2 FTUers, Coed Busted
On Pot-holding Charge
Two FTU students and a College of Orlando coed were served last Saturday night and charged with the possession of marijuana. All three students were released from the Orange County jail Monday after posting $500 bond each. It was learned later that any steps taken by the university to discipline the two FTU students involved will be decided upon and effected only after a verdict has been reached by a court of law.

Gordon Ball and Richard Alter were arrested after the car they were riding in was searched by a patrolman who detained them for a court of law.

Paladins, Knights
To Fight It Out

A mascot comes closer to becoming a reality for FTU. This past week saw the selection of the Knights of Pegasus and the Golden Paladins as the two finalists in the contest to find a mascot for the university. These two finalists will soon be campaigning and another voting next Monday and Tuesday to select the winner.

The voting followed "Mascot Campaign Week," during which campus organizations each chose one of the ten original semifinalists to support. Posters, signs, and costumed people appeared over the campus in an effort to get votes for their selected mascot. The group that did the most to promote interest in the voting, in the opinion of the Masco Committee, will be given the Masco Outstanding Group Effort Award at the December 4 game. This will be given to the first-place winner, and plaques will be awarded to the first and second runners up.

No Go For Showcase
The FTU Inter Fraternity Council sponsored Showcase '70 for the bustling last weekend. The show at the Municipal Auditorium was planned as a charity event to aid the depleted coffers of United Cerebral Palsy of Central Florida. A number of rock bands gave them their time.

We feel it is rather strange that graduation ceremonies for some 1/5 seniors will be occurring prior to final exam week. Dr. Bobe says it happens in the spring in colleges across the United States. We thought FTU was against conformity of any sort. Why limit it to this practice?

The system makes graduation very uncomfortable for a minority of students. We realize that probably very few, if any, are being forced to go. But there is a way to make this graduation a few days after finals.

FTU is now on the air from 3 pm to 11 pm. If you've never tuned in before, now's the time. The spirit and excitement of that first game was overwhelming. The forecast for this fall is much better than for FTU. Yet, in danger of losing support for our intercollegiate basketball team. If the support for the team this year follows the same pattern, how can anyone with a straight face ask for a football team? We realize that probably very few, if any, are being forced to go. But there is a way to make this graduation a few days after finals.

Dear Friends and Fellow Students,

Our campus sits along the Escambia River and Escambia Bay. Toads, Tim Boelzner, and another band from DeLand. According to the chairman, everyone assured him that you contact us so we can go ahead with the project. They offer their services free for one night.

One of close to more than a million fish - food fish, sport fish, and refuse to print any letters which are anonymous, and I feel that the Toad is the aristocrat. What's it? I don't know who writes the column, but he must be a person of great intelligence to have written anything of his length. His critics should read one of the many other forms of literature.

One of only two Greek fraternities that ever limited their activities to just a few. We recommend that before anyone decides to hold graduation a few days after finals, it's certain that you contact us so we can go ahead with the project. They offer their services free for one night.

Graduation Set Prior To Final Exam Week

The final examination schedule was released Wednesday by Academic Affairs. Final exam week will be December 12-14, three days after graduation ceremonies for approximately 105 seniors. Graduation will be held December 15.

The FtU alumni contacted Dr. John R. Bolte, Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs in reference to the early scheduling of graduation ceremonies. Bolte said that the order was not unusual and that it was done this way in many colleges and universities.

The graduation date was set prior to the time when the final exam schedule was decided upon.

Printing Funds Needed
For Environment Profile

A bill will go before the student senate Tuesday requesting $150 of student funds to finance the printing of an "environmental profile" of FtU.

The project, a term report assigned to over 40 FTU students taking Engineering 48H "Man and Environment," was assigned by Dr. R. D. Doering and will come out probably in the beginning of winter quarter this year. It is titled "Environmental Impact of Florida Technological University."

Dr. Doering suggested to the class that they schedule the report be printed. Over $100 was needed to finance the printing of about 150 copies. Junior Senator Jim Thomas of the College of Social Sciences volunteered to propose a printing cost bill to the student governing body.

Dr. Thomas asked them to "talk to their delegations" on the matter. "I hope it will pass on the second reading." The bill will be read for the first time and referred to committee if necessary. "I don't think it will be referred to committee for study. It is clear," Thomas opined. After the second reading it will be voted upon by the body.

Copies of the report will be bound and placed in the library for the use of the students. Copies will be available to the administration and various student organizations on campus.

