Students Council of the College of General Humanities and Fine Arts comprises the entire representation of the IFC Judicial Board. The students council, comprising 33 of 47 members, has the distinction of presiding over the first student government meeting of the fall semester. The students council includes SG President Steve Adamick, who was also the highest ranking SG officer at the time of the meeting. The SG president is responsible for initiating and presiding over student government meetings, as well as making decisions on student affairs.}

Proposal Accepted

Dean of Men Paul R. McQuilkin has accepted, with one change, recommendations from the President's Council of the Interfraternity Council concerning punishment of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity. McQuilkin said if the punishment should go into effect, the men must pledge as pledges, but will be unable to be accepted as members until February 1. The dean accepted the council's recommendation that ATO be placed on restrictive suspension with no fine for 10 weeks until February 1. According to McQuilkin, the restriction would deny the fraternity the rights of social and rush privileges. ATO will have 10 days from last Monday, Oct. 3, to appeal the decision of the IFC.

A hearing of the IFC Judicial Board was convened October 13 when Delta Delta Delta Sorority filed a letter of complaint to IFC protesting alleged misconduct on the part of ATO during a rush period.

During the hearing the judicial board found ATO guilty of violating Students Rights and Responsibilities section 4, Personal Abuse: "Verbal abuse of any person, including lewd, indecent or obscene expression or conduct; on university premises or university-related premises is prohibited..." The fraternity was found guilty of actions proven detrimental to the making of Delta Delta Delta. (Continued on Page 11)

Cafeteria Needs Cash Support

It is possible that FDU's recently canceled advance registration may be reinstated sometime next week. According to Dr. Leland Jackson, assistant vice president for academic affairs and chairman of the ad hoc advance registration committee, results of the committee's meeting held early last week indicate "mixed feelings on the part of the various factions within the 14-member committee.

The student members of the committee, including SG President Steve Adamick, are "hearty" in favor of reinstatement, he said. "The several members ... the people who will have to do the work are strongly opposed to advance registration, and the faculty members are largely split in their feelings," said Jackson.

"Because of split feelings, it would not have been possible to get an accurate vote so all we can do is make a reasonable recommendation to Dr. Gambrell, who must make a decision by October 31 or November 1," he said.

Gambrell, vice president for academic affairs, was out of town that morning, but he commented, "If the committee has brought out points in support of reinstatement, we should look at the matter again. Otherwise we can't afford to spend money we don't have for a service we don't need.

"Political face I feel was more valuable to us when we were much smaller, now I am not so sure.

"Although Gambrell would not make a public commitment, his overall comments seemed favorable to reinstatement.

Advance registration was originally dropped after a June 7 Overall of Deans meeting in which the consensus vote was to drop the program. Reasons included student and faculty complaints that pre-registration took away the time of its being dropped included.

According to Jordan, the coed, who did not want her name revealed, was walking along a small sidewalk near the campus entrance. She said a car pulled into Board of Regents Road, a dirt drive nearby. The car turned around and stopped, and the driver asked her for directions.

When the coed approached, the driver grabbed her and she pulled away. The driver then described the woman the car as a small, squalid group model driven by a special person, and asked to be shown where to go.

A coed who said she was willing to sign a warrant.

A Matter Of Opinion

By Gabriel Yanni

Last week a coed was harassed by a motorist near the entrance from time to time during rush hours, and see them put into parking offenses to fill the shiny red boxes that have been reported and was to be fixed. Three weeks is long enough to repair for safety's sake.

The questions I raise are when will it be repaired and are there any other columns in similar condition? Three weeks is long enough to fix a building defect that, if it breaks, would scatter some brick into both windows and walkways, possibly harming students and faculty.

Therefore, I would like to urge the administration to contact the physical plant department and speed up repair for safety's sake.

'Project Care' Needs Support

Dear Editor,

I have never heard of "Project Care." If you have, it's about time you have - the project is voted lower.

"Project Care" is basically a recreational program for migrant children. But then, that's putting it lightly. Within the three years this project has been in operation, those involved helped build a Head Start center at one migrant camp, a child day-care center at another. Students have also built and painted playground furniture for the migrant families.

All is not well, however. Every Sunday at noon interested FAC students gather at the "three-bench area" between the men's and women's dorms before either the Plymouth or Zellwood migrant camp. Once there at the camp, students walk around the camp and accumulate a following of youngsters the Pied Piper of Hamlin would envy.

