Looking for Published Dissertations?

The UCF Library provides access to ProQuest Dissertations & Theses: Full Text, a database containing 1.2 million full text dissertations and theses published in the United States from 1997 to the present. The database also contains full text for a considerable number of dissertations published prior to 1997, and more than 70,000 full text dissertations are added every year. You can also find abstracts for more than 2.7 million dissertations and theses published since 1861.

To access Dissertations & Theses: Full Text, click on “Articles & Databases” on the Libraries’ main page, or go to <http://library.ucf.edu/Databases>. Scroll to the bottom of the page, and click on “Dissertations & Theses.”

To learn more about dissertations and theses, you can also visit the libraries’ Theses & Dissertations Research Guide at <http://libguides.lib.ucf.edu/thesesanddissertations>. Below is an example from the database:
