Leaders of all campus organizations were invited to meet with the Executive Committee last Tuesday. The topics of discussion were FTU - its problems in building, enrollment, and money, and a proposed tuition increase.

Additionally, time was set aside for students to talk with the Committee regarding their problems and suggestions to solutions to FTU problems. The representation from the different groups included: President, Vice President Brown, Vice President Goree, and Dean Mercier of the College of Humanities and Social Sciences.

The President has a problem. He is facing an increase in tuition expenses for the upcoming year which is considered to be a rather large percentage of the university - at least those who care about the university. He's trying to figure out what to do about the problems and come up with solutions. Consider that the Greeks alone amount to 800 students. Add to that all organization members on campus and you have over 3,000 active and involved students. The President meets with student leaders and administrators a good one is a shame that there wasn't more representation of student organization presidents.

J. M. L.,

To Have A Greek Week?

There probably wouldn't be much argument to the statement that the Greeks of FTU are by far the most involved and active people on campus. Whether it's basketball, baseball, tennis, or fraternities, Greeks do seem to be involved and to serve the university and the community time and time again.

These could be interpreted as positive statements. However, the Greek system is in danger of losing a great deal due to a lack of organization and communication between themselves. It might be beneficial for them to have a better understanding of each other, but also themselves.

The current issue is Greek Week. The weekend event was held the first week of May last year. That leaves approximately one month for a decision. Obviously, unless some miracle takes place, FTU will either not have a Greek Week or have a much smaller one.

That is unfortunate because it is one of the few events that bring all Greeks together as a good time and healthy competition.

Our Week is going to have the same problems that last year's had. That is another thing. The decision cannot be made in a manner similar to last year when IFC decided a Greek Week. The decision had better be made pretty quick and it is a decision that should be made by the Greeks themselves if they are reluctant to donate one to ten per cent of their salaries for the major win.

Greek Week is a necessary part of Greek life and it would be a shame to allow such a perfect opportunity for communication and a lot of fun pass by.

Thoughts On Stupidity

The following is a conditioning of 'Some Thoughts Concerning The Concept of Stupidity For Those Who Still Believe That The University Should Be a Peaceful Haven For Learning' (Or What A Fall of A Semester The Way) by D. Stephen Gours.

'Stupidity' is a condition with which most of us must live. For us, it is constant, it is real, and it is part of human nature. Stupidity is with all of us and most of which we must tolerate. Unfortunately, it cannot be overcome. What is important in the matter of stupidity is that it is clearly defined, that it is recognized, and that we try to deal with it. We must develop an understanding of the extent of its influence on human nature.

Stupidity arises out of the problems of human nature. It is a function of his intelligence. Stupidity, on the other hand, is irrelevant. It indicates a lack of understanding of people frequently behave in incredibly stupid ways.

Listings of Stupidity

1. Stupidity is missing a final exam, telling the instructor that the course textbook is borrowing when one has not even purchased a copy of the book. Let alone read it.

2. Stupidity is not going to class for an entire semester and then asking the instructor what the chances are for getting an A or B in the class.

3. Stupidity is telling an instructor that the course textbook is borrowing when one has not even purchased a copy of the book. Let alone read it.

4. Stupidity is not going to class for an entire semester and then asking the instructor what the chances are for getting an A or B in the class.

5. Stupidity is giving a speech advocating the abolition of grades and then asking your instructor why you don't get an A in your course.

6. Stupidity is introducing one's speech with the expression, 'I ain't much of a speaker,' and then not understanding why the instructor requested to see the student.

7. Stupidity is thinking that when one throws about cheating, other members of the university will not immediately believe that one is in need of getting a grade.

8. Stupidity is saying not one word in a discussion and then wondering with the instructor if he had any help in grading the participant's contributions.

9. Stupidity is telling an instructor that one has a core blood disease and then being unable to specify the disease.

10. Stupidity is not following an instructor's name after having been in class for an entire semester.

11. Stupidity is thinking that Reader's Digest is a 'primary source' for all research.

12. Stupidity is thinking that Reader's Digest is even a good source for any research.

13. Stupidity is even considering using Reader's Digest as a source for any research.

14. Stupidity is believing that Jerry Robin is an objective authority as to what will happen to the university.

15. Stupidity is not being able to understand why faculty members are required to pay two to ten per cent of their salaries for the payment of student fees.

16. Stupidity is thinking that wanting a college degree is a sufficient condition for getting one.

17. Stupidity is being unable to understand why items 1-16 are indices of stupidity.

Letters To The Editor

Thank you.

