As an introduction to Greek Week, these floats launched five days of Greek activities with a parade Tuesday. Parties follow today's Greek sing in the Village Center. Saturday has been set aside as Games Day with chariot, ice and tricycle races, games, a lunch basket auction and an awards party to round up the week.

A&S Fee Short By $250,000

Activity and Service Fee (A&S) budget requests for 1974-75 exceed anticipated revenues by an amount in excess of a quarter of a million dollars. The A&S budget committee is presently trying to resolve this difference without lowering the quality of programs and activities funded through the A&S.

Plans have been made to contact the head of each area concerned and inform them of the seriousness of the deficit and ask them to try and revise their budgets accordingly.

As reported earlier in the FTU Vue, two reasons for the shortage of funds are the anticipated drop in A&S revenue because of the new fee structure now before the Florida Legislature and the increased amount of money which must be placed in the interest and sinking fund.

In other developments, Student Government President Lee Constantine has requested an opinion from the attorney general regarding the "local control of activity fees." His request concerns the fact that the fees are locally collected and dispersed and his opinion that as such should not have to meet the same requirements as funds received from the state.

In Tallahassee, a bill is presently being considered which would place all budgetary controls on the A&S money in the hands of the student governments at the local university.

Drug Bills Strengthened, Await Legislative Action

One of three bills patterned after the tough New York State drug law was killed by the Senate Criminal Justice Committee recently, but its companion (HB 2754) was strengthened and passed by the House Criminal Justice Committee. The bill, sponsored by Rep. George Grouse (D-Jacksonville), which had read that it is a life felony to sell, deliver or possess with intent to do either, "in excess of five grams of any controlled (prohibited) substance" was amended to read "in excess of five grams of any substance containing a controlled substance." This would make it a crime punishable by life imprisonment to possess any amount of, for example, cocaine or heroin, mixed with sugar.

The groups that opposed the Senate version included the American Medical Association and the Florida Medical Association.

The Florida organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (FORML) made its debut at the Senate Criminal Justice Committee meeting by having a statement of testimony urging the senators to avoid the "sharpest measure" proposed in the drug bills "which, in the long run, will only worsen the problem."

"Historically, man has used substances to alter his state of consciousness. No threat of criminal sanction has changed this fact," the statement said. Though it now appears the laws concerning marijuana will not be dealt with this session, the statement concluded by urging the senators "to think reasonably and examine the situation more closely. The vast majority of available research has shown marijuana to be relatively harmless, even when compared to alcohol and tobacco. Remember, during the early colonial days, criminal penalties were imposed for what is now a rather common occurrence: the drinking of coffee."

Florida State University officials and state coordinators for FORML, Kevin Callahan, said the organization does not want to appear to be supporting the use of "hard drugs" but felt the statement was a position on the pending legislation. He added FORML, which formed three months ago, is primarily concerned with marijuana and schedule one drugs with the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws.

The group is taking advantage of the current session to locate possible support for promoting the removal of criminal penalties for one ounce of pot by next year, Callahan said.

A bill (SB 205) with similar provisions by Senator David McClain (D-Tampa) was passed by the Senate committee later. The sponsors said the intent of the bill is not to increase penalties for small amounts of marijuana, but to drive "hard drug pushers" out of Florida. They include 10 year mandatory minimum sentences for second offenders and doing away with "plag bargaining."

There is not much enthusiasm for these bills, especially in the Senate. The proposal's authors believe that they seek to amend the Florida Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of last year, which is looked upon by many as making more work and more money. It is also maligned by many as driving the number of drugs in "schedules" with penalties set according to their potential for abuse. The law is intended to facilitate and standardize sentencing. Many feel the law should be given more of a chance to prove its effectiveness before revising the schedules.

ART EXHIBIT

The sixth annual FTU art students' exhibit will be held in the library lobby May 12-21. On display will be various works by students in various classes of specific art forms. The exhibit will consist of works by students done as class assignments. It is part of a learning experience involving students enrolled in various classes of specific art forms.

Hours for viewing will be:
- Thursday: 7-4:45 p.m.
- Friday: 10 a.m.-8 p.m.
- Saturday: 2 p.m. to 11 p.m.
- Sunday: 1-5 p.m.

A TO Claims Top Spot In College Bowl Play

Competition in the College Bowl was completed Thursday, May 2 with the playing of the final matches and the selection of the All Star players.

Tuesday April 30 action saw M. F. Four defeat Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Sigma best Tri Beta, Tau Kappa Epsilon over Arnold Air Society, Delta Tau Delta defeat Lambda Chi Alpha, Chi Phi No. 1 beat Chi Phi No. 2 and Chess Club defeat Alpha Tau Omega No. 2.

In Wednesday May 1 action it was M. F. Four over Kappa Sigma, Tau Kappa Epsilon No. 1 over Delta Tau Delta, Chess Club over Chi Phi No. 1 and Alpha Tau Omega No. 1 over Kappa Sigma.

The finals on Thursday May 2 continued with M. F. Four defeating Tau Kappa Epsilon No. 1, and Chi Phi Club losing to Alpha Tau Omega No. 1. This piloted the undefeated M. F. Four team against Alpha Tau Omega No. 1 for the Final match. Alpha Tau Omega was able to defeat M. F. Four twice to claim first in the tournament. The consolation match saw Tau Kappa Epsilon defeat the Chess Club.

Twelve all star players were chosen based upon the average number of answers per match. The four top players were Louis Rotundo - Alpha Tau Omega No. 1, Dan Smith - Chess Club, KerrySoldan- Chess Club, and Ben Branton - M. F. Four. These four players would represent FTU in any inter-university competition. The next three players would serve as alternates. They are: Scott Minigals - Delta Tau Delta, Richard Johnston - Alpha Tau Omega No. 1, and Bill Powers - Chi Phi No. 1.

Five additional all star players were chosen from the approximately 100 participants in the tournament. They were: Robert Smith - Kappa Sigma, Ron Fudell - Tau Kappa Epsilon, William Mockowski - Tri Beta, Mike Bridgland - M. F. Four, and Tom Terrel - M. F. Four.

Common Course Numbering Sought

programs they want. We only want them to tell us what they want to teach and let us catalogue it." Two other FTU professors participating in the conference agreed with Chapman. Dr. M. Timothy O'Keefe said there is enough flexibility in the plan to accommodate any number and type of course. He said a university has only to say what courses they want to teach and they can be incorporated in the system.

Dr. Thomas A. Mullin also said the plan can adjust for exceptional courses and maintained there is room for "expansion and creativity in different areas.

