Committee On Beer To Launch Survey

By David Foster

A market survey is due to have a follow-up early next week as part of the FTU special beer committee's program to determine the feasibility of selling beer on campus.

The survey is being mailed out to about 600 randomly selected students and faculty members, and will take about 10 minutes to complete. The survey is part of a study by a subcommittee headed by Dr. Gordon McAleer, assistant professor in business administration, to ascertain the marketing potential for the sale of beer. A study of the fraternity's consumption of beer has also been initiated.

McAleer said, "We're trying to get as many estimates of the market potential as possible, but the key to the whole thing is the survey itself."

McAleer said it is very important that students give honest responses to the questionnaire, otherwise, the study would be hampered and the results possibly disastrous.

The subcommittee, consisting of FTU students Lisa Yound, Tom Garza and Rob Hartley, has been under pressure to have the survey pilot-tested and distributed as quickly as possible, but has also been hampered and the results possibly disastrous.

Students Discuss Food Complaints

By David Foster

Student dissatisfaction with the university food service continued to manifest itself this week in the form of a student gripe session and the results of a WFTU radio survey.

Gayle Prince, chairman of the Student Food Investigation Board, said the major complaints were on the closing of the cafeteria during weekends, bland, unappetizing food, repetitive servings and dirty silverware.

Several problems on both sides of the issue were revealed. According to Eller, Food Services loses thousands of dollars a year from students taking silverware, plates and trays out of the cafeteria and never returning them. Miss Prince said to avoid an increase in prices and to improve the food, students are going to have to stop stealing cafeteria ware.

A predominant theme at the gripe session was the possibility of a price increase at the cafeteria. Miss Prince said, "The committee has recommended no increase in cafeteria prices. However, Eller is bound by our recommendation."

There was no gripe session, which was sparsely attended. "I'm not a student--I don't get student input, I don't know what's wrong," said Eller.

A WFTU news survey that sampled 5 per cent of the student population also expressed general dissatisfaction with food services at the university. Of the students who filled out the survey, 47 per cent felt it was too poor, and 29 per cent felt it was satisfactory. Residents disliked the services most, with 22 per cent putting it as poor.

Emphasis On Theory Endangers Education

THEORY IS seldom, if ever, a productive substitute for experience. However, this is often a bitter pill for the research or theory-oriented educational institution to swallow, a result, as a result, of turning over more frequently from courses intended to give the student a working background in the major of his choice.

FTU is no exception. One case in point is the FTU communications department, which recently announced as its goal "to give students a comprehensive and complete background in the 'theory of communications.'" Whether it be the theory of how to write for a newspaper or a magazine for radio or television, or whether it be the theory of communications as a behavioral science theory per se or do nothing for the graduate who aspires to work in the real world of communications.

THIS SAME department offers a master's program, stepped in theory, which requires a thesis before completion of the degree. (THESIS: A DISENTANGLEMENT OF RESULTS OF ORIGINAL RESEARCH AND EXPERIMENT SUBSTANTIATING A SPECIFIC VIEW.)

Research in theory is fine for one who wishes to be a researcher, but what about those who want to be communicators, or teachers of communications? What is to happen to the well-groomed theorist who never has offended me to such a degree that I am pro-war.

A perfunctory poll of the other colleges on campus shows that only the College of Engineering recognizes that it is in its major's program. In the College of Social Sciences, a thesis is required in only two instances: communications and psychology. The newly approved curriculum of the College of Biology also requires an optional non-thesis, practicum-oriented program, in addition. The College of Business Administration takes a somewhat middle road: they require most of their majors to complete their master's program, leaving out the thesis requirement and relying more heavily on practicum type courses.

This dual approach seems to be the ideal situation—one program that will allow the researchers to bury themselves in research, and one program that will allow them to bury themselves in work (perhaps via advanced intern programs in conjunction with a research or graduate project). This, hypothetically, would allow a proper mix of theory and application.

The trend toward theory is definitely a harmful one, one that is leaving more and more graduates sitting on the doorsteps of employment agencies, and one that, if not stopped, might eventually break the back of the American educational system. The plight of visiting graduates are getting louder and more numerous daily. "Why didn't you teach us how to do something? Why didn't you teach us some practical background?" "Why didn't you give us more skills courses?" "The theories were fine, but what about those who want to be communicators, or teachers of communications?"

