Patton reinstated; SG in confusion

SHELLEY WILSON  STAFF WRITER

Four months after impeachment, Darin Patton was reinstated by the Judicial Council as student government president on Dec. 1.

The 31st Student Senate impeached Patton in August for holding funds that were approved by the SG president who served before him.

The Council looked at several issues to determine if due process was given to Patton regarding his impeachment, including Senate sign-ups for seats, time given to him to prepare the original case, and the affidavits.

The Council found one violation of due process, which concerned how the charges were placed against Patton.

According to SG Statutes, impeachable offenses are defined as: malfeasance (when a public official performs an act that is legally unjustified, or contrary to the law), misfeasance (wrongful performance of a lawful act), and nonfeasance (omission of an act that should have been performed). In Patton’s trial, all three charges were tried together. The Senate decided if and how Patton was breaking statues by holding the funds, which went against his due process, the Council explained.

The Council wrote in a memo on Dec. 1, “The offenses of malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance should not have been grouped together. There are three specific ways that offenses can be defined and it is improper to commit all three at the same time relating to the charge.”

Patton has been the only SG President at UCF to be successfully impeached. In July, he appealed the action to the UCF Administration, which said that it had no jurisdiction in the matter and recommended a more proper route through the Student Judicial Council.

Some SG members wonder why Patton was still proceeding with his appeal so long after his impeachment.

He addressed this question in his opening statement to the Council, “I believe that can be answered by a question posed to you all — If you were elected to a position by more than 1,400 students and removed by 18 political opponents, some of whom were questionably placed, wouldn’t you?”

Legislative, Judicial and Rules Chair Matthew Bornfreund defended SG in the Council hearing, arguing that Senate followed its rules and the impeachment process was not tainted.

Seniors prepare for Graduation

ELAINE LEBLANC STAFF WRITER

UCF has been dreading what some students call “You Gift, Finishing” but will receive the tickets while they are available when they graduate.

Bryan Lee, who enrolled at UCF in 1992 and is graduating with a degree in civil engineering, said, “I have worked harder for this diploma than anything else in my life. Finally I have come to the end of the collegiate road.”

Others, however, were able to complete their degree requirements in less than the average four years.

Josh Roseman said, “By graduating this semester, I have not only proven that you can finish, but that you can finish early.”

The procession of the students and the platform party will begin five minutes prior to the start of each ceremony.

Tickets are available for pick-up at the UCF bookstore Dec. 6-11 with a photo ID. Unclaimed tickets will be distributed on a first-come-first serve basis on Dec. 13. Any additional tickets will be available Dec. 13-16.

Tickets for graduation will be available Dec. 13-16.

No relief from parking headaches until fall 2000

ADAM SHIVER STAFF WRITER

The days of stalking someone with your car in anticipation of acquiring a parking spot seems to be far from over. Even though a third parking garage is currently under construction, it will not be completed in time for the upcoming spring semester. When it opens in the fall of 2000 it will cost you.

The price of decals will increase in the fall semester by 15 percent, according to Executive Assistant of Parking Services Ina Carpenter. This would raise a three-semester decal’s price from $90 to $103.50 and a two-semester pass from $74 to $85.10.

All parking funds come from students and facility in the form of parking decals and traffic tickets handed out by the UCFPD. The university is not funded to provide parking for its students.

“I like that they’re going to build more parking garages. It will finally give us somewhere to park and keep me from being late to class,” said freshmen Tim Young.

UCF to launch new website in 2000

Sarah Sekula

If everything goes as planned on Jan. 1, the Course Development and Web Services Department at UCF will welcome the millennium by launching a redesigned campus web site.

Along with added capabilities, the upcoming web site, which has undergone a cosmetic makeover, will reveal an entirely different look and image.

Vice Provost for Information Technology and Resources Joel Hartman recognized the fact that UCF’s web site could benefit from some vast alterations in November 1998.

He and his staff then set out to modernize UCF’s web site.

CD&WS Director Barbara Truman-Davis said that if a student’s registration records were on hold, he or she would be notified upon log in.

Whatever the reason for the hold may be—an unpaid parking ticket or an overdue library book—the student would only be a few mouse clicks away from information about how to resolve the matter.

