Article On Faculty Salaries Refuted By Administrators

By Pete Spivey

A story that appeared in the May 3 Sentinel Star reporting FTU faculty members were "low man" on the totem pole of state university salaries is misleading, according to FTU sources.

The story claimed FTU faculty salaries are lower than any other state university in Florida, drew actual salary comparisons only between FTU, Florida State University and the University of Florida. U of F and FSU are the system's oldest universities.

President Charles N. Millican stated Monday faculty salaries here are comparable to all Florida state universities except Florida and Florida State. Millican added Florida A&M University in Tallahassee has the lowest paid faculty members, not FTU.

Millican also commented professors at the two larger universities are paid more because of the more extensive and varied resources of the schools.

"Those universities have many doctoral programs, and both have law schools," he said. "At FTU we have no law school, no doctoral programs, and our graduate programs are limited. Naturally, we don't require the services of the highest paid professors as those schools do."

Reaction among FTU faculty representatives ran along the same lines as Millican's. Dr. Philip Taylor, chairman of the Faculty Senate, commented, "The schools with highly paid faculty have a greater percentage of associate and full professors, thereby requiring higher salaries than our staff which is mainly made up of assistant professors."

Taylor added, "There is also a great deal of difference in prestige and status between FTU and those schools. They have a national reputation, and, to keep it, they attract professors from all over the country with higher salaries."

THE MANY faces of the Rev. Vincent Hagan can be seen in the photograph of Matthews. "Father Vin," as the Rev. Hagan is known around campus, is a man of versatile background, having traveled throughout the United States and Canada. He has attended six universities and can speak four languages and can read Hebrew and Greek.

He said he plans to serve as a chaplain and teacher at a Long Island state university, where he will serve in an advisory capacity to university policymakers, as he does at FTU.

Father Hagan has also worked as a professional skating teacher, cashier, general laborer and camp counselor. He has served as community coordinator for government-sponsored antipoverty programs and has taught high school courses in ethics and theology and a college course in anthropology.

He has also been on a lecture series tour focusing on contemporary youth's problems as seen in a religious light.

After two years of study for the priesthood, at 20 years of age, he was too young to pursue this and spent a year hitchhiking around the U.S. and Canada.

Characterizing himself as a "searcher" at the time, Father Hagan said he usually remained in an area two or three weeks.

"You'll have a chance to get used to the routine and see if you do fit in a certain community," he said.

"If you don't feel you do, then you can find another community."

The many faces of Father Hagan will be seen to the best advantage as he finishes his doctoral work in pastoral counseling this fall at Andover-Newton Theological School, Boston.

"I'm sure Father Hagan will finish his work," said Dean C. C. Powell, FTU vice president of academic affairs, "but I'm not sure we'll see much of him around campus."
This public document is purged of an annual gross cost of approximately $230,759 to launder members of the university community of related news, announcements, and activities. Less an approximate annual revenue of $69,065, this document is circulated for an annual net total to the date of approximately $161,690, or 8.2 cents per copy.

I would like to commend highly the physical plant for their growing concern about the plant life on this campus. Our facilities really look nice. However, I think the most notable change has been the sidewalk - since they're being watered daily these past few days I have never seen them look so nice.

The student should also be recognized for their high regard of the students. No matter how full or cold it is, the janitors which I make much money with. Ha! Ha! They look after us and we look after them. Students use the copy machines as a service, so unless you have some friends with you, or carry a coin or change, then you have to go outside the university to be aware of this.

The change is often difficult, because of their policy of not giving change or shortchanging us. It is almost as if the administration is trying to harry us through this, the conversation, which they can start their vacation.

I believe that the evening time of 6:30 is a lot more relaxing for most people than in the morning. Honesty: Have you seen any Mexicanos??

I would like to protest the holding of graduation ceremonies on Friday, June 8, at 9 a.m. When setting this time, it seems to someone who did not take into full consideration the relatives of graduates who work.

It is impossible for me and my fellow in-law to attend the graduation as we both work.

As a graduate's wife, who has worked to support him so he could finish school, I feel it is a vast injustice to us.

Who do you expect to be more proud and want to attend than spouses and parents of the graduates? Someone certainly is making it difficult. Someone is denying us a proud moment.

I would like to suggest holding the ceremony at 9 a.m. on Saturday, June 9. Of the dozen or so people I have spoken with (graduates) it also presents problems because of working relatives.