Next on the agenda is football for the older boys and college guys. The younger boys play with puzzles - the hair of any college girl who's willing to try their concept of bending, Vivian Hamilton, Wanda Watson, and Marilyn Cullen, among others. Youngsters the Pied Piper of Hamlin would envy.

On the"Project Care" - you can see it.

Women's Club

Thanks FuTUre

Editor:

As publicity chairman for the PTU Women's Club, I would like to give special thanks to the FuTUre staff for their excellent coverage of the Bazaar Americana. The project was a tremendous success.

The first prize, a large silver punchbowl and tray, was won by Mrs. Zorrieh, Sping Valley; second prize went to Mrs. Nancy Cullen; Orlando; third to Mrs. Gloria Winn, Fern Park, and fourth to Mrs. Sue Towell, Union Park. All the winners were thrilled with their prizes.

Thanks also go to Mrs. Peggy Beck, who sold the most tickets, more than 100. I would also like to thank all those persons who cooperated by coming out and by publicizing the bazaar. These persons helped make the bazaar the tremendous success that it was.

Sincerely,
						Mrs. Olive Gamblell

Poetically Yours

Come on typewriter... make with the words. Help me fool those people once again.

Make them think I'm deep and thoughtful - Make them think I've never sinned.

Come on typewriter show the way - They're asking for the song. They want the happy and the sad - So can sing along.

They want to feel all kinds of ways - Without the wondering why They want to go above the clouds - Without fighting the skies

How little do they realize - I've never seen the sun And all the words I give to them - Are yours just having fun

So come on little keys and fall - In just that certain way So I can fool them all again - And go pick up my pay.

Column Cracks

Trouble Reader

Editor:

The third column of the Administration Building on the side facing the dorms has a sizable crack located about three-quarters of the length of the column. When I first saw it three weeks ago I asked one of the cleaning women if it had been reported. She told me it had been reported and was to be repaired.

The questions I raise are when will it be repaired and are there any other columns in similar condition? Three weeks is long enough to fix a building defect that, if it breaks, would scatter some brick into both windows and walkways, possibly harming students and faculty.

Therefore, I would like to urge the administration to contact the physical plant department and speed up repair for safety's sake.

Voters Back Old Pre-Reg

The reinstatement of pre-registration received almost unanimous approval of the students who voted on the issue last week at the senatorial elections. Of 574 voters, computing 10.9 percent of the eligible voters, 535 favored the reinstatement while only 39 opposed it.

The referendum questioning the justification of the recent $100 per cent increase in parking decals drew an almost equally divided response with 254 favoring the present price, 289 against it and 53 with no opinion. (See story, page 3.)

Pre-registration was terminated by an informal vote of the Council of Deans during the summer quarter.

BOR Approves Summer Program

A 10-week journalism work-study program in Europe offering a full quarter's credit will be sponsored by FTU's department of communication this summer.

The program, approved by the Florida Board of Regents, is available to any undergraduate student in the Florida University system, and also to out-of-state students, according to tour director James E. Couch.

Couch, director of publications, pointed out that this is the first college tour of its type in Florida's history, and is "perhaps unique."

The tour is set up for 15 students who will be accompanied by Couch. It encourages anyone interested to make "firm plans" as soon as possible.

Application forms may be obtained from European Journalist Tour, care of James Couch, department of communication, FTU, Orlando, Fla.

Tour members will enroll at FTU for the summer quarter, and all earned credits may be transferred to their own schools.

Pool Bill Passed

In reaction to the monthly determination of FTU's sewer reflecting pond, the Student Government Senate passed a resolution last week recommending a regular cleaning schedule be formulated for the pond. The bill, submitted by Senator Hunter Polis, College of Engineering, states that the pool is almost constantly filthy and that it is a disgrace to the university community.

The resolution recommended that Physical Planning conduct a study to ascertain the necessary work and equipment needed to make the pool relatively clean. Senate President Newman said an afterthought, the bill suggests that such a study should investigate the feasibility of paving the two footpads surrounding the reflecting pool.

Yearbook Deadline Today For Campus Senior Photos

Today is the last day graduating seniors may be photographed on campus for their yearbook pictures. Photos must be taken by December 31, but seniors may also be photographed at Jordan Marsh before December 31.

Club and organization photographs will be taken through next Friday. Photographs for fraternities and sororities will be taken January 8-19, and appetizer pictures of the January 10-11 toilettte party will be taken by December 4 with Maryke Lobd in VC 221. All organizational photos will be taken without charge.