The report, a 70-or so page appendix review of FtU, is being compiled by individual students under the direction of Dr. Doering. Some of the topics covered are: man and environment, FTU and the environment, input-output model of FTU, environmental profile conclusions, economics, biological sewage, solid waste, water, air, and clean air.

Some people around FtU have been complaining that FTU's dump is an ecological disaster area, in direct conflict with the university's stated goal of leadership in the fight to save our environment.

The FtU alumni took a tour of the dump and found it to be well maintained and quite attractive, as dumps do go. There may be better ways of getting rid of trash, but for now, the dump is less than a mess.
There was standing room only and not too much of that Monday night when the Pegasus Trio made its debut. The newly-formed trio featured faculty members Dr. Leonidas Sarakatsannis, Professor Richard Collins, and Professor Arpad Stomorum Debasy, and Shoktskianova.

The Tartini Violin Sonata in D Minor was first on the program. Written in the same key as the famous Devil's Trill, it is not without its share of virtuoso exercises. This was Collins' first performance before the FTU audience and he was enthusiastic when he started the stage. Once into the piece, however, he played with confidence and skill. The sonata contains many pleasant melodies as well as numerous trills. Most notable to the writer was Collins' excellent playing of double-stops in the first movement. Chadwick's Piano Duet Minuet featured Dr. Sarakatsannis alone. His Flow playing did justice to the composition. The first movement: almost sounds like Beethoven with its half-try, yet energetic character. The second movement features the Polonaise in F-sharp minor and America and the Scherzo and trio, and Dr. Sarakatsannis' playing is flawless. The third movement is the familiar Presto with a beautiful trio which was played effectively. The piece ends with a very spiccato presto movement.

Professor Stomorum performed the Debussy Sonata for Violincello and Piano and was accompanied by Dr. Sarakatsannis. This is a very unusual work and was very well done indeed. It begins with a maestoso melody, then somewhat elegiac piece begins with a unaccompanied harmonics on the cello and throughout the first two movements, the violincello duet was the most striking element. The third movement contains a beautiful melody which is shared by the violin and cello over dark chords in piano. The final movement offers the piano its chance to shine as it plays a mischievous melody against an ornate effect created by the other instruments. The piece ends on a number phrase true to its elegiac character. This contemporary piece provided an exciting conclusion to the program.

Mr. Al Kovac, Building Services, night shift, was the winner of the Custodial Award for the quarter.

Mr. Kovac came to FTU custodial department October 6, 1969. He is fifty-eight years young, married with two children, one girl and one boy. He has had eighteen years of experience in custodial work. Here he is in charge of the shampooing and refinishing team. Mr. Kovac is doing a fine job. Has a wonderful personality, a good sense of humor, and is well liked by everyone; a credit to the department. Congratulations, Mr. K.

Greeks keep themselves busy this week supporting various mascot candidates. Phi Alpha Omicron deserves a nod for putting a lot of hard work into their campaign for the Golden Falcon. Work consisted of floats, posters, banners, paraphernalia, and a lot of enthusiasm. Greeks triumph once again as the most involved group on campus.

FTU’s first basketball game Tuesday night was a win for the sisters in their organization at the Ramada East on a percentage basis but it looks limited to the basketball court as their enthusiasm. Greeks is coming. And along with the play of their efforts, the campaign was a success.

Sororas. Sororas. Sororas. President John Books is President of the Fall Tri-K’s pledges were kidnapped from their homes on Wednesday morning by Bascoms and Lilac House. Their efforts were later turned to the dorm area at FTU and sent on a bizarre hunt, following clues all over campus. It was quite a sight. But in the end all was well when the pledges found the answer to their conundrum.

Delta Tau is proud to announce that Ted Roberts is the winner of the First Annual Delta Tau Bowling Tournament. Ted garnered Tony Windsor, Bob Smidley, and Gene Lempera, 35 pins for the series proved to be the margin of victory. The Delta also announced that John Books is President of the Fall 1970 Pledge Class while Gene Lempera has been elected secretary-treasurer.

Tri-K’s pledges were kidnapped early in the morning by Bascoms and Lilac House but Sunday when they were at 5:00 in the morning, the sisters were informed with their parents knowledge, of course.

The brothers of Sigma Alpha racing team were on the basketball court as the night went on. The little sisters and their friends claimed the team. They also plan to travel to many away games as possible. It looks like all the Greeks are waiting to win that trophy for attendance at the games. Points are on a percentage basis but it looks like PAE is in the preliminary lead.

