students to vote on constitution

FLorida technological university will soon put a constitution to a student vote. The recently completed constitution will have a final approval by President Millicent before it can be voted on by the student body.

The framework of the constitution was made up of about a dozen interested students. The Governing body last quarter has been busy since the Christmas holidays writing FTU's first proposed constitution. The constitution under the chairmanship of G. W. Mcpherson has been meeting at least once a week and has held over 13 meetings.

The constitution has been working closely with Dr. Brown, Vice President for Student Affairs and Dean Sarchett, Dean of Women to assure that there will be no problem getting the final approval from Dr. Millicent.

Mr. Turner said, "The constitution will be presented to the students as a vote in the first or second week in February." The men's dormitory meetings is that we've been trying to take time and do a good job.

tyes holds rush

39 nine girls will be eagerly checking their mailboxes today as YES tyes announces new pledges. According to Sandi Whidden, president of the organization, "The 39 applications have been narrowed down to 19. This was set for the morning Jan. 13-17. During the week they had been in rough in pairs with the 19 original members and their sponsor, Miss Joyce Campiti, to get acquainted with each other." The club is not currently affiliated with a national sorority but eventually would likely to be. However, they have made no final pronouncements for the organization.

The officers of YES are: Sandi Whidden, president; Mary Lou Rajchel, vice president; Nicki Jackson, recording secretary; Nancy Allen, corresponding secretary: Cindy Smith, treasurer; Diana Person, parlementarian; Franke Bender, chaplain, and Connie Graham, historian.

As a community service project, YES is assisting the Central Florida chapter of the "Children's Aid Society." At the workshop we will be working with mentally retarded and handicapped children," Ms. Whidden said.

"We are proud to be the first active sorority on the FTU campus," she said.

Spaish tour organizing

The Department of Foreign Languages of Florida Technological University is presently organizing a study period in Spain to learn about Spanish culture and civilization. It is to be at the University of Oviedo in Spain, and anyone who has a desire to learn the Spanish language for at least two year.

Members of the faculty of the University of Oviedo are going to teach such topics as Spanish history, art history of Spain, current literary and aesthetic trends in Spanish literature and the Spanish language. Those persons who are interested in obtaining academic credits may choose to do so and may obtain up to, eight quarter hours of credit transferable to Florida Tech.

A chartered air craft will depart from Tampa on June 30, 1969, for a non-stop flight to Madrid and will return on August 24, 1969. Our hotel of choice in Central and Southern Spain, ignoring the city of Oviedo, is centrally located in the region of Asturias and within tening distance of Central and Northern Spain.

While negotiations with the University of Oviedo in Spain are taking place and approval is being secured for this program, interested persons may obtain further information from Dr. A. G. Cervone, Acting Chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages at FTU.
New Citronaut Designed

The Citronaut is an orange and lime figure commonly known around the Florida Tech campus. Many students have expressed fear that FTU will eventually be known as "the Fighting Citronauts." University leaders have recently denied this rumor saying that the Citronaut is not even a temporary mascot and it was never designed for the purpose.

Another more sophisticated Citronaut has been designed. The new one pictured here still possesses an orange body although the lime head is gone. Added to the Citronaut is a few more human features to help him appear a bit more realistic.

Mr. Norman Van Meter of Louisville, Kentucky, co-designer of FTU's official seal and brother-in-law of President Millican, designed the original Citronaut more or less as a joke. When a cover was needed for the student handbook, Dean Brown suggested that the Citronaut be used and the suggestion was approved. The handbook cover was probably responsible for the misconception that the Citronaut would be the mascot for Florida Tech. Because his original Citronaut was locally circulated, Mr. Van Meter re-designed it into a more appealing figure in case the Citronaut was to be used at any future time.

The selection of an official mascot for FTU is expected to take place sometime around late winter quarter or early spring quarter. A system of student participation in choosing a mascot has not yet been decided. However, student government has been suggested as the most logical group to handle the operation. In that case, the mascot selection will have to wait until student government officers and members have been elected and the organization is operating smoothly.

If FTU students desire to have a mascot in the near future without having to wait for student government, a responsible organization of students might be formed to proceed in the mascot selection. The group could handle the submission of suggestions and set up a final voting procedure. It has also been suggested by President Millican that the faculty and staff of FTU be allowed to participate in the naming of a mascot.

President Millican wishes to make it clear that he has no personal interest in trying to see that the Citronaut be adopted as the FTU mascot. Millican has asked, though, that several suggested mascot names be submitted to him through proper channels also to assure that much care and deliberation be exercised in the mascot selection since it is something that will be used permanently by Florida Tech.

