Dorm Drinking Rule is Brewing

FSU Approves Spirits: Reduces Aliquot Acts

By Nancy Smith

A move is now going on at FSU to permit any resident over 21 to legally drink in the dormitories.

The proposal is being sponsored by the summer Residence Hall Association (RHA) and Student Government has passed a resolution supporting the action. Letters were sent by Angie Yount, summer president of RHA, to President Milliken, men's and women's deans, men's and women's residents in a tripartite, SG president Jim Stringer and RHA president Ed Wightman, listing the reasons for making drinking legal.

RHA made a submission of state laws for the drinking regulations given on page 89 of the FSU Student Handbook. Their reasoning is that Florida allows 21-year-olds to drink legally, and as this university is a state-supported university, they cannot do this. There is a trend, says RHA, in Florida universities, that this allows residents the same privileges as a student living elsewhere, and they cited Florida State and the University of Florida, especially UF's bulletin, as examples. Also cited is the problem of students leaving campus in order to drink, and then driving back, which endangers their lives and others.

Dorm Drinking Rules are Brewing

Although they didn't win, those three lovely girls represented FTU well in the recent Miss Florida Beauty Pageant held in Orlando. The contestants (all FTU students) were, left, Debbie Bacchus, Miss Florida, Orlando, Susan Austrue, Miss Oceola County, and Susan Penn, Miss FTU. Photos by Chuck Sarfel.

Did you know that FTU Student Government is temporarily without a Vice President? A close friend of the students revealed that all 8G members must be carrying a full-time load, and the recently elected Richard Lancaster was lucky to have been given a quick trip to the Registrar's office added four hours to give him the extra hours. Add Depp had been closed for five days.

"Carry On Sonqueen" is the new movie to be shown as part of the Village Center summer program. It will be shown next Wednesday at 8:10 on the Village Center Patio, and is a sequel to "Carry On, Mr. Bowdler," which showed on June 24. Admission is free.

Mrs. Fawcett, Assistant Program Director of the Village Center, really is leaving. Her resignation becomes effective September 9. She leaves for a European vacation August 20, and then returns to go back to school. Her ambition: to become a lawyer.
Can Students Have Say?

With the climax of FTU's second year of operation has come the reality of many positions, more positions than are usually vested at the end of a term. A number of the faculty and staff members who are leaving, or have left, are people that are considered irreplaceable by many, faculty and student alike.

And with the replacement of positions in a university comes interviews, records, and applications. In a university that is as degree-conscious at FTU, this can take a lot of time and trouble.

A number of the people leaving have been instrumental in communication between students and administration. They have been familiar with the problems and attitudes of the students and the (Christmas) and shorter breaks between winter and spring, and spring and fall. But, this Interface between the students and the administration, that were able to communicate with both groups. We are sorry to see them leave. Hank Hill and Jan Summer are two of these people. In their capacities as Resident Assistants at FTU, they have been able to establish communication channels and have been "accepted" by both students and university officials. In addition, C. Barth Engert, Director of Housing, and Patricia Fawsett, Assistant Program Director of the Village Center, will no longer be working with FTU students. These persons also worked primarily with students in their jobs.

But now they must be replaced. Their replacements must be people who can get along and communicate with the students as they did. But it is difficult to acquire this information about a person in a normal interview situation, and impossible to attain on an application blank.

We are under the impression that a committee composed of students, faculty members and administrative officials was set up last year. This committee supposedly met with prospective staff members and aided in interviews.

We suggest that this committee be re-initiated and that it be given a role in the selection of these all-important staff members. They should be allowed to meet, question, and get to know prospective employees. They should not be given a vote but their impressions should be heavily weighted in the final selection.

Students should be given an integral role in the selection of persons with whom they will come directly in contact. It would be wise to give them this responsibility now rather than face the consequences of having staff members who the students cannot get along with, and therefore not communicate with.