Lack Of Funds Closes Lib. Early

Because of the shortage of OPF personnel in the library, library hours have been cut. Besides the lack of funds to purchase OPF for student assistants, the library also has a continued shortage of full-time personnel because the state has not given FTU enough employee positions to fill. In cutting the hours, the library has noted that the smallest number of students using the library come on Friday evenings and Saturday mornings. Consequently, the decision has been made to close the library during the times of least use.

The new schedule which will go into effect on this week is as follows: Monday - Thursday: 7:45 a.m. - 10 p.m. Friday - 7:45 a.m. - 5 p.m. Saturday 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Sunday - 2 p.m. - 10 p.m.

Mr. Tobias, a native Californian, is the recipient of several awards. He is a prize-winner of the San Francisco Symphony Foundation, the Kimbark Foundation, and the Young Musicians Foundation. Tobias, a student of Gregor Paganini on the cello because of his unusually quick learner, he was able to extend his daytime program in the VC Auditorium from 2 to 12 noon time slot. The purpose of this is to allow commuter students to register to vote in preparation of what the student body considered the most important voting week in history.

The Educated Man Who Can't Be

This is the third in a series of six articles on the educated man. This week Dr. Robert D. Kesten, Dean of College of Engineering, relates to the student his concept of the educated man.

Newman wrote, "Education is a highly personal matter. It is something individual. You know, education is not just an individual's right; it becomes educated in many ways, and the university is just one of these. Who, then, is the educated man?" I suggest it is the one who is a debt of his education.

Debts do not disappear. If a student has been in college for some time, he has to realize he is building on the ingredients? Professor James Schroeder, University Campus Sociology, one of the main professors, it should go very quick.

Administrative Frowns
Greet Abortion Plan

The Futre has been informed by Temple University of Philadelphia, P.a. that they have organized an Abortion Referencre Service, (ARS), for its college community. The service is an outgrowth of the literality of abortion laws of various states, and its purpose is to inform people of the proper procedures in obtaining an easily accessible and inexpensive termination. ARS started as an aid to Temple University only, but its services have been demanded by many social groups in the Pennsylvania area.
They claim that it is difficult to help everyone because ARS is a non-profit organization, operating on donations, and staffed by volunteers day and night.

Even though liberalized abortion reform bills are being passed, certain criteria must be met depending upon the state. According to ARS, in New York, where abortions are legal upon the will of the mother they can be performed on an outpatient basis safely up to the twelfth week of pregnancy from $320 to $350.
After 12 weeks hospitalisation is required and the cost jumps from $750 to $1800.

ARS outlined the abortion procedure. The vacuum-aspiration method, allegedly the most advanced and painless, is the procedure which is performed on an outpatient basis. The patient may experience some fallacies in acquiring an abortion, and the procedure requires and the cost jumps from $1000. to $350. Also, the proceduremay take longer than expected, and no method is completely safe. According to ARS, the entire operation is explained to the patient in order to remove all fears and doubts so that the patient will go into the procedure in excellent psychological condition.

A review of the particular case determines any special precautions to be made. Then a conference is held with the administration.

Once in effect, the actual abortion is performed on the patient. For immediately or after half an hour's rest in the recovery room. The stump is removed from the uterus. The entire operation is explained to the patient in order to remove all fears and doubts so that the patient goes into the procedure in excellent psychological condition.

Many doctors and nurses perform such an operation because it is easier to schedule the surgery once ne assistant and painless, is the impression is that the entire procedure is safe and simple, and handled with dignity.

However, the Futre consulted two students of the administration, Dr. Edward W. Stoner, the Director of Student Affairs, and Gwen Ratch, Dean of Women, who did not have any misgivings about ARS.
Financial aid is not a reason for getting an abortion, but was because of the demand. Many

FIRE ENGINE

Starts Spirit

Sirens screamed and flashing lights flashed Tuesday at 11 a.m. as the Fire Dept. fire engine which were driven around the campus to attract attention to the rally's start.

About 150 students and faculty members gathered to hear the Fire Dept. pep speech from coach and the director of Service, Sales, and cheerleaders. Featured were the members of the Fire Dept. basketball team, Don Mathis, Jim Flanagan, Pat Fitzgerald, Mike Clark, Rudi Ancell, John Smith, Mike LaLone, Bob Jenkins and Mike Disney.

