The Chautauqua Movement which began in 1874 in upper state New York as a Sunday school assembly spread rapidly throughout the South. A Chautauqua group was founded at DeFuniak Springs, Florida, in 1884, and large crowds assembled annually to hear inspirational and scientific lectures, dramatic readings, and musical performances. This is a photograph, ca. 1913, of the train arriving in DeFuniak Springs with the visitors for the Florida Chautauqua. The original photograph is owned by Mrs. Mary Harris of DeFuniak Springs, and the copy was loaned by the John C. Pace Library, University of West Florida, Pensacola.
