Rock Fests Injunction Is Pending

By Al Tashruf

Current investigations being carried out by the Orange County Solicitor's Office could result in an injunction being sought to prevent further rock shows at the Orlando Sports Stadium, according to Chief Investigator Ed McIlroy of the Solicitor's Office.

Some of the shows are produced by FTU student Morris Hurstman and are held at the Sports Stadium owned by Pete Ashlock.

Pointing out that there were conditions which would have to be met to insure continued rock shows, McIlroy indicated that two of the three conditions were not met by the stadium at a recent rock show.

One condition was that there were to be signs posted around the building warning against the use of drugs on the premises. This was not complied with.

A second condition was that there were to be men, either from the Sheriff's office or from a private agency, patrolling the interior of the stadium. This, according to McIlroy, was not accomplished.

Thirdly, the lights within the stadium were to be kept on at all times, but this was not the case at the Grand Funk Railroad concert held Thursday night.

Pointing to the possibility of drug abuse within the stadium, Stadium Manager Jim Hayes said, "I have not seen it go on, I don't know it goes on." He also added, "If the kids don't show up, then we'll have no business to conduct the shows."

Lt. Bob Tanner of the Orange County Sheriff's Office said, "We pointed out that use of drugs at the Grand Funk Railroad concert Thursday night was 'considerable.' We went on to say that 'they can sit up there and smoke. There's no way you can get to them.'"

Lt. Tanner also pointed out that there were a few that were pretty well stoned; but that primarily vice squad agents were looking for "sellers."

Sports Stadium owner Pete Ashlock said that the Orange County Commission had not presented anything to him. He pointed to a "lack of communication between the stadium and the authorities."

Referring to the actions of the County Commission in regards to the stadium owner Ashlock went on to say, "I think everybody deserves a chance. They didn't give me one."

When he was asked what his opinion was on the use of drugs in today's society, Ashlock replied that "this is an individual's perspective."

Ashlock, in an earlier interview with the FSU Times, praised the work of off duty deputies at the stadium during previous rock concerts.

"They patroled the place, helped keep order and were well liked by the kids who were there," Ashlock said. "I would not want them to be criticized."

The stadium owner said he had personally witnessed deputies with the narcotics ended, waited with younger teenagers until their parents arrived.

Dorm Drinking Rules Are Brewing

FSU Approves Spirits: Reduces Anti-Social Acts

By Nancy Smeth

A move is now going on at FSU to permit any resident over 21 to legally drink in the dormitories.

The proposal is being sponsored by the summer Residence Hall Association (RHA) and Student Government has passed a resolution supporting the action. Letters were sent by Angie Yount, summer president of RHA, to President Milligan, men's and women's deans, men's and women's resident in tutors, SG president Jim Stringer and RHA president Ed Wightman, listing the reasons for making drinking legal.

RHA believes the substitution of state laws for the drinking restrictions given on page 8 of the FSU Student Handbook. Their reasoning is that Florida allows 21-year-old adults rights, and as this university is a state-supported the university cannot deny these. There is a trend, says RHA, in Florida universities, to allow residents the same privileges as a student living elsewhere, and they cited Florida State and the University of Florida, especially UF's Rebekah, as examples.

Also cited is the problem of students leaving campus in order to drink, and then driving back, which endangers their lives and others.

New Habits On Campus

Nuns and families actually are living in the FTU dorms, and rumors that they had no right to be there turn out to be completely false. Barth Enger, Director of Housing, explained the circumstances around the seemingly unusual situation.

FTU is playing host to a summer seminar for high school physics teachers in a program sponsored by the National Science Foundation. Applications were received from all over the country, and thirty-three students were accepted. Tuition was paid by the Foundation, and dormitory housing was offered, to be shared by the students themselves. For those who preferred off-campus housing, a list of area apartments was supplied.

However, several students chose to make use of the dorms, including the four nuns. Others who made use of the housing were two student living elsewhere, and they cited Florida State and the University of Florida, especially UF's Rebekah, as examples.

Can Students Have Say?