The yearbook itself will be free to all students, faculty and staff members. The 1973 edition of the Pegasus will have 232 pages and full color. One difference from previous books will be in the cover, which will be made of cardboard.

Yearbooks will be reserved on a first-come, first-serve basis, using computer printouts and FTU identification cards. Books will be sold at $6 and shipped in conjunction with the seventh and tenth weeks of spring quarter, said Chuck Seidell, photography editor of the Pegasus. Students who wish to have their names mailed to them may do so for $1 charge.

Seidell also said clubs and organization planning projects and activities may contact the Pegasus to have their activities recorded in the yearbook.

Literacy Series Canceled

The Village Center's Visual Literacy series, which had been scheduled for Sunday through Wednesday was canceled due to lack of time for previewing the films before deadline, Debbie Wheelley, president of the VC Board said this week.

The series would have featured films by the instructional media department. "But because of the large number of programs we're doing," Miss Jones said, "we didn't feel it was right." Since there was not enough time to preview the films, she said, the Village Center "didn't want to spend the students' time and money to bring out the program."

"We would really like to extend our apologies to all those who turned out and were disappointed," said Craig Smith of the VC Board arts committee, adding that he did not think the films would be shown later this quarter.

The program may be offered in winter or spring. Miss Jones said, when the board could review the quality of the series.

Developments From The Front; Greenhaw Gets Graffiti Barrage

From the Lift 219 Battle Front: When last the intrepid FuTUre war correspondents reported from the Greenhaw Front of Word War I, Oliver Cromwell was being confirmed Queen and being credited with the first flag race. After several German comments, the war temporarily took a new twist:

- This is the sort of importunity up with which I will not put! never married.
- God save old what's-her-name -
- You'll burn!
- Sir: Where are we when we need you?
- Students: Where are you when I have class?
- Our rescuing helpless Englishmen, or giving psychotherapy to the impotent Irish.
- Die Deutschen werden uben noch Sai! (signed)
- Truth, though crushed to earth, is still Truth!
- The QUEEN is the font of all blessings, justice and goodness.
- -I agree! - Subhan the Red.
- And in bright red letters boldly printed across a copy of the Declaration of Independence: "REASON against H.M. the King!"
- Last week the battle took a definite turn, and "General" Greenhaw is facing a two-front war: "Dr. Kennedy loves Elizabeth Windsor but is mad because they never married."
- Office Hours? Are they any?

POETRY CONTEST
The National Poetry Press has announced its spring competition for a college student's poetry anthology. Any college student is eligible to submit his verse, and there is no limitation as to form or theme. Shorter works are preferred because of space limitations. Each poem must be typed or printed on a separate sheet of paper and must bear the name and both address and home address of the student.

Manuscripts must be sent to the Office of the Press, National Poetry Press Box 1210, Suitland Ave., Los Angeles, California, 90034. The deadline is Nov. 5.

PLACEMENT SCHEDULE
The following job interviews will be available next week through the FTU placement center, AD 222:

- November 1, State Life Insurance Co. - interviews open to all majors;
- November 3, Provident Mutual Insurance Co. - open to accounting, business administration, economics, finance, management, psychology, and sociology majors; and
- November 3, Allstate Insurance Co. - open to all majors.

Students must register with the placement center before they may interview.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS
Vice President of Student Affairs W. Rex Brown requests that any students who have changed their addresses since registration make the change known to either the student affairs office or the registrar.

If an emergency comes up and we need to contact an individual, then we would have up-to-date information," Brown explained.

Bergman Course Offered Next Quarter

A film series which will combine entertainment and credit hours will be offered winter quarter in conjunction with the Village Center, VC Board President Debbie Jones has announced.

The Ingmar Bergman series, offered as THA 490, section 04, will be taught by Dr. Harry Smith of the theatre department. Part of the course will be movies to be shown Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m., which will be followed by discussions of the film by the audience.

Admission to the movies for students not registered in the course will be 50 cents, with a series ticket available for the seven films. Even students will be charged admission, but they will be allowed a reduced rate.

Students who do not take the course may purchase tickets singly. Students in the course will have, in addition to the movies, a conventional class session, complete with tests, which will fulfill the four-hour credit requirement.

Mayall, Poco Concert At Stadium Tonight

By Mike Oates

"We're gonna listen to that Good Time Boogie tonight!" John Mayall slams in his latest album "USA Union." "If you show up at the Orlando Sports Tadium tonight at 8, you will be able to catch some of that good time boogie music. Tickets, at $4.50, are available at the Infinite Mushroom and at the box office. "Poor" will be featured on the same bill.

