UCF Administration overturned the Student Judicial Council's decision to sustain the disqualification of Darin Patton and Andrew Cupicha as student body president and vice president. The appeal was granted on April 7.

Dr. Garth Jenkins, director of Student Judicial Programs, reviewed the information included in the appeal documents. Jenkins found sufficient evidence of the absence of fairness and the denial of due process to render the decision of the Student Judicial Council seriously flawed.

The Election Commission meeting on March 8 for the disqualification of the ticket broke Florida State Statutes. The members of the Commission did not physically convene to deliberate as a body on the issues and subsequently take a collective vote. A telephone poll of the members does not meet the requirements of official meetings of a student government agency.

Conflicts of interest raised questions and could have produced bias with the Chief Election Commissioner, Cheryl Fox, and Justices Reginald Thomas and Jessica Mock. There is sufficient evidence found to the absence of fairness and due process.

Jeff Case
Staff Writer

The Central Florida Future's website has gotten a facelift and it seems UCF students will benefit the most from its new design. The website, www.ucfuture.com, has added several features in its redesign, including access to Pegasus e-mail accounts from the site and resume posting.

Windy Hall, owner of the CFF and the Future Online, said the site's redesign was needed to keep students interested in the Future.

"It was too conventional," Hall said of the old site. "We wanted to get away from just being a newspaper online and make it more of a hub site a college student would want to go and visit."

"It's our attempt to be more responsive to what's new," Hall said.

Page 6

Nicole King
News Editor

One of eight College of Health and Public Affairs grants awarded last year went to a UCF nurse who has been studying the differences in family dynamics between Scandinavia and United States. Dr. Ermalynn Kiehl is an assistant professor in UCF's School of Nursing. In 1992, she began her study with 147 families in America, Sweden and Norway. She focused specifically on the changes within the families upon the arrival of a new baby. The survey began while the mothers were pregnant and ended six weeks after the babies' births.

Her survey questions ranged from the mothers' confidence in their mothering skills to individualism within the family.

"Research questions ranged from the mothers' confidence to individualism within the family."

Sufficient evidence found to the absence of fairness and due process.

Page 8

Nancy Wilson
Staff Writer

UCF Administration overturned the Student Judicial Council's decision to sustain the disqualification of Darin Patton and Andrew Cupicha as student body president and vice president. The appeal was granted on April 7.

Dr. Garth Jenkins, director of Student Judicial Programs, reviewed the information included in the appeal documents. Jenkins found sufficient evidence of the absence of fairness and the denial of due process to render the decision of the Student Judicial Council seriously flawed.

The Election Commission meeting on March 8 for the disqualification of the ticket broke Florida State Statutes. The members of the Commission did not physically convene to deliberate as a body on the issues and subsequently take a collective vote. A telephone poll of the members does not meet the requirements of official meetings of a student government agency.

Conflicts of interest raised questions and could have produced bias with the Chief Election Commissioner, Cheryl Fox, and Justices Reginald Thomas and Jessica Mock. There is sufficient evidence found to the absence of fairness and due process.

Page 8

SHELLEY WILSON
STAFF WRITER

UCF Administration overturned the Student Judicial Council’s decision to sustain the disqualification of Darin Patton and Andrew Cupicha as student body president and vice president. The appeal was granted on April 7.

Dr. Garth Jenkins, director of Student Judicial Programs, reviewed the information included in the appeal documents. Jenkins found sufficient evidence of the absence of fairness and the denial of due process to render the decision of the Student Judicial Council seriously flawed.

The Election Commission meeting on March 8 for the disqualification of the ticket broke Florida State Statutes. The members of the Commission did not physically convene to deliberate as a body on the issues and subsequently take a collective vote. A telephone poll of the members does not meet the requirements of official meetings of a student government agency.

Conflicts of interest raised questions and could have produced bias with the Chief Election Commissioner, Cheryl Fox, and Justices Reginald Thomas and Jessica Mock. There is sufficient evidence found to the absence of fairness and due process.

Page 8

Jeff Case
Staff Writer

The Central Florida Future's website has gotten a facelift and it seems UCF students will benefit the most from its new design. The website, www.ucfuture.com, has added several features in its redesign, including access to Pegasus e-mail accounts from the site and resume posting.

Windy Hall, owner of the CFF and the Future Online, said the site's redesign was needed to keep students interested in the Future.

"It was too conventional," Hall said of the old site. "We wanted to get away from just being a newspaper online and make it more of a hub site a college student would want to go and visit."

"It's our attempt to be more responsive to what's new," Hall said.

Page 6

Nicole King
News Editor

One of eight College of Health and Public Affairs grants awarded last year went to a UCF nurse who has been studying the differences in family dynamics between Scandinavia and United States. Dr. Ermalynn Kiehl is an assistant professor in UCF's School of Nursing. In 1992, she began her study with 147 families in America, Sweden and Norway. She focused specifically on the changes within the families upon the arrival of a new baby. The survey began while the mothers were pregnant and ended six weeks after the babies' births.

Her survey questions ranged from the mothers' confidence in their mothering skills to individualism within the family.

"Research questions ranged from the mothers' confidence to individualism within the family."

Page 4

Follow the leader
Students picked for Leadership Council.
—Page 2

Silent Bob speaks
A late night chat with Kevin Smith.
—Page 19

Stuck in gear
Movie Go isn't all as great as expected.
—Page 16
Leadership Council chosen for next year will work with Hitt

BETH SHAW
STAFF WRITER

The members of the 1999-2000 President's Leadership Council (PLC) were recently named. The council's 22 members will act as ambassadors for the university. Team members are chosen based on their scholarship, leadership and general knowledge of the university.

"This allows great leadership training for the students," said Karen Breakey, director of constituent relations and faculty advisor to the PLC.

The PLC serves the university by hosting community leaders, prospective students and their families, prospective faculty and donors. The council also hosts the press box at football games and the freshmen scholars' convocation.

The PLC has a retreat in the fall and in the summer. They offer training for council members that include lessons in problem solving and teamwork. The skills honed during the retreats help council members better serve the PLC.

The PLC is a leadership honorary association. To be a member of the PLC, students must have at least a 3.0 grade point average and have earned at least 60 credit hours. The members of the PLC are required to obtain at least 50 service hours.

Chairman Matt Doan said being part of the PLC is worth the hard work.

"I was looking for a way to help give back to the university. It looks nice, but it's more of a service to the university," he said.

"PLC has been a great experience for me. I've expanded my communication skills."

Tartan day at UCF

Players from the Scottish Claymore's NFL Europe League team visited UCF and its School of Optics on April 2. Left, UCF Optics Professor David Hagan shows Wide Receiver Scott Cooper one of the many lasers in the CREOL building at UCF.

SPECIAL TO THE FUTURE

Now Leasing for Summer '99

Colleges
SUITES
AT ALAFAYA CLUB
BRAND NEW

Fully Furnished Apartments With The Works! Individual 3 and 4 Bedroom Leases Available

Every Suite Offers:
• Private Baths
• Walk-in Closets
• Additional Phone Lines
• For Internet Access
• Ceiling Fans
• Full-Size Washer/Dryer
• Microwave
• Automatic Dishwasher
• Self-Cleaning Oven
• And Much, Much More!

Spin the Wheel in April . . .

Our Community Features:
• Convenient Location
  (less than one mile from UCF)
• Well-lighted, Gated Community
• Picturesque Boardwalk & Nature Trail
• State-of-the-Art Fitness Facility (with Free Weights)
• Basketball and Volleyball Courts
• Swimming Pool With Designer Deck
• Resident Business Center Complete w/Computer, Copier, & Fax

Luxury Student Living At Its Finest

College Suites
3100 Alafaya Club Drive • Orlando, Florida 32817
Toll Free: (877) 482-9990 Local: (407) 482-9990

Include Utilities and Local Phone Service
Business course to include other Florida universities

JAMES COMBS
SPORT WRITER

An unusual UCF business course, which has generated millions in sales for local companies, is expanding to include students from other state universities.

A $60,000 Enterprise Florida grant will add the University of Tampa, University of Florida and Florida Atlantic University students to the “IB-2000 Program”, or “International Business-2000 Program”. A total of 28 seniors and graduate students—including 10 UCF students—will represent more than 20 Florida firms in 11 overseas markets in May and June.

UCF students will work in Argentina, Mexico, China, South Korea and the Czech Republic, said UCF business professor Robert Taft. Students from the other state colleges will work in Spain, Poland, Chile, Venezuela and Vietnam.

The program allows students to work in teams of two while spending one semester working on an export strategy for local companies. The student representatives later spend five weeks in the target country visiting potential business partners.

UCF students will represent five companies: Summit Engineering, Lantec, Schwartz Electro-Optics, Dearborn Electronics and Nephron Pharmaceuticals. Each company will pay $3,000 to cover student expenses.

“Talent this will benefit our students because it will give them something impressive to put on their resumes,” Taft said. “It benefits the companies because it’s like they’re doing business overseas without having to leave the country.”

Jim Sherry, president of Dearborn Electronics, echoed Taft’s sentiments.

“This is very effective for a small company like Dearborn because it allows us to dip our toes in export waters without spending big bucks.”

Last year, UCF students worked in eight countries and generated $30 million in projected sales.

Bill Schwartz, president of Schwartz Electro-Optics in Orlando, said, “I know that these kids work extremely hard and there’s no question that we benefited from the program. It was money well spent.”

Colleges outside Florida have already expressed interest in joining the “IB-2000” Program. Taft said that two students from the first classes already have high profile, internationally focused jobs that they attribute to their experience with the course.

The “IB-2000” Program is six credits and lasts through the spring and summer semesters.
'Real' stories affect researcher more

FROM PAGE 1

She completed a second survey in 1993 to update her findings.

Despite all of the hard work put into the surveys, Kiehl said it is the "mushy" stuff that gets her every time.

"I like the stories they tell about their families," she said. "The warm, fuzzy stuff. The parts they tell me of their family interaction that are free from their heart, rather than from a survey."

Kiehl said her biggest surprise came from the fact that most of the mothers in the survey were adapted to motherhood by the time their babies reached 8 weeks of age. Kiehl said she expected the mothers who went back to work sooner to not adapt as quickly as those who stayed home for longer periods.

The biggest difference between America and Scandinavian countries, according to Kiehl, is that culturally, those countries recognize the important periods in a person's life more readily than America.

After World War II, most of the governments in Scandinavia were restructured and definitive steps were taken to ensure the welfare of their citizens. For example, healthcare in Sweden is guaranteed to all citizens. Also, expectant mothers in Sweden can expect to receive an average of 12 months of paid maternity leave, while American mothers-to-be receive usually 6 to 8 weeks without pay.

Also, there are differences in focus as well. "Their teachers make as much [in salary] as their physicians," she said. "That sends a message."

Kiehl said she believes American society should offer more parenting classes on topics such as teaching kids responsibility and acceptance of consequences. She said that if she had her own three children to raise over again, she would handle them differently.

"I'm not saying I wouldn't ever spank my kid," she said, "but I would do major discipline different."

"For starters, I would have my children at a birthing center or in a hospital with a certified nurse-midwife and a physician on call."

Kiehl said birthing practices are starkly different in the countries she studied than in America.

"They never orchestrate a birth for a woman. Fetal heart monitors are only used on mothers who exhibit high risk characteristics and their infant mortality rate is significantly lower than ours."

She visited Scandinavia last summer and noticed parenting differences once again. Kiehl said that as good as it sounds, Scandinavia is not to be considered a paradise either.

For example, healthcare in Sweden is guaranteed to all citizens. Also, expectant mothers in Sweden can expect to receive an average of 12 months of paid maternity leave, while American mothers-to-be receive usually 6 to 8 weeks without pay.

Also, there are differences in focus as well. "Their teachers make as much [in salary] as their physicians," she said. "That sends a message."

Kiehl said she believes American society should offer more parenting classes on topics such as teaching kids responsibility and acceptance of consequences. She said that if she had her own three children to raise over again, she would handle them differently.

"I'm not saying I wouldn't ever spank my kid," she said, "but I would do major discipline different."

"For starters, I would have my children at a birthing center or in a hospital with a certified nurse-midwife and a physician on call."

Kiehl said birthing practices are starkly different in the countries she studied than in America.

"They never orchestrate a birth for a woman. Fetal heart monitors are only used on mothers who exhibit high risk characteristics and their infant mortality rate is significantly lower than ours."

She visited Scandinavia last summer and noticed parenting differences once again. Kiehl said that as good as it sounds, Scandinavia is not to be considered a paradise either.

Kiehl said some of the scenes she witnessed in the countries she visited shocked her. In Iceland, Kiehl visited a department store and was shocked at the shopping habits of Icelandic mothers.

"There were baby buggies parked on the street outside the department stores. Over there, they strap them in, give them toys and something to munch on and they stay where they are while the parents shop. People don't steal other people's children there."

Kiehl said that as good as it sounds, Scandinavia is not to be considered a paradise either.

She said she continue to do so until "I'm dead or the kids are grown, whichever comes first."

She is also planning a trip back to Scandinavia next September to collabo-rate with colleagues at the University of Oslo and the University of Lund to develop a manuscript based on the findings of her research.

"It is very costly to live there," she said. "The taxes are much higher. And they smoke too much. A lot of the youth over theresmokes."

As for her future plans, Kiehl said she will continue to check in with the families of her surveys every five years.

Larry and Ermalynn Kiehl pose with Dr. Anne-Karin Dykes and her husband Geoff from the University of Lund in Sweden.

"Real" stories affect researcher more

"My biggest surprise came from the fact that most of the mothers in the survey were adapted to motherhood by the time their babies reached eight weeks of age. Kiehl said she expected the mothers who went back to work sooner to not adapt as quickly as those who stayed home for longer periods.

The biggest difference between America and Scandinavian countries, according to Kiehl, is that culturally, those countries recognize the important periods in a person's life more readily than America.

