Food, glorious food. Glorious, yes, but expensive. Almost 27 per cent more expensive since the start of the 1973-74 term, while prices for FTU's faculty and staff services have not increased at all, according to John Williams, Director of Administrative Services.

Williams, with a desk full of market graphs and inflation statistics, tries piecing together a campus at rates realistic to the financial situation has reached the breaking point and there is nothing left to do but raise prices.

Even reducing the expense of services is not an effective tactic, one tried late last year, resulting in students haggling, demanding higher quality food, better preparations and sanitation. The extra efforts made to rectify the situation have been raised by as much as $5,000 in the months of May. Williams says that prices could have been raised by as much as 25 per cent last year, and would have probably won approval, but the food service held on, hoping for a downward trend in prices or a place to cut corners that would not affect the quality of food being served in the cafeteria and snack bar.

The ad hoc committee of staff and students and the advisory committee of four residents formed last year to "make an effective line of communication" between cooks and dinner guests. Some of the recommendations made to control costs were instituted; some were impracticable.

The practicability of having a food service on campus only exists in that Williams considers it a necessary vehicle toward providing the educational goals of the university - developing the student 'mentally, physically and socially.'

But learning that escalating prices is aimed at developing students gastronomically may be too much for some students. "It's expensive to eat out," says Williams, noting that prices are concurrent with restaurant prices in the area, and meal plans are a promise of appreciation. But many, eating the average price per meal in an all-you-can-eat of $2.25 for the 15-meal plan and $1.75 for the meal-plan, find this promise too much money from us at this time. We have an allocated reserve of only $1,000 for the entire year."

Williams does not yet know what action the Orange and Seminole County Commissions will take, but sought immediately to stave up funds which may be lost from the state.

In negotiating with the Student Government (SG), Hunter Potts, SG President, said the figure of $3,500 was mentioned, but Potts said, "That's way too much money from us at this time. We

Today is the last day for FTU students to declare their candidacy as a Student Government (SG) senator.

Students wishing to file a declaration of candidacy should do so before 5 p.m. in VC Room 216. No declarations will be accepted after this date.

Elections for SG positions are scheduled Oct. 16 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and on Oct. 11 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Ksted and Village Center.

In order to qualify as a SG senator, a FTU student must meet all GPA requirements of 2.6, be enrolled in the college and class and be a member of the college. Candidates must present a one-minute, self-written speech when assuming office. The speech need not include the "I will make..." statement.

Police Exercise All Powers

By Alan M. Crouse

From parking situations to grand larceny, the campus police with full arrest powers serve the FTU community on a 24 hour basis.

According to John F. Smith, Director of Campus Security Police, his officers fulfill the same minimum requirements set by the state with 200 hours of training including the Orlando Police Academy.

Smith says campus officers also participate in "Rollick Training" and other special courses designed to further the individual officer's knowledge of his job.

Campus police respond to medical emergencies, reports of thefts (from textbooks to autos) and assaults, but Smith admits that parking is still one of their biggest problems even though the new lots west of the humanities building remain virtually empty. Approximately 2,000 parking citations are issued each month usually for vehicles parked in the wrong lot.

However, Smith said people outside the FTU community who come on campus to steal or cause trouble also pose a constant problem.

While FTU's police have the same authority on campus as any other member of a law enforcement agency, their authority stops at the campus gates, unless engaged in "hot pursuit".

Lack of authority was the reason why campus police were unable to help traffic flow on FTU Boulevard when vehicles crept at a snail's pace during the first days of school. But, the campus security force has direct radio contact with the Orange County Sheriff's Department which has been an aid, especially in recovering stolen property.

Smith announced plans of a theft prevention program which will begin with posters and stickers to be placed on campus telephones. "Awareness is the key to the problem," said Smith, "especially for thefts caused by not keeping dorm rooms locked or having valuable items in plain view in parked cars."

According to Smith at least three officers are on duty at all times as a servce to the campus to give directions or aid stranded motorists, as well as keep the peace.

Potts Takes SG Helm

By Michael Johnston

It's that time of year again when the FTU FIRE digs deep into its files for last year's feature article on the president of Student Government (SG). The names of office holders may change, dates are updated, and perhaps a novice reporter types his John Hancock at the top of the article for the first time but basically it consists of the same "bull".

