Grad Student Teaching Data Processing

By David Foster

Although the profession of teaching can be a blue one at times, for Suzanne Tesinsky it's cornflower blue from floor to ceiling. Teaching new in the highly colored classrooms of Southern College, an accredited business college which teaches both blind and non-handicapped students, Suzanne is graduating from FTU this quarter with a master's degree in education.

She has attained the "unique" distinction of being director of data processing at Southern before graduating from here.

Suzanne has spent the last two years at FTU as a graduate student, attending about two courses a quarter while at the same time keeping her job at Southern. Although she confessed that she has had difficulties, she has managed both well. In addition, she is also a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority.

She graduated from Florida State University with a bachelor's degree in mathematics, and since she comes from a long line of teachers she sought and obtained her teaching certification. She subsequently Das, an FTU student, took the prize from about one mile east of the Senate Auditorium on campus. The small lake has had debris and junk gracing its shores since before FTU was here, but the heap is steadily growing, becoming more and more of a potential problem. WKIS hopes that something can be done about the mess before it gets too late, and has scheduled a luncheon with President Charles Millican to discuss what can be done.

Academic Affairs Receives Pre-Registration Petition

The petition calling for the reestablishment of advance registration reached the Office of Academic Affairs last Friday. Consisting of 850 signatures collected over a period of four days, the petition had been initiated by Student Government and circulated by student volunteers.

The petition began circulating July 31, after the news of the cancellation of advance registration had reached SG. The decision to cancel pre-registration had been made at the SG Council's last meeting.

President for Academic Affairs C. B. Gambrell said that neither he nor many of the members of Student Government had expected the large amount of student dissatisfaction that has surfaced during the last week. He said he plans to open my discussion on the issue of reinstatement of pre-registration with SG President Steve Adamick and SG Vice President Lee Constantine as soon as possible.

Gambrell said the decision was not irrevocable and that pre-registration could conceivably be reinstated in time for winter quarter.

However, due to the fact that FTU now "between computers" at the moment, reinstatement of advance registration for fall quarter is an impossibility, Gambrell said. Registration programming is being switched from a research to a administrative computer at University of Florida in Gainesville.

Gambrell said the cancellation had been decided upon in the interest of increasing the efficiency of the overall registration process.

He said he felt pre-registration was a duplication of time and effort and the difficulties encountered in taking personnel away from their normal duties in order to work at pre-registration probably did not warrant the effort.

Gambrell added that although officials in his office had thought advance registration would give them an increased ability to predict class loads, it really has not. He also said that because students failed or dropped courses, much of the registration accomplished in pre-registration had to be altered in add-drop.

SG President Adamick said he is aware of student sentiments in the cancellation decision and added that he soon hopes to establish a rapport with the administration that will help avoid repeated occurrences of such situations.

The single most striking aspect of Southern College is the kaleidoscope of rainbow colors that makes up its decor. Representing a radical escape from the restrictive dullness of the more traditional institution, each classroom boasts its own violent hue.

The walls of Suzanne's workshop, the computer room, are carpeted in cornflower blue, the school's type room is shocking pink, the fashion merchandising room is a brilliant orange. There are also green rooms and lavender rooms, canary yellow and several other shades of blue. "It is an exciting atmosphere to work in," she said.

According to Suzanne, the teaching of visually handicapped students adds still another unique challenge to her already unusual position at the college.

A Matter Of Opinion

By Gabriel Yanni

FTU, August 11, 1972—FTU’s student body disclosed today pertinent information about the newly elected university president. Some ten years ago, 1962, there was a great deal of attention from the student body on the issue of a president. 1962 was a time of some discontent and it seemed that the student body had the reason to request the presidency of the campus on the basis of possible incompetence.

Some will say this will never or could never happen, not to an educator. But it appears that a similar situation is present again and has made the Free Press a new concern. The Free Press is a professional working journalist, students and faculty members will be suggested and discussed. The BOR hopes to establish a rule which will be followed by all campus newspapers. Some topics should be avoided, and be prohibited to the benefit of the large-school affairs, at the expense of the weeklies. We have a desire to exist that is equally as strong as the desire voiced by the dailies.

As a point of interest, the Free Press is only partially subsidized by state funds. It is presently run on a system which pays for about half of itself. The advantage that the Free Press generates pays for about 50 per cent of the total costs. The rest of the money, which, incidentally amounts to about $5,000 a year, which pay for the paper, comes last year, comes from student activity fees. The percentage has been shifting more and more that time that FTU did not have a need for a publications board.

To date our present system has worked well, although it seems to be unique within the state system. In fact, when the editor and publications advisor testified before a Board of Regents committee meeting in Tallahassee in June, the BOR members found the situation almost unbelievable.

At the September 11 BOR meeting, to be held here, the decision on settling a state-wide policy is expected to be made. A board-type situation, which would require, among other things, a lawyer to handle the issue. Some may say, "They can’t arrange it, for the sake of the community. Can’t you help?"