Mayall is bringing the same band that appears on the "Fusion" album: trump, Blue Mitchell, saxophone, Clifford Solomon, drums, Larry Taylor, drums, Ron Selico, and guitar, Freddy Robinson. This jazz-blues combo is one of the major musical innovations of 1972.

As he has done in the past, Mayall is setting the trend in contemporary blues. "John Mayall's Bluebreakers" featured guitarist Eric Clapton and introduced the heavy lead guitar and drums to modern blues. After hundreds of bands adopted this form, Mayall returned to the basics in 1969. "The Turning Point" abandoned the hard rock approach and Mayall proved again to be the leading innovator in modern blues.

Mayall's records are always "live," spontaneity is one of his major assets. "Jazz-Blues" was recorded in Boston and at Hunter College in New York City in late 1971. Mayall is so enthralled with his current line-up that he is going to stick with the group until the end of this year. This is a lengthy time for the 39-year-old ever-changing artist.

"Country Roads" is the smooth opening number that allows the audience to immediately recognize the continuity of this band. "L.A. Around" is a medium tempo blues song that is similar, not too duplicative, of the style of the "USA Union" album.

A truly brilliant song on the album that will definitely be done by Mayall tonight is "Good Time Boogie." Mayall is involved in an amazing dual harmonica-guitar solo that leads into Robinson's solo on guitar. Robinson is quick and versatile, without fuzz tones and electronic feedback. "Good Time Boogie" is the pilot of the album, the perfect mixture of the blues and soul.

The final song on the Boston side of the LP is "Change Your Ways." "Dry Throes" features Mayall on harp and electric piano, "Exercise in C Major for Harmonica" and "Get To Be This Way" round out the selections on the "Jazz-Blues Fusion" album.

Mayall's horn section is small but dynamic. Mitchell exults in "Five Years From Now." Trumpet, Solomon's sax is the major jazz influence on the record that does, on the whole, lean toward the blues. Taylor has played in Mayall bands in the past, and "Canned Heat." Drummer Selico has played with Frank Zappa and many others.

Jack Breachard, a record reviewer for "Crawdaddy," states: "Mayall loves the music and freely features these great musicians. He exhibits a personal proficiency and a sincere humility throughout the album "Jazz-Blues Fusion" that guarantees more Mayall music of this quality in the future.

Tonight will be your only chance to see these musicians playing together. If you enjoy the blues and or jazz music you will be impressed with the fusion performed by John Mayall and his current band.

Tonight will be your only chance to see these musicians playing together. If you enjoy the blues and or jazz music you will be impressed with the fusion performed by John Mayall and his current band.

Mayall, Poco Concert At Stadium Tonight

By Mike Oates

"We're gonna listen to that Good Time Boogie tonight!" John Mayall slams in his latest album "USA Union." "If you show up at the Orlando Sports Tadium tonight at 8, you will be able to catch some of that good time boogie music. Tickets, at $4.50, are available at the Infinite Mushroom and at the box office. "Poor" will be featured on the same bill.

Mayall is bringing the same band that appears on the "Fusion" album: trump, Blue Mitchell, saxophone, Clifford Solomon, drums, Larry Taylor, drums, Ron Selico, and guitar, Freddy Robinson. This jazz-blues combo is one of the major musical innovations of 1972.

As he has done in the past, Mayall is setting the trend in contemporary blues. "John Mayall's Bluebreakers" featured guitarist Eric Clapton and introduced the heavy lead guitar and drums to modern blues. After hundreds of bands adopted this form, Mayall returned to the basics in 1969. "The Turning Point" abandoned the hard rock approach and Mayall proved again to be the leading innovator in modern blues.

Mayall's records are always "live," spontaneity is one of his major assets. "Jazz-Blues" was recorded in Boston and at Hunter College in New York City in late 1971. Mayall is so enthralled with his current line-up that he is going to stick with the group until the end of this year. This is a lengthy time for the 39-year-old ever-changing artist.

"Country Roads" is the smooth opening number that allows the audience to immediately recognize the continuity of this band. "L.A. Around" is a medium tempo blues song that is similar, not too duplicative, of the style of the "USA Union" album.

