More Credit Hours Asked

Changes in the block teaching schedule and an increase in credit hours for student teaching were recommended by Student Government, resolutions passed at the November 18 meeting.

The resolution read, "For scheduling one day a week off for junior block education majors and increasing credits for student teaching from three to four hours.

"These two resolutions are a package plan, and the basic idea is to alleviate the problem of study time for students in the education block-plus the fact that we now get 15 hours of credit for 40 hours of work per week," said Danny Scott, sophomore education senator and one of the sponsors of the bill.

According to Senator Debbie Hanover, who originated the bill and who is currently in the junior block, "The years are in the block you attend class five days a week and this doesn't give the student time to do the required work.

Dean Calvin C. Miller of the College of Education expressed the opinion that the current block teaching program is the best way to prepare the student for teaching.

"The program as offered was the result of calling upon experience, suggestions of the State Department of Education, education and planning by the FTU faculty," he said. "Our concern is to provide the students with what our educators believe to be the best possible experience, and the current program is geared toward that end. The program we have designed, we believe, is the best program for the student and we are confident it provides the best teachers." Miller also said that the current trend is toward more student teaching and said there has been "considerable encouragement" from the Florida State Legislature to incorporate more and earlier student teaching programs. He cited as an example the University of South Florida, which requires continuous student teaching for five quarters.

Miller, who stated he was not previously aware of the resolutions, invited interested students to meet with him to discuss the situation. "We want to talk to the students to talk to us and at the same time, we want to talk to students and explain the program," he said.

Concerning the modification of student teaching, he said, "It seems to me that the module and product we are in the middle of is the best product. If we do any other, whatever our educators believe to be the best possible experience, and the current program is geared toward that end. The program we have designed, we believe, is the best program for the student and we are confident it provides the best teachers." Don't Stop The Buses

Student Government President Frank Santry announced this week that Student Government will not sponsor bus transportation to out-of-state basketball games. High costs and lack of anticipated student participation were probably key factors in the decision.

This year's season includes eight out-of-state away games, of which at least three are within commuting distance. The rest are so far away that even the basketball players probably understand when no one shows up.

Granted, all SG programming is intended to be of interest to a majority of students, and traveling to Georgia for a basketball game will probably not interest the majority. But as we have said time and time again, no activity has ever appealed to that overly-considered "majority."

The 1971-72 SG budget allocates $2,000 to buses to away games under "Policies and Programs." The in-state away games total only five, so there is bound to be a surplus of funds in that account.

A successful trip to Southwestern Georgia University was made last year on a nearly full Greyhound bus.

In our opinion, transporting approximately 40 students to Georgia does not even come close to appealing to the majority of students.

But what of it? How many participate in anything?

Surely there are a lot of arguments against the buses. These games force the student to miss an entire day of classes. They do not appeal to a select few. Home game participation is low—what can we expect from a game out of state?

All valid arguments, but they all miss one point. That select group is the same select group that becomes involved in nearly everything.

The remainder of that $2,000 would be well spent if allocated to just one out-of-state game.

Poetically Yours
And It Came To Pass...

And it came to pass.

Early in the morning toward the last day of the quarter, there arose a great multitude smiling the books and wailing.

And there was much weeping and gnashing of teeth. For the day of judgment was at hand.

And they were sore afraid, for they had left undone those things which they ought to have done and there was no help for it.

Who had kept watch over their books by night, but it availed them naught.

And there were many abiding in the dorm one known as the instructor, and they feared exceedingly.

And the multitude arose and ate a hearty breakfast. And they came unto the appointed place and their hearts were heavy within them.

And they had come to pass, but some to pass out.

And some of them reported of their riotous living and bemoaned their fate, but they had not a prayer.

And at the last hour there came among them one known as the instructor, and they feared exceedingly. He was of the habitual smile, and passed papers among them and went his way.

And many and varied were the answers that were given. For some of his teaching had fallen among fertile minds, while others had fallen flat.

And some there were who wrote for one hour, others for two, but some turned away sorrowful, and many of these offered up a little holl in hopes of pacifying the instructor, and these were the ones who had not a prayer.

And when they finished, they gathered up their belongings and went their way quietly, each in his own direction, and each one vowing unto himself in this manner: "I shall not pass this way again."

Letters To The Editor
Sitting Room Lost

Dear Editor:

Suddenly a sign, "Faculty and Staff," has appeared on the door of the little sitting room adjoining the women's restroom on the first floor of the Administration Building. This comes as a shock.

