PAE Robin Hoods Steal Bell For Vaughn Fund

By Shelby Strother

How do you steal a 130-pound bell attached to a stand? Very carefully, of course. But why? For prestige, for ransom? Well, yes, but mainly for the fun of it.

In a midnight morning caper two weeks ago, seven daring young members of Phi Alpha Epsilon fraternity snatched one of the dorms on campus and abducted with two Karate belts, their most prized possession, their victory bell.

Before you dismiss this as just another wacky but titillating fraternity gag to get the other's goat (or bell, in this instance), there was a most important reason for the "kidnapping."

One so important that TKE is paying the ransom with a smile. To GET the bell back, TKE must make a donation to the Mike Vaughn Fund, a charity which helps defray the cost of a kidney transplant operation that Vaughn, a former FTU student, underwent in August.

Then, forthcoming the rob from the rich and give to the needy tradition, Phi Alpha Epsilon will match TKE's donation.

Those who aided and abetted in the great bell rip-off were: Don Thomas, Joe Cooley, Bob Wilson, Charlie Williams, John Kirkpatrick, Pete Simonson and Ed McDowell.

According to early reports, a great deal of highly secret planning went into the heist. The entire ordeal could have been taken out of the 1930s low budget gangster movie, "The Great Bell heist." Phi Alpha Epsilon even used a getaway car to haul the bell away.

Although the "Bell" is against Inter Fraternity Council (IFC) regulations, it is unlikely any charges or punitive action will be forthcoming, due to the worthy cause it will fulfill.

Currently the bell is stranded away from the campus in the studios of WDJZ-AM/WMY radio station. To add insult to TKE's injury, periodic reports on the bell and the ransom demanded are broadcast to the Central Florida region.

TKE is rapidly making plans to raise money to get their bell back. Fortunately for them, they didn't need their victory bell for the first few days after the theft. Call it divine intervention, whatever, but their first three games of the intramural volleyball season were merrily won.

The entire TKE fraternity is bemoaning their loss but none more than Gary Hall, president of the fraternity, for it was his room that housed the bell until that fateful Friday. And although Hall is a brown belt in Karate, he is outnumbered, seven to two (Hall's roommates, Gary Jordan, Pete Strother, and Ed McDowell), to get his bell back.

Obviously, McCorkle, vice-president for the fraternity, suggests that anyone wanting fast service and a good car wash should procure vehicle laundries from him "around 2 or 3 a.m. so they won't have to wait in line."

TKE is a planning a marathon car wash at Link's Texaco station, on the corner of highway 17-92 and Fairbanks in Winter Park. The car wash will last 50 hours, from 8 a.m. until late Monday by 1 p.m. Car wash tickets will be sold on campus today by TKE brother, Larry M. C. Orkle, voicer of the group, suggests that anyone wanting fast service and a good car wash should procure vehicle laundries from him "around 2 or 3 a.m. so they won't have to wait in line."

A male FTU student was arrested Wednesday morning by the university police in connection with several recent robberies on campus. The unidentified student was picked up early Wednesday by University Investigator Jim Jordan who made the arrest after extensive investigation of complaints lodged by several students.

A total of seven bold, daylight assaults, reported since Oct. 19, and rumor of at least five similar attacks led police to begin a 24-hour-a-day increased surveillance of the campus, and undertake an investigation which involved the whole 18 campus departments.

The big breakthrough in the case came when a coed reported to the police last Friday that she felt "on the basis of the descriptions printed in last week's FlUe that she had talked to the suspect in the Library, and Jordan.

The girl reported "she got to tapping with the man," and found out that he might be a student. According to Jordan, she was able to find out what his major was, and she was also able to get characteristics about his car that were similar to earlier descriptions.

"We were even able to narrow it down to a particular parking lot where it was believed the suspect parked regularly," he said. "On Monday we began a surveillance of this area, and began watching the suspect's activity.

Jordan reported he picked up the suspected student, who agreed to questioning after he was informed of his constitutional rights. "He subsequently admitted to being involved in various assaults on several occasions approximately two weeks ago in the FTU library, and Jordan said. "We then took him to the Orange County Sheriff's Department for incarceration. According to Police Captain John Smith the man was charged with single assault."

Advance Registration

Advance Registration will take place on November 27, 28, and 29 (Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday) for all currently enrolled students, according to Dr. LaMont H. Jackson, a vice president for the office of Academic Affairs, but students must have a machine printed Advisement and Trial schedule to advance register.

Registration will be held in the Village Center Mall Funeral home, and students are given appointment times based on class standing and FTU GPA for the last completed quarter, Dr. Jordan said.