In answering the hackneyed question, when did you become interested in politics, FTU's incumbent Student Government president Hunter Potts disclosed in a recent interview that it all started in the fall of 1971. A freshman then, Potts inquired about SG activities at the SG table during orientation. He was introduced to the system and learned of the vacant seat in the senate. A wide-open candidate, Mr. Potts won the position and has been involved in FTU politics ever since. While in the senate, President Potts worked very closely on improving food service in the spring of '73.

The following year Potts worked concurrently with Vice-President Lee Constantine on Gripe Tables. He also served as the student government's representative on the Student Government-Administration Committee.

Potts says he would like to see student communications including "gripes tables" and SG newsletters. He hopes that SG can research the possibility of improving the academic curriculum.

Potts realizes that the power of student government is deceptive and likes to look at it as influence. With your help Hunter Potts can make better use of the funds allocated to student government.

Potts encourages all earnest students to voice their complaints, gripes, criticisms and comments to student government. Surprise our fearless leader and give him a call.

Whoever said that the life of an FTU student cannot be eventful?

Take a typical FTU student in an average week and examine a few of the more important things that make his week enough to give him headaches, acid indigestion, heartburn and ultimately stomach ulcers.

The student goes to class on its first day and hears the teacher announce that one section of the lecture class is closed. Although the four sections of the class meet together for two hours, the third hour is a discussion group and was offered at various times. The student could have taken any but the third hour: he has selected the one section that is closed. Why did his class close? The computer put 10 more people in the class than there were seats. Although the student is a senior and preregistered, he is shoved out of the class filled with underclassmen who registered at a variety of times. Luckily the student can pick up another class, but of course the only available class meets at 8 o’clock in the morning three days a week.

The student in question is a dorm student. As he proceeds to take a shower one evening of the week in question, there is no water coming into the pipes. Sensing a problem for the student, the Dean, the man who answers has no idea that the water is out! The student later finds out that the water was off all over campus.

At one o’clock in the morning on the same night the water is off, the student is evacuated from his bed for a false fire alarm. Visitation of a whole dorm of students lining up for a bucket brigade leading from the reflecting pond to the burning dorm fill the student’s mind, as he wonders what it is if the fire department thought we knew the water was off if the drill had not been false.

The next day the typical student eats as usual in the student cafeteria. At dinner, the student looks down in his key lime pie (luckily) to find a piece of long, thin metal in it. Searching out the assistant manager, he is told that it is lucky he did not swallow the metal because it could have punctured his intestines, killing him or making him seriously injured. The student jokes that he hopes he did not eat a piece before he found one.

That night, the student wakes up at 2:15 in the morning with tremendous stomach and abdominal pains. Remembering the metal, the student fears that his life is nearly over. He rushes to the bathroom to throw up. Sick the entire night, the student finally realizes that it is not "metal of the intestines". Upon consultation of his doctor, he discovers that the doctor first diagnoses the flu. Then realizing that the student has no fever and has other symptoms, the doctor concludes that the reason he has been ill is so ill and unable to attend classes was probably because he had food poisoning. The student, of course, cannot prove that he got it from the cafeteria, but that is the only place he ate.

As if all this had not been enough, the student walks out to his car the next day to find a warning citation on his car for not having a current decal on it. The only problem was that the student had purchased and put on a new decal before the quarter started.

It would not be surprising if the reader does not believe that even a system as messed up as college could do this to any one person in any one given week. Your editor would not believe it had happened either if the person she was writing about was not she. I haven’t decided just what to make of it all. Maybe now that no one censors the paper anymore, and the administration can’t easily get rid of the editor, they came up with a form of Chinese torture.

Residents Vote
Maximum Hours

Resident students last week voted overwhelmingly to approve visitation hours, as what was described by Vice-President for Student Affairs W. Rex Brown as the best turn out ever.

Eighty-four per cent of FTU's 414 residents cast ballots last week to determine the maximum visitation hours of dorm rooms at night and not wishing to be accompanied by the student's identification card.

In order to avoid paying this charge, the Interdorm Council suggests that girls leaving their rooms at night and not wishing to take their key should lock their suites and place their key in their mailbox, rather than leaving their rooms open.