In the crush of space, in the Administration Building in particular, hundreds of students must compete for a place to eat, to study or to rest during temporary illness.

It seems reasonable to assert that the students should have a right to the space just snatched from them—by virtue of its locations as well as on the grounds of need.

How a sensitive faculty or staff member would want the exclusive use of this area at such a cost to so many is difficult to conceive.

Photos, Woodcuts

Mrs. Frieda Bulger, who last year donated some 10,000 color slides of her world travels to the department of instructional media, has made another contribution to FTU. She has donated photo album, prints, woodcuts and framed art pieces and artifacts from such diverse places as Poland, Japan and Easter Island to instructional media.

Director of Instructional Media Richard Cornell said, "If these materials are used as much as the slides, we'll never see them long enough to catalog them."

Pass-Fail Plan Discussed
As Possible For FTU

By Larry Shiman

“There is no reason why a pass/fail system would not work here at FTU,” according to Dr. David Hernandez and Charles Dziuban of the College of Education. They added that the system is presently used in a few of the newer seminars.

Colleges and universities across the country are switching from the traditional grading scale (A, B, C, D, F) to the pass/fail system of grading. Hernandez said the standard system of grading places too much emphasis on grades and not enough on learning.

“This constant pressure to make the grade, the A or B, can cause physical and emotional problems,” Hernandez said. “Cheating increases and retention of knowledge decreases.”

Hernandez said all electives at FTU should be offered on a pass/fail basis. He said, “Colleges should offer students a choice of grades in a course. Some students will still prefer the ‘A’ or ‘F’ grades.” Hernandez said, “They feel they are getting cheated because someone else may have done C work and gotten a pass.”

Dziuban said society “drums grades into our heads from the time we’re old enough to know what a grade is. No matter what we do, we can’t get away from sticking a grade on it.”

Dziuban said that Antioch College, Ohio, has instituted a pass/fail system for all its courses and that “it seems to be working quite well.” The University of Chicago also uses a pass/fail system, and the University of Wisconsin allows each of its students to choose which grading system they wish to have applied to their courses. Under the pass/fail system, the professor sets certain goals which he feels he should be accomplished in the course. If the student meets all of them, he passes; if he does not, he fails.

If the student passes, he receives credit for the course. However, no grade point average is involved. The student is merely credited with the proper number of quarter or semester hours toward graduation.

“The pass/fail system will work if both the professors and the students are receptive to it.” Hernandez and Dziuban agreed.

To date, the pass/fail system is the only feasible alternative to that worn out system of A, B, C, D, F,” said Hernandez.

He added that European countries have used a system similar to pass/fail for centuries.

Florida International University, the state’s newest university, will operate under a credit no credit grading system when it opens in September 1972.

The new system suggests an approach to higher education where the goals and objectives of a course are described in performance terms, according to Ronald C. Butler, FTU registrar.

The grading approach will include one level of recognition above credit, which will be called honors credit. The system uses the following grading terms:

HC - honors credit - indicates that the student not only met performance criteria of the course but went beyond agreed-upon criteria to a marked degree.

CR - credit - indicates that the student met performance criteria of the course.

NC - no credit - indicates that the student did not meet performance criteria of the course.

The credit no credit method students will either reach performance criterion or they will not. The “no credit” notation has no penalty to students’ record and the only losses are time and money.

Florida International will join an elite two per cent group of United States universities using a pass/fail system for all its courses. Other schools with pass/fail systems are:

The University of Chicago
The University of Wisconsin
Ohio State University
Florida State University
The University of Miami
University of Florida
University of Houston
University of Colorado
University of Arizona

The system is not without its problems, said Hernandez.

One university official said they feel that the modern system of grading has several advantages, both to students and to the university. One of these is an end to the threat of expulsion and the temptation to cheat.

Another is that it will encourage students to take courses outside their major field without the fear of lowering their grade point average to a point where one of competition in the classroom.

SANTA CLAUS (alias Jerry Smith, who is a professional Santa six months out of the year) loves children. "I have to remind myself though that it is not me they love, it's Santa. The good Lord was good enough to make me look like Santa and to the children that is who I am," said Smith whose son Larry is a senior at FTU majoring in zoology. How real is this Santa? If you ask how old he is he will likely tell you, "It's hard to say, but I got my glasses in 1750 when I was too old to see good anymore." Smith, whose beard and build are genuine, works at an attraction in North Carolina known as Santa's Land.