Other FTU faculty attending the conference were Professor Steven D. Laul Thomas D. Morgan, Jerrell H. Shoaf and Angela J. Ovada.

Legislators Examine Evaluations

State legislators will soon receive "random" faculty evaluations minus the professor's names, in order to investigate tenure, pay raise and promotion practices. From the Florida University System Vice Chancellor for Administrative Affairs Ken Boutwell.

Boutwell said the nine state universities are preparing data which will be forwarded to the Senate Education Committee, who will be carrying out the investigation.

The University of Florida's system of faculty evaluation by students has served as a model for other universities. Students receive a rating sheet containing 36 statements about the teacher and course at the end of the quarter. The student has the choice of five answers, ranging from full agreement to disagreement for each statement.

The write-in space in which the student may make personal comments and criticisms (both good and bad), is known only to the professor.

The rest of the tabulated results are kept by the dean or department head, and copies are shelved in the libraries for students. Useful faculty evaluations are a vital part of personnel records, an issue currently bouncing back on the State University System from the Board of Regents (BOR) and the Florida Cabinet.

Information contained in the files, according to the Regents, is to be used in decision affecting assignment, promotion and tenure, and should not be open to public scrutiny. The Cabinet, however, assembling weekly as the State Board of Education with review powers, already allows the records to be closed.

Legislators curiously confirmed with bunglers before drafting the bill. This second point which originally made the use of credit cards on campus less than desirable was to avoid extra personnel to handle the credit accounts.

University comptroller, Joseph Gomez said the most immediate problem encountered when paying tuition with a credit card is a need which requires verification of the holder by the credit bureau for all purchases exceeding $60.00. Gomez said his accounts receivable personnel would have to be increased mostly just to make numerous phone calls to the credit bureau and also followed investigations of illegitimate accounts.

Gomez and Goree both stated that credit cards would slow down the system. Goree pointed to the fact that 50 percent of the students presently pay tuition by mail and said, "with a credit card they would have to bring it in person." Gomez then explained the present, familiar to many of making a credit card purchase and mentioned that when be, personally, has made large purchases with a credit card, five minutes of standing around waiting for the store to telephone the credit bureau and verify the account is not rare. He said at least five more people would be needed and that lines of people waiting to pay tuitions would be longer and slower. "Just think of how it would sound in the book store," said Goree.

Goree also mentioned that credit is probably not thrivere in the intent of the House bill since payments can now be deferred and student loans are readily available.

New Fee Structure Could Lower Hours

By Greg Like

The Board of Regent's (BOR) proposed $13.00 per credit hour system of fee assessment conceivably result in students taking fewer credit hour per quarter.

Enrichment courses, specifically those in the College of Humanities and Fine Arts (HFA) may be the courses most ten per cent passed over by students.

Asked about a possible reduction in the number of students taking enrichment courses, Dr. Charles M. Micarelli, dean of the College of HFA, said, "it will depend on the financial picture of the students."

Asked the same question, Dr. Richard R. Adicks, associate professor of English said, "students may be less inclined to take electives."

When asked about the proposed fee assessment change, Adicks said, "I think it may hurt the whole university, although it may hurt the HFA Department more."

"I think it's an action proposed that was not properly thought through. I can see an adverse effect," said Finley Taylor, instructor in the foreign language department when asked about the fee assessment proposal by the BOR.

Questioned about the possibility of fewer students taking enrichment courses as a result of the BOR's proposals, Dr. Harry Smith, assistant dean of the College of HFA, said: "That's the only obvious thing people first think of, but I have no way of knowing."

Asked if he foresees a reduced number of students taking courses in the College of HFA, Micarelli stressed that he'd have to wait until the fall quarter to be sure.

Monday, May 15, the veterans workshop will be held in the Multi-Purpose Room from 10-12 p.m. Also on Monday, from 3-5 p.m. instead of 4-6 p.m.

By John P. Goree, vice president for Business Affairs, had a copy of a House bill 6-61, which he said is in a senate committee being readied for vote by the senate body. Goree added that because of amendments to the original bill, the legislation would have to be again be approved by the House, should it be approved by the Senate, in order for the measure to become law.

Presently the use of credit cards for tuition payments was illegal. However, Goree recalled meetings in 1969 when representatives of local banks and credit organizations were invited for discussions on the subject of credit cards for bookstore purchases. According to Goree, the discussions were not fruitful because 1) the university could not offer the discounts commercial enterprises do and 2) the state would not fund extra administrative personnel to deal with credit accounts.

The credit card system operates in such a way that store actually discount items purchased with credit cards three to five per cent in order to cover the cost of credit card operation.

Stated another way, the credit card purchaser using cash pays full price compared to those using credit cards, or else the store raises all prices three to five per cent for other workers. The State University System experimental program whereby the credit bureau for all purchases exceeding $60.00. Gomez said his accounts receivable personnel would have to be increased mostly just to make numerous phone calls to the credit bureau and also followed investigations of illegitimate accounts.

“The purpose of the student activity fee should be to aid in financing activities, services, organizations, and events that are of interest and benefit to the students of the state university system.” — Florida Senate Bill 1006

Most students are not aware of the amount of money from A&S fees used to pay administrative salaries. Since now is the time that the budgets for the upcoming year are being allocated and assigned, students should take new interest and express how, why, and where they feel this money should be spent.

Last year out of $101,040 that the Village Center received ($99,160, 99% for salaries) was used to pay salaries. Student Health Services spent $101,000 out of $106,000 (95%) for salaries. Student Government spent $21,000 of it’s $69,000 (30%) for salaries and the FTU spent $10,800 (36%) for student salaries out of a total budget of $30,000.

The budget requests for the coming year include an even larger amount for salaries. Since the student fees exceed the projected income by over a quarter of a million dollars for the coming year some budget cutting is imperative.

FTU is a student government association at the state university level, it is only areas to suffer during this budget cutting. It would be foolish to have administrators sitting around with no money to administer activities.

Since FTU is an ‘institution of higher learning’ whose prime purpose ought to be to prepare its students to follow their chosen vocation, why not allow students to administer these programs and activities.

Business Administration majors, political science majors, business education majors and journalism majors could all gain practical experience in the different A&S areas.

To provide these programs, these students could receive credit hours for gaining this experience in either required or elective practices.

In this climate of budgetary performance, these students could receive credit hours for gaining this experience in either required or elective practices. Also, a larger student internship program might be necessary, however we submit such cases would be few in number with our approach.

We submit that any cut in the quality of the programs offered to students with an additional educational experience.

