INVEST Program Re-funds

By John Bridges

FTU's INVEST (Individual Volunteer Employment of Senior Talents) program has been re-funded for another year, according to Dr. Harold Newell, program director.

The initial aim of INVEST was to place senior citizens in part-time and short range employment situations. The job placement efforts were made to create the detrimental effects of mental and physical inactivity upon retirees who are capable and willing to work. Many seniors have been forced into early retirement and resulting "senior citizen ghetto." Mrs. Betty Morgan, FTU coordinator, sees the problem becoming a real "moral issue" on a nationwide level. Project workers feel seniors could identify more readily with the community if they were involved in employment or voluntary activity in areas which they perceived to be needed while at the same time achieving personal economic or psychological benefits for themselves.

INVEST is co-sponsoring, with the Orange County Adult Distributive Education office, a "Job you want!" workshop at the Orlando Public Library auditorium next Thursday and Friday (20th and 21st) from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

The workshop will be repeated during the same hours on March 24th and 25th at the Wesley Adult Education Center, across from the Winter Park Mall. Requests to be covered include tips on preparation of resumes, covering, and how to approach job hunting in a positive manner.

In addition, INVEST is providing further continuing education for senior citizen groups to furnish a mechanism where retirees can be educated, trained, or redirected to help fill needed manpower shortages in either salaried or volunteer areas.

In the future, INVEST hopes to continue providing training, session counseling and support for senior citizens. To stimulate and enhance their lives.

The program also will attempt to coordinate the needs of business and industry with available older citizen talent. INVEST officials hope to stimulate the future involvement of those parties for continuing mutual benefits.

ERA Sponsored On Campus

The PTU chapter of Phi Chi Theta has joined with the Orange County Coalition for Equal Rights Amendment in sponsoring a health brochure to disseminate information on the ERA.

The Florida legislature has twice ratified the amendment, but because of a provision in the state constitution, the ratification was not effective. Since then, both houses of the legislature have defeated the amendment by a narrow margin.

Proponents of the amendment, like members of the coalition, are hoping that the amendment, as well as paper, envelopes, sample letters and postage for letters of support.

Since Congress first passed the amendment in 1972, 24 of the necessary 38 states have ratified. ERA lobbyists see Florida as a crucial state and 1975 as a crucial year in the ratification of the measure.
MicroForms Available

By Pat Strange

The FTU library has 140,000 items on microforms. Microforms are files, microfiche, microfilm, ultrascan, and aperture cards. Some of the holdings on microfiche are the Annals of Congress, the Register of Debates, the Congressional Globe and the Congressional Record (1894).

Other American Periodicals from 1800-1810, American Culture from 1825-1850, and American Literary Periodicals and English Literary Periodicals. The English Literary Periodicals cover 31 years of London journals and includes such titles as "Records of Lore" or "weekly amusements for the fair sex" printed in 1710 and "New Quarterly Magazine," printed in 1720.

The microfilm is usually 10 by 15 mm and new folders have 1,000 reels of microfiche. The name microfiche comes from the French word "fiche" meaning index card. Other holdings include magazines such as Time, Newsweek, U.S. News & World Report, Fortune and Sports Illustrated. Brenda Foy, Assistant Director of Libraries estimates that the library has approximately 9,000 reels of microfiche.

The microfiche comes from the French word "fiche" meaning index card. All the truly great movies, it seems, have been in black and white. From "The Jazz Singer" starring Al Jolson, to such classics as "Casablanca" with Humphrey Bogart, Lenny Bruce's current movies as "The Last Picture Show" directed by Peter Bogdanovich. It seems as though black and white films have somehow transmitted an aura of importance.

The latest addition to the greats is "Lenny," directed by Bob Fosse. Lenny is a film about Lenny Bruce, a comedian who said what he wanted to say. His philosophy was that an obscene word would not be offensive if it was repeated until it was no longer noticed. Lenny started as a two-bit comic in small clubs until he told those one evening with a few offensive gems. He was arrested numerous times on obscenity charges and convicted in most cases.

