Engineering Doctorate Made Available

By Pat Strange

A cooperative program between FTU and the University of Florida will make it possible for students who qualify to receive a doctorate degree in Electrical Engineering on the FTU campus. Dr. Bruce E. Mathews, Chairman of the Electrical Engineering at FTU, said the program has been launched to allow students in the Central Florida area to work toward a Ph.D. degree in E.E. to work at FTU.

Most of these are part time students who are working and would find it difficult if not impossible to work toward a Ph.D. degree in the traditional manner.

The degree will be awarded by the University of Florida, even though the coursework is done on the FTU campus. Mathews said some of the University's joint appointments with U of F are members of both faculties and there are courses among those who will be teaching the doctoral course.

Mathews said the minimum requirements for a doctorate degree is three academic years past the B.A. or two academic years past a Masters degree.

This new degree has evolved from a program that was started in 1974, which was a statewide closed circuit television link between the University of Florida and the University of Central Florida. The program was already approved and will go into effect as soon as students who qualify are available.

Mathews' office is in the process of contacting students at the present time. Mathews said the program will most likely get started next quarter. He expects to have between six and ten students enroll for the first quarter of the program. Requirements for the Ph.D. program are a Masters degree in Electrical Engineering and an entrance exam which will be given by the University of Florida.

The benefits to the engineering department include allowing the facility to participate in doctoral level counseling, teaching and research. Mathews stated.

In another degree-related activity, Mathews said he has proposed a new bill calling for the creation of a program that will be known as the FTU campus. This bill was proposed by Tim Carroll, Dr. Margaret H. Thomas of the Office of Academic Affairs said the proposal was feasible, noting it would take a great deal of time and several new employees to do the job.

“There are more than 8,000 students on this campus and to constantly review all their transcripts to see if they have passed the requirements for an A.A. degree would be impossible,” she said.

Thomas also said the requirements are listed in the catalog and any student who thinks they have qualified only has to fill out an application in the registrar's office to have his transcript checked.

The requirements are one hour of course work completed, 30 of which must have been taken at FTU, the basic Environmental Studies (54 hours included).

Stenberg Performs For Recorder Class

By Arla Felko

The music students of Pat Stenberg's beginning recorder class were in for a treat Thursday, when the professor performed a sonata and part of a concerto on the early flute-like instrument.

The beginning recorder class, Music 310, is open only to non-music majors for two quarter hours credit.

Each student registering in the course provides his own instrument, preferably an alto or soprano recorder, for a nominal fee of five dollars.

Students in Music 310, a non-major music class, enjoyed the benefits of learning to play a musical instrument as part of their course instruction. (Photo by Geerslin).

The recorder is a woodwind instrument belonging to the flute family and was developed during the 16th century.

In the 16th century the flute was invented, a louder instrument, better able to compete with the instruments of an orchestra, and the simple recorder was all but forgotten.

Around the turn of the century, musicians and composer Arnold Dolmetsch re-introduced the recorder to the music public. It has since become a popular instrument throughout the world.

The recorder comes in various sizes and shapes from the sopranino and soprano to the alto, treble and bass.

The students are requested to purchase only soprano and alto recorders as they are most adaptable for the novice.

Presently around thirty students are enrolled in Music 310, which meets from 11:00 to 11:50 a.m. on Tuesday and Thursday in the new Music Rehearsal Hall.

The course is aimed at students who have no prior knowledge of how to read music and provides a distinct advantage in later learning to play other musical instruments.

Student Assistant Donna Laderer works with Professor Stenberg by providing personal assistance by appointment to students.

"You must be willing to risk failure to succeed," says Professor Stenberg adding, "I have a whole lot of respect for the people in my classes."

Patricia Stenberg is also a member of the WFTU ensemble, Basically Baroque, and is currently performing oboe and recorder throughout Florida.

"You can learn to play the recorder very well in ten weeks," said the instructor who has been playing the instrument for twelve years, but of course, "it requires a life-time to master any instrument."

"You do not need to be a musician to appreciate music. You have a mind and a heart and that is all you need to enjoy music."

