Service, Festivities Highlight Greek Week

This year's Greek Week activities have departed from the norm to establish the new tradition of participation in a service project in addition to the weeklong game field.

Members of Greek organizations, under the supervision of Student Government officials, Wednesday joined forces with a Lake Clare clean-up project in an attempt to ready the lake for the May 23 SG Graduation.

The official beginning of Greek Week will be a Volkswagen Parade at 3 p.m. April 27 led by "Herbie," the Volkswagen of "Love Bug" fame and will journey from the Library Building to the contest playing field. The decorated VWs will be judged during the parade for attractiveness.

All games and contests will be held on the playing field behind the Physical Education Building.

The parade will be followed by an egg toss, sack races and a VW stuffing contest. The FTU record in the egg toss was set in 1971 by 13 Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity members and the all-time record is 18 students.

The Greek Sing will follow the stuffing contest at 7 p.m. in the Multi Purpose Room and will be judged by David Boelzner, junior senator for the College of Humanities and Fine Arts and chairman of the Constitution Committee, and David Glass, SG president for the current year.

The theme of the symposium was "Women: Her Infinite Potential," and a variety of outstanding women resource leaders from colleges and civic clubs across the state spoke and led discussion groups on topics that included new careers for women, alternative life styles, birth control, abortion, fatherhood and child rearing, and women in politics.

Ms. Williams, a speaker, Eliza Pascal, a member of the Equal Opportunity Employment Commission, has been a leader in the movement to end jobs for women. She prohibits sex discrimination by employers, and any individual who believes he or she has been a victim of discrimination can file a complaint with the E.O.E.

A bonfire featuring free hot dogs and marshmallows will end the day's activities.

"Tomorrow's activities will include chariot races at the reflecting pond, tricycle races at the Village Circle, and other races and games, all of which will take place on the playing field. Prizes for the activities will be awarded," said Marilyn Busch, assistanc instructor, Jimmie Fertell, student affairs coordinator, and one other administrative official.

A party at C Bar Stables will culminate the events and feature hay rides and five refreshment. Greek dress is in August.

All Greek Week awards will be presented at the party. Trophies will be given to the "Most Enthusiastic and Participating Group," to the "Most Attractive Group" for Greek Sing and to the winners of the Char Starg and second and third place prizes for the House competition. Those events and the remaining games will also be rewarded by Keith Patterson playing by Chappell included "The Golden Arm," "The Interview" and "Flora's Glass Eye." Education Grading Practices Questioned For Validity

By Sharon Marek

Does the College of Education have the best students and the best instruction on campus? Is this why education students get a higher percentage of "A's" given than any other college on campus? Based on conflicting opinions expressed in letters received by the Florida Times-Union, the editors decided to undertake a study on the grading situation. In education as compared with the other five colleges at FTU.

It is a fact, according to a "grade comparison chart" compiled by the university for the winter quarter, that of 3,186 students graded by the College of Education for that period, 40.3 per cent of them received "A's".

The college with the next highest percentage of "A's" was Humanities and Fine Arts (28.4 per cent), followed by Social Sciences (24.9 per cent), Natural Sciences (22.6 per cent), Engineering (22.4 per cent) and Business Administration (16.1 per cent). According to Dean of the College of Education Celia C. Miller, this chart "does not represent a valid comparison." There are seven areas of Education has only 300 and 400 level courses, unlike most of the other colleges. If you want a valid comparison, you should get a chart for 100,000 level and a 300/400 level breakdown."

Advisement Begins May 26
Advance registration appointments for summer quarter will be posted Monday, and trial and advancement schedules may be obtained from various offices, beginning Monday. Advisement for currently enrolled students who plan to attend during summer will begin May 26. Advisement registration will be held May 24-26 in the Library Building. Post-baccalaureate students and graduate students who have been provisionally admitted will not be permitted to register until regular registration, June 14. Late registration will be held June 15 and concludes through June 18. Late fees for full-time students will be $25, and for part-time students, $10.

If help is delayed, it will have to be dropped on the gravesyards of many, many Bengalis.

Brooke's latest novel is "The Immortal Life," a story about a man who returns to his homeland to experience life as it once was. The story is set in Bangladesh, a country with one of the highest death rates in the world. Brooke's goal is to bring the readers into a world they may not have known existed.

Brooke's inspiration for the novel came from her own experiences in Bangladesh. Her family has been involved in relief efforts in the country for many years.

Once the June Monsoons Begin In Bangladesh, There's No Way Out But Up.