Lenny died of a drug overdose in 1966.

Dustin Hoffman outacts himself as Lenny. He portrays Lenny the comic, Lenny the father, Lenny the lawyer, all with an enthusiasm which makes one want to believe he is watching the original Lenny Bruce.

Valerie Perrine is Honey Bruce, Lenny's stripper wife. Ms. Perrine is given a chance she deserves in a role she is perfectly cast in. She plays Honey Bruce with a wide range of emotions and feelings about Lenny.

This movie is unique not only in its performances by the stars and its subject matter, but also in the scripting.

Physical Plant Facilities Expand

Construction on the expansion of the physical plant facilities is expected to begin "very soon," according to campus planner Ondalio Garcia.

D&A Equipment, Inc., one of 16 firms bidding for the two-fold construction package, submitted the lowest bid of $684,400.

Once participation is complete, the expansion will consist of expansion of the current physical plant area, and a second will feature construction of a new central Heating complex at a separate site. The expansion of present facilities will provide more workspace with the addition of shops for carpentry, millwork, upholstery, plumbing, electrical and painting, more maintenance, metal work, tractor, and machinery.

An employee lounge and training classroom are also included, plus a greenhouse and shop for groundkeeping crews. Central Receiving will have bulk officers, warehouses, a security storage area and print shop, and will be located near the FTU water tower.

The bid received from D&A will next go to the state cabinet for approval.

Spirit Awards

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics Wednesday presented "Spirit Awards" to Chi Phi, a fraternity, and Tyee, a sorority, as best supporters for the basketball team during their 1974-75 season.

The reason is in the size of the microfiche. It is a transparent card four by six inches in size. It has a reduction of 40 to one. This means there are about 350 frames on each card.

Foy estimates that the FTU library has over 130,000 items on microfiche.

The largest part of the collection is the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC). This is used primarily by the students in the College of Education.

Foy said the purpose of this particular program is to acquire abstract and index educational resources so that the educational community is aware of what is happening and to provide an inexpensive but efficient method of publishing full-size documents for dissemination.

Ultrascan is a system of even greater reduction. It is possible with the standard microfilm reader. A "35 mm to one reduction makes it possible to put more than 3,000 pages on a four by six sheet of fiche.

Another microform is the microstrip. This is a 3 x 2.7 percent reduction card with a cutout for holding a clip of data processing card with a means that it will last as long as 100 percent ragstock paper.

Ragstock paper is claimed to have a life of hundreds of years.

AD HOC COMMITTEE FORMED
An Ad Hoc Committee for Mobility Impaired and Handicapped Students has been created on campus, to identify the needs of handicapped students attending FTU, and to recommend ways in which the University can facilitate those needs. The Committee, chaired by Dr. Robert Laird of the College of Natural Sciences, is charged with the responsibilities of submitting an outline of the University’s responsibilities, recommending action, and locating sources of assistance for such students.

EUROPEAN ART TOUR ORGANIZED
Mr. William Orr is organizing a summer tour of Europe primarily for art students, to leave Orlando June 16 and to return sometime between July 8 and July 31. Orr, who is organizing the tour through the Department of Art, describes the expedition as a “circle tour,” hitting the major museums and contemporary galleries in Amsterdam, Antwerp, Paris, Madrid, Rome, Florence and Venice. There will also be an option to return to England at the end of the tour for the remaining three weeks.

The cost for the tour will range from $1050 to $7290, depending on accommodations. Orr is available for information at 339-8457.

SEMINAR PLANNED
Problem drinking and drug use at all levels of society will be examined March 24-25 during a seminar at FTU co-sponsored by the National Committee for the Prevention of Alcoholism and Drug Abuse. The annual program, which will consist of study groups and general sessions, is designed for concerned citizens in the professions and any others interested in community improvement through treatment and rehabilitation of those afflicted with alcoholism and drug addiction. Dr. Charles M. Unkovic, Sociology Chairman and co-director of the seminar, announced a full slate of speakers from government, education, religion, medicine and law enforcement, who will provide insights and offer solutions to drug and drinking problems in the home, at school, and on the job.

