Snack Bar Renovation To Be Finished By Fall

When the snackbar reopens during fall orientation, the smoky, impersonal feeling from the bare floor and naked windows will be gone and replaced with a mellow atmosphere of amber light, wall-to-wall carpet and drapes.

In the renovated snackbar students can enjoy Michelob and Budweiser beer on draft for 35 cents and 30 cents.

According to James Eller, Michelob and Budweiser were chosen because they seemed the most popular and are in use by other universities that serve beer. A market survey conducted by two PTU students, Sam West and Tom Edwards, confirmed this finding that 26% of drinking students preferred Michelob and 23% preferred Budweiser.

Their survey also indicated an overwhelming proportion of students would switch brands depending on price and availability.

Sushi and pizzas are also to be included on the menu.

The snack bar closed August 2 for work to begin on the remodeling. The Physical Plant is in charge of the renovations. James K. Eller, director of auxiliary services, estimated the renovations would take six weeks and should be finished by Sept. 10.

A solid wall will be constructed between the dining area and the passage way to the Multi Purpose room. This will completely separate the registration lines and the dinner plan and during June the administration secured the permission of the Board of Regents to have beer and circulated a county zoning ordinance.

According to Leonard Ivey, state license supervisor, the process of filling and researching the university's application should take no more than six weeks. The license will cost the university $200 annually.

All of the requirements for the license, including a health inspection of the snack bar, have been met, said Ivey. The beer license is being made in the name of James Eller, director of auxiliary services.

Constantine Elected Head Of SG Council

PTU's Student Government President Les Constantine was elected President of the State Council of Student Body Presidents. Constantine won the position through a majority vote at the council meeting held July 26 in Jacksonville at the University of North Florida.

The council, working closely with the Board of Regents (BOR), represents students of Florida state universities and coordinates entertainment and activities among the universities.

Constantine, the first President elected from PTU, is considering changing the Council's meeting schedule from the night preceding the BOR meeting to two weeks before. He is also considering permitting only the president of the council to attend the BOR Meeting.

Currently the council is preparing a statement of purpose and procedure. Although the council in approximately 20 years old, it has never produced such a statement, according to Constantine.

The council also works with the Board of Education, and the State Council of University Presidents.

APPROXIMATELY 100 high school students from the University of South Florida's "Project Upward Bound" toured PTU last month.

The purpose of the visit was to acquaint students with the educational facilities at this university and to orient and encourage young blacks to continue their education.

The visit was arranged by Mrs. Lavinia Laybold, USF's director of counseling services, for "Project Upward Bound." The PTU part of the program was coordinated by Frank Simmons, coordinator of PTU's co-op program.

Mrs. Laybold said, "The program provides motivation for the underachieving student. We offer the student intensive tutoring and counseling."

THE PROGRAM is federally funded through HEW and is administered in the area by USF.

"After the trip, almost all the students wanted to go to PTU," said Mrs. Laybold. "The hospitality at PTU was tremendous," she added.

The PTU visit began with an assembly in the Multi Purpose Room where the students heard different members of the faculty and administration speak about the university.

VOLUNTEER PTU students then showed the visitors around campus.

After lunch in the cafeteria the high school students met on the lawn between the residence halls for a "rap" session with students and professors participating in the program.

Simmons said, "I feel that PTU is probably not doing what it should to recruit blacks."

"THIS TYPE of program will increase awareness and exposure of PTU to the local black community as well as blacks from the Central Florida area," Simmons added.

The sale of beer on campus will soon pass from an era of talking to an era of drinking. PTU administrators are waiting for the state to issue the university a beer license and for the current refimming of the snack bar to be completed.

Dr. W. Rex Brown, vice president for student affairs, said the sale of beer in the snack bar would probably begin by early September.

The university applied for the license in early July, shortly after a special campus council gave the recommendation that beer should be sold in the Snack Bar. President Charles W. Millican gave his approval to the plan and during June the administration secured the permission of the Board of Regents to have beer and circulated a county zoning ordinance.

According to Leonard Ivey, state license supervisor, the process of filling and researching the university's application should take no more than six weeks. The license will cost the university $200 annually.

