TARS SUFFER DEFEAT IN ROLLINS-SOUTHERN GAME

LAKELAND, Nov. 20—Sweeping around and passing over the Tar line, the Southern Moccasins defeated Rollins here today, 35 to 0, in the annual grid battle between the two schools.

The first quarter was evenly fought neither team gaining any apparent advantage. In the second quarter Southern scored twice. In the opening minutes of the period, the Moccasins mixed up end runs, off tackle and the aerial game for a continued march from their own 40-yard when Galloway went across for a score, and then kicked goal.

The Moccasins scored again during the middle of the quarter. Galloway ran 25 yards on a delayed off tackle and a reversion of the field. Galloway repeated a moment later to score the second touchdown. He followed with a goal for point.

$200 OFFERED IN PRIZES TO SOUTHERN COLLEGIANS

THREE AWARDS OF $100, $65, AND $35—ALL STUDENTS ELIGIBLE

ATLANTA, GA.—The Commission on Inter-racial Co-operation, with headquarters here, is offering three cash prizes aggregating two hundred dollars for the best papers on the subject, "Justice in Race Relations," submitted by students of Southern colleges during the present school year.

In case the prize winning papers shall have been delivered in college periodicals during the present school year, the prizes will be, respectively, one hundred dollars, sixty-five dollars, and thirty-five dollars.

Contestants will be free to choose any phase of the subject; but other things being equal, preference will be given to practical discussions of prevalent conditions and attitudes, with suggestions for their improvement. Papers should not exceed 2,500 words in length and must be in the hands of the Commission on or before April 15, 1927.

Further information and suggested reading list may be had from R. B. Eleazer, Educational Director, 409 Palmer Building, Atlanta, Ga.

PHI OMEGA PHUN

Helen, Estelle, Beata, Grace and Freda were among those motoring to the game at Lakeland Saturday. Do they like grapefruit? I'll say they do.

We are glad to have a new member in our family—Helen sez all that packing was worth while after all.

Norma spent the week-end in Windermere. That seems to be a mighty good place.

Four tickets for Sarasota!! All off for Thanksgiving.

Dot, Grace and Beata are certainly good cooks, as reported from the dinner last Sunday.

THANKSGIVING

Shall we take but a day for rejoicing,
Shall we take but a day for the feast
But a day for the whole recounting
Of the blessings that never have ceased?

Full many an hour is consumed
In the study of civilization;
And many a minute entombed
In the depths of a French conjugation.

From such trivial tasks as these
We turn in this period of time
From Time's clenched fingers to squeeze
A few precious moments sublime.

Then we will try in our blundering way
To give to our maker the thanks
That are due for the gifts that he gave
And his help which we never lack.

Now it seems to me but fitting
That throughout the following years
We make every day a Thanksgiving
And fill it with love, not fear.

LITTLE THEATRE OPENS WITH "QUALITY STREET"

The presentation of J. M. Barrie's "Quality Street" last Wednesday evening by the Little Theatre Workshop of Rollins College was enthusiastically received by a large audience. The whimsical humor and sweet pathos of Barrie was ably interpreted by a cast of fifteen "workers."

Miss Dorothea Thomas as Phoebe Throssel presented a veritable Barrie heroine with all her light affectations. The scene in which Phoebe, an old maid, impersonates a young butterfly niece at a ball was especially well done. Her emotional changes from the character of the old maid to that of the supposed niece were adroitly and delightfully executed.

Valentine Brown, Phoebe's lover, was intelligently portrayed by Mr. Harvey Warren. His characterization of a young man who is attracted to the two old maids because of their quaintness and then falls in love with one of them, was well sustained throughout the play.

Miss Mae Blair skillfully presented the sympathetic older sister whom Cupid had deceived.

Each of the other characters was played with a touch of Barrie's whimsical humor. One of the features of the play was the excellent co-operation of the members of the cast which added a great deal to the finesse of the performance.

The cast was as follows:

Fanny Willoughby, Annie Campbell; Mary Willoughby, Anne Hathaway; Susan Throssel, Mae Blair; Henrietta Turnbull, Gladys Wilkinson; Phoebe Throssel, Dorothea Thomas; Patty, the Maid, Katherine Humphreys; the Recruiting Sergeant, Frank Sterry Abbott; Valentine Brown, Harvey Warren; Louisa, Grace Jaquith; Isabella, Evelyn Green; Charlotte Parrot, Anna Belle Walker; Ensign

All those connected with and eating in the Beanery express their sincerest gratitude to the Dean for his efforts toward bettering that place on last Monday evening.