Unconstitutional Bill Corrected By Senate

A bill providing funds to the Physics Society which passed the Student Government Senate on September 4 was found to be unconstitutional and was amended November 23 in order for the allocation of funds to be considered legal.

The final draft of the bill, including an amendment calling for an addition of funds, was passed by the senate although it violated Student Senate Bill 340, Section B. The amendment called for an additional $200 for Physics Society supplies. The amended bill violated Bill 340 on two counts, Section C and Section D. Calley’s platoon entered a hamlet of My Lai. Six men were killed; 12 men had been wounded. Some of the dead were killed by booby traps and mines. One soldier stepped on a mine and was split open just as clearly as if a butcher’s cleaver had sliced him in two halves.

The correspondent explained that Captain Ernest L. Medina, the company commander, had told his officers and noncommissioned officers during a briefing, “I want everything in the village killed.” A noncommissioned officer asked, “Everything?” Medina replied, “Yes, I mean everything, cats, dogs, everything.” When Calley’s platoon entered the village, an old man ran out shouting, “Oh number 1. Oh number 1.” He was killed by a soldier. Eventually every member of the unit participated in the “ orgy of death” that day.

Calley himself was chasing ducks with a knife and an old man was thrown into a well and a hand grenade was thrown after him. Men were killing water buffalo with hand grenades.

While Sack said that he believes Calley is guilty of murder—Calley admitted his guilt—he doesn’t think that Calley is alone in his actions or that his guilt is his alone. He quoted Calley as saying “I’m tired of killing. I don’t want to do it anymore.”

The correspondent said that American troops in Vietnam say “Calley was convicted for own sins which are responsible for more Vietnamese deaths than American ground combat troops.”

Sack explained how some of the devices work. One of the more interesting devices is called plastic dog-doo. The plastic dog-doo actually is a disguised electronic device that can detect troops walking or vehicles driving near the command post.

Sack termed it “killing by remote control.”

Excitement Is 'Superstar' Live

By Beth Weldenman

To have heard the album is not to have heard the music of "Jesus Christ Superstar." The Original American Touring Company easily proved on November 23 that a live concert brings out much in the music of the Webber-Rice opera.

"Superstar," presented at the Municipal Auditorium, was the type of production in which each scene seems to be the best, in which no one person can be proclaimed superior, and about which even the stage men speak excitedly.

Billy Barnes portrayed Jesus. He is a fine, sensitive baritone who played his role with much strength. He did not move much on stage in comparison with other players, but easily conveyed the anger of the temple scene, the self-division of the Garden prayers and the agony of the crucifixion.

Almost all reviews mention that Barnes is black, but so are many other of the players, including Annas and Pilate, which removes a black-white confrontation interpretation; and Barnes was selected because of his voice, not his color.

The portrayal of Judas by Dennis Beline brought concern into which the authorities) only need a small excuse to put us all. Aucuma and Aeneas; and Barnes was Herod's mocking Jesus was a quality deliberately played his role.

Almost all reviews mention that Beline, whose part in Rushton, emotionally in reply to Judas' (Dennis Beline) charges of hypocrisy. The chorus included Morton, in comparison with other players, but easily conveyed the soothing of this song, which charged the opera blasphemous Jesus and which urged young people to turn to the "Living Christ who is God, not just a man."

"Members of the Company said they had not been picketed often, and several felt that some picketers had not seen or heard the opera itself, but were just taking someone else's opinion.

Susan Morris as Mary Magdalene and Dennis Beline as Judas won high critical acclaim for their roles in "Superstar."

The Orlando performance was picked by the Christian Action Fellowship, who numbered about 30 persons at the beginning of the show. They circulated leaflets which charged the opera blasphemed Jesus and which urged young people to turn to the "Living Christ who is God, not just a man."

JESUS (Billy Barnes) and Mary Magdalene (Susan Morris) sing a duet in reply to Judas' (Dennis Beline) charges of hypocrisy.

Singers were the crowds, the disciples and other small parts in the opera.

Sound, while occasionally distorted, was fairly good, considering the auditorium, and it was unusually free of equipment difficulties associated with electric music. Lighting was used instead of curtains or long pauses, and spotlights were very effective when not interrupted by a photographer's strobe light. Sound was by Vicky DeLorenzo, lights by Ken Anderson and equipment by John Wesley Amos III.