Graduate students will all register during regular registration, on January 2 (Tuesday) and all undergraduate students will register Wednesday, Jan. 3, according to Dr. Jordan, classes will start January 4 and all fees will be due January 8.

Aid $$$ Delayed

The student financial aid programs for the 1973-1974 academic year have been crippled because Congress adjourned last month without funding the program.

At Florida State University, James Carter, financial aid director, said, the lack of Congress action has created serious problems for financial aid offices which would have normally began awarding funds to students for the 1973-1974 academic year.

However, John P. Gores, FTU vice-president for business affairs feels the condition isn't as bad as it may seem and said, "I feel very confident that when Congress convenes in January, they'll find the funds."

Dr. H. M. Blodwyn, FTU director of Financial Aid, was out of town and was not available for comment.

The Omnibus Education Bill, signed by President Nixon in June, created some new financial aid programs, but those were not from the student financial aid programs this year. One of the best known and most controversial programs this

Hours Extension Due For Library

(Editor's Note: At press time it was announced by sources in the Library that, in response to Student Government's, Library hours extension legislation, a unique study favorable to increased hours has been completed. Beginning Dec. 4 the Library will be open until 9 p.m. on Friday. Previously the Library closed 5 p.m. Fridays.)

Library hours may again be extended as a result of a bill recently passed by the Student Senate. The library hours were last extended last Spring Quarter.

The present bill calls for extension of library hours on Friday and Saturday evenings from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. It states that many students have found the present hours an inconvenience and inadequate for their study needs.

Director of Libraries Lynn W. Walker said that the library has already conducted studies concerning the feasibility of extending the present library hours. He said, "There is a good likelihood of the Friday evening hours being changed. The exact length of extension will be ultimately determined by financial considerations since it costs us at least eight dollars for every hour the library is in use at night. An extension of the kind we are calling for would cost an additional expenditure of more than eighty dollars weekly."

Police Ride Saluted

Last month two staff members of the FuTuRe were afforded the opportunity to "ride" with the Orlando Police Department through its Community Relations Division's "Riders Program."

The program allows citizens actually to ride with an Orlando policeman in an unmarked car, responding to calls from all over the city, and to watch the police in action.

THERE WILL be a story in the next issue of the FuTuRe about the adventures of the ride, which will cover the specifics of the original program and its methods of implementation. We would like to take a few lines here, however, to comment on the intent and the success of the program.

The riders program is run by the Community Relations department of the OPD, and is designed to familiarize the participants with the duties and problems of policemen. It does that very well. Riders can witness and listen to stake-outs, foot and high-speed chases, and actual arrests. They see Orlando's finest at their finest, functioning as they do every night of the year, averting stabbing, muggings, and taking family squabbles and dodging the bullets of determined thieves.

In this respect the program fulfills a tremendous need in any community: It makes the policeman real.

But there is an extra bonus that riders get, which the OPD probably did not bargain for.

MOST RIDERS are the type of people who have probably received a speeding ticket at some time, or possibly have called the police when their neighbors were disturbing the peace by playing stereo music too loud. These people are suddenly thrust into a situation where they hear of shootings, stabbing,30 mph breaking and entering, vandalism, and serious accidents, occurring within the city limits so quickly that two radio channels are seldom quiet. The much-scarred-about violence on television becomes far overrated to a person who, for the first time, actually sees one man try to kill another man with a gun or knife.

That individual undergoes an interesting metamorphosis. He suddenly trusts no one, and looks over every person he sees as though everyone was either heading to, or coming from a crime. Everyone is a suspect, and the rider feels vaguely as Orwell's "Big Brother," watching everyone and defying them to make a wrong move.

The strange feeling stays with a rider for a while, and takes a few days to get used to. Even then, occasionally the old war wound opens up and Clyde Citizens does a double take toward someone he feels certain must be carrying a concealed weapon.

THE AMAZING THING is that if this is the feeling after one night of riding, what must veteran policemen feel like, after riding night after night right for several years? Certainly it must take some special type of person to maintain sanity and fair judgment through all the strains and pressures.

We had a great deal of respect for the police in general and the OPD in specific before this ride, but our respect grew immensely afterwards. The man who elects to serve their community as "peace officers" deserves a great deal of credit. Their pay is low (some OPD officers are living in "330 furnished" homes, their hours are long and extremely taxing, and their work is absolutely thankless. (Who thinks the arresting officer?)

We deplore those egomaniacs who use the police department to gain their personal satisfaction. But thankfully there are very few of those left as police forces all over the country strive to raise their standards.

We salute the Orlando Police Department in its efforts to educate the public about police work, and urge all those who have bad run-ins with policemen to sign up for the program. It is open to anyone younger than 18 and is not a public relations course. It cannot be faked, it cannot be staged. Exaggerations can not be made and stories cannot be fabricated. The facts are presented in a totally indisputable manner for the riders to see. All it can cost you is some misconceptions.

