- Kerouac Coming Soon!

The University of Central Florida Libraries will be showcasing an exhibit that will illustrate the life and times of Jack Kerouac as a Central Florida resident. The exhibit, Kerouac in Florida: Where the Road Ends, will be in display from September to October 2007 on the main floor of the Orlando Campus library.

In addition, the UCF Libraries will commemorate the 50th anniversary of the publication of his On the Road. The August edition of our In Development newsletter will have all of the details concerning the festivities.

If you would like more information concerning donations to the UCF Libraries for projects like the Kerouac exhibit, please contact the office of Library Development at 407-823-5982.

The impact of this conference was so impressive, that according to the Washington, D.C. Tourism Bureau, the conference generated more than $15.6 million in revenue for the local economy. The UCF Libraries presenters inspired not only those attending the conference, but also some tourists who expressed an interest in our organization, putting our university on a national level of recognition.

Washington DC Alumni Gathering

The University of Central Florida Libraries hosted an Alumni event in Washington, D.C., honoring those UCF Knights that have continued their careers in our nation’s capital.

Over 50 guests gathered at Morton’s The Steakhouse in downtown Washington, D.C., and enjoyed great music, food, and a chance to interact with some of our subject experts form our various library departments.

The Library Development Office coordinated this grand event, which brought back great memories for our guests. The UCF Libraries was honored in having the opportunity to share with all of the attendees about our current and upcoming projects. We were delighted in seeing how our Alumni are continuing to grow as professionals, and we look forwarding any assistance that we can offer to them again in the future.