After World War II, most of the governments in Scandinavia were restructured and definitive steps were taken to ensure the welfare of their citizens. For example, healthcare in Sweden is guaranteed to all citizens. Also, expectant mothers in Sweden can expect to receive an average of 12 months of paid maternity leave, while American mothers-to-be receive usually 6 to 8 weeks without pay.

Also, there are differences in focus as well. "Their teachers make as much [in salary] as their physicians," she said. "That sends a message."

Kiehl said she believes American society should offer more parenting classes on topics such as teaching kids responsibility and acceptance of consequences. She said that if she had her own three children to raise over again, she would handle them differently.

"I'm not saying I wouldn't ever spank my kid," she said, "but I would do major discipline different."

"For starters, I would have my children at a birthing center or in a hospital with a certified nurse-midwife and a physician on call."

Kiehl said birthing practices are starkly different in the countries she studied than in America.

"They never orchestrate a birth for a woman. Fetal heart monitors are only used on mothers who exhibit high risk characteristics and their infant mortality rate is significantly lower than ours."

She visited Scandinavia last summer and noticed parenting differences once again. Kiehl said that as good as it sounds, Scandinavia is not to be considered a paradise either.

For example, healthcare in Sweden is guaranteed to all citizens. Also, expectant mothers in Sweden can expect to receive an average of 12 months of paid maternity leave, while American mothers-to-be receive usually 6 to 8 weeks without pay.

Also, there are differences in focus as well. "Their teachers make as much [in salary] as their physicians," she said. "That sends a message."

Kiehl said she believes American society should offer more parenting classes on topics such as teaching kids responsibility and acceptance of consequences. She said that if she had her own three children to raise over again, she would handle them differently.

"I'm not saying I wouldn't ever spank my kid," she said, "but I would do major discipline different."

"For starters, I would have my children at a birthing center or in a hospital with a certified nurse-midwife and a physician on call."

Kiehl said birthing practices are starkly different in the countries she studied than in America.

"They never orchestrate a birth for a woman. Fetal heart monitors are only used on mothers who exhibit high risk characteristics and their infant mortality rate is significantly lower than ours."

She visited Scandinavia last summer and noticed parenting differences once again. Kiehl said that as good as it sounds, Scandinavia is not to be considered a paradise either.

Kiehl said some of the scenes she witnessed in the countries she visited shocked her. In Iceland, Kiehl visited a department store and was shocked at the shopping habits of Icelandic mothers.

"There were baby buggies parked on the street outside the department stores. Over there, they strap them in, give them toys and something to munch on and they stay where they are while the parents shop. People don't steal other people's children there."

Kiehl said that as good as it sounds, Scandinavia is not to be considered a paradise either.

She said she continue to do so until "I'm dead or the kids are grown, whichever comes first."

She is also planning a trip back to Scandinavia next September to collabo-rate with colleagues at the University of Oslo and the University of Lund to develop a manuscript based on the findings of her research.
April 14, 1999

www.UCFfuture.com

Central Florida Future • 5

Pressures from tests and college life may affect mental health

TODD McFLICKER
STAFF WRITER

Alyson was an energetic and popular young lady. Talented in the performing arts, she was also interested in swimming, tennis, writing, art, and enjoyed dancing. After completing high school in Ocala, Alyson moved to Orlando to attend UCF. She completed her first year at school with success.

Alyson had plenty of fun partying with her new “cool” college crowd. They all abused alcohol and drugs. Alyson considered her new activities part of growing up in the college experience. However, Alyson began to disregard those who cared for her, such as family members. Apparently, all the fish that lay in dirty water die; Alyson and her friends had her hypnotized. She had fun partying like a rock star until she had her first mental breakdown.

For the next 18 months, Alyson’s diagnosis changed with the drugs she took. She swallowed pills to combat schizophrenia, and even more to fight off manic-depression. During the same period of time, Alyson tried a variety of physical treatments: insulin, megadose-vitamin, Marxism, and gas therapy to name a few. Yet, there seemed to be no substance that put her mind at ease.

Alyson attempted all kinds of psychological treatments: group therapy, family therapy, Gestalt therapy, psychodynamically-oriented psychotherapy, post-oriented therapy, art therapy, behavioral and vocational rehab treatments, for the last year and a half Alyson’s life was one big square dance between psychologists, psychiatrists, therapists, and a whole slew of other mental help professionals.

Looking back at Alyson’s case, it now seems that a breakdown was likely, even inevitable. However, no one suspected it until it was too late.

Alyson’s case is an extreme one, but according to the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH), over half of the population will experience at least one serious mental disorder at some point in their life time. Thirty percent of the population will undergo a significant mental problem, such as depression and anxiety. The most common mental orders is depression, occurring ten million people a year. However, the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) claims that only one in ten cases receives adequate treatment.

The problem is that most college students are quite hesitant about seeing mental health professionals and actually taking psychotherapeutic drugs. People tend to have a fear of mental illness stigma and personality changes due to drug therapy.

Most students feel that they can pull themselves out of mental problems without seeking professional attention. However, according to Harvard Medical School psychiatrist John Ratey, “We can’t just stop doing something our brain compels us to do. We understand this when it comes to severe mental illnesses; we understand that the ill cannot just stop hallucinating because his friends and family want him to.” This principle applies to depression, anxiety, and obsessive behavior.

Fortunately, if you have any real problems, there is counseling services at UCF. If you feel anxious, depressed, confused, suicidal, lonely, angry, or are dealing with alcoholism, drug abuse, eating disorders, the loss of a loved one, relationship difficulties, low self-esteem, or poor grades, you should consider calling them. Everything remains confidential and is free to all UCF students.

The Counseling and Testing Center’s assistant director, Dr. Michael Burgan, said students should take advantage of the free services offered by the center.

“Our staff of counselors and psychologists is among the most caring and professional in the area. They truly listen to students and help the student make changes rather than telling them what to do. These therapists can also help the student look at things objectively, so that more solutions to their problems are presented.

“And confidentiality is guaranteed. What you say will not be repeated to anyone without your written permission.”

The Counseling Center’s phone number is 823-2811.

For more information, check out these websites: National Institute of Mental Health (http://www.mentalhealth.com/), General of Mental Health (http://www.carfax.co.uk/imh-ad.htm) and Internet Mental Health (http://www.mentalhealth.com/).
New website to feature free email, resumes

FROM PAGE 1

The CFF's new website debuted today and is noticeably different from the old version, which has existed since August of 1998. Among the new features added are:

- Free email through the Future Online (joesmith@ucffuture.com).
- Resume posting online and a job bank with full and part-time job opportunities.
- A new 'find a business' section, a service provided in partnership with the Orlando Sentinel, which offers discounts and maps to local businesses.
- Expanded classifieds, an improved forum section and a free emailing list, which provides updated campus news and contest information to subscribers.

Brian Linden, CFF Associate Publisher and Online editor, has directed the newspaper's online aspect since 1998. The CFF made its first online appearance as a partner with Digital City Orlando more than a year ago, Linden said, but problems with DCO made maintaining the website difficult.

"They [DCO] provided the graphics and HTML for that site, and I just handled updating it each week," Linden said. "We were limited with what we could do through them because it was through DCO's server. That meant anytime we changed the site, like adding a story, it had to first go through them."

Since then, the CFF moved to its own web domain, but stagnant design and confusing navigation at the site eventually led to its update.

UCF student Pablo Silva helped Linden with the redesign. Silva, who redesigned the website of his former college, the State University of New York-Plattsburgh.

"I just love the idea of people being able to see my work on the web because it's there 24-7, for the whole world and better yet, for free. I just want to keep designing web sites."

Silva, a junior journalism major, handled the graphics and page design while Linden wrote the HTML and CGI scripts, which run several site aspects including the forum, emailing, classifieds, and online story posting. "Pablo's navigation bar and graphics went above and beyond what I had ever anticipated when we first sat down to plan a new look," Linden said. "His work on the graphics took a huge load off my shoulders that freed me up to improve the functionality of the new site."

The two hope to continue improvements on the site, but are waiting for students to voice suggestions to them.

"I've tried to implement every improvement I've thought of or wished for over the past year," Linden said. "We're looking forward to the response to our new ideas and hope the new added areas are received well."

New features at UCFFuture.com:
- Free email
- Check your Pegasus email
- Resumes online
- Part-time and full-time job bank
- Post your opinions on story pages
- Local business discounts
- Business maps and directions
- Improved archive searching of stories
- Mailing list for top news and contests

News writers needed
Paid positions!

Email editor@ucffuture.com

Northgate Lakes
APARTMENTS

Where UCF students want to be!

- 3 and 4 bedroom apartments
- Fully furnished, including full size washer and dryer
- Private bathrooms in every bedroom are available
- Individual Leases
- Onsite volleyball court, 2 fitness centers, 2 swimming pools, 2 clubhouses, computer lab, and so much more
- Rent includes: furniture, electricity, cable & HBO, monitored alarms, water, sewer, pest control and use of all of our facilities
- Assigned parking spaces

Located on McCulloch Road just outside the new UCF North Gate!
For More Info Call: 366-7474
visit our website at: www.royalproperties.com

CHOOSE THE BEST
JEFFERSON COMMONS

BRING THIS IN TO RECEIVE A $100 DISCOUNT OFF YOUR SECURITY DEPOSIT!!

RESERVE YOUR BRAND NEW APARTMENT TODAY!!

Fully Furnished Apartment Community Featuring
- Reserved Carports (optional)
- Controlled Access Gates
- State of the Art Movie Theater
- Resort Style Pool Plaza and Jacuzzi
- And more...!!

CALL (407) 382-4114 FOR MORE INFORMATION. OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE.

"SIGN YOUR LEASE TODAY AND REGISTER TO WIN A 27" TV!"
Student trades in skates for books

TODD McFLICKER
STAFF WRITER

UCF student Honey Lynn Bagley passed up professional skating for college. Bagley, a sophomore English major, started her career in skating when she was 9. She had just moved to St. Louis, and skating was common as a recreational sport in Missouri.

"I remember going skating with some friends. From the first day, I fell in love with it," Bagley said. "I was snowballed from there."

By the time she was 10, Bagley was receiving private lessons every day and began competing in local St. Louis performances.

From St. Louis, Bagley advanced to bigger competitions. When she was in her early teens, Bagley would practice for three hours before school, and after a full day of classes, she would go to the gym to work out. Bagley would then go skating after dinner. If she had any energy left over, she would start her homework. This was her routine every day. But it was during the same time that she really started to see progress in her skating.

She matured in the sport over the next two years and participated in more competitions.

Although skating in competitions was tough, Bagley always had her parents for support. "What is the worst that can happen?" Bagley's mother would ask her when she was nervous or not performing well in a competition.

She was a senior in high school when she tried out for Walt Disney's World on Ice.

"I made it, which was exciting, but I decided to go to school instead," Bagley said. "Everyone said that I was passing up such a great opportunity to see the world. But if anyone knows anything about a skater's life, that's not how it is."

She had decided to hang up her skates after 10 years. She also did not like the "politics" of the sport. Bagley opted for high school parties, getting a car and just having fun.

"There are only three skaters that make it to the Olympics," Bagley said. "So you do the math. A skater's odds are not very good."

Her parents stood behind her in her decision to come to college in Orlando.

"It just isn't worth the fact that I would have to leave my family, my friends, and my boyfriend, Jeremy, of five years. He was a big factor in that decision."

"I would have had to sacrifice too much, and I was sick of putting my body through hell," Bagley said. In her experiences, she received two concussions, a cracked wrist and a fractured tailbone.

Bagley's peers and teachers admire her for her decision.

"I have admired Lynn in her hard work and determination to reach her goals. When it came to decision-making, I would bring to the table all of the pros and cons, leaving the choices to her," said UCF civil engineering major David Webb, Jr.

"As long as she brings the same level of desire to her writing that one needs to compete for a gold medal, she's doing the right thing," said English Professor Michael McCleod.

Despite her confidence in her decision, Bagley said she occasionally experiences some regrets. "Sometimes, I can't even think about all of my decisions in my life. But, I know that I would have had to give up too much. Even skating could not be worth my family, friends, and education."

FOR LIFEGUARDS, OUR NEW PAY RATE'S SURE TO MAKE A SPLASH

The WALT DISNEY WORLD® Resort is making waves with our new pay starting at $6.30 per hour. That means not only can you make friends, make magic and make a difference, you'll also make incredible pay!

We're looking for full-time, part-time and seasonal lifeguards to jump into the fun in our exciting water parks, fun-filled pools and action-packed lakes and lagoons. Visit our Lifeguard Job Fairs on April 10th and 17th from 8:30 am to 2:00 pm and find out about our great benefits, paid lifeguard certification fees, flexible schedules, free Park admission, merchandise discounts and much more. So, join our ever-growing Sports and Recreation team!

Just drop by the Disney Casting Center, or call us at 407-887-1000 and press one. Also hiring for other exciting roles in our Theme Parks, Resorts and Water Parks.

407.828.1000
JOBLINE

Discover a World of Opportunities at Disney.

This week's schedule: Walk-in's welcome: Mon-Sat starting at 8am. Jobline Hours: Mon-Fri, 8am-8pm; Sat-Sun, 8am-4pm

Discover a World of Opportunities at Disney.
Jenkins’ memo: SG procedures not followed

FROM PAGE 1

Commission voted 7-0 at the meeting to disqualify Patton/Cupicha for the same fine, but was only held to clear the university for breaking the law.

Jenkins also addressed this issue in his memorandum.

"While there are measures being taken to remedy and cure this significant defect in the conduct of student government affairs, the damage already has been done," the memo said. "There can be no assurances at this writing as to the results of this meeting of the Commission.