Frank Roehm, director of P.E. facilities, gave a short talk about the relationship of sports to FTU, saying that the team was not paid, nor were there any athletic scholarships. He said that at FTU the attitude was that intercollegiate athletics were not a business, but a program at the university, but that they are a part of the university.

A trophy was given to the end of the school year to the freshman or sophomore who displays the most school spirit by attending games after year.

The Mascot election was conducted by Paul Sicca, a "conquistador" for his mascot name.

The rally, sponsored by the Fire Dept. was carried out in a pep rally atmosphere with the cheerleaders, P.E. half-time entertainment, join the students and faculty.

About 49 people have signed up for today’s bus trip, including the Fire Dept. cheerleaders. It will leave at 11:30 this afternoon and will return about 1 p.m. Saturday. Those who do not have reservations may show up at the Dayton Beach Boarding Station and take the bus. The basketball team should be on the radio to keep the students together. Schmidt promised.

Because of my outstanding job (a-hem!) during football season, I must pull out the old dusty crystal ball and rely on the spirits of frightened cows, the crystal ball), have devised the first predictions of my opening statement. Well, folks, here it is.

So, until next week, shall return with full columns of great guesses, see you out there.

To predict this week's top ten, I have taken all the teams that won and lost this week and used some statistical method to figure out the results of the matches that they played.

Bombers' Harry Kelch and Grady Sykes congratulate each other after the team's victory over TAU's. The game was played for the championship.

"Basketball players at FTU play because they want to, not because they are paid to."

This is the opinion of Dr. Frank Rohrer, director of the physical education facilities, stated Monday in a press conference held at the Ramada Inn East and reiterated Tuesday morning at the pep rally for the basketball team's season opener against Embry-Riddle.

"I'm not against athletic scholarships — if the program is not disrupted," he continued. He said that when it gets down to the wire in a game, in the last minutes. "It's the team with the highest morale who wins," he said.

Dr. Rohrer admitted that when the money became available for scholarships in all fields, FTU's athletic endeavor, scholarship money, would be handed to the respective coaches to work with. There are presently two intercollegiate teams and five club sports, which were predicted as reaching the intercollegiate level at the rate of two a year. Rohrer noted that Gregg Gregory, the FTU wrestling coach, was brought down as well as basketball Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark under the impression that they would have no scholarships to work with.

Dr. Rohrer closed emphasizing the student orientation of the FTU athletic program — not just fresh," he concluded. "We want leadership in the athletic program — not just fresh," he concluded.
"To Reach For The Stars"

Watch That Last Step,
It's 12,500 Feet Down

By Duncan Marks

Jeff Fredrick is definitely a dropout. The FTU student is not an academic dropout; "I just do my thing," he calmly states. He does his thing at 12,500 feet. Fredrick drops out of airplanes. He is a jumpmaster, a sport parachutist who has completed well over 100 free-falls. Right now he is recruiting interested persons to form a competitive skydiving club to compete against many other schools such as the University of Florida, Florida Institute of Technology and Embry Riddle.

Competitive sport skydiving is not showing your opponent out of a plane while thousands of feet high; it is landing in a target zone, performing acrobatics and precision maneuvers while hurtling towards the surface of the planet at speeds near 125 m.p.h.

Fredrick has managed to work a deal for the interested FTU students which includes United States Parachutist Association membership as well as Falling Stars (Rockledge) club membership. To someone who wanted to jump and went to a commercial outfit, it would cost $35 for the course, and first jump, $10 each additional jump and $41 equipment, $2.50 jumpmaster, $1.50 plane, $20.00 for club membership and $35.50 "suit." Fredrick claims he can get all this for a total of $80 for FTU students interested in forming a diving club, as compared to $90.50 for non-club rates.

The club members dive every weekend; both Jeff and friend Dave Fowler are campaigning for club approval on campus; an adviser, Dr. Mattson, has been selected. All interested "dropouts" are asked to contact Fredrick at 671-5056 or Fowler at 276-4244. You are at 12,500 feet...you are hurtling outward at 125 m.p.h. What's it like? Ask Jeff Fredrick, jumpmaster, veteran of over 100 free-fall jumps:

"There is no feeling of falling...you feel a lightness. The ground doesn't come rushing up at you. There is no difficulty in breathing; it is very relaxing. There is a fluid, rocking motion of the ground beneath you...you maintain complete presence of mind during the fall...no blackouts or adverse effects. There is no chute-opening shock...the landing is similar to jumping off a two-foot-high bench. The parachute is the most reliable piece of equipment...even the Apollo space program, with all its funds and research, uses a parachute to bring the astronauts back to earth.