Elf, Santa Contest To End At Dance

Final voting for 1971-72 Mr. Elf and Santa Claus is tonight at the Christmas Dance. Finalists were selected Tuesday and Wednesday by ballot in the Village Center Snack Bar.

Today is Red and Green Day, and the traditional Christmas colors are being worn by FTU students. Several of the fraternities and sororities are making special efforts to wear red and green.

The dance itself is tonight from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Multi Purpose Room, and Charles Dike, decorations chairman, has said, "They'll never recognize the place." The dance is formal-semi formal, and admission will be $2 a couple. Music will be by "Fire."

A photographer will be at the dance to take pictures of couples sitting on Santa's knee.

"She's got a point," commented the judge, who was hardly able to hold his breath. "Technically, there's no point.

"That's not our concern," said the judge, "I don't think we can allow him to..." The judge stopped, mid-sentence, since the bailiff had done a fine act of the kind with the serrated edge for cutting from squealed squirming in his mouth.

"Objection overcome," the bailiff interrupted. "Is it true, Uncle Claus, question that was dropped. "GUILTY!" shouted the judge, "The bailiff grabbed the desperate clown, who was lying face-down on the floor, after allowing himself to be new four out of the kind with the serrated edge for cutting from squealed squirming in his mouth.

"We can't do dat. Him not weal Alaska." The bailiff grabbed the desperate clown, who was lying face-down on the floor, after allowing himself to be new four out of the kind with the serrated edge for cutting from squealed squirming in his mouth.

"All right, already. You win, you won," shouted the judge, hanging up his coat on the bench again. "The old man can go fair."

REVEALING SITUATION

As a cheer arose from the kids Santa awoke, and realizing the chance to do a new four out of the kind with the serrated edge for cutting from squealed squirming in his mouth, to be in full dew of the sun over the snow. He promptly opened the front of his suit, exposing himself to the horrified spectators. It's a trick. Put me away, somewhere far, far away from here. I don't have any idea how cold it gets out there at night? Have you ever worked with a bunch of old men? No way. You can't lock up Santa, and begun to draw several spectators closer, and one expectant lima.

"You can't lock up Santa," shouted the judge, hanging up his coat on the bench again. "The old man can go fair."

"All right, already. You win, you won," shouted the judge, hanging up his coat on the bench again. "The old man can go fair."
Special Tickets Offered For Folkloric Show

Tickets for the National Dance de Mexico “Folklórico” will be available through Student Government under the newly adopted entertainment subsidies program, and are available at the Campus Kiosk daily from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. As one of the world’s most popular ethnic song and dance organizations, National Dance de Mexico “Folklórico” is making its first coast-to-coast tour of the United States this fall under the patronage of the National Institute of Public Information.

The artists in the National Dance de Mexico “Folklórico” are drawn from all parts of Mexico, although most come from the province of Aztlan, from which the original company took its name. It is an integrated unit disciplined in the arts of Mexican music and dance, according to Silvano Ranzo, director-general of the show.

Throughout each performance the costumes represent a sort of “fashion show” of traditional regional costumes from Sonora to Yucatan. The colorful display of costumes is designed to give the audience an insight into the diversity of the peoples and cultures which comprise modern-day Mexico. The traditional dance of these people provides many clues to their regional characteristics and differences.

Even the authentic music, played by the Mariachi and Mariamba bands, reflects the customs and traditions of the various ethnic groups that make up the vast and fascinating land south of the border.

GAME BUSES
Chartered buses will be secured for student transportation to out-of-state away basketball games, according to Student Government president Frank Santy. There will, however, be no buses to out-of-state away games. There will be no charge for transportation to the games. Santy estimated that the buses were chartered last year for the out-of-state Southeast Georgia games and are available for only four or five students on a 45-passenger bus.

FOREIGN STUDENTS

The Foreign Students’ Organization of FTU met two weeks ago to elect officers and make plans for the club. Club president and vice president were Marcelo Canedo Ward and Chuan Shuan Tsai, respectively. Magnusson was chosen secretary.

The members discussed preparing a New Year’s party to bring together FTU’s “International set.” The group was represented on the student board by Husain Kassim, the group’s organizer, said that the FTU Students’ Organization involves not only students from other lands but also nonstudents who wish to become friends with them.