With the climax of FTU's second year of operation has come the scrutiny of many positions, more positions than were usually vacated at the end of a term. A number of the faculty and staff members who are leaving or have left are people that are considered irreplaceable by many, faculty and students alike. And with the replacement of positions in a university comes interviews, records, and applications. In a university that is as degree-conscious at FTU, this can take a lot of time and trouble.

A number of the people leaving have been involved in communication between students and administration. They have been familiar with the problems and attitudes of the students and the policies and feelings of the administration, and therefore were able to communicate with both groups. We should worry to see them leave. Hank Hill and Jan Summer are two of these people. In their capacities as Resident Instructors at FTU, they have been able to establish communication channels and have been "accepted" by both students and university officials. In addition, C. Barth Engert, Director of Housing, and Patricia Fawcett, Assistant Program Director of the Village Center, will not longer be working with FTU students. These persons also worked primarily with students in their jobs.

But now they must be replaced. Their replacements must be people who can get along and communicate with the students as they did. But it is difficult to acquire this information about a person in a normal interview situation, and impossible to attain on an application blank.

We are under the impression that a committee composed of students, faculty members and administrative officials was set up last year. This committee supposedly met with prospective staff members and aided in interviewing. We suggest that this committee be re-initiated and that it be given a role in the selection of these all-important staff members. They should be allowed to meet, question, and get to know prospective employees. They should not be given a vote but their impressions should be heavily weighted in the final selection.

Students should be given an integral role in the selection of personnel with whom they will come daily in contact. It would be wise to give them this responsibility now so that in the face of consequences of having staff who do not want to deal with students the students cannot get along with, and therefore not communicate with.

Let's Have Even Breaks

After glancing at last year's University catalog we noticed that once again there are not enough weeks between (the Christmas) and shorter breaks between winter and spring, and spring and summer. This means that students are between classes before Christmas and in the spring quarter when one professor enters class in the beginning of the quarter the other professor is teaching the students as worn out as the farm already.

For example, let's take this: November, Mr. R. from Argentina (7) representative in the U.S., who runs the Congress was going to do a presentation about him, and went to the Department of Commerce, a group of sponsors of H.R. 1500. This would subject a citizen to a $500 fine or a year in prison, or both, for the "use" of the name "Copolyester," even a memorial service unless approved by next of kin! For example: when the marching bands with a valid permit, along before the Orlando draft board, and began to read names of dead, police decided traffic was too heavy, and the program was canceled.

Politicians and citizens are aflame with patriotism when they take a break and memorialize the (developing, organizing, and a guilt complex seems to operate when the dead servant gets a specific name, turns out to be "Bob Everyone, who grew up three doors down the facilities at the soon-to-be-completed Ramada Inn on Highway 55, due to the lack of space.

Memorial Wanted

Dear Editor:

The first thing that caught our eye in what we read was the one that means ONE MAN EVERY HOUR, MONDAY. That is, SUNDAY, (we wouldn't want to think about being killed on Saturday and Sunday, would we?), or, for the "silent majority" who prefer things on a businesslike basis, THREE PER HOUR A FOUR WEEK. Let's just take three fine young educators scattered points around the U.S., each hour next week, and with various "patriotic" groups, the ministry, the political forces and the military forces. Having theสภา, the fly-over, the firing squad and the killing done, all for a good cause, in a nice neat package! With appropriate myriads over a period of several years, we might elevate the per capita rate equal to the wages of the pawns people who sacrificed their lives for the United States of America.

Ridiculous? Far-fetched?

Cynical? Morbid? Bizarre? Think about it before you throw those "snow-counts" out of Saigon from the Vietnamese mothers sons. What a terrible world people live in these days, and I'm not naming bodies talked on a Pentagon computer, but people?

Bob Hill, I hope that your suggestion is accepted. BUT IF you don't, I must try to find a way to plan another memorial service or later in other locations, contact the Methodist church of Orlando, The dead DO HAVE NAMES, and maybe we all need to be reminded of this more often.