EDITORIAL

Since Winter Quarter began, there have been an increase in the number of false alarms reported in the dorms. Although there have been no fires set in Dorm B, and all but one of the five occurred after 2 a.m. according to the Resident Advisors, Campus Police and dorm students have expressed concern over the increased number of false alarms.

John Smith, Director of the Police Department at FTU, feels that it is hard for the police to do their jobs when they can catch someone in the act. Smith states that it is not done when the alarms are false and that students are often questioned as to what they might have seen prior to the alarm.

Students or whoever is pulling the fire alarm must realize that if these penalties for pulling a fire alarm are high. For the first offense, a penalty is a $50 fine and/or a six month jail sentence. Theft or misuse of a fire extinguisher also carries the same penalties.

The procedure used in the case of false fire alarms is exactly the same as one used in a real fire. The Resident Advisor calls the Police and the Adviser of the dorm, as well as designated after 2 a.m., to begin a room to room evacuation of the dormitory. In the meantime, the Police arrive and after the building is cleared, the alarm is turned off after checking for possible fire.

Mr. Smith explained that since one never knows if the alarm is false or if the Police always to the dorm it is still the duty of the student to turn off a alarm is legitimate. Smith also explained that it is not uncommon for the Police to take the fire alarm and at all times encourage anyone from pulling the alarm or to call the police for encouragement to students to correct any information they might have on the false alarm. A room to room evacuation was also initiated to force students to leave the dormitory, but the alarm was open. This was both for protection and discouragement of any false alarms.

Pulling a fire alarm is not a joke. As Sharon Espasato, President of the Resident Hall Association, put it, if the boy who cries wolf really does see a wolf nobody believes him. If a fire ever does break out in the dorms, students will just think it is another false alarm.

It could be that one of these days a fire will break out in the dorms. The time for a fire is when people are sleeping and are not aware of the fire and in their sleep. This would be the worst time for this type of fire, but the people are not aware of the fire going on in their sleep. It would be unwise enough if a student was slapped with a jail sentence or a fine. It would be even worse if that student was one day responsible for being awakened by the false fire evacuation and the belief that it is another false alarm.

Anyone having any information on false alarms may call Mr. Smith at 2421.

Well, I said I would hear about it if it was wrong, and I did. Yes, I admit it was, which is why the article was written in last week’s column. In checking past issues of the Florida Technological University student newspaper, I found that John Hartford, Brownsville Station, and the Association were indeed sponsored by the Village Center.

I also found out something else interesting. Like how much the Village Center charged FTU students (who had already paid, incidentally, through student fees). Brownsville was $18 and the Association was $20. Now, that’s not bad considering the price of concerts these days, but they don’t want to be called造假fre. In fact, they want to come up with the necessary amount.

Well, I should have said that the Village Center charged FTU students (who had already paid, incidentally, through student fees). Brownsville was $18 and the Association was $20. Now, that’s not bad considering the price of concerts these days, but they don’t want to be called造假fre. In fact, they want to come up with the necessary amount.

The situation concerning the importance of concert programs is opposed to the amount proposed. Fifteen thousand for one concert is irresponsible. First of all, the Village Center has more than two people at its disposal, and the current modifications of its organization, equal in power to the student fees.

Before the efforts of IDC and RHA, the two major changes have been realized on campus: a regulation allowing possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages in the residence halls and the current modifications of food services. These are extremely commendable accomplishments of an organization that is not yet two years old. The potential of this organization is indeterminable if, and only if, all residents take an active interest. Unfortunately, instead of growing interest in RHA, this has dropped drastically. Two elections were cancelled in Fall Quarter because of lack of participation. The first, in fact, took place, but due to the policies of Vice President of FTU. The second election was delayed for better results.

It will be up to all the residents to generate enough interest to produce a new Inter-Dorm Council. Failure to do this will place IDC and RHA in danger of dissolving. Apathy is always destructive.

Anyone wishing more information on IDC, RHA, or the upcoming elections is urged to contact me (No. 273 or Box 280) or Milie Bisset or Pam Findman in Student Affairs.

The Residence Hall Association of Florida Technological University is an autonomous organization, equal in power to Student Government in the eyes of FTU’s Administration. The Inter-Dorm Council is the elected representative board of RHA. IDC’s function is three-fold: to provide a better governmental system for all resident students, to act as liaison between the residents and Administration; and to provide social activities for the residents.