At the first Inter-Dorm Reform meeting Wednesday, RHA President Jesse McLeod announced his resignation. McLeod introduced as his successor, former Vice-President Sharon Esposto. McLeod cited personal reasons for his resignation.

The vacant post of vice-president will be added to the six available RHA Inter-Dorm Council representative positions. There are also nine Judiciary appointments open for application. For further information on any of these positions, contact any resident advisor or Sharon Esposto.

Exam Disposition
Legal Question

Who owns examinations, quizzes, and reports submitted by FTU students to their professors?

This is the question facing FTU's legal counsel John D. Mahaffy, Jr., as he returns a legal opinion on the subject requested by the Dean of the College of Natural Sciences, Dr. Bernard Ostle.

Ostle, in a presentation to the Faculty Senate, admitted he may have "opened a can of worms" in requesting the opinion, but felt it was necessary to clear the question up for the benefit of the student body and faculty members wondering what their obligations are concerning the disposal of papers collected in their classes.

Florida law states that any documents processed in the course of state business may not be destroyed without the permission of the Bureau of Record Management in Tallahassee. The Bureau must first grant permission at some point prior to the proposed destruction of any records, and then again immediately before destruction. Whether or not examinations and reports are state records is a matter of some controversy.

Storage space is one factor that makes the indefinite retention of student papers a problem. Ostle, citing what he called "extreme cases", reported that some professors keep the papers up to five quarters, while some others throw them away as quickly as during the break between quarters. Some students return to campus to contest grades as late as a year after completing a course, Ostle said.

Meanwhile, the Faculty Senate itself unanimously approved a resolution to be sent to the Office of Academic Affairs and to President Millican calling for the disposition of academic papers to be the prerogative of the instructor involved. And one senator asked the meeting if perhaps they would not be more disinclined with the legal reply than with the yet unanswered question.

SG Filing Deadline

"Each year we hope for a larger voter turn out, yet we only have an average increase of about 3 per cent every year. However, this year students seem more enthusiastic, better organized, and willing to get involved in their government," stated one FTU senator.

Students wishing to cast their votes for the candidate of their choice must present their student identification card at the proper voting place. Any student trying to vote at more than one polling place will be fined accordingly.

Students who will be away from campus on election days may submit a request for an absentee ballot to the Commissioner of Elections in VC 216 or 306 no later than Monday. All requests must be accompanied by the student's identification card.

Police List Objectives

Officers of the State University Police of Florida shall protect life and property, preserve the peace, prevent and repress crime, investigate reported offenses, apprehend offenders, enforce regulations and laws relating to traffic control, collect and preserve physical evidence, prepare cases for court prosecution or disciplinary action, recover lost and stolen property, provide general police services to the university community, and establish and maintain an enforcement policy which is consistent with the requirements of the law and the best traditions of a democratic society. However, the efficient fulfillment of these basic police responsibilities will not completely satisfy the demands of the police position. Officers must be aware of the basic function of their institution - the education of our youth. Therefore, they must embrace and practice these professional methods and attitudes which, through their daily contacts, will support the educational objectives of the institution they serve.

The police task is to provide a fair, educationally sound program of campus justice that receives community support, is responsive to the interests of all its constituents, and assures an orderly educational environment. The methods used by the university police in performing their function must be geared to the preservation of the ideals of scholarship and the protection of academic freedom. A policy that provides for a minimum of administrative enforcement and a maximum of student self-regulation will offer the student the best possible education as to his responsibilities as a citizen of the university. Although arrest and prosecution are recognized as essential methods of police operation, personal discretion permits the officers to issue warnings and refer minor or first offenses for resolution to the institutions' own judicial systems. Serious law violations, including all felonies, will be referred to the appropriate prosecutor for an opinion as to prosecution. These policies will stimulate public confidence and preclude charges that universities on their own initiative are granting favored treatment and destroying the concept of equality before the law.

University police will encourage community involvement which facilitates a free flow of information that aids in identifying problem areas and informs the community of crime trends. The police will maintain effective working relationships with themselves and personnel of the Office of Student Affairs. A mutual exchange of information and a spirit of cooperation will insure orderly procedures and safeguard the rights of students and protect the university's interests.