A truly brilliant song on the album that will definitely be done by Mayall tonight is "Good Time Boogie." Mayall is involved in an amazing dual harmonica-guitar solo that leads into Robinson's solo on guitar. Robinson is quick and versatile, without fuzz tones and electronic feedback. "Good Time Boogie" is the pilot of the album, the perfect mixture of the blues and soul.

The final song on the Boston side of the LP is "Change Your Ways." "Dry Throes" features Mayall on harp and electric piano, "Exercise in C Major for Harmonica" and "Get To Be This Way" round out the selections on the "Jazz-Blues Fusion" album.

Mayall's horn section is small but dynamic. Mitchell exults in "Five Years From Now." Trumpet, Solomon's sax is the major jazz influence on the record that does, on the whole, lean toward the blues. Taylor has played in Mayall bands in the past, and "Canned Heat." Drummer Selico has played with Frank Zappa and many others.

Jack Breachard, a record reviewer for "Crawdaddy," states: "Mayall loves the music and freely features these great musicians. He exhibits a personal proficiency and a sincere humility throughout the album "Jazz-Blues Fusion" that guarantees more Mayall music of this quality in the future.

Tonight will be your only chance to see these musicians playing together. If you enjoy the blues and or jazz music you will be impressed with the fusion performed by John Mayall and his current band.
Slaughterhouse Five: Moving Antiwar Film

By Fran Elliott

One of the winners in the 1972 Cannes Film Festival is coming to the Park East East Theatre. Entitled "Slaughterhouse Five," (for the "Children's Crusade") the movie traces the career of Billy Pilgrim, a middle-aged man who works with more effectiveness and charity for "Slaughterhouse." Like the novel, the story is told in flashbacks to the past and even into the future. The narrator, who is near psychedelic college of the life of Billy Pilgrim, plays extremely and nastily well by Michael Lacks, a typical - upper - middle - class man determinedly following World War II. The film, however, is far from mundane in depicting Billy's thoughts and style. It's even wild, woolly and wierd!

"...You don't have to link back and give in to the kaleidoscope of flashbacks and even become willing to join Billy, via a shooting star, to the far off planet. This is very much a movie that will live with his movie star love, Montana Mundane in depicting Billy's and naively well by Michael Sacks, during and following World War II.

Outing Club 'Tubes' Down River

Serenely floating down the Ichetucknee River last weekend was none other than the FTU Outing Club. Numbering eighteen in all, each mounted on his or her inner tube, they drifted at the mercy of the swiftly moving river. The crystal clear, springfed river cuts through the Suwannee River Basin, which is located in the southern section of the panhandle, an area rich in untouched natural beauty.

The caravan started here on campus last Saturday afternoon and, after a three and one-half hour drive, wound up the first leg of its trip at O'Leno State Park. Here the club camped out, fixing their dinner to the tune of guitars and planning the day ahead.

Early the next morning the group set out for the Ichetucknee State Park, where they began their three and one-half mile, three and one-half hour journey into a land of deep underwater springs and towering cypress trees.

The FTU Outing Club was just recently revived from a long slumber by Craig Powell and Dr. Boleman (club advisor). The club was originally the Central Florida Outing Club.

The club is presently planning a trip to Juniper Springs for both canoeing and camping Nov. 10 and 11. All interested FTU students are invited to attend the club's next meeting, Nov. 2 at EN 306 at 11 a.m. or call Craig Powell at 365-8768.

For Friday, October, November, December.

IF YOU WERE BORN TODAY: Dear Mom, how are things on the front? It's all terribly dreary here. No real excitement since Aunt Carol died last month, and then that was only come and gone.

I want you to know that I think I've finally got Richard right where I want him. It looks like we are going to get peace over there, thanks to that fast talking German he has working for him, but since I am the only one who really wanted peace in the first place, people will think I'm the one who is responsible and give me the credit. After all, he was politically motivated but I have the best interests of my campaign at heart.

As ever, George... P.S. I know what I said earlier, but please don't send my mail to that Pennsylvania Avenue address yet. I get the funniest feeling that all the mail they forward to me gets opened by mistakes first. I've got to get over that silly feeling that someone is watching me.

AQUARIUS: What you don't know will hurt you this week. It is a midterms week.

PIECES: You will start the morning in a confused fog and gradually slip into a total stupor of thought. Your mind will go blank and you will not be able to hold on to any thoughts. Then you will go to your calculus test. By early evening you will have complete recollection and will curse because you only have three sleeping pills left and the drug store is closed for the night.

