Gas, Alcoholic Studies Due

Dr. Robert Humphrey, Director of Continuing Education, recently announced that the Florida School for Alcoholic Studies will be held at FTU August 17-22 and that the Florida L.P. Gas Association will hold a school at Tech to upgrade the knowledge of their members from September 17-22. Members of the L.P. Gas Association will assemble at Tech for lectures and discussion sessions.

The Florida School for Alcoholic Studies is designed to provide training on alcoholism problems for a road category of professional persons and community leaders. The purpose of the course is to provide training in the techniques of working with the alcoholic and his family.

The director of the Alcoholic Studies program is Dr. Charles M. Uncovic, chairman of the department of sociology at FTU. Uncovic and Dr. C. B. Kiesel, chairman of the communications department, and Dr. F. D. Sabin, associate professor of education, will lead panel discussions and workshops. A former Tech faculty member, Dr. Richard Neel, will also participate in the workshops. Neel is now the associate dean of the college of business administration at Georgia State College in Atlanta, Georgia.

Those participating in both of the continuing education programs will live on the campus and community residence halls during the sessions.

Regents Fail To Confirm Tenure

At a recent Board of Regents meeting the Regents failed to confirm the tenure of profes-sors in the State University System. The tenure was not denied the professors but the motion to grant the tenure was not brought before the board several members of the board thought it would. State University Chancellor Robert B. Bollinger said the tenure proposal was "sensitive area. It's essential that academic people have a sense of job security when they've proven they deserve it."

According to George King, assistant to the president here at FTU, none of the professors at Tech are presently up for tenure as a sensitive area. The tenure that the Regents have no intention of granting any more tenure is at the present. Mautz said it was "extremely unfortunate" that the nine-member board "didn't have sufficient confidence in the tenure of the university chancellor, in the university presidents, and in the chairman."

The present tenure system, according to Mautz, was "blasted" at the meeting, evidently giving some people the impression that the Regents have no intention of granting any more tenure at the present. Mautz said it was "extremely unfortunate" that the nine-member board "didn't have sufficient confidence in the tenure of the university chancellor, in the university presidents, and in the chairman."

Allen, Rollins Appointed

Dean Charles N. Mccarrell, College of Humanities and Social Sciences at Florida Technological University, has announced the appointment of Dr. William D. Allen as professor of sociology and Dr. Jack R. Rollins, Jr. as associate professor of psychology.

Allen, a native of Evansville, Indiana, received the A.A. Degree in 1945 from Evansville College, Evansville, Indiana; the B.S. Degree in 1946, the M.S.W. in 1949 and the Ph.D. Degree in 1963, all from Ohio State University.

Allen has been the recipient of several scholarships and awards and has authored publications and reports. His current professional memberships include the Academy of Certified Social Workers, the American Association of University Professors, American Sociological Association, Council on Social Work Education, and National Association of Social Workers.

Chris Schmidt, Summer Senator from College of Humanities and Social Sciences, was elected President Pro Temp for two meetings while Walt Komanski, SG President was away on active duty. Later Schmidt used his presidential prerogative and vetoed Resolution 1-5, dealing with the tuition payment for executive student government positions.

Specifications of a proposed expansion which will more than double the size of the present Village Center are currently being submitted to architects, who will submit final blueprints for the project. Construction of the addition is slated to begin this fall with completion of the food service area scheduled for the fall of 1970 and total completion projected for early 1971.

The addition is being financed through a loan of $1,025,000 from the Federal Agency of Housing and Urban Development and an additional matching grant of $325,000 from the state.

The proposals as outlined in a 20-page report prepared and submitted by Kenneth D. Lawson, Director of the Village Center, call for two dining areas, totaling 9,600 square feet, a 3,600 square food service room, and several covered patios on the first floor. Upstairs, plans call for an all-purpose room with projection facilities and portable stage equipment. Specifications also call for the area to be partially convertible to an art gallery.