FRENCH STUDENTS FORM NEWEST CLUB ON CAMPUS

On Monday night a group of French students met in Knowles hall with Prof. Feuerstein and Madame Bowman to form La Cercle Francaise of Rollins College. The plans as set forth by Prof. Feuerstein are to have a club with a true French atmosphere overshadowing and permeating its activities. Plenty of fun is promised to its members in the form of French songs, dances, games and plays. Prof. Andrews, who has an excellent command of French, will assist the members in learning the songs. As there are eighty-two students studying French, La Cercle Francaise should not lack for members and enthusiasm.

A temporary chairman was appointed to start the machinery towards the forming of a constitution which will be presented at the next meeting to be held Wednesday evening, December 1, at 7:30 in Knowles hall.

La Cercle Francaise offers the chance to all French students to enjoy French customs and ideas and to taste "la culture francaise." Under the guidance of Madame Bowman a wee bit of France will be transplanted to the Rollins campus which will be ready to welcome Baron de Constant when he arrives. After the Cercle is well established negotiations will be opened in regard to joining L'Alliance francaise, a national French organization.

A cordial invitation is extended to all students in the French classes to become members and help to make this club the peppiest and most enjoyable one on the campus.

Have you noticed the broad and happy grin on the faces of all the Alpha Omegas lately? We admit, we're happy—our pins have come at last.

Julia went home again for over the week-end. There must be lots of attractions down that way.

One of our members surely must be crazy about football for she bummed all the way to Sanford to see the game. But then, she ought to be interested—look who's on the team.

ROLLINS PROFESSOR IS HONORED BY PARIS BODY

Rollins college is always proud when an honor comes to one of its members for we know that in proportion to its worth that honor reflects its light upon the school. Accordingly it was with great pleasure that Rollins received the announcement, made by Dr. Carrothers, that Dr. T. P. Bailey, one of our members, albeit a member of the faculty, had received favor in foreign parts. Dr. Bailey has been offered an Honorary Membership in the Academie Latine of Paris for his work in psycho-therapy. All of us know a little of the great battle Dr. Bailey is waging for truth and for mental health but it makes us feel good to know that others are continuing to keep their eye on him since he has come to Rollins. We are glad to report that he plans to accept this honor and that Rollins, through one of the greatest of her individuals, is to be represented in that august body of learned men.

ROLLINS ALUMNAE HOLD MEETING IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, PA.—The Hotel Schenley was the scene of a delightful dinner dance on the evening of November 6th, following the Pitt-West Virginia game. The affair was planned and efficiently carried out by Louis "Ted" Carroll, Rollins '23.

Mr. Carroll, who is a well-known Pittsburg business man, got in touch with other Rollins Alumnae in the Tri-State district and his plan of a reunion was heartily approved.

The party attended the Pitt-W. Va. football game and then journeyed to the Schenley for dinner and dancing. "Em" Emery and "Pete" Lenny, two well known alumnae, enlivened the evening with interesting reminiscences of the old days at Rollins.

Mr. Carroll, Sap. Draa, Slim Lepert and Homer Parker, all added their quota to the discussions of the evening.

At the close of the festivities Mr. Carroll voiced the hope that the affair might be made an annual one, and that next year's get-together would see many more old "Tars" and "Tar-ettes" among those present.

Those enjoying the evening were: Messrs. Louis Carroll, Cecil Draa, Homer Parker, Lynville Leppert, Grover Emery, Pete Tenny, Frank Howard, Gus Williams, French Anderson, Misses Gladys Holliday, Illene Donelley, Margie Quinlan, "Bee" Williams, Val Emerald, Astrid Lahger, Madeline Bolger and Beck Howard.

"Unassuming yet mighty, sharp and pointed, well-rounded yet many-sided, assiduously tenacious, yet as gritty and energetic as its name implies, victorious in single combat and therefore without a peer, wonderfully attractive and extensive in circulation; all these will be found upon investigation to be among the extraordinary qualities of The Sandspur."