ARTISTS OF THE National Dance de Mexico will perform songs and dances of their native land Sunday at the Municipal Auditorium. The costumes of each performance present a type or “fashion show” indicating the diversity of cultures in modern-day Mexico. Tickets for the one-time matinee performance are available to FTU students at the Campus Kiosk.

Approximately 4,800 students were registered during pre-registration although the computers spent about as much time up as they did down, according to L. Edward Knight, director of records and registration.

The first day of registration went fairly smoothly, with only one short delay during the second hour. The worst delay of the entire process came on the third day when the computer was down for more than three hours.

After half an hour of waiting for the computer to “come back on,” registration officials decided to draw up a new schedule for that day and students were notified.

By 2 p.m. that afternoon registration had been completed, although personnel remained until 6 p.m. in case there were any more registrants.

The last day of pre-registration was calm, with only a few short delays. However, students had more problems on that day because of closed classes.

No back-up system was used during advance registration, but such a plan will be used during regular registration.

The card-packing backlog was used after full registration and proved its worth on the last day when the Gainesville computer ceased functioning and 150 students were registered "by hand.”

Knight said that officials were pleased with the response to registration in the library. He said the students were well-behaved and courteous, and expressed appreciation for the help given by WFTU and the Committee of 20, the students who assist with registration. He said the use of the weightlifting room for the Keypads machines added privacy and a look of prestige to the student affairs office.

The student members were legislation to three weeks after being presented before the Board of Regents at a special meeting, and the bill has been approved. Therefore, an unsigned bill cannot be acted upon.

Bill 4-8, passed by the Student Senate October 14, limits the time allotted to the vice president for student affairs to set up legislation to three weeks after passage of the bill. If legislation is not presented within that time, the bill provides that the legislation shall become law.

“Instead of bill 4-8 not to let legislation get held up,” said SG Legislative Assistant Fred Daniels, “It forces the office of student affairs to get material out and returned to us because there is now no set time limit.”

The SG Senate voted to override Brown’s veto at the November 18 meeting, and the bill has been referred to President Charles Milligan.

“Let the students looking into the matter and we are trying to arrange a meeting with Milligan to discuss the bill,” said Daniels.

1:45 p.m., Fri., Dec. 30

The Survival of Student Senate Bill 4-4 concerning right of review by the vice president for student affairs hangs in the balance after a “friendly” veto by Dr. W. Rex Brown.

Brown, vice president for student affairs, vetoed the bill on the basis of his interpretation of the Board of Regents operating manual bylaws. His reason for the veto is that the Board of Regents statutes provide that nothing can become law without the president’s approval. Therefore, an unsigned bill cannot be acted upon.

Bill 3-69 prohibits the use of Student Government funds for support of political organizations.

The bill was first introduced by three students at a meeting of the Student Government. However, the original version of the bill was amended in committee and the bill as introduced is section III, subsection 20.

“This is the first opportunity for students in the state of Florida to express interest and become involved in pre-primary activities,” said Santry, “The primary should be a good indicator to candidates as to how the student vote will go, and hopefully it will stimulate more active campaigning on campus.”

Santry also said that the project will encourage more pre-primary activities for FTU since it will bring statewide attention to the university as being the center of the undertaking.

It is hoped by supporters that the project might accomplish the two-fold purpose of giving added insight and interest to students in the elections and of illustrating to presidential aspirants the importance of the college campus vote.

By allowing only registered voters to participate in the primary, hopefully Project Vote will encourage more students to register, Castellan said.

The project is also designed to provide a forum for the approximately 3,000 students in the state, allowing them to go on record regarding their opinions of the potential candidates.

Club Budgets

Include requests in their operating budget, and the FSU Senate would fail to understand how we arrived at such a decision.

You can't avoid the Board of Regents or the legislators, said Santy, "but the problem is that now this is an academic matter...the expense money needed by the departments in their program will be more freely distributed next year than they were this year.

Santy, however, admitted the possibility that if the funds were forthcoming from the state, it would become necessary to reallocate the system once again. Furthermore, defining the so-called program Santy explained that he has "a great faith in the ability of a man to raise money when necessary. I'm not at all difficult to justify the expenditure of large sums of capital money for relatively small indirect interest groups on campus.

Santy explained that he definitely feels it is necessary to distinguish between student activities and academic activities, and in the case of academic activities, the departments should be responsible for at least a portion of the funding.

"Homework is an academic activity," said Santy, "and I don't think everyone does homework. If a club activity is not definitely beneficial to the department, financial aid office with fee for winter quarter and may be considered for aid, all completed the academic year will be made.