Talent Show To Spotlight FTU Amateurs

Have you any particular talent or aptitude that can be legally demonstrated in public? If so, this might be your opportunity to bathe in the footlights, hear those shouts of "Encore!" and dodge the flying cabbage. For the Village Center Student Activities is organizing the "Unoriginal Amateur Hour" and now has everything but the amateurs.

Now, before you go brushing up on your old soft-shoe, a few things bear mentioning. First of all, it is expected that you be as much a student, although your accomplishment (go girls, New York Dolls) that will be used from the outside. Secondly, you had best go down to the main desk at the Village Center between Jan. 27 and Feb. 3 to sign up and receive further information.

To add further excitement to the venture, not one, but four awards will be given for exceptional performances. Total value of the Grand Prize is around $50.

Sigma Sigma Y Enters Basketball

One of FTU's newest fraternities said this week that they were going to enter the basketball phase of the winter intramural sports. At their weekly meeting it was organized that there were enough interested parties to form at least one team. They will be starting practices as soon as possible.

Also on the agenda was the appointment of two members to represent Sigma Sigma Y in the Interfraternity Council. This new organization was formed to help all the fraternities with their programs and problems.

The only problem of fire prevention as reported elsewhere in this issue, makes us wonder if Orange County officials ever really appreciate the efforts of the State Road Department to resurface their portion of Alafaya some months expected that a road in the miserable condition (see picture above) of personal interest in trying to see opened. We would not want to rush widening or resurfacing Alfaya Trail within the next five years. Quarter or early spring quarter. A many activities included the age,Alafaya

FTU MISREPRESENTED
(Continued from Page 1) we were invited to appear as representatives of FTU. We were asked by Dr. Brown to talk to her so we did... Mary Lou called herself the "most reserved of the group." She said "Miss Poor did not have enough 'student leaders' to make an adequate showing.

When we asked if he thought the students seemed harmless, as Miss Poor to Clendenin said "Bluff!! No, I don't think so. She just asked us questions which were not pertinent to FTU! I think the problem is we didn't tell her what she wanted to hear?" Mary Lou Rajchel added, "We all appeared interested through the entire interview. We may have been reserved but we were definitely not harmless."

Mr. Turner commented: "Needless to say we are pleased with the article by Peggy Poor. I disagree with her, we were not harmless and uninterested. The four of us did not always agree and we told her. But she kept asking the same questions over and over, and once you answer a question, you don't like to keep repeating yourself. At least I don't."

All the students were in agreement about many aspects of the interview. For example, all the students agreed that they were not interested in anything that sounded like a typical interview. They felt that their questions were not expected and that they were not asked to focus on specific topics. All the students agreed that Miss Poor continually dwelled on the same questions, and also agreed that she was trying to compare FTU to other colleges which is not right.

ELIZABETH ADAMS FROM - The Editor-in-Chief and the Associate Editions of the FTU.

We suggest, Miss Poor, that you obtain some recent facts before you attempt to write any more articles about FTU. If there are any many errors about FTU, a university which has a poor reputation, it may be a good idea for you to look into your office, we wonder just how factual the rest of your articles are about colleges that are harder to reach...

It should be noted that we tried all this week to contact Miss Poor at the campus for comment. On Monday we told her she was unavailable and on vacation, but that she would definitely be at work on Wednesday. On Wednesday the Sentinel informed us that Miss Poor's vacation had been extended for a few more days.

On Movies

By ROBERT E. HOLINGER

"Bullitt" If you're a Steve McQueen fan you might as well bag the rest of this review. In this flick, our boy is again behind the wheel of his Mach 1 Mustang. He pilots a Mustang through a sequence that could only be a hot driver's fantasy of the San Francisco Olds fans will remember similar stints of this kind performed by Vingie Hilts and Thomas Crown.

The plot of this movie isn't much. Essentially, Lt. Frank Bullitt, is assigned to protect a mob defector. The pigeon is the prize of an ambitious politician (Robert Vaughn) who is going to glean some quality points by producing this star witness before a Senatorial Investigating Committee. Add to this a couple of hit men, a cop, and you've almost through the film. Sensational violence becomes a slapdash and it goes something like this: hit men blast and pigeon, "bullitt"-like cop blends in with the pigeon and kills him. Then runs over MIT Walk-a-ahh-sidewalk.

Show Set

FTU’s Motha is in actuality the University Drama Club. Under the auspices of Dr. David Nays, “Motha” stands for “Muderig Orange Theatre,” which is a reference to Shakespearean theatre in London.

The show will be produced by Motha which will be staged sometime during the Spring quarter. Motha’s meeting times are yet not decided and meetings will be announced as they are decided. The drama club still requires interested students to join.