One case in point is the FTU Communications department. They have revamped their major's program, mostly leaving out the thesis requirement and relying more heavily on practicum type courses.

In this day and age everyone has come to realize that anything is fine for one who wishes to be a researcher, but what about those who want to be communicators, or teachers of communications?

Animal Lover Mourns Deaths

Editor,

I am writing this letter with great grief. Another beautiful animal (a large grey German Shepherd) was run down on our campus. It's even sadder to know that this is one of too many victims of people speeding to and from campus. If you'll recall there have been 10 other similar "fateful accidents" in and around the FTU campus, and many others have been seriously injured.

I have yet to find the driver of any of these "fateful accidents," and I have yet to find the drivers of any of the "fateful accidents" that have died on this road... again, careful speeders. Please put an end to these senseless deaths. Please. end the sad story and everybody care.

A.F.

Sincerely,
Peter Reynolds

Student Apathy Hard To Take

Editor:

When I first arrived at this campus, I was impressed by the beauty of the student body over and over again. But the depletion of the last of any important guest speakers. I felt that perhaps I was very fortunate in having chosen a campus that was interested in what was going on in the nonacademic world.

But the events of the past two weeks have rather soured that impression. We have had as vocation, a congressman, a man involved with the Pentagon Papers and four nationally known poets. The audience at each of these functions was an embarrassment to me. I'm sure to the university as a whole.

It would appear that student interest on the campus extends only as far as the process of eating, their mouths and making a lot of noise.

Sincerely,
Jane Bliezinski

A financial aid lacking at FTU

Hardly, according to Donald R. Baldwin, director of financial aid.

Approximately 2,100 students have received financial aid through various administrative sources in 1973.

"The year has been critical for students seeking financial assistance," said Baldwin, "critical because of changes in federal programs. For quite some time we didn't know what programs we would be able to administer."

FTU received $1.5 million in grants, grants for $220 million in work-study programs last September. By the end of spring quarter this will increase to about $2 million from additional bank loans.

A new concept in financial aid is expected for next fall. Under President Richard M. Nixon's Higher Education Bill, a loan will be made available for those graduates wishing to return to school.

Students Get Job Offers

Twenty-nine reported job offers have resulted from 525 interviews conducted by 60 companies between September 1 and mid-January, according to Jim Silver, director of placement office.

Lost Money Returned

Building services employees have returned an envelope containing $45 in cash and $3 check, which he turned in and which was apparently recovered by its owner.

Another custodial worker, John Smith, discovered a large canvas bag containing about $800. He waited until the bag, also was returned to its owner.

The program will be aired on educational TV. The dorm students' efforts to continue working in cooperation with the Men's and Women's Athletic Association on campus.

Some people at FTU, in hopes of fighting apathy, have dropped the "A" and formed an organization known as EOPEL.

Focuses on Interests

Most of the membership is comprised of, but not limited to, downtown residents. The group is both a social and a service organization.

"In case you've been wondering what EOPEL stands for," said Deacon Deacon, EOPEL's vice president, "it means Established On The Principle of Love and Equality."

Also, the group is an officially recognized organization at FTU. EOPEL has helped contribute to the group's growth and they plan to continue working in close cooperation with the Men's and Women's Athletic Association on campus.

WHEN LEWIS tells Bobby, "You don't beat the river," he's right. Not even the skillfully expressive acting of Jon Voight as Ed can best the Chattahoochee River's stunning performance as the forceful yet beloved Cahulawassie River in John Boorman's magnificent picture, "Deliverance."

The river is as much a performer and character in this movie, based on James Dickey's prize-winning novel of the same name, as any of its four stars. It is the Cahulawassie, majestic and picturesque as well as raging and terrifying, that teaches four Atlanta businessmen how to play the unforgettable "game" of survival and civilization.

Through the standard yet effective photographic techniques of Vilmos Zsigmond and thebrusquely intense technique of sharpening focus and its view of the future.

There are many admirable qualities about the film, "Sounder," and not the least of which are the characters themselves. The story actually centers around a young black boy in 1933 Louisiana and the deep love of his close-knit family. While the title is taken from the family's hound dog, Sounder, the story concerns a relatively short period in the life of David Lee Morgan. His mature struggle to keep his family together during the tough Depression period makes many who experienced the era recall their own or their parents' rough times during those years.