WISCONSIN'S EXPERIMENT STATION

Wisconsin, long an innovator in political circles, has established an experiment station in college education. With a student body of 125 a new college with the State university opens this fall under the guidance of Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, ex-president of Amherst College. This college is part of the College of Letters and Science and came into being as a laboratory for testing new curricula and teaching methods.

An all-university study commission, of which Dr. Meiklejohn was a member, suggested the undertaking. The general plan to be followed was outlined by President Glenn Frank in an address last spring. Dr. Frank would do away with the elective system which he believes was adopted as a refuge from "an increasingly unmanageable mass of modern knowledge." He believes the student should be "exposed to a broadly concered and coherently organized body of general knowledge during some definite period of the college years that precede the intensive specialization of graduate study and professional training." The specific plan originally proposed by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn suggested that "we might find our way out of the confused wilderness of unrelated specialisms, not by any formal synthesis of modern knowledge in a curriculum but by devoting the freshman year to the comprehensive study of a single historic episode such as the Greek civilization, setting the freshmen to reading the literature of that period, and, under the friendly guidance and stimulation of a faculty of men who were masters of special fields, taking that civilization to pieces, seeing how it worked, what forces animated it, and what germs of the future were thrown up by it." His assumption was that in a year of roaming within the catholic boundaries of that singularly fruitful experiment in civilization the freshmen would see and handle most of the beginnings or early forms of modern knowledge and life. He suggested that the sophomore year might be devoted to a similar study of some other and later historic episode, say English civilization in the nineteenth century, or maybe our own American civilization, the assumption here being that the students would doubtless be led during the sophomore year to draw comparisons between the ways different peoples go at the job of building and administering a civilization, and to discover what kinds of civilizations occur when different sets of factors are present. This is, of course, an adaptation to higher education of the project method that has been worked out in primary and secondary education. And there at least is this advantage in taking a situation out of the past rather than out of the present—it will stand while you study it."

The experimental college will enroll only those who volunteer for the work. New men's dormitories on Lake Mendota will house the student body. The tutorial system will be used. After the sophomore year students will take regular work in the College of Letters and Science.

GERMANY INTRODUCES RADIO COLLEGE

At the university town of Jena, under the auspices of the German Department of Education, there is being established a "radio school," intended especially for the better training of skilled workers. Through special correspondence it has been learned that this unique working men's college is being enthusiastically supported by university, commercial and industrial circles.

Young workers all over the country are being invited to take a four years' course of instruction in the college, the whole course being divided into lower, middle, and upper grades. The students will have to pass regular terminal tests, and at the conclusion of the course, if they succeed in satisfying the examiners, they will obtain diplomas.

From Jena, the sending station will radiocast systematic, commercial, and technical sciences, economics, and modern languages. Each week a prescribed program will be sent, but wherever possible the lectures will be based on textbooks which will be in the hands of students while listening in.

As comparatively few working students will be in a position to purchase expensive receivers, radio classes are being formed in towns and villages throughout the country, and wherever the number of candidates is large enough to warrant it, the necessary apparatus will be installed at the expense of the state. In all such cases the education department will appoint an auxiliary teacher to supervise the classes on the spot. It is expected that the new radio school will be ready to open early in autumn.—School and Society.

The following is a sign upon an academy for teaching in one of the far Western states:

"Freemna and Hugs, school teachers. Freeman teaches the boys, and Hugs the girls."

IN PRAISE OF LADY NICOTINE

(With apologies to whom apologies are due).

Hail to thee, Lady,
We salute thee;
May thou be ever with us;
Our comfort in time of sorrow,
Easing our burdens;
Our companions in time of joy.
Delighting our hearts;
Soothing our nerves;
Our aid in time of trouble,
Our standby in time of work,
Helping us to do well;
Our true friend always.
For when your pleasant haze surrounds us
We are comforted;
The frazzled nerves quiet;
The brain becomes clear;
Troubles are banished,
And life again seems pleasant.
Even when despair drags us down,
Our spirits seem to rise
And be bouyed up,
Even the smoke of the pipe
Drifts slowly upward.
To thee we will make a sacrifice,
A burnt offering;
And the smoke thereof, (which is thee),
Arises; then we will worship thee.
Truly thou art not set as high
As other gods which we worship:—
Money, Women, Power,
Honor, Sport orf Righteousness.
Many there are who deny you,
Who call you wicked;
Yet we, thy true devotees,
Will praise you always.
You hurt our lungs,
Harden our arteries,
Weaken our hearts,
Yet we love you, nor would we cast you out.
Give us then thyself,
Sweet, pleasant and comforting,
And be with us always,
Even unto death.