Ed. Note:
Anyone wishing to inquire about the OPD Riders Program should contact the Community Relations Division of the Orlando Department.
Fall Graduation Set For Dec. 8

FTU’s fall graduation exercises will commence 7 p.m., Friday, Dec. 8, 1972 at the U.S. Naval Recruiting Training Center Field House in Orlando.

The commencement speaker is Capt. Mary Gore, commanding officer of the U.S. Naval Recruiting Training Command for Women. Captain Gore will be the first woman commencement speaker to address an FTU graduation. Chaplain Maj. Gary D. Barber will deliver the benediction.

University Registrar William D. Chapman says the commencement committee has completed all arrangements for the graduation exercises. He says students will receive a letter about a week before graduation informing them of all pertinent information concerning the exercises. The letter will include details as to where and when students can pick up caps and gowns and what they will be expected to do during graduation exercises.

Chapman recommends that anyone planning to attend the exercises should drive to the location at least two hours before the exercises begin to secure seating.

Approximately 268 students are expected to graduate during this quarter, an increase of some 80 students over the number that received equivalent degrees in the fall quarter of 1971. The number of undergraduate students in each of the past three quarters of the year has been increasing at a fairly constant rate since 1969, about 50 additional graduates each fall quarter.

The number of students graduating from each separate college are as follows:

- College of Humanities and Fine Arts, 24 BA, 2 MA; College of Business Administration, 65 BA, 13 MA; College of Social Sciences, 74 BA, 1 MA; College of Natural Sciences, 24 BA; College of General Studies, 7 BA; College of Engineering, 15 BA, 21 MA.

Subsidy Program Increases Made

A long planned for expansion of Student Government’s entertainment subsidy program was announced recently by Dr. Robert Sadler, student president.

As yet final date has been announced.

SG Sets Drive For Bangladesh

The movie, “Bangladesh Concert,” with George Harrison, will be shown on campus December 8 and the tickets will have to be won. Radio-television production, according to Dan Hodges, a spokesman for the S. G. Bangladesh committee.

“We are selling buttons for the Bangladesh relief organization which is already collecting supplies into Bangladesh. There are 75 million people in Bangladesh without money, food, or homes. They have to do everything by hand,” he said. “The war destroyed machinery - everything.”

Prince Rahbar said he hopes for 75,000-100,000 students to be sent quickly. “Every day counts,” he said, “We must act quickly.”

Two Art Shows, McCloud Movie Presented By VC

“Brewer McCloud” will be shown tonight and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Village Center Assembly Room. The movie stars Jason Robards and Sally Kellerman. Two art exhibits are opening today and the other Monday.

“Paintings by an Earthing” will be shown at the Student Union Library. The exhibit is the Jidditional Visual Arts Foundation For Airborne Relief, an organization which is already shifting supplies into Bangladesh.

A UNLIKE other classes, years, according to Jackson, students who wish to enroll in this one must try out for the various acting and technical positions which must be filled to produce the play. Tryouts for the various acting roles and technical positions will be held Nov. 20 and 21.

Written by Henry Smith, a senior communications major, “Till the End of Tomorrow” is a personal tragedy that happens in a little borough somewhere in the South in the late 1950’s. It’s a quiet little happening that doesn’t seem earth shaking to anyone but the main character. For it is a crisis that changes the life’s whole course.

An original score for the play was written by Brad Holmes, a junior radio-television major, who has been writing music for about 10 years.

HOLMES HAS written two songs which according to Jackson are “so good that he and Holmes and Smith have invested their own money to have the music recorded at professional studios in Virginia.

“We have asked for $160 from the Communications department to help pay for sets and costumes.”

Work on the set will begin over the quarter break, according to Doug Ackers, a student who will be technical director for the production. “We hope to have all the construction finished by the second week of classes, for the next six weeks we will have only rehearsals and we hope to complete taping of the production by the end of winter quarter,” he said.

THE FINAL product will be a 30 minute dramatic production for television. “All production and technical work on the program will be conducted like it was actually being taped for a commercial network.”

Besides talent and technical people the play will also need makeup personnel to work on sets, makeup and execution of costumes. “We would like anyone and everyone who has any interest in this type of work to try out and sign up for the course,” Jackson said.

Costuming for the drama will be designed by Nana L. Booker, assistant professor and Director of Publications at Louisiana State University.

In all, said Jackson, the production will require a cast of 5 actors and a crew of 25 to 30 technical people plus the additional personnel for makeup and costuming.

