ROLLINS DAY BY DAY

Turkey Day is just two weeks off. "Look out ma, here we come."

The Glee club has started off with a bang this year. There were about sixty men who tried out for it. Wonder what Coach Baily would say if he got such a turnout for football in the fall. Now "boys and girls" I ask you!

From the appearance of the mountain of books stacked up in the hall of Carnegie the government printing office must have directed all its efforts towards Rollins the past year.

The freshman football team will mingle with the St. Pete Junior college eleven here tomorrow in their first game of the season. Let's give the Tar Babies our support.

At last the Kappa Phi Sigma boys have been rewarded for their choice of a location for their house. Last Tuesday night the longed-for wreck of the Dinky appeared. A carload of oranges was derailed and almost cap-sized in the lake right in front of the house. The boys let it be know that they were very much elated over their first wreck and hope to see more of them in the future.

Little Theatre Season Opening Bill Pleases

At the hearty endorsement of The Workshop, the Sandspur will attempt to present worth while reviews of what promises to be a very interesting bill of Little Theatre performances. A variety of followers of the Rollins dramatics will be invited to cover programs presented throughout the coming year. In this way we hope to encourage many sided constructive criticisms that will be of real value both to reader and player.

Last Friday evening the Little Theatre Workshop raised its curtain for the first time this year and presented its audience with the dramatization of four one-act plays that included farce, fantasy, history and comedy, thus running the gauntlet of the lighter emotions, avoiding disruption of the audience's mental and

Y. W. Initiates Members At Candle-Glow Service

The new members of the Rollins Y. W. C. A. were initiated Sunday evening, November 11, at the regular Candle-Light Service which is held each fall.

After a Bible reading and short prayer by Flora Furen, the members were welcomed to the Y. W. by Damaris Wilson, president. The Y. W. creed was repeated, then they filed slowly across the stage at Knowles Hall, touching the flames of their candles with those of the members of

SCHUBERT, FIRST SUBJECT OF EVENING LECTURES

A Franz Schubert Concert was presented at the Congregational Church Tuesday evening, November 13, by artists from the Rollins Conservatory of Music at the initial program of the Rollins College Lecture Course.

The evening's entertainment was devoted to the works of the famous Austrian composer, Franz Schubert, in commemoration of his death which occurred just one hundred years ago this week. The various artists interpreted the Schubert music with sincerity and animation, keeping at all times the spontaneity, wealth of melody, and universality of expression which characterize his compositions.

The outstanding number of the program was "Serenade" played by Gretchen Cox, violinist, and Hilda Knapp, harpist. Miss Cox displayed her usual artistry of technique coupled with fine coloring of tone. All the musicians gave skillful and sympathetic performances.

The program presented contained the following:

Trio in E flat (first movement) Gretchen Cox, Violin; Rudolph Fisher, Cello; Helen Moore, Piano.

A—"Who is Sylvia"; b—"The Erklung", Ernestine Wilcox, Soprano; Emelie Sellers, Accompanist. A—"Ave Maria"; b—"Serenade", Gretchen Cox, Violin, Hilda Knapp, Harp.

John Cummins Appointed '28-'29 Flamingo Editor

Members of the Flamingo board have been appointed as follows: John Cummins, editor; Stella Weston, Dorothy Emerson, Wallace Goldsmith, associate editors; Donald McIntosh, business manager.

The first number of the current year will be out on December 1, with later issues appearing on the first of each month.

Chief credit for training the young people who write on the Flamingo in drama and short story should be given to Mrs. H. F. Harris. Mrs. Harris has given unsparingly of her time for the last few years in making this magazine one which critics declare surpasses all student literary publications of the country, even Dartmouth, Harvard and Princeton.

Professor Grover with the able assistance of Carter Bradford has insured the financial success of the Flamingo.

Inter-Class Basketball Games Interest Keen

Tuesday evening, November 13, the sophomore and junior basketball teams met in the gym to fight out the 6-6 tie of last week. Each team was determined to be the winner, resulting in another tie, 14-14.

DOT EMERSON HONORED IN WITTER BYNNER CONTEST

Miss Dorothy Emerson, winner of the 1927 High School Witter Bynner contest and author of "Balancing the Scales" received honorable mention in the 1928 contest.