Tramp: Have you a piece of cake, lady, to give to a poor man who hasn't had a bite to eat for two days?

Lady: Cake? Isn't bread good enough?

Tramp: Ordinarily, yes, madam, but this is my birthday.

Dot Crosby: What's that? (pointing to red spot on trousers).

Spic: Oh, that's part of the Baby Grand Theatre.

"Did you inform father you intended to marry me?" asked Kate.

"Yes," answered Ham. "All he said was that he wasn't very acquainted with me and he didn't see why I should tell him my troubles."

One of the prettiest parties of the season was given Friday evening in the Parish House. Mrs. Avery, the Sigma Phi house mother, honored Jean Wagner, prospective bride, at a reception which was a most delightful social event. The honoree was fittingly praised as a charming character by Dr. Taintor, librarian at the college, and Mr. Frank Sterry Abbott then took charge of the entertainment. Two little costumed pages brought out, one by one, pictures representing old songs which were promptly guessed by the audience and rendered by invisible musicians. After Miss Wagner had received the hearty good wishes of all, punch and cake was served the guests by the girls of Sigma Phi Sorority.

SIGMA PHI NEWS

Sigma Phi wishes proudly to announce as a member Miss Martha Willimon of Greenville, S. C.

Gladys betook herself and her graceful poses home Sunday after a week of indisposition. She will return straightway after Thanksgiving.

Miss Frances Mallory of Mt. Dora was Dickie's guest for the week-end.

Murders have been avoided by the institution of a "date" list, so that the members may safely wear Cathleen's fur coat without argument.

Loads of things happened Sunday. Leila had her 18th birthday and received many pretty gifts and a wonderful chocolate cake. Bobbie Floyd Draa dropped in during the afternoon on her way through to Titusville. The members turned out for the Lakeside tea later on and voted it indeed a most attractive "at home."

The chair brigade breakfasted royally at Barbara's Sunday morning. Gladys and Rusty, Sally and Bob Burhans reaped the reward of virtue.

Mrs. Raymond W. Green entertained at a bridge tea on Tuesday afternoon of last week at her home on Lake Osceola, honoring Miss Jean Wagner, whose marriage to Mr. Earl Shannon will be an event of Thanksgiving day.

Miss Wagner was presented with a luncheon set of Titian ware.

LAURA RANDALL ENTERTAINS

Jean Wagner was the guest of honor last Saturday afternoon at a delightful bridge party and shower given by Laura Randall at her home, "The Ripples."

She was presented with a Lustre Tea Set which will take its place among the other lovely gifts she has received.

Several hands of bridge were played, at the conclusion of which, Isabel Green was presented with a novelty ink well for high score. Mrs. Elba Johnson received the consolation.

Wednesday night, November 17, Prof. F. S. Andrews gave another one of his interesting talks on History of Music over W.D.B.O. He had with him at this time seven of his best Conservatory students who illustrated a thirteenth century rond, "Summer Is Acummin In." Those taking part in this illustration were Hazel Darlington, Elizabeth Atkisson, Miriam Boyd, Alvera Barbor, Grace Jaquith, "Rusty" Moody and Elsworth Bassett.

Tuesday night, November 16, Miss Cox again treated Winter Park with one of her lovely violin solos—this time it was the beautiful "Prize Song" from "Die Meistersinger" by Wagner. This is a delightful way to start a lecture and the lectures wouldn't seem right without some member of the Conservatory faculty to start things off.

Sunday morning, Elizabeth Atkisson sang a beautiful soprano solo in the Congregational church. She gave Joyce Kilmer's lovely poem, "Trees," which was set to music by Elizabeth Harbison Davis. Keep up the good work "Libby." Your voice has certainly improved a lot and we all expect more soon.