Several of my friends and I were very disappointed to learn that the possibility of FTU getting a good FM radio station to play classical music is practically nil. What can we do to express our interest in such a station? We desperately need a classical music station. Without one, we’re virtually condemned to the community for such a station, some financial arrangements may be made.

That must say something, but we haven’t decided exactly what.

Vending Room Lost To Academics

The removal of vending machine facilities from the first floor of the Administration Building will bring changes this fall-damnable and undesirable, depending on whether one is an administrator or student. The rooms, first made available for student use because the Village Center cafeteria could not accommodate the entire student body, will be used as classrooms, according to the University Space Committee.

"Coffee, milk and hot chocolate machines will be located at the knock under the stairway, and cushioned benches will be placed by them for student use," said Auxiliary Services Director James Filler.

"PUT's first priority is education and it is inconsistent to deprive a student of classroom space for vending machines. The Space Committee was most tolerant in letting us have the rooms when we needed them. With the August 15 opening of the new cafeterias and its scramble system we will be able to accommodate all the students without long waiting in lines, he added.

The faculty-staff lounge will still be located on the second floor and students are welcome to use the food machines in this room. However, students are asked not to eat in this room because of limited space and the hurried lunch breaks of the staff, according to Filler. Students are mainly concerned about the inconvenience the removal of the machines will bring.

"I don't think it was a right decision at all. The food was close to date here and why should I have to kill time by having to troop all the way over to the Village Center for just a sandwich," stated R. J. Doughan.

"We need a close facility to sit, eat and study. I think the worst thing is the removal of the sitting room," said Susan Autrey.

"There is no other place to sit and eat even if we can use the faculty lounge machines. It is quite difficult to balance chicken noodle soup on your lap while sitting on a cushioned bench," commented Kathy Wall.

"I started a petition to keep those rooms as they are and already I have 300 signatures. I really amazed at this response, even if we have only a 400 to 1 chance of accomplishing anything," said Tom Hackett.

The food machines will be moved to the VC vending lounge before fall. This new facility will be open 24 hours a day.

Salary Studies Suggest Change

The second salary adjustment since January 1 for the State of Florida was announced recently in every position in career services, UFJ employs affected by the report include noninstructional support personnel, involving supervisory, clerical, semiprofessional, and skilled and unskilled labor positions.

"When the adjustments were made, a little over a week and a half ahead of the July 1 implementation, we advised each employee by personal memo from the President what his salary adjustment would be," said Simmons. "This has always been our policy."

"We have a few open and open door hours at an advisory adjustment and we explain to my employee or student the minimum salary range of my service position," he added.

The Brown report is now being compiled into a reference manual by the state.

"It would be meaningless to publish the whole mechanism of the report, a very long paper because proper perspective would be lost. Misinterpretation, confusion and survivalism on the employee's part could result," said Simmons.

Urban Planning Study Receives Recognition

An urban planning study was presented to the Oviedo City Council this week by four FTU students.

Ron Rector, Bud Rich, John Scotting and Jim Boyter compiled the study as a course requirement for Dr. Stuart McEvans' Urban Planning class.

The project was judged best of all submitted by experts from government and private counseling services, and was presented to the Oviedo council on the suggestion of Seminole County Planner Dave Farr. It was a suggestion of the study's findings and recommendations on land use, transportation systems and community facilities in Oviedo.

Letters To The Editor

The FTU 1973 legislative budget request of $19,154,982 was presented July 26 to Chancellor Robert Mautz of the State University System.

The budget request focuses on the allotment of the state's share of the cost of employee salaries and employees' and students' transportation expenses for the educational system.

The report states that because the budget is for the fiscal year and the pool of available funds is limited, the total amount of money that can be requested is limited, and the request is subject to the approval of the State University System.

The budget was determined by two factors: Continuance of the current level of expenditures (including the projected student increase) and the minimum amount that would require an adjustment, $3,493,689. The 1973 educational budget is $13,081,266.

The additional funds will be used to improve computerized record-keeping and instruction media programs and to provide more instructional equipment.

"It is necessary to take a realistic approach when asking for money from the legislature. We had no pie-in-the-sky dreams. We measured the funds that we thought would enable a quality job of education and searched out the areas of major needs that had not been cared for adequately in the past," said Vice President for Business Affairs John Philip Cope.

The FTU budget request, along with the other state university budget requests, will be reviewed and consolidated by the chancellor, who will recommend to the Board of Regents several revisions that will be considered before the final budget is submitted to the legislature.

Editor,

Last weekend more than 200 young members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints had the unique experience of speaking to their friends about one of the most meaningful experiences of their lives. The experience was one of self-discovery and self-expression, and the group of youth was grateful for the opportunity to share their testimonies.

With a mixture of faith and gratitude, the youth expressed their appreciation to those responsible for making their experience possible.