Failure of the chief election commissioner to adhere to the requirements of applicable Florida Statutes as previously and repeatedly directed by the university’s general counsel and other university officers to the Student Government leadership subjects her and perhaps the university itself to severe consequences under the laws of the State of Florida. The forthcoming cure and remedy only will assist to bring student government and the university in compliance with Florida Statutes in the event of later legal challenge."

While making the decision, Jenkins said he carefully reviewed documents in the appeal and studied each in great detail. The appeal was based on violations of “rights to a fair hearing or due process” and not “based on a substantive decision” of the Council. One of the issues that was substantive and not a factor in this decision was whether or not Saturday is a school day when determining the due date of a fine.

Decisions such as these are rare for the administration. However, Jenkins said it is one that needed to be made in this case. "This decision is not made lightly, but rather with full understanding of its serious and important implications," he said in the memo. "I regret very much that the outcome of elections by the students of this university must be decided by the university administration in this instance.

"An important component of the education process is that students take responsibility for self-governance as has been permitted by the university. The failure of some student leaders as noted above to responsibly conduct themselves with the high level of integrity expected, however, provides the forum for the university to correct deficiencies in fairness, as given the opportunity by the SGA Statutes through this appeal by the Patton/Cupicha ticket."

Patton and Cupicha, through their ticket, said the appeal symbolized fairness, and they dedicated it to the students that believed in it.

"Our fight is not for the positions, it is a fight for principles that we believe dictate the actions of truly honorable men," they said. "We have fought for the best interests of the students. In turn, they fought for us by electing us in a majority decision. We have been put in a situation where we must fight for them and we will continue to do so."
Student arrested for fake IDs, DUI

A UCF student was arrested on March 12 on charges of possession of an altered driver’s license and driving under the influence.

According to police reports, Michael Arthur Alvarez, 20, was stopped after failing to stop at a stop sign. The officer noticed a smell of alcohol and marijuana emanating from the car. The report states that Alvarez was also in possession of two driver’s licenses with altered birthdays and license numbers.

Alvarez was arrested and taken to an Orange County D.U.I. facility where a breath test showed a .024 blood alcohol content.

IN OTHER POLICE REPORTS:

• A UCF student was arrested on March 25 on charges of stalking.
• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 1 on charges of driving with a suspended license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on University Blvd. for having his front headlight out.
• A student was arrested for fake IDs, driving under the influence, and resisting arrest without violence.

According to police reports, Jason Mike Hattaway, 26, was driving 45 mph in a 20 mph zone in Greek Park. The officer also stated that he heard music coming from the Jeep when 500-600 feet away.

The report states that when Hattaway was pulled over in the Pi Kappa Alpha parking lot, he immediately got out of his vehicle. The officer noticed a moderate smell of alcohol on Hattaway. Hattaway refused to take a breath or urine test to determine his blood alcohol content.

• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 20 on charges of driving with a suspended driver’s license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on March 6 on charges of driving under the influence.

According to police reports, Jason Mike Hattaway, 26, was driving 45 mph in a 20 mph zone in Greek Park. The officer also stated that he heard music coming from the Jeep when 500-600 feet away.

The report states that when Hattaway was pulled over in the Pi Kappa Alpha parking lot, he immediately got out of his vehicle. The officer noticed a moderate smell of alcohol on Hattaway. Hattaway refused to take a breath or urine test to determine his blood alcohol content.

• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 1 on charges of driving with a suspended license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on University Blvd. for having his front headlight out.
• A student was arrested for fake IDs, driving under the influence, and resisting arrest without violence.

According to police reports, Jason Mike Hattaway, 26, was driving 45 mph in a 20 mph zone in Greek Park. The officer also stated that he heard music coming from the Jeep when 500-600 feet away.

The report states that when Hattaway was pulled over in the Pi Kappa Alpha parking lot, he immediately got out of his vehicle. The officer noticed a moderate smell of alcohol on Hattaway. Hattaway refused to take a breath or urine test to determine his blood alcohol content.

• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 20 on charges of driving with a suspended driver’s license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on March 6 on charges of driving under the influence.

According to police reports, Jason Mike Hattaway, 26, was driving 45 mph in a 20 mph zone in Greek Park. The officer also stated that he heard music coming from the Jeep when 500-600 feet away.

The report states that when Hattaway was pulled over in the Pi Kappa Alpha parking lot, he immediately got out of his vehicle. The officer noticed a moderate smell of alcohol on Hattaway. Hattaway refused to take a breath or urine test to determine his blood alcohol content.

• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 1 on charges of driving with a suspended license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on University Blvd. for having his front headlight out.
• A student was arrested for fake IDs, driving under the influence, and resisting arrest without violence.

According to police reports, Jason Mike Hattaway, 26, was driving 45 mph in a 20 mph zone in Greek Park. The officer also stated that he heard music coming from the Jeep when 500-600 feet away.

The report states that when Hattaway was pulled over in the Pi Kappa Alpha parking lot, he immediately got out of his vehicle. The officer noticed a moderate smell of alcohol on Hattaway. Hattaway refused to take a breath or urine test to determine his blood alcohol content.

• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 20 on charges of driving with a suspended driver’s license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on March 6 on charges of driving under the influence.

According to police reports, Jason Mike Hattaway, 26, was driving 45 mph in a 20 mph zone in Greek Park. The officer also stated that he heard music coming from the Jeep when 500-600 feet away.

The report states that when Hattaway was pulled over in the Pi Kappa Alpha parking lot, he immediately got out of his vehicle. The officer noticed a moderate smell of alcohol on Hattaway. Hattaway refused to take a breath or urine test to determine his blood alcohol content.

• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 1 on charges of driving with a suspended license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on University Blvd. for having his front headlight out.
• A student was arrested for fake IDs, driving under the influence, and resisting arrest without violence.

According to police reports, Jason Mike Hattaway, 26, was driving 45 mph in a 20 mph zone in Greek Park. The officer also stated that he heard music coming from the Jeep when 500-600 feet away.

The report states that when Hattaway was pulled over in the Pi Kappa Alpha parking lot, he immediately got out of his vehicle. The officer noticed a moderate smell of alcohol on Hattaway. Hattaway refused to take a breath or urine test to determine his blood alcohol content.

• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 20 on charges of driving with a suspended driver’s license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on March 6 on charges of driving under the influence.

According to police reports, Jason Mike Hattaway, 26, was driving 45 mph in a 20 mph zone in Greek Park. The officer also stated that he heard music coming from the Jeep when 500-600 feet away.

The report states that when Hattaway was pulled over in the Pi Kappa Alpha parking lot, he immediately got out of his vehicle. The officer noticed a moderate smell of alcohol on Hattaway. Hattaway refused to take a breath or urine test to determine his blood alcohol content.

• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 1 on charges of driving with a suspended license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on University Blvd. for having his front headlight out.
• A student was arrested for fake IDs, driving under the influence, and resisting arrest without violence.

According to police reports, Jason Mike Hattaway, 26, was driving 45 mph in a 20 mph zone in Greek Park. The officer also stated that he heard music coming from the Jeep when 500-600 feet away.

The report states that when Hattaway was pulled over in the Pi Kappa Alpha parking lot, he immediately got out of his vehicle. The officer noticed a moderate smell of alcohol on Hattaway. Hattaway refused to take a breath or urine test to determine his blood alcohol content.

• An Orlando woman was arrested on March 20 on charges of driving with a suspended driver’s license and resisting arrest without violence.
• A Merritt Island man was arrested on March 6 on charges of driving under the influence.
GAINESVILLE - Faced with suspension, campus and allegations that one of its members sexually battered a 27-year-old stripper, the Delta Chi fraternity chapter at the University of Florida has agreed to let a video of the alleged incident be shown at a school judicial board hearing that will be open to the public.

"We're going to try to have it shown," Dean of Students Julie Sina told the Independent Alligator after meeting with national and local Delta Chi officials and other university administrators on Feb. 27. "This is something I think should not be covered up."

Delta Chi recently was suspended from campus, hours after Gainesville resident Lisa Gier King filed a sexual battery claim that police later deemed false.

Despite investigators' conclusion, Sina and other university officials said actions caught on the videotape still warranted the suspension. The chapter is suspended at least until the judicial board hearing, which is scheduled for March 16.

King, hired as one of two strippers for an unregistered Delta Chi party, reported to campus police that a Delta Chi member sexually assaulted her.

But after UPD officials viewed the tape, filmed by a Delta Chi member who was watching the stripper and the accused member, they found it clearly shows willful, consensual sexual intercourse between King and the fraternity member, whose identity is not being released.

"From all of the evidence gathered, Mrs. King falsified a police report," UPD spokesman Stacy Badics told the Alligator.

King was arrested Monday morning on a misdemeanore charge of filing a false claim, and she was released from the county jail after posting $100 of a $1,000 bond.

But King, who has no criminal history in Alachua County, told the Alligator that she stands by her story. She also insists that the battery was not caught on film.

The 5-foot-2, 125-pound married mother of two maintains she was sexually battered by one fraternity member while others in the room watched. King said someone in the house called police to warn them before the attack occurred, but when officers arrived, she was held down as house residents told police nothing was wrong. Once the officers left, the battering occurred, King said, explaining that when it was over, she ran to the Theta Chi house next door to call for help. She later was taken to a hospital where she was treated and released.

Badics would not disclose whether campus investigators had spoken with the doctors who examined King or whether campus police records indicate that officers went to the Delta Chi house as King claimed.

King said the videotape may not show her resisting the sexual intercourse, but that authorities' contention that she lied is unfounded.

"I promised myself that I would initially try to fight it off, but if my life was threatened, I would let it go," King told the Alligator. "It's not worth dying for." Because of the raucous party, the fraternity has been charged with several violations of UF's Code of Student Conduct, and Delta Chi's national representatives are waiting until the hearing is over to decide what, if any, action to take, Sina said.

"TUCSON, Ariz. - What's a little property damage among friends?

One student at the University of Arizona recently told campus police that he wouldn't press charges against his tantrum-prone roommate as long as the roommate pays for all of the student's belongings that have been destroyed over the last few months.

The student called police to let them in on the situation Feb. 26 after the roommate decided to throw a chair around their dorm room.

According to police reports cited by the Daily Wildcat, the student also reported that his roommate threw his VCR out of a window in November. The student told police that afterwards his roommate said, "Do you want to watch a movie now?"

A resident assistant told police that the roommate had agreed to replace the student's VCR by Dec. 7. When the student asked about the replacement after the roommate missed that deadline, the roommate became angry and damaged the student's computer disks, clock radio and cassette tapes, police reports stated.

Police told the roommate he would be cited on suspicion of criminal damage if he did not follow through with his promise to replace the student's things.

CHICAGO - Some people don't know how to take "No" for an answer.

According to The Echo, a student at the University of Central Arkansas begged a professor to curve the grades of a recent exam so that he could wind up with a better score. The professor refused, but the student persisted.

The two battled for several minutes before the student lost his temper and hurled a string of obscenities at his instructor. Even after campus police arrived, the student continued to insult the professor and refused to leave.

Officers arrested and charged the student with disorderly conduct after he directed his insults at them, too. The student was released after having what the Echo referred to as a "nice, little chat" with the county sheriff.

Police at the University of Maryland handled a similar situation after a student wanting to have her grade changed on a final exam called her teaching assistant almost 50 times.

According to the Diamondback, campus officers' month-long investigation ended Feb. 23 when they arrested and charged student Theron Moorhead with harassment and telephone misuse.

Police said that between Jan. 15 and Feb. 22 Moorhead made about 50 calls to the TA, including one where she left a voice mail message saying, "Are you sleeping, you. God wants you to change my grade."

The TA, another school administrator and campus police officers ordered Moorhead to cease making the calls and to have no further contact with her instructor. Police arrested her when she visited the TA's office unannounced on Feb. 23.
DAYTONA BEACH — Long lines of traffic snaking out of town Sunday marked the end of a Black College Reunion that officials called a success despite violence that left one man dead and four law enforcement officers wounded, wasn't without trouble. The Daytona Beach police spokeswoman whose age was not available, was shot in the right hand outside the Copacabana Motel about 100 yards away.

Grover was rushed to Halifax Medical Center in Daytona Beach in critical condition. He died at 9:15 p.m., a nursing supervisor said.

The second man, Ansie Pierre, 24, of Miami, was in stable condition at Halifax.

Davis said officers were investigating whether the shootings were related.

Witneses said there was an argument between two men at the Sea Dip, and that others tried to break it up. The gunfire scattered the crowd in all directions, they said.

"It was just stupidness," said Ray Low, a deejay who had been performing at the Sea Dip earlier that night. "Just some guys who had been drinking all night, listening to thug music. We heard they were fighting over a girl. It was completely unnecessary. This just dampens the image (of Black College Reunion) for everyone."

Asher said he was told the argument began when one man threw a drink on another man's girlfriend, but Davis said police were not sure what triggered the shooting. No arrests had been made.

About 1 a.m. Sunday, a Daytona Beach woman was stabbed in the neck while the event was being held nearby Ormond Beach. Timothy Jordan, 21, of Birmingham, Ala., was in satisfactory condition at Halifax.

But Asher and police said there were few other serious problems besides the miles-long traffic jams that clogged main beach routes from Friday night through Sunday evening.

There were hundreds of arrests for mostly minor crimes, but violence was rare and the problems were not unlike those during spring break and Bike Week, they said.

"As much as I regret what took place, these are not going to take away from the good that happened this weekend," said Asher, who worked through the weekend to ease bad feelings caused by the city's attempt to close beach bridges and force participants to ride shuttles.

That plan was thrown out Thursday when a federal judge in Orlando, ruling on a lawsuit filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, declared it unconstitutional.

Some reunion-goers said the city's bus plan, and businesses that closed up shop for the weekend, made them feel unwelcome at the event held here every year since 1984.

But many of those who spent the weekend cruising beachside A1A to the sound of throbbing music or cajoling members of the opposite sex to pose for snapshots had praise for the event.