Another one of our students is also doing nice work in the vocal line. Hazel Darlington sang at the Parish House Monday afternoon for a Children's meeting. She sang the well-known "Slumber Boat" and "Cradle Song" by Schubert.

ALPHA OMEGA MUTTERINGS

Dorothy Kinsey has gone home. We all miss her just terribly, and surely hope she will decide to return after Christmas.

Saturday night we all dressed up as kids and went over to Gin and Gerry's. There was one mischevous little boy present (Rosie, by the way) who caused a great deal of weeping and wailing on the part of the little girls by pulling their hair ribbons off and acting naughty. Everybody made a life book for everybody else, and then partook of cocoa, sandwiches, animal crackers, suckers and gum. Rosie got the prize for being the best dressed little boy present and Flora got the prize for being the best dressed little girl present. Oh, and we had guests during the evening, too. Bobbie and Blinker. We'll say it seemed good to see them around here together again.

yard line when Winderweeddle recovered a fumble. Play remained in the middle of the field for the remainder of the half.

During the third period, Southern added two touchdowns. Galloway repeated his sensational running for a 30-yard gain. After a series of passes and end runs, together with line plays, Green carried the ball over and Galloway kicked goal to make the score 21 to 0.

The next touchdown was the result end runs, off tackle plays and the aerial route which sent McPherson over by a fraction of an inch. Galloway kicked goal. The final score of the game came early in the fourth quarter with off tackle smashes and the aerial route.

At the close of Dr. Carrothers' lecture Tuesday evening, the Rollins College Episcopal Students interested in organizing a club met at the Parish House. Dr. Thomas outlined the plans and purposes of the club and acted as chairman until the election of officers. The officers elected were president, James Airey; vice-president, Cathleen Sherman; secretary-treasurer, Katherine Hosmer and chaplain, Dr. Thomas. Martha Willimon, chairman of the naming committee, made her report stating that after discussion of various names, they had decided upon the Episcopalian club as more descriptive and less confusing. The standing committee for social activities and for membership were appointed. It is planned to have two meetings a month, one for business and discussion and the other a social meeting. There were seventeen active members and three visitors present at this meeting.

OPIE READ MAKES HOME IN FLORIDA

Opie Read, nationally known humorist, lecturer and author, and by many looked upon as the full equal of Mark Twain, has made his home at Howey, near here. Mr. Read, who is thoroughly at home over the entire state chose his home place in the Solid Central Section of the state, a compliment indeed to our beautiful country. Mr. Read states a big factor that determined his home choice here is the wonderful facilities offered for the full enjoyment of the golf game. Mr. Read is an ardent golfer.

While Mr. Read is widely known as a lecturer and entertainer, it is his books that gives him the most notoriety. He is the author of "A Kentucky Colonel," "The Jucklins," "The Wives of the Prophet," "A Tennessee Judge," and other books and brochures. His book, "The Jucklins" has reached the total sale of one and one-half million copies and has been translated into the French and other romantic languages. At present he writes a feature story on golf for the Golfers Magazine, which is mostly humorous but containing enough golf to satisfy the most ardent fan. He also syndicates a "Humorous Discussion of Up-to-the-Minute Topics," in several hundred daily papers throughout the country. Mr. Read knows thousands of people now living in Florida, to whom he extends a hearty welcome to visit him.—Plymouth Driver.

Bod Lord—"Did you say that I stole your miserable dollar?"

Jester White—"No, I said I lost a dollar and I might have found it if you had not helped me hunt for it.

O'Neal—"Say, how did you hurt your hand?"

McCain—"I went to a cigar store to get a cigar and some clumsy goof stepped on it."

"A lady called me handsome yesterday," said one of Rollins professors to his minister. "Do you think it sinful of me to feel a little proud of the compliment?"

"Not at all, sir," replied the minister. "It's the lady who is the sinner, not you."

A schoolmaster wrote the following decision on the back of a boy's report card:

"A good worker, but talks too much."

When the father signed the report and sent it back, the card bore in addition to the signature, this report:

"You should hear his mother."

THE FRAT PIN

He wore his college frat pin,
Just southward from his heart,
And vowed that from that resting place,
That pin should ne'er depart.

Years that passed, still found him
Firm and standing pat;
Still wearing his college frat pin,
In honor of his frat.