Let's Have Even Breaks

After glancing at last year's University catalog we noticed that once again our breaks between terms are shorter than the breaks between terms in the (Christmas) and shorter breaks between winter and spring, and spring and fall. This Interface between the students and the administration, that were able to communicate with both groups. We are sorry to see them leave. Hank Hill and Jan Summer are two of these people. Memorial Wanted

Dear Editor:

Future, May 29, had as its last paragraph, Mr. Leif Johnson: that our war dead be remembered in a short, solemn memorial, just as the names of the dead would be read.

Such a service could be a sincere tribute to the fallen and to the memory of these men, and might help all of us to say: "You have not been forgotten!"

Your plans, Leif, will probably meet resistance, I'm afraid, from some of the "pro-patriot" groups. For some reason, these people don't want to hear the names read, or the people who have given his life to the service, read.

For example, get this! Last November, Mr. Bohnet (7) representative in the U.S. Congress was asked to ask the House to honor the combat deaths, sponsors of H.R. 1500. This bill would subject a citizen to a $500 fine or a year in prison, or both, for the "use" of the name of a war dead, even a memorial service unless approved by next of kin.

For example, when a man marches with a permit, along the Orlando draft board, he has begun to read names of war dead, police decided traffic was too heavy, and the program was canceled.

Politicians and citizens are aflame with patriotism when they talk about a hero and memorialize the incalculable, unspeakable, and -after guilt complex seems to operate, when the dead servant gets a specific name, turns out to be "Bob Everyone, who grew up three doors down the street at the funeral, and gives comfort to the mother, to the grandmother, to the wife, to the son, to the daughter, to the brother. Yet, what could be more touching than the names must continue this killing gone on?"

"Fewer Dead This Week" the headline says. About 125 last week, I note. But think of it - that means ONE MAN EVERY HOUR, MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY, SUNDAY, (we wouldn't want to think about killing on Saturday and Sunday, would we?). Or, for the "silent majority" who prefer things on a businesslike basis, THREE PER HOUR A FOUR WEEK!

Let's just take three fine young education scattered points around the U.S., ever hour next week, and the "pro-patriot" groups, with various "pro-patriot" groups, the ministry, the politics, the armed forces, surpassing the high, the low, the fly-over, the firing squad and get the killing down to a 9:00 o'clock, in a nice neat package! With appropriate myrrh over a period of a few years, we might elevate the level of equality to that of the pagan peoples who sacrificed their sons in their battle for the Godhead, for the Ridiculous? Far-fetched? Cynical? Morbid? Bizarre? Think about it. The next time you "count" come from Saigon, Jonestown, and the mothers' sons. What a terrible thing to think about - the blood counts! come from Saigon, Jonestown, and the mothers' sons. What a terrible thing to think about - the blood counts! are all from Saigon, Jonestown, and the mothers' sons. What a terrible thing to think about - the blood counts!

Overview Blasted

Dear Editor:

Last September, the May 29 issue of the Future, a new column appeared which has been relatively consistent in its negative views toward the new Student Government Administration. I am speaking of Overview written by Kevin Waldworth. Since you may consider Mr. Waldworth a political analyst, it is his obligation to bring particular facts to the attention of the student body. In this case his technique of exaggeration may be viewed as unethical, he has chosen to present his analysis of the events that occur on campus in a manner which is unprofessional. For example, the reference to the Student Government installation banquet as a "sneer at ceremony". Yet a few things must be made clear about the present Student Government Administration which have not been brought to the attention of the students. Both Jim Stringer, Student Body President, and Richard Lancaster, Student Body Vice President, have been working diligently to clear up the confusion left by the past administration. I know that such a situation does exist, but I am here to help the administration. I can only tell you how much Walmarsh and Mr. Lancaster have to do, and I can encourage them for their enthusiasm in the future.

I can understand Mr. Waldworth's feelings since his candidates lost the election. Mr. Waldworth did, I was a flunky supporter, yet, the fact remains, that Jim Stringer is our Student Body President. As students we should be pleased with the Student Government and its administration, not only because of their efforts to give us a chance to prove himself. Those of us who support Jim Stringer are not in favor of Greek domination similar to that which has threatened us, but rather, we demand that we be given a chance to prove ourselves. I urge all students to be analytical of Oversight and articles of similar task.