Statistically, sport parachuting is not dangerous. The insurance rates are higher for flying than parachuting. The person with the self-destruction urge is not welcome in the drop-zone. Safety is the rule in sport parachuting. You pack your own chute. You are trained (actually twice what a commercial center would train you) by our Club to be competitive on an intercollegiate level utilizing acrobatics, intricate maneuvers and pinpoint landings.

Collin St.

After reviewing Mr. St. Clair's exhibit, I can't help feel let down. For I had expected to see some artifacts that were supposed to be shown to seven chosen areas in the United States, to be the representation of a national harvest displayed in foreign countries. I was quite disappointed. I talked to Mr. St. Clair, employed here at P.U., before the exhibit was displayed and became quite excited upon its arrival. Mr. St. Clair is a Hungarian and quite proud of his country, but I feel that the display was lacking in “visual” pride.

An example of this was the rather large photographs that were completely lacking in visual clarity. The labeling was illegible and in an informal style. The crown, the highlight of the display, was a bad representation of any work of art.

The jewels looked fake and the gold bank of the crown looks as if it were a good polishing.

The only interesting area in the exhibit was Mr. St. Clair's own personal collections from his mother's land. These were the artifacts in the central display at the end of the exhibit. They are in a wood beautiful. But again, I saw that anything exhibited be labeled with some explanation of form and function. This would give added meaning to the whole exhibit. Mr. St. Clair in an institution of higher learning I expected more, and by watching the students react by the exhibit I think they did too.

Analysis of Drugs

Lecture Subject

As seen by the great number of problems concerning drugs it appears that they are being abused. For this reason the Miami University Center is sponsoring a series of programs aimed at informing our community and finding a solution to this problem. Before a solution can be found, however, the reasons behind the abuse must be analyzed. This all forms the basis for this Friday's topic—the psychological aspects of drug abuse. In it psychiatrists Dr. Norris Brackeen, Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York, and Dr. Frank Volland, Savannah, Georgia, and his psychologist at Orange Mental Health Center, Dr. Edmond P. P. Williams, will examine the id's commitment for drug treatment of the Nerva Center. Under Patrick H. O'Neill, has itself been involved in the causing and rehabilitation of our 600 drug cases this year.

Saint Stephen's crown rests in regal splendor on a pillow inside a case inside the P.U. Library for all to see.

“Pints for Pedro” Continuing at FTU

Students at Florida Technological University seem to have a real knack for lending a helping hand to those less fortunate.

Such is the case of young Pedro Menendez who lives in Brevard County. He is just 15 years old, but already he has suffered more than many other much older people.

This summer Pedro walked through a plate glass window. It took 32 stitches to sew up his leg. It was discovered in the operating room that he was a hemophiliac—a few bleeder. His leg has been bandaged since July and continues to bleed daily.

Doctors now have to operate again in order to see if there are fragments of glass still causing the bleeding to continue. In order for the operation to take place, at least 256 pints of blood are necessary on standby.

The Sigma Sigma Chi fraternity at FTU is helping Pedro. They have decided that the work of November 24th will be “Pints for Pedro” worked on the Florida Technological campus and at area blood banks. Area residents and members of the FTU community are encouraged to give blood for Pedro.

The Central Florida Blood Bank, meanwhile, will be on the FTU campus the whole day of November 24th. FTU fraternity-staff students have been working to give the drive its best.

The Sigma Sigma Chi “Pints for Pedro” drive chairman, stated that blood donated on campus goes to the FTU Blood Bank in the name of Sigma Sigma Chi fraternity to be distributed for “Pints for Pedro.” The excess will go to other need plasma.

Those giving blood off campus should do so in the name of the FTU Blood Bank, Sigma Sigma Chi Hemophilia Foundation.

In this column, the phrase “little boy locals” was used to describe the attitudes, activities and behavior of FTU’s social fraternity. Since then a few things have happened that made me think the “little boy locals” are maturing and becoming more responsible.

The first was the recent IFC judicial hearing concerning alleged rush violations by a member fraternity. The matter was within the jurisdiction of the IFC and was, I feel, handled effectively and reasonably.

The fraternity involved was charged with violating the rush moratorium by having two rushees at a football game. Two important points were crucial to the case. First, there was none of the cut-rate definition of what a rush moratorium is—only tradition and opinion—and neither is enforceable as law.