Overview Blasted

Dear Editor:

The May 29 issue of the FTU, a new column appeared which has been relatively consistent in its negative views toward the new Student Government Administration. I am speaking of the Overview story written by Kevin Wadsworth. Since you may consider Mr. Wadsworth a political analyst, it is his obligation to bring particular facts to the attention of the student body. In this case his technique of exaggeration may be misleading to the student body. For example, his reference to the Student Government installation banquet as a "secret ceremony." Yet a few things must be made clear about the present Student Government Administration which have not been brought to the attention of the students. Both Jim Stringer, Student Body President, and Richard Lancaster, Student Body Vice President, have been working diligently to keep the confusion left behind by the past administration. I know that such a situation does exist since I was a member of the Student Government Administration. I only know too well what Mr. Stringer and Mr. Lancaster have to do, and I can only commend them for their hard work and them with luck in the future.

I can understand Mr. Wadsworth's feelings since his candidates lost the election. Mine did too. I was a flanny supporter, yet, the fact remains, that Jim Stringer is our Student Body President. As students we should support our student government and administration, and give them a chance to prove themselves. Those of us who are not thoroughly satisfied with Greek domination similar to that which has occurred in another university.

When Engert was asked why he decided to join the Continuing Education department, he gave his reasons. Continuing Education, he said, "is one of the limited housing expansions. University plans call for more housing for an indefinite period, if at all. He added that although there are still things to work out in Housing, and new situations arise daily, there are no personal advancement opportunities for him in that department. Continuing Education offers "new challenges and Engert Leaves Housing; Goes to Continuing Ed.

C. Barth Engert, FTU's Director of Housing, is now moving to a newly-created position within the university. He will be FTU's Coordinator of Educational Continuation within the Continuing Education department.

The position is a completely new one, and involves the planning and scheduling of non-credit conferences for such groups as Florida Institution Alumni and Other Drug, Rotary International's Interact Club, and Kwan Ki Kwai Key Club workshop.

Engert has decided to accept the job being offered by the "community." Dr. Robert Humphrey, Dean of Continuing Education, defined the job as "developing, organizing, and implementing conferences, workshops, seminars, and conferences in the non-credit area.

Many of these conferences will make use of the facilities at the soon-to-be-completed Ramada Inn on Highway 55, due to the lack of space at FTU.
Watermelon, Movies Planned

A summertime movie-watermelon program has been initiated by FTU Village Center Director Ken Lawson, primarily to serve the greatly reduced number of resident students living on the campus for the current summer quarter that ends August 21. Faculty and staff are invited to join themelon lovers. While the weather is good, the audience can have a pick of seats on the lawn next to Village Center, the movie, which will consist of a number of classic comedies and a few horror films, will go indoors if it rains.

The watermelon is provided by FTU Food Service, which is planning to serve up some summertime delight at a giant picnic that Lawson and his assistants will prepare on the dining board. While the movie 'a melon projects is generally aimed at supplying entertainment for resident students, opening night found quite a few guests who dropped by to munch a while before heading to off-campus homes after evening classes.

The summer movie schedule is as follows:

July 8, Carry on Bertrique, (A comedy about what ergots do)
July 15, Master of the World, (Gorillas are his ballast)
July 22, Munster Go Home, (He is a giant living at the bottom of a lake)
July 29, Tom Thumb That Roamed, (See Peter Sellers and Jean Seberg go wild)
August 5, Dracula Has Risen From the Grave, (Come with someone you can trust)
August 12, Th. Treasure of Sierra Madre, (A Humphrey Bogart special)
August 19, Union Pacific, (To get things rolling before exams)
Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea

 Theta Sigma Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at Florida Technological University will remain active during the summer quarter.

The first function of the quarter was June 22, Paddle Night. This quarterly event consisted of the Theta Sigma Paddles presenting a specially designed paddle to their Big Brother, and giving a brief history of their Big Brothers to the Brotherhood.

Wednesday, July 1, the Brothers of Theta Sigma planned a professional function at Johnny's Pina Pailor. A room was reserved and dinner was served. The guest speaker was Wayne Reynolds, resident director of Orange County.