Sincerely,

Chalotte Scott

Engert Leaves Housing,

Goos to Continuing Ed.

C. Barth Engert, FTU's Director of Housing, is now moving to a newly-created position within the university. He will be FTU Continuing Education director. The position is a completely new one, and involves an extensive reorganization and scheduling of non-credit conferences for such groups as Florida Institutions Alumni and Other Drugs, International Rotary's Internation Night, the Student Affairs' Kiwanis Key Club workshop, and Kewanee. He will coordinate the job as being concerned with "seminars not for credit and intended for the community." Dr. Robert Humphreys, Dean of Continuing Education, defined the job as "developing, organizing, and implementing conferences, workshops, seminars, and conferences in the non-credit area.

Many of these conferences will make use of the facilities at the soon-to-be-completed Ramada Inn on Highway 92, due to the lack of classroom space at FTU.

When Engert was asked why he decided to change his job, Continuing Education, he gave his reasons for the change. "The University Housing extensions University officials plan for more housing for an indefinite period at if, All added that although there is still things to work out in Housing, and new situations arise daily, there are no personal advancement opportunities for him in that position. Continuing Education offers "new challenges and
Watermelon, Movies Planned

A summertime movie-watermelon program has been initiated by FTU Village Council Director Ken Lawson, primarily to serve the greatly reduced number of resident students living on the campus for the current summer quarter that ends August 21. Faculty and staff are invited to join the melon-rakers. While a watermelon is good, the audience can have a pick of seats on the lawn next to the Village Center. The movie, which will consist of a number of classic comedies and a few horror films, will go indoors if it rains.

The watermelon is provided by FTU Food Service, which is planning to serve up some summertime goodies at a giant picnic that Lawson and his assistants have planned on the dining court.

While the movie a melon projects is generally aimed at supplying entertainment to resident students, opening night found quite a few late summer curmudgeons who dropped by to munch a while before heading off to campus homes after evening classes.

The summer movie schedule is as follows:

July 8, Carry on Bogart. (A comedy about what gargantuan do)
    July 15, Master of the World. (Gorillas roar at their best)
    July 22, Munster, Go Home. (He is long live Vincent Price)
    July 29, Mouse That Roosed. (See Peter Sellers and Jean Seberg go)

August 5, Dracula Has Risen From the Grave. (Come with someone you can trust)
    August 12, Th. Treasure of Sierra Madre. (A Humphrey Bogart special)
    August 19, Union Pacific. (To get things rolling before exams)
Barbara Strewick and Joel McCall

The TPIF flying club, Pegasus Pilots, has not limited its flying activities to the airfield. As a public service to the city of Sanford, some of the members went out on Sanford Airport June 27 to repaint the tetrahedron.

Sanford Airport has no control tower or weather information service, so pilots landing at the airport rely on the tetrahedron, because the device is used as a wind direction indicator. The tetrahedron itself is a pyramid of the airport and is perfectly balanced on a pivot to enable it to point in the direction of the wind. A few months ago, a brush fire at Sanford Airport blackened one side of the tetrahedron. This made it blend in with its surroundings, and therefore it was not easily visible from the air.

Herbert Long, Vice-President of Pegasus Pilots, discovered the situation at the tetrahedron when flying over the airport. He then contacted Sanford airport manager, Herb Long such June 27 at the time of the fire.

On the morning of June 27, six members of Pegasus Pilots set out for Sanford Airport. Once at the airport, they were chauffeured to the tetrahedron in a hand-taxed van loaded with ladders in the rear compartment. After approximately four hours of continuous painting, the job was complete. The members present and painting were Cleven Erdenstein, Herbert Long, Ronald Garrett, Charlie Miller, Henry Popkin, and Laura Guineas. They received the thanks of the airport manager and all the staff for their help in completing the repair.

Drug Raid Details: Acid Lab Sophisticated

Now details of the narcotics raid on FTU’s campus last month were revealed this week.

They showed the alleged drugs confiscated in the raid by lawmen were manufactured in a highly sophisticated manner in a "laboratory" type of campus in Orlando.