Florida Teachers checks will be available after today. appropriation of funds from the ballet in by April 1. 'We have been limited now because of lack of staff and space, and it is impossible for us to keep it up. We will get in and test the new system."

"For the future we plan to continue our regular newscaast but we're going to be more like a 'network' image," he added.

Other club plans included planning a new rear projection screen, more special effects, a bigger staff and coverage of more areas on campus.

Budgets should also be made available to the Florida Teaching Center, Jackson, however it should be possible for the club to know in advance of the week of budgeting without putting in legislation to try to kill the clubs.

"It should not be necessary to set up these categories and functional divisions to try to allocate monies to academic clubs. Just group them all together and go from there. We need to get more monies to more clubs in less time and we would like to make only more departmentalization and thereby require more time.

Time is an important factor, according to Jackson, who says that this year has completely run under the system for clubs to plan projects. "It has taken nearly the whole quarter from the time the original budget requests were submitted to the time the actual bills allowing funds were passed by the senate. We need to institute a program that will allow clubs to get the money they need quickly enough so that we can use our money better and more efficiently.

Santy recognized the time factor, saying that the new program "would not necessarily increase the time factor. No one is happy with this system but it is the least substantially used supplemental request form that allows the clubs to request funds for projects one quarter in advance.

"There is no assurance that the new proposal will work," said Santy, "but it was to have a course of course depends on the appropriation of funds from the state. This is not, however, to introduce the idea in advance of the legislature and I would welcome any responses or additional comments on the program."

Tech Kills MacDill, 112-45

Bowie Top Scorer
In Season Opener

By LINDA METTEL and FRED CAT

The FTU basketball team began tuning up for its tough new intercollegiate schedule with a 112-45 thumping of MacDill Air Force Base in the opener of the 1971-72 season, Tuesday night at the Lake Highland Prep Gym.

Head Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark used all 12 players on his squad and five scored in double figures as FTU took command at the outset and rolled over the outnumbered Hawks.

Surprising freshman guard Tommy Bowie topped the scoring barrage with 25 points and Mike Clark was close behind with 23. Bowie, through only 5'11" showed some dirt moves around the basket and Clark scored often on fast breaks, outracing the Hawks' defense.

A small but spirited FTU crowd cheered the Knights on in fast action.

The FTU Knights vs. Florida Bible College and Palm Beach Atlantic College this weekend in home basketball action, both games will be at 8 p.m. at the Lake Highland Prep gymnasium.

Tonight's meeting with Florida Bible will be the 3rd contest between the two teams with FTU having a 2-0 advantage over FBC.

Tech defeated FBC 116-71 in the first meeting with Mike Clark scoring 31 points. The second game resulted in a 99-71 win for FTU.

Tomorrow's contest with Palm Beach Atlantic will make game number six between the teams. Palm Beach leads the series 3-2 and the Tech Knights will be out to tie the score.

FTU's first two meetings with Palm Beach were in the 1969-70 season. PBA taking the first game 63-50 and FTU winning the second 78-75.

Palm Beach took two of those games last year, 89-47 and 74-73. FTU's win was 78-75.

"If you are interested in joining Sigma Delta Psi, but cannot attempt qualification during this time, please check with the Intramurals office and have a card made out for you so that we can anticipate your involvement," said Intramurals Director Ken Renner.

Sigma Delta Psi is an indicator of athletic ability, and since there are individuals on campus who are qualified for such a category, Intramurals officials say they hope that many students, faculty and staff will attempt the completion of these tests. In most cases, many of the events will be easy, while others may require some effort in both practice and technique. For further details about the fraternity, the students are asked to refer to the FTU Intramural Handbook or call the Intramurals office at ext. 2408.

The Great McCorkle Predicts The Sports

By LARRY MCCORKLE

If you happen to ponder by Tallahassee and see the Florida State Seminoles busy at work, don’t be surprised. True, the 1971 college football season is officially over, but for which解决了 all is not over for FSU, there remains one more game.

I’m speaking of course of the post-season bowl games, and for the emotionally charged football fanatic the season has just begun. For many up on national television in the next month are over 10 such climactic games.

So without further ado:

In the Orange Bowl
Alabama 17, Nebraska 15

Two very fine defenses stack up here, and it’s probably their defensive play which has kept these two high in the polls all season. Nebraska held Oklahoma’s wishbone in check in their big Thanksgiving Day encounter. Stated in another way, Nebraska held Greg Pruitt in check while whiteboard Jack Milders ran wild. The reason was obvious.