The Young Republicans Club is selling tickets this week and next for a GOP dinner, to be held at the Robert Meyer Motor Inn on July 11. Senator Robert J. Dale of Kansas is to be the featured speaker at the Annual Meeting of the Republican Party of Florida. Reception begins at 7 p.m. with dinner commencing at 8 p.m. Tickets for the dinner are $20 per person. Checks are to be made payable to the Republican Party of Florida.

For additional information and for tickets, interested persons are asked to call Dennis Keeler, at 277-6466.

Drug Raid Details: Acid Lab Sophisticated

Now details of the narcotics raid on FTU's campus last month were revealed this week.
They showed the alleged drugs confiscated in the raid by lawmen were manufactured in a highly sophisticated manner, in a "laboratory" top near campus in Orlando.

Police said "paper acid" was made there, the first of its type seen in the area.

Lawmen also said they had suspected that a professor at Tech may have helped in the preparation of the LSD. Officers would give no further details. Seven students were arrested in connection with the raid and charged on various drug counts. No professors were charged.

Officers said that university administrators cooperated fully with their investigation.

"Paper Acid" is the name given to LSD which has been placed in tiny drops on note paper and said to mean by tearing off small sections of the paper. The paper with the LSD is then chewed. Droplets of food color are placed on the paper before the "acid" is deposited to indicate where the chemical is located.

According to Lt. Joe Mele, of the Orlando Vice Squad, very little paper acid has turned up in this area. He said that the "laboratory" near the campus was "very sophisticated." It was obvious the persons who made it had some expert help and some good supply of chemicals.

Also confiscated in the raid was a detailed book on drug making entitled "Drug Manufacturing for Frogs and Pfiff." Surveys taken on campus show drug use by students at FTU is low although raids clearing the dorms between spring and summer quarters found amounts of marijuana and pills hidden in the dorm area. The items were turned in.

Umphrey Is Named

Dr. Robert E. Umphrey, now Associate Dean at Southampton College, Long Island University, has been named as the new Chairman of the Department of English at FTU. The appointment is effective September 1.

Dr. Umphrey, 49, will replace Dr. Homer D. Combs, who in turn will become Assistant Dean of the College of Humanities and Fine Arts. Dr. Combs has been a member of the FTU faculty since November, 1967.

A native of Chicago, Dr. Umphrey was awarded his B.A. in 1963 from the University of Washington. He received the B.A. in 1949 from the University of Washington and the M.A. in 1953 from Columbia University. He has taught at North Carolina State, the University of Washington, and the University of Puget Sound. He has been at Southampton since 1964. From 1961-61, he collaboratively served as an investigator-adviser to the Seattle Police Department.

Dr. Umphrey and his wife, Harriet, have two teenage daughters. His mother lives at Melbourne, Florida.
The youth in America today are "irresponsible," not working hard enough, "effete sissies," of course the whole lot of them room for the "college bums." Really, I don't quite understand why we aren't sent to some remote places or worse and put in the cold so that we can be forced the future of the nation from a point of complete demoralization. Maybe some of us are O.K., though, as long as we conform to the traditions, do as we are told, or walk the straight line. Even then, my friends, we can not force upon the leadership the basic idea which we have often attempted to express. We are consistently confronted with an ascension of human ideals and a mental assault of defamation on our sacred goals. Let's review this case with amazement. The physics program at FTU is one of the largest and most comprehensive in the United States. It is supported by the National Science Foundation and is one of the few institutions that provide a complete education in all branches of physics.

The project is designed to present the latest research and broaden cultural context. In addition to physics, the course also offers some history, philosophy and sociology.

The teachers now studying at FTU will concentrate on the above subjects, plus an introduction to astronomy and cosmology. Thus equipped, they will be prepared to instruct in their local Project Physics centers.

Among those enrolled are two representatives of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, one from Canada, and three American nurses.

Physics Program Starts At Tech

Thirty-three high school physics teachers are back in school after the rest of the country. They are enrolled in a three-week vacation program designed to prepare them as instructors in "Project Physics," a national program developed five years ago. Many of these students have never been to the University of Colorado and have no idea of what they are getting into. The program is designed to provide the teachers with a broad, cultural context. In addition to physics, the course also offers some history, philosophy and sociology.