Police said that "paper acid" was made there, the first of its type seen in the area.

Lawmen also said they had suspected that a professor at Tech may have had a hand in the preparation of the LSD. Officers would give no further details. Six students were arrested in connection with the raid and charged on various drug counts.

No professors were charged.

Officers said that university administrators cooperated fully with their investigation.

"Paper Acid" is the name given to LSD which has been placed in tiny drops on note paper and said to work by tearing off small sections of the paper. The paper with the LSD is then chewed. Drops of food color are placed on the paper before the "acid" is deposited to indicate where the chemical is located.

According to Lt. Joe Mele, of the Orlando Vice Squad, very little paper acid had turned up in this area. He said that the "laboratory" near the campus was "very sophisticated." It was obvious the persons who made it had some expert help and some good supply of chemicals.

Also confiscated in the raid was a detailed book on making "acid manufacturing equipment." This book was also seized.

Property seized included a "lithographic printing press," a "litho press," a "litho ink," a "litho cloth," and a "litho knife." The "litho press" was used for making the "acid laboratory" sign.

Umphrey Is Named

Dr. Robert E. Umphrey, now Associate Dean at Southampton College, Long Island University, has been named as the new Chairman of the Department of English at FTU. The appointment is effective September 1.

Dr. Umphrey, 49, will replace Dr. Homer D. Combs, who in turn will become Assistant Dean of the College of Humanities and Fine Arts. Dr. Combs has been a member of the FTU faculty since November, 1967.

A native of Chicago, Dr. Umphrey was awarded his B.A. in 1963 from the University of Washington. He received the B.A. in 1949 from the University of Washington and the M.A. in 1952 from Columbia University. He has taught at North Carolina State, the University of Washington, and the University of Puget Sound. He has been at Southampton since 1964. From 1952-1961, he collaboratively served as an investigator-advisor to the Seattle Police Department.

Dr. Umphrey and his wife, Harriet, have two teenage daughters. His mother lives at Melbourne, Florida.

Campus Security

Campus Security cars have been repainted a distinctive brown. Very conspicuous, and much easier to spot. Thank you, gentlemen.
New Ramada Inn
Gets Innkeeper

John B. Carpenter is the new General Manager of Ramada Orlando East. He comes to Orlando from the Ramada Inn in Akron, Ohio, where he was director of operations for all Ramada hotels in the area.

Carpenter will open about July 1. He will have 125 rooms and 25,000 square feet of event space equipped with 108 rooms.

With color television in every room, a swimming pool, wading pool, and a new motel is less than two miles south of FTU.

Physics Programs
Starts At Tech

Thirty-three high school physics teachers are back at school for the first time in five years. They are enrolled in the 1970-71 physics program, which was to open about July 1 and will have 125 rooms and 25,000 square feet of event space equipped with 108 rooms.

In addition to physics, the program offers some history, philosophy and sociology.

The teachers who are studying at FTU will concentrate on the above subjects, plus an introduction to astronomy and cosmology. Thus equipped, they will be prepared to instruct their local Project Physics classes.

Among those enrolled are two representative of the register office of UNIBUS in Maitland, Florida, two from Canada, and three from Argentina.

Some observations on apathy and the voting age: (1) Remember the student government election? Some thirty percent, wasn't it? That voted? And I'll bet that some of the ones who didn't vote were the least knowledgeable of the less knowledgeable. Those who could make the best case for lowering the age limit. Are we to assume that these people will continue this same demonstration of interest in more important matters? I'm not, so it would seem that another mistake has been made which will contribute to the already overwhelming number of problems we have.

(2) There is a couple of arguments in favor of the recent action which seem to have a reasonable basis. One is the old story that if you're old enough to fight, you're old enough to vote. This is logical enough: if I'm going to get my head blown off, I'd like to have a voice in deciding why and where. But there is a simple solution, disfranchise the servicemen. As soon as a man enlist, or is drafted, he acquires the right to vote. Thus if some of our radical student leaders want the vote badly enough, they have to be in the armed forces. This situation would alleviate the possible influence of campus radicals and would allow the men who are going to do the fighting to decide whether, where or why.

