of the world.

"I sometimes think," said Dr. Holt, "that the United States is the Rhode Island of the world."

Dr. Holt is perhaps the greatest living exponent since the time of Woodrow Wilson of the idea of peace. He wants peace.

"Peace can be established by only two methods," he said. "On one hand force, on the other, reason."

Heretofore, the states of the world have established peace by war. Hamilton Holt would have the peoples of the world establish peace hereafter by reason.

DR. HOLT ADDRESSES SARASOTAN AUDIENCE

"America and the World" was the subject of President Hamilton Holt's address at the Mira Mar Auditorium at Sarasota last Sunday night, when, under the auspices of the First Presbyterian Church, Dr. A. E. Barnett, pastor, he was greeted by over twelve hundred people, which was said to be one of the largest audiences ever assembled in that city.

President and Mrs. Holt left Winter Park last Saturday for his down state trip and returned last night. En route he lunched with former students in Bradenton and Tampa and while in Sarasota attended dinners given by the Rollins alumni of that city and by the Prince and Princess Cantacazene.

In introducing President Holt before the Sarasota assembly, Dr. Barnett said: "Among the recent newcomers to Florida of national and international renown is a man who has distinguished himself as a publisher, as an editor, and as an orator. He is a man of affairs whose ability as a great leader is known far and wide, a friend of presidents and of the people. We count it a rare privilege to have with us tonight Hamilton Holt, who has undertaken another role in the drama of his life, a new act in his career, the presidency of Rollins College.

"Away up in the most beautiful part of Florida is Winter Park, something more than a suburb of Orlando. In this ideal community is Rollins College, which has already wrought many fine things for Florida.

"Rollins College has a great name. It has already done a good work. But it is only in its infancy although it is the oldest college in the state. From its infancy Hamilton Holt will carry Rollins College to a splendid maturity and make it an institution of surprising excellence, thereby giving it a leading place in the galaxy of our great institutions."

The substance of Dr. Holt's address was as follows:

"Seven years ago this minute I was present in a room in Paris listening to the reading of the first draft of the League of Nations covenant by Woodrow Wilson," Dr. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, prefaced his address last night before a capacity audience at the Mira Mar Auditorium, recalling that memorable night at the close of the Versailles peace conference, at which sat the leading statesmen representing practically every nation of the world.

Two things are uppermost in Dr. Holt's heart, according to his statement, Rollins College and world peace. After briefly announcing his plans for the upbuilding of the college of which he has recently become the head, Dr. Holt informed his listeners that the memory of his days as a war correspondent and the significance of the date, February 14, had prompted him to discard his originally planned address and to informally depict some of the scenes which he had witnessed during the hectic years when "our young men were fighting to win the war" and how our old men acted in winning the world for peace."

"There are French names which America will never forget," Dr. Holt asserted. "In those campaigns America's youth fought, bled and died to make the world safe for democracy and carved for themselves an everlasting crown of glory."

Dr. Holt was present as a correspondent during several of these drives and narrated several personal experience relative to his experience in the trenches.

"In 1919 I was again in France" Dr. Holt continued, "this time not as a war correspondent, but as a journalist at the peace conference. As Woodrow Wilson rose from his seat to read the covenant before sailing to America on that memorable night of February 14, he was facing the two most cynical audiences in the world, diplomats and newspaper men. Looking older and whiter than I had ever seen him, bent and broken with the cares and toils which only a man who works and dreams in molding the destinies of nations can know, he was still the commanding and leading figure at the conference and there was not a moment but that I felt proud to be an American.

"The draft was read in an even, steady tone, but as our President began his argument for its acceptance, a tremor of excitement ran through the entire conference and not an ear but what was unconsciously tilted to catch every word of that eloquent address. That night he sailed for America. The Versailles peace conference was over.

"When Wilson arrived in this country a great turning point in national affairs followed from which time there has been a marked downward step in American politics and a moral slump which is felt in this country today.

"At that moment, when the eyes of the world were on America, a policy of selfish isolation was adopted and from that moment, international co-operation changed to international competition.

"Not until Armistice Day three years ago did I see a faint glimmer of hope. On that occasion when America's unknown soldier was laid to rest in Arlington cemetery, there seemed to have sprung a change in the spirit of the people. The throng that darkened the stadium and dotted the landscape for miles around and amid the pomp and ceremony attendant to the interment of the dead soldier with all the honor and homage which the greatest nation on earth could bestow was imbued with the same patriotic feeling which led thousands as if by a magnet on that former chief, Woodrow Wilson, and with its cheers and hymns, made him to know that not all was forgotten.

"I am not here to argue the merits or demerits of the League of Nations, although, if called upon I could do so. I will simply conclude by telling a story, a parable which embodies the history of our country over a period of years which you may easily guess. I have no pity for the unknown soldier who lies dead at Arlington or for the thousands who sleep in Flanders. Rather I envy them. I pity the American people who haven't carried out their part in the program of the human race for which its brothers fought and died."