Editor:
It is pleasing to know that we have such industrious students at FTU that they can become such "experts" on concert programming and Village Center over night. I am referring to the Hallways magazine’s last issue. After reading the article, I came away with the distinct impression that this was a very tall task when he caught his last flight. Now was he fielding alone.

His article is full of half-truths and misinformation. (Kelly's bars are now twenty cents each) John Hartford, Brownsville Station, the Association, Don McLean and Renaissance did indeed perform here at FTU, but only Renaissance was sponsored by student government. The rest along with such notables as Ace Trucking Co., Kreskin and Margaret Mead were sponsored by the Village Center. I can only say that I would like to see the identity of the writer who signs his columns with such exclusive information.

Now, about the proposed concert First of all, Village Center is more than willing to work with SG but not on terms dictated by any one side. Secondly, the committee that programs concerts was opposed to the amount proposed. Fifteen thousand for one concert is irresponsible. First of all, the Village Center has more than two people at its disposal, and the current modifications of its organization, equal in power to the student fees.

Ron Wood Releases Spirited Album

Ron Wood's first solo release, "I've Got My Own Album To Do," is not so much a solo effort as it is a gathering of talented friends for a week-long recording session in Wood's studio. And with Wood's choice of musicians, he presents himself as just another member of a fine rock and roll band. Of course, Wood has never been that much of a stand-out with any of his previous groups.

With the early Jeff Beck Group, he backed Beck's flashy guitar with a smooth but powerful bass. Later, he moved to lead guitar for a few albums with Rod Stewart and finally with Faces. Sharing lead guitar and vocals asKeith Richard from the Rolling Stones.

Wood and Richard play guitars in a style which is amazingly similar and on this album it works very well.

Richard's whiny vocals also add a little looseness to the album which carries the mood through from start to finish. A couple of Faces rhythm men fill in the background and a few tracks are laid down with Mick Jagger and Rod Stewart helping out on vocals.

The album opens with a straight-forward rocker, "I Can Feel The Fire," which comes off in the old Stone's tradition of gut guitar riffs and driving rhythm. On this cut, Jagger clearly takes over Wood's strained vocal, although he is not credited on the album's cover.

Two blues follow the opening cut, "Far East Man" and "Mystifies Me." The first is a George Harrison tune which for this album, is a little weak in Harrison's tradition of Far East mystery songs. Wood laments through the vocal and standard guitar work from Wood. Neither puts it bluntly, "There is not much a solo effort in the background and a few drums preventing us from saving money..."

Richard's whiny vocals also add a little looseness to the album. The vocals are stressed because many times lights are left on, and radios and televisions are turned on. But it is the vocal part that is least effective. "It's everyone's interest of money, helping to pay rising utility bills."

Jagger clearly takes over Wood's strained vocal, eventually with Faces. For apparent reasons, the song comes off as a Stones' least dumpster.

"Two blues follow the opening cut, "Far East Man" and "Mystifies Me." The first is a George Harrison tune which for this album, is a little weak in Harrison's tradition of smart guitar work. Richard and Wood rollick through the vocals giving the song a sense of sincerity.

"Take A Look At That Man" starts the album rocking again as Richard and Wood trade licks with Richard, who shines on vocal backed by a soulful choir which gives the album's cover.

"One of the better cuts on side one, emphasizing the blues mood sustained throughout the album."

The last song to do not do the album justice as a final cut. Once extended and quite a bit flashy and overworked, "Cochrane Music" (an instrumental) sums up an album of high spirits that will merit itself as one of the better rock and roll albums of the year.

Energy Drive Still Strong

He added, "There are lights over in the Humanities and Fine Arts Building that are worthless because many times lights are left on, and radios and televisions are turned on while playing. Students are absent from their rooms for hours at a time. This practice is wasting electricity."

Eller commended Physical Plant, Security, and the University Housekeeping Department for their role each has played in the conservation drive because, "without them, it couldn't have been nearly as effective."