Village Center Activity Calendar

Pat Strange

The Village Center Activity calendar holds a promise of great entertainment this month.

It starts tonight with a Pegasan Pub, which is nightclub type entertainment, in the snack bar. The entertainers are Neilson Marks, Ross Buckey and Dick Brunning. The time is from 9:30 p.m. until midnight.

Also tonight, and Sat. night at 8:30 in the Village Center Activity Room, a movie will be shown entitled "Paper Moon." It stars Ryan O'Neal, Tatum O'Neal and Madeline Kahn.

Starting Oct. 6 through Oct. 18 Lyn Mendelbaum will be showing an exhibit of photography in the Village Center Gallery.

The movies offered are shown on Wed., Fri., and Sat. of each week at 8:30 p.m. There is also a matinee each Wed. at 1:00.

Oct. 9, 11 and 12 the movie is "West World" starring Yul Brenner, James Brolin and Richard Benjamin.

On Oct. 24 a concert will be held on the Village Green from 7:30 till midnight. The headliner is "Liverpool" who will do the "History of British Rock."

The movie on Oct. 16, 18 and 19 is "Oliver!" with Ron Moody, Oliver Reed, Harry Secombe and Sharni Vinson.

The VC Gallery changes on the 23rd of Oct. Joe Art will be exhibiting paintings through Nov. 1.

Do not forget the Transcendental Meditation Classes which begin Oct. 25.

The movie for the last week in the month is "Dr. Strangelove" with Peter Sellers and George C. Scott.

Dr. Wentworth Clark is the president-elect of the Florida Council of Social Studies. Dr. Clark will assume his position in two weeks, after serving as first vice-president of the Council last year.

Dr. Fred Green was chosen to be one of four representatives of the Florida Council of Social Studies to attend the national convention in Chicago over Thanksgiving.

The Social Work area of concentration in the Department of Sociology has again been awarded a State Formula Grant from H.E.W. This grant has been renewed continuously since 1969. Dr. John Hodgin, Project Director, announced that the 1974-1975 grant is for $110,545. FTU’s matching contribution is 25 per cent of the total grant.

For the second consecutive year, Dr. M. Timothy O’Keefe of the Communication Dept., has won top writing awards in the annual contest sponsored by the Florida Magazine Association. Dr. O’Keefe won first place for in-depth reporting, winning over all magazines and newspaper Sunday supplements (including the Sentinel’s). He also won a merit award for a second story in this category. In addition, he won a merit award for editorial writing.

In the reorganization of administrative duties this year, Dr. Leslie Ellis, Dean of Research and Graduate Studies, has taken on the additional post of Associate Vice President of Academic Affairs.

"I’ll be assigned to the direction of graduate studies, sponsored research, co-operative education, continuing education and the library," Ellis said. "In addition, each one of these areas has a director of its own."

Ellis has also been appointed Academic Intern to Academic Affairs. This is an annual appointment. Ellis said, made to an individual so that he be exposed to administrative duties throughout the year.

Ellis said he has been with FTU since July, 1968, “before we opened the doors.” He began as chairman of the department of Biological Science.

Richie Havens has hushed crowds of 100,000 plus at Woodstock and in London’s Hyde Park. Imagine his impact in the intimacy of our Busch Gardens amphitheatre. He’ll do two shows: one at 1 p.m. and another at 5. And there’s no extra admission charge to hear him. Come early and spend the entire day. Thrill to our rides and introduce yourself to some rare endangered species of African wildlife. It’s all part of the day we have planned for you. And while you’re here, experience the special world of Richie Havens; all for $4.75 (kids: $3.75).

Spanish Students Visit Spain

By Deborah Whaley

Students of the State University System of Florida were offered a chance to study Spanish languages and culture in Spain and earn college credit for it. Speaking by phone from FTU, the program under the direction of Dr. Armando Payas, was held in cooperation with the 407-year-old University of Oviedo. Of the 16 students participating last summer, 13 were from FTU.

The program divided their time between Oviedo and Seville. This gave students an opportunity to compare cultural differences between northern and southern Spain.

The program also offered various field trips to places of historic and artistic interest.