The fact that he is black only adds a second struggle to his young life. Throughout the film, one is disturbed and agitated at the cruelty and bigotry aimed at David Lee's family. Paul Whitefield and Cicely Tyson are excellently sensitive and tender in their roles as the parents, Nathan and Rebecca. Extremely thoughtful, they demonstrate for their three children the importance of honesty, respect, warmth, humor, strength and family love. Although the film seems to move slowly, it never lacks for sincerity, realistic performances on the part of all. Faded clothing, sweaty faces, lean bodies and worn hands are just some of the visual effects used by director Martin Ritt to depict the endurance and energies of the family members.

But it is the memorable acting of Kevin Hooks as David Lee that should be praised. He is thoroughly believable. Just as love has pulled the family together during the tough times, it never lacks for humor, humility, strength and family love. The entire cast exhibits a wide range of talent, and the skilled coordination of their movements under the supervision of director Dennis Keeler, who collaborated with Really Hardy as Julie Abra, the soundest. Keeler, who collaborated with really Hardy as Julie Abra, the soundest. Miss Davis also provides a refreshing twist to an evening of light, entertainment. The company maids, Molly and Edna (played respectively by Diane Davis and Susan Etzold), react to a comment - "I Was Your Age" and "How To Fail At Life Without Really Trying." They, who play Tom's uncle, inflame the young gentleman with smug conversations as "Oh, for the Puritan ethic!" when lamenting the changing world, and "I'm a Pussycat," which falls more within her range and which also involves some well-executed choreography.

Richard Wagner and Weber Ivy are a matched comedy act as the two company executives, Ivy, who plays Tom's uncle, inflames the young gentleman with smug conversations as "Oh, for the Puritan ethic!" when lamenting the changing world, and "I'm a Pussycat," which falls more within her range and which also involves some well-executed choreography.
Poets Share Words, Wisdom
By Mike Crites

Perhaps the most important literary event in the history of FTU took place last week, when the poetess, Miss Levertov and James Wright participated in the first annual poetry festival, sponsored by the English departments of FTU and Rollins College. These three poetic voices gave readings in the Village Center Multi Purpose Room and met with students last Friday afternoon to share their perceptions in poetry. Not only are they masters of the written word, but they are all intense speakers.

David Posner, FTU's poet-in-residence, introduced the poets and moderated February 10's panel discussion. Posner, who was influential in bringing the poets to FTU, started the festival that afternoon by bringing Denise Levertov to the microphone. Unpacked her poetry bag, and from that case brought forth precise images handled with utmost care. Miss Levertov began by reading Posner's poem "The Trail.

"You can't make inspiration happen, you can achieve high levels of competence, only by work, by labor, by craftsmanship, but if you don't do all that, then you don't have a place for inspiration to exist," Miss Levertov said, directing her words to the poets in the audience.

"A TREE TELLING OF ORPHEUS" was admiringly received by the audience, due to the poem's lyrical power and the clear description of a bizarre occurrence, Miss Levertov's poem deals with the myth of the plants which followed Orpheus.

The music reached us, clumsily, stumbling over our own roots, rustling our leaves in answer, we moved, we followed. Miss Levertov's ant rhymes are a startling alert about the violation of humanity. The manufactured bomb seeks out the imperfection of human flesh. In "The Pilots," she hopes that the audience are unaware of what they have done.

Miss Levertov concluded the exposition of her poems with "The Way It Is," which grasps the paradox of her life as alien to machines, but operating them nonetheless.

Posner then introduced John Logan as "constantly reaching for a change within the self that makes one more honestly himself." His first poems appeared 20 years ago this month in "The Partisan Review." Logan's book, "The Zig Zag Walk," takes an erratic but definite thrust to achieve the unquestionable beauty of his verse. Logan's recitative style is captivating, his hand movements flamboyant and expressive.

"To a Young Poet Who Flies" is an introduction to the magic of his poetry, Logan's use of dactyl rhythm and medical rhythm are shaped by a unique voice.

"There is that kind of a confusion which I think is the result of TV, that forgets that poets are persons rather than machines," Logan stated.

The potency of Logan's love poems was evident in "Suzanne" and "Love Poem." The latter is an intense experience adequately captured by the poet:

I want to hear the light, long wind of your sigh. But again tonight I know you will not come.

I will never feel again your gentle, sleeping calm from which I look so much strength, so much of my human history.

The final lines of "Love Poem" are one of the most brilliant finishes of his poems, and ought not to be quoted apart from the poem.