(3) The other argument (and probably the strongest) is the claim that youth today is better educated, more interested, and thus more qualified to exercise this privilege. I claim that this is not so. We would certainly expect college students to be the best examples of conscientious, informed young people. But in a recent sampling of a freshman composition class (certainly a random selection since Comp. is a required subject), hardly anyone knew who Clark Clifford was, even that he was a former cabinet member. Less than half could identify Golda Meir and a large number had never heard of Dr. C. B. Gombrich, Vice President of Academic Affairs at FTU. And what is more, all (with the exception of Gombrich) had been in the news the week of the survey. If college students are not informed what must the case be with other eighteen-year-olds? In my experience, the ones who are informed at this age are the campus radicals, so the ones who are going to make policy.

(4) But the proponents of the lower age say the same faults are to be found in adults who already have the vote. This is true. There are many over twenty-one who do not seem as up-to-date on the issues that are important to the government of this country. There are many who demonstrate as much apathy and irresponsibility as any young person. Thus, in answer to the question "WHY lower the voting age," democracy is the natural and sensible reply "WHY NOT?" But ponder this: if a man is drowning, do we throw a non-swimmer in to save him? If the present voters are ineffective and ill-informed, do we add more inexperienced and apathetic just like them? Are we a nation of fools?

Well, the deed is done and let us hope that it is for the best. To summon the old cliché, voting is a responsibility. Let us hope to break a trend and assume that responsibility.

P.S. This column is affiliated with the Young Republicans of FTU, but the opinions is that of the columnist, not the club. And to place the blame correctly, the column is penned by a student, not a frustrated member of the over-thirty crowd.

Disney Likes FTU

FTU is contributing the largest number of students of all colleges and junior colleges in the state of Florida working at Disneyland during the summer. Twenty-five students are working there from FTU. Approximately 75 students were interviewed in the spring for the jobs. Out of these, 27 were accepted. At the last minute two out of the 27 were forced to remain in Orlando.

The next largest contributor is the University of Florida with 12 students at Disneyland.

Next year will be the last time the summer work program will be in existence for students in Florida to go to Disneyland. After next summer the students will be going to Disney World to work.

CAMPUS GLANCES

Notice the beautiful, new FTU Flag that now flies over the entrance of the new Administration Building. Betsy Ross would be proud.

Best Custodian Has Been Chosen

Lois Howard is the winner of the Certificate of Achievement, given for outstanding work to the top day-custodian of the Spring Quarter.

This award is being presented for the first time and will be given to both the day and night shift. As of this date, the winner of the night shift has not yet been selected. The winners are picked by their supervisors, Margaret Tanner, the day supervisor, explained her system for picking the winner as a point system, where each week the custodians are given points for their work and the one with highest score at the end of the quarter is the winner. She also explained that the awards in the future will also be given at the end of each quarter...

Lois Howard has been at FTU since classes started in 1968. She is presently working on the second floor of the Administration Building.
A Cool Move Across Pool

There's a moving van company that advertises it will move you "Across the nation, or across the street." It said nothing at all about across the pool. It's not what last week's massive move at Tech was supposed to be.

The transfer of much of FTU's administrative staff to the Library Building to the beautiful new Administration Building was not "enough for us," but it was exactly what last week's massive move at Tech was supposed to be.

The key words in all of this were "for awhile," because, by the end of the moving week, things were getting straightened out.

Workmen with aching backs were burning the last traces of the old into place. Secretaries were being moved into the new quarters beneath the piles of moving boxes. Telephones were being reconnected to operate once more, and students were even making cautious trips into the new building of the old, looking for the familiar. The campus has got to be from a staff outside the main entrance.

Actually, there may well be two main entrances, the one facing the lake, where most students are normally used, and the upper entrance, where the freshmen newcomers are coming on campus. The second entrance is in the basement of the Information booth, something newcomers are not too quick to open. It will reportedly be manned by students.