Dr. Payas, who began the program, said that students are enriched by studying a language in the country in which it is spoken. Payas said that he could see an improvement in the language proficiency of students after only two months in Spain.

Becky Wolfe, one of the students enrolled in the program, said that her summer in Spain really boosted her confidence in the use of the Spanish language. Wolfe also said that being able to talk with so many Spanish university students gave her a "different perspective on many things."

Wolfe, planning to go back next year for a year of study in Spain, said that her summer in Spain helped her to make some of her future plans for work and study.

Students interested in studying in Spain next summer may contact Dr. Payas of the Department of Foreign Languages.

Speech Contest

The Communication Department plans to conduct a speech contest at the end of the Fall quarter with contestants chosen from the 14 sections of the course SPEECH 101. Students in the class will select their favorite persuasive speaker and then during the exam week faculty and staff members will judge a preliminary runoff and final contest to arrive at a winner. A trophy will be awarded to the winner.

WOMEN'S CLUB GIVES INFO D. J. McManus

Realizing the great need for an information booth to help guide and direct newcomers, new students and lost students, the wives of the FTU faculty decided to take the initiative.

A club was formed which went on to raise $550.

The largest amount of money was attained through a yard sale at the Mainland Civic Center, that netted over $300 for the fund.

The plans for the booth are in the process of being drawn up for final approval.

The building will be located at the main entrance way to the university.

One suggestion was to include a parking area for the visitors giving the present students and faculty more parking spaces.

Marketing clinic set for Oct. 16

By Alan M. Crouse

The Collegiate Chapter of the American Marketing Association, known on campus as the FTURe Marketers Club, plans to sponsor a Marketing clinic on October 16 in the Engineering Auditorium, Room 206.

According to Iver Singer, Jr., president of the campus chapter, the purpose of the clinic is twofold: Delegation of local businesses will pay $7.00 to attend the sessions offering specialized lectures by professors, thus bringing together FTU and local businesses. The profits will then be used for business scholarships.

Six different sessions on different topics will be presented twice allowing representatives to sit in on two different lectures during the one-evening clinic. Representatives may choose between: "Moving from Non-Management To Management" by Dr. Waldron Berry, "Consumerism Challenge For Marketing In The 1970's" by Dr. Ronald S. Rubin, "Who Is Battling Barter, Barterline and Consumerine and Why Are They Doing Thin To Me?" by Dr. William G. Callahan, "Your Boss Has Problems Too" by Dr. Newel W. Comish, "Women in Business" by Mrs. Carol P. Wilson and "The Salesmanship Of a Sale" by Dr. Eugene E. Temple.

According to Singer, this is the first time an FTU organization has raised money by holding a clinic. The clinic, named "Multiple Opportunities for Vocation Enrichment" or "M.O.V.E.", is geared to non-management, open to members of the PTU community as well as local business and has already netted the club $700, said Singer.

Sometimes administrators ask the SG for advice before considering controversial issues.

Meetings once a week, the Student Senate discusses issues which are of special interest to the student body. Departmental problems, such as optional courses, scheduling or policies may be outlined in a resolution and presented to the individual department.

Campus-wide or administration complaints are submitted as bills to the Vice President of Student Affairs for consideration. If the grievances are justified, he may sign the bill which immediately becomes university policy.

"We have a good working relationship with the Administration," said SG Vice President Jim Davis. "There are times when the Administration would listen to the Student Government and not to any individuals."

Students vote only for the senate in the fall. Presently, the senate is apportioned for 40 seats, one for each class in each college. Students vote only for the candidate in their college.

To run for a seat, a candidate must file a declaration of candidacy, be carrying a load of nine hours or more with a 2.0 GPA and fulfill the university eligibility standards.

In addition to providing student input in university policy making, the Student Government gives students a chance to work with people in power. Senate meetings are open to guests and the president and vice president keep regular office hours in the Village Center.

AUTORITY OF UNIVERSITY POLICE

The authority granted to State University Police Officers in Florida to act in the capacity of policemen is broad and commensurate with the assigned responsibilities. Generally, the authority is limited geographically to property under the control of the Board of Regents. The statutory extension of authority to properly adjacent to the campus, property under the guidance and supervision of the State University System where the university has interests to protect, was provided by the State Legislature in order to assure university officers legal protection to act in emergency situations arising in close proximity to the campus. As a general rule university officers will exercise their police powers only on university property, except that they can participate in joint investigations and exist accompany to off-campus areas law enforcement officers who have legal authority to act in those areas, and when the university's interests are involved in the investigation. Each Director of Police will establish a mutually acceptable procedure for conducting off-campus investigations with the appropriate off-campus agencies.