This comes as an honor to Rollins also. When it is remembered that juniors and seniors of the larger colleges, Harvard and Princeton competed, Rollins can be justly proud of Miss Emerson.

Prof. Wattles Is Speaker On Armistice Program

"The war is not yet ended" asserted Professor Wattles when speaking to students, members of the faculty, and visitors attending the Armistice Day program last Friday morning at the college. The speaker read three poems written during war times, one of which ended:

"Know that the greater war is just begun
Which makes Humanity the nation's nation."

"The Seventh Vial," published in the Independent July 17, 1917, was read. The poem grew out of an incident of July 30, 1914, the day when England declared war on Germany, and Professor Wattles said the second half of it had never been written.

Miss Ling Nyi Vee Enrolls In Rollins Senior Class

When the 1:20 train thundered into Winter Park railway station last Saturday afternoon, it brought to the community two persons of great importance to Rollins College. One was Irving Bacheller, professor, author, and first citizen of Winter Park. The other was Miss Ling Lyi Vee, scholar, traveller and most recent foreign student to arrive at Rollins College.

Within two hours Miss Vee unpacked her trunk, humanized her Lakeside room, and partook of the mysteries of "Gary's Gutter Service." She entered into the business of becoming a Selected Student of Rollins with a zest and enthusiasm truly typical of the Rollins spirit. "Do I like it here?" she said "Oh yes, indeed. Already I love Rollins."

Miss Vee whose home is in Soochow, China, graduated from high school in Shanghai. In 1926 she came to the United States to com-

TAR BABIES TO CLASH WITH ST. PETE ELEVEN

Rollins fans may expect to see a battle royal Saturday, when the Baby Tars meet the St. Petersburg Junior College eleven at the Harper-Shepherd field.

With victories over both the Stetson and Southern Rats under her belt, St. Pete is coming up here in an attempt to continue her success. But the Tar babies are of a different mind. After a long rest, they are rapidly preparing to avenge last year's defeat.

Under the capable guidance of Coach Berry, the Rats have developed into a fast, scrappy, and determined aggregation, one of the best in the state. Tar backers may be assured of getting their money's worth at this game.

Georgia College On Tar Grid Slate To-day

Captain Ihrig and his team-mates make their final bow today on the local field, with Georgia College as the opposition.

Altho the real strength of the Georgia aggregation is unknown, the game promises to be interesting from the Rollins stands because Bailey's gang is given more than an even break to mop up.

Buddy Goodell, Buss Warner, and Bob Burnhans are determined to put out plenty of scrap in an effort to make a suitable football exit before Winter Park fans.

Fighting Tars Lose In Battle With Erskine

The Rollins Tars, still handicapped by injuries, and unable to break up a deceptive aerial attack, lost to Erskine college Friday by a 32-0 score.

The game opened with both teams using many second string players. Neither scored in the first quarter, which ended with big gains by Fisher, Gentile and James.

Beginning the second quarter Erskine drove toward the Rollins goal till it was almost reached. Rollins held for three downs practically on their goal line, punting to their 35 yard line when the ball became theirs. Erskine advanced to the Rollins 15 yard line, scoring from there on a forward pass. Rollins blocked the kick after touchdown and the half ended, Erskine 6, Rollins 0.

With the opening of the second half Erskine put its strongest lineup in the game. Almost at the start an Erskine player broke away with a clear field between him and the Rollins goal with the exception of Goodell, who downed him only inches from the goal line. Erskine then carried the ball over, failed on the kick for goal, and the score stood, Erskine 12, Rollins 0.

Erskine scored their third touchdown after a forward pass, again

The Sandspur

Established in 1894 with the following editorial: "Unassuming yet mighty, sharp and pointed, well-rounded yet many-sided, assiduously tenacious, yet as gritty and energetic as its name implies, victorious in single combat and therefore without a peer, wonderfully attractive and extensive in circulation; all these will be found upon investigation to be among the extraordinary qualities of The Sandspur."

How about the present attitude towards our football teams? We haven't the backing of the Winter Park men, many of the alumni and letter men. They've stopped believing in us. And who's responsible? How much did you contribute towards this tumble of loyalty?

If you are on the team have you always given all you've got? How about training? What are you going to do about it next year?

Or if you play the game from the bleachers do you leave before the final whistle? How much did you bet on the other team last game?