President Millican, what are you going to do?

Sincerely,

Ellen Cox

Ah, Buenos dias! Welcome to Cisco's neighborhood station.

Hey, Pancho, get off your feet and put the streaks in the Gringo's windshield. I can tell by that look on your ugly American face you wonder why I make much money with. Ha! Ha! You should have seen the look on your face when I make much money with. Ha! Ha! Cisco, study at an American university and learn all the tricks of the trade. Don't exclude me, I'm learning the same. I'm one of the greats, and you can't stop me.

Hey, Cisco, I teach you all the tricks I know when I work at flag station on the Fort Worth.

Hey, Pancho, did you see that fire hose belt which I told you to? An, Bueso! Don't give me that look. I'm learning the same. I'm one of the greats, and you can't stop me.

Not only does the physical plant do its share by causing students to dodge the sprinklers as they go to classes, dorms or anywhere else on campus, but the library is now doing its share by causing students to walk across campus, whether students want to or not.

Indeed, this is a sorry state of affairs when people in charge of the library are that inconsiderate of the students of this university. Even if the coin-change was working, it is not asking too much to have the library give you change; they're just busy.

Displeases Seniors

I would like to tell it as I know it. I have never written anything to a student newspaper during my four years in college either at University of South Florida or FTU, but I feel that I have an obligation to all who are graduating this June and wish to express their feelings publicly.

Having commencement ceremonies at 9 a.m. is a sin. It doesn't take into account those persons who have to work and would like to attend the graduation ceremonies of theirs and daughters or husbands and wife.

For people who have spent four years and an incalculable sum of money, I believe that this shortschanges us. It is almost as if the administration is trying to harry us through this, the conversation, which they can start their vacation.

I believe that the evening time of 6:30 is a lot more relaxing for most people than in the morning. Honesty: Have you seen any Mexicanos??

Accusation Of Apathy

Irks Dilgent Student

I am writing in reference to letters which have appeared in the editorial column of the subject of student apathy, especially those letters from our illustrious president-lect, Constantine and a fellow student, Tomas.

First, I must confess that I am one of the apathetic students who have been very quickly on many campus. I have not participated in any student elections and do not plan to do so in the future, nor am I ashamed of this fact.

Neither have I joined any campus organizations nor attended any sport events. But despite those shortcomings (Continued on Page 7)
Some FTU students may be able to save time and transportation costs by taking some courses at one of six FTU resident centers.

Resident centers offer many of the same courses which are offered on the Orlando campus. The courses are taught by FTU professors and carry the same value as those on the main campus. The fee structure is also the same.

Students may concurrently attend day or night classes at both a resident center and the main campus.

Resident centers are located at Cocoa, Daytona Beach, Cape Canaveral, South Orlando, West Palm Beach and Patrick Air Force Base. There are now more than 900 students enrolled at these six resident centers.

The South Orlando Resident Center is in its first year of operation and is the newest addition to the campus-wide-from-campus system. The center is located near the entrance of South Orange Blossom Trail and the Beachcom.

Harden explained course selection at the resident center is determined largely by student demand. He said a greater number of courses are planned for the future and it will soon be possible for a student to complete all his course work for a degree at the resident center. The college is presently represented at the center are business administration, education, natural sciences, social sciences and engineering.

Entry Forms Available For Boat Building Contest

Entry forms for the Mechanical Engineering and Aerospace Sciences Club's $10 boat race are now available in EN 113.

Individuals or organizations wishing to enter the boat race, which will take place Saturday at Lake Claire, will find contest rules on the entry form.

Entry forms are to be returned to the Club by 5:00 p.m. tomorrow or may be brought to the race.

The entry requirement for the race is that cost of the boat does not exceed $10 in market value of materials. Entries will be appraised for value at noon tomorrow.

Some suggested building materials are styrofoam, rubber, trash cans, plywood and sheetrock. The club is arranging for a band to perform during the race, and spectators are asked to bring their own refreshments.

Further information on the race may be obtained by calling Leo Brown at ext. 5518 or Anne Puglisi at ext. 2191.

Fraternity Sets Tournay

Chi Phi fraternity is sponsoring a softball tournament to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation. Various fraternities and independent teams have been asked to participate.

The games will be played at England Park with reports Sharon M. Wall. Playing times are 1 - 8 p.m. tomorrow and 1:30 - 8 p.m. Sunday.