“We want our UCF community to go on-line instead of in-line, whenever possible,” Truman-Davis said. Both Truman-Davis and Munoz said that the ultimate goal of the revamped web site is to create a learning community.

“We want this to be a user-centric, database-driven web site where the information is maintained by the users dynamically by without requiring knowledge of HTML,” Munoz said.

“This is the major improvement over the existing UCF web site.” Munoz said he is glad that the university realized the importance of having a stronger web site. “We are committed to using cutting-edge technology to improve the UCF web presence.”

Feast to provide Medieval-style dinner, entertainment

ADAM SHIVER

Lords and ladies alike are invited to attend this year's 25th Madrigal Feast, held by the UCF chorus. The medieval-style dinner will take place 7:30 p.m. Dec. 9-11 in the University Dining Room. The event will feature the vocals of the Madrigal Singers as well as herald trumpets, jesters and buffoons, ornate period clothing and a huge feast. "We try to re-create what we think it would have been like long ago," Director of Choral Activities David Brunner said.

The food at the feast will include period dishes such as boar's head, flaming plum pudding, fruits and cheeses, sauces, wine and coffee. "It is perhaps the longest standing tradition on this young campus," said Brunner.

The Madrigal Singers, a group of 17 of the school's top vocalists will be dressed in clothing of the period as they sing with no accompaniment. "Most of the singers are voice majors and are some of the top singers in the school," Brunner said.

The chorus hopes to raise $175,000 at the Madrigal Feast. The money raised will go towards a trip to England in the summer of 2000 and vocal scholarships for UCF students. The Madrigal Singers specialize in music of the Renaissance as well as diverse styles of chamber music. They have made appearances on Orlando's CBS and ABC affiliates and are featured on the CD "We are the Music-Makers: The Choral Music of David Brunner."

Admission to the feast on Dec. 10-12 is $40 per person. Dec. 9 is a VIP event only. For reservations or more information call 407-823-5687.

Approximately 11,000 spaces are available for students, faculty, staff

1999 was a record 31,247, making parking spaces scarce and sometimes impossible to find. An expected enrollment of 29,611 students for the spring semester of 2000 is not expected to ease the parking situation.

"Spring enrollment will always go down," said Betty Miller of Campus Institutional Research. "We are expecting a 6 percent increase in spring of 1999's enrollment of 28,749."

While enrollment may be down for the spring, it will be more than double the number of available parking spaces on campus. There are approximately 11,000 parking spaces at hand for students, faculty and staff.

"It takes me longer to park for my classes than it does to walk to them," said Jeffrey Martin, a junior. "It's ridiculous."

"It's frustrating to have to circle the parking lot ten times waiting for someone to leave," said sophomore Oscar Hastings. "We need parking spaces, and we need them soon."

Carpenter said Parking Services has painted a few spaces into lots where space was available, allowing for one or two more cars per lot. This will be the only additional parking until the fall of 2000.

"These additions are nothing major through," Carpenter said.

The third parking garage is expected to alleviate some of the parking problems by providing an additional 1,300 spaces for students.

"The cost of the new parking facility will cost $2 million dollars, or approximately $6,300 per space," Carpenter said.

Flat lots on the other hand, depending on their location on campus, provide spaces at $1,500 to $2,000 per space. These flat parking areas could plausibly hold almost as many cars as the garages if designed correctly.

"I think it's stupid that they closed a whole parking lot to build a garage in its place. Why not just build the garage somewhere else so we can still park in that lot," said sophomore Sara Jefferies.

To allow more space for students to park on campus, it is suggested that students living close to the University walk, ride a bicycle, skateboard, roller-blade or use the Linsk bus system.

Parking services says that the tram that it owns is not designed for transporting students back and forth between parking areas such as the arena parking located on the outskirts of campus. "The design of the roadways on campus makes it hard for the tram to be effective. The tram is just not well suited for such activities," said Carpenter.

There is not a parking space to be found during the day in the Visual Arts parking lot. Students may continue to have difficulty parking at UCF until a third parking garage opens in fall 2000.

SG gives away scantrons, hopes to improve image

SHELLEY WILSON
STAFF WRITER

In preparation for final exam week, UCF Student Government handed out more than 5,000 free exam packets to students Dec. 2-3 in front of the Student Union.