How much do we think of the mother who deserts her children, pleading that they cried too much; that she grew tired of them; that they were sickly and she did not believe they could ever grow up to normal health? And yet the 'backer' offers the magnificent all-absolving argument that the team lost the game Friday.

The right coach and good players mean much towards victory but a strong spirit of loyalty and heart sounded cheering have overcome these. No team is going to fight for an indifferent or inappreciative group.

We have the coach and a spirit in our smattering of players that approached the heroic in the Stetson game. Are you satisfied with the cheering section?

LITTLE THEATRE SEASON OPENING BILL PLEASES

moral equilibrium, and sending it home pleasantly exhilarated after a good digestion of the evening meal.

Millenium Morning made the audience rock with laughter and caused even Miss Ebsen to struggle with conflicting emotions as she wrung her hands over the prostrate body of her lover. Mr. Moody, the Professor, and Mr. Burhans as the Neanderthal Man warmed to their parts most convincingly and adroitly.

In the first scene of the fantasy which followed, Poor Maddelena, the mellow voice of Mr. Sanderson, the lively eccentricity of facial expression exhibited by Miss Mathewson, and Miss Pressey's grace and charm, all conjured up a whimsical unreality. After the descent to earth, Miss Pressey acted with brilliant flashes of emotion, but Mr. Sanderson, by retaining his dulcet tones of voice in the embarrassing moment of ridding himself of his love, failed to be as convincing. Whether the fault of the play or the actors, the lifeless third scene merely afforded the occupants of the Land of Fantasy opportunity for a wooden discussion of the unpleasantness of life in the World.

The next play, Gringoire, dragged to a long-foreseen conclusion in spite of an occasional spark from Mr. Mitchell. The performance lacked spirit and cohesion: lines were recited because they were the next in order; actors scuttled backstage obviously to make way for new arrivals; while one declaimed, the others stood rooted in their tracks, devoid of emotion, with the possible exceptions of Mr. Schmeltzer and Mr. Fuller.

Miss Steinhans increased the tempo of the evening again by her clever recitation of the prologue and her ability to create an atmosphere of intimacy with her audience.

The succeeding excerpt from Romeo and Juliet mystified, yet charmed, and the final scene restored the impression of hilarity, vivacity, and whimsicality. Miss Thomas and Mr. Abbott gave natural and breezy interpretations of the leading lady and leading man off-stage, relieving the delicate sentimentality of Mrs. Kane (Miss McKay) and the old actor (Mr. Jones).

By way of more general criticism one might say: first, that the make-up was far too heavy from the front rows especially on the aged, and destroyed the effectiveness; and secondly, that continuous participations in the play by each individual was lacking. The plays as a whole, however, gave excellent promise of what the Little Theatre Workshop will produce as the new material works into shape.

the Y. W. cabinet. Each new girl received a blue and white badge to signify her entrance into the order.

The Y. W. C. A. is an organization whose prime purpose is to foster a higher cultural and social life on the Rollins campus and throughout the world. With the added help of the fine material which the new members bring to this organization, a year of real service and accomplishment is predicted.

INTER CLASS BASKETBALL INTEREST INCREASING

Neither team had the edge at any time, making the game thrilling to the spectators. Cheering was spontaneous, since the rooters were vitally interested in their favorite team.

Quick, forward, played her best game this year. Beach, side center, cut loose for fast junior passing. For the sophomores E. Arnold, guard, and E. Morton, forward, played good basketball.

The line-up was as follows:

Gaining by a point, the juniors beat the freshmen 21-20, when the third game was played on Saturday afternoon, November 10.

At the end of the first quarter the frosh led 8-2, the second quarter 8-9, with the frosh still in the lead. From then on the game belonged to either team, until the final whistle gave the juniors the game.

ALPHA OMEGA ANTICS

Alpha Omega takes pleasure in announcing Verna Maxson as an active member. We are all so happy to have her now a full-fledged member of the fold.

We were all kids again last Friday night at a Kid party given by Lucille Lanston and Kitty Kimball at Lucille's home in Orlando. First there was a cobweb hunt for lollypops dressed as dolls, followed by all sorts of kid games, contests, and refreshments. Caroline Heine won first prize for being the cutest kiddie, as well as other prizes. We offered to supply her with a truck to cart her conquests home! Flora gave several readings which were much enjoyed by the children.