Further proposals for the second floor include a suite of offices for the Director of the Village Center, a suite of offices for FutUin, yearbook, and magazine editors and staffs, and a suite of offices for student government. In addition there will be offices for Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic Council, Women's and Men's Residence Associations, and offices for other student groups as yet unannounced.

Other specifications call for two study-lounges, each 20 by 30 feet and several meeting rooms.

According to the proposal submitted by Lawson, the purpose of the addition is to complete the Village Center to "make the entire area a hub of services, activities and programs to involve the student through the Interfraternity, Panhellenic, and Residence associations outside the classroom."

Well Worth Waiting For

BY JOHN GHOULSTON

There are some things which people are forced to do which no mortal should be asked to attempt. One such thing is the obtaining of a key for a door on campus. I recently attempted to obtain a key for the Future office in the Village Center. The procedure last year was to approach the director of the Village Center and ask for one. If you had a reason for possessing such a key it was granted to you on the spot. Evidently, however, this system was too simple for the great minds on campus as another system was devised. The new system is more in keeping with University policy, that is, "I'm not real sure, sir, you'll have to check with Mr. X about that procedure." At any rate, the story you are about to read is true. Some things have been spiced up a bit to make things more exciting, but I didn't need much spice.

It all began when I faced the Director of the Village Center (who seems to be aging quite rapidly, and I am beginning to find out why) around the first of July to ask, "When are we getting our keys back, which were supposedly taken up for inventory?" The poor man suddenly waded a pale white as a strange look entered his eyes. I could tell I had just gouged a rather deep cut on the sloth. "Keys?" he whispered, "Keys, Keys, Keys?" "Ah yes, Keys?" He sat silent for a moment, like I had just awakened him from a pleasant dream. "I no longer have charge of the..." A silence again filled the office, finally, I heard him mumble "Keys." He then seemed to muster all the courage he could and slowly explained to me that he could give me a form which he would have to sign which I was to take to the security office. He handed the signed form to me (there were four or five copies, starting with a white one, going to a pink, then a blue, then green, and so forth) and patted me on the back as he ushered me out of the office as he said, "Good luck, John, I sincerely hope you make it all right." I found out later that one member of XBA was sent on a similar mission and has not been heard from since.

I arrived at security the same day (I was a little better off than the VC.) and with my head held high I handed in, totally unsuspecting what I was about to encounter. I was greeted by a rather egghead man, who explained to me that he was not certain but he thought I needed to take the form up to the Director of the Physical Plant (Since I was in the basement, of course, the Director of the Physical Plants' office was on the fourth floor.) I went up to the office and found that the director and his secretary had left for the day. (I will admit that as close as I can remember it was close to 3:30 p.m.) I took a quick vote by a show of hands and decided to wait until later to put the matter further.

Wait! I did, in fact until last Tuesday did I wait. I was finally remodeled after being locked out of the Future office with no one having a master key available for about the twentieth time. I climbed up to the Director of Physical Plants' office (I actually sent one of the associate editors in to do this) and I suppose the first time was only a delusion which he would not suffer. Delusion it was not, however, for when work reached me again I found that it seems I also needed the signature of the Vice President of Student Affairs. (There was no space for this signature but it must have seemed like the thing to say at the time - I was then supposed to take the signed form back down to security.)

Upon reaching the Vice President's office I found he would be back sometime next month and I wanted to wait I could have a wait over by the wall. Then one of the secretaries (whom I have found are often far more logical than their superiors) suggested that I have the one who has signed tell the Dean of Men, which seemed like a good idea and the Dean of Men cordially did.

Worth Waiting For

Keys? Keys? Keys?

Well, I'll tell you... It's because of the ridiculous, obscure, inscrutable attitude he's adopted!

"We motored thirty miles to get here," he said, "and by golly we're going to stick it for an hour or two!"

Pearson Stands Behind Column

He went on to say that Pearson and his colleague Jack Anderson have been warned about this sort of thing time and again.