The completion of the play will be released for a campus wide screening during the first half of next winter quarter. “I hope the production will be suitable for showing on educational television,” Jackson said.

Registration for RTV 491 Sec. 04 is delayed until completion of auditions. Try-outs will be Nov. 29, 10 a.m. for acting, and 11 a.m. - 4 p.m. for singing.

For information contact Mr. Jack Donald in the Broadcast Center, 8050 is available. Assistant professor in the Communications Department. See Pat Pagel.

Student Play To Be Taped For TV

By Sharon Maria

Well, they have finally done it! A new wrinkle for class projects. FTU’s Radio-television Department has come up with a totally new idea in class projects. An original three-act drama, written by an FTU student as an earlier class project, will be produced for television next quarter by students enrolled in RTV 491, a four hour course titled “Technical Production.”

The production is somewhat of a pioneer effort on the FTU campus, according to Instructor Don Jackson, who will head up the class. “It’s more or less the culmination of all the radio-television classes we have taught in the past. We have been teaching writing and a variety of techniques, performance, directing etc. In fact, this is our first chance to put it all together in one class.”

Da-da-da, de-dum, de-dum, de-dum, de-dum. The devil is dancing with his Faust-like characters to the Mephisto Waltz. In tune with the recent trend for the occult, this slick film, based on the Fred M. Stewart novel, is playing at the Rocking Chair Theatre. Although the ad for the movie refers to outside Alfred Hitchcock films for provoking real fright for the audience, the show falls far short of this goal. However, it creates a creepy, fairly chilling feeling to some extent.

Beautifully filmed, the movie has some very picturesque stars, such as Alan Alda, Barbara Parkins, Curt Jurgens, and especially Jacqueline Bisset, who does a pretty outstanding job of acting — considering the somewhat melodramatic role. Then a big black dog plays his scary bit very convincingly.

The story itself is somewhat confusing but it does suffice to say that the characters are extremely involved with one another trying to findlessly foot each other through strange powers, withatrix, and diabolical actions. The entire story is based upon one wife's deepest desire to rule over her husband's body, whether or not the soul inside was his or another's.

The film is completely with terrifying prophetic nightmares which are inexplicable through the use of the slow motion techniques. Though confusing at the film, there are many devilish bits of action — the transference of blood, the black oil on the foreheads of victims, designs drawn on the floor, burning of black candles, realistic gun shots, and weird insinuations. All of these things tie logically at the end of course.

The dialogue involves hints now and then of what is really happening but you have to be quick to catch these pieces and how they fit into the scheme of matters. This was of no great importance in the book form of the "Waltz," constantly adding to the story's suspense.

The Mephisto Waltz probably does not actually bring about much fear in its viewers but it does offer a sophisticated adult peak at the devilish doings of satanic characters. Perhaps you would care to dance? This is your waltz.

Strength Key To ‘Bernarda’

By Mary Anna Jackson

"The House of Bernarda Alba" is a play about women's liberation — specifically, the suppression of it. And the actresses in Federico Garcia Lorca's tragedy, which opened last night in the Science Auditorium, perform so powerfully and with such authenticity that the audience feels no compulsion to scream, "Let me out!" as do most of the characters in the play.

The tragedy is in the plot. "Bernarda's" great physical involvement in her role. Anguish, hatred, fear, desperation, suspicion and longing are projected in Miss Puscell's facial expressions and in the very tension of her body. Angustias and Magdalena, the two oldest daughters, are ably portrayed by Pati Langan and Linda Willis, respectively. Miss Hagan gives Angustias a quiet, yet rebellious characterization, and her portrayal of Angustias' hope and frustration again is conveyed most effectively through physical expressions coupled with well-delivered lines. Magdalena's midact inquisitive comments are spoken with just the right sneer and touch of superiority by Miss Willetts.

"Perhaps the "softer" character of the play is Amelia, a more gentle daughter who exhibits little of the rebellion of her sisters. Amelia's combination of power and a magnificent tribute to the ability of one of its actresses and director, Dr. David May, and the ability of its playwright has been overdone. The play has two slight difficulties in that it is sometimes hard to hear the minor characters, and occasionally lines of the major characters get lost in bumps from moving furniture or are strained in the high passion of rapid speech. But these minor items fade in comparison to the total production, a magnificent tribute to the ability of its actresses and director, Dr. David May, and the ability of its playwright."

The play has a great part in the production also, as when Agustias laments her mother's straining against the gate of the house in Act One, and when Bernarda says strength runs in the family. But the greatest imitation comes at the end of the play when Martirio and her mother almost seem to switch position of dominance.