The season for "Open House" was closed at the Alpha Omega House Sunday. We were glad to receive so many visitors and want you to know that you are always welcome.

CONSERVATORY

An organization meeting of the Rollins College Glee Club was held Saturday morning, November 10, in Knowles Hall. The director of the club, Professor Clarence C. Nice, chose 80 out of 125 applicants to keep on probation during the next four rehearsals, after which 50 of the best singers will be retained. Rehearsals will take place once a week and every member is expected to attend each time.

Many of the voices heard every morning at chapel will be in the club and, to judge by their youthful freshness, Professor Nice has fine material to work with. Under his animated, inspiring leadership we are confident the Rollins College Glee Club will rank among the first of the state before long. The ambition is there, for the organization has hitched its wagon to a star and strives to be victor in the state contest for Glee Clubs. It is hoped this will be held at our own Rollins College early in spring.

So "tune up" members, there is much joy, honor and work ahead of you! While we know your director rules with a firm hand he intends to please you by giving you songs of sweet, flowing melodies, some heavy, some light, a few classics and the semi-classical American song; we feel sure the American folk songs and those of foreign lands, so dear to every heart, will be included in the repertoire.

HARVE CLEMENS DELIGHTS AUDIENCE IN RECITAL

The first of a series of recitals to be given by Mr. Harve Clemens, violinist, took place November 8, at eight o'clock in Knowles Hall. He was assisted at the piano by Alice Clemens.

Opening with Sonata I by Fred W. Rust, he drew from the strings a clear, appealing tone which grew in richness and warmth all through his playing of the eight difficult movements. The pizzicato in Gigue deserves special mention for the extremely mellow, tender sound with the bow and the clearness of tone played by the left hand. The second number, Concerto Op. 26 by Max Burch, was a master performance, rendered with spontaneity and fervor. Especially through the first two movements, Vorspiel and Adagio, the artist expressed so great a wealth of feeling that his rare old violin of the Gunarous make fairly seemed to speak. In his classical dances he gave full sway to his imagination with brilliant color of tone. The audience was most enthusiastic and gave hearty applause, to which the artist responded with a charming encore at the close of his most successful recital. Mrs. Clemens' piano accomplishments were played with great feeling and understanding.

Mr. Clemens has accomplished unusually much in his young life. He started his musical studies when four years of age, specializing in violin. At twelve he began concertizing, and conducted orchestras all through his teens. He graduated from the Northwestern University in 1922 and was elected member of the faculty, the youngest artist ever known to hold so important a position there. Later he became director of the department of violin and theory at the Illinois College Conservatory of Music, Chicago. Among the important engagements he has filled are his appearances with the Symphony Orchestra of Evanston, Ill., and Orlando. Besides teaching a large class of students at Rollins College Conservatory of Music he devotes a great deal of time to his compositions.

K. E. KOMMENTS

It seemed like old times last week-end to have Margaret McKay, Elizabeth, Edna and Trixie back with us.

Nick and Sarah had a pleasant surprise when their mother and Ruth Paine made an unexpected visit. We were very glad to have them as our guests.

Our coffee seemed to make a hit with Frank Abbott Saturday night.

Louise, Evelyn, Pet and Aurora entertained Saturday night with a bridge and poker party. Prizes were won by Katherine Hill, Miriam Sprague, Cattie Graham and Bob Stevens. Lucille Tolson and Jimmie Armstrong were awarded cut prizes.

Tuesday evening Nick and Sarah Dickinson were hostesses at a bridge party. High prize went to Lois Walker and cut and low to Alice Burdett and Pauline Bumby.

A group of us enjoyed Al Jolson in the "Singing Fool" Tuesday afternoon.

Pinkie still wonders why Mat wouldn't bring her sewing down by the fire.

KAPPA ALPHA BALONEY

The Alpha Psi Chapter of Kappa Alpha entertained a select group at a well appointed stag dinner and dance Wednesday evening.

The Six Black Eagles, Florida's favorite dance orchestra supplied music and novelties for the occasion.

Roses and goldenrod carried out the fraternity color scheme in the decoration.