Dear Editor,

Recently while waiting for my daughter, an FTU student, in the vicinity of the Village Center, I lost a hand tucked leatherette case that contained several personal items. I am thinking this means to express my indebtedness. I am sure that there was a thoughtful person who found it and turned it in to the Lost and Found Department where I recovered it a few days later.

Perhaps the finder will learn through their religious association that I am sincerely grateful.

Story Corrected

Dear Editor,

A few mistakes should be corrected and divergent view should be explained in reference to last week's FTU article entitled "Greeks and Daniels in the Lines Den".

First, Article C, Section 1, Subsection B deals with some general constitutional revision, I quote 'Article V, Section 1, Subsection B deals with general constitutional revision.' That's correct.

Secondly, in reference to last responsibility to those whom they represented.

Can you promise a student to do a deal with the proposal.

Sincerely,

Frank Smiley

Editorial Blasted

Dear Editor,

The following is a quotation "A Race To The University" was called offensive and racist by a student representative of the majority of students.

No one needs a sociologist to tell them that everyone does not have an equal chance in this country. It is impractical for a society of people to have total equality. There has been a sudden shift in directions and I believe concerned about their fellow man. The truth is, the majority of white Americans do not want equality for the minority. To some, nothing is more feared than true equality.

Equality and realism go together. It is not necessary to go to school in an environment where there is only two per cent admittance of Negroes. The black population of the Orlando area is larger than two per cent.

Schools should represent the real world and achievements should be allowed to learn that this is not a white world. Blacks, Chicanos, lily-white world and students should be representative of the majority of students.

Question: Is Lake Lee Polluted?

...YES

By Mike Critics

Lake Lee is one of the most beautiful lakes on the campus. It can be reached from the dirt road that is the first right turn past the entrance to FTU from Alafaya Trail.

Dr. Wanielista affectionately refers to the two students as "Marty's Marauders." He says that the pair will strive to "keep the lake as virgin as possible."

The pair's first idea was to reconstruct an old dock on the lake. They will be getting rid of some of the weeds. Their primary intentions will be to beautify the lake and maintain the natural environment.

J. C. Hicks, superintendent of grounds at FTU, sanctioned the project. "They want to do something about environmental problems, rather than just talking," explained Dr. Wanielista.

Campus Planner James Schroeder's explanation of the Lake Lee situation differs from Dr. Wanielista's contention that the lake is virgin, Schroeder says that the lake is partially polluted due to drainage from the housing along the highway and the university. He goes on to say that FTU is changing the drainage problem. No university expansion is planned for the Lake Lee area.

...NO

Mr. James Schroeder

Larry Pope and Tom Rhoden, students of ENGR 488, are working on a project with Dr. Martin Wanielista, associate professor in Civil Engineering, to determine the bacteriological, chemical, and physical characteristics of Lake Lee. Pope and Rhoden will be attempting to find out what can be made of the lake, including for fishing and possibly for drinking water.

The lake covers an area of approximately 20 acres, about half belonging to FTU. Lake Lee is located in the southern section of the campus. It can be reached from the dirt road that is the first right turn past the entrance to FTU from Alafaya Trail.

Madrigalians Choir Give Performance

By David Bottmer

The choral contingent of FTU’s Music Department presented a program last Sunday in the Multi-Purpose Room. Featured were works composed by contemporary masters and from the present, and the Concert Choir.

The Madrigalians began the program with four madrigals from Orlando di Lasso, the great 16th century Flemish composer. Reflecting the brilliance of the Flemish polyphonic style with its rich harmonies and intricate rhythms. Moving forward chronologically, the group sang “Dog Day afternoon” by Larry Sanger, composed by Joe Morel, Tom Harden and Harvey Dixon, played a prominent role, and “Ode for a summer morning” by the composer Philippe Verdrell. “Spring Returns” by Berndson, featuring elaborate interplay between alto and soprano was followed by Loscalzo’s “Mountain,” a passionate, deeply felt expression that changed to a mood of nostalgia, then changed to a mood of nostalgia, then changed to a mood of nostalgia, it then changed to a mood of nostalgia.

Completing their section of the program, the Madrigalians sang three songs from the Graduate School, “Folk Songs” by the composer Henry. This is a novel, light-hearted suite consisting of the humorous “The Old Man,” which contained some very interesting visual effects and expressions which were effectively produced by the choir.

The second half of the program featured the concert choir first with “The Loves of Licorice.” A moving contemporary piece containing the humorous “The Old Man,” which contained some very interesting visual effects and expressions which were effectively produced by the choir.