Members of the community who are interested in attending the seminar may get information on registration by contacting FTU’s Office of Educational Conferences, phone 275-2123.

"IT PAYS TO GO TO MEETINGS"
It is high time that the FTU student is told just what he is paying for when he pays an $8 health fee each quarter. By now, most students have become aware that most of the $8 fee is used to purchase a health insurance plan for that student. What he doesn't know is just what the plan covers and how effective the plan is.

The university president's annual insurance claim said that a number of students are either misinformation or not informed about the insurance. This is due in part to the administration. The FUTURE has never been able to get too much straight talk about the insurance plan. Let's look at it in operation.

I personally had a doctor bill including office visits, x-rays and laboratory fee which totaled $111.90 which was paid to my private physician and then went to file the claim. I received a $5 check. This was because I failed to realize that in order to get any money at all, you must be enrolled at the health center (unless it is a dental) and be referred. The doctor in the Health Service sent a letter to treat you if you are able. If you are not referred to a private physician, I think that to mean that there is not much of a chance to see your own personal doctor in contradiction to a letter sent to a friend of mine. She wrote to the insurance company and asked if she could continue to use her own personal physician. She thought so, but she was wrong. Unfortunately she did she was unable to recover most of the money she had to pay out in bills.

If this is not enough the insurance plan does not necessarily cover a lot of important and expensive costs such as medication and hospitalization. The real problem seems to be that one is not quite sure just what it will cover. Apparently the original brochure was sent out to the students last September is not a complete and all-encompassing list. Only the Health Center can answer individual questions.

Who can be done? Student Government President, Hunter Potts, has urged students to take this matter to court. My contention, which a majority of the students approved anyway (among boos and hisses) is that the student should be able to show to the next quarter's health fee. By now, most students can think of nothing else to call this matter at the University system. I have been aware that the state government for the current annual academic year were predicated on an assumed state general revenue of $2,125 billion, an increase of $200 million over the 1974 academic year. The state university system was appropriated $352 million of this total. Since the fall of 1974, the projected state revenue has fallen far behind and revenue collections will be in the $2.1 to $2.2 billion range.

To accommodate this shortfall, the total state surplus of $105 million has been committed to building projects, and state agencies subjected to a 3.3 percent reduction in anticipated expenditures. For the state university system, this resulted in a reduction for this academic year of approximately 3.3 percent.

The projections of revenue for the 1975 academic year are unstable, but are unlikely to be substantially greater than this year's.

To avoid unnecessary serious damage to programs, it is important that state budgeted policy-makers have the best possible information and insight. Strongest times present an opportunity for major reform in budgetary priorities and for improvements in the efficiency of governmental services.

Can She Sell?

Editor:

"Can I sell?" your broker asks in the March 7 solicitation for FUTURE advertising representatives. Just let me prove it. Why, all I ask is that the FUTURE give me the chance to prove I'm a real hustler with definite "sales ability." I'm sure I could "exhibit sufficient ability" to "make contacts in the business community" and I have even had experience laying out displays before.

I'm sure that both you and your organization could "gain valuable experience" from the arrangement and I'll just love the chance to "make money in my spare time." Why, an $500 commission is more than I could make in a fortnight.

Thank you, thank you so much for showing me and the rest of the female population where our true talents lie (or are laid). We who have scored the Ms. for madam thank you for once again laying to rest the myth that even in responsible publications women are no more than sex objects. From the bottom of our little feet to the top of our little know nothing heads, we salute you for once again realizing women are better at some things than men.

Affectionately yours,
Melanie Bowman

Tennis, character toward, socialite whose primary concern committed during their lifetimes. Hell. portrays a vain, image-conscious student-directed, performed and managed.

According to technical director Douglas Maksower, Gravis II, "allows students to work in an environment as possible, but with limited funds and time."