The authority of university police to function in the capacity of policemen is provided by statute. The legislation relating to authority, minimum standards, rights, immunities and protection is set forth as follows in Section 229.06 Florida Statutes.

1. The Board of Regents is hereby empowered and directed to provide for police officers for all institutions and agencies in the state university system, and said police officers shall hereafter be known and designated as the university police.

2. The university police are hereby declared to be law enforcement officers of the state and conservators of the peace, with the right to arrest in accordance with the laws of this state, any person for violation of state law or applicable county or city ordinances, when such violations occur on any property or facilities which are under the guidance, supervision, regulations, or control of the state university system except that arrests may be made off campus when not pursuant to original on campus. Said officers shall have full authority to bear arms in the performance of their duties, and to execute search warrants within their territorial jurisdiction. University police when requested by the sheriff or local police authority may serve subpoenas or other legal process and may make arrests of persons against whom a warrant has been issued or any charge has been made, in violation of federal or state laws, county or city ordinances.

3. University police shall promptly deliver all persons arrested and charged with a felony to the sheriff of the county within which the university is located and all persons arrested and charged with misdemeanors shall be delivered to the applicable authority as may be provided by law, but otherwise to the sheriff of the county in which the university is located.

4. University police shall meet the minimum standards established by the Florida police standards council and chapter 23. Each police officer shall, before entering into the performance of his duties, take the oath of office as established by the Board of Regents, and the Board of Regents shall enter into a good and sufficient bond on each officer to perform the duties of said university police officer. The Board of Regents shall set up and promulgate rules and regulations, including, but not limited to, the appointment, employment, and removal of university police, in accordance with the state career system, and further, establish in writing a policy manual, a uniform set of identification credentials for each of the duties of said university police officer.

5. In performance of any of the powers, duties and functions authorized by law, or this act, university police shall have the same rights, protections, and immunities afforded other peace or law enforcement officers.

6. The Board of Regents, in accordance with the Florida department of law enforcement, shall set up and promulgate rules and regulations, including, but not limited to, the appointment, employment, and removal of university police, in accordance with the state career system, and further, establish in writing a policy manual, including, but not limited to, routine and emergency law enforcement situations. A policy manual shall be furnished to each university police officer.

ECA DAY

By Arla Filko

FTU's annual Extra-Curricular Activities Day (ECA Day) is a recruitment event sponsored by the university, and will be held Oct. 23 from 9 a.m. to noon.

The purpose of ECA Day is to give the campus community an opportunity to observe, participate in, and experience the many organizations, clubs and social activities that make the university unique. The Board of Regents has established a minimum standards, rights, immunities and protection is set forth as follows in Section 229.06 Florida Statutes.

1. The Board of Regents is hereby empowered and directed to provide for police officers for all institutions and agencies in the state university system, and said police officers shall hereafter be known and designated as the university police.

Scholarship Offered

The Ford Foundation is pleased to announce the transfer of the administration of three of its graduate fellowships programs. Beginning September 1974, the Educational Testing Service will administer the following fellowships programs:

- Graduate Fellowships for Mexican Americans
- Graduate Fellowships for Native Americans
- Graduate Fellowships for Puerto Ricans

The National Fellowships Fund will continue to administer the Graduate Fellowships for Black Americans. These programs are made possible through grants from the Ford Foundation. The programs are aimed at increasing the number of doctorates among Black Americans, Mexican Americans, Native Americans (Aleuts, Eskimos, American Indians, Native Hawaiians), and Puerto Ricans to enhance their opportunities for careers in higher education. The fellowships are for one year only, but are renewable upon reaplication if satisfactory progress toward the doctorate is evidenced. Applicants are expected to study full time and to complete the requirements for the doctorate as soon as possible.

Anyone requiring additional information or announcements, may write to the Ford Foundation, 320 East 43rd St., N.Y., N.Y., 10017.