According to a Florida Board of Regents (BOR) statistics, PTU currently has the lowest percentage of black enrolled of any of the nine state-owned universities in the state of Florida.

...And It Came To Pass

And it came to pass, late in the morning toward the last day of the quarter, there arose a great multitude smiting the books and wailing.

And there was much weeping and gnashing of teeth. For the day of judgment was at hand. And they had sinned against him, for they had left undone those things which they ought to have done. And they had done those things which they ought not to have done. And there was no help for it.

And there were many abiding in the dorm. Who had kept watch over their books by night, but it sealed them not.

But some were who rose peacefully. For they had prepared themselves the way and made straight paths of knowledge. And there were known as Wise burners of the midnight oil. And to others they were known as "curse raisers."

And the multitude arose and ate a hearty breakfast. And they came unto the appointed place and their hearts were heavy within them. And they had come to pass, but some to pass out.

And some of them Repented of their riotous living and bemoaned their fate, and made straight paths of knowledge. And these were known as "curve raisers."

And there was much weeping and gnashing of teeth. For the day of judgment was at hand. But it availed them naught. But some were who rose peacefully, and many and varied were the answers that were given. For some of his teachings had fallen among fertile minds. And many other, those that were not fertile minds. While others had fallen, flat. And some were who wrote for one hour, others for two; but some turned away sorrowful, and many of these offered up a little ball in hopes of pacifying the instructor, and these were the ones who had not a prayer.

And when they finished, they gathered up their belongings and went their way quietly, each in his own direction, and each one vowing unto himself in this manner: "I shall not pass this way again."

Journalism Tour Going Great!

Editor:

Thanks much for sending the FTUers. Here's a rough outline of our actions so far: FTU's European Journalism Tour received a general audience with Pope Paul recently at Vatican City. The Pope called out the group's name along with many other groups of different nationalities and blessed them. In France we met with the Deputy Minister of Information and later were included on a live new broadcast over ORTF. France's national TV network. We visited Le Monde and Le Figaro, two leading French newspapers.

In Rome, Italy

FTU's summer commencement exercises will be held Friday at 7:00 p.m. at Orlando's Municipal Auditorium. Approximately 400 students will be graduated in the ceremonies highlighted by keynote speaker, Dr. James Gollistochek, president of Valencia Community College. The downtown Orlando auditorium will cost the university an estimated $350 to $500 to lease for the graduation ceremonies.

Present plans for fall commencement include a change of location. The commencement committee will request the use of the facilities at Winter Park High School. If the facilities at the high school are not available, alternate plans for fall graduation will be to request the use of the Naval Training Center's "field house" auditorium.

In Bern, Switzerland, officials of the government and press and the students in a lively discussion about the state of Swiss press.

In Rome, the tour met with an official of the American Embassy who explained their work. We saw rare documentaries held by the Luce organization about Mussolini. We also met with an officer of Italy's Foreign Ministry.

The group visited the home of Luigi Barzini, the author of a controversial book. The italyal. The book attempts to evaluate Italy objectively.

From Italy the group will visit several Iron Curtain countries and will complete their tour in London.

OUTING EQUIPMENT

Outing equipment can be checked out from the VC game room, WC 106. The equipment includes one nightlight tent, 10 sleeping bags, two large cooking kits, one tarpaulin and two light two-man tents.

Equipment may be checked out by presenting I.D. cards and paying a flat fee of $1 for the eight-man tent and 50 cents for each additional item.

The new equipment is owned by the Student Government and operated by the VC.

Boundaries for the legal consumption of beer at Lake Claire have been agreed to by Student Government and the Office of Student Affairs.

The boundaries of the area are as follows: the water line of Lake Claire on the north, the line formed by the unerased wooden area on the west and east, and the designated fence which separates the parking lot from the recreational area on the south.
Bathhouse Ready
At Lake Claire

Doors to the Lake Claire bathhouse facility were opened this morning at the Village Center after allowing the interior to dry and be cleaned. With construction being complete, the electrical connection brought the plumbing, heating system and the chlorination building, the other block house at the lake site, was made Wednesday by the Sewage Treatment Plant working with the Physical Plant.

