A University library, whether the association is through membership or attendance, has many advantages. It is efficient, for instance, to go many days without learning something new on an any subject, many things truly profound. Also, the people one is likely to meet are equally diverse and the introductions to them can be spectacularly revealing.

It is not unusual for a book to be donated to the UCF Libraries by an author. Actually it’s quite common. It is also a frequent happening that the author will themselves, bring the materials to the library, especially if the author happens to be a UCF faculty or staff member.

Inez Bracy made the long trip to Orlando, landing on a late Saturday evening, and visited the campus on Monday morning. She arrived in the library to the most recent book, Australian Commercial Law. In Perspective. As we showed her around our department, the library as a whole, and the campus, she was able to impart an insightful knowledge of Australia culture we would otherwise have been unable to learn from our students.

Support your UCF Libraries

Giving to the library is easy. Go to our Make a Gift page, complete the form at the bottom of the page, and send your contribution in the return envelope provided. If your email does not support html, please visit us online at ucflibraries.ucf.edu. For confidential inquiries regarding ways you can become a part of the UCF Libraries Association, please contact Dwain Teague at (407) 823-5982 or at dteague@mail.ucf.edu.