The packets came with a number 2 pencil, school schedule planner, coupon book to local vendors, and what almost every student is rushing to buy at exam time—scantrons.

The event was a combined effort between the executive branch, Service and Public Relations committee and cabinet.

Many SG representatives thought the event was a way to give back to the students they represent. "At this point, with SG going through this or that, we felt it was time to give back and let students know we’re not here just to be here, but to help them out as well," Director of Multicultural Affairs and Women’s Concern, Akiva Johnson said.

Despite the recent publicity surrounding SG, students picking up the packets didn’t think the organization was so bad after all.

"I think it’s great when the school gives back to the students. Students get so exploited these days it’s nice when Student Government gives back. I like Student Government. I ran for Senate and it’s a good organization and it’s good that it’s run by students," junior Mike Castello said.

Melissa Lust, SPR Vice-Chair, agreed that it was a great idea. "I think this was beneficial to all. We had a really good reaction. They’re really excited we’re handing them out free with no strings attached," Lust said.
Council rules Senate impeded due process

the page-and-a-half statute regarding impeachment then due process was given. You'll see each of the prescribed measures were followed and there are no procedural violations," he said.

After a three hour hearing and two hours of deliberation, the Council came back with a ruling that the grouping of the charges by the Senate impeded due process. Therefore, the impeachment of Patton was invalid and effective immediately, officials involved with Senate since 1997, vice-president after Patton was vice-president pro tempore.

Jaime Halscott, who became president, Andrew Cupicha as vice-president and Arny Florin as senate president pro tempore.

Halscott, who has been involved with Senate since 1997, still believes that he is vice president and said the decision of grouping the charges should not have been a case.

"I'm still VP until all avenues of appeals are exhausted. The charges being grouped together is not a due process situation. There was no surprise of the decision, however. I had a feeling too many people were involved." Halscott said.

"I've always been told if it's not true, then it shouldn't hurt you. If it bothered me, then I should look internally, but it never has bothered me," Halscott said.

The decision of the Council bothered some former Senate members. In a memo to administration, "former members of the 31st Student Senate" wrote that the administration should intervene in the case and reverse the decision of the Council.

Certain members also argue that Bob Williams, former LRR chair, dumped the charges by instruction given to him by Garth Jenkins, director of judicial programs. Williams and Jenkins could not be contacted at press time.

"Everybody said the 31st Student Senate doesn't listen to the administration, and then when we do, we get screwed in the long run. Senate doesn't have to give due process for impeachment. If they don't like you or think you sneeze too loud, they just file an affidavit and you could be gone," said Fred Piccolo, director of government affairs.

Amy Florin, senate president pro tempore, ran the Senate meeting last Thursday, stating that her goal for Senate was to move on.

"It's a rather awkward situation here tonight. There's a lot of discussion going on whether the Council does or does not have the power to make changes in other branches of SG. That doesn't mean the legislative body can't move forward. That's our job," Florin said.

Some members of the 32nd Senate share Cupicha's feelings.

"I've worked very hard as president and I've enjoyed it, but I don't think being vice-president again. Students' needs are still the same and I can try to help them regardless of my position. Senate Government should work as a whole to help students as a whole," he said.

Patton said.

The finality of this decision is still to be determined. Halscott has filed an appeal of the judicial decision to the Administration and to the same Council.

In the SG office, question marks were placed where the executive officers names used to be and there was heavy debate of whether Cupicha or Halscott should have run last week's Senate meeting.

Cupicha feels that SG should be serving the students, regardless of what title an officer holds.

"I've worked very hard as president and I've enjoyed it, but I don't mind being vice-president again. Students' needs are still the same and I can try to help them regardless of my position. Senate Government should work as a whole to help students as a whole," he said.

Some members of the 32nd Senate share Cupicha's feelings.

"Despite everything, I still love everybody," Arts and Sciences Senator Chris Riehl said.