Neubau and Eller agreed that higher costs in other areas of education such as tuition, are helping to pay rising utility bills. Eller put it bluntly, "A lackadaisical attitude is preventing us from saving money that could be used to build something beneficial to the FTU campus."

He further stated, "This is basically an awareness program. We must get people to understand what they do each individual is important to the drive. Everyone must realize that they can save themselves money at the same time."

Peral summed the condition up by saying, "It's to the interest of the entire campus community to cooperate in the pursuit of energy conservation in every conceivable way. It's everyone's duty to help in the effort."

Tempers Need Cooling

Editor:
Several of us were discussing the university's apparently tight money situation the other night when we noticed a few confusions in the way the administration "saves money."

After many of us leave our classes, somewhat hot because air conditioning is cut off at 8 p.m. "To save energy," our tempers aren't cooled any by the building's reflection.

Last year the FTUre was told the reflecting pond fountain would be cut off indefinitely because of the energy crisis.

Info Center Underway

The new FTU Information Center under construction across from the Administration Building does not have an expected completion date.

Although the FTU Women's Club raised $750.00 for the project and sufficient funding to begin construction on the actual building.

The State Road Department has already begun laying the asphalt parking lot.

If just one of the Administration Building searchlights were placed in front of the cafeteria, it might save some significant student a twisted ankle on his way back from IC. movies etc.

"If there is any reasonable explanation for the disturbing way the administration places priorities, please let us know." - Marvin Clegg, Mike Halpin, Steve Hartman

Editor's Note: Not only does the electricity to run the fountain cost money, but cleaning of the fountain adds to its expense. Our staff will check into the matter for the next issue.

EUROPEAN TRAVEL

Two opportunities for overseas educational travel for students and faculty have recently been announced. Registrations are now open for the four-week "Living in Europe" sponsored by the Consortium for International Education.

All college students and faculty are eligible, and many offer credit for the experience.

Cost for the program is $1,190, based on flight from New York, and not including many lunches and personal expenses. Further information is available by contacting Mrs. La Dona Hill, P.O. Box 3093, Orlando, 32801.

The National Student Exchange has available programs combining travel with study in various geographical and cultural settings.

The Student Exchange is based at the University of Illinois at Fort Wayne, Fort Wayne, Indiana. Interested faculty members write to the National Faculty Exchange Center, P.O. Box 1663, Lancaster, Pa., 19604.

AUA TO MEET

The Florida Conference of the AUA will meet on February 20 and 21 at the Langford hotel and Rollins college, under joint sponsorship by the AUA chapters at FTU, Rollins, and Valencia.

Registration will begin at 9:00 p.m. on February 20 at the Langford, and the opening session will take place at Rollins at 8:00 p.m. Saturday, a panel on the "Future of the B.A. Degree in a Career-Oriented Society." will be chaired by several eminent state educators, including Commissioner Ralph Turlington.

All sessions are open to the public.

REGISTRATION PERIOD

Student appointment times for spring quarter advance registration are now posted in the lobby of the administration building and on the second floor of the Hillard Appointments are based on GPA by class for the end of the most recently completed FTU quarter. Class schedules are available in students' respective colleges.

Admission will begin February 1 and advance registration is scheduled for February 24, and advance payment will begin March 31.

The College of Business has announced extended hours for evening students' admission until 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, February 25, in CB 420.

SYMPOSIUMS TO BE HELD

"Ethnicity Cultural Pluralism, and the American Experience" will be the subject of a two-part community symposium to be held tonight and Saturday night in the St. Margaret Mary Parish Hall at Knowles and Swoop streets in Winter Park.

Sponsored by the Florida Endowment for the Humanities, the symposium will feature professional humanists who will present brief talks on aspects of the situation of the immigrant-ethnic in the past and present phases of American history. Winemaking Among New Courses

A host of new courses will be offered by FTU's various colleges during the spring quarter.

Dr. Frank Juge will be teaching the Science of Wine and Winemaking, Monday nights, 7-9 P.M.

The course will concentrate on basic scientific concepts, classification, characteristics, and evaluation of wine. A credit is applicable toward Environmental Studies requirements.

Three new courses are scheduled by the College of Business Administration, according to Dean C.E. Gilliland, Jr.