FRESHMEN WILL JOURNEY THRU SOUTHERN STATES

Rollins Baby Tars, yearling champions of the state of Florida, are making preparations to leave sometime this week on a three-weeks tour thru Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, and Florida. They will meet all comers, although games have been scheduled both in and around Asheville, and Chattanooga. In fact, the tour will be somewhat a repetition of Sherman's march thru Georgia.

It is planned to travel, not on the train, but in Coach Talman's big Ford truck, outfitted comfortably to take care of eight men. The trip will be a real outing expedition.

The Baby Tars have defeated every college team in the state. Their record is marred by only one defeat, which they received during an "off" night at the hands of the Lakeland High School quintet. They have expressed themselves as being not at all averse, during their trip, to play any team that challenges their ability as basketballers, which, to say the least, is a cocky expression when one considers that the so-called tour will envelope six states and perhaps a seventh.

They are determined to leave only victory for themselves and defeat for the enemy in their wake.

FINLEY BALANCED CAST IN "THE CIRCLE"

One of the most noted and finely balanced casts that has appeared in any recent motion picture is presented in "The Circle," which is coming to the Theatre next Monday.

The production was directed by Frank Borzage for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and is one of the best of the many successful screen plays that this young director has made.

Eleanor Boardman offers a fine portrayal as the young wife. Three of the most noted character actors of the screen, Alice B. Francis, George Fawcett and Eugenie Besserer form a triangle which supplies a light vein to the picture. Malcolm McGregor as the young lover and Creighton Hale as the methodic young husband are convincing.

Eulalie Jensen and Otto Hoffman have character roles. The continuity was prepared by Kenneth Clarke. Chet Lyons was the photographer.

MAD RUSH FOR ST. ANDY LEAVES CHAPEL MANLESS

Andy again perambulated across the college campus with disastrous effects on the dignity of the chapel services. The cry that the Evens were sporting the patron saint, accompanied by the bolting of the chapel doors was the signal for a general stampede among the men. The Evens formed a fighting defense but a few of the Odds having won through the line and down the stairs were again confronted by a puzzling problem. Two cars, both manned by Evens, were pulling out from the curb in opposite directions. There was no indication as to which held the sacred effigy. The baffled Odds were left staring futilely after the vanishing machines.

Time passed. Rumors circulated that all was not well. The Evens had been trailed to their secret cache and St. Andy had fallen into enemy hands.

The following day, Alumni Day, an escort of Odds conducting the venerable gentlemen, hung him to the wall of the Hall which bears his name Sic Transi Gloria. The Evens for the first time no longer held the upper hand.

At four o'clock that afternoon, the Odds made good use of their five minutes grace in taking to the tall timbers with it.

There was an ominous silence in the ranks of the Evens.

After holding the sacred personage of Andrew Carnegie since the first of the term, it seemed impossible that they were to allow it to pass from their hands without a struggle. Nor did they.

More time has passed.

A bronze disk bearing the profile of one Andy Carnegie is no longer in the possession of the Rat-Junior combination. How come, since when, and why for? Ah ha! We'll let the Evens answer that.

EMINENT SPEAKERS TALK AT SANDSPUR BANQUET

gram of the evening was carried out, the main subject being The Journalists Field.

Paul Hilliard serving in the capacity of toastmaster was largely responsible for making the evening a success through his pleasant and efficient manner of introducing the speakers of the evening.

The first speaker of the evening,

Mr. William A. Colledge, gave his views of "Journalism as the author sees it," at the same time imparting valuable advice for the beginner in that field. Being a successful author and lecturer himself, his bits of advice were eagerly listened to.

President Hamilton Holt followed Mr. Colledge and gave his ideas on the subject as the Editor would see it. In his talk he spoke of Ed. Howe as being the ideal editor of the way.

The subject from the viewpoint of a Pedagogue was ably covered by Prof. Herman F. Harris, head of the English Department of Rollins, who stressed the point of new methods of teaching, and the need for bolstering up the daily paper.

The Delphian viewpoint was given by Mr. Eugene Buzzell, associate editor of the Sandspur, and covered the topic of the two roads of Journalism and the future of the college man in that field.

Mr. Ira Johnson covered in a pleasing manner the early epoch of Delphianism in connection with the Sandspur, when journalism was unknown as a profession.

Between courses a musical program was given by members of the faculty of the Rollins Conservatory, Miss Lela Niles, piano, Miss Gretchen Cox, violin, and Mrs. W. B. Johnston, flute.

period, Coach Howard Talman, of Rollins, sent in an entirely new team, who continued the fast passing game set up by their predecessors.

Ernest Zoller, captain and center for the Tar Babies, carried the brunt of the fight, accounting for a number of field goals and ranging over the entire floor in his pass work. Moore and Goodell at forward, together with Reeves, who relieved Goodell, proved unerring in their tries for the basket and the score mounted steadily until at the final whistle it stood 32 to 19 in favor of the Rollins squad.