The June monsoons bring heavy rains to the southern part of Bangladesh, causing flooding and destruction. The monsoons also bring much-needed relief to the areas affected by the flooding. The monsoons provide a reset for the country after the devastating effects of the floods. The monsoons also bring much-needed relief to the people affected by the flooding. Twain's Humor Lives Again
In Presentation By Chappell

"In the beginning God created (Pause, chuckles)
"This was for practice."
(Pause, laughter)
"Then he created School Boards!"

And at that moment, the audience nailed and applauded in approval of John Chappell, character portrayal of the great American author Mark Twain, presented Monday, May 8, in the Science Auditorium.

Chappell's presentation, "Mark Twain On Stage," is a continuation of Hal Holbrook's creation, "Mark Twain Tonight," in which Holbrook gave a similar character portrayal of the author.

Speaking casually in the easy-going rhythms of Mark Twain, punctuated by significant pauses and chuckles, Chappell related observations and stories, successfully creating the illusion that the person on stage was the humorist himself, instead of a 30-year-old actor.

One anecdote flowed into another easily, spiced with such comments as, "My doctor told me I was on the verge of being an old man... I've been on the verge of being an angel. It hasn't happened yet." Or, lighting up a cigar: "Hope you don't mind--It won't make any comment as,

Chappell the actor recognized that his portrayal of the humorist depended upon the audience accepting the man in the white suit and vest as Mark Twain since 1969, as an actor playing a role. Having portrayed Mark Twain since 1969, Chappell now uses some material not yet incorporated into the Holbrook presentation.

Commenting on his first time to perform, Chappell said that he felt the audience recognized Mark Twain, and that it was like the author was performing and not, Chappell, was looking over the author's shoulder, "in vice versa."

He was complimentary of the PTU audience, saying that for most audiences he speaks somewhat faster than was the humorist's style, because "if you don't hurry, the audience begins to worry." For this audience, he said that he was able to slow down and speak even more as Mark Twain would.

The audience obviously enjoyed him-down to the last puff and glow of the cigar, and the last gruff admonition, "Go home!"

FACULTY RECITAL—Janette Ogg performed Monday night in the Engineering Auditorium, Nancy Cross accompanied her on the piano. Miss Ogg is studying for her doctorate in music at FSU.

Dream World Unfolds
By Grace Kehrer
Evon Streetman's photographic exhibit ends today. At first glance the show appears to be a simple and straightforward exhibit supporting Miss Streetman's philosophy. She does photograph those things she "likes," and the viewer is treated to a series of photographic studies of adults and children who look as if they enjoy home movies, bluegrass music and guitar playing.

Upon a closer examination the show is a journey back over and through the dream world of its creator. Miss Streetman visualizes in a three-dimensional form, the dream in which she lives. Miss Streetman traps her several lives, reborn in her dreams. Portraits of individuals merge with quiet scenes of mountain roads.

The dream's center is sought, found, lost, reformed, only to be lost again. Father, mother and grandparents exist in the artist's world, and mountain roads. The dream can only be grasped afterwards. Persisting, the fragility yet indestructibility of the dream is declared. Held for a moment in the photograph the true dimensions of the dream suggested. All is here and now, there and before, following and continuing. Miss Streetman's dream within a dream is opened up; the spectator is invited.

Ogg Performance Captivates Audience
By Werner Ivy
In a faculty recital last Monday night in the Engineering Auditorium, Miss Janette Ogg, a soprano and member of FSU's voice faculty, sang a captivating selection of pieces with energy and grace. Joining her in the performance of works by Mozart, Mahler, Martin Chandler and Wolf were pianist Nancy Gross, Gentleman playing the viola, Linda Thompson playing the flute and viola.

One of the most imaginative numbers in the program was a collection of "Eight Epitaphs" by Theodore Chander; these were the stories in song of eight people whose bodies rested in a forgotten graveyard. The moods of the epitaph ranged from mournful and mocking for the story of Thomas Logge, "a rascally dog," to tender for a little child in "Be Very Quiet Now."

These mood changes, as well as the ones in five songs by Gustav Mahler, were heightened and deepened by the expressiveness of Nancy Gross, divi pianist. Voice, violin, cello and flute complemented each other in "Quare Sonneti a Cassandro" by Frank Martini.

From the Mozart open "Idomeneo," the soprano performed the aria which the King of Troy's daughter sang as her lover was about to be sacrificed to fulfill a vow to the god Neptune. "In the Garden of Dixiem," by Hugo Wolf, piano and voice again did their wonderful work as Miss Ogg echoed an abridged part's longing to return to her homeland.