On the upper floors of the old building, the Aiding sounds are smoothed by deep, carpeting splinters filled by rich pension. The new building is in its complex, but has an instruction and it is open to students at ease. Dr. Millican's office is now on the second floor, reflecting the pool and the physical science building. FTU Committees Have Opening

Many university committees have openings this fall, the first opportunity anyone might get to do something about getting something done at FTU. Openings are left by students who are working on the master's degree, and Student Government is looking for people to take their places.

To get on a committee, merely sign up in the Student Government office on the main floor of the Administration building. The following committees have openings: Lake Chair Committee, Bookstore Advisory Committee, Research Study Committee, PTU Foundation Committee, Food Committee, Finance Committee, Admissions and Standards Committee, University Events Committee, University Street Safety Committee, Parking Committee, in addition to other committees that are set up by the students.

Summer has come to FTU and dorms and mums insist once again the Toad should attend the great university and get some learning and how-to-be-fishy-when mother only knows, be.

Camping again, major of the students have survived the July, harsh, all-knowing masters of knowledge and their black pens scrawled numerous Ds and Fs.

As the sun sets on this second week of fervent learning, the time for review has come. All those wonderful changes of the campus have finally come to light in the dark of night and await the mighty pen of the student. We have no prices.

Graduation has passed with joyous procedure and the engineering students have a chance to get up their cap and gown and escape their graying campus. The Board of Regents too is proud of this Technological University and watch with expectations unlimited to the future. More and more students come to the students' use. After careful investigation, the Board decided to procure three bikes, which are now available for check-out at the Main Desk.

In order to check out a bicycle a student must present his Driver's License and Student I.D. Card to the Secretary at the Main Desk and fill out the form provided. There is no charge for the use of the bikes; however, a deposit of $25.00 must be made and the bike not be returned in the time allotted. Students may check the bikes out for 24 hours, for the entire weekend. Locks are issued for each bicycle. If the student who checks out the bike will be held responsible for loss or damage, or if the bike is to be kept inside the residence halls, a $25.00 deposit must be made to the student over the weekends. The Village Center will not be held responsible for any injuries which occur in the use of the bicycle.

So on, if you'd like to take a bicycled tour of the campus, glide down the main street, stop by the clock tower, and take a record-breaking ride to the Stone (which is on the campus) with a friend over to the Village Center and start their own.

CAMPUS GLANCES

This special graduation issue of the FTUve contains letters of congratulations to the Charter graduating class from President Richard Nixon, President Charles William, Associate Director John Young, and a special editorial by Linda Metel, Editor of the FTUve.

For postivity, this is an issue worth looking forward to. For someone who would like a copy of this paper, which also lists the names of each graduate, Room 105 will be open from 12:00 to 1:00 p.m. daily. A tent city for FTU in the fall! Who knows? It was learned that all the reserves for the dorms have already been filled or applied for for the Fall Term.

Federal Program May Aid Married FTU Students

The Federal Government in cooperation with private enterprises has started a home ownership program for low income people of our area. The only condition of the interest rate on the mortgage, payment. Married Richard Davis of the Orlando Real Estate firm, 'You must sell your house). Russell, Inc. explains the program's to the following:

Under the 233 Program the family with a mortgage on their home or family dependents determine the size of the income that may purchase as well as the amount of their income that will be paid by the Government.

Affordable income is based on the gross income received and the number of family members. Average annual income which will qualify families for the 233 Program are:

- For a family of two, $5,000.00 for a family of three, $7,500.00 for a family of four, $10,000.00 for a family of five, and $12,000.00 for a family of six.

An example would be a working wife making $350.00 per month as a secretary and a husband who is enrolled on a full time basis as a student, who has three children. The husband would receive $200.00 per month from the VA (GI Bill). You would deduct your expenses for tuition from the $350.00 and $200.00, leaving you with annual total VA income $3,050.00. You also have gross income of $4,200.00 earned by the wife. You would have to a total annual income of $7,050.00 with the $5,100.00 depending on the number of hours taken and the number of work promote. After a 5% deduction of $255.00, we would have $4,850.00. That would be the "adjusted income" of $4,850.00.

From the above example you would have $5,850.00, which falls under the 233 Program.