JAMES WRIGHT, a winner of the Pulitzer Prize of Poetry, read last Friday night. He dedicated his reading to Rodney Caro, young man who became his friend Friday.

The "Minneapolis Poem" is a work in which Wright was influenced by Logan. The poem as a whole portrays a peasant who intended as a curse on the city. Wright read a poem which came from his experience in Yugoslavia and the difficulty of communications. "Afternoon and Evening at Ogulin" was the result of a long walk which he and his wife took in Macedonia.

And the weeds came out wondering to her about their

There was no one there to tell her Serbo-Croatian.

The name of that small flower song.

And so we had to keep our own words in the vastness of that page.

Wright also read "I Wish I Had Never Heard of the United States," "Blurred Mother" and a selection from his book "Shall We Gather at the River?"

The festival has set an exciting precedent for the coming occasions.

Dormitory Advisors Needed

Male and female students interested in applying for positions as dormitory residence advisors have until Wednesday to submit their applications to Lynda Lots or Larry Matthews in the office for student development. Interviewing for the positions will begin Thursday, and selections should be made by the first week in April. There are two openings for summer quarter and four for fall quarter.

Applications may be picked up in the office of the Dean of Women.

The residence advisor is considered a paraprofessional. He receives a quarterly salary and is trained in the counseling of resident students and the problems they might have. The position is not a complete police function; the advisor might expect everything from interpreting and enforcing the guidelines set for the dorms to tutoring or counseling the student in personal matters.

Upperclassmen are preferred, both undergraduate and graduate. Experience is not necessary but any background in counseling, such as summer camp jobs, is helpful.

Media/Culture Course Offered
The communications department will offer Mass Media and Popular Cultures for the first time spring quarter.
The course, Com 429, will be taught by Kenneth Shinkopf, associate professor of communications.
Shinkopf said there are no prerequisites for Com 429 and encouraged students from all departments to register for it.
Shinkopf plans to have guest speakers from area media. A great deal of audio-visual equipment will also be utilized.
Shinkopf said almost every major university offers a course in popular culture and in some cases the course contains more than 500 students. This course, however, is open to 68 students.

The course will focus on how the media reflects and shapes popular culture and will be modified as student interest changes. Some of the planned topics will be concerned with today's ads, movies, television programs, popular literature, music and graffiti.

Baseball Opener

Knights Face Embry-Riddle

By Jack Siriani

No. 1 pitcher is a senior, Bill Van Allen, who is selected as captain of the team this year.

FTU's second baseman is a junior, Pete McLaughlin. Pete McLaughlin has moved McCoy to the outfield, not just for speed.

He has a good chance for a pro career.

DAVE STRING--A transfer from Brevard, had to lose 15 pounds to make it as the third baseman, and he did. Good power hitter.

PAT McCARTY--McCarty, a former Brevard product, Dan Raimo, and Tad Welsh were two perfect rounds in a row. Butch Charlan of Florida and Bill Van Allen were two perfect rounds.

Other scores by FTU archers included Mark Grousbecker (753), Bob Kolley (744) and Jeff Morton (737). FTU's mixed team also set a state record with a total of 2,070.

GOLF TEAM PLACES 2ND

The tournament marked the first time that FTU has beaten Rollins in a golf tournament.

South Florida, who won the tournament with a team total of 310, was led by medalist Pat Lindsey who shot a 75. FTU's Tony Kirby finished second with a 76 and FTU's team total of 316 tied them with St. Leo and Florida Southern. Rollins followed with a 317 and Embassy-Riddle placed last with a 330 total. Other scores for FTU included Doug Perry (79), Brent Whitley (81), Gary Martin (81), Doug Smith (80) and Tom Gehrig (87).

Archers Shoot Perfect Rounds

Dena Pickens set a collegiate record and Sam Rayna broke the state record as they led the FTU archers in the 1973 State Indoor Collegiate Archery Tournament.

The meet was held at Southeastern Archery Lanes in Orlando but was hosted by Brevard CC.

Both the new standard with a score of 810 in the men's freestyle. Included in his score were 19 perfect rounds. A perfect round consists of six perfect shots in a row. Both Charlan of Florida and Bill Van Martin of Stetson followed Rayna in the match and they are eligible to compete primarily for this tournament.

Dena Pickens set a state record for the women's freestyle with a score of 758. Pickens was followed by FTU's Lyvonne Harvey with a score of 760. Harvey also shot one perfect round.