But the room piece, the folk song "I Wonder As I Wander," brought the evening to what was probably its most moving moment. Miss Ogg, who is studying for her doctorate in music at Florida State University, more than did justice to the achingly loveliness of this song's words and melody.

There will be a student recital on May 15 which will feature Julie Walker, soprano, and Rick McCool, baritone, and will take place on Monday night in the Engineering Auditorium at 8:30.
New Placement Service Offered To Transfers

National Student Placement Services of Boston (NSPS) is offering a new concept in education placement providing all perspective college transfers with the opportunity to find new colleges that provide programs correlated with the students' personal requirements and has guaranteed acceptance to college, if desired.

Regardless of grade-point average and reasons for wishing to change schools, the program is open to anyone considering transfer. This service will guarantee to match every student with mutually acceptable colleges that offer the career orientation and academic conditions that are compatible with his educational ambitions.

NSPS's computerized college matching system costs $56. The system prevents wasted applications which cost at least $25 each. A decision for the wrong school can amount to an enormous waste of time, money, and energy.

To utilize the services of the NSPS, the student must fill out a moms begin to encourage exploratory behavior, but they don't encourage it in girls as much as boys. This probably stems from the notion that boys are supposed to be more independent.

"Girls are encouraged to be dependent (an infantile state)," said Ms. Williams, and they are allowed to manifest it much more in girls than boys. Girls are called upon signifying the kind of independent self or self-esteem."

A follow-up study of gifted children showed that by the age of 40, 50% of the gifted girls were full-time housewives, and of those working one fourth were elementary teachers to office workers.

Dr. Kofogilis said that women are taught from an early age to assume they cannot be leaders or secretaries. Women are three times more restricted than men in getting into an occupation. To maximize employment advantages, she said women should get into clerical work. Only 7% of American doctors are women, and only 2% of our dentists are women. In France, 51% of their dentists are female, and in Finland and China, almost 80%.

Dr. Konyn Feig, director of special programs at the University of Pittsburgh and consultant to the U.S. Office of Education, spoke Saturday on "Women in Higher Education," and ended with a synopsis that evening with Dr. Feig talk on the problems in setting the pace for women.

Dr. Feig said that women in higher education are still in the lower ranks and are the lowest paid. Graduate students are still discriminated against and are not get jobs and fellowships. The new status of women is that we're the ladies' auxiliary or the human race," said she. "If we get the power, we'll get the position. We have women going back to the year that more women have been encouraged to leave, and are not given tenure. We need more studies to find out the facts of discrimination against women, we know enough to keep the movement going for the next ten years. We have to stand up and fight. No one is going to hand you power, you have to take it."

Dr. Feig closed by saying that the felt that everyone was educable and women should not be treated as if they can't be changed. "I do not believe institutions can be destroyed. I am in the establishment, working on changing that. You can't change the position structure unless you have some of the power."

CONSIDERING THE length of his pole this FTU window washer might do well to take up the sport of pole vaulting. He would probably have a good chance of setting a world record.

Constitution Revision

Limits VC Offices

A motion was ratified Thursday, May 8, revising the Village Center constitution, and limiting VC executives to two offices, president and secretary.

The change, which was ratified at a regular meeting of the VC board and the Student Affairs Conference Room, eliminates two vice-presidents which, according to Sandra Russell, VC Program director, "had worked themselves out." The new arrangement undoubtedly had been developing since the beginning of the board's constitution.

The president of the board now may appoint a board member to chair the meetings in his absence. All board members will be eligible for the two executive positions.

The board is large this year, made of 12 members who are working with a new program structure that is streamlined so several board members may work on each facet of programming.

The new programming areas include arts, education, leisure, entertainment and publicity. Under the arts division comes performing arts series such as the recent "Mark Twain Tonight" program, exhibits, musicals, and films, including university movies, ticks, and experimental films.

Education covers interdisciplinary programs, college bowl, lecture series, discover series, and poster discussions. Included in the leisure division are arts, crafts, recreation, cards and games, trips and outings, fashion shows and services.

Entertainment covers dances, popular concerts, coffeehouse and the folk festival. A new division, publicity, concerns activity day, public relations and publications. Mrs. Russell said the new division will be created to allow board members to work specifically on publicity, rather than require persons connected with VC activities to be responsible for communications.

the world. I refer to the recent verbal upsurge over the suspension of two dorm students who violated a major violation regulation. I must confess that, upon first hearing, the sentence of a year's suspension seemed a rather severe academic penalty for a social violation.