"It was a good one," said Erica Lewis, 25, of Jacksonville, who has attended the reunion since 1990. "People were being really respectful so that we can keep coming here."

Others complained of the heavy police presence and the more than 2,000 traffic tickets that were written, sometimes for minor offenses.

Even so, Quincy Jackson, a University of Alabama football player and senior, said the presence of officers on every block didn’t bother him.

"If you’re not doing anything wrong, you wouldn't be pulled over anyway," Jackson said. "The thing I really liked seeing was that a lot of black people could come together, have a fun time, without any fights brewing."

At the Desert Inn Resort Motel and Health Club, maintenance manager Tom Devlin said the crowd was "quieter than last year, well-behaved."

"It went well," Devlin said. "There were minimal damages like any other spring break."

On Sunday, crews were cleaning up trash along A1A as vendors packed up their tables of T-shirts, music and jewelry. The long lines of traffic, which packed A1A and main beach routes throughout the weekend, took most of the day to wind their way out of town.

Daytona Beach police reported about 330 arrests related to the reunion, mostly for minor offenses such as disorderly conduct or carrying an open container of alcohol. Sixteen of the arrests involved weapons.

Only 44 of those arrested are registered college students, Davis said.

---

Kick-Start Your Career

TONIGHT! -- April 14 -- 6 p.m.

SU, Garden Key, 221 A&B

Free!

Topic: Kick-Start Your Career as SAA and the UCF Alumni Association invite the Career Resource Center to speak on topics for your future such as Interviewing and Resume Writing. Dress for success and bring your resume. Professionals will be present to answer questions.

RSVP by April 12 to SAA by e-mail: ucsasa@pegasus.cc.ucf.edu or phone (407) 823-3453.

---

Black College Reunion called success despite violence

Roger Roy & Purvette Bryant

Knight-Rider

---

April 14, 1999

---

Central Florida Future • 11

---

www.UCFfuture.com
Proposed cost of FSU med school soars

MELANIE YEAGER
KNIGHT RIDDER

Projected start-up costs of a Florida State University medical school have soared to a new high of more than $220 million.

The new cost scenario, which was obtained by the Democrat on Friday, is contained in an ever-changing draft report prepared by FSU outlining costs for a possible third public medical school in Florida.

A bulk of the increase is in estimated capital cost — more than $173 million — that would go to Tallahassee Memorial Healthcare for two new buildings and improvements to handle the teaching of FSU’s medical students.

That’s a long way from the less than $30 million predicted by medical consultant a month ago. FSU this week also increased its anticipated operating costs to $31.2 million a year — up from less than $22 million.

But FSU President Sandy D’Alemberre said the latest FSU report covered things that “would be ideal, but not essential.”

“The issue comes back to what is essential for a medical school,” he said. “I cannot represent that doing all that is essential for a medical school.

D’Alemberre said $47 million for a new science building at FSU and $20 million for a family practice center at TMH would be enough to start a medical school.

“What is highly desirable is to improve the primary-care facility,” he said. “The rest of it is a list of items that can be done if the Legislature wants to do them.

However, CEO Danene Moore said TMH also has to prepare for the student load. Much of the capital cost will be needed even if FSU only expands its Program in Medical Sciences from 30 to 200 students.

Owning the largest city hospital, TMH is a key link to FSU’s plans for clinical training in all four years of its proposed medical school. FSU plans to contract with more than 150 of Tallahassee’s doctors — many TMH employees — to teach medical students.

TMH will need to expand its medical facility to offer the proper teaching support, Moore said. In addition to the $220 million-plus that the report suggests the state support, TMH will have to spend another $33.5 million, he said.

“We have submitted a list of capital needs that we need if this program moves forward, and the list is predicated on the desire to do it right the first time,” Moore said.

House Speaker John Thrasher, R-Orange Park, has led the push for a new medical school at FSU — despite opposition from Chancellor Adam Herbert and the Board of Regents. He has set aside $50 million for the school.

The new $220 million figure mirrors what FSU got from the state for its overall operations this entire school year. It is also at least $88 million more than the $131.9 million the State University System is seeking for construction at all state universities this legislative session.

FSU Provost Larry Abele admits the estimates are high, but he cautions that the capital cost models are still works in progress.

Currently there are two models. Model A tallies $238 million; Model B adds up to $221 million.

The difference lies in a second building TMH wants to build, with 200 beds, so that students will have enough training in obstetrics/gynecology and pediatrics, while freeing hospital space for more geriatric training, Abele said.

The building costs $60 million in one plan and $45 million in the other. It will cost less to build behind the hospital, on 84 acres TMH owns, Abele said.

Other estimated capital costs include a domino effect on the hospital. It starts with $3 million for teaching rooms on each hospital floor, then $25 million to replace bed space taken up by teaching rooms and converting some small semi-private rooms to private ones for teaching purposes.

Another $29 million would then be needed to replace medical services displaced by the conversions.

Further costs include:

• $8 million to equip new facilities.

• $25 million to expand the Cardiac Catheter Center.

• $12 million to expand emergency care.

• $4.3 million for primary-care clinics in Monticello, Madison and Tallahassee.

• $4 million to expand the radiology laboratory.

• $1.5 million for information technology.

• $1.5 million for the plant’s heating and cooling system.

• $7 million to expand the cancer center.

Abele said he expects the numbers to change again, with more than 25 days left in the legislative session.

“That’s a lifetime in the political process,” he said.

Thrasher, a graduate of FSU and its law school, has also recruited a powerful political team to help sell the proposal to Senate President Toni Jennings, R-Orlando, and Gov. Jeb Bush.

Thrasher and other legislators involved could not be reached for comment. Herbert also was not available Friday.

“We have not seen the proposal in terms of capital costs, nor have we been consulted on that,” said regents spokesman Keith Goldschmidt. He said Herbert made his decision to oppose the FSU medical school three weeks ago, after studying a consultant report on medical education in Florida.

“We’re not playing politics,” Goldschmidt said. “We’re playing policy.

Instead of a FSU medical school, Herbert recommended:

Funding a second year of FSU’s PIMS, which offers the first year of medical education, feeding into the University of Florida’s College of Medicine.

Adding other PIMS programs at several universities, including Florida A&M.

Increasing medical-school spots at Florida’s four medical schools by 30 percent.

Boosting residency training for medical school graduates.

The consultant team at MGT of America Inc. told regents that the estimated cost of establishing a new four-year medical school — including one year of operating costs for all 400 students — would be $185 million, far less than what TMH and FSU have on the table. FSU also expects to need $31.2 million a year for operation.

“The chancellor and the board have consistently said if there is a need, we must that need us efficiently as possible with the taxpayers’ money,” Regent Steve Uhlfelder said. He said numbers discussed by TMH and FSU “seem very high and expensive.”

Now it’s all up to lawmakers, regent Chairman Dennis Ross said.

“We would hope they put stock in the chancellor’s obviously well-thought-out decision, but ultimately that’s their decision,” he said.
Women's Fitness
KICKBOXING
- A better way to get in shape
- Total fitness & physique
- Great cardiovascular
- Stress reduction & lots of fun

As low as $3.45 a class
1 week free with sign up
NO CONTRACT

Women's Realistic
SELF-DEFENSE WORKSHOPS
Learn the most effective self-defense system with martial art Grandmaster and fully padded simulated attackers.

Martial Arts Masters Academy • 1246 E. Colonial Dr.
At Shine Ave. • 1 block from Mills Ave.
(407) 894-8844

Other Programs: KUNG FU, KARATE, KICKBOXING
AIKIDO, JUJITSU for MEN, WOMEN & KIDS

Submit your Letter to the Editor editor@ucffuture.com (407) 977-1009 (fax)

Opinion

Fight 'the man' but only if you can win

RANDON MOELLER
COLLEGE PRESS EXCHANGE

Last week I received a chain e-mail from a friend in Ohio. It is an attempt to get consumers to stop buying gasoline April 30th. It's
"The Great Gas Out."
"It's time we did something about the price of gasoline in America" the e-mail states. "We are all tired of high prices when there are literally millions of gallons in storage.
"Know what I found out? If there were just one day when no one purchased any gasoline, prices would drop drastically. The so-called oil cartel has decided to slow production by some 2 million barrels per day to drive up the price.
"I have decided to see how many Americans we can get to not buy any gasoline on one particular day! Let's have a gas out!
"Do not buy any gasoline April 30, 1999!
Buy gas the day before or after.
"Want to help? Send this message to everyone you know, ask them to do the same. All we need is a few million to participate in order to make a difference.
"When I first read this junk e-mail, I had no problem with it. So what?
Some schmuck out there on the Internet thinks he can change the world with a click of a button. Big deal. I've heard this one before.
It doesn't work — right?
But wait, it does. I remember MTV playing an old New Kids video because of a chain mail that made it around the Internet that asked readers to vote for the horrid video on a national level. Everyone bought into it.
"The democratic and often cheeky spirit of the Internet flashed itself again this week as a number of users, spurred on by a grass roots email campaign, vailed an 11-year-old song from '80s heartthrobs New Kids On the Block into MTV's Total Request Live countdown."
The song was played at the number two spot on the request show.

Should the government be afraid of this? The government is a control freak and the Internet does open up possibilities for the common person to relate his or her own political ideas to millions of people around the world.
Even though America is a democracy, we are not a true democracy, meaning that the American public does not vote on every single action that the government decides to take.
But the government is not the man here.
Then who is the man, Mine? That's a good question that is always hard to answer. You must look for the facts.

The cartel is the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. They're "the man." Who makes up this group? Not the United States.
OPEC controls more than 40 percent of the world's oil production, about the equivalent of the combined production of the United States,
Russia, and Saudi Arabia.
So if OPEC starts producing less gasoline (which they did), then the price of a gallon of gasoline is going to go up (the national average went up about 10 cents on the gallon). Simple cause-and-effect theory.
Does this mean we should start buying domestic gasoline? Many oil pumps in Texas are not operational because it is impossible to compete with OPEC, an organization that has a near-monopoly on gas. It has most of it. It can manipulate the market. Don't make these guys mad.
Fight the man, but don't give him any reason to fight you.

But if the price of gas goes up, will the non-operational Texas pumps begin churning away at the black gold again? We won't know until it happens. But if it does, it will dramatically affect Houston, which used to be known for Oilers.
What we do know is this — the Internet is a valuable resource for democracy. Who is the man and whether the fight is good for America or not is always hard to understand.
Then again, what do I care? I don't even drive.
Kosovo shows importance of presidential character

William Murchison

Oh, I see. Presidential character is secondary to presidential success. Hadn’t thought of it that way before, but such was the viewpoint impressed on us by the impeachment brawl.

Under Bill Clinton, the nation was at peace, the economy was booming. Surely, it was his business as Congress, how he used and protected his recreational time. The Senate, in essence, agreed, and Mr. Clinton went on to other things, like bombing the Serbs.

The character thing comes back to bite us. Suddenly, the president is making war, not love. People are dying in Kosovo because of the bombing and the refugee expulsions. Coming to a refugee center near you: Kosovars by the scores of thousands, with a firm claim on the help of those allies who promised to make them safe and instead helped make them homeless.

How many believe it is a policy and not a reflex action? How many believe it is a policy and not a reflex action? A policy has ends, objectives. When a national leader knows what he wants, he adopts the means necessary to that end. Our Serbian “policy” aims hazily at autonomy for Kosovo, but as we implement that policy, the Serbs are ruthlessly driving the Kosovars out of the country.

What is the matter? The matter, at least in part, is that the Clinton policy style - triangulating, splitting differences - is not what a national leader needs when the outlaws are banging away from Belgrade, perchance? Or Belgrade, perchance?

Presidential character is secondary all right - except when it becomes primary.

One concession to Mr. Clinton: The American people have no right to complain loudly that their president pulled a fast one on them. Did he sell us, in 1992, a pacifist pig in a militarist poke? Not so; not more than 99.999 percent of the time. He would come back triumphantly, with a full measure of self-righteousness and a large share of glory. No, nothing less than his people skills. Alas, people skills haven’t been of much service with the Millesevics.

Nor is that the only character issue here. The citizen - and, still more to the point, the enemy - must know the president will do what he says; icy and unswervingly. His inner stuff must be good. The schmoozer’s gifts are of no avail: small talk, an ability to empathize. Empathy, nothing! A national leader, at appropriate times, must strike terror in others’ hearts.

Bill Clinton’s soul - at least what can be seen of it through the White House windows - is the soul of a small-state governor. Yet here he is, presiding over human tragedy, a good share of which he helped precipitate. We need a tough guy - a George H.W. Bush. Under Bill Clinton, the nation was at peace, the economy was booming.

The schmoozer’s gifts are of no avail: small talk, an ability to empathize. Empathy, nothing! A national leader, at appropriate times, must strike terror in others’ hearts. Our Serbian “policy” aims hazily at autonomy for Kosovo, but as we implement that policy, the Serbs are ruthlessly driving the Kosovars out of the country.
 Didn’t score a 1600 on your SAT?

You can still get a scholarship by the seat of your pants.

Enter Duck Head’s Khakis for College Sweepstakes and you could win a Grand Prize of a $10,000 college scholarship, or that amount in cash. First prize is $500 worth of Duck Head khakis. Second prize is $250 worth of Duck Head Khakis for College from Duck Head. Proof that you don’t have to be smart to win a scholarship. Just lucky.

Q: What do you think of the cops on campus?

A: “Overall, I think that the police force here makes our campus safer, despite the huge ratio of cops to students.”

—Steven Costello, 20, sophomore, music education

“The only times I see them are at night. I think it is safe for them to be here but they seem to pull people over for unnecessary reasons.”

—Kristin Bowden, 19, freshman, nursing

“There are too many cops on campus.”