Two elective courses, BADM 391, a practical course offering students the chance to work with Small Business Administration firms, and "Special Topics: Management Game" (MGMT 391), based on computerized business management simulation which stresses decision making in all functional areas of business, will both be offered for three hours of credit.

A unit on financial models (FIN 391) is being taught as a three-hour elective but will become part of the course requirements for finance majors in the fall.

Dr. William Oelfke will teach a special topics course in Physics, PHYS 100-02, primarily scheduled for music majors, but designed to be of interest to students in all fields. The course will probe the behavioral aspects of humor, examine theories, and offer students the chance to develop their own style of humor.

Lobby 592 and Humanities 312, a cross-listing, will highlight the classical world of Rome. Philosophy 606 this quarter will explore the relationship between man, God, and nature.

Two new courses in music have been added: Issues in Music (MUS 391-01) and Songwriting (MUS 391-01).

The Theatre Department will feature a course reviewing the life and work of Orson Welles, part of a revival interest and appreciation of the film maverick's career, listed as Theatre 490-04.

Finally, a new special project course entitled Humor in Communication, will be taught by Dr. Ed Wofford, recipient of awards in humor from the southeastern Toastmasters.

The course will probe the behavioral aspects of humor, examine theories, and offer students the chance to develop their own style of humor.

Bucks' GM Embry Visits College Mate In Powell

By Joe De Salvo

If you're wondering who was the main man with Dr. John Powell, FTU's athletic director, last Thursday and Friday, he was Powell's college roommate at Miami of Ohio.

So what is so tremendous about that, you say? He happens to be Wayne Embry, a former National Basketball Association star and presently Vice-President and General Manager of the Milwaukee Bucks.

The 6-foot-9, 260-pound Embry was in the Central Florida area on a scouting trip, especially to catch Stetson's Dick Johnston last Thursday night against Northern Illinois. Johnson blew the opportunity to show the Bucks' hidden what he can do on the court as he was held to 12 points and 16 rebounds.

The former Cincinnati Royal who now is based in Kansas City - Omaha Most Valuable Player and NBA all-star took the opportunity to be a house guest of the Poorells.

Conversing with Embry in Powell's office, asking him what he looks for in a prospective pro player, "He has to have physical skills such as jumping ability and a shooting touch," said Embry, who at 26 still has gray streaks in his hair.

In talking about big men, Embry said Bill Chamberlain was the toughest opponent he guarded in the ten years he played the game.

Remarkably Bill Russell's recent decision not to accept the invitation into the Basketball Hall of Fame, Embry who played behind Russell at Boston in the 1960-61 championship season, said he wasn't surprised at his decision.

Powell presented FTU's "Big man" in 6-foot Browne Shaw to Embry as last Friday's 105-76 drubbing of FIT Embry was "impressed," as Shaw showed his size, leading scoring ability and hitting for 35 points along with more.

Powell and Embry played together for the Redkings' squad with Embry at center and Powell at forward. Powell said, "Wayne would always be the leading man and Embry would be behind him." Embry played college ball at 240 pounds.

The touring center was first introduced to the Bucks' organization in the 1968 expansion draft. Embry played his last season in 1960-61 and ended his 11-year career with a total of 7,260 rebounds and a 12.5 points per game average.

Embry received his present position in the Bucks' 1970-71 season, the year the Bucks took their first and so far, their only NBA title.

"They don't have to necessarily have all playing skills. The intangibles such as mental toughness and composure are important," Embry explained.

"Bennie's been great all season," Clark exclaimed, "He's really playing fine ball right now.

Shaw had plenty of offensive help as all FTU starters finished the game in double figures. Willy Belotte and Lingelbach tossed in 16 points apiece while Frather and Bill Coras had 11 each to round out the Knights scoring attack.

In addition to scoring well, Belotte and Cors both had super rebounding games pulling down 17 and 12 caroms respectively. Powell's office.

The tables were turned in Tampa against South Florida as the Brahmas unleashed a fast break of their own coupled with a stingy full court press to dominate the contest.

With Doug Aplin, Leon Smith and Eddie Davis providing the offensive firepower the hosts shot to a 16-3 edge in the early going and were never headed.