Ozark Music Festival Flop

By the Harrison

It was during the weekend of July 19 - 21 that an unknown town in Western Missouri would experience disaster to itself as well as the music industry.

The town was Sedalia and the disaster was known as the Ozark Music Festival.

The project was precipitated by local Sedalia businessmen and advertised nationally in the Rolling Stone. However, the magazine failed to do a follow up story which suggested to me that everyone concerned would like to forget about the festival as soon as possible.

The festival was held on 130 acres of land designated for use during the annual Missouri State Fair. It was days before the event was to begin that the single incident of police confrontation took place as officers successfully arrested youths on drug charges.

The music began Friday afternoon with temperatures soaring to 103 degrees. The blistering heat combined with the already ubiquitous downpours embedded the festival in a feeling ofbastility that would fail to be overcome.

But it was not only the promoter who foresaw a chance at profit in a music festival. Many of those gatherers paraded everywhere around the grassy camping area with their rented trucks filled with food, drugs, and a variety of artifacts for sale.

The festival was intended to attract all segments of music-loving populations.

The music began Friday afternoon and immediately drew three strikes against it with Cactus, Ted Nugent and the Amboy Dukes and Bob Seger. All three were washed up groups clinging desperately to their short eras of popularity that have long since passed.

With an increasingly rapid shift from heavy metal to country and western, the festival would not have been complete without the appearance of the recently formed Earl Scruggs Review. The group, which includes many of Earl’s family, provided a rockin’ country beat of banjos and fiddles.

The night was topped off with Bachman Turner Overdrive; a Canadian group who have risen rapidly on today’s chart. The group which is instrumentally sound falls drastically in its lead vocals.

The music started again at noon Saturday with folk-pop singer Jim Stafford. The music continued with brilliant performances by Jimmy Sores and “Machine gun.” Ted Kottke, nicknamed for his incredible speed on guitar. However, only a fraction of the 100,000 in attendance could withstand the heat, choosing to remain at their camp and sacrifice viewing the daytime performances.

As darkness moved in and temperatures dropped, the crowd at stage front multiplied to bear the good the six sounds of southern rock bands Lloyd Skyrard and the Marshall Tucker Band. Both bands are representative of the Allman Brothers music; a mixture of country rock and blues highlighted with fast lead guitar riffs.

The night ended with another of my least favorite groups, R.E.O. Speedwagon, a band specializing in hard rock.

All acts scheduled during the day for Sunday were postponed to the late afternoons to give both the audience and performers a break from the sun.

The music started off with the usual addictions to the Capiters record label, the Elvin Bishop Group, providing a brilliant set of more southern rock n roll.

Other top bands in the night’s roster included the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and America and was finished off with an obvious favorite of the crowd, The Eagles.

Some disappointing cancellations included the Scaggs and the Ozark Mountain Daredevils.

The Souther, Hillman, Foray Band, a united effort of already established musicians was introduced to the crowd. There was also a reorganization of an old group that had been apart for years. It included Buddy Mills, Mike Bloomfield, Barry Goldberg and Nick Graevine and are known as the Electric Flag.

The groups scheduled for the festival indicate that it should have been a good show. However, the fact that most groups played less than an hour turned things into what appeared to be a rush job just to get things over with.

Another black mark for the festival was the wide spread pillage of smilin’ Miners to the closing of the entire town.

Within days after the end of the three-day festival, Missouri state legislature enacted laws prohibiting rock festivals ever again being held on Missouri soil.

Boo'ters Blitiz Florida Southern, 9-0

By Pat Murray

Spurred on by an eight goal second-half uprising, the FTU soccer team went on to overwhelm Florida Southern 9-0, before a season opening home crowd of 25% Monday afternoon.

Led by a hat trick by Jim Madden and two goals by John Brown, the Knights completely dominated play throughout the second half.

Madden got FTU on the scoreboard with just under five minutes to play in the first half.

He took a pass from Mark Johnson and rooted the ball past Moc goalie John Loflay for the score.

In the second-half, it was Madden again scoring early to give FTU a 2-0 lead. His second goal was unassisted. This second-half surge was the breaking point for the Mocs as Charlie Campbell, Gus Romero, and Mark Forrest all scored before the final horn.