A bill now before the Florida Senate could make this a reality. Florida Senate Bill 1004 would provide for the allocation of student activity fees by the student government associations at the state universities.

HISTORY

It seems that there were three young students who were financing their educations at a leading school of journalism by selling door-to-door in the suburbs, they were caught in a storm, they ran to a columnist. As the Newspapers beamed from the storm, they ran to a columnist. As the Newspapers beamed from the storm, they ran to a columnist.

"This is my pride and joy," boasted the columnist, "a fine antique teakwood bound in hand-tooled moose hide. They are my own creation, homemade, from my library and return to me."

The first column brought back a fiscally prepared edition of "Quotations of Chairman Mao." "No, sir," commanded the columnist, "shave it up your left nostril and if you groan or make a face about it."

forcing the last copies of the book into his nose, his eyes grew suspiciously resembled those the Communists had been offering for five decades.

Until 1969 Cambodia had escaped the ravages of the war. The FTU College was a public document for the purpose of informing the members of the university community of related news, announcements and activities. Grossing approximately $9,060 from advertising annually, the FTU is calculated for an annual net cost to the state of approximately $17,660 or $8.5 cents per copy. Total annual gross cost of publication is approximately $25,728.

Student Attacks Selection Process

Editor:

Dom students are all familiar with the position of resident advisor; however during the past two weeks many of us have become exposed to the way in which people are selected to fill the RA positions.

When finally the people were chosen to fill the positions there were a few discrepancies which soon became apparent. At least two of the people interviewing were chosen for the RA position by persons who belonged to a fraternity. Possibly it is only a coincidence, but next fall both male RA's will be members of a fraternity.

My question is why waste the time of all those people interviewing, when the only information used as a criterion is the information contained on the application, the persons affiliation with a fraternity or sorority, and on the persons previous relations with the people who are conducting the interviews. To me the whole process does not seem democratic or even fair to those who applied. It is my personal belief that a person could run out a false application listing a vast experience, and from the first be given a greater consideration for the job than the other applicants.

If interview when the decision has already been made as to who is going to get the job. If any person can see the madness in this, let them SPEAK OUT!

Why is it that out of some 21 boys applying for the position of Resident Advisor, 5 out of the 6 finalist were members of the Lambda Chi Lambda fraternity?

Also, it seems quite odd that two of the people interviewing for the job were members of the fraternity (one is "Little Sister").

Now isn't that a little obvious that the game is not being played straight!

Prof Questions Column's Purpose

Editor:

I failed to capture the journalistic point in the last editorial by Mike Hall, in which he attacked the Future's printer Daniels Printers.

If a formal printing contract was arranged with that firm and conditions were specified, would it not be better business to cancel the contract rather than to bemoan restrictions in the paper? Contract negotiation via the editorial page couldn't contribute to good printer relations nor low printing bids in the Future.

To knock, in the same context, the firm's religious activities, be they either Christian or Confucian, is the height of something I'm convinced it is the depth of responsible journalism.

Edgar R. Wycoff
Assistant Professor
Communication Ed.

We have kept our "dirty laundry" out of print hoping for the better relations, etc., that you write of.

After the recent staking of censorship, Mr. Daniels called and alleged threatened to cancel our contract unless we assured him the Future editor would never enter the printer's plant again. We would have liked then to get a new printer, but were told by FTU's administration that red tape would prevent the Future from getting a new printer for the remainder of the year if we cancelled the contract.

To explain Hall's religious references -- you're right, the printer's religious connections should not enter into the picture. After all, state money is spent on the Future and our forefathers went to great pains to insure the separation of church and state. The trouble is, religious-based restrictions are forced on FTU's student paper and we did not contract with printer E. J. Daniels; we contracted with printer E. J. Daniels.

Cheating No Problem At FIU

By Glenn Padgett

Cheating is not a major problem at FIU! That, at least, is the consensus of opinion in a recent informal poll conducted at FIU by members of the FIU staff.

Students, instructors, and administrators were contacted in an effort to determine the university community's attitude toward cheating.

While most of the people contacted admitted cheating does occur, very few expressed any concern about the problem.

"If they (students who cheat) want to cheat their way through school it is their own problem," was the opinion expressed by one student when asked to reflect the views of the majority of the students contacted.

There was a general consensus among administrators and instructors that the rights and grades of non-cheating students are adversely affected by the higher grades of the cheaters. They felt that the grades are curved, the non-cheater has his first grade lowered to the higher performance of the cheaters. It was also felt that the grade-point averages (GPAs) of the non-cheaters would then be lowered and not accurately reflect their performance.

One administrator said he felt FTU's reputation as an academic institution had not been jeopardized by the subsequent career performance of a student who had cheated his way through school.

The majority of the students, however, felt the main reason for going to college was to get an education and further their later performance in life. They indicated they felt students who cheat hurt only themselves because they are not getting the education for which they (or their parents) are paying.

"If a student is caught cheating, I think nothing should be done to them in terms of the grade they receive," said one instructor who said he would make sure the student knew that he was aware they cheated, indicated two students who represented the majority viewpoint.

Both the Florida General Responsibilities Handbook and the Faculty Handbook leave the penalty for cheating to the discretion of the instructor. One instructor indicated that reason that most instructors do not exact the more severe penalties allowed by the handbooks is that "it is very hard to prove that a student is cheating on an exam. If you accuse a student of cheating and he denies it, the burden of proof is on the instructor and not the administration." He said he felt it was better to make the student aware that he was not cheating away with it lightly and that in itself would probably prevent the student from cheating on future exams.

One of the only ways that one can conclude cheating occurs in the Environmental Science course is to make sure that no one can conclude students have cheated on a short answer exam if it is two or more students make the same type of error on the same problems consistently, according to one of the instructors contacted.

He said the answer was wrong punishment already, while indicating that the same correct answer by a number of students did not necessarily indicate cheating.

Other professors indicated that they go to a "considerable amount of effort" to make sure that no cheating occurs in their classes. The methods they used ranged from active patrolling the exam room during the exam to requiring all students to bring nothing to the exam except two Number 2 pencils.

Most of the students felt the largest amount of cheating occurs in the Environmental Studies group of classes. They indicated that reasons for this are lack of student interest in these classes, the large size of the classes, and that most of these classes were primarily of the regulative type where opinions and independent thinking were not necessary.

The students indicated that there is less cheating in the upper level classes because the students are usually in their primary field of interest, and that instructors have more time to develop a good academic relationship because of the smaller size of the classes.

One instructor said a primary reason for the amount of cheating that occurs is the emphasis that graduate schools, particularly law and medical schools, place on the overall GPA. He said he felt this only causes many students who anticipate entering these fields to cheat in order to have the required GPA.