According to Richard Neuhaus, physical plant supervisor, this chlorination process will provide additional security on the purity of the water, "even though", he pointed, "the water from the ground is potable."

The State Board of Health approved the water supply last week. The Orange County Health Department has approved the city's chlorination system, which was installed by the Physical Plant and Sewage Treatment Plant.

A VC estimate of $12,000 will be allocated by the Government funds for construction of the facility. This payment was made when the city still held responsibility for the Lake Claire area. The city turned responsibility for the bathhouse over to the VC on July 1, Dr. Ken Lawson, VC director, said.

No showers are in the building because of a money problem, according to Fred Clayton, planning director. But, he indicated, the building was designed for an additional section to be built for the showers when "money permits."

The Lake Claire bathhouse will make available bathroom, rest room and changing facilities. The facilities are scheduled to open today in time for the weekend and Sunday's SG concert (photo by Alas Geeslin).

SG Organizes Student Car Pool

Student Government Vice President Hunter Potts will be organizing student car pools for fall during summer pre-registration by the Village Center.

Potts said, "This could be very beneficial to the student community in several ways. The first is a very obvious one - parking." In near 95 percent of the student population, are cars or other means of transportation, Potts said. Wide-spread participation in car pools could help relieve the situation to a great extent, he continued.

Potts said personal savings to the student is another reason to promote the car pools. Residents participating in a car pool will be driving to school less and will spend less money on gasoline; the kids have less wear on their cars and tires; Potts added.

Potts noted a very special problem characteristic of FTU and other commuter schools that of students not knowing other students.

Potts said, "One of the basic problems at the university could be overcome with indepth participation in this program - students getting to know one another being involved in the system. This might seem far fetched, but I feel that this problem could be remedied if students from similar proximity are riding together."

This is the first car pool of this scale to be organized by SG and probably the only one at any of the state universities.

Potts said, if a success at FTU, the system could possibly be used as a model for other universities such as the University of Florida and Florida State University, which have extreme parking problems, he added.

SG workers will go door to door and four persons with similar proximities and schedules. The SG office will either phone the people involved or will publish the lists the second week of fall quarter.

Interested students will be furnished with forms during registration for fall. They must supply the schedule, location and whether or not they will be coordinating a car. Students interested in just driving and who would not mind company should register.

EURAIL Proves To Be Bargain

This article was written by a student this summer on FTU's European Journalism Tour.

Eurail travel is one of the few remaining bargains in Europe where the dollar drop and continual promises are driving other prices out of the average income range.

Fare wise, Eurail travel first class for a two-month period abroad, Europe's generally excellent, that is dependable and comfortable, trains.

The rail network is so comprehensive that it seems quite believable to American, especially South American, visitors accustomed to a few trunk lines or, in some instances, almost total reliance on highways for transportation.

Because of the virtual disappearance of the one-choipper baggage handling from the railway stations of the more affluent countries (France, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Portugal), the traveler must manage his own luggage in Spain and Portugal the porters still are available in decreasing numbers.

Baggage-handling is facilitated in France by a push-poor-owned carter called a chariot. However, these aids seldom are available.

Now and when needed, so baggage handling usually depends upon the owner's muscle.

In the ultra-modern Montparnasse station in Paris, escalators have eliminated need for the beautiful expanse of marble lobbies which serve as ornament for the beauty of Montparnasse, truly a station fit for the gods.

The baggage handling problem has led to a system of "day trips." Needed information such as maps, inter-city transportation links, hours of train departures are published in Eurail's special travel guide in different languages.

The Eurail Traveler selects a central point, preferably one where there are multiple local attractions, good intercity transportation and, hopefully, reasonable accommodations. Then he begins a series of daily visits to points recommended by the Eurail guide. He needs only to carry a camera case and, if the budget will not permit the train restaurant, a hunch.

The Eurail traveler differs considerably from the dining car of grand tour days with its cadre of waiters and wine stewards. Self-service is the order of the day of disappearing baggage handlers and other accommodating individuals who once made personal service in Europe a by-word among travelers.