One day two eyes confused him,
His high resolve took chase;
A soft voice coaxed the frat pin
From its old abiding place.

They're now in a little bungalow,
With welcome on the mat,
And the frat pin?—fastens baby's clothes,
In honor of his frat.
—Froth, Hullabaloo, Johns Hopkins University.

WHAT IS FAME?

What is Fame?
It is nothing but a fickle nod
Blown idly from a careless mob,
Or a few quickly passing days
Of critics condescending praise.

What is joy?
Oh books and beauty, music, ease,
A woman's kiss on perfumed breeze.
The consciousness of blossoming soul
And freedom from a tawdry goal.

If after death there comes new birth,
What matter tablets here on earth?
If after this there is no life
Why fill the few short days with strife?

—Junior College, '27.

LITTLE THEATRE WORKSHOP

It has been said that most college courses are theoretical and not practical. There is on this campus a department specializing in practical work. This is the Little Theatre Workshop of Rollins College. The Workshop is just what the name indicates, a workshop of the Little Theatre. In it all kinds of experiments in practical work are carried out.

The Little Theatre movement has as its ideal the salvation of American drama. With the coming of the "movie" and the increased demand for high-class scenery and other costly additions, drama has been steadily losing its hold in America. But, with the starting of the Little Theatre movement, drama is regaining some of its lost ground. People in all sections of the nation are becoming interested in the movement with the result that there are thousands of "Little Theatres" from reconstructed barns to $10,000 edifices with all conveniences.

In the collegiate world the dramatic events of the year are starting. At almost every college and university a dramatic organization is beginning to put on its attractions. Here at Rollins, however, we have not a dramatic organization in the usual sense of the word, but a true workshop. We are doing here on a small scale what Dr. Baker is doing at Yale. Rollins students are preparing themselves to be leaders in the Little Theatre movement and for the professional stage. Several of the "workers" have already been on the professional stage.

The Workshop will soon announce its first play which will be presented sometime in November. Be it sufficient for the present to say that the leading lady has played in dramatic work at Smith College and the leading man has played "leads" in the Yale dramatic productions. Supporting them is a cast of recognized talent and Rollins students may rest assured that the production will be not amateurish but of true professional rank.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SNATCHES

Compulsory chapel seems to be a bone of contention among many of the colleges and universities. Another big argument is the subject of hazing. On all sides the battles are raging fiercely. Judging from the exhortations appearing in almost every college paper the college spirit of the colleges and universities of the United States seems to be wholly deficient.

The faculty of Mercer University has, according to the Mercer Cluster, "put on the brake." In other words there will be no further cuts from classes or chapel. Each absence from class will automatically reduce a student's credit one-tenth of an hour. If a student has his absences excused "each excused absence above a week of such absences shall reduce credit by one-tenth of an hour."

The University of West Virginia is very proud of T. Tess Callaghan, a student in the school of medicine. His average for the first semester was 97.647 for 17 hours, while his average for the second semester was 98.143 for 21 hours' work. This is the highest rank ever achieved in any school or college of the university. One hundred and one students made an average of 90 last semester.

At the University of Utah the junior class has adopted corduroy pants as its insignia. No one but juniors will be allowed to wear the said articles.

Four thousand of the 6500 students held a torchlight procession at the University of Washington protesting against the removal of their president, Dr. Henry Suzzalo, by the governor of the state, Roland H. Hartley. There is said to be no reasons for his dismissal.

The presidents of the Colorado state colleges in a meeting held October 4 passed a resolution against the payment of football players. Contending that a man could not work, play football and keep up his standing as a bonafide student, they attacked the paying of men for work which they had no time for and did not do.

The Oxford University debating team is to make a tour of the Southern states this fall. They arrived in New York on October 15. Among the colleges with whom they will debate are, University of Florida, University of West Virginia, and Oglethorpe.

An interesting event to take place at the University of West Virginia October 30, is "Dad's Day." This will give the "source of coin" a chance to see just what the recipient is doing with it.

Gainesville is building a new chemistry building which, when finished, will have cost a million. According to the Florida Alligator it will be the best in the South. The senior Gators are maintaining the old tradition that only seniors may wear a mustache. "How about a ride?" is rapidly becoming a Gator yell, especially if a certain girl requires a Gator's presence or if the team departs to foreign territory.