Bill Seeks Return Of Influence To SG

By John Thomson

TALLAHASSEE-Student governments are rapidly losing their influence. In Florida, this is most evident in the three largest universities, the University of Florida, Florida State University, and Florida Atlantic University.

Influence over activity and service fees is as much as 60 percent in some cases.

It is for this reason Florida State University's student government, President David Aronofsky convinced Senator Jack Gordon (D-Miami Beach) to sponsor a bill (SB 1004) to provide coming year's students who take the student governments (SG) in the State University System. That funding would be based on overall activity and service fees (A&S), which constitutes $34.50 of a student's full-time tuition.

A university president would then receive the budget from the students, but no more than $25.75 of this would be allotted to the SG. The situation faced by the student government in this: The University of Florida SG allocates $40.00 of A & S money, down from $5.20 the previous year. It was before the Gordon bill was passed. The University South Florida SG influences only $2.24, down from allocating all the fees. Florida State University SG is at a new record low of $3.17, down from allocating all the fees five years ago.

This condition contrasts sharply with the smaller state universities. At FTU, an eight-member committee, with student members, handles the student government budget and allocates A&S fees through a 234-member General Administration that accepts requests from SGs.

At Florida Atlantic University, the SG's share is $12.50, following automatic deductions of $10.00 for the university center and $12.50 for the health center. Student Government dealings with the FAU administration are, said SG Secretary of Bill Rucker, "pretty equitable." The University of West Florida's Student Council - appointed by the president - is allowed to allocate the entire amount which, according to SG Vice-President Carl Proehl, is uniformly accepted by the administration.

The University of North Florida has a similar situation. UNF does not allocate A&S fees through a centralized student government, and instead allocates a small amount to SGs on a per-class basis. The Gordon bill seeks to change this, by making student governments more autonomous.

Student governments are often criticized for being "unprofessional," in the eyes of the students. However, in the eyes of the students, they are seen as representing the voice of the student body, and as such are given a great deal of autonomy. The Gordon bill seeks to change this, by making student governments more autonomous.

One of the main reasons for this is that student governments are often criticized for being "unprofessional," in the eyes of the students. However, in the eyes of the students, they are seen as representing the voice of the student body, and as such are given a great deal of autonomy. The Gordon bill seeks to change this, by making student governments more autonomous.

Entertainment with general administrative approval. The subsequent political appointed a new student government to handle the threat, according to leading political administrative documents, "To de-centralize student government influence in various fields of university administration, made easier by the dying out of former analysis before being student participation."
Some Extensions Removed From WATS

Administrator who could provide this information and answer the questions concerning the removal of WATS line access from central Florida campuses extensions were 'out of town' at press time.

On Thursday, May 2, an undernumbered number of campus telephone extensions, rumored to be near 40, were removed from the WATS line coverage.

Prior to this action these extensions could be connected to the University WATS line by merely dialing a special number.

The university has two WATS lines for administrative use.

The WATS line will allow long distance calls to be made within the state of Florida at no toll charge to the university. FTU pays a monthly charge for the service and the individual calls are not charged.

It has also been rumored that the reason for the removal was to stop unauthorized use of the lines by students. It has been charged in the past that many students have access to phones which are connected to the WATS service and were using it to make personal calls.

Attempts to determine the exact number of lines affected by the removal and the reasoning behind it were fruitless because all of the administrative and supervisory personnel of the Business Affairs division of the University attended a retreat in Holly Hill, Florida, and were not expected to return until after press time.

Few Colleges Comply With 4-Day Plan

By Torry Stewart

Only one of the university’s six colleges has not scheduled Thursday classes for summer quarter, and departments within the other five colleges have overwhelmingly opted for continuation of five-day week in their summer scheduling.

Dr. Harry W. Smith, Jr., associate professor from the college of humanities and fine arts, said within that college no Thursday classes were scheduled, although he said that college’s administrative offices will be open five days a week.

College of Business Administration Dean C. E. Gilliland, Jr., said his college had scheduled some Thursday night classes, but none during Thursday daytime hours.

Spokesmen for departments which scheduled around Thursdays said a memo dated March 27, sent from Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs John E. Bolle’s office, indicated that President Charles Millican supported the request to schedule four-day academic weeks whenever possible.

Colleges of education, natural sciences, engineering, and social sciences, will all offer classes five days a week, according to spokesmen.

Psychology department chairman David W. Abbott said his department’s four-day department schedule included no Thursday classes for summer.

He said he could see no reason for scheduling conflicts which could have prevented some departments from scheduling around Thursdays, since he said in summer only half of the faculty, staff and classes are present.

Questioning the university’s choice of Thursday as the free day, Abbott said it was “inconceivable” to him why the university would schedule a four-day week and yet skip a day in between the four days.

One source, who did not wish to be named, said that originally the university favored Wednesday as the free day, and that students favored Monday or Friday as the free day. Students argued, the source said, that a day off within the four-day week would not conserve energy. University officials supposedly countered by saying that students’ grade point averages would drop since they would not study on their free day.

This led to a compromise with Thursday as the free day, the source said.

The Department of Communications currently has no Thursday classes planned for summer, a spokesman said, but pointed out that this may not have been purposely designed that way. The department chairman, Dr. Raymond Buchanan, was not available for comment.

Although Smith said he knew of no official request to not schedule administrative personnel for five days weekly, Abbott said that he realized that a skeleton administrative staff in his department would be necessary five days a week. Ideally, however, he continued, the day off would apply for faculty and staff as well as students.

Academic Affairs VP Absent As Gambrell Article Discussed

“Why the hell did you have to go all the way to Canada to get a source for the story?” was the main reaction to the story in the last issue of the FutUre concerning remarks made by Dr. C. B. Gambrell.

Numerous faculty and staff expressed the idea that the article was fair and unbiased, in their opinion. Many wanted to know why the FutUre could not get a person still at the FTU campus to reveal this information.

They were told that persons at FTU contacted when the story was being written did not want to be identified because they feared for their jobs. One administrator expressed the opinion that he felt it was a shame that people would fear for their jobs over such an issue. Gambrell was out of town and unavailable for comment.

President Millican expressed the opinion that it was not his place to comment because the article concerned Gambrell. He would not render an opinion.
Dulcimer Shop Attracts Group

By Alan Crouse

The hammering could be heard from the hallway. Once in the door, the scene was one of many people stuffed into a classroom, sawing, smearing glue and staring with concentrated interest at what their hands were doing.