By the most interesting piece on the program was William Schuman’s “Requiem,” a moving contemporary piece containing the humorous “The Old Man,” which contained some very interesting visual effects and expressions which were effectively produced by the choir.

The final number was “Restoration” by Benjamin Edwards, which, although a section in full choirs and brilliant climaxes, provided an apt conclusion to the program.

Army Engineers Corps Explained to Students

By Mike Critts

Lt. Col. John R. McDonald, deputy district engineer of the Engineers Corps, spoke to students in a Science Auditorium last Tuesday. Lt. Col. McDonald’s speech was to point out the dangers to wildlife which are being faced by the Engineers Corps.

The Army Corps of Engineers was established following the phase of the Vietnam War by President John F. Kennedy. Lt. Col. McDonald briefed the students on the history of the Corps and its early 1900s exploration of the West. Lk. Claire Development: Effects Hard to Predict

As FTU expands into the Lake Claire area north of the campus, ecology-minded students will be developing the lake will have on the development will have.

Dr. Don Henley, assistant professor of Biological Sciences, quoted the cost of the project at $15,000. In addition to classrooms and laboratory facilities there will be a lime stone parking lot and road, and the main cause to Lake Claire.

The entire area that Lake Claire drains off is not intended for the maximum benefit to the students through a minimum of environmental destruction.

The escaping odor is obnoxious to many students who soon. There is no admission charge to play.}

Jean-Pierre Hallet, collector of African tribal artifacts, author, and professor of Art History, will be the FTU Retiree Auditorium Tuesday at 10 am. After delivering the first portion of his program he will answer questions about art and crafts, until 11 am when he will present the second half of his story.

Hallet, who signed with the Belgian Ministry of Colonies in 1941, is the only Canaanite member of the two pygmy tribes, the Bannande and the Lango. Assigned to the Congo as an apologist and theologist, Hallet had to win the confidence of the African tribes with such feats as building a 450-pound lion with a Masai spear, an act which only three of three Masai warriors survive.

Hallet feasted six short-horned languages and 17 dialects. After capturing their trust, Hallet was able to teach the African tribes to cultivate soil, to build homes and schools.

During a drought, he asked his officers by deforestation and dynamited fish to provide food for the starving people of southern Congo. He lost his right hand when a defect he had to walk alone through the most of people in the area.

Hallet decided to leave the Congo because of the unemployment. Unlike most European expatriates who forced to escape and leave all their possessions, Hallet packed about 13,000 pounds of material and was escorted across the border by a hand of his tribe brothers.

The collection is now considered one of the finest private collection of African art and is now at the University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona. The collection was donated by Jean-Pierre Hallet, a life-long resident of Arizona, and his wife, Linda. It includes more than 2,000 rare artifacts from the African continent, traditional cultural, art and folkloric, to be called "Congolands, USA."
Godfathers Delay Transfer Program

A two-year effort to standardize admissions criteria for community college students seeking entrance into Florida International University, was delayed at least another month by the State Board of Regents meeting in St. Petersburg this week.

Despite plans from some university presidents, the board voted to postpone action on a proposal which would eliminate from consideration a failing grade in a course if the course were re-taken and a better grade achieved.

Under standing procedure, a junior college student who received a failing grade in a course in history, took the course over again with a resulting "A", would be given credit for a "C", the current college entrance administrators would see and judge.

The new proposal would allow only the second grade to count and be considered on a junior college student's transfer application to a state university.

Arguing against the new plan was U. of Florida President Dr. Steve OConnell, who said it would create a number of new problems. "And besides, the economic effect of this has not been fully analyzed."

Board Member Clasie Ferguson said he would like to see the plan expanded to include the freshman and sophomore students in state universities who decide to transfer to other institutions.

"I don't think a student should be punished every time with a resulting "A", second time around in a course by taking the course over again for the first time through," Ferguson said.

A strong advocate of the new plan, Dr. Charles Perry, president of Florida International University, said he would like to see most of his students from the ranks of junior college students.

"There are broader aspects involved here than just grading," Dr. Perry said, the board to a question of the community colleges in the state is a viable part of the state university system. If they are not going to be considered, then must there be treated within the state university system, lower division to handle the needs of the new students.

"Stalemate," Dr. Perry concluded. "Tiers are changing."

FTU was a vote in favor of the new plan at the meeting of the board of University Presidents.

Despite the nearly unanimous support of the president, the board rejected to return the proposal for committee for further study.

ULLIS NAMED

The Regents approved the appointment of Dr. E. Louis Ellis as Dean for Graduate Studies and Research.