Sunday at 6:30 p.m., the first place team will play the "unbeatable" DJs of WKIS Radio.

RHA Merger Voters Okay

The Sun's Residence Association and Women's Residence Association have merged into one organization after overwhelming approval by residents who voted last Friday.

Of the 112 students voting on the adoption of the Residence Hall Association constitution, one hundred and fifty voted in favor of the merger while two voted against it.

Jennifer Lobis, president of the Women's Residence Association, announcing the result, said, "It was pathetic. But considering the votes were cast on one day and with short warning, the voting was remarkably close..."

Petitions of candidacy for RHA offices started yesterday and elections for president and vice president will be held Tuesday. Elections for the executive council will follow on Thursday.

According to the new constitution, future elections must take place with at least a week's interval between them.

Lynda Lota, advisor for the newly formed RHA, explained, "Elections must be held close together because spring quarter is the only time for executive council election, only half of the membership will be decided. The rest will vote on who can be an election during fall quarter."

Watergate Course Set

William H. Jervey, assistant professor of political science, announced recently two courses will be offered this summer which will focus on Watergate.

Jervey said the class was being offered in the interest of "making courses relevant to what is happening in America today."

The other course, Congress and the Legislative Process, PCI 310, is a course designed to survey all of the American presidencies, investigating some of the events occurring during each of their administrations.

The course will place special emphasis on the Nixon Administration and especially the Watergate incident.

The other course, Congress and the Legislative Process, PCI 310, will investigate the effects of Watergate upon Congress.

In both courses, students will take the role of various members of Congress, introduce bills, speak and argue points just like the persons they are representing.

Many of the bills will be ones which might arise as a result of Watergate.

SNACK BAR REMODELS

The Village Center Snack Bar is scheduled to be totally remodeled over the summer in time for the expected influx of students in fall quarter.

Although final plans have not yet been completed, SG President-elect Lonnie Conant said the facelifting "will be more conducive to the relaxation and conversation."

Final approval of the plans will be given by Vice President for Business Affairs J. P. Gores, who stated that the remodeling will upgrade the appearance, attractiveness and disinfect the out look."

Boyter Baritone Recital Rescheduled

Dr. Horace Boyer's recital, originally planned for April 16, will take place in Engineering Auditorium Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. The baritone singer received his doctorate in music from the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester, New York, and now teaches voice at FTU.

Lord Olivier shows there is nothing sham about his reputation. When his grandiose character becomes malevolent, the glint of his black eyes carries more power than a thousand words or even Cavill has usually been considered a good actor, but here he matches Lord Olivier's restraint and inspiration.

The third performance is that of the director. It would have been so easy to let this show get out of hand, but the direction never lets anything go too far. Madame Mortimer is, perhaps, indicative of the whole production. There is almost too much to take in, yet there is always room for the action and, somehow, every item plays its part without being obscured.

Each part fits together to give a thrilling, heart-chilling, mind-lifting cinematic experience. "Sleuth" is now playing at the Parkwood Cinema on West Colonial Drive.

Space Center Offering Job
The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has notified the FTU-Cos office of a job opening for an engineering student. The position is in the Earth Resources Area of the John F. Kennedy Space Center. Data Analysis and Interpretation Position. According to Walter H. Rock, project manager, the Cos-op would be expected to familiarize himself with the operation of all optical and electronic equipment in order to assist project leaders and investigators using the facility for analysis of data on individual projects. Pay is $5 an hour for freshmen - $2.61 per hour, sophomores $2.95 per hour, juniors and seniors $3.70 per hour.

Students interested in this opening should inquire at the FTU-Cos office in the Administrative Building.
Lake Claire Picnic Canceled

The annual FTU spring picnic at Lake Claire will not be held this year due to lack of money and complaints about Student Government's use of picnic funds last year.

Reeve Adamick, SG president, canceled the picnic, saying, “We just could not afford it this year, since there was a $15,000 cutback in SG funds. If we had a picnic we would have to charge the students.”

Last year's picnic cost about $60,000, Adamick said, and complaints about the use of the money made the picnic idea a “nonstarter.”

Lee Constantine, SG president-elect, said, “There weren’t any plans made for the picnic this year.”

However, Constantine mentioned the possibility of a concert being held at the Lake Claire facility after the 18-year-old rights bill goes into effect July 1.