This was a reporter's first impression of the dulcimer workshop which was held two weeks ago in the Engineering Building. Directing the operation were Roger and Jo Magee, who had lines of questioning wood craftsmen following them around the room. Their inquiries were not so much an expression of bewilderment as they were a search for reassurance.

Dulcimer is a stringed, folk instrument which is strummed while placed on the lap of the player. Its shape ranges from that of a violin, to an hourglass, to an elongated oval to a rectangular one with legs, crafted from a hollow door.

What brought these people to make and eventually play a dulcimer? Foreign language instructor Finley M. Taylor replied, "It's simple to play and I don't play anything else."

Neil Abell, an FTU alumnus said, "I play piano, but I wanted something that I could carry around. Did you ever try to strap a piano to your back while you were hitch-hiking?"

Pete Skaggs, a micro-biology student said, "Both my parents are from the hills of Kentucky and I heard them talk about dulcimers, so I wanted to play one."

Sociology professor Dr. David Dees said, "I want it to go with my collection. I play bluegrass (music) and have all sorts of instruments - a guitar, banjos, mandolins, . . . ."

Vie Tedder said, "I don't know how to play anything else, and besides, I like the sound."

Whatever the reason, the Appalachian dulcimer is gaining in popularity. According to Rogers Magee, producer and supervisor of the workshop, the dulcimer was almost extinct 25 years ago. In recent years antique dulcimers have been considered a treasured find by dealers and a lucky discovery by laymen.

Magee, a public school teacher by profession, outlined his entrance into the dulcimer business. Jo (his wife) and I have owned a gift shop in North Carolina for a number of years. A friend of mine makes these dulcimer kits and asked me if I would sell them in the gift shop. Soon they became the most popular items in the store.

In the year Magee has temporarily left his teaching duties, he has conducted dulcimer workshops at the University of Florida and public schools and retirement communities, besides FTU. "Retirees are particularly eager to busy their hands, . . . . except for exceptionally bright grade school children who have proved interesting partly because the girls take their time a little more and usually come up with nicer looking dulcimers," he said.

Magee points to Howard Mitchell and Jean Ritchie as contributing much to the revival of dulcimers, and a full page photo in the May issue of the National Geographic shows folk singer John Jacob Niles with a rare eight-stringed dulcimer (the more common have three, four and sometimes six strings).

With the interest displayed on the FTU campus recently, vibrations from the reflecting pool area may resound with a sequel to the movie theme from "Deliverance" - you guessed it, "Dueling Dulcimers."
Award Given to FTU Prof. For Article

Dr. Ronald S. Drabman, assistant professor of psychology at FTU, received an award for the outstanding research article of 1973 from the American Personnel and Guidance Association.

His Article, "Teaching Self-Control in Disruptive Children", was researched in 1972 through a grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"The award came as a total shock, it was a pleasing surprise," said Dr. Drabman. "I had no idea that the article had been entered. I didn't even know that I was in the competition."

Dr. Drabman is not a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association. A committee of the association reviewed all research literature that was published in 1973, and then nominated the articles which they believed were worthy of the award.

"The original work was done in 1972, It involved setting up after school classes for children with reading and behavior problems. We gradually switched the children from teacher control to student control," said Dr. Drabman.

Enrollment Audit: "Little Padding"

The Board of Regents Monday received the report of an enrollment audit, the result of allegations of wide-spread enrollment padding by state universities.

According to Chancellor Robert Mautz, the report denies the possibility of large scale inflating of enrollment figures to increase state appropriations as much as 818 million annually.

The report revealed that combined enrollment figures last fall had an error factor of 3.4 per cent. In the Tuesday edition of the Orlando Sentinel Star, Mautz was quoted as saying, "I can reassure the board, the legislators and the public that the enrollment figures submitted were almost completely accurate." He added that auditing of graduate enrollment figures had not yet been completed, "But our initial returns show little padding."

Confirmation was received for a new undergraduate honors recognition program last week by President Charles N. Millican, who conferred final approval upon the system, "thought it was a good idea."

The new system originated as a Student Senate bill, and was passed unanimously by the Senate in late March.

Reasons for the new system were cited in the bill as:

1. "...according to figures obtained from the University Registrar, the present policy of honors recognition in each college is equitable.
2. "...the continuity of honors recognition in each college would provide greater consistency within the overall Florida Technological University educational system.
3. "...the recognition of honors is extremely important to individual graduating students, and
4. "...prospective employers are presently stressing the importance of a graduating student's college standing."

According to Millican, matters such as honors recognition are internal affairs, and "each university is free to adopt the system it would want."

Hector, the master thief (Randy Lilly), finds his escape interrupted by Dupont-Dufort, Jr., an honest citizen (Scott Buxton), in the upcoming FTU production of "Thieves' Carnival."

"Thieves Carnival," a comedy by Joan Anouilh, playing next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights in the FTU Science Auditorium, is the most successful of Anouilh's works, and is an exellent text, loaded with humorous wittes, romance and masquerades.

The scene is set in a platial home where two attractive girls, played by Denise Long and Laura Luntner, reside. The home is invaded by three affectionate thieves, and a country bumpkin. A lovely romance blooms between one of the girls and the youngest thief, played by Mike Carlson. Being an honest fellow, he cannot in good conscience accept her love, and instead turns with vengeance toward his job. But he is swifter in her wiles than he is in his.

All this leads to an evening of witty masquerade, irreverent humor and an immensely entertaining evening.

The two thieves, Hector and Peterborne (Randy Lilly and Jeff King), plot their operation on their Flem-flam an unsuspecting nursemaid (Charlie Ward).

Poco Seven Poco Epic KE 3285

I certainly can't say that Poco hails from anywhere, but their suburban ex-guitarist-vocalist, Richie Furay, can say that the remaining four members have done a remarkable job in becoming top shelf rock shoot.

In their newly released album, "Poco Seven", each member seems to accent their own individual parts to combine into a fine set of music.

The album starts off fast with a cut entitled "Driven Wheel" loaded with thin steel guitar from Rusty Young. Distant foreground vocals of Tim Shmit greatly typified the groups' style.

"Rocky Mountain Breakdown", the album's second number, brought in a furious fiddle for a rocking' country jam.

The side ended with "Just Call My Name" and "Adios", both composed by bass player Timothy Shmit.

Starting the second side with a mellow number, "Faith in the Families", lead guitarist Paul Cotton adds smooth acoustic guitar solos and easy vocals. "Krinkle's Song" and "Aigil" continue in the mellow atmosphere.

"Living with a beautiful song "You've Got Your Reasons" the whole band combines to yield great quality music.