The Regents agreed to call an indefinite (5-year) moratorium on new doctoral programs in the university system in order to study the changing needs in these fields.

Representatives from the Council of Student Government Presidents predicted during the meeting that the Council will become a potent force in the university structure. SG organizations expressed strong opposition to any increases in tuition.

Regents' Chairman D. Burke. Kibler, III, told the board he was there would be a way found to keep figures increasing that it would ultimately be up to the State Legislature.

A suggestion that student fee monies used for SG might be re-channeled toward making up monies lost by SG representatives.

PRO STUDENTS

The Regents were asked to take a hard look at professional students "...the fellow who wants to make a career out of staying in school." It was noted that not most students want a quick education in order to be able to make a living, there are some who are working part-time, making a living, and money with no real goals in mind.

The State Board of Regents has approved a retraining program for thousands of jobless engineers and technicians at Cape Kennedy.

The board okayed partly be followed by a $322,000 federal grant to set up the program, a study program at FTU, Brevard Community College and Florida Institute of Technology.

When the study is completed, a $15 million grant will be sought to implement a pilot program which, if successful, will retain more than 3,000 Cape people in the fields of environmental studies.

The two-year masters program in environmental systems management will be directed toward making pollution experts of the workers laid off by NASA, FTU, and FIT will re-train scientists while BCC will train technicians.

The political aspects of the program were still evident during the brief presentation to the board by Orlando Regent Dr. Louis Murray.

Dr. Murray made it clear that FTU's part of the program would involve just those persons in the Orlando, Titusville and Daytona areas, and FTU would in no way attempt to offer overlapping services with FIT, Melbourne.

FTU officials have been angered recently by what they considered was an attempt by FIT to establish itself as the center for technical education in Central Florida.

The boundary lines set up by the Regents meeting were seen as a stab at re-establishing harmonious relations with the Melbourne school.

FTU is being expanded for and directed by an organization and administration of activities, programs and courses which were two in the Villages: student faculty, staff and alumni of FTU.

The turning point in the season was the first home dual meet — when FTU defeated the University of Tampa in front of a standing-room only crowd at the campus Villager Center.

"To save the team a victory of victory," said Ellis, "I brought them together. The most improved player on the team, it seems is Jim Weaver. In the eyes of the coach Ross, John Robinson is next on the most-improved list. Both are in the area. DICK Biggers, and Fred Masai.

"No one has come along tenaciously," commented Ellis. "He has never slept twice in golf the dual meets we have. We have scored more than he could expect for both classes. After two meets, he went in state, won in three out of four and took fourth in the state. "Norton was beaten by super-Gator God's Children in a 1-1 decision.

Next year, the wrestling team will compete in 15 to 20 meets, half at home. Among the collegiate schedule will be the 15th Caroll University from Florida, Ohio, a strong wrestling team, with the dual champs from University of Florida, Florida State, Florida Atlantic, and Tampa; and possibly Georgia and Georgia Tech. Also on the mayas

"The grapplers plan a trip to either New York or Virginia; they will enter tournaments like the National Collegiate Intercollegiate Wrestling Association meet in Charlotte, Tenn.; the Georgia Tech Invitational in December, the build-up to SunShine Open Tournament in Miami and all AUA contests in the area."

"One of the greatest disappointments for the students to make, though, said Ellis, "is getting publicity for golf. Everyone we get knows what and where FTU is at that rate, in a few years, we will really outsca the competition."
The Aquanight, the new FTU Scuba Diving Club, get together before braving the dangers of the deep. The purpose of these plays is to promote interest in foreign languages at the secondary level. The MRA meets every Monday at 10 a.m. in room C-118-B.

The rules will open on schedule. The group of about 20 people were taken on a tour of all phases of construction at Disney World, and came back with a wealth of information, see the bulletin board.

The MRA has finished the Resident Student Directory. If a student finds a mistake, he is asked to inform the MRA as soon as possible so that corrections may be made early next quarter. The regular meetings of the MRA are open to all male residents. If a resident has a gripe, he can let his representative know, or, better yet, he can attend an MRA meeting himself. Christi Rudolph is ready to save you. As soon as the FfU swimming pool is ready, that is. Christi will be lifeguard at the pool, something that will come naturally to this pretty 18-year old Freshman Physical Education major. Besides swimming, horseback riding, sports watching and other hobbies, Christi enjoys sewing her own clothes. We don’t know if this FuTUre Friday Girl sewed her own swim suit, but anything is possible.

She plans to get her Masters in PE and teach the subject in high school. (Who will be next week’s FFG? Watch this space.)