The play has two slight difficulties in that it is sometimes hard to hear the minor characters, and occasionally lines of the major characters get lost in bumps from moving furniture or are strained in the high passion of rapid speech. But these minor items fade in comparison to the total production, a magnificent tribute to the ability of its actresses and director, Dr. David May, and the ability of its playwright.

"The House of Bernarda Alba" provides a moving, intense experience in theatre which entertain us tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30. Admission is free for FTU students, $1 for non-FTU students and $1.50 general admission.

Bernarda's house is open only to her visitors — stop in and see her.
"When you write this, be sure to emphasize that what I did was not something special; I just did what thousands of other American soldiers were doing."

What 25-year-old sophomore Jack Little did was help bring food, clothing, shelter and comfort to 45 Korean orphans living in a hostile world. As he sat beside the reflecting basin on a warm October morning, recalling the children he had once cared for, his fondness for them manifested itself in a quiet smile and a far-off look. "Those kids were contagious. You just couldn't get around them without doing something," he laughed as he lit a cigarette.

For Little and his comrades, the involvement led to a large investment of time, energy, money and ingenuity. Little said there are thousands of orphans in Korea, far more than can be cared for by existing agencies. The Korean government subsidizes the existing orphanages at the rate of two cents per child per day, but as Little observed, "even in Korea you can't live on that."

Korean winters are known to be among the most hostile in the world and the building that sheltered the orphans from that winter still causes Little to shake his head in wonder. He describes it coldly as a "wreck" of mud floored, no doors, no windows and a roof that had more holes than titles. When Little's unit decided to adopt the orphanage, construction of the new building quarters was the obvious prime objective.

Funding of the project was accomplished in a rather unusual way. The Non-Commissioned Officer's Club held "Monte Carlo Day" once a month. On this day, ten percent of all the money from the purchase of gambling chips went to the construction fund. Added to this was ten percent of each individual's winnings and all of the house profits for the day.

These funds, along with personal loans from the unit commander and the command sergeant-major, paid for the construction of the new dormitory before the first winter winds whistled across the central Korean plateau. Total cost of the structure was 85,000 American meal.

Little recalls that life for the boys was fairly grim. They had to walk miles to the nearest village schools and when they returned, they immediately set to work in the fields that comprised the orphanage property. Expensive clothes and toys were scarce luxury items before the arrival of Little and his buddies. Letters home to parents, fiancés, church and community groups helped change the situation quickly at the "Blue Boy Orphanage." For Little these letters went to his home base in Orlando and the response was gratifying.

Once a week Little and his friends drove to the orphanage, bringing the week's collection of goodwill and contributions from the States. Each week, Little said, the soldiers would bring some of the boys back to their base for an American meal and a check-up in the unit's Medical Dispensary. These check-ups were not always pleasant. Little laughed, "but it seemed that somehow nobody ever noticed that and the kids got whatever medical attention we could give them."

Little recalled one boy who particularly enjoyed the visits to the American compound. "There was this one kid we called 'Skooki,' which meant little. He couldn't have weighed more than fifty pounds, but he'd eat down and eat four chicken breasts and a pile of potatoes...and then go after dessert. He was really something.

This "official" assistance took other forms as well. The electric power source nearest to the orphanage was miles away but " somehow, " Little said, "we managed to provide them with a generator that nobody ever damaged."

He flashed back to his cigarette as he related this and his head, he wore that 'unpenitent grin' and glanced in the eye that only veterans of military supply and accounting systems would recognize.

For at least one of Little's comrades, working with the orphanage became a full-time job. Little told of a friend who enjoyed the commanding officer into releasing him from all his normal duties to administer the unit's efforts with the orphanage. Little felt the supervisor of the charitable efforts was needed though, as merely giving away the money and goods might have proven to be an irresistible temptation to the small staff which lived on the same subsistence level as the children themselves. He recalled one occasion that had a particularly bad experience.

The unit decided, Little said, to adopt an orphanage as Little's unit had. They made contact with a village head and every weekend, the Americans would drive out to the orphanage with their food and gifts.

ONE OF Jack Little's "kids" gives a toothy smile that proves love knows no boundaries and is indeed international.

Little left Korea, the "Land of the Morning Calm," in 1969. Since then a series of events have caused him to lose touch with the orphanage. His subsequent assignment in Germany, the reorganization of his old unit in Korea, his discharge, marriage, full time studies and the arrival of his own child have served to lengthen the distance between Jack Little and the 48 Korean orphans of the Blue Boy Orphanage. The distance and the distance is great. It seems as if you see Little talk of that time and those children, as you watch the animation of his features as he recalls his personal involvement, you feel that in his mind the distance will always be very, very short.
Beyond The Apathy

By Shelby Strother

"Volunteers are anxious to see results too quickly," explained Kim Krasnow, when asked about the main problem with working for the Peace Corps or being a VISTA volunteer.