Picking out what is desired or can be afforded is the present practice, and the absence of all those tip-seeking attendants has its advantages. It is still possible to dadle over a cup of coffee or a liqueur for most of the ride, a decided convenience if the train is crowded and the Eurail traveler failed to make reservations.

Reservations require some planning and the impromptu second class traveler sometimes take his chance, especially in Italy, to his consequent regret and discomfort. The traveler will lose and may even stand for miles.

On most trips someone will make certain that second class, often for a long sojourn in the restaurant car, and the Eurail traveler without reservations knows to arise the seat. Later he may be forced to give it up if his feet will be rested.

Second class Eurail travelers consider of persons since 25 years of age. They face a battle for space as most European travel second class. In addition, reservations are sometimes refused.

For this impromptu second class traveler, there are various recrues and the many American students with second class Eurail passes have tried them all.

Early arrival is the best guarantee of second class space to avoid a long wait aboard, it is sufficient to "hold" the seat by placing a newspaper or a bottle of water on it.

The Eurail pass extends to bus, boat and ferry travel. Reduced rates on European are offered by Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, Netherlands, Spain and Switzerland. Private railroads in Germany offer reduced rates.
“JUST SITTING down beside the road isn’t enough,” Tom explained. “If you want a ride, you’ve gotta have something to get them interested.”

Tom Lupinek is an experienced hitchhiker. He has traveled along the East Coast of the United States several times, either as a hitchhiker by way of thumb or on foot.

He knows of the best ways to catch a ride to do some walking yourself. If you’re heading down the road in the direction you want to go, with your thumb out, the chances are better that you’ll get picked up.

HE LEANED back and put a match to his pipe. “It has something to do with the attitude of drivers. I mean, if they think you might want to get somewhere, they’ll pick you up.”

Self-proclaimed truant, Tom said he does not think his hair, which falls almost to his middle of his back, is a deterrent to catching rides.

“I’ve had the greater chance of getting picked up by the kind of people who, because of my hair and the beard, he said. “I sincerely believe that freaks have a better chance of getting picked up than a lot of short-haired do. Again, it’s something to do with driver attitudes. Freaks aren’t expected to have cars, but, anyway.”

Tom usually travels downtown alone, hitching his way to his 30-pound pack. “If I get a ride, I go with another hitchhiker; otherwise, I usually will. Even though I dig being on the road alone, it’s nice to have some company once in a while,” he continued.

Tom paused long enough to dig a match through the ashes in his pipe, before he hunched them into the wastebasket at his side.

“Catching a ride at night is usually really hard. It seems during the day I look okay, but at night I guess I look like some kind of an ogre, cause I have the worst time in the world getting a lift. My beard must have something to do with it,” he said, shrugging.

“If CATCHING a ride at night is necessary, wear light clothes and stand in any available light. Just stand there: don’t move unless you have recommended one hitchhiker. ‘They’ve got to see you to pick you up; that’s your main consideration.’

Before you hitch, you should know local regulations concerning hitchhiking. Orlando, for example, prohibits soliciting a ride within the city limits. Violators of the city ordinance are subject to a $12 fine.

In municipalities where there is no city ordinance, the state statute on hitchhiking is enforced.

THE STATE regulation says no person shall be permitted to stand on any paved area meant for the use of motor vehicles for the purpose of soliciting a ride. The law prohibits standing in the road, not beside it. Daytona Beach, for example, has no city ordinance, but enforces the state statute.

Information Officer H. G. Willis of the Daytona Beach Police Department said, “We’ve issued a few (tickets), but only if they were obstructing traffic,” he said. “If they don’t cause any trouble, we usually let them carry on.”

Young Democrats Receive Honors

FTU's chapter of the Young Democrats (YD) attended the State Young Democrats Convention in Miami July 13-15. The convention was held at the Deauville Hotel on Miami Beach and was highlighted by an awards banquet Saturday night. The banquet featured Congressman Andrew Young from Atlanta as main speaker and Senator Claude Pepper from Florida as a special guest.