—George Palmer, 23, junior, accounting

“I hear that they are much more strict here than on other campuses.”

—Chris Evans, 18, freshman, undecided

“The police force is definitely necessary, but from prior runs, I’d say they really should lighten up and maybe give more warnings instead of tickets.”

—Jason Vail, 18, sophomore, undecided

“They give parking tickets to well-meaning students in areas where there’s not enough spaces.”

—Christie Fides, 19, freshman, mechanical engineering

“My roommate got pulled over for supposedly running a stop sign when leaving the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house. It turned out she didn’t run it, he was trying to get her for DUI and she hadn’t had a drink all night.”

—Erin Bagley, 21, junior, accounting

 CALL TODAY **
L.A. REAL ESTATE
(407) 679-2998
Sung and pretentious, over-confident and trendy, Go is a disappointing follow-up from Swingers director Doug Liman. The shadow of Pulp Fiction is cast throughout the movie, from the anthlogy-like act structure, to the humor-intended whimsy of the violence, to the quirky everyday conversations that Quentin Tarantino did so well. In this case, however, the style feels forced and stilted.

Like Fiction, the film follows one of three characters in their own 30-40 minute segment. The first, and most convincing, of these involves Ronna (Sarah Polley, whose performance is the highlight of the cast), a supermarket clerk who’s dragged into a drug dealing racket run by Todd (Timothy Olyphant). When she doesn’t have enough money to buy the ecstasy needed for the first, and most convincing, of Fiction’s drug dealings (which do no more to show drugs in a bad light than Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas or Half Baked), and a hit-and-run accident, we’re rushed into Act II.

This one follows Simon, a British co-worker of Ronna’s (and the original dealer that Ronna had to substitute for). He’s off to Vegas with his friends, and what follows are your typical misadventures (Wild Things was unleashed on an unsuspecting public). Even the best gag in this section, involving a car and a narrow alley, was done better in Austin Powers.

The third segment, complete with the most desperate tie-in to the others, is the tale of TV stars Zack (Jay Mohr, playing his second actor in two months, after 200 Cigarettes) and Adam (Scott Wolf). By agreeing to help in a drug bust with the rather creepy Burke (William Fichtner), their possession charges will be dropped. While there are a couple of bright spots in this piece (such as Fichtner’s complaint that none of the “Cops” shows ever perform an arrest correctly), this section is also the most disjointed and busy, going from one place to another with sole purpose of stuffing a couple more guffaws into the script. Meanwhile, the plot is stuck in neutral, with nowhere to go.

The major problem with Go isn’t the mimicking style. Instead, the characters are nothing more than vessels for plot twists. Consider Olyphant’s Todd. When he finds out that Ronna has returned some fake ecstasy, he’s a bit ticked off, and understandably so. Fast forward an hour into the movie, and he’s making out with Ronna’s friend Claire. Not so bad, until you remember that he’s already met Claire, knows that she’s a friend of Ronna’s, and he’s lacking proof that Claire wasn’t in on the rip-off. And yet Liman and second-time sriptwriter John August this debut was 1998’s God... not a typo, folks, there’s a one-letter difference in his titles) want us to believe that he would trust her. In between, there’s a groan-worthy argument between Holmes and Olyphant about Family Circus that is too identi-cal to the Quartet Pounder dialogue in Fiction, or even half of the self-conscious dialogue in the Scream series.

Go, at the very least, gets points for, partially breaking away from the rest of the teen genre’s offerings in ’99. Unfortunately for Liman and August, the situation they present is too reminiscent of other films for their work to succeed.

British co-worker of Ronna’s (and the original dealer that Ronna had to substitute for). He’s off to Vegas with his friends, and what follows are your typical misadventures (Wild Things was unleashed on an unsuspecting public). Even the best gag in this section, involving a car and a narrow alley, was done better in Austin Powers.

The third segment, complete with the most desperate tie-in to the others, is the tale of TV stars Zack (Jay Mohr, playing his second actor in two months, after 200 Cigarettes) and Adam (Scott Wolf). By agreeing to help in a drug bust with the rather creepy Burke (William Fichtner), their possession charges will be dropped. While there are a couple of bright spots in this piece (such as Fichtner’s complaint that none of the “Cops” shows ever perform an arrest correctly), this section is also the most disjointed and busy, going from one place to another with sole purpose of stuffing a couple more guffaws into the script. Meanwhile, the plot is stuck in neutral, with nowhere to go.

The major problem with Go isn’t the mimicking style. Instead, the characters are nothing more than vessels for plot twists. Consider Olyphant’s Todd. When he finds out that Ronna has returned some fake ecstasy, he’s a bit ticked off, and understandably so. Fast forward an hour into the movie, and he’s making out with Ronna’s friend Claire. Not so bad, until you remember that he’s already met Claire, knows that she’s a friend of Ronna’s, and he’s lacking proof that Claire wasn’t in on the rip-off. And yet Liman and second-time sriptwriter John August this debut was 1998’s God... not a typo, folks, there’s a one-letter difference in his titles) want us to believe that he would trust her. In between, there’s a groan-worthy argument between Holmes and Olyphant about Family Circus that is too identi-cal to the Quartet Pounder dialogue in Fiction, or even half of the self-conscious dialogue in the Scream series.

Go, at the very least, gets points for, partially breaking away from the rest of the teen genre’s offerings in ’99. Unfortunately for Liman and August, the situation they present is too reminiscent of other films for their work to succeed.
Goldie Hawn grows up — sort of

IAN SPPELLING
COLLEGE PRESS EXCHANGE

Goldie Hawn. Brightly colored tutus all over her body. Dancing in a cage and giggling like mad. There’s no forgetting that image.

Ask your parents. Check out a TV history book.

The year was 1968, the show "Laugh-In".

Now, at 53, Hawn remains one of our reigning queens of comedy, but she’s done "Private Benjamin" makes them different from the next person.

"She’s very different than I am, though. She’s a very powerful girl. She’s got a lot of dramatic ability. She has a wide, wide, wide range. Katie’s also an amazing, wonderful girl. I told her, ‘Your destiny is what your destiny is.’ Acting is her destiny. The only thing she has to do is make good choices, but the most important thing in her life, in anybody’s life, is ‘Learn to be the best person you can be, to be as happy as you can, not because of your work, but in spite of your work.’ That’s one reason why I’m so proud of her.”

The University of Central Florida Campus Activities Board

Presents...

Discoverer of the R.M.S. Titanic

Dr. Robert Ballard
UCF Student Center Auditorium
April 16, 1999
8:00pm
FREE ADMISSION

University of Central Florida
For more information call 823-6471

Funded by the activity and service fee as allocated by SGA
Chuck Shepherd's News of the World

Lead Stories

- England's Plymouth University announced in March that it will offer an "academically rigorous" bachelor's degree in surfing beginning in September. The degree will be known formally as Surf Science and Technology and will offer research opportunities in surfboard, wetsuit and surfing accessory design, and furnish to society not only surfers but also surfboard makers, shapers and retailers.

- Memo to New York City Mayor Giulian: In March, more than a thousand police officers in India completed an 10-day retreat at which they practiced traditional Vippasana meditation, with top officers leading the session as a way to prevent brutality on the job. Said one newly retired cop, "Today I bear no malice or ill will to any one." In addition to 12 daily hours of meditation and introspection, the retreat required total silence, no sex and a regimen of fruit and cereals.

- Still Rather Date With Her Than With Him: In February, a critic in the London, England, cloth shop restaurateur Sarah Kyrolis Amin, 42, the ex-wife of former Ugandan dictator (and, reportedly, sometimes-cannibal) Idi Amin, of several major health code violations in the eatery (named "S") that she owns. Authorities cited "heavy and active" cockroach and mouse infestation and "filth" throughout the kitchen and inside a refrigerator.

Mon-Car Relationships in Tennessee

In separate incidents over a 48-hour period in March, a running Spring Hill, Tenn., man fired about 90 rounds from an AK-47-point-blank into his car alongside a major highway after it died on him, and another man was turned down at the courthouse in Knoxville, Tenn., when he applied for a marriage license to make his 1996 Mustang his bride, following a depressingly split with his girlfriend.

Cook a Turkey, Ruin Your Life

In December, the Kirkwood, Mo., home of Dennis and Bonnie Miller suffered extensive fire damage when the Millers tried to deep-fry a grill for Christmas burned a hole in the pot and a modest-sized protective clothing stand in front of the fireworks, which this year consisted of bottle rockets, hoping to be hit by the missiles, which would bring good luck. Apparently, some of the rockets exploded only after being propelled into the bulky clothing, creating serious injuries to about 30 lucky people.

- A March Los Angeles Times story reported on the royal Siamese cat family (numbering about 50) of Thailand, which is said to be special because they are direct descendants of the cats of the beloved King Rama V. The family is believed to be the last of the pure kha manee breed ("diamond eyes") in the country and generally live in luxury, in teak-paneled rooms with gold and olive drapes, and three specially prepared meals a day. Six years ago, a Thai kha manee was reportedly sold for about $4 million.

Cultural Diversity

- In March, the city of Yenshui, Taiwan, held a fireworks show to commemorate stamping out the plague bacteria by fire more than 100 years ago. Villagers wearing bulky, protective clothing stand a grille for Christmas burned a hole in the pot and ignited a propane cylinder. And in February, Canadian fugitive Allen Charles Whitequill, 42, on the lam for two years on murder charges, was convicted of venting brutality on the job. He had been convicted of first-degree murder in Trenton, NJ., in January that it was the sediment from a bottle of iced tea that drank that produced the weird side effects that made him lose his head and commit the murder.

- The Rhode Island Supreme Court publicly reprimanded lawyer John F. Pellizarri in March for having had a three-month sexual relationship with a divorce client while continuing to represent her in negotiations with her husband. Pellizarri admitted the relationship but blamed it on the client, who, he said, had a "premeditated plan" to "coerce" him into sex, removed his clothes against his will, and physically forced herself on him.

Not My Fault

- In March, former Fairfax County, Va., principal Anthony M. Rizzo Jr., 62, escaped with a hung jury on charges that he had repeatedly raped a 10-year-old girl in the 1980s. The jury had not been allowed to know one fact about Rizzo: In 1990 he had won a permanent disability retirement from the state of Virginia, worth three times what ordinary retirement is worth, with the "disability" being a "psychosocial disorder" that makes him unable to supervise females without also trying to force sex on them. (At the time Rizzo was fighting for the disability, he was also denying the claims of eight female former co-workers that they had been victims of Rizzo's "disorder.")

- Charlie Smith, 45, told authorities in Austin, Texas, in February that he might plead guilty to crimes in connection with a yearlong series of scams that bilked people out of more than $1 million, but that he wanted people to know he wasn't a bad person. He told the Austin American-Statesman that his nearly lifelong urge to rip people off traces back to a day in 1969 when his car slipped off of the jack while he was working on it, landing on him, cracking his skull and changing him morally.

Update

Nests of the Weird reported on St. Paul, Minn., rockie Max Weisberg in 1994, just after he had been picked up for illegal gambling but released because the prosecutor was pessimistic about a conviction due to Weisberg's diminished mental capacity. Though Weisberg is a genius with numbers, he is reported to have an IQ of 80, and in fact, a jury in 1990 had acquitted him of a similar charge, finding that he just could not seem to understand that gambling is illegal. In February, 1999 police raided Weisberg's home once again, seizing $127,000 in alleged gambling proceeds, running the total seized from Weisberg in 10 years to about $600,000, and the prosecutor did not rule out trying once more to convict him.
Celebrate National Poetry Month with CAB at our last reading of the semester!

Thursday, April 15

7:30pm

UCF Bookstore Free to all

If you’ve got the gift and want to share it with others, call 823-6471 or stop by

Campus Activities Board (SU 215)

Funded by the A&S Fee as allocated by

University of Central Florida Bookstore

Author Appearance

Friday, April 16th

Robert D. BALLARD

Esteemed undersea explorer and author of,

The Discovery of the Titanic

"Captain Nemo in 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea by Jules Verne is who I always wanted to be."

–Dr. Robert D. Ballard

Dr. Robert D. Ballard has become the most renowned undersea explorer of our time with over 30 remarkable expeditions under his belt than Nemo. Ballard has spent a great portion of his life examining the floor of our oceans. He is responsible for discovering the underwater life and underwater volcanoes of the Galapagos islands and for locating the wrecks of the famous lost ships Titanic, Lusitania and Bismark. He has also engineered revolutionary vehicles and equipment for his expeditions, including the ANGUS submersible vehicle and the Argus-Juno location system. Dr. Ballard is the author of several internationally bestselling books including: Exploration, The Discovery of the Titanic, and Lost Lions. Finally, he is the Director of the Center for Marine Exploration at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Massachusetts. Robert Ballard will present a lecture on Friday, April 16th at 6pm in the Student Resource Center. This event is sponsored by Campus Activities Board and funded by an activity and service fee allocated by the Student Government Association. This lecture is free and open to the public. Dr. Ballard will sign copies of his books before the event, from 5:30pm to 6:30pm at the UCF B. Bookstore.

Up all night with Kevin Smith

B.W. EARL

SLEEP WINTER

To say that the night of April 9, 1999 was a long one would be an understatement. This night witnessed Kevin Smith was scheduled at UCF. Some hardcore fans even drove a couple of hours to see Mr. Smith.

He was scheduled to appear 8pm but due to unfriendly weather conditions he was stuck at the airport for a couple of hours and was finally able to fly at 10pm the night before. In order to get the crowd entertained the people at CAB showed Clerks. The version they showed was the Sundance film festival version that included an alternate ending to the one on video. If things would have gone accordingly, Smith should have been on his way up stage once the movie was over. Instead the nice people at Continental Airlines said that the plane would only take off after 11pm. There was no other choice than to show Mall Rats. For what it’s worth they showed two free movies so it wasn’t a bad night. If his Fighting Amy would have been next. By the time Mall Rats was over Kevin Smith’s flight did arrive but the man had to deal with Orlando traffic so it would be about another half-hour wait.