Kim, Assistant Regional Director for Peace Corps Korea, added "Most recently, Darley, former VISTA Volunteer, has been on campus since Wednesday answering such questions and taking applications for entry in the two programs.

Certain requirements must be met to even be eligible. To join the Peace Corps, you have to be a U.S. citizen and be a college graduate. There is a background in agriculture or a skilled trade. The requirements are just about the same for VISTA, except you have to be a permanent resident of the United States.

THERE WILL BE on the Village Center Patio until 4 p.m. today.

"Working with the Peace Corps can be quite difficult," Kim added. "The early months are quite negative of self and space. A conflict emerges to represent "the division between the positive and negative of self and space.

"You have to learn to look beyond the apathy." THEaubh is plenty of it. Located in 56 counties, Peace Corps takes on the enormous task of teaching a country abroad. Peace Corps workers are in the putting a great deal of emphasis on the country where they work.

"These people hold their ancestry and customs to be something almost sacred." Kim explained. He worked three years as a volunteer himself before taking his current position.

Everyone should remember that Peace Corps works for the country only because they have a lifetime of love to people in the United States. Yet, often times, the only connection to the Peace Corps worker has risen.

Corporation is a volunteer who is a national or international business. The Peace Corps volunteers are apolitical and not involved with preaching politics at all," Kim reiterated.

VISTA volunteers do all their work in the United States. Yet, often times, they are subjected to conditions worse than any overseas assignment.

The Peace Corps volunteers are an American custom's workers. With more than 4,000 VISTA volunteers registered, many areas of the country are helped, bettered and improved up to a standard of recognizability.

Once again, we have the VISTA volunteers receive between $180 - $250 a month with another $50 a month set aside for readjustment.

Their work is similar to Peace Corps. The only exception is the education area. The classroom work is not as formal, dealing more with common sense and social environment education.

There's not that much need in the Peace Corps or being a VISTA. The Peace Corps is not for the really worth the time and effort of Peace Corps Korea.

Kim Peace Corps or VISTA makes a nice addition to one's portfolio when deciding to apply for a job in the "real world."

EMPLOYERS TODAY are putting a great deal of emphasis on experience. No matter what sort of career you want, many people are going jobless due to a lack of experience.

Degree in business and sign up for work in the Peace Corps, that gives you "real world" experience in international business.

It helps.

Art Fair ‘Successful’

Fragrant candle, handmade leather, knitted afghans and other creativity combined for the third Village Center Arts and Crafts Fair. The show also included sculpture and ceramic work, and David Hang was folding paper creating frogs, angels and other creatures.

"Sales really went well," program director Linda Turnbull said. "We need more participants from among the art students, though. If it's in the budget we would like to have another one in the Village Center offices around the corner."

"The fair sprawled in front of the Village Center Fog and in Cocoa Beach. The show also included sculpture and ceramic work, and Center Patio until 4 p.m. today. Volunteers help. They still want to get involved and help.

In addition, working with Peace Corps or VISTA makes a nice addition to one's portfolio when deciding to apply for a job in the "real world."

EMPLOYERS TODAY are putting a great deal of emphasis on experience. No matter what sort of career you want, many people are going jobless due to a lack of experience.

By John The Good, Resident Seer

For Friday, Nov. 17, 1972

IF YOU WERE BORN TODAY:

You are a fugitive from the law of averages.

AQUARIUS:

Thirty years ago this week, the draft age was lowered to 18. If only they knew what they forfeited. Next thing you know the kids'll be cursing in public.

PRICES:

(Seer's note: having been at the history tests again, this week we shall be bored to learn with this bits of Little-Known or Red for history. For example, Arthur Brisbane, writing for the Chicago Daily News, in 1913 said "Motion pictures are just a passing fancy and aren't worth much comment in this newspaper, (See what I told you?)"

ARMS:

The first American warship was constructed in Maine in 1834.

AUSTRALIAN:

Albert Einstein, in the Atlantic Monthly in 1947 wrote: "The bomb has been made too effective... Unless another war is prevented it is likely to bring destruction on a scale never before held possible and even now hardly conceived, and whose civilization would survive it."

Who's got an enormous spot on the pit where the object's half-buried.

Just a minute! Something's happening! Ladies and gentlemen, this is terrific! This end of the thing is beginning to rotate like a screw! The thing must be hollo-

SCORPIO:

Dorf! Psa b'nai! God! Nard! Schmuck! Security knows who you are. You might as well give up before you meet someone who won't screen and run in the other direction.

SAGITTARIUS:

"But Miss Scarlett, I don't know nothing 'bout birching no babies!"