The transfer of much of FTU’s administrative staff to the Library Building to the beautifully new Administration Building was no small task — not enough desks for awhile.

Workmen with aching backs were herding the books and the furniture into place. Secretaries were being relocated from the cramped, yellowed halls beneath the piles of moving boxes.

Telephones were beginning to operate once more, and students were even making cautious trips into the lash-like condition of the building, just to look around, marvel at the new space and the brand new furnishings. And that’s exactly from a staff outside the main entrance.

Actually, there may still be two main entrances, the one facing the lake which most students will use normally, and the upper level entrance in the Heavenly Halls, the newcomers coming on campus.

The student body is already swarmed by the open house information booth, something never seen at the opening of a building. It will reportedly be manned by student volunteers.

On the upper floors of the Administration Building are nestled by deep carpeting, soft lights lifted by rich paneling, and the furnishings of the complex, is luxuriously, but with an inherent complexity to its handling of students at ease.

Dr. Millican’s office is on the first floor, the reflecting pool and the parking area outside of the building.

The Board of Regents' FTU Committees Have Opening

Many university committees have open vacancies on them which could get something done at FTU. Openings have been left by students who are leaving to seek work experience, and some would like to see those positions filled. To get these positions filled, you may sign up in the Student Government office on the third floor of the Administration Building.

The following committees have openings: Lake Chair Committee; Bookstore Advisory Committee; Membership Studies Committee; FTU Foundation Committee; Food Services Committee; Faculty Housing Committee; Admissions and Standards Committee; University Events Committee; University Traffic Committee; Parking Committee, in addition to others which students who would like to see those positions filled.

Federal Program May Aid Married FTU Students

The Federal Government in cooperation with private enterprises has started a home ownership program for low income people of our area. The cost of the interest rate on the monthly mortgage payments is eligible for the loan.

Richard Davis of the Orlando Real Estate firm said that "J. Russell, Russell, explains the program is really for the following: Mar. 25, 1967.

Under the 233 Program the family is to make no down payment. The monthly payments are to be paid by the Government.

Affordable income is based on the gross income received and the amount of other income that the family may purchase as well as the amount of the home that is to be paid by the Government.

An example would be a working wife making $350.00 per month as a secretary, living on a monthly budget of $350.00. If the family of five, $7,150.00 for a family of five, $7,150.00 for a family of five, and $4,500.00 for a family of six.

The program is available in various areas throughout the United States. Many new homeowners are using the information tohaus and elevators. A qualified home must be small, and may be sold for approximately $92,920 monthly out of a total payment of $92,920.00. The Government would pay the balance of the price.

Back To Drawing Board, The Pool Cracked Up

By Harry Pappas and Jeff Pappas

If you were planning to use the campus swimming pool this summer, you'd better bring a lot of water. To be exact, 800,000 gallons. Just as the $70,000 facility was almost completed and ready for use, the bottom fell out. Actually it didn't fall out but it might as well have. There is now one continuous crack in the pool's cement floor from the sixth foot level, down the slope to the twelve foot level, and then back up again. It forms a circle of about twenty feet in diameter with the inside of the circle slightly sunken.

The pool was completed last week, but during the filling of the pool a major problem occurred. About the time the pool was filled to capacity, due to an empty pocket under the floor of the pool a number of large cracks formed in the floor of the deep end. Because of this, 800,000 gallons of water was lost.

How could this happen to a brand-new, modern, expensive, first-class, Olympic pool you ask? That appears to be a good question. In the words of Cliff Moore, the Physical Education Facilities Contractor, "If I knew what caused it, I'd have预防ed it. We have some theories, but I'd rather not say right now what they are until the engineers have completed their investigation." This could take a month or more and then another month or so. Almost the entire floor will have to be replaced. The foundation under the sloping section, which drops off from six feet to the twelve foot diving well, was inadequate. There seems to be an underground pool of water beneath the slope and during the recent heavy rains the water level rose and washed away the foundation.