ARIES: Despite mixed signals and seemingly confused thoughts, by noon the choler will be clear to you. It will be the wrong one.

TAURUS: Finances will prove no problem today. You will have none to be concerned with shortly after you are woken this morning.

GEMINI: "Tell me, O Octopus, I beg, Is there any arms, or is it legs? I marvel at thee, Octopus If I were thou, I'd call me Titus." Ogden Nash, November 1942.

CANCER: You will run into an old friend this afternoon. He will use...

"I think it would be a tragic mistake," said Chapman, commenting on the possibility of reinstatement. "I don't think students who voted in the recent referendum were fully aware of all the implications."

In the recent SG referendum, 93 percent of the members of the student body voting were in favor of reinstating pre-registration. According to Chapman, despite mechanical troubles in the recent regular registration, "We were able to register 6,200 students in two days, and we actually made over 10,000 attempts at registration if you include course conflict problems, etc."

Chapman went on to describe the danger of allowing students to pre-register who have not yet gotten their grades for the present quarter. Any member of SGI may come from this, he explained, members of the committee.

Charles Gilliland, dean of business, withheld comment when cancellation came in June, but this week said, "I hope reinstatement comes, whatever the decision, we will have to live with it."

"On the basis of the comments Tuesday morning," continued Knight, who is a member of the ad hoc committee, "I feel pre-registration will be reinstated, this was the consensus of the members of the committee. If pre-registration is reinstated we will work more and more hard, but we can do it."

Knight's hope is that it "could be needed for two or three days. Whatever decision may be, I hope it will save the students can live with."

"Students are not aware, according to Chapman, that in PTU's last pre-registration 24 per cent of the student who participated also participated in add-drop. However, in the fall registration, only 9 per cent were involved in add-drop. "To me, this is a significant figure," Chapman said.

for the sophomore seat. Becky Chaky took the junior seat over John McComb. The race for the two senior seats in Natural Sciences forced a runoff between Jimmy Miller and Sam Hopkins.

In the College of Social Sciences the two freshman seats went to Bill Kelals and Michelle McIlroy over Martin Clag, Jim Davis, with 12 votes, edged out his three opponents for the sophomore seat. Bill Powers and David Boeier, unopposed, captured the junior seats. In similar fashion John D. Foster and Steve Rajar took the two senior seats.

In the College of Business Administration Randy Ferguson and Lisa Mauk won the two freshman seats over Alton Hoover.

Also unopposed, Dan Hodge and Jack Sarniani captured the two junior seats. Writing in are Powers and David Royce; in the College of Engineering Pat Hightower and Charlie Patton edged out over James Chandler for the two junior seats. Brenda Bloodsworth captured one of two senior seats. The other seat is a runoff, one vote apiece, between Mike Gibson, Edward Lofko, George Taylor and Charles L. Kenny.

Director of Security John Smith said that a daylight attack is very unusual. He added that although there had been a rash of breaking and entering of cars last year, there had been no reported trouble this quarter with the student's Jesse attack.

On the other hand, if Jordan to handle as investigating officer, and posted a description of the car and Revell, Chuck Culley, Jerry Findley aware of the incident. There may be other instances of similar cases on campus which may have gone unreported, Smith said, because some people are afraid to Inform Security. "All reports are kept confidential," he said, adding that anyone who may have seen a car or driver answering the description of the car locking up the entire college into a run-off. The fight between Brown and Mia O'Brien proved a stand-off at 10:30 a.m. and 11:55 a.m. Alton Weldon, Robert Ryan and Donna Wold, one vote apiece, will be the fighting for the one junior seat. Likewise, J. B. Ford, Charles Davis, Steve Broderick and Mohammad Diab will compete for the senior seat.

In the College of Education, Beth Allen and Steve Whitman, unopposed, took the two freshman seats. In the same fashion, Mike Sturton won the sophomore seat. Pat Hightower and Charlie Patton edged out over James Chandler for the two junior seats. Brenda Bloodsworth captured one of two senior seats. The other seat is a runoff, one vote apiece, between Mike Gibson, Edward Lofko, George Taylor and Charles L. Kenny.

The Florida Tech Tennis team showed its strength Tuesday as it rolled over Stetson on their home courts 136-74.

The FTU squad went right to work on the Stetson University courts which are slower than FTU's, which are more equal than Stetson's because it is a physical education department which has become popular among tennis professionals because it is a method which is easier to adapt to the speed of the ball. The Knights moved ahead quickly when Joe Lucci playing in the number 3 slot scored past Steve Frates, 31-14.