The 38 FTU chapter representatives were awarded a plaque commemorating the fact that it was the outstanding college club in the state for 72-73. The chapter, in conjunction with the club from Orange County, also received a plaque for having sponsored the outstanding YD event for the same year.

The convention also approved a new bylaw eliminating for state YD committees and conferences. The committee for redistricting was chaired by Lisa Ferrara, current term for the FTU club.

Miss Ferrara said the acceptance of the new plan as "a great step forward for the furthering of a more equal form of representation for members of YDs in this state."

She added that it also represented a victory for FTU and Orange County over Dade County. Members from Dade County have run the convention and have gotten everything they have wanted for the past five years, Miss Ferrara added.

The convention also elected new officers. Miss Ferrara was elected to the office of Programs Vice President.

The convention approved next year's YD platform. Among the things approved were a call for the repeal of laws against the use of marijuana, the abolition of the right of sale and possession of hand guns, the immediate cessation of hostilities in Indo-China and a resolution calling for the 1972 Presidential elections to be declared invalid to prevent the possible scandal of an impeachment action against President Nixon because of the Watergate affair.

Basic Opportunity Grants

A new concept of providing financial aid to students will become effective next fall.

The federally funded Basic Opportunity Grant program will provide a system of awarding funds to needy students. This "entitlement concept" will allow students to go to a contractor (or evaluator) who will determine the individual student's need and make the award.

The basic difference between this approach and present policy is that the student will be allowed to go to the school of his choice after receiving the award.

Presently, financial aid is granted to the institutions and they, in turn, determine who will receive aid.

Assistance will be determined by subtracting the amount the family can contribute from $1,400. The remainder is what the student will receive. This figure was determined by the Federal government to be a median of expenses incurred yearly for attending a university.

Student Affairs Wins Over SG
By Jose Rodriguez

The first annual Student Government vs. Student Affairs (S. Aff.) softball game ended in a 7-5 victory for S. Aff. despite the attempts of SG to regain their early lead.

The game was held at 2 p.m. on July 20 at the intramural field.

After the first two innings of play, SG held S. Aff. scoreless by a margin of 3-0.

S. Aff.'s president Lee Constantine led the top of third inning with a base hit. Constantine was pulled out trying to advance to second base after a fly out.

At the bottom of the third, S. Aff. proceeded to cut down SG's lead with a two-run homer by resident advisor Andy Taylor. Hammock, S. Aff.'s director of campus affairs, was pulled out because of a year of experience and a foul tip.

S. Aff. proceeded to cut down SG's lead over their early lead.

FTU Hosts All-Japan Team
By Jose Rodriguez

The National Japanese World Wrestling Team won eight of 11 matches over the Florida All Stars in a wrestling exhibition held at the Orlando Sports Stadium on July 27.

Of the 12 Florida All Stars, six were from FTU. The FTU wrestlers competed in weight classifications ranging from 136 pounds to heavyweight.

Of the FTU wrestlers only John Rouse, in the heavy weight class, defeated his Japanese opponent.

Other victories were scored by University of Florida's Jeff Davis in the 163 pound weight class and College All-American Ron Brandt in the 196 pound weight class, who currently attends the University of Buffalo.

FTU wrestling coach Gerald Gergley said the Florida All Stars performed well considering the amount of practice and training which the team had prior to the match.

The Japanese Team had approximately six months of preparations while the Florida team had only three weeks of training before the exhibition.

Handy Jesse, one of the FTU wrestlers, showed up at the Orlando Sports Stadium with a date as a spectator. To his surprise, Jesse found himself on the mats wearing an extra uniform and a pair of Coach Gergley's wrestling shoes. Jesse lost to his opponent.

John Rouse a 265 pound heavy weight and only winner from FTU said, “Last season FTU lost to U of F because of lack of experience in the heavier weights.”

This coming season our coaching will come through because of a year of experience and last season's returning heavier weights, Rouse added.

Rouse expressed optimism that FTU will emerge as the number one wrestling power in the state next year. Only U of F may pose a threat.

Rouse, not only predicts that FTU will defeat U of F next season but is convinced that FTU will be the Florida collegiate wrestling champs.