The guest list included:

Misses Gwen Bartholemew, Eda Soule, Lucile Tolson, Virginia Fisher, Alice Burdett, Margaret Balliet, Peg White, Kay Sherman, Helen Cavanaugh, Marjorie McMichael, Mazzie Wilson, Elizabeth Morton, Virginia Wilder, Aurora McKay, Lucy Leroy, Marguerite LoBean, Mildred Slemmons, Pet McKay, Dorothy Livingston, Mr. Tom Spencer, Horace Miller, Jim Armstrong, R. Pickard, G. Pickard, Robert Boney, John Welch Fisher, Harry Orr, Joseph Gentile, Carl Dann, Bill Palmer, Don McKercher, Ralph Scanlan, Wm. Reid, Jno. Clark, Gordon Robbins, J. Green, Chester Ihrig, Donald Justice, Ernest Zoller, Alfred Rashid, David Schnuck, E. R. Goodell, Robert Proctor, J. Graham, Sidney Stoneburn, Ernest Upmeyer, James Wright, Kenneth Eaton, Ralph Ewing, Harrie and Bob James, Stanley and Kenneth Warner of Crescent City, Sidney Carlson, Sidney Ives and W. B. Crawford of Orlando, also several Kappa Alphas from the University of Florida.

Balloons and confetti added to the fun of the evening.

The house was beautifully decorated in flowers by our house chaperone, Mrs. Gage.

SIGMA PHI SEZ

We enjoyed the plays Friday night immensely and congratulate every member of the cast for their splendid work.

Billie Mulligan—or rather, Mrs.

Joe Stover, of St. Petersburg stopped in to see us last week, spending Thursday night at the house.

Frances Adcott of Orlando was a guest at the house Friday night.

Kay Sherman and Helen Cavanaugh were hostesses at a delightful buffet supper at the Sherman home, Green Gable, Wednesday night. After the supper was served, the guests amused themselves at dancing or bridge.

Sunday morning Sotie, Mazzie and Cath Green entertained a group of girls with a breakfast at the Little Grey House in Maitland.

This week was a re-union week for Sigma Phi—Holland came up from Bartow, Glad from Edgewater, Betsy from Jacksonville, Kay from Ft. Myers, and Helen Massey from Winter Garden. Kay and Helen are both teaching school, Holland and Betsy are doing stenographic work, and Glad is city editor of the New Smyrna daily paper.

Anne Hayes, a student of Southern college, spent Sunday night at the house.

KAPPA PHI SIGMA NOTES

Saturday night Ronald and John took the weekly trip to Daytona, but instead of returning in the Phord they pulled up in Ronald's Diana. And Monday Rodman departed for Sanford and arrived Tuesday morning in his new Hupmobile.

The great Magruder and one of his friends from S. A. E. came to see us over the week-end. We saw Charlie about one and a half times while he was here, as he was kept busy doing the campus, the Profs., and his friends.

plete her education in American colleges and universities. She attended Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia, for two years, and also took two summer sessions at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Last summer Miss Vee was a student at Columbia University in New York City. Through the International House there she made the acquaintance of President Holt and accepted his invitation to become a member of the Senior Class at Rollins. She expects to specialize in English until her graduation next June, when she plans to work for her master's degree in education at Columbia and then return to China for a teaching position.

Miss Vee explained that she likes the American mode of dressing, but nevertheless she always wears the costume of her native country. She is also thoroughly in favor of the American custom of nicknaming people. So, although her full first name is Ling Nyi, "Just call me Ling", she says good-naturedly. "Or maybe just Vee."

PROF. WATTLES IS SPEAKER ON ARMISTICE PROGRAM

"Were President Holt or Professor Lavel present, perhaps they would tell you that you are to finish this poem yourselves," said the speaker.

"How are you to do this? By your personal attitude toward democracy, not by the spirit of I am as good as you, but you are as good as I; by learning the difference between fact and opinion; and by reading more than one newspaper every day; and by bringing about a world law that no man under forty years old can fight with a machine gun, poisonous gas, or other implements of war."

Professor Wattles stated that he observed the last-mentioned war-preventative suggestion in a recent newspaper and invited those present to make use of the fifteen large dailies, subscribed for by the journalism class, in room 105, Lyman hall. The room is open at all hours of the 24.

Mr. Wattles said in closing, "We must learn how to put the practices of Jesus Christ into the activities of our daily life." His poem entitled "The War at Home," which concluded the speech, was an appeal that all people think in terms of humanity instead of the nations.