Each team sends a six-man contingent to the matches, but only the top four scores are counted. By comparison Embry Riddle's round included two 96's with a top score 90. This was the case in this match. The system, devised by James Van Allen, Scoring System (Vass) which has become popular among college coaches and professionals, works well because it requires the players to be as accurate as possible. Every score is recorded in points each. In this each team had won a set, the score deadlocked at 31-30. The doubles competition produces another cliffhanger when

Joe Lucci and Charlie Herriott hold off a strong bid by the Stetson team of Martin and Ferguson. After each team had won a set, the score stood at 31-30. The 9 point tiebreaker to decide the match, Charlie hit two topspin backhand volleys for winners to shake the Stetson crew and edge out a 31-30 victory.

The match was played using the Van Allen Scoring System (Vass) which has become popular among college coaches and professionals because it is a simplified method which is easier to follow than the traditional 6 game set. The system, devised by James Van Allen who also invented the thrilling sudden death tiebreaker, employs a 3 set point. In each set the person serves five times until one wins a total of 31 points. If the scores reach 30-30 in points, a double match against Nate Smith and Mike DeSenzew.

Battles for Runner-up Spots Highlight Football’s Final Week

While ATO and Faculty-Staff and Students moved closer to the title game, the race for runner-up spots in both divisions takes the spotlight in intramural flag football. Two Kappa Epsilon teams took a big step toward a second-place finish Tuesday, whipping Lambda Chi Alpha 19-0, boosting their record to 4-1. They trail Sigma Alpha Epsilon by one-half game but play SAR Wednesday, the last day of regularly scheduled play.

TKE’s Mark Denno fired scoring passes to Mike Murdock twice and to Rev. Heiple as TKE rolled up all their points in the first half and coasted over LXA. Murdock hauled in a long bomb for the first TD, LKA’s Scot D’Amato threw to Dave Hedrick for a first down, moving his team to midfield but his next pass was tipped at the line, then picked off by Larry McCorkle. A completion to Murdock at midfield was called back but Denno then threw to Don Jacobs, who ran it in for a touchdown. Denno flipped one over the middle safety by Donnie Zschock in the closing minute as ATO’s Brad Denno crossed the goal line, ATO’s winning streak extended to 14-0.

GDI, minus several players Mike DeZeeuw reacted to the loss, the same as they dropped a 12-8 decision to Sigma Sigma Chi. The win was SSX’s second in five decisions. Ron Chesser and Tom Smith scored for the winners, as they held off a touchdown and safety by FKA in the second half.

Meanwhile, the Bombers rolled to a 31-18 decision over TKE II. Pat McCarty, including quarterback Pat McCarty, put the contest well out of reach. Neil Howard and Tim Koliber scored for the winners as of points they held on. At the same time the bombers and Mike McHale and Hans Reipe, putting the contest well out of reach.

Coach Wood praised the VASS system, "It is an individual, not a team scoring system." He went on to point out that the players win team points based on the number of points they win in each set. They contribute to the team’s total score. At the same time, the tennis players are competing against their opponent for a victory.

Mike DeZeeuw reacted to the new scoring method by saying "I like it. It brings out my normal character of play." In the other singles matches, Octavio Pena, Friday No. 1 for FTU, crushed Mike Lenahan, 31-14, 31-21 while Mike DeZeeuw in the second slot was eliminating Pete Rocker, 31-15, 31-26, No. 4 Charlie Herring downed Jesie Thompson, 31-21, 31-14. Neil Howard, No. 6, defeated Lee Shannon, 31-14, 31-17.

Football, Men’s V-Ball
Kick Off 2nd Half Of Fall

Women’s flag football and men’s volleyball are the next major spots on the agenda of FTU’s intramural program. Monday is the entry deadline for both activities. Men’s racket ball, new to intramurals this year, begins Nov. 7 with the deadline one day earlier. It’s a doubles tournament and each match is two out of three games. Revised national paddles rules will apply. (Copies may be picked up at the intramural office.)
Fac-Staff, ATO Vie for Title

Two teams which concentrate on defense – yet have good scoring potential – figure to battle in Thursday’s intramural flag football championship game.

Faculty-Staff and Students, 7-0, has already clinched first place in the Independent division, while Alpha Tau Omega, also 7-0 after Thursday’s play, had to beat Lambda Chi Alpha yesterday to assure themselves of a spot in the title contest.