A New Life The Marshall Tucker Band Capitol CP 10124

After listening to this album several times, I always put on Side Two first, since it seems to more typify the sound of this group. The first song of the side "Another Cruel Love" starts off fast and strong.

The Marshall Tucker Band is often compared to the Allman Brothers. There is a similarity with both using a lot of fast lead guitar hooks. The groups part with the Allman Brothers leaning towards blues and The Marshall Tucker Band more on the country side.

The groups exceptionally strong parts lie in lead singer Doug Gray's clear, strong lyrics and top quality lead guitarist, Tony Caldwell. Tony also stands out on steel guitar in their second number, "You Ain't Foolin' Me." To say more about this tremendous musician, he wrote all the songs on the album.

"Twenty Hours at a Time" gets into some really rocky' country tunes with more fine guitar solos.

Tony shows he can also sing as he supplies vocals on "Fly Eagle Fly", a fine country ballad.

The groups music is fully integrated with Tommy Caldwell on bass guitar, Jerry Rubbons on fiddle and saxophone, Paul Riddle on drums and George McCorkie guitar and banjo.

Side one of the album is filled with easy listening music with the addition of two drum horns and reed instruments.

Tony Caldwell brings out some good mountain music with lead vocals in "Blue Ridge Mountain Sky."

Buddha and The Chocolate Box Cat Stevens A&M Records SP 3623

Cat Stevens' new album "Buddha and The Chocolate Box" is typical of the Cat. "Typical" is not to be given a bad connotation since typical of Cat Stevens means that everything more the master has comprised a collection of choice musical selections.

The Cat comes out with strong vocals on "Music", beginning Side one. The song showed the religious aspect of an accomplished artist's life for his world.

The collection includes a popular single "Oh Very Young" a song of love and dreams.

Of course the album is filled with plenty as good acoustic guitar by the Cat. He also is the composer of all the songs on the album.

The side ended on a religious note with a song entitled "Jesus."

The album is filled with the simple, meaningful lyrics as a man high on his love with everyday life. His songs are centered around a caring devotion to nature.

Partial success as this album can be attributed to the return of c-o-producer Paul Samwell-Smith who had worked on all of Cat Stevens' albums except "Foreigner."

Cat Stevens is presently touring the north-eastern United States.

Sunday Concert Planned By SG

Student Government through the combined efforts of the executive and legislative branches is sponsoring a "Cultural Entertainment Spectacular" to be held at Lake Clare Sunday May 13.

Beginning at 2 p.m., the production will feature the "sounding for everybody" theme will feature folk, classical, jazz, blue grass, soul and rock music.

The groups participating in their proposed order of appearance are: folk group - Red Gator Jook Band, classical band - FTU Concert Band, jazz - Rick Margarone, blue grass - Sandy Valley Boys, soul not yet determined, rock - Tack 1, and the headlining group - Renaissance.

Each group will perform for approximately an hour and a half with the first one beginning at 2 p.m. The concert is expected to last from ten to 12 hours.

The headlining group, Renaissance, has been described as an English Crosby, Stills, Nash type group. This group has been touring Florida.

The sound system will be provided by a professional group from Miami.

An extremely large crowd is expected for this, the "thing of the year," according to Gary Boynton, SG president, who has been instrumental in the planning. He stated that everyone is invited to come out and bring their beer and blanket and spend the day. The lake will also be available for use on the lake.

According to Boynton, the concert will be moved to the Village Center Assembly Room in case of rain.

"Business Day"

The College of Business Administration is sponsoring "Business Day" next Friday, to allow all students, staff and faculty from the college a recreational break together at Lake Clare.

The college is cancelling all classes after 11:00 a.m. in honor of the frisk, which will feature softball, volleyball and home-shoe games.

Bever will be provided by the faculty. Refreshments are available for $1. Tickets are available from secretary Betty Farr in GCB 417.

The show is directed by Dr. David Moses. Curtain is at 8:00 p.m. Admission is free to FTU students, $1.00 for other students, and $5.00 for the general public.

Tony also stands out on steel guitar in their second number, "You Ain't Foolin' Me." To say more about this tremendous musician, he wrote all the songs on the album.

"Twenty Hours at a Time" gets into some really rocky' country tunes with more fine guitar solos.

Tony shows he can also sing as he supplies vocals on "Fly Eagle Fly", a fine country ballad.

The groups music is fully integrated with Tommy Caldwell on bass guitar, Jerry Rubbons on fiddle and saxophone, Paul Riddle on drums and George McCorkie guitar and banjo.

Side one of the album is filled with easy listening music with the addition of two drum horns and reed instruments.

Tony Caldwell brings out some good mountain music with lead vocals in "Blue Ridge Mountain Sky."

Buddha and The Chocolate Box Cat Stevens A&M Records SP 3623

Cat Stevens' new album "Buddha and The Chocolate Box" is typical of the Cat. "Typical" is not to be given a bad connotation since typical of Cat Stevens means that every song more the master has comprised a collection of choice musical selections.

The Cat comes out with strong vocals on "Music", beginning Side one. The song showed the religious aspect of an accomplished artist's life for his world.

The collection includes a popular single "Oh Very Young" a song of love and dreams.

Of course the album is filled with plenty as good acoustic guitar by the Cat. He also is the composer of all the songs on the album.

The side ended on a religious note with a song entitled "Jesus."

The album is filled with the simple, meaningful lyrics as a man high on his love with everyday life. His songs are centered around a caring devotion to nature.

Partial success as this album can be attributed to the return of c-o-producer Paul Samwell-Smith who had worked on all of Cat Stevens' albums except "Foreigner."

Cat Stevens is presently touring the north-eastern United States.
FTU Coach Recruiting For Next Season

Clark Eyes Rebuilding Year

By Larry McCorkle

With the loss of top scorers and rebounders Arnett Hall, John Smith and Angelo Callins, next year’s FTU basketball team appears headed for a rebuilding year, a tough challenge for the staff of FTU coach-TOBYY Clark.

"Yes," said Clark when asked Tuesday night, "Next year will be a rebuilding year."

The veteran of 21 years of coaching continued, "We haven't done that while I've been here," he said. "Has (Pitt) is the only senior that has any real playing experience. And Kernaghan (Jeff) is the only other senior on the young squad."

It may be a rebuilding year, but Clark is not starting with nothing. On the contrary, it's more of a rebuilding year because there is talent on the team, but it needs experience.

Willy Belotte returns as a junior next year. The 6-7 Belotte, the second leading rebounder on the team last year, has shown flashes of greatness. With added experience, Clark expects more great things from Belotte.