Aplin paced all scorers with 36 points. Smith followed with 38, most from long range, while Eddie Davis added 15.

The Knights were led by Shaw with 24, Coras with 12 and Frather with 11.

The loss dropped FTU's season mark to 12-9.

Tomorrow night the cagers travel to Tallahassee to complete a Florida road trip with Seminoles basketball opponents.

SX Crushes ATO, Takes Greek Title

By Joe De Salvo

Before a packed side-line crowd at the intramural basketball court, it was supposedly the battle of the undefeated Greeks, last Friday afternoon. At the end it was all Sigma Chi as they romped over the outplayed Alpha Tau Omega squad, 56-49.

With the win, SX keeps the Fraternity League lead with a 7-6 mark while ATO fell to second place at 6-1.

SX played a tenacious defensive game, shut out ATO's potent offensive attack in taking a commanding 50 lead before ATO's first bucket of the game 27-20 in the first 15 minute half.

SX went into intermission with a leaded 20-6 lead. The score was indicative of SX's ability to control the boards on both ends of the court.

ATO came out fired up on the final stanza as they ran a 6-1 burst to cut the lead to 27-26. That was the closest they got as SX ran a hot streak of their own as a 7-2 tear gave them a comfortable 34-26 lead.

The difference in the game was ATO's 10 personal fouls plus four technicals while SX compiled only 13 personal fouls in the physical contest.

The referees turned in a respectable performance as they kept the game under control despite ATO's constant, rebellious rebuffal of many calls.

The victors were led by Pete Gaskin with 16 points while Doug Aplin and Guy Linder dropped in eight points apiece. ATO's high scorer was Rich Johnson with eight points.

Intramural B-Ball

By Monte Shoemaker

As SX took over sole possession of first place in the fraternity league, FSA remained ahead in the Independent Black League and Headhunters continued to lead the Independent Gold League.

FSA's 6'5-inch SX II 61-27 to ran their season's tally to 7-4. K. Larson and D. Allgar sacked 15 and 16 points respectively led FSA to yet another impressive victory. With scoring penalties down to four for more points the FSA-S team has displayed potential to take the intramural title.

Headhunters of the Gold League chalked up another victory when they won via a forfeit by Mafia, running their league leading mark to 6-0. Standout Corto Penn is averaging nearly 24 points per game, leads this potent offense which should give the FSA an edge in the real battle for the Independent League title, barring any foreseeable aspects of either league leader.

The winner of the Independent League title game will meet SX for the intramural title. Though SX has shown superior defense as well as a tuned-up offense, they should be facing their toughest opponent of the season when they meet the Independent champ for the title.
Netters Zero In On Win No. 1-9-0

By Joe DeSalvo

The FTU tennis team had such an easy time in posting their first win of the season Riddle was in Daytona Beach last Thursday, they ran a mile from the local beach to get their workout.

It was no contest as all nine matches were decided in two straight sets with the match closed out in 1 hour 15 minutes.

"We’re playing as a team," said a satisfied Coach DeSalvo. "They’re starting to jell which was first indicated in last weekend’s match to the Sanford match." In that event, FTU was able to take a come from behind victory over the Alabama State University visitors when darkness prevented the end of the match between the struggling team spirit," added Wood.

Grapplers Eye 32-0 Gators

By Joe DeSalvo

You would think FTU is playing the University of Florida in a big football game by looking at the Bantam signs posted all around the Physical Education building this past week.

Actually, it’s Coach Gerald Gergley’s art work in hopes of spurring his 8-4 wrestling team to victory over state powerhouse Florida tonight in Gainesville.

The Knights, coming of an impressive 36-0 white-shirt sweep over Washington and Lee last Friday, will compete against the 32-0 Gators.

If you thought undefeated Gators took a chunk victory from your heart, consider yourself lucky.

"We love what Fort Lauderdale has done so far this season," said Gergley. "They’ve got a lot of potential and they’re only in the first leg of the season’s run to the championship.

The winner of tonight’s contest will be declared “best team in the state,” according to Gergley.