The program is available in several locations throughout Central Florida. Many new homes are being donated on a floor plans and elevations. A qualified family of four would approximately $92.92 monthly out of a total payment of $270.00. The Government would pay the balance of the wheels arrive!

The clinic hours at which a doctor will be available have been changed during the month of July. The clinic, which is in the physical, will hold office hours from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. on Friday. The clinic will remain open all month.

Lightening from an approaching thunderstorm Monday started four or five fires in the woods around the campus. The first fire was on PTU property, and two of the others were out in the fires in about two hours.

Back To Drawing Board, The Pool Cracked Up

By Henry Poppin and Jeff Poppin

If you were planning to use the campus swimming pool this summer, you’d better bring a bucket of water. To be exact, 9,900 gallons. Just as the $70,000 facility was almost completed and ready for use, the bottom fell out. Actually it didn’t fall out but it might as well have. There is now one continuous crack in the pool’s cement floor from the six foot level, down the slope to the eleven foot level, and then back up again. It forms a circle of about twenty feet in diameter with the inside of the circle slightly sunken. The pool was completed last month, but while the lining of the pool a major problem occurred. About the time the pool was filled to capacity, due to an empty pool under the floor of the pool a number of large cracks formed in the floor of the deep end. Because of these cracks, 10,000,000 gallons of water was lost.

How could this happen to a brand-new, modern, expensive, first-class, Olympic pool you ask? That appears to be a good question. In the words of Cliff Moore, the Physical Education Facilities Contractor, “If I knew what caused it, I’d have prevented it. We have some theories, but I’d rather not say right now what they are until the engineers have completed their investigation.” This could take a month or two and then another month or so. Almost the entire floor will have to be replaced. Apparently the foundation under the sloping section, which drops off from six feet to the twelve foot diving well, was inadequate. There seems to be an underground pool of water beneath the slope and during the recent heavy rains the water level had risen to the surface and washed away the foundation.

The reason for the lengthy delay is that the entire floor of the pool will have to be relaid, which will take a minimum of six weeks with good weather conditions. Work on relaying the floor as of this date has not yet begun. Since Mr. Moore claims he constructed it exactly according to specifications, the blame would seem to lie with the architect for faulty design. The state will foot the bill, however, because it appears that the insurance will cover any such specifications. The cost is yet unknown. Regardless of who is to blame, the people who will pay the most are the students. The facility will be used only for intramural and club competition, this quarter, mention its use by students who want to cool off during these hot summer months. But, for right now, students are encouraged to stay away from the pool area. A number of students have been spotted playing around the empty pool and were scared away by Security. All persons are prohibited from the area and trespassers will be prosecuted.

Kenneth Renner, Director of the Intramural Sports program, said about the situation, “The Pool will most likely not be ready this summer. It will be opened in the fall and water polo will begin in the Winter Quarter.”

So cheer up, with a little luck it may be completed by the end of the summer quarter. But even if it isn’t, you can use it in the fall because it is heated. Meanwhile, the beach will have to do.

SPORTS SHORTS

INTRAMURAL POOL: Open to men and women. Entry deadline is July 6, Play begins July 9. There will be a meeting Tuesday, July 7 at 11:00 am in GCB 256, to discuss rules and conduct drawings. Any affiliate of the University is eligible and participants must pay for their own games.

TABLE TENNIS — Open to men and women. Entry deadline is July 13 and play begins the 14th. Matches are every Monday, July 14 at 11:00 in GCB 256.

THESE cracks were not caused by an ambitious diver trying out the FTU swimming pool before it was filled. The fault showed up as the result of structural problems before the pool bottom. It will delay opening of the pool until Fall Term. Workmen chased FTU’s Photographers Chuck Sethel and Jim Lehman away after the picture was taken.

When Is A Team Not A Team

By Sports Editor - Jeff Poppin

If you’ve been somewhat confused and bewildered recently by the difference in an FTU sports “club” and an FTU sports “team”, take heart. You’ve definitely not alone. In fact there are probably only a handful of people on campus who are aware of the difference. One of these is Dr. Frank Rohrer, director of athletics at FTU. In an effort to clarify the terminology, this reporter conferred with Dr. Rohrer, pen in hand.