Considering, however, the certain irritation that was bound to arise among the students at such a sentence, I wondered what prompted the administration to choose such a course of action. Surely they realized what the reaction would be (it is almost a knee-jerk response): insipid, trite university to attend. And whatever the policy, I will trust the administrators' wisdom, education and humanity to enable them to correctly execute the policy or I will find another university to attend.

PIECES:
Slowly the giant, silent space ship lowered itself to the shimmering surface of the frozen, desolate wasteland. The floor, the waving natives seemed to fear as the craft gently touched the icy land. What was inside? What would emerge to confront the masses.

The tension mounted to a peak as the side of the craft glided open, and a reflective, metallic human face lowered. The natives fell on their knees and began to make their pagan chants to Dei gods of protection and of the turtle-sky. Augnom yacht names, Perone nova ask ush ush, Reauna moe suw ush ush.

Suddenly, at the top of the gleaming slabs, stood the invader. The terror was beyond belif. All those frozen as the creature took the cigar out of his mouth and spoke, "That's the magic word! You said 'duck.' That's the magic word and you win! Duck, duck, Kill, balance cock.

The erratic FTU Golds%ox, as unpredictable as Martha Mitchell, played two superb games and threw another away as their season record dipped to 12-17.

In one of their better defensive efforts of the season, the Golds%ox downed arch-rival FTU 1-0 behind the three-hit, .12-shifted performance of junior Bill Larsen in the coaching debut of Doug Holmquist.

Holmquist wanted no time at earning his pay with a timely bit of strategy in the sixth inning. Allen Tuttle opened the inning with a double. Senior Patrick McCarty, hitting a hot bat as of late, doubled to right field. McCarty broke for second base.

Actually there is a Wallace for President sticker on his dorm door and he is drumming up primary votes the hard way.

The Bombers opened scoring with a three-spot in the first against starter Paul Woods. After one out, Piatt doubled and came around to score when the hit was botched in left field. Van Mitchell then singled to left and scored when shortstop Rob Rodgers committed a throwing error after fielding Todd Toon's ground-er. Mead, in turn, couldn't do anything wrong.

Few could argue with him, especially not the TKE players, and no one did more to derail the first squad less than Piatt himself.

He pitched the entire seven-inning contest, holding the fraternity team to the final four frames. In all, he drove in six runs on three hits, including the big blow in a nine-run fifth inning -- a grand-slam double.

Despite Piatt's heroics, a strong team effort must be credited for the upset. No one participated in the Bombers' 20-hit attack. Lee Smith and Steve Jackson also rapped three hits apiece.

The Bombers scored three more runs in the fifth inning as Piatt was charged with a wild pitch. Mention of the fivewalks spelled doom to TKE's championship hopes.

The hits, to be sure, were "dropping in" as four straight singles, a forecourt, three singles and a walk preceded Piatt's base-clearing blast -- a total of nine runs.

Four more scores followed in the sixth, including two more hits by Piatt (he actually had a fourth hit taken away by Vandewater's fine shortstoping catch in the second) produced the final 15-run margin.

The Bombers' final season record was 7-1. The one setback was a protective 11-0 loss to 22'' who, according to the Bombers, used an ineligible player. Piatt, incidentally, didn't pitch that game.

"We just had a fantastic day," said Mike Piatt moments after he and his Beulah's Bombers teammates had thrashed Tus Kapps Epiphon, 19-4, May 4 to become 1975 intramural softball champs.

"This is the best game we've had all year." Piatt continued, still somewhat stunned by the ease with which the previously unbeaten fraternity team was disposed of.

"The hits were just dropping and we didn't do anything wrong."

The second baseman followed Piatt's arching, spinning singles and a walk preceded Piatt's first run-scoring hit. It was another Bomber victory.

The Bombers played another strong game and put together a series of base hits that scored runs in three runs of three runs in four innings.

A deep fly for second base was the only defensive miscue of the game.

CLASSIC SWING--Alan Tuttle laces a line-drive to right during a recent batting practice. Tuttle has been one of the few bright spots in the FTU lineup lately.

The University of Tampa, Golds%ox pitchers gave up 11 walks and six wild pitches.

Tampa scored seven runs in the first inning off pitchers Rick Dawkins and Bill Spellman. Tampa loaded the bases on a single, a walk, and a hit batter. Two straight singles produced two runs for Tampa, then a hit batter and a sacrifice fly made it 4-0.

