A very important part of student learning processes is the food service available on any given campus. In our instance the student body as well as the boarding students have a Food Committee who is constantly on the alert to make the best service better. Your Food Committee is composed of Marc Reed, Chairman, Julie Vatch, Secretary, and John Holsinger, Associate Editor. In representing the composing students, Ron Studdard and Jim Costello, men's dorms, and Julie Veatch, girl's dorms. Each of these people serving on your Food Committee is a student, to see personally that you are served better.

Many changes must be made to see that more people may be better served more readily. In order to do so, students are asked to contact either Studeard or Veatch to be added to the committee members so that they may be more effective in their work.

Each week an additional effort is made to go "all out" for the Wendell. The Wendell was a defeated week, enjoyed by all Thursday, February 10. Sunday, February 20, Sunday, March 2, all boarding students were treated to "Breakfast in bed" at Lake Claire and will climax their fun by eating barbequed deer collided with our deer. This is your Food Committee at work. We hope you like it. When you have a complaint, do not hesitate to let us know. Also, if you have an idea for special events, maybe yours will be forthcoming very soon.

Another important and well received feature sponsored by your Food Committee was the "Charm Bag" near exams, which will be coming your way again in the near future. Incidentally, Good Luck!

Very soon all boarding students will enjoy a superb sit down banquet. You have been - and always will be - in the "pitchin'" and we promise not to throw a curve.

Julie Veatch
Secretary, Food Committee

On Movies

Tom Noott, President of the Village Center Student Activities Board, has announced that the first annual Spring formal will be held May 3, 1965. The dance will be held in the Park Plaza in Orlando. Though the band has not yet been announced, Noott indicated that the music will be provided by a large group, though not a full orchestra. The admission will probably be $3 per couple.

A fact that can’t be ignored is that the fair has come to town. This eagerly awaited annual event is a must for everyone. Only society’s outcasts and aberrations don’t rush down to the fairgrounds to nobly give up a dollar to even gain admission to the “greatest show on earth”…which isn’t saying much. And once you’ve spent a few dollars at the fair, you’ve probably been entertained.

One of the first sights that pronto pupos you at arriving at the fair is the pre-recorded screaming and hollering coming from people getting the thrill of their lives on the rides. So naturally you’re heart skips a beat, a wave of fear flows through you, and you immediately rush to the midway to join in the fun. Of course, you bypass the rides designed for the kiddies like the merry-go-round, the little boats, and the broken down roller coaster.

You are after the sophisticated amusement provided by the bumper car, the 100 foot high double Ferris wheel, and the roller coaster guaranteed to have sent at least 12 people to their eternal rest.

The most popular rides are the centrifugal delights. They are the ones that go 60 miles an hour in a circle, while at the same time spin in a vertical plane, up and down, and reverse direction every 20 seconds.

Some are equipped with cars that rotate on their own axis in addition to all that other movement. If you see people as they come off the ride, you can easily tell they had fun by the extreme lack of color in their faces, their inability to walk, and the presence of the previous meal on their clothes.

The various sides shows serve to reiterate the proves, “There’s a sucker born every minute.” With such attractions as deformed ladies, Frieda, the Human Snake; authentic medieval bloodletting; and the hilariously grotesque fat boy, how can anyone help being superbly entertained? And then there are the spin houses which have been revamped into “psychedelic trips” complete with sugar cubes that are, unfortunately, just sugar.

Also in the sucker category are the games offering fantastic prizes that cost six cents less than the cost of playing the game. A familiar chant of the colorful… and gawdy… backers is “Step right up. Win a prize for your sweetheart. You have the skill; we have the equipment.”

You had his vocabolary doesn’t include the word, “rigged”. But then if they did mention that the games are fixed, more people would probably play.

What fair would be complete without food? The fair comes stocked with candy apples, popcorn, cotton candy, hot dogs, pretzel pugs, greedy spoon cafes, and ice cream. The fair is also complete with a first aid station and a stomach pump.

However, most people never get to stay at the fair as long as they would like. The fair is cut short by lack of money because their pockets have been picked or their purses have been stolen. This is Portable, The Prophet. Peace.

Teacher Profile

Former Garden Editor at FTU

Professor Roland Browne (r) shows his newest book to Dr. Homer C. Combs, chairman of the English department. Photograph by Harry Kennedy

Roland A. Browne, instructor of English, French, and writing at FTU, is the author of the book "The Intelligent Dog's Guide To People-Owning." This book was written in collaboration with his sheepdog, Greyfriars Flannel Peppermint, commonly referred to as "Maisy." It is a people book for dogs which covers training, management, and understanding. It was published in 1967 by Funk and Wagnalls, and turned out to be a best seller in its category. Walt Disney Productions bought the movie and television rights, although they haven't used them as yet. Shortly after the book's publication, Browne and Greyfriars Flannel Peppermint appeared on "To Tell The Truth." They also appeared on a noon show in Nashville.

Before coming to Tech, Browne taught at Austin Peay State University in Clarksville, Tennessee. Prior to that he was a civilian educator of troops for the department of the Army at Fort Campbell, Kentucky. Browne received most of his college education at Austin and received his Bachelors and Masters at Queens University in Kingston, Ontario.

After gaining his degrees he spent two years in Europe where he attended the University of Paris and the University of Grenoble, then he spent a summer at the University of Heidelberg. Then he went to work for two years at the University of Cincinnati where he was editorial assistant on two writing assignments. The first was the "Dictionary of Education" which was sponsored by Phi Delta Kappa, an education fraternity, and published in 1945 by McGraw Hill. He also worked on "A Guide to Colleges, Universities, Professions, and Schools," which was published by the American Council on Education in 1945.

From 1943 - 1945, Browne spent two years in the army working for military intelligence. He served in Normandy, was wounded and discharged because of these wounds.

From 1959 - 1967, he was the Gardening Editor of "Womans Day" magazine where he wrote a monthly column. His first book, "For Better Gardens," was published by Doubleday in 1964. It was a Garden Club Book selection.

His third book was published in January of this year, it was entitled, "The Commonsense Guide to Flower Gardening," and was published by Funk and Wagnalls.

Browne is currently completing a book on roses under contract with Funk and Wagnalls, it should be complete in about one year and will be released simultaneously in both the US and England. He is also working on a textbook for expository or non-fiction writing intended for college students.

He has recently compiled a volume of his poetry entitled, "Louriah To The End."