Mike McDaniel is another one to remember. The 6-6 McDaniel with the fluid moves, great leaping ability and soft touch, "will be a great one," says Clark.

"Gave McDaniels and Belotte another year and they'll be tough," said Clark.

The loss of 6-10 freshman Tod Danen will hurt, but Clark can still rely on sharp shooting from Ben Sanford, Don Stierro, or Calvin Lingelbach.

With the basketball season over, Clark has been busy looking for recruits to fill the vacancies of Hall, Smith, Callins and senior forward Bob Jones. With no basketball facility on campus, Clark has found it as tough as ever to recruit against the large SEC schools, not to mention the solid "local" powers like Rollins, Stetson and Florida Southern. And Clark has lost at least one prospect this year (a 6-6 center-forward) because of no gymnastics.

Several players have visited FTU's campus in recent weeks and expressed some interest in carrying on their education and basketball here.

One such athlete is Jerry Prater, a 6-3 guard from Mississippi, who has phone from Florida and Southern.

But Shaw has signed letters of intent to at least two other colleges, Ed McArthur, a former Orlando Sentinel All-Southern player who played last year at Miami-Dade South, is also interested in FTU.

Considering next season's schedule, Clark could use these players. Tentatively, FTU's schedule so far includes 20 games. The schedule needs about six more games plus the addition of President Charles Millican to become official. As it stands now the schedule includes the likes of Rollins (2), South Florida, Ashland (Ohio), Mt. Union College, Bluegrass (Ky), St. Leo (2), FIT (2), and the Citrus Invitational Tournament which includes C.W. Post, Florida Southern (host) and The Citadel.

With the fuel crisis affecting so many college athletics budgets, FTU has been scheduling in cooperation with Rollins to attract some of these northern teams, says FTU Athletic Director Dr. John Powell.

"The weak teams are gone," said Powell. "We're starting to plan on teams of these highly rated Florida teams."

Knight's Lose Finale To Eckerd 4-3

Leading 1-0 going into the bottom of the ninth, the FTU baseball team watched Eckerd College score three times as the Knights lost a heartbreaking 4-3 decision in the final scheduled game of the season at St. Petersburg Wednesday.

Bobby Cleer singled off reliever Steve Hargest to drive home Wayne Pollilli with the winning run. It was the fourth hit of the inning, the third off losing pitcher Hargest, who relieved freshman Stan Edge in the ninth after Edge allowed two walks and a hit.

Edge pitched a strong game for eight innings but as Coach Doug Holmquist said, "he just tied in the ninth."

Hargest was then forced to turn to Hargest, the early-season ace who never quite regained his strength after a mid-season fin attack.

The Knights, 1-16, tallied all their runs in the second on hits by Jim Horsch, Calvin Lingelbach, Craig Butler and Steve Lawrence along with a two-out error on the left field line which bounced over the fence for a ground-rule double. Thus, the speedy Butler had to return to third. He would have scored easily if the ball had not bounced over the fence. Ron Behe then grounded out to end the inning.

"It was just a real tough way to lose and end the season," Holmquist commented. "Edge got tired at the end and there just wasn't anybody reliable to replace him."

Crew Sends 4-Man Team To Internationals

With a limited budget, FTU's crew team would not afford to send an eight-man team to the nationals. So they will go to the nationals held this Saturday with a limited crew. If they place high enough, the team advances to the semi-finals Saturday morning followed by the finals Sunday afternoon.

Surprisingly, FTU has been practicing their four man team in the middle of an eight man boat which according to Kamrad is "like swimming a leded bat." But Kamrad will row four at the University of Pennsylvania. "We think we'll do a good job," said Kamrad. "If anyone beats us, they'll have to be good."
DeZeeuw Continues Family Tradition

By Joe DeSalvo

Very few people knew Mike DeZeeuw when he came to FTU in the winter of 1972. Today, after qualifying for the U. S. Open and recently playing as a team for a spot in the ATP number one tournament, Mike DeZeeuw is one of the most respected players in the world.

The two-year-old DeZeeuw came to FTU from East London, South Africa, where he was taught by Lex Wood, FTU's tennis coach, while attending Selbourne High School.

Lex Wood, who is from the same town, had coached two older brothers John and Pat. When they went to South Africa, Wood offered DeZeeuw a scholarship to FTU when he switched coaching positions.

Coming to the United States to play tennis was no trouble for DeZeeuw. "I had no problem in adjusting to the American style of tennis," said the 19-year-old junior. "The second year was more difficult, but I was around plus the fact the Americans are more outgoing and friendly than the South Africans."

In preparing the style of tennis in the U. S. to South Africa, DeZeeuw pointed out "playing the out-of-this-world tennis in U. S. They are more competitive than the South Africans."

If there's one thing that DeZeeuw has been in the United States, it's tough competition that the Knights have faced. "The year before I came to FTU, the tennis team was not FTU," said DeZeeuw. "This year, we played four of the top ten teams in the country."

In looking over the past season in which FTU finished 9-1-1, Mike DeZeeuw said, "I don't think anyone at home would have given us a chance to win, but we worked hard and won more matches." Lack of depth, according to DeZeeuw, was the main reason the Knights didn't come up with the close margin. To lose or to win, everybody had to play well. Definitely, we need more depth next season.

DeZeeuw was the hottest FTU player throughout the entire season. "I played better toward the end of the season," he said. "I gained a lot of strength up for Rollins and FSU," said DeZeeuw. "Maybe the fact that my brother was playing No. 2 on the Knights had something to do with it."

By the end of the season, DeZeeuw best FSU's No. 1 player, Reggie Genois in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, as he fell after climbing over a wall and running through tires.

As for Wood, DeZeeuw feels "Paul at Florida always makes time to talk to us."

"DeZeeuw has respect within the tennis community," he said. "He was one of the best players in the world in his playing days. He knows what to know about tennis. He's great in analyzing your opponent's weaknesses."

A professional tennis career is anybody in a tough match. DeZeeuw plans to play North after graduation and competing in the U.S. Open.

"Definitely, we're predicting better than we've been all season," said a confident Mike DeZeeuw. "We're a great team. I'm in the best shape I've been in a long time."

For Mike DeZeeuw, it's a family tradition.

DeZeeuw Named Best Four Tests

Sigma Chi Prepares For Big Tests

A three-way tie in the men's independent of the Women's Gold League highlighted an otherwise unfurled week in intramural activities as yesterday's annual swim meet.