The main feature of the evening's entertainment is "No Exit," directed by Cheryl Chamberlin. The play enables thespers to catch a glimpse of the conceived reality of hell that three sinners experience:

They three initially worry about their punishment in hell, but soon come to realize that each of them is the torture for the other two. Once this is accomplished, they force themselves to face the reasons for their exile in hell, by reflecting on wrongdoings committed during their lifetimes.

Charlie Ware effectively portrays a vain, image-conscious socialite whose primary concern is himself. There are no mirrors in hell.

Veteran actor Jeff King comes across well as an insecure war veteran, who needs constant character reinforcement.

However, the star of the production is undoubtedly Ruth Huglin, who gives an exceptional performance as a sharp-toned homosexual, deriving her greatest satisfaction from making others miserable.

At the conclusion of the slightly drawn out presentation, the three laughingly come to the realization that 'hell is just other people.'

Combined excerpts from Ray Bradbury's works form the basis for the next portion of Gravis II, entitled "The Unlimited Future," under the direction of Pat Flanagan. This play is a Reader's Theatre, where the mood and thrust of the entire production is achieved solely by the actors' performances. No scenery is involved.

The audience views a somewhat abstract presentation of the future, where the consequences of space travel and machine-dominated households are common. A cry for the future preservation of mankind is apparently the ultimate theme of the production.

The talented singing and guitar playing of director Pat Flanagan is the highlight of the presentation, providing excellent transitional music within the play itself.

The final segment of the night's entertainment is "Passion, Poison and Petrifaction," created by Bernard Shaw's satirical picture of passion and murder in 1916.

The comedy is directed by Marilyn Cox, with exceptional performances received from stage veterans Mary Monroe and Chuck Aitken, who portray lovers whose affair is suddenly snuffed out when her villainous husband, jealous of his competition, develops second thoughts after the deadly drug is administered, and in an effort to regain his wife's devotion, seeks to find a suitable anecdote for the poison. The ensuing escapades provide pleasant entertainment for thespers, as vain attempts are made to preserve the victim's life, and a recurrent barbershop quartet melody adds humor to the production.

Rea Lammon projects himself extremely well as the jealous husband, in his PTU stage premieres.

Curtain time for Gravis II is 8:30 tonight and Saturday night, in the Science Auditorium and admission is free.

Art Assoc Organized

A new organization, the FTU Art Association (SATRA), has been formed to promote interest in the fine arts.

Recently recognized as a chapter organization by the Student Government, SATRA plans to promote exchanging art exhibits with other universities, create catalogs and a calendar listing art exhibits and activities of art centers in and around Orlando.

Long range plans include obtaining samples from all art mediums and possibly a scholarship fund. A spring art show for FTU students is also being considered.

Previously, there are 20 active members in SATRA, anyone interested in art may join. There are no eligibility requirements or dues to pay.

Meetings are held every other Thursday at noon in the Drawing Studio on the third floor of the Humanities and Fine Arts building.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Donna Black at 218-3426.

Gravis II Makes Debut

By Vicki Blaschfield

Last night marked the debut of Gravis II, a student production presented by the PTU Village Players, in cooperation with the University Theatre. This 2-hour presentation is completely student-directed, performed and managed.

According to technical director Douglas Maksower, Gravis II, "allows students to work in an environment as possible, but with limited funds and time."

They three initially worry about their punishment in hell, but soon come to realize that each of them is the torture for the other two. Once this is accomplished, they force themselves to face the reasons for their exile in hell, by reflecting on wrongdoings committed during their lifetimes.

Charlie Ware effectively portrays a vain, image-conscious socialite whose primary concern is himself. There are no mirrors in hell.

Veteran actor Jeff King comes across well as an insecure war veteran, who needs constant character reinforcement.

However, the star of the production is undoubtedly Ruth Huglin, who gives an exceptional performance as a sharp-toned homosexual, deriving her greatest satisfaction from making others miserable.

At the conclusion of the slightly drawn out presentation, the three laughingly come to the realization that 'hell is just other people.'