The men's team shot a total of 2,306 while 12 perfect rounds behind Florida which tallied a 2,316. The women's team also had a heartbreaking loss to Stetson 2,042-2,037.

FTU's mixed team also set a state record with a total of 2,070.

THE FOURTH ANNUAL TAU KAPPA EPSILON INSTITUTIONAL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT WILL BEGIN NEXT TUESDAY AND CONTINUE THROUGH MARCH AT ROLLINS COLLEGE.

The fourth annual Tau Kappa Epsilon Institutional Basketball Tournament will begin next Tuesday and continue through March at Rollins College.

Armed with 21-15, 20-6 and 19-7, this year's tournament will feature some of the best college teams in the nation.

Bill Van Allen is a senior, Bill Van Allen is a transfer from Brevard, had to lose 15 pounds to make it as the third baseman, and he did. Good power hitter.

Pat McCARTY--McCarty, a former Brevard product, Dan Raimo, and Tad Welsh were two perfect rounds in a row. Butch Charlan of Florida and Bill Van Allen were two perfect rounds.

Miami and Florida State have been making quite a bit of noise with the bat in this round of the tournament.

MIKE FERRELL--Ferrell, a junior, is another Senior in another Seminole transfer. This second trickle has moved McCoy to the outfield, not just for speed.

JACK SHIRAN--Shirani, another outfielder, is one of the few three-year veterans on the team. He was second to FTU, Tad Welsh in batting last year. At 6-3, 195 lbs, he has hit the size to make the ball carry.

PETE MCLAUGHLIN-McLaughlin has played the last two seasons at Valencia. This lefty is noted for his smart approach to the game.

RON REBE--Bebe is a transfer from Seminole. This first baseman has been making quite a bit of noise with the bat in this round of the tournament.

LARRY BROWN, a second baseman from Lake Worth, Stewart Lahoe, Dave Traglia, and Van Mitchell will also see action.

Just then, sophomore Pete MacLaughlin was going to put them ahead, 53-52. But West Florida retaliated with five points in his last game in a Knight's uniform.

"I would like to come back next year," said Zotte, a two-year starter at forward. "It's a satisfying two years, though. We went 20-6 and 19-7, and it's hard to beat that.

"If I had to go off the club for a year, maybe I'd come back a year after that. Maybe the Knights would have something to play for.""
2 Grapplers, Friends, Opponents

By Fred Cey

JOHN THEDERS and Mike Shivers are both freshmen this year, both members of the varsity wrestling team and live in the same suite in the dorms. With all that in common, they should be considered pretty good friends—and they are.

However, once a week friendship is momentarily disregarded and the two take on each other. The winner of the procedure, known as a "wrestle-off," gains a spot on the squad that will wrestle in that week's particular tournament. This is necessary because Shivers and Theders both compete in the 142-lb. class, and a wrestle-off is the only fair determinant to pick one of the two.

With this year's schedule now complete, Shivers has emerged with the upper hand, winning three of their four matches, the fourth ending in a draw.

"If push comes to shove, I know he's behind me and, if I let up, I won't get a spot on the team that week," Theders explained.

"Having to wrestle John every week keeps me alert," he went on. "I have a tendency to let up otherwise." Theders, as expected, doesn't especially like having to face Mike in the weekly matches, but realizes it's the only fair way to solve the dilemma.

"YOU LIKE to have a guy in your weight class you can practice with, but I enjoy wrestling in the meets and it'd be a lot easier not to go through the wrestle-offs," commented Shivers.

Particularly frustrating for Theders is finding himself on the sidelines since Shivers came to FTU this winter, after having wrestled on the squad all through fall quarter.

"I feel I've improved a lot this year under Coach (Gerry) Gergley, though," Theders continued. "Against Notre Dame, I beat a guy that was Michigan state high school champ last year. I'm sure I couldn't have done that last year."

"Coach Gergley makes the wrestle-offs the fairest I've seen," added Theders. "He doesn't let the other guys on the team rest for either guy and he really hates to see either one of us lose."

Matmen Rip Tampa To End Best Season

FTU's young grapplers closed out their most successful season last Saturday with a 41-9 thrashing of Tampa.

It was the Knights' third straight win this year over Tampa and gave FTU an overall 19-2-1 dual meet record for the season. Mike Shivers, who moved up to the 150-lb. class for the match pinned his opponent, as did Ted Wansley in the 167-lb. class.