Second, the violation of IFC rush rules comes under the jurisdiction of the IFC Rush Committee for adjudication. All of FTU's seven other fraternities violated at least one rush rule during rush. The rush committee considered those violations as minor and did not prosecute. The presentation of one fraternity for the violation of an ill-defined rule would result in more petty bickering, name-calling and back-stabbing, and would damage the fraternity system as a whole. The IFC judicial committee made a wise, mature, responsible decision by dropping the charges. All of FTU’s fraternities benefited by their action.

Some other things happened during intramural football that have caused me to reconsider my previous statements. You can learn a great deal about people by observing their reactions in an athletic contest. It is one of the few places in life that is clear-cut; there is a winner, a loser, and an impartial judge enforcing the rules. It's tough to play, tough to judge, and tough to lose. It's tough not to approach an official after an emotion-charged bitter defeat and say, “Hey! I didn't like any of the calls you made, but I think you called a good, fair game.” This happened to me more than once during the season. And I'm not even a member of a fraternity. During the major portion of the first half of "The Birds," most people will try to lick bull to find the deep social significance or symbolism in the play. The lines and some of the setting appear to be too sternly, the humor comes out as an intellectual curiosity, like noble puns in a 16th century poem.

But from just before the intermission until the end of the play, it rises in warmth to become a splendid and enjoyable production. It is from this point that empathy overcomes curiosity and the characters become real instead of human projections. It's what makes "The Birds" a great play - don't be too starchy, the humor comes out little subtlety but it's there.

An "interest list" is being circulated on campus in order to measure support for a proposed day care center on the FTU campus.

A meeting was held last Tuesday for anyone interested to discuss possible plans for the center. A committee was formed to research possible plans and circulate the interest list. The list is designed to count the number of students, faculty, and staff who would make use of a day care center. Any interested person is asked to sign the list, is asked to drop a card to the Psychology Department, AD 139, giving his name, number of children, and ages. The list will circulate until next Tuesday.

The Psychology Department is also contributing work hours of one of its staff members, Dr. Ben Lakey, who will serve as director of the project. The department hopes to be able to use the facilities for "research and student training purposes," says Dr. DavidAbbott, department head. He also says, the committee is hoping funding will come from the University once concrete plans for the center are established.

"Chemical-Biological Warfare and Science" will be discussed at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Science Auditorium as part of the Sciences in Human Affairs Lecture. The Dec. 3 lecture, also in the Science Auditorium at 7 p.m., will be "The Potential in Genetic Engineering."

Under Florida Statute 70-362, when a student at a state university is charged with possession of a narcotic drug, that student is automatically charged as an administrative hearing held after such person is formally charged. If such suspension is recommended, the student is made up of five students, by the consent of the students involved, will consist of the dean alone. Proctor said that if the student is charged with possession of a narcotic drug, that student is automatically charged as an administrative hearing held after such person is formally charged. If such suspension is recommended, the student will be automatically suspended from all classes of the university's decision will be made after the legal results are known, and then it will be made by the Student Advisory Judicial Board.

In making projections, Dean Proctor said that if the student is judged guilty of the charge, then there is a "red flag" position that they will be expelled from FTU, but if they are acquitted then there shouldn't be any problems connected with the university. Under Florida law, if a person is suspended from a state university due to violation of the "red flag" then that person may not "be admitted to such an institution until three academic years of junior college for a period of one year.

The Student Advisory Judicial Board will consist of five students and four alternate students chosen by the chairman of the board, who is in turn appointed by the President of the Student Government. I could go on with an infinite number of examples but my main point concerns reality in education. We must face ourselves up and begin facing the facts of today. Daring to tell it like it is! We as educators can't do this, then we have indeed forfeited our claim as the shapers of the children's destiny.

I challenge you today, to do the same-to share your homes the truth of today. Naturally, common parental sense will dictate to us all the extent of your discourse-the same must hold true in our schools. But we must shed our veil of hypocrisy, we adults, and prepare our children for tomorrow-today.

As the famous (or infamous) Marshal McLuhan states—we (meaning you and me) live in an age of the rear-view mirror, choosing to sustain our comfort and security from the age of Ross Cartwright and Benjamin.

Today's kids don't buy this. They want a voice in today-the real world. They are less interested in goals and more in roles. They are less interested in goals and more in roles. They are less interested in goals and more in roles.