LISA II won first place after scoring six points in the top six for the 16-11 win over Tau kappa epsilon II Tuesday. That contest, coupled with Mafia's 2-1 decision over Treinenmacker resulted in the deadlock between LISA II, TKE I, and Mafia, all of whom won matches against the regular schedule with 2-1 records.

The meet was decided Tuesday when LISA II and TKE I again meet with the winner receiving the immediate automatic bid to the championship.

Mafia drew the bye among the four teams with six points in the top six for a 16-11 win over LISA II's winning rally was campus.

By Wednesday night, LISA II scored "first two women's water runs," winning the first against varsity teammate, eil Randy Jessee 6-4, 6-4.

For Mafia, Mike DeZeeuw feels "I played better during the course race May 2 and 3 but still lost by placing second in last Saturday's tennis singles."

Tennis was not expected to be one of Mafia's strongest events but after winning a homecoming 7-6, 6-2 events at Howie Vanderwade in the opening meet, Mafia was told consigning his own service at 6-5 and came back from a 3-0 deficit in the tiebreaker to win 5-3. "We're practicing harder than ever," he said.

In the obstacle course race, Mafia led the event with 40-15 lead serving for mafia's point.

Mast Takes Big FTU Superstars' Lead

By Fred Cay

Only four of the scheduled nine events have been completed in the FTU Invitational, but already Fred Mast is threatening to make a runaway of the competition.

Mast, sponsored by Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, easily breezed to a first-place in the obstacle course race last Saturday's tennis singles. "I feel I'm positioned to be one of Mafia's strongest events but after winning a homecoming 7-6, 6-2 events at Howie Vanderwade in the opening meet, Mafia was told consigning his own service at 6-5 and came back from a 3-0 deficit in the tiebreaker to win 5-3. A crowd of about 250 hardy souls braved the heat in the Village Center Assembly Room to enthusiastically receive the Symphony Performs concert given by the Florida Symphony Orchestra Thursday, May 2. The heat, the only major flaw in a near perfect evening of in their shirtsleeves and suspenders.

The concert, 2 and a half hours with a 30 minute intermission, was highlighted by the performance on the piano of Dr. Gary Wolf, chairman of the FTU Music Department.

The concert was presented by the FTU Department of Music and Student Government as part of the Second Annual Festival of Contemporary Music, and students, faculty and staff received complimentary tickets to the event.

The concert opened with the composition by Carl Norse entitled "Set for Small Orchestra and Percussion Ensembles." Norse is a member of the faculty at Florida State University. The composition is reminiscent of an exploratory conversation between the percussion instruments and a small group of wind and string instruments.

Following the short break after the first piece, the rest of the orchestra and Wolf joined those members already present. "Concerto No. 3 for Piano and Orchestra" by Bela Bartok was the next selection.

The selection featuring a piano solo by Wolf, captivated the audience and at its conclusion brought them to their feet. Wolf and Pavle Despalj, FTU's conductor and music director were brought back for three encore calls.

Wolf's virtuosity on the piano as well as Despalj's excellent control and mastery of the orchestra combined to bring real life and interest into this selection.

A short intermission followed this composition. During the intermission a noticeable portion of the audience left. Whether this was due to the temperature of the concert hall or because Wolf was not appearing on the second half of the program is hard to say. What is certain is that those who chose to leave missed some very excellent orchestra selections during the second half of the program.

"Fantasy For Orchestra" by Charles Throat and "Four Sea Interludes" from the open "Peter Grimes" by Benjamin Britten concluded the evenings entertainment. "Fantasy" is, as the title suggests, rather unrestricted and free arrangement for the orchestra.

"Four Sea Interludes" has four major themes. Dawn, Sunday Morning, Moonlight, and the Storm all concern the sea in its different moods. As each of the sections unfolds one can almost see the different moods of the sea. The section ends on a rising crescendo during the Storm and for a moment one doesn't realize that the evening is over, but wishes that it could go on forever.

I and, judging from the comments overhead, most of the audience (though not all) thoroughly enjoyed the evening's entertainment.

TALLAHASSEE-Hitchhikers can relax a bit. It appears the pending legislation to outlaw hitchhiking may not even make it to the floor, much less be seen in a vote.

There are three bills which seek to make it a misdemeanor to hitchhike or to stand in a road to solicit a ride on limited access highways. Similar laws are in effect in 28 other states.

The third bill (HB 2402), sponsored by Rep. Harold Dyer (D-Hollywood), is not in the House Transportation Committee. Dyer said he intends to withdraw his bill and support Poole's and Crenshaw's.

The Poole-Crenshaw bill, which was the original proposal, passed out of the conservative House Criminal Justice Committee by a slim 10-8 vote. The bill will likely remain idle in the more liberal Senate Criminal Justice Committee, at least until action is taken on the House version, and that action may never come. Though the House bill has been reported favorably out of committee, neither the House Criminal Justice Committee Chairman nor Poole or Crenshaw have made the necessary requests that the bill be placed on the calendar for action by the full House.

The possible reason for this is that any floor debate on this bill might become a circus and, even if passed, the bill would probably not make it beyond the Senate Criminal Justice Committee, where a straw vote indicated there are not sufficient votes to pass it. It may not be sound politics for the sponsor to subject themselves to potentially humiliating debate on an item certain to attract a lot of attention when it will probably be killed in Senate committee anyway. This is an election year, one in which a substantial portion of the constituency may be hitchhiking to the polls.

The bills were precipitated as a result of some spectacular crimes linked to hitchhiking, such as the Houston mass murders and the murder of a youth who was executed in a wall in Miami last year. But the bills are unpopular since there exists no evidence hitchhiking presents an uncommon opportunity for violent crime.

The constitutionality of anti-hitchhiking laws is also in question. They are as yet untested since there are no laws as broad as the Hitchhiking Act, but the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled consistently against laws restricting a manner of travel.

It may also be comforting to hitchhikers to know that the bills, if not acted on this year, cannot automatically come back to haunt them next session. Being an election year, all unfinished legislation dies and must start anew.

Summer Financial Aid Funds Still Available

Summer term is only a few weeks away. Students can still get financial aid if they qualify, said Donald Baldwin, director of Financial Aid.

There are two types of loans available to students. One, the Florida Student Loan, is a long term loan for up to $6000 per term. There is a simple interest charge of four per cent. Students interested in obtaining this loan must fill out a financial aid application and have their financial needs established by filing a Student's Financial Statement.

The other type of loan is the Federally Insured Bank Loan. Students can obtain applications for this loan at the Financial Aid office, AD 230. Baldwin would also like to inform students that there are still a few work-study jobs available. Students must fill out the proper applications at the financial aid office.