The Spartans then forfeited the next three matches, virtually handing the Knights an insurmountable 22-0 lead. Tom Hammorn then took a 175-lb. superior decision win, followed by Sam Williams' 172-lb. win over a 167-pound opponent. Williams usually wins in the 150-lb. category.

After Wansley's 3:50 pin over Tuso Kickas, Charlie Patten took on 190-lb. Fletcher Carr, one of the nation's finest. Patten won a decision over Patten, who usually goes as a 177-pounder. Try Smith got Tampa's final points, piling FTU heavyweight Dom Mandicott.

The Spartans then forfeited THE 5-8 DARK-HAIRED just haven't been able to run up to the 150-lb. class for continued. "Against Notre Dame, I beat a guy that was hobbled recently with an ankle injury, necessitating more rest.

"In that respect, I'm glad the season's over," Clark stated. "It's really slowed me down. I just haven't been able to run up to capacity."

CLARK DID a creditable job in Monday's contest, too. The Knights came storming back from an 80-0 deficit to tie it early in the game at 14-14 and he had six of those points. Also, he handled the ball near flawlessly against a fierce Asheville press throughout the game.

Clark also hit important shots in the second period, helping wipe out a 78-67 Bulldogs edge.

And, of course, most of his fielders came on the same driving, twisting bank shots that computed the biggest part of his record 52,000.

With two weeks now completed in the fraternity soccer league, two undefeated squads have moved into the forefront and apparently will meet in the Greek title game.

Tau Kappa Epsilon and Alpha Tau Omega are both 3-0 and have beaten everybody in their respective divisions with only one cross-league game remaining for each.

TKE copped their big one—a 6-1 win over previously unbeaten Tau Epsilon Friday. Mark Donno scored three goals while Jay Ferguson, Howie Vandewater and Mark Sherwood each boot ed in one. Steve Barnko scored the lone goal for TEP.

Also on Tuesday, ATO nipped Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 5-2, with Bob Matousek, Chuck Meon and Rob Fisher scoring. SAE took a 1-0 halftime lead but didn't score again until late in the contest on Danny Hodges' goal.

The Bombers and Faculty-Staff and Students won important contests Monday as Independent action got under way. SIGMA CHI'S Children, 4-0, while the Bombers nipped Powell's People, 5-2.

Also on Monday, TKE II and Chi's Raiders battled to 2-2 deadlock.

FS&S Takes Cage Title

By Fred Cay

Complete dominating the boards and jumping off to a quick 15-0 lead, Faculty-Staff and Students ran away and hid from The Kappa Radio to win Tuesday’s intramural championship basketball contest 71-38, at the Oviedo High gym.

Pivot man Hugh Martin, with whole TKE offense in the initial half, following TKE’s lead, Faculty-Staff front line and was the man most responsible for putting his team far in front early.

Martin, who scored 16 points, outplayed and outquicked TKE’s front line and was the man most responsible for putting his team far in front early. Powell led FS&S with 17 markers.

Gary Hall was virtually the whole TKE offense in the initial half, hitting for 10 points, mostly from out front. Hall wound up his team’s top scorer for the game with 14.

Pempek kept matters well in hand for FS&S in the second half, when he poured in 12 of his 16 points.

TKE didn’t get to shoot a free throw the entire game as they were unable to penetrate enough to draw any fouls. FS&S, on the other hand, made 17 of 25 from the charity line.

In overtime, usually a deadly outside shooter, only hit two fielders for FS&S but converted six of six free throws.

The game was in direct contrast to the FS&S win over POWELL’s People in the independent title game, a one-point 49-48 squeaker. Prior to that, FS&S roosted the Bombers, 54-29.

fastbreak layups to take an 18-16 lead. However, several floor mistakes by Hall late in the first half contributed to a series of North Carolina baskets which put FTU behind by a 43-36 Carolina, as a team, was shooting when it really counted.

FS&S rakes Cage Title

The FTU tennis team lost its first match of the season to the University of South Florida 7-2, but then bounced back on the winning track as it rolled over FIT 6-3.

FTU traveled to South Florida Saturday morning and played the match in 50 degree weather before a partisan crowd of 150 people who sat through the three hour struggle despite the cold. Although all the matches were closely fought and went down to a third set, only Octavia Piva could pull out a win in the singles. He then teamed with Craig Linton to capture the No. 2 doubles for FTU’s second point of the match.