Some people must have thought that by this time the crowd would be thinning out. Some that left early came back while others finally felt like showing as the time was getting closer. When Kevin Smith arrived the audience received him with a standing ovation. He looked like someone who just stepped out of a plane and was clearly tired from being stuck in airports all night.

"I don’t usually start talking late," was the first thing he said to the audience. Mr. Smith didn’t have any specific speech he just answered questions from the audience all night. Question topics ranged from comic books, the Clerks cartoon his attempts at film school, influential movies and his upcoming movie Dogma.

He told the many stories he told him that the hookers in Vancouver, Canada would come out at 12 in the afternoon. One day he felt like inviting one of them to lunch instead of eating alone. So he went up to one of them and asked her if she had eaten anything. That day, she said no so he offered her lunch but she preferred to work instead. There was a really long story on how he was assigned to write a new Superman movie and had to deal with a producer who had no idea what the hell he was doing and the project ended going nowhere.

One of my favorite stories was about one of the jokes that was cut from the Mall Rats script. In the scene Jay and Silent Bob were hiding in a dressing room watching some girl (I forgot the name but it was the one with the high pitch voice) getting dressed and Silent Bob was "abusing her member." When he was done the semen flies over the dresser and hits her in her hair.

So when she walks out her hair is sticking up. The producer urged Smith not to use the joke since he didn’t think the audience would find it funny. Until last year some movie about "Mury" used a similar joke and everyone thought it was hilarious.

Smith also showed trailer for his upcoming film Dogma. He doesn’t have a distributor for it and it’s not due out until October so it was nice of him to give a sneak peek to his loyal audience.

He mentioned that the hookers in Vancouver, Canada would come out at 12 in the afternoon. One day he felt like inviting one of them to lunch instead of eating alone. So he went up to one of them and asked her if she had eaten anything. That day, she said no so he offered her lunch but she preferred to work instead. There was a really long story on how he was assigned to write a new Superman movie and had to deal with a producer who had no idea what the hell he was doing and the project ended going nowhere.

One of my favorite stories was about one of the jokes that was cut from the Mall Rats script. In the scene Jay and Silent Bob were hiding in a dressing room watching some girl (I forgot the name but it was the one with the high pitch voice) getting dressed and Silent Bob was "abusing her member." When he was done the semen flies over the dresser and hits her in her hair.

So when she walks out her hair is sticking up. The producer urged Smith not to use the joke since he didn’t think the audience would find it funny. Until last year some movie about "Mury" used a similar joke and everyone thought it was hilarious.

Smith also showed trailer for his upcoming film Dogma. He doesn’t have a distributor for it and it’s not due out until October so it was nice of him to give a sneak peek to his loyal audience. If the clips are any indication Dogma is Smith’s most ambitious movie to date. It still has all the elements that made his first three movies successful but it also combines elements of action and drama. The movie has already been criticized by members of the Catholic Church because of its anti religious message but Smith assures that the movie is about faith and not against it. Smith finished talking around 4:30 and hung out a little bit longer for anybody who wanted to say hi and take pictures. Good things come to those who wait; or so goes the cliché. But for all the people like who hung near the audience for almost twelve hours I must say that meeting Kevin Smith was a not a bad way to end a really long night.

Got a problem?
Let Dr. Daphne lend her hand.

email: DrDaphne@hotmail.com
Listen Up!

Soundtrack – EDtv
Various Artists (Reprise)
Do you know when you listen to one song on a CD so much that the song that comes directly after it begins to annoy you? Well it happened to me on the EDtv soundtrack. I listened to Oto Redding’s “These Arms of Mine” over and over again that I began to actually hate The Inmate’s “Dirty Water”: This is really how the whole CD goes. There are some great artists featured here including Barry White, James Brown and Comerstop, but it’s definitely evened out with the classics and some talented new bands make up for the bands that seem to be there just to fill up space.

-Michelle Caswell

Gene Loves Jezebel
VII (Robison Records)
www.genelosesjezebel.com
If you finally have that extra $15 to spend on a CD this week, do not buy Gene Loves Jezebel’s VII. After reading the promo kit that I received with the CD, I was excited to listen to this band. Their PR people compared their music to that of Bush,ns, The Cult, New Order and The Cure. I am sorry, but all I heard was Nelson mixed with Matchbox 20. I am not really familiar with this band’s previous 6 albums, but I know that if they all sound like VII then the PR people are pushing the wrong band. The music is typical. It starts of slow with the vocals slightly in the background and then suddenly all the guitars are strung at once in a mad frenzy. The lyrics are simplistic and boring as heard in the fifth track “Uptown.” “Let’s go out tonight! Don’t want to stay in! Let’s get out of this hole in the wall! Let’s start again.” Here’s a quick question. Would Robert Smith of The Cure ever write something like that?

-Michelle Caswell

Sponge
New Pop Sunday (Warner Bros)
Sponge stepped away from the standard pop formula for their second CD, Wax Estatic, mixing in acoustic and slide guitars and piano to accompany the strong lyrics on that release. Unfortunately they’ve stepped right back into that formula for their recent release, New Pop Sunday. Lyrical insensitivity and musically uninspired, the CD never goes anywhere. Lead singer Vinnie Donbroski’s vocals are flat and offer none of the emotion that he left with Wax Estatic.
Donbroski, who assumes most of the songwriting responsibilities, provides some relief from the mush in Radio Prayer Line, a song about an abused woman who finds Mr. Right. “You found someone that would treat you right/ He don’t beat you/ He don’t stay out all night.” Donbroski is there to tell her that her message found its way. Musically, the spotlight shines on guitarist Joey Mazrela. Grover on drums and Tim Cross on bass hold a tight rhythm. Unfortunately the band is not pushing any limits and Donbroski has demonstrated that he is capable of much better, lyrically and vocally. Maybe Sponge should put in a call to the Radio Prayer Line.

-Mark James

YOUTH RESIDENT PROGRAM WORKER
Orange County Government, Human Services
*540 Laurel Hill Oaks Cir.
>99-1377AMUCP * Salary: $7.84/hr

Duties include: Monitor children’s physical condition & report any medical needs to nurse &/or supervisor to assume proper attention and documentation. Administer medications/basic med. care per direction of a RN/physician. Maintain complete documentation of children, notify superiors of unusual problems. Maintain campus security checks/accurate count of children.
Qualifications: High school grad. or equiv. & 1 yr exp. working w/children/youth or in a human services program. College education with course work in the social or behavioral sciences may be substituted for the required experience.

Preferences: Applicant possessing outstanding parenting skills while supervising residents.

Mandatory Special Requirements: Selected applicant must be able to work rotating shifts including nights, weekends & holidays. Must possess & maintain a valid FL Class “P” driver’s license, endorsement “F” or ability to obtain within 6 months of hire.

Applicant selected for all GPL positions will be required to submit to random alcohol/drug testing. Applicant must bear the cost of background screening & fingerprinting ($52). OPEN UNTIL FILLED AND SUBJECT TO CLOSE WITHOUT NOTICE

ORANGE COUNTY GOVERNMENT,Human Resources Dept.
>99-1377AMUCP, 201 S Rosiland Ave.
3rd Floor, Orlando, FL 32801 Fax: (407) 845-5160
Website: www.ongov.net/Class Code 5034 BRO/PP/DP/VP

NTI NEORAL COLLEGE OF ORIENTAL MEDICINE
& Center for Clinical Treatment

ACUPUNCTURE AND HERBAL MEDICINE

Offering an accredited program leading to a Master of Oriental Medicine Degree and licensure as an Acupuncturist Physician.

Two years college required.

MOTIVATED? CALL FOR YOUR CAREER KIT NOW!
Financial Aid to those who qualify.
7100 Lake Ellenor Drive, Orlando - 407-888-8689

www.UCFfuture.com

This Certificate is good for Dry Cleaning services ONLY and must be presented at the time of the incoming order.

One Gift Certificate per visit please.
Underworld crafts another techno opera

When dealing with a band like Underworld, one must know what’s on the resume to fully understand the present music. It’s a similar situation for bands like Depeche Mode, or Skinny Puppy. The members have been in the music scene longer than they themselves can remember, but when one song finally opens the door to the house of mainstream music, the 1-loved-by-many fans have been major players in constructing their scene as Disney World is to the Orlando. They’ve both been here forever and have been major players in constructing their surroundings. Underworld began in the 1981 as Freur. Comprised of Karl Hyde, Rick Smith, Alfie Thomas, John Warwicker, and Bryn Burrows, Freur released the albums, door, door in 1984 and got us out of here one year later. The mid-eighties called for a line-up change as well as a new name. Baz Allen came in and Warwicker and Burrows left the group. Underworld (known as Underworld MK1) was born and in 1988, delivered underneath the radar. In 1999, change the weather came out. The Underworld as we know it now (dubbed Underworld MK2) is Karl Hyde, Rick Smith and Darren Emerson. In 1992, the group released two singles under the name Lemon Interrupt and since 1993, Underworld has released 13 singles and two albums, Dubnobasswithmyheadman and Second Toughest in the Infants. All that and it’s still just the beginning. We haven’t even begun to talk about Underworld’s latest release, Beaucoup Fish (Formula), in stores on April 13th. Since Underworld’s 1993 single, “Mmm... Skyscraper I love you,” the trio has been skyrocketing in the techno scene. When “Born Slippy” was released on the Trainspotting soundtrack in 1996, Underground became a shoe-in with dance clubs around the country. With all of Underground’s transformation, Beaucoup is going to be thought of as one of the most influential house CD’s of the 90’s. And its creator will be on the list of artists that never stop producing material for the masses.

Hyde and Smith are founding members of Tomato, the creative media group that has been hired by mega-companies like Nike and Volkswagen for commercial production, and takes credit for the title of under the radar. In 1989, change the weather came out. The Underworld as we know it now (dubbed Underworld MK2) is Karl Hyde, Rick Smith and Darren Emerson. In 1992, the group released two singles under the name Lemon Interrupt and since 1993, Underworld has released 13 singles and two albums, Dubnobasswithmyheadman and Second Toughest in the Infants. All that and it’s still just the beginning. We haven’t even begun to talk about Underworld’s latest release, Beaucoup Fish (Formula), in stores on April 13th.

Since Underworld’s 1993 single, “Mmm... Skyscraper I love you,” the trio has been skyrocketing in the techno scene. When “Born Slippy” was released on the Trainspotting soundtrack in 1996, Underground became a shoe-in with dance clubs around the country. With all of Underground’s transformation, Beaucoup is going to be thought of as one of the most influential house CD’s of the 90’s. And its creator will be on the list of artists that never stop producing material for the masses.

Since Underworld’s 1993 single, “Mmm... Skyscraper I love you,” the trio has been skyrocketing in the techno scene. When “Born Slippy” was released on the Trainspotting soundtrack in 1996, Underground became a shoe-in with dance clubs around the country. With all of Underground’s transformation, Beaucoup is going to be thought of as one of the most influential house CD’s of the 90’s. And its creator will be on the list of artists that never stop producing material for the masses.
April 14, 1999
www.UCFfuture.com

Dear Dr. Daphne,
I have a hairy back. What can I do to alleviate the problem?

Dear Wolfman,
I suggest you stay indoors and don’t come out. Avoid tank tops at all costs. If that doesn’t work, try waxing at a salon. If you got the bucks go for electrolysis.

Dear Dr. Daphne,
I was thinking of getting my nipple pierced. What do you think?

Dear Freaky,
I would suggest you do that if you’re one of the lame freaks that want to be different so they choose look like everyone else.

Dear Dr. Daphne,
Is it okay to wear black heels with a pale colored dress?

Dear Emelda Marcos,
It’s best to have the exact color, but white most always looks better than black especially over summer. If you don’t have the right shoes it’s a good excuse to shop.

Dear Dr. Daphne,
What can I wear with jeans other than sneakers?

Dear Getting Hip,
I suggest you make an investment on a rockin’ pair of butch shoes/boots. There is nothing more unattractive than to see some hot guy with tennis shoes and white socks. There’s plenty available. Be sure to take a girl shopping with you.

Dear Dr. Daphne,
I am looking for a haircut with a little style. Any suggestions?

Dear Hairy,
No suggestions. Everyone looks good in different styles. Go to your stylist and he/she will give you a consultation to determine what is best. Decide together.

Got a problem? Nothing is too big or small for Dr. Daphne!! Just e-mail her at DrDaphne@hotmail.com

---

in association with CollegeBytes.com
Something to sink your teeth into™ presents a
FREE ADVANCED SCREENING

David Spade
Sophie Marceau
A comedy about a guy who would do anything to get the girl of his dreams - and did!

Lost&Found
One of these dogs must be Spade.

FREE MOVIE!

UNIVERSITY OF CENTRAL FLORIDA
@ Student Union Cape Florida Ballroom
9 PM Wednesday, April 14th
FREE ADMISSION*
INFO?: call 823-6471
http://pegasus.cc.ucf.edu/~osa

* Funded by the Activity and Service Fee as allocated by the Student Government Association.
Passes available in the Student Union, Room 215, Student Activities
Passes required. Seating is limited and not guaranteed. Please arrive early.
Presented in association with Campus Activities Board

©1999 Warner Bros. All Rights Reserved
Please contact us by one of the methods below for detailed pricing information.

PHONE: 407-977-1009
FAX: 407-977-0019
EMAIL: SALES@UCFFUTURE.COM

Knight Publishing
120 Alexander Blvd. Suite 17
Oviedo, FL 32765

Or, place your classified ad free on our website!

www.UCFFUTURE.COM

For Sale
Quincy 1 bed, 1 bath, 880 sq.ft. $330,000. $1,200/mo.