Profanity At Game
Shocks Spectator

Editor:
Saturday, May 5, I attended the baseball game between FTU and Eckerd College. About 20 fans turned out to encourage the FTU players. Six or eight of these students were upset at the profane and almost obscene remarks that were frequently yelled out at each individual member of the opposing team and their coach. I understand several of these students are members of the ATO fraternity.

A gentleman in a yellow cap passed by me, and I remarked how distasteful this was to me as a spectator and member of the general public. He went over and spoke to these men, and some of the profanity ceased.

I later discovered that the gentleman I had been talking with was your president, Dr. Millican.

I have watched about 20 games this spring and have seen all the major college teams in the area play. I have not heard this personal harassment directed at players except once before, when FTU played Rollins at Tucker Field.

I was disappointed that there were not more FTU students at Saturday’s game who were REALLY supporting their team. However, Dr. Millican should be complimented on coming out and showing his interest in the team, as I am sure his schedule is a busy one.

Rohr Steps Out...Powell Steps In

By Fred Cady

For five years, Frank Rohrer has been the top man in FTU's athletic department. But not until he resigned the athletic director's post last Friday did he begin working on the true goals he has been seeking in physical education.

Basically, his main objective is a return to classroom teaching—with an emphasis on reform in the area of motor learning.

"There has been a tremendous need for someone to develop motor learning," explained Rohrer. "I gained background in that area studying under Dr. Chester Hyman at the University of Southern California. He had a great influence on my life.

"Also, FTU will be helping supervise the very comprehensive papers students have to do in graduate studies. And I hope to develop further a course in the fall—the 'actualization of physical potential in contemporary living'—which will help students assess their athletic potential through cardiovascular testing.

Rohrer's other goal will be to develop and improve the program for drug abuse through drug education.

"There is a great need for drug education research," stated Rohrer. "And alcohol is included in the problem.

"Drug education, not drug rehabilitation, is what we need to emphasize. Drug rehabilitation has developed faster, but the prevention aspect is what we have to work on.

Rohrer was director of the exercise physiology lab at Florida State University, but decided to come to FTU in 1968 after Dr. C. C. Miller, dean of the College of Education, told him about the new school during a visit to FDU.

"Dr. Miller asked me if I could recommend anybody for the athletic director position. Rohrer recalled, "and it sounded so good that I recommended myself.

Rohrer, a native of Chicago, is an associate professor at the University of Southern California, liked the idea of a challenge at FTU and was impressed by the administration.

"The receptive way athletics has been accepted by the administration and its total support has been one of my best memories of the job," Rohrer said, reflecting on his years.

"Aside from our basic principle that athletic participation can be fun, it is sometimes the only way our students can learn leadership. And the most important thing in sports is winning!" Rohrer added he could never break completely from university work, "I love university-life working with young people who are so dynamic. Nothing could ever replace that, not even a job that would never do anything else."
Goldsox Lose Twin-Bill But Winners On Season

By Fred Cay

A double loss could never be considered an enjoyable way to wind up a season, but since the twin-bill was against nationally ranked Miami, it wasn’t altogether unexpected, either.

The FTU Goldsox were thumped decisively by 6-0 and 10-1 margins and were no-hit by Miami’s Rich Patrylo in the first game.

"With the exception of the losses, it was a good way to end the season,” remarked head coach Doug Holmquist. "They really do things up big down there.”

The crowd of about 1,000 saw presentations made to graduating seniors, leading performances—even down to the statistician—before the games, also the last regular-season contests for the ‘Canes.

"It was a great experience playing on that field—that green grass and graced Holmquist. "That’s the first time we’ve played on anything quite like it. And we did furnish us with soccer shoes down there, too.”

Last week, Holmquist had expressed concern about the lack of shoes for the artificial turf.

"We need to go out and get a couple of those," he said.

Mike Ferrell, who continued his torrid hitting right to the end (doubling in his last at bat of the year), finished with a .374 average to average team honors by 21, one better than Ferrell.

"That’s playing on that field—that green grass and graced Holmquist. "That’s the first time we’ve played on anything quite like it. And we did furnish us with soccer shoes down there, too.”

Last week, Holmquist had expressed concern about the lack of shoes for the artificial turf.

"We need to go out and get a couple of those," he said.

Mike Ferrell, who continued his torrid hitting right to the end (doubling in his last at bat of the year), finished with a .374 average to average team honors by 21, one better than Ferrell.

Steve String, Guido, Dave Ferrell, Mike McCarty with seven.