Combined excerpts from Ray Bradbury's works form the basis for the next portion of Gravis II, entitled "The Unlimited Future," under the direction of Pat Flanagan. This play is a Reader's Theatre, where the mood and thrust of the entire production is achieved solely by the actors' performances. No scenery is involved.

The audience views a somewhat abstract presentation of the future, where the consequences of space travel and machine-dominated households are common. A cry for the future preservation of mankind is apparently the ultimate theme of the production.

The talented singing and guitar playing of director Pat Flanagan is the highlight of the presentation, providing excellent transitional music within the play itself.

The final segment of the night's entertainment is "Passion, Poison and Petrifaction," created by Bernard Shaw's satirical picture of passion and murder in 1916.

The comedy is directed by Marilyn Cox, with exceptional performances received from stage veterans Mary Monroe and Chuck Aitken, who portray lovers whose affair is suddenly snuffed out when her villainous husband, jealous of his competition, develops second thoughts after the deadly drug is administered, and in an effort to regain his wife's devotion, seeks to find a suitable anecdote for the poison. The ensuing escapades provide pleasant entertainment for thespers, as vain attempts are made to preserve the victim's life, and a recurrent barbershop quartet melody adds humor to the production.

Rea Lammon projects himself extremely well as the jealous husband, in his PTU stage premieres.

Curtain time for Gravis II is 8:30 tonight and Saturday night, in the Science Auditorium and admission is free.

The current exhibit in the library of the FTU was prepared by three staff members and former students of FTU. The Fantasy Art portion of the exhibit was done by Eleonore Hernandez.

They are watercolors, pen and ink, and scratchboard. The drawings are takeoffs from fairy tales. Hernandez graduated from FTU last year with a B.A. degree in graphic design. She is almost two years. She has been drawing full time. She is now employed by Instructional Media.

David Retherford did the exhibit. The wood sculpture of a mushroom is very realistically done. The Wood Sculpture of a mushroom was done by John Findell, who is also an employee of Instructional Media.

Findell was a student assistant for two years. He received his B.A. in Art Education and is currently working on an MAE. His wood sculpture of a mushroom is very realistically done. Findell's photos are of Cypress trees. Hernandez said she is an aspiring book illustrator. She is currently doing the drawings for a book entitled "The Birth of Mary" written by Laura Lee House.

Retherford has been a part-time Art instructor at Lake Sumter Community College for the past two years.

NO PIZZA? — Engrossed in booklets about La Dolce Vida, the FTU students hope they can accompany Dr. Anthony V. Cervone to Urbino, Italy in June, for a 7-week study-travel tour. Enjoying the wishful thinking are (from left) Sal Godinho, Roberta Wellman, Liana and Andria Ioffredo, and Chuck Fazio. Dr. Cervone asks that any student interested in the summer study trip contact him in foreign languages department for details.

Jury Study Conducted
By Comm. Department

The FTU Communication department is conducting a study to determine if instructions read to juries by the judge are clearly understood.

According to Judge David Strawn of the 18th Judicial Circuit, many judges and lawyers agree that jurors probably do not fully understand the content of these instructions. The language tends to be highly technical.

Dr. Raymond Buchanan, Dr. Albert Pryor and Dr. K. Phillip Taylor are working with Strawn to determine where problems exist. The ultimate goal is to improve the instructions.

Buchanan said he has been attending court sessions and interviewing potential jurors to gather information for the questionnaire used in the study.

The experiment consists of playing a video tape of Strawn reading jury instructions as he would in a court session to potential jurors. A control group that does not hear the instructions is also selected. Then a comprehension test is administered to both groups and the results are compared.

The subjects for the interview and experiment are selected on Fridays when it is not possible for them to serve on a jury.

Buchanan said the purpose of the study is to improve communication between the judge and the jury. If the present instructions prove to be difficult to understand it may be necessary to reduce the amount of material, give written instructions to the jurors or rewrite them in simpler language.

Shivers Hurt in Nationals

By Joe De Salvo

Hard luck has struck Mike Shivers. The 181-pound senior lost his chance at the NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships which were held in St. Petersburg, Florida last weekend.