In the Rose Bowl
Michigan 27, Stanford 15

Michigan is the solid favorite here, although as was Ohio State last year. Michigan’s ground game, led by Billy Taylor and Glenn Doughty, and an offensive line bolstered by Reggie McKenzie will control the ball.

In the Gator Bowl
Georgia 17, North Carolina 7

The Dooley brothers forge in this game. Dooley’s ‘Dogs’ will boast an outstanding running attack and defense while Dooley’s Tarheels will boast the axes. Take your pick. However in this case Georgia’s Andy Johnson will lead Vices over Bill.

In the Cotton Bowl
Texas 24, Penn State 29

For the first time this year, Texas should have quarterback Eddie Phillips back at full strength. Phillips is the key to Tex’s offense. Penn State has a fine team without outstanding running backs in Lerdal Mitchell and Franco Harris, but Texas has a definite advantage playing in the Cotton Bowl, Bowl "em, heroes.

In the Sugar Bowl
Oklahoma 38, Auburn 31

This should be the most exciting of the bowls. Oklahoma is not the type of team that controls the ball even though they score a lot of points. Their offense is nationally outstanding running attack and defense, led by Lydell Mitchell and Franco Harris, but Texas has a definite advantage playing in the Cotton Bowl, Bowl "em, heroes.

In the Fiesta Bowl
LSU 27, Iowa State 14

LSU’s strong running game and equally tough defense, led by All-Americans Ron Estay and Tommy Casanova, should have no trouble with the Cyclones if they play like they did against Notre Dame.

In the Orange Bowl
Georgia Tech 20, Ole Miss 13

Tech has an outstanding defense (ranked nationally against the rush) and a defense backfield which one reporter described as “almost committing pass interference every play” which seems to say they are always around the ball. Their offense is adequate, not spectacular.

In the Fiesta Bowl
Fsu 30, Arizona State 24

Fsu’s defense not allowed over 20 points scored on them all year, but the Sun Devils outstanding speed will cause the Seminoles trouble.

Special Season’s ‘Scope

IF YOU WERE BORN TODAY:

Ooh, Ooh, Ooh! The sun shines in your smile. Things that are good prosper and grow in your presence. You are called to serve your fellow man as a merchant of happiness. Get busy.

AQUARIUS:

Today you will discover a new rule: “smiling is contagious.” Smile at one who isrowning—you’ll see. Push forward and spread this regulation. Test it everywhere.

PIECES:

ARIES:

This season brings joy and good. Make it your business to spread this feeling to the rest of the year. Start where you’re standing and work out.

TAURUS:

DANCE! Kick off the shackles, and dance where you are. For one brief, fleeting moment, forget finals, forget papers, forget debts and forget the world. Dance, while the time is ripe. You’ll be a better person for it.

GEMINI

Use your hands and your flexible mind to construct gifts this year. No one in your immediate circle needs any more stationery or talcum powder. Be inventive. Create. Give a part of yourself. You’ll be surprised how quickly the void will fill back up.

CANCER:

You feel that troubles are falling in on you. You feel pressures are building faster than you can cope with them. Endure. This, too, will pass. (You may not, but this will.) (Think of what carpenters get today. Maybe you’re supposed to work with your hands, any way.)

LEO:

You deserve whatever is coming to you. You have been carefully working for it, these many months to nail all your friends to a wall, but now it’s your turn. They won’t need a phillips screwdriver, either.

VIRGO:

Aren’t you glad you live in a country with such a good memory? Who is Alexander Debak? Isn’t a Pueblo a small, mud but the Indians used to live in? Taiwan?

LIBRA:

Visit a sick friend this week. Take him a pan of fried squashes. Remind him of the old days before the accident. Then tell him how you are going to grow out long and paint the town up brown. Tell him you wish he could go with you. I am almost guarantee you will have lost a friend by that time.

SCORPIO:

Be kind to somebody’s grandmother this week. Sharpen up your anna’s game and head out. She may even feed you. You do like lasagne, don’t you?

SAGITTARIUS:

Let yourself go. Eat wild berries and imported fruits. Ignore warning labels and flashing red lights. You owe it to yourself.

CAPRICORN:

Who are you? Who sent you? What are you doing here? Argg. Take your hands off me. What are you...