For Rent
Apartment for rent, large 2bed/bath, walk to school, down, quiet, nice view. $450/month, with utilities (407) 697-2727.

Room for Rent - Private Bedroom Killing Pool Phone 305 - $380. All utilities included. Flexible, to sign legally, no deposit. (407) 697-2727.

Apartment for Rent - Free Washer/dryer. Walk to UCF, close to 1/2 hour drive, 4 bedroom 6 bath home in quiet area exp UCF & Rollins, W36, A3, 5/10, $500 per month rental. (657) 714-0410.

Two bedrooms for rent - 4/4 mature female student in shared three bedroom, 2 1/2 bath home in quiet area exp UCF & Rollins, W36, A3, 5/10, $500 per month rental. (657) 714-0410.

Room for rent at private home. Four minutes from UCF. Call Robertb John 722-622

Help Wanted
Student needed to work in drug & petty crime investigation for 1 1/2 old sex crimes. Must be available Sat & Sun & have transportation. $6 per hour wages. Winter Garden areas. (407) 566-6436.

Swim Instructors
Swim Kids, USA is now hiring experienced instructors. PT/FT positions available now. Mail, E-mail, Phone. (407) 245-5907.

TCHS needs part-time and full-time help. Apply to please 637 W. Colonial Drive, Maitland, 9:30 to 5:30 Mon Wed. Call (407) 879-8354.

Intoxicated, a leader in liquor dispensing and alcohol placements. Positions available include bartender, Customer Service.

Television, Driving, Information Technology, Addictions. We are currently recruiting individuals who can benefit the public and like to work with people. We have immediate openings in location areas. We can offer an excellent benefits and competitive salaries to help you get the most from your career. Call (407) 802-1110 or visit our website at www.intoxicatedinfo.net.

Want FREE DETAILS on how to make $500 to $1,000 per week right now on your own? Join us for a free one-time informational session to see if Free Financial Payouts Inc. is for you.

NEED CASH FAST! Up to $2,500 in 15 minutes or less. Call John 722-622.
Stetson has nice blend of solid veterans and young talent

The infield is young with two freshmen, one sophomore and one junior: Jason Shipley is the elder of the group, but is hitting the worst (.283). Freshman Lee Bagley leads the group with a .339 average and four home runs and 25 RBIs. Sophomore Jeff Christy is batting .310 with three home runs, and freshman Geoff McCallum is hitting .287 with a team-leading 32 walks.

"I think they struggled early with their young players," Bergman said. "But they've regrouped, and they're playing good baseball."

The Hatters' biggest problems have come in the field and on the basepaths. They have committed a TAAC-leading 101 errors and have been caught stealing 23 times in 80 attempts. They also have left 356 runners on base for an average of 8.5 a game.

Illegally obtained software can come back to haunt you.

- It could have viruses, which can cost you big time, just when that paper is due
- Software piracy is against the law, and it's punishable by hefty fines
- There's no place to turn when you need technical assistance
- You aren't eligible for cool upgrades

And if you're a student, it's cheap to get legal.

Microsoft Student Software Prices

70% Discount
As a college student, you can get Office 97 Standard Academic Edition for the estimated retail price of $159,* at your college bookstore.

Even Lower
See if your school has signed up for Microsoft's Campus Agreement, the new subscription program that includes Office and other Microsoft software titles for even less than the 70% discount.

Office 2000 Upgrade with the Academic Technology Guarantee
If you are a qualified education customer in the U.S. or Canada and acquire any academic version of Microsoft® Office 97 between 1/01/99 and 7/31/99, you may upgrade to the corresponding Office 2000 academic version product for the cost of shipping and handling ($7.50 US; $10 CAN) plus applicable tax. To find out more about the Academic Technology Guarantee or to find out about Campus Agreement, visit our Web site: www.microsoft.com/education/hed/students ©1999 Microsoft Corporation. All rights reserved. Microsoft and Where do you want to go today? are either registered trademarks or trademarks of Microsoft Corporation in the United States and/or other countries.

*Reseller prices may vary. Proof of purchase required.
Traina taken in USBL draft opening round

Former UCF men’s basketball player Brad Traina was selected in the first round of the recent United States Basketball League draft.

Traina, a 6-5 guard/forward from Sanford, was the 11th pick overall and first by the Gulf Coast SunDogs, a team based out of Sarasota. Brett Eppenheimer of Lehigh was the first pick of the draft by the Pennsylvania ValleyDawgs.

Traina, a two-time All-TAAC selection, scored 1,218 points during his four years at UCF, the ninth highest total in school history. Traina also ranks second in UCF history in 3-pointers made (156) and attempted (419), fourth in games played (108), seventh in free throws made (230), eighth in free throws attempted (301) and 10th in field goals made (410).

Last season Traina was named TAAC Player-of-the-Week twice and tied a school record with eight 3-point baskets in a game.

Women’s golf leads opening day of TAAC play

The women’s golf team placed first after the opening round of the TAAC tournament at Southern Pines Golf Club in Stockbridge, La.

The Knights had three top 10 finishes in the first round as UCF led with a 307 total score. Line Berg finished the first round with a 2-over-par 74 to tie for second. Chrissy Atchison tied for fourth with a 76 and Beate Faanes places tied for ninth with a 78. Monica Gundersrud rounds out the Golden Knights at tied for 14th with a 79.

The tournament ends April 14.

UCF women’s crew wins 2nd straight F.I.R.A. Championship

The women’s crew accumulated 77 points to runner-up Miami’s 52 en route to winning its second straight Florida Intercollegiate Rowing Association Championship. Placing behind UCF and Miami were Florida (39), Jacksonville (19), Tampa (17), Barry (14), Rollins (6), Florida Tech (3) and Stetson (3).

Placing first for UCF in its respective races were the Varsity Lightweight 4+ (7:12.6), Freshman/Novice 8+ ‘B’ (6:32.6) FIN Lightweight 8+ (6:59.3), FIN 4+ (7:07.9) and FIN Lightweight 4+ (6:04.6) crews.

The Varsity 8+ (6:09.8), Varsity Lightweight 8+ (6:49.1), JV 8+ (6:45.2), JV 4+ (7:25.6), FIN 8+ (6:39.0) all finished in second place behind Miami and Florida crews.

The Golden Knights compete in the Southern Intercollegiate Rowing Association Championship on April 17 in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

MARKETING/HOSPITALITY

Work with Orlando’s #1 resort/hospitality team and Florida’s largest privately owned company! Flexible schedules. Work part time now and full time this summer. Full and part time positions available. We offer hourly + bonus or base + commission. We have openings in Guest Services and for Marketing Coordinators.

- Great pay, Great Training and Opportunity for Advancement.

Call 351-3350 ext. 446 for interview.

Traina taken in USBL draft opening round

Former UCF men’s basketball player Brad Traina was selected in the first round of the recent United States Basketball League draft.

Traina, a 6-5 guard/forward from Sanford, was the 11th pick overall and first by the Gulf Coast SunDogs, a team based out of Sarasota. Brett Eppenheimer of Lehigh was the first pick of the draft by the Pennsylvania ValleyDawgs.

Traina, a two-time All-TAAC selection, scored 1,218 points during his four years at UCF, the ninth highest total in school history. Traina also ranks second in UCF history in 3-pointers made (156) and attempted (419), fourth in games played (108), seventh in free throws made (230), eighth in free throws attempted (301) and 10th in field goals made (410).

Last season Traina was named TAAC Player-of-the-Week twice and tied a school record with eight 3-point baskets in a game.

Women’s golf leads opening day of TAAC play

The women’s golf team placed first after the opening round of the TAAC tournament at Southern Pines Golf Club in Stockbridge, La.

The Knights had three top 10 finishes in the first round as UCF led with a 307 total score. Line Berg finished the first round with a 2-over-par 74 to tie for second. Chrissy Atchison tied for fourth with a 76 and Beate Faanes places tied for ninth with a 78. Monica Gundersrud rounds out the Golden Knights at tied for 14th with a 79.

The tournament ends April 14.

UCF women’s crew wins 2nd straight F.I.R.A. Championship

The women’s crew accumulated 77 points to runner-up Miami’s 52 en route to winning its second straight Florida Intercollegiate Rowing Association Championship. Placing behind UCF and Miami were Florida (39), Jacksonville (19), Tampa (17), Barry (14), Rollins (6), Florida Tech (3) and Stetson (3).

Placing first for UCF in its respective races were the Varsity Lightweight 4+ (7:12.6), Freshman/Novice 8+ ‘B’ (6:32.6) FIN Lightweight 8+ (6:59.3), FIN 4+ (7:07.9) and FIN Lightweight 4+ (6:04.6) crews.

The Varsity 8+ (6:09.8), Varsity Lightweight 8+ (6:49.1), JV 8+ (6:45.2), JV 4+ (7:25.6), FIN 8+ (6:39.0) all finished in second place behind Miami and Florida crews.

The Golden Knights compete in the Southern Intercollegiate Rowing Association Championship on April 17 in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

MARKETING/HOSPITALITY

Work with Orlando’s #1 resort/hospitality team and Florida’s largest privately owned company! Flexible schedules. Work part time now and full time this summer. Full and part time positions available. We offer hourly + bonus or base + commission. We have openings in Guest Services and for Marketing Coordinators.

- Great pay, Great Training and Opportunity for Advancement.

Call 351-3350 ext. 446 for interview.

Become a member of the 1999-2000 Student Union Advisory Board

- Represent student interests in the Union
- Give input on Union policies
- Help with decisions on future services

Applications available at the Student Union Information Desk
DUE BY APRIL 21 at 5:00pm
Men finish solid regular season, look ahead

TONY MEJIA
SPORTS EDITOR

The UCF men’s tennis team wrapped up regular season play with a 5-2 win over Troy State in Trans America Athletic Conference men’s tennis action last Saturday at the UCF Tennis Complex.

The team now looks to continue its successful campaign at the TAAC Tournament, to be played in DeLand.

UCF won for of five conference matches, with its only loss coming in a 4-3 decision against Florida Atlantic.

In the finale against the Trojans, Federico Camacho, who had been out of the lineup for over two weeks with the chicken pox, came on strong in his first match back, picking up wins in singles and doubles. He teamed with Greg Novak to take an 8-3 win at No. 1 doubles over Willy Campos and Marcel Lima. Then he came from behind to defeat Shannon Nettle when Nettle retired after the second set at No. 2 singles.

With the win Camacho became the seventh UCF player to post at least 10 singles wins this season.

David Winberg, who sat out the Golden Knights last match with an arm injury, looked strong as well, picking up wins in singles and doubles. He teamed with William Guerin to win 8-5 at No. 2 doubles. He defeated Willy Campos, 6-5, 6-2, at No. 1 singles. Winberg, a senior from Jonkoping, Sweden, is 18-9 in singles and 15-9 in doubles.

Guerin also took an easy 6-3, 6-1, win over Lima at No. 3 singles. Freshman Johan Westin continues to lead the team in singles wins, as he picked up his 23rd of the season, a 6-3, 6-2, decision over Craig Bidards at No. 6. Westin is 23-4 in singles.

In the 1999 TAAC Men’s Tennis Tournament begins on April 15. UCF lost in the semifinals last season, but is expected to be a top four seed this year. UCF is 17-4 overall and 4-1 in the TAAC heading into the tournament.
Kaplan students get into Law School.

Case closed.

9 out of 10 Kaplan LSAT students go to one of their top 3 school choices.

DON'T TAKE THE LSAT UNPREPARED!

Call today to enroll!

KAPLAN
1-800-KAP-TEST
www.kaplan.com = AOL keyword: kaplan

Women's tennis heads into TAAC Tournament on losing note

Tony Mejia
SPORTS EDITOR

Heading into its most important week of the season, the UCF women's tennis team suffered arguably its most disappointing loss of the year, 5-4, at UNLV.

The Golden Knights, undefeated in conference play, travel to Deland for the TAAC Championships on April 15. The team is looking to receive an automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament awarded to the conference champion.

However, the team doesn’t exactly have positive momentum to build on after the loss to the Rebels in Las Vegas. UNLV won four of the six singles matches and held off a Golden Knight charge in the doubles portion to upset the 71st-ranked Golden Knights, snapping a 13-match losing streak on April 6 at the Fertitta Tennis Complex.

UCF fell behind 4-2 after singles play, but made a late charge in doubles. No. 47-ranked Gaelle Gouttefarde and Veronica Widyadharma defeated Susie Kocsis and Marcella Valkenhoff at No. 1 doubles, 8-6. The pair is 20-3 on the season.

Ann-Jeanette Svantesson and Hadas Ronen defeated Britta Gabl and Urska Kadosnice at No. 3 doubles, 8-4. But Marianne Bakken and Veronica Goude took the win at No. 2 doubles, 8-3 over UCF’s Daniela Okal and Sonja Prokopec.

Widyadharma and Ronen were the only Knights to take wins in singles play.

Widyadharma, ranked 51st in the nation, defeated Goude, 6-4; 6-4 at No. 1 to become the first Golden Knight to reach 20 wins this season. She is 20-4 overall and has won 14 of her last 15 matches. Ronen improved to 18-6, second on the team, with a come-from-behind 3-6, 7-6, 6-3, win over Marcella Valkenhoff at No. 6 singles.

UCF goes into the TAAC tournament having lost four of its last six matches.

On Wednesday, April 21st, 1999, the powerful and intense drama, A Piece of My Heart, by Shirley Lauro, will be shown at Theatre UCF. This mature drama is the story of six Vietnamese women who tell of the alienation, indignities, and the aftermath of Agent Orange disease.

Free tickets may be picked up by showing your UCF student ID at the CAB Office, 215 Student Union, starting Monday, April 19th.

Please note – this drama contains adult language and situations.