Shivers was in line to take third place in the 55-pound weight class, but was unfortunate enough to be pulled up short.
Netters Hit Slump Drop 7-2 Decisions

By Joe De Salvo

"Soggy tennis"? That's how FTU tennis coach Lex Wood described type of tennis his Knights are presently performing.

FTU, coming off an easy 9-0 win over FAU, did a complete 180 turn around this week, as it dropped identical 7-2 decisions to笺洲州州州State and Penns International University (FTU) at home.

The Knights, trying to shake off the early season slump, played wednesday yesterday in Gainesville and traveled to the state's capitol to face FTU today. The Knights will be back tomorrow at 3 pm against Duke.

Wood can't understand the reason why his team is playing the way it is. "Everybody is so tight that they're trying too hard. Nobody is playing ball as well as they should be," Wood added.

Against last year's Southern Conference champions, FTU lost any chance of taking the dual at No. 3 as it fell to a balanced six single matches.

Frohman, who is new to the squad, was the only one who has control of himself.

"I've asked many times for an offensive talent. I've asked and I've been given FTU's top singles spot to one with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Mike Phillips at No. 3. Mike DeZeeuw was never in his match with Keith Richardson, losing 6-3, 6-1.

In the remaining singles, No. 2 Dezeeuw lost to Kristian Cee, 6-4, 6-4, and Tom Holmquist, who co-ranked No. 1 in the nation last year. Both defeated 6-3, 6-4 over Spiller and Gaston Tello.

In the doubles, Lucci and Graham for once had a relatively easy time in winning, 6-4, 6-2 over Spiller and Gaston Tello.

Wood: 'He Has Fantastic Potential'

By Fred Cay

Considering that Doug Hull was 19-9 in his college career (with twin brother) his senior year and helped his team along the way in the NCAA men's division, much was expected if he came to FTU last fall.

So when Coach Lex Wood said that Hull had "exceeded our expectations" it is a statement of no small importance.

According to Wood, Hull has shown the kind of potential that can be realized. However, it is the potential for future stardom which really excites Wood about Hull.

"He is the class of the classical trained," explained Wood. "He has exceptionally fine form and hits the individual two weeks hard work. He is just solid all around."

Hull, who has fashioned a 6-2 singles mark - best on the team - admits he is satisfied with his performance (with the exception of yesterday's loss against Florida International) although he said "I have been playing just well enough to win."

The young rookie, who moved up to the No. 5 singles spot against FTU after winning the previous seven matches at No. 6, feels uncomfortable to admit that he is "just comfortable and I am a good tennis player.

Between the two teams, Hull thus far has disappointing 8-14 mark.

"It has been pretty tough," he said. "I feel we are not just about to turn around. We need to beat somebody -- that should be the Best part of Hull's game, both player and coach agree, is his backhand across court which Wood described as "off the charts exceptional." His overhead also ranks as one of the best in the world.

"He is just a good competitor," offered Wood. "He will stand up for his rights on court. It is typical American behavior, really -- similar to Jimmy Connors and many of the younger players."

Hull was quick to add, "I like Doug. I find him to be a very refreshing player, physically and mentally. Hull and twin brother, Jeff, both headed south to college with Jeff signing up at the University of South Carolina and Doug at FTU. FTU's win over the school, Doug admitted, "I liked Florida, but I had a feeling the younger players will find it easier to win."

The team, coached by Wayne Mondel, included with necessary, Roger Amick, Mike Brantley, Lee Holmquist, Bill Paoli, Bill Stetson and Allen Howell.

The FTU tennis team, off to a strong 3-1 start, will be in Port Malabar this weekend to compete in the Collegiate Tournament which will have 30 teams involved.

The three-day tournament will take place at the Port Malabar Country Club, located just south of Port Malabar and included in the two wins are Flavio, Stetson and Embry Riddle. The lone loss was against cross-town rival Rollin. The team lost to Tampa by only three strokes. In its last victory the team won by a total of 14 strokes.