A single, walk and sacrifice fly produced two more runs. The next batter flew out, but Spellman got into trouble by walking another batter. A single, another walk and sacrifice fly brought a total of six runs to Tampa.

The last run scored on a bad-bounce diving stab by Bombers' shortstop produced the final 15-run margin.

'Vociferous Vulture' Awards Given

Require magazine has their Distinguished Achievements Awards and The University of Florida has their Hurrin' Gator awards and now it's our turn. I have inaugurated a series of honors for FTU personnel for achievements in the sporting world and campus life that have gone unrecognized.

Known as the Vociferous Vulture Awards, I suspect they will never knock over his golden mantle but they will provide some compensation for those who strived so hard in the particular field of endeavor. The winners are:

Johnny Rose wins the Stoney Burke Memorial Trophy for stellar wrestling and mountain moving for his pinning of Victor Paxton, 425-pound wrestler from Florida A&M earlier in the wrestling season.

Why Are We In Vietnam Dept. - The FTU Times newspaper staff has successfully kept a lid on lauganda alive for more than three months.

Buddy Can You Spare a Dime award or the Got Any Spare Change trophy goes to Mary Student Government elects Steve Adamik and Lee Constantine who exceeded their allotted campaign funding by $8.08 and $8.90 respectively.

The Big Brother is Watching Award goes to that monthly individual who turned in our daring dynamic duo of the donnies:

"Oh Well That Explains Everything"- to the high-flying school official who explained the expulsion of the aforementioned "towers" by saying, "they are not being punished, they are being rehabilitated."

Winner of the Mighty Mouse Look Alike Award is Farrel Byrd, who lifted 245 pounds over his head.

131-pound frame to set a new state weightlifting record.

Why Only One? For The Fun honors goes to ex-Goldsox baseball coach John South. Smith who coached the team for three seasons without any pay whatsoever. When he found the team was selected for the job next season, he quit.

Rose (Sloane), FTU's assistant basketball coach, wins the Silence is Golden Award for continuous "no comments." You really missed your calling, Ron. You should be working for the Pentagon of FTC or for the Sales Department of FTC.

A Purple Heart for those brave custodians who ventured into the reflecting pool to clean it. But to no avail (the monster still lives).

Gabriel Yanni wins the Ugly American Award.

To Father Nature, we present you the Chicken Little Cynicism Award.

Also nabbing one of the literary honors was the recipient of the Ditch Legal Flash to the Pan Award for time-tested journalistic excellence, John the Good, Montessori teacher.

Honors for the Worst Athletic Competition of the year was between looking good even when they lose. The Trophies were awarded to the Dadd Vadd Regatta. For the team chose to enter the four-man invited to attend and view the proceedings. Women's softball also proceed. Women's softball was awarded the the Dadd Vadd Regatta. Danke, commented before leaving at the airport.

The Dadd Vadd Regatta will be the second organized race the team has rowed. For most of the season, the FTU team rowed in an eight-man shell. But for the Southern Regatta on April 18th, the team chose to enter four-man competition. They won the 2,000-meter race in a time of six minutes and 23.23 seconds.

FTU is the only state university that has a crew team. While it is not yet in the varsity status, the team has accomplished in one season what many veteran teams with financial scholarships never accomplish. North Dakota is they on edition. He is pretty well-versed in the sport of rowing since he served many years as the manager of the Rollins College team.

New Cagers Will Help Knights

Smith and Jones will ride again this fall at Florida Tech University, where coaches hope they'll carry from Hillsborough Community College enough to make a difference in the rugged South Florida junior college circuit.

By leaning on Smith, Kill and Jones will continue a partnership that started during this year's North-South College All-Star game, when both played for the South. Smith will graduate in June from Hihlsborough Community College, while Jones finishes at nearby Valencia CC.

Jones, who is a graduate of Orlando's Bishop Moore high school, stands 6'5" and is considered an excellent ball handler at center and forward. During the past season, he averaged 17 points and 10 rebounds a game. His high was 30 points against Indian River CC. He plans to return to Florida Tech.

Smith, a 6'3" forward, was named 18 on the list of scorers in state CC competition this past year. He averaged 20 points per game.

Florida Tech's crew team boarded a plane yesterday morning that took them to Connecticut where they will participate in the Dadd Vadd National Championships in rowing. They have no shell of their own, so the University of Alabama at Huntsville has loaned the team a shell to row in the regatta. They have no shell of expected to return with the medal.

They all are认定 for the team to compete. They plan to participate in the Dadd Vadd Regatta. Danke, commented before leaving at the airport.