Call the CAB Office at 823-6471 if you have any questions.
Jeff Case
SPORTS WRITER

When UCF baseball coach Jay Bergman pens his starting lineup, he has a tough decision when he gets to third base. Who should he choose: power hitting freshman Pete Gavillan or solid sophomore Bill Oakley?

"I don't worry about it," Bergman said. "It doesn't bother me (who starts). I think the players have adjusted well to the different lineups all season."

Although they share the same position, Gavillan and Oakley would seem to have little else in common, given their backgrounds. Gavillan, a native Floridian, is best described as a jack-of-all-trades, as he can fill in at pitcher or catcher.

Oakley, who hails from Illinois and was born in Ohio, has played only third base during his career. That's not to say he hasn't gotten his share of playing time, however.

"Pete's a great power hitter, he's got a great arm and he's got great hands, so either way, you can count on us," Oakley said. "We're all trying to do the same thing, win baseball games, so I'm glad when he's doing well and it's probably vice versa."

"We all have get-togethers as a team, maybe we'll go out to eat together as a team and that sort of thing keeps us close," Gavillan and Oakley came into the season not knowing who would earn the spot, especially with the return of starting first baseman and occasional third baseman Dustin Brisson. But, by using fall practice to establish themselves, Gavillan and Oakley have become regulars in Bergman's system.

"I told myself I had nothing to lose playing in the fall," Gavillan said. "I just had to come in here and try and hit the ball and get a little bit of playing time."

Oakley knew things would work out in the fall.

"You don't really know (who's No. 1) because you don't know who's coming in, but playing things out in the fall, you get an idea," Oakley said.

With neither player establishing himself as a true No. 1, it allows more of a win-together, lose-together feeling that benefits the Knights. "It's something Bergman says should help UCF when the TAAC tournament comes around next month."

Until somebody steps up and takes it over, we're going to keep doing it this way," Bergman said. "It's good for team morale because guys know they're going to have a chance to play. That's all going to help us out during the season."

For now, at least, third base remains a game-day decision, but at least Bergman has no shortage of options.
BASEBALL NOTEBOOK

Brisson hit his 13th home run and Andy Johnson added a home run as the Knights crushed to a 16-2 win. Both drove in two runs, and UCF had 14 hits as it knocked around Byron Busion.

Zach Sutton (1-0) held Campbell scoreless for 2.1 innings with two strikeouts to record the victory.

"His (Brisson) maturity has grown so much, and his skill level has upgrades," Bergman said. "For that reason the players respect him for what he can do, and he's assumed the role of being a team leader. I'm really proud of Dustin."

On Friday, David Rankin improved his record to 6-2 after allowing two runs on five hits with eight strikeouts in seven innings. Matt Bowser went 3-for-4 and drove in five runs, including his 11th home run. Brent Spooner added his fifth home run and Pete Cavallini hit his third.

Leading 3-2, UCF scored five in the fourth and three in the fifth. Bowser hit a bases-loaded double and struggles by Campbell starter Corey Byrd led to the final two runs in the fourth.

Knights top Bulls in dramatic fashion

UCF has committed 10 errors in two games against South Florida, but have managed to record two victories. The Knights won the opener of the team's four-game season series with the Bulls 7-4 two weeks ago, and UCF took the game away from USF last week, winning 8-6 in its final at bat.

The Knights took a 4-0 lead but that was erased when USF scored four in the fifth. UCF regained the lead 5-4 in the sixth, and turned the game over to closer Jason Arnold in the ninth. Arnold blew the save opportunity and gave the Bulls a 6-5 lead in the ninth.

But Brent Spooner gave the Knights some ninth-inning heroics. With two outs and two runners on base, he hit a home run for the game-winner.

The Knights cruised to a 11-4 and 16-2 victories over the final 3.1 innings, striking out 13 in the process.

The win was charged with an 0.88 ERA in the second game and with five scoreless innings in his last six starts. He also has team highs with 13 strikeouts in 5.1 innings and in the last three starts. He also has a team-high 5.7 K/9 ratio.

Youngberg has 16 strikeouts in 13 innings. Paul Rankin leads all starting pitchers with a 3.48 ERA in 11 starts. He has also thrown 59 strikeouts in 57.1 innings and in two complete games. Chris Youngberg and Paul Bay have team lows in bullpen ERA with 2.68 and 2.36. Youngberg has 16 strikeouts through 13 innings. Paul has recorded 24 strikeouts in 26.2 innings. Jason Arnold leads the team with six saves and has struck out 45 in only 26 innings.

--- TRAVIS BELL

---

Orlando’s Guaranteed Lowest Contact Lens Prices Include The Eye Exam!!

DISPOSABLE CONTACTS

ONE YEAR SUPPLY INCLUDES EYE EXAM!

$119.95

FREE TRIAL PAIR

COOPER VISION SILVER 7 DAILY WEAR

EXPIRES 12/29/99

2 BOXES! DISPOSABLE CONTACTS

INCLUDES EYE EXAM!

$79.95

FREE TRIAL PAIR

BAUSH & LOMB OPTIMA FW

SILK CONTACTS

INCLUDES EYE EXAM!

$69.95

FREE TRIAL PAIR

COOPER VISION SILVER 7 DAILY WEAR

EXPIRES 4/28/99

EYE EXAM

$29.95

FREE TRIAL PAIR

COLORED CONTACTS

INCLUDES EYE EXAM!

$99.95

FREE TRIAL PAIR

WITH PURCHASE OF 2 BOXES OR MORE, MOST MAJOR BRANDS, CLEAR COLORS, & COLOR BLENDS AFTER

$18.95 PER BOX

DISPOSABLE CONTACTS

$18.95

FREE TRIAL PAIR

EYEGlass PRESCRIPTION ONLY

EXPIRES 4/20/99

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS

834-9727

FLORIDA MALL

438-2974

FASHION SQUARE MALL

894-1559

OVIEDO MARKETPLACE

366-2240

Contact lenses and eye exams are provided by Independent Doctors of Optometry located at:

PEARL VISION

---

*Offer subject to change without notice. Contact lenses are dispensed by participating optometrists. Discontinued or out-of-stock contact lens prices may be subject to change. Certain restrictions apply. Exchanges on lenses after 10 days. Exams only Redeemable. Present coupon prior to eye exams. Pearl and Pearl Vision are trademarks of Pearl, Inc. (C)1992 Pearl, Inc. Pearls incur and any other persons responsible for payment has a right to refuse to pay, cancel payment, or be reimbursed for payment for any other persons, compensation, or treatment which is performed or involved in any examination or treatment.
Culpepper receiving lofty accolades picking among the top selections.

FROM PAGE 32

"I think Daunte Culpepper is the best pick in the NFL, draft out of everybody. Period," said 49ers General Manager Bill Walsh, a quarterback guru and Super Bowl champion head coach who helped launch the careers of Joe Montana and Steve Young.

"Best pick in the draft. He's got everything. He does everything well. He's active, he's fast, smart. He does everything beautifully."

Another factor NFL scouts love, besides his stature and strong arm, is the fact that his mentor is former Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Mike Kruczek, who has a pair of Super Bowl rings to his credit.

"He has had the luck of being coached by an ex-pro player and ex-quarterback," Eagles Coach Andy Reid said. "You can tell that in his game. That's one of his positives."

Another of his positives is his attitude. Culpepper is a great person, which is something that can't be taught. He's eager to learn and has the type of presence that will make him an instant fan favorite around whatever community he takes his game to.

Which leads us back to the question of where and when. The Cleveland Browns hold the first selection and will either pick a quarterback, Smith or tailback Ricky Williams, unless they trade the pick to Mike Ditka and the New Orleans Saints. The second selection will almost certainly be McNabb to Philadelphia, while the Cincinnati Bengals will probably take whoever the Browns don't select.

St. Louis could use a quarterback, but will probably take the best running back available. With pick No. 7, the Bears could certainly use Culpepper, but probably won't be able to pass on Jonn Kearney, the defensive end from Florida.

Baltimore, with the 10th pick, could take Culpepper, but also is looking at Arizona cornerback Chris McAlister and wide receivers Tony Holt and David Boston. Therefore, it seems that if New Orleans is unable to trade up to select Williams, they will take Culpepper in an attempt to solve its quarterback problems. But if Ditka gets his wish and trades up, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers look at pick 15, giving Culpepper the opportunity to remain in Florida.

However, that would be the Bucs' worst nightmare. Tampa Bay is hoping Daunte is gone by the time it picks, because selecting Culpepper would destroy the confidence it's built in Trent Dilfer. Still, if Culpepper remains on the board, the prospect of keeping the hometown hero near town may be too great to pass up.

Culpepper shouldn't fall past Tampa, but if he does, Oakland would snatch him up with the 18th selection, setting the perfect stage for Culpepper to establish himself in a major market. In fact, the William Morris agency already has picked up Culpepper as a marketable commodity.

"William Morris thinks Daunte is the most complete package of the four top quarterbacks available commercially," Culpepper's agent, Jason Ashe, told The Orlando Sentinel. "They are thinking in terms of a movie about his life and a book at some point in time. Other than that, they're looking at normal product endorsements.

Culpepper is certainly on the brink of something big, perhaps making Bob Griese's claim that he's "America's next superstar" not seem so far-fetched.

The journey begins Saturday, and even if Culpepper is the last of the four quarterbacks taken, he's got history in his corner.

Marino, the NFL's all-time leading passer, was the last of the six quarterbacks selected in the first round 16 years ago.
Roller hockey seeks national title

TRAVIS BELL
STAFF WRITER

The UCF roller hockey club team has its sights set on a national championship.

The team will travel to Chicago for the National Collegiate Roller Hockey Tournament, April 15-18.

UCF advanced to the tournament after winning the Florida Collegiate Roller Hockey League Tournament. March 6-7. UCF defeated Florida International, 9-4, and Florida State, 7-2, on the first day, and then beat Florida, 1-0, in a shootout, before topping Emory-Riddle 6-4 in the title game.

"Our goal this season was to have fun," said Mike Jimmerson, one of five board members of the UCF club.

"We showed that in the regional tournament, and we hope to keep that attitude going up to Chicago."

The national tournament consists of 32 teams. The first round features eight four-team brackets that play a round-robin format. With its FCRHL title, UCF earned the No. 1 seed in Group G.

The other No.1 seeds, Cal-Santa Barbara, Michigan State, Texas A&M, Truman State, North Texas, Colorado State and Penn State, all are experienced, talented squads.

"Michigan State, Truman State, and Penn State are probably the favorites heading into the tournament," Jimmerson said.

In the inaugural season for the FCRHL, three teams advanced to the national championship, Emory-Riddle and Florida will join UCF in Chicago, while ISU, Miami and FIU will have to wait until next year.

The Knights finished the regular season in third place, behind regular season champion Florida and Embry-Riddle. UCF was 9-5-3 in the regular season before sweeping through the tournament, outscoring its opponents, 111-70. Sixteen players will travel to Chicago. Ed Lather leads the team after scoring four goals in the four playoff games. Five players followed with three goals apiece during the four-game stretch, including Dan Verdun, and Jimmerson, who added three and two assists.

CORRECTION

The Central Florida Future referred to departing women's soccer Coach Karen Richter as Nancy Richter in a story that appeared in last week's issue. The Future apologizes for the error. Nancy Richter is a sophomore women's basketball player who will be a key member of next year's squad. Karen Richter has been the architect of the success of the UCF women's soccer program, serving as player and coach for more than a decade.

She recently resigned to take a similar position at Auburn University. We wish her the best of luck.

Karen Richter
Knights battle Stetson in key TAAC series

Tony Mejia
SPORTS EDITOR

The future begins Saturday for former University of Central Florida quarterback Daunte Culpepper, as the 6-foot-4, 245-pound signal caller will be selected in this weekend’s NFL Draft. He’ll be selected somewhere in the first round, but that’s about all that’s guaranteed.

When exactly he’ll go and the team that ends up taking him remains a mystery.

Any other year, Culpepper would be a definite top-three pick and the top quarterback prospect. However, this year’s quarterback class is being compared to 1983’s, when Dan Marino, John Elway, Jim Kelly, Tony Eason, Todd Blackledge and Ken O’Brien all went in the first round. Kentucky’s Tim Couch, Oregon’s Akili Smith and Syracuse’s Donovan McNabb may be the top three picks in this year’s draft, while Culpepper’s stock has slipped to the point where he may not be among the top 10 selections.

It’s not like Culpepper has struggled in workouts, turning in a tremendous individual performance at the Disney Sports Complex in a private showing for interested NFL teams.

In fact, according to ESPN’s John Clayton, Culpepper is listed as the top quarterback available by many franchises. Unfortunately, those teams aren’t the stabilizer in the rotation. He has thrown 72.2 innings, allowing only 63 hits with 82 strikeouts.

"DiNardo is a good prospect, and he’s gonna get even better," Bergman said. "He’s got a chance to be a dominant pitcher in this league, and we don’t have anybody that has the potential that he does to dominate a game like he can.”

DiNardo has picked up the slack for his fellow starters. Senior right-hander Jeff House is 3-4 with a 4.77 ERA and sophomore left-hander Jason Ogleby has started nine games with a 5.29 ERA and is 2-4.

Freshman Brian Werthem (4-3, 4.38) and senior Joe Cincozza (3-0, 4.54) have seen considerable action out of the bullpen.

Stetson is hitting .294 with only 30 home runs but is averaging 6.5 runs a game.

Freshman outfielder Vinnie Rinaldi leads Stetson with a .381 average and nine home runs. He also has driven in 28 runs in 33 games. Senior center fielder Ned French has played in all but one game and is hitting .349 with a team-leading 20 stolen bases and 40 runs scored. He also has 13 doubles and 18 RBIs.

Sophomore catcher Frank Cott has filled in nicely for Sammy Serrano, who was selected in the second round of the MLB draft last year. Cott has driven in a team-high 33 runs and is hitting .341 with six home runs. "I think their offense is..."