CAPRICORN:

A boon for mankind. You have the permission of the Mighty John the Good, Resident Seer, master of all upper division courses, to get your aim of cock eyes Monday. Consider this birthday gift to you.

ASSAULTS

The completion of the investigation, Smith said, "we don't want to jeopardize the case by releasing too much too soon, and we will continue until we work of every angle in as many of these seemingly related cases as we can.

LIEBA:

Hair will start growing in the palm of your right hand this week. Your mother told you it would happen if you didn't stop fooling around. Now it is happening. You never dreamt you would survive it.

- Walker said that such an expenditure needs to be justified by a adequate student need. Unfortunately such student need for the library on Saturdays has not surfaced. Headcounts show that less than 20 students are still using the Library at closing time on Saturdays. Walker said he does not consider this adequate use to extend the hours then.

- In contrast, library use has been relatively heavy at closing time on Friday evenings. Headcounts have shown 30 or more students using the library then, and Walker feels that more leave earlier in anticipation of the library closing.

- Walker said that the extension of hours on Fridays will probably come after Thanksgiving vacation but before the end of the quarter.
  He says it is up to the students whether or not the hours will remain extended. Walker said,
  "The upcoming extension is on a trial basis, and its survival will depend upon students using the library during the addition hours."

Archery Team Hosts Southeast

The FTU archery team will host the Southeastern United States Institutional archery tournament this Saturday.

The Southeastern Region consists of Florida, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

Entry forms have been submitted from Selma, Enterprise, Bardstown CC, Daytona Beach CC, Florida State, Univ. of Florida, Valdosta CC and Seminole Junior College, Atlantic City College (N.J.) and has asked to participate although they are out of the division.

The tournament will consist of a men's and women's division, the freestyle (bows with a sight) and barebow classification. In addition, there will be an advanced and novice category in each class.

On the basis of scoring in the Nov. 4 tournament at Stetson, FTU must be considered the favorite in the tournament.

In this tournament, three FTU freestyle bowmen scored high enough in the FITA (Fédération Internationale de Tir à L'Arc) sanctioned meet to merit All-American consideration. Dena Pickens, Lavonnie Harvey and Sam Reyna will have their scores sent to the National Archery Association (NAA) to be considered for post season honors. In addition to these three, FTU is led by Tom Page, the team's No. 1 barebow.

The tournament is sanctioned by the FITA and the NAA. The shooting for the match will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday and continue all day. Awards will be given out around 5 p.m.

SOCRER SQUAD WINS TOURNAMENT

The upset Florida Tech soccer team, surprising everyone by getting into the championship match, upset a heavily favored Florida "A" team, 2-0, in the finals of the Florida Round Robin Tournament.

With five wins in their last six games, and a season record of now 9-3-1, the Knights still have a chance for a winning season with just two games remaining. FTU plays Embry Riddle in Daytona Saturday at 2 p.m. and winds up the season next Tuesday against Marymount College of Boca Raton.

The Tuesday encounter is billed by the Extramurals Office as the 1st Annual Soccer Test. Girls are being recruited to act as "Ball-Girls" on the sidelines. Invitations will be sent out to the staff of FTU and coaches will be available.

In the Florida Tournament, the Knights won their first two games defeating Albany, Ga., 6-0 and University of Florida "B" 5-1 on a Dean Andrews' goal with 10 seconds remaining in the game. This set up the championship match with University of Florida "A" who was 7-1 on the year and 2-2 over the last two years.

The Florida club was made up of experienced Latin Americans and Europeans. The Florida club had more international experience than FTU.

The Knights played a tenacious defense led by Loren Howell, Dennis Jensen, Dave Smith, goalies Dave Black, Bill Ballance and Bob Steadman.

FTU covered Florida's ball control artists and limited them to a poor percentage on shots. Right wing Bill Brad forced the Florida goalkeeper into a mistake and won the ball home for a 1-0 lead with just 14 minutes to go in the game.

Florida continued to press on FTU's goal. Later FTU counter-attacked with Bill Ballance springing down the left wing with the ball. Bill drew the opposing back to him and slipped the ball over to Dean Andrews who cradled it home.

Florida retaliated with a building hand of soccer, but FTU held on and almost scored again, but the Florida goalie made a great save blocking a one-on-one shot by Ballance.

With two games remaining, center forward Charlie Campbell leads FTU in scoring with six goals. Campbell is followed by Kim Loyd and Bob Steadman with four goals apiece. Bill Ballance leads the team in assists with five with Steadman and Rod McDeffe contributing three apiece.

Golf team plays 19th FTU's golf team placed 19th in the State Collegiate Golf Tournament at Willowbrook Country in Winter Haven last weekend.