The game featured strong, aggressive mid-field play by the Knights who were content to hit the open man with short passes and maintain a constant barrage on the Florida Southern goal. FTU put 17 shots on goal, compared to 8 by Florida Southern.

Jim Madden, Three Goals

Madden, one of the best outdoor sports facilities, was present baseball diamond. The gymnasium of Education Building, will be Multi-purpose in use. Intramural and recreational events as well as physical education classes will take place in the gym.

The much-needed facility will contain push back bleachers with a capacity of 2,000 seats. Also there will be two cross-courts perpendicularly with the major playing court. Powell added, the gym, which will house tennis, physical education and registration, can be used for school dances and registration.

Powell said bids for construction of the "pretty structure" will take place in December and hopefully actual construction can start in January. He added, "If construction goes smoothly with no complications, the FTU basketball team can get in their practice Sessions for the first time in October. The team will be playing their home games this coming season at Winter Park High School.

Also planned for FTU and which Powell "is hoping to get" are an archery range, two new soccer handballs courts, a new soccer field surrounded by a track, tentatively to be clay surfaced.

A new baseball field with bleachers and lights is on the planning board along with six new tennis courts to alleviate the problem of availability of the present six resurfaced courts.

Powell declared, "The surfaces on these courts will be the best you can get."

One facility that is already under construction is a driving range which is located behind the present baseball diamond. The new golf facility will be surrounded by trees. Powell said, "It's a long way from being completed but maybe by spring it will be ready for use."

When will FTU have all these planned facilities completed? Powell said, "If all goes well, it should take only 15 months."

Basketball's Meixl Resigns

By Pete Haas

Ben Meixl, assistant coach of FTU's basketball team, has turned in his resignation. Meixl came to FTU from Neenah, Wisconsin, where he was both football coach of one of the state's finest teams in the fall of 1972.

Head Coach Torchy Clark and Meixl grew up together in Wisconsin, where he was head football coach of one of the state's major high schools. Meixl cited family difficulties in the transition of living in Florida as the main reason for his return to Wisconsin. He has now taken a position as math teacher in a school there and it is unknown at this time whether he will return to coaching or not, at any level.

Coach Clark said that he was disappointed that Meixl could not remain on longer because he was doing a fine job and really beginning to know the system.

Ladies' Crew Need You
Season Begins At Stetson

This is FTU's third year fielding a women's team in volleyball. Lucy McDaniels, an assistant professor in the Physical Education Department, has served as the groundbreaker and guiding force for this intercollegiate undertaking. Miss McDaniels is on a one-year's leave of absence from Stetson University where she started a women's volleyball team four years ago, which for purposes of comparison is presently existing, and quite comfortably, on a $7,800 a year budget.

Last year's team finished somewhere in the vicinity of 28-2, the records are lost, but with what McDaniels called a "ready made team". Unofficially rated as the number one "setter" in the state, Shabell Khonsari from Iraq, spearheaded a team comprised of seasoned and highly skilled transfers from schools which already had established volleyball programs. It was just a matter of letting them learn to play with each other. This year, however, the team has a lot of new "pretty ladies". But this aspect seems to be the least of worries. Pam Burke is coaching the team this season and figures things to be promising in terms of performance. She'll rely on senior Kitty Eng to be the stabilizing force for a team that has only five seniors and only three of them with experience.

Also returning from last year's team will be Char Rooven, Marla Mura, and Anne Kennedy.

The never-ending struggle for funds for on-the-road housing and food, and a home court, doesn't seem to dampen the interest of the players. Lack of publicity has taken its toll in the form of small spectator turnout. Probably not too many people even know the team exists.

Road games, and right now they easily outnumber the home encounters; don't sound like much fun. The players will most likely have to get their meals on their own, but as Miss McDaniels explains, "that won't be as bad as it sounds. Most of our girls live off campus and have to come up with their own meals anyway."

Finagling deals for motel rooms at a lower than reasonable price for out-of-town tournaments is another headache that doesn't seem to want to go away. And it

The Air Force ROTC College Program has 3 things to offer that other college programs don't.

1. Scholarships.
2. $100 monthly allowance.
3. Flying lessons leading to jet training.