Gergley’s not guaranteeing a victory for FTU but he said, "We’ll give it our best effort." Both teams will have their No. 1 singles on the mat as FTU’s Mike Wonco returns from the injury list at 150 while the Gators will be getting themselves prepared for the upcoming Southeast Conference Tournament.

Gergley was a happy man in an interview with the Washington and Lee victory. "Another team beat us out of state, it’s got to be a super effort," said Gergley. "Everybody battled good and gave their best effort." In the 313-pound match, Jeff Emerson defeated Howard Kump 9-6 to start off the string of ten consecutive match wins, Scott Sherman at 138 pounds, and back with another shenanigan, 6-0 at Dan Overdorff.

Pat Murphy, coming off successful state championship competition, got the only pin of the meet at 2:00 of his match with Lee Rock, at 190 pounds.

Supernova George Yunovich made a successful debut in the No. 1 doubles. He’s convincingly defeated Brian Swanger 6-3, 6-0 in the last fall losing only 1-6 at 158.

John Theders filled in nicely at 130 for the injured Watts, and Lee had his match with Graham Johnson 6-5.

Tom Hammorn used six third-round points to defeat Jeff James of the Hoyas. State champ Mike Shivers at 171, hammed Roy Smith 5-2 at 177, Greg McCroy took advantage of all his loose points in the last fall to top Doug Ford 4-2.

At Floyd took care of the 126-pound job with a narrow heavyweight Dave Garner put the icing on the cake with a 12-5 win over Steve Schwerin 12-2. The Knights won 6 points from Virginia at a 4-6 mark.

Coach Lamar Boosts Swim Teams Cause

By Walt Morris

The PTU team club is regrouping under new coach this quarter.

Tom Lamar, the new coach, comes to PTU with a record that few men can match. Lamar has had 28 state champions swimming at four different high schools.

"We’re not looking for state record holders," said the Matlouthian Junior High School teacher. "Just a few kids that are willing to work and take a little pain.

"It’s going to be difficult arranging meets with schools that have long been established," Lamar said. "Floyd isn’t going to hurry hear the junior colleges and conference teams are interested in swimming against us.

"We don’t want a competitive schedule this year, but plan to enter next year with a competitive frame of mind.

Lamar has coached the Winter Park Y.M.C.A. and Winter Park High School teams and he hopes this will help build the team.

"These kids have the opportunity to look back in years to come and say ‘I helped start it’ the program,” Lamar concluded. "To me it would be a very delightful memory.

Lamar believes there are ten or so on the team who will hurt the team, but adds at the moment all schools are having financial problems.

"We have a great facility here," Lamar boasted. "Anytime you have a facility that is like ours you can win.

Gal Netters Face Tough Opponents

By Linda Mitchell

Despite a limited budget, the women’s tennis team is full of spirit and ready to win! This year the team is being coached by Rocky Thomas, a graduate of Rollins College, and previously the tennis coach at Winter Park High School.

Though the tennis team is young and less experienced than the larger universities, Coach Rocky believes he has a very strong team. He feels sure her girls can beat Fuller College, if they meet in the coming weeks.

The Knights proved just as powerful in the doubles as the No.1 team of Smith and Edwards defeated Mike Shivers at 6-4, 6-3.

Lamar boasted.

The Knights have lost 2 of the first 5 games, came back to post a game win on the Wildcats at No. 4 and soundly beat the University of Dayton.

Lamar said. "We’re pretty sure we can beat the Gators and take a few meets and as long as we don’t break our belts we’ll have a successful future.

Weightlifters Nip Gators For State Championship

By Joe DeSalvo

Breaking tradition the FTU weightlifting squad没有什么 other than the Florida College Championship.

We have a history of losing to the Gators by commenting during the Saturday to win the team trophy by two pounds.

John Millonzo, returning from a knee injury, took first place in the weight class with a 120 lb snatch and a 140 lb clean and jerk.

Sheridan Becht, attempting a personal record, was unable to lift the weight and was credited with a 125 lb snatch and 165 lb clean and jerk.

Roldan Figueroa placed third with a 220 lb total. The “86” turned out to be the heaviest one to compete in the state meet.

Good luck, Mr. Ashford and his world champion team at Stetson University.

The Knights came out a smashing victory of the Gators.