At initial glance, ATO would seem an overwhelming choice. They outscored opposition 229-25 in the first seven games while FS&S squeaked by its three toughest opponents and averaged 14 points per game.

However, there is no lack of talent on FS&S. Bruce McLendon is the flanker while John Kirkpatrick and leading scorer Rick Mills, both with good speed, share the wide receiver spot. Mills and Kirkpatrick also burst into the opponents’ backfield from their defensive end positions. Defensive back McLendon will have the task of chasing ATO’s equally fleet receivers.

End Ray Brownlee and Dr. Hugh Martin of the physical education department, are also talented receivers.

Running the offensive show at quarterback is bearded John Davis, a clever, sure passer who actually performs better under pressure conditions. He can certainly count on the pressure, to be provided by Kurt Wolfe and Larry Johnston.

Fred Mauz and Joe Hart operate at linebacker while Chip Mysterly, Jimmy Johnson and Greg Gavel are the secondary of ATO’s solid defense which registered four shutouts.

Gavel, who has blazing speed and Kevin Power are the primary targets for QB Jim Pietkiewicz bombs. Pietkiewicz is probably the league’s top quarterback, but will be tested by maybe a stiffer rush class than any time during the regular schedule.

FORECAST – The same two squads met last year in the title game with ATO winning a wild 41-31 battle. The score won’t be anything like that this time as the defenses dominate play. ATO definitely has the more experienced than FS&S, but long completions don’t figure to decide this contest.

Lyvonne Harvey won first place in women’s freestyle tying the existing women’s record with a score of 745. Dena Pickens placed third scoring 714. Carlee Witt and Dee Herenstein placed second and fourth, respectively in the novice class.

Robinson Spirit Lives On

It's kind of ironic as well as tragic to think that Jackie Robinson died of a heart attack earlier this week. For his heart seemed to be the strongest part of his being. His strong heart that braved terrible racial bigotry when he broke major league baseball's "color line" in 1947. It was a strong heart, too, that withstood the thudding pain of the realization his oldest son was a heroin addict, and then the severe twinges and grief when that same son conquered drugs, only to die in an automobile accident. Yessir, Robinson. He would not have wanted his son blinded by his own success, or by his own strong heart. And that is why, in my opinion, Robinson put his heart through his paces while he had that chance.

Ernest Hemingway once wrote, "You can destroy a man, but you can never defeat him." Truer words were never spoken of Jackie Robinson. He would not compromise.

In baseball, he was subjected to the worst kinds of verbal abuse possible. In his rookie year, he was greeted with cries of "nigger" when he arrived at the ball park. Opposing players would go out of their way to spike him on the basepath and pitchers frequently took aim and zeroed in on his head. But he never backed off. And what's more, he never lost his professionalism. Call it heart, determination, guts or what.

He led the way. He pioneered the black man into baseball. Racials pride, yes, but he never lost his heart. When blacks finally got their chance, he wanted more opportunities for his brothers. He wanted front office jobs for blacks. Management positions. He dreamed of a black manager in the big league. Last week, when he was honored in pregame ceremonies in the second World Series game, he mentioned his dream.

"I'm very honored and happy today, but I won't be truly happy until I can look down that third base line and see a black man managing in the major leagues." When he said it, he couldn't see the third base line. For Jackie Robinson was almost totally blind. Cataracts and diabetes had teamed up and sapped him of most of his vision.

Jackie Robinson, mention the name in Brooklyn, where he played during his career, and someone always remembers something special on the field and in the stands. Whether it was ripping a game-winning hit, or intimidating opposing pitchers and catchers with his reckless base stealing or making an unhittable play in the field, someone remembers. But what everyone should remember is that he did something special in just being on the field.

Jackie Robinson proved that baseball could be color blind and that it was a game of skill, not the color of the heart. Every sports writer in America will repeat the same words in their eulogies to this great man. The Hall of Fame will forever honor him playing feats. So little can be done on an individual basis to honor him. And it's a shame that no entire nation can't confine a fitting tribute to an individual who did so much for the advancement of all races. Maybe we can. The morning Jackie Robinson died, he was scheduled to make a speech on drug abuse prevention. Jackie Robinson cared. He got involved.

Let's open more doors. And let's do it as Jackie Robinson did. Give a damn. Jackie Robinson's heart wore out, but his spirit hasn't. Lately, all you major league owners and executives. Let's put a black man in that third base coaching box. Because Jackie Robinson can see just fine now.