In a reply to the Sentinel article, during an interview last week, Drew Pearson replied, "Kramer is a man who has indulged in bull-doing tactics. He likes to threaten. He doesn't think he should be allowed to do this."

Kramer was quoted in the Sentinel as saying that "as usual Pearson has said only what he wants to. He has always been down on conservatives, then he takes tips from his Liberal friends and won't touch them."

New Handbook Seeks Approval

The student handbook for 1969-70 has been revised and if approved, will be available September 15, according to Mrs. Wanda Russell, who is acting chairman of the advisory committee for Dean Sarchet. The committee is composed of students from each of the colleges.

Mrs. Russell said that the revisions have been completed and the handbook in new form will be submitted today for approval. Several of the changes in the handbook are the addition of the student constitution, the communication process between President Millican and the student body, and a new cover. When asked as to whether the courthouse would be on the cover again, Mrs. Russell replied, "It was not even considered."

Bids Coming
On Food Plan

By SHULTZ

Pre-bidding of FTU's proposed food plan for next year was held Wednesday. According to Bill Bryant, representative for Morrison's cafeterias and head of the campus cafeteria staff, seven companies, including Morrison's, were to bid for FTU's food contract.

"Morrison's terminated their contract with FTU due to a decline in profits," said Bryant. "We (Morrison's) were just losing too much money. Too many students were missing meals."

While interviewing some FTU students, the PittPost heard these remarks: "The service is good, but there just wasn't enough food for the money they were charging," said Mike Stone, a commuting senior.

According to Debby Kerben, sovphonore from the UofF, "The food is an 'epicurean delight'. It may not be kosher but the prices are unbelievably economical and it's always good enough to keep me full."

Dr. Ronald Max, a sophomore from the UofF, said, "I hope Morrison's takes the services."

FEIFFER

by Jules Feiffer

A young lady approached me to ask if she could help me. She said she was a new hire, and that she had just been told to find the "locksmith to your office to make keys."

"Have you the right to call locksmith?" the officer said.

"Yes," the girl went on, "They said they would call me as soon and play hard-rock music."

"You have the right to call locksmith to your office to make keys? Keys? Keys? Keys?

I have the right to have you come and play hard-rock music?

I can't believe this."

"Yes," the officer said, "I hope Morrison's takes the services."

Could the end
be near?

I must have walked around in a daze for a few minutes because the next thing I remember was finding myself in the office of the Director of Physical Plant. The secretary informed me that the Director was at the university with her and she would see that he signed it. She then told me that they would call me as soon as the keys were ready. I asked her how I was supposed to be in the office to receive the call when I didn't have a key but decided instead to stay outside the door all day and when the phone rang to security and see if the key was ready yet.

That is where I am now, sitting in the hall in the VC, wondering why the heck after all that I still have no key.

Oh well, I guess I keep my mind off Student Government. It was once said, "If at first you don't succeed, don't take any more time."

WFTU To Begin
Testing Monday

WFTU, Florida Tech's radio station, will begin testing Monday.
The all-campus station will transmit a test signal from 8 to 9 A.M.
Monday. The test signal will be transmitted over WFTU, which is located at 122.11 on the AM dial.

The signal will be transmitted to all three university campuses and will be heard on campus.

The project is being carried out by the Radio-TV lab class, with plans to expand transmission to the entire Orlando area in the next two years. According to Ysca Bentley, student manager, and Chris Stair, program manager, WFTU will use more student help and anyone interested may contact them.

Patrol Cars Get
Radio Equipment

Two-way radio equipment was recently installed in the campus security force. According to John F. Smith, Superintendent of Security and Communications at Florida Tech, the radio equipment will be installed in all patrol cars purchased by the campus security force in the future.

The communication system had been originally planned for the security force and was delayed in installation because funds were not previously available for its purchase.

While the use of these radios,
radio messages and security force assistance will be improved, according to Smith. They will increase effective operation in time of emergencies and the patrolman will not be required to leave his post in order to deliver messages.