The reason for the lengthy delay is that the entire floor of the pool will have to be replaced, which will take a minimum of six weeks with good weather conditions. Work on relaxing the floor as of this date has not yet begun. Since Mr. Moore claims he constructed it exactly according to specifications, the blame would seem to lie with the architect for faulty design. The site will foot the bill, however, because it appears they have more than enough funds to make the necessary changes. The cost is as yet unknown.

Regardless of who is to blame, the people who will pay the price are the students. The facility will not be used for intramural and club competition this quarter, mention its use by students who want to cool off during these hot summer months. But, for right now, students are encouraged to stay away from the pool area. A number of students have been spotted playing around the empty pool and were scared away by security. All persons are prohibited from the area and trespassers will be prosecuted.

Kenneth Renner, Director of the Intramural Sports program, said about the situation, "The Pool will most likely not be ready this summer. It will be opened in the fall and water polo will begin in the Winter Quarter."

So cheer up, with a little luck it may be completed by the end of the summer quarter. But even if it isn't, you can use it in the fall because it leaked. Meanwhile, the beach will have to do.

Baseball Club Schedule

THE resounding "crack" of hockey on bermaine means that FTU Baseball Club’s season is underway.

Baseball Club Schedule

| Mon., July 6, 1970* | 6:30 | V.J.C. | Tinker Field |
| Mon., July 20, 1970* | 6:30 | Sanford Giants | Tinker Field |
| Wed., Aug. 12, 1970 | 7:30 | Burger King | Tinker Field |
| Wed., Aug. 12, 1970* | 7:30 | Red Caps | Tinker Field |
| Wed., Aug. 19, 1970* | 7:30 | Sanford Giants | Tinker Field |

These cracks were not caused by an ambitious diver trying out the FTU swimming pool before it was filled. The faults showed up as the result of structural problems before the pool bottom. It will delay opening of the pool until Fall Term. Workmen chased FTU's Photographers Chuck Sethel and Jim Lehman away after the picture was taken.
Unkovic is Tapped For Youth Force

Dr. Charles M. Unkovic, Chairman of FTU's Sociology Department, has been appointed by Governor Claude R. Kirk, Jr. to serve as a member of a task force in planning for the 1970 White House Conference on Children and Youth. Governor Kirk said Dr. Unkovic had been "highly recommended" and that his "ability to work with young people and interest in the problems of Florida's youth" would be of value to the task force.

The White House Conferences on Children and Youth have become valuable traditions in every state. Since the first conference called by President Theodore Roosevelt in 1909, through subsequent conferences every ten years, major contributions to the welfare of children and youth have resulted.

Dr. Unkovic was appointed Professor and Chairman of Sociology (College of Humanities and Social Sciences) April 1, 1968. He holds the A.B., M.A., and Ph.D. Degrees from the University of Pittsburgh. His skill as a teacher has drawn praise from students and colleagues. Dr. Unkovic has published extensively, with the publications dealing chiefly with crime, mental retardation, juvenile delinquency, and community planning. Frequent participation as a speaker in conferences on the problems is one indication of the active interest Dr. Unkovic has displayed toward the communities where he has taught and worked.

Drink Rule

The final argument is that drinking "behind closed doors" is "uncontrollable." If the drinking is legal, resident assistants would "more easily see who is drinking and prevent damage to the resident areas and harm to the people themselves." FTU also supports the argument that legal drinking by 21-year-olds will not increase the liquor supply to minors, because 21-year-olds will not want to risk jail by supplying to minors.

Also given was the fact that Gerry Fowler, Florida State's Dean of Student Services and former Dean of Discipline, has gone on record as saying that drinking in FTU's dorms has been a direct cause in a 50 per cent decrease in anti-social behavior in the men's dorms. He also says that it has improved relations between students and staff, and he is willing to talk with PTU's administration about this.

The summer is given as a good time to try out the legalized drinking because of the small number of residents and the large percentage that are over 21 because of the Physical Institute and conventions.

Although FTU officials may not wholeheartedly endorse the movement there were indications that chances of having the measure accepted were fairly good.