The University of Florida, paced by Gary Koch, won the team total with a score of 1132. Miami placed second and Florida State finished third.

Doug Perry, led the FTU contingent with a four round total of 301, or 13 over par for the tournament. Gary Martin led 307 and Tom Gehring followed with a 312 for FTU.

The Women's Volleyball team travels to Lakeside to compete in the State Collegiate Volleyball tournament this weekend. The tournament will be hosted by Phase One Sports. The FTU team has been extremely competitive in the recreational and collegiate tournaments in which they have participated this year. The volleyball matches will be played today and tomorrow at Southern.

Crew Fresh Race Saturday

This Saturday the Crew Fresh and Novice teams will compete in the Fall Exhibition Fresh Race. Races get underway at 1:00 p.m. at the Rollins course located on Lake Makheal.
Joe Yanovitch doesn’t see anything unusual about the fact that, at age 49, he is the number one heavyweight on Coach Gregery’s varsity wrestling squad. "I don’t think I’m especially unique," shrugged Yanovitch. "I’m not in such great shape. It’s just that most everybody else up here is in really bad shape."

"I was in the Air Force for the last 20 years and just kept myself in shape," he went on. "I’ve always liked fooling around with wrestling and kept myself in condition that way.

Despite what Yanovitch says, however, he is in "remarkable" shape for his age in the words of assistant coach John Rouss. He certainly doesn’t look 49 although the hair is turning slightly gray on the sides. His relationship with his teammates is one of friendship and mutual respect.

"They don’t bid me about my age. I’m at all times with all my teammates, a Joe-Pete type of relationship, and we respect each other. In practice, if they have a chance to rub my nose in the mat, they will, and they know I’ll do the same to them if I can."

Yanovitch, who left the Air Force last Spring with the rank of major, proved in March that he is not only going to be reckoned with in that position, but with the collegiate ranks. He won the Florida A & A heavyweight championship, entering the tourney and had a winning the 165 pound class. In the tourney and had a winning the 165 pound class. FTU Grapplers Win AAU Gold

Florida Tech University wrestlers brought back two individual championships and 10 victories during their participation in the Fort M yes AAU-Open Freestyle Wrestling Tournament in Fort Myers, Florida.

John Thedens and Sam Williams each brought home a first place medal to bring the gold medals to FTU.

Yanovitch, a 158-pounder from Merritt Island, had a 6-6 record in the tournament and had three pins. Yanovitch, a Free Way star who is one of the "blue chip" grappers at FTU, won six and tied one while winning the 165 pound class.

FTU also had a second place finish in the Pete Berkley won two and lost one in the heavyweight division. And a third place award went to Roy Thyken who won four, matches and lost twice in the 165 pound division.

Yanovitch gave us a look at the Florida A & A wrestling team's AAU heavyweights who entered the tourney and had a winning the 165 pound class.
THE FLORIDA Tech Varsity Basketball team opens the season Nov. 30 against Florida Bible in Miami. This year's squad probably has more talent than last year's team, but a schedule that includes Memphis State (ranked eighth in the nation in some preseason polls), Jacksonville (ranked 14th in preseason polls) and Biscayne, to name a few, will make it tough to match last year's 20-7 schedule. Here are the players Coach Torchy Clark hopes will lead him to another winning season. Back row, left to right: Angelo Callins, Arnett Hall, Dan Rice, John Smith, Pete Haas, Bob Jones, Jeff Kerumghan, Zettie McCrimon and Tom Page. In front, from foreground to background: Don Sisemore, Mike Clark, Steve Armitage, and Willy BelfHit.

TKE, FS&S Pace IM V-Ball
TKE Kappa Epsilon firmly established itself as the team to beat in men's volleyball with a pair of wins over frats Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Sigma Epsilon. TKE now stands 5-0 and has swept 10 straight games in the top matches. Last Friday, they took the second game in the ATO battle, 15-6, to go with the 15-2 which was played the previous Monday before the rain came. SATI fell to Tuesday's action.

Surprising Tau Epsilon Phi moved into sole possession of second place with wins over Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Sigma Chi, upping its record to 4-1. In other big games Tuesday, ATO knocked off Kappa Sigma before being stumped by LNA in two out of three games.

The most important interfraternity game of the week, and possibly biggest of the season in the Black League, saw Faculty-Staff and Students square by TKE II, 12-15, 15-8 and 15-13, to remain unbeaten. Mafa and 23 both stood 2-0 to pace Gold League teams as of Tuesday.

Th-Delta, 2-0, clipped Alpha Chi Omega, 6-0, in Monday's women's football. DDO's first win last week was a 26-0 pounding of STU.