“The primary difference between a club and a team is that a club is not financially or administratively supported by the university,” explained Dr. Rohrer. “When we started our athletic program two years ago, we were faced with the problem of how fast and in what direction our program would progress. We were beseeched with requests to implement many different sports, but, of course, we were limited to the resources available at that time. We had to decide which sports would serve the majority of students and also satisfy the interest and involvement of the student body. As a result of this feasibility study, we formed the teams.”

“Basketball team is the answer. There was already a basketball club formed and apparently a great interest. So we allotted funds for a coach, uniforms, and other expenses to implement the program,” Rohrer added. “We also established the rules for the selection of the team considering the needs and interests of the students. We had a great coach in Dr. Wood, already working for us, there was some interest in forming a club, and there was a great turn out with a lot of talent available. Also, there were no other clubs organized at the time, so I decided to go with tennis.”

But as the school grew, so did the enthusiasm and interest in sports. “The purpose of the club program was to meet the needs and interests of the students until we could afford to sponsor a team. It also showed that the university was concerned and recognized the needs of the students,” said Rohrer.

The clubs formed and drew up a constitution according to student government rules and applied for and received all the financial aid, gathering equipment mostly through donations. “If the university cannot field a representative team because of a lack of funds and competitive drift, then the clubs give us an opportunity to operate and expose interest on a pilot level for students here and coming. It also demonstrates our direction toward athletics when money is available,” claimed Rohrer.

“When money does become available the clubs will already be organized and competitive. We won’t have to start from scratch.”

We now have only the basketball team with the addition of the tennis team next year. All other sports organizations are clubs. Admittedly they are “teams” in the sense that they play as a unit, but they are not designated as an FTU sporting “team” until such time as they are approved and financed by the University to represent it intercollegiately.

So now you know the difference between clubs and teams. Now, if somebody would explain to me...
Unkovic is Tapped
For Youth Force

Dr. Charles M. Unkovic, Chairman of FTU's Sociology Department, has been appointed by Governor Claude R. Kirk, Jr., to serve as a member of a task force in planning for the 1970 White House Conference on Children and Youth. Governor Kirk said Dr. Unkovic had been "highly recommended" and that he "ability to work with young people and interest in the problems of Florida's youth" would be of value to the task force.

The White House Conferences on Children and Youth have become valuable traditions in every state. Since the first conference called by President Theodore Roosevelt in 1909, through subsequent conferences every ten years, major contributions to the welfare of children and youth have resulted.

Dr. Unkovic was appointed Professor and Chairman of Sociology (College of Humanities and Social Sciences) April 1, 1968. He holds the A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. Degrees from the University of Pittsburgh. His skill as a teacher has drawn praise from students and colleagues. Dr. Unkovic has published extensively, with the publications dealing chiefly with crime, mental retardation, juvenile delinquency, and community planning. Frequent participation as a speaker at in-service workshops on the subject of problems is one indication of the active interest Dr. Unkovic has displayed toward the communities where he has taught and worked.

Drink Rule

The final argument is that drinking "behind closed doors" is "uncontrollable." If the drinking is legal, resident assistants would "more easily see who is drinking and prevent damage to the resident areas and harm to the people themselves."

FTU also supports the argument that legal drinking by 21-year-olds will not increase the liquor supply to minors, because 21-year-olds will not want to risk jail by supplying to minors.

Also given was the fact that Jerry Fowler, Florida State's Dean of Student Services and former Dean of Discipline, has gone on record as saying that drinking in FTU's dorms has been a direct cause in a 50 per cent decrease in anti-social behavior in the men's dorms. He also says that it has improved relations between students and staff, and that he is willing to talk with FTU's administration about this.

The summer is given as a good time to try out the legalized drinking of the small number of residents and the large percentage that are over 21 because of the Physics Institute and conventions.

Although FTU officials may not wholeheartedly endorse the movement, there were indications that chances of having the measure accepted were fairly good.