Close your ears and open your eyes, John Q. Public!!! Because the architects of radio armageddon are at it again. Despite our efforts, Live365.com(mis) is luring droves of unsuspecting citizens into its wicked web. And before you can say "Adios, America!" these fresh, freckle-faced victims are drowning in Live365.com's endless streams of radio. With no fees, no formats and... NO FCC!!! does no FCC lead little thing called (Spontaneous Human Combustion) Do not fall prey to the distortions!

Distortion 1
"Live365.com's wide variety of radio stations makes for a pleasant pastime." Yeah, and they put flour in the water because it's good for us! (See our pamphlet, "Strong Bones & Teeth are Weakening America")

In the blink of an eye, you're listening 24 hours a day and the Liberty Bell is ringing in Red Square!

Distortion 2
"Broadcasting my own free radio allows me to express who I really am." Last time we looked at an American dictionary, there was no "I" in team. You should listen to licensed DJ's and regulated broadcasts just like everyone else. And if that means hearing one boy band too many, it's a small price to pay to keep our country great!

Distortion 3

Spirit of Seattle fight for rights

SAMI CKBONOW DAILY NEBRASKAN

(U-WIRE) LINCOLN, Neb. — It was likely the last great American protest of the 20th Century. The tortoise shells, tear gas and looting that filled the streets of Seattle last week was a beautiful thing, in some regards. Your take on the World Trade Organization makes little difference.

It’s the U.S. freedom of protest, picketing and the ability to be arrested, carted off to jail in the paddy wagon and then be released - not tortured or forced to sign a confession - that makes America what it is.

There was a moment in time, when, swear to God, the big boys of the WTO, which would include director Mike Moore and his more than 200 secretaries, must have lost their minds. America? Trade summit? Crazy.

Why not a smaller, more militant land, one that kills those who dare protest? Or, at the very least, new member China, whose numerous human rights violations against Tibet make it a worthy champion for trade.

But no. It seems the WTO, which is based in, of all places, Geneva and was founded little less than five years ago, couldn’t find credence until it dropped by the U.S. Until it passes over our eyes, the world must think, it can’t be real.

Well, the WTO does exist. Now everyone knows that Kids will, too, Capital of West Virginia? No way. But cops in riot gear? You becht.

From the looks of it, the protest will have some positive effects. Trade talks were ground to a halt as a result. And a larger number of people noticed first hand the detrimental effects of pepper gas, which means it will be tested on fewer animals.

But most importantly, America rediscovers the power of protest and, in doing so, the power of the First Amendment. Sure, there were some bad seeds sown out there in the rainy day sunshion land. In protests, there always will be. But the real message of Seattle is buried in the impact normal citizens can have through the right to free speech.

Often, people forget it. There isn’t formal learning of the Constitution until high school (at least there wasn’t for me).

Even when we do know it, freedom of speech takes on this abstract form without context, except when bad things do a bad thing and yells “Fire!” in a crowded theater.

Seattle reminds us of that. Look at the power of a few thousand people.

The WTO’s, a powerful organization, bigger than America, will not change all its stripes. But it will change some, which is secondary to the notion that we, as citizens, finally know its power.

And whether trade people like it or not, they will be held accountable for their acts.

If they weren’t self-aware of their own consequential actions before, they are now.

Seattle was the home to a classic sit-down strike early in our 20th Century. It helped shaped modern unions for railroad, factory and driving workers all over America.

Since that time, and somewhat before then, protest has been one of the everyday man’s most powerful vehicles for change.

The image of a burning draft card is indelible in our minds.

So there’s a picture of an arrested fetus.

The greatness of freedom of speech is the spectrum it spans. For some reason, every image of protest or movement strikes a chord in me and many others.

Unquestionably, President Clinton and many powerful senators, including those of Nebraska, most likely looked out the windows of their hotels and shook their heads at the crowds below. The law.

Cynicism has been part of the American tradition for the last 40 years or so, specifically in the postmodern era. It is so easy for them, and us, to give up.

Some of the more beautiful things I see every year at UNL are the Bible beaters. You know the ones that darn us all to hell, the ones I have spoken of before in disdain.

I do not like them, I do not like what they do. I hate what they preach and hate even more their judgment of others. But I would not trade them for silence. I cannot, unless I too want to be silenced some day.

I’ll keep them here in Lincoln, along with David Hibel, Ernie Chambers and every other rabble-rouser I never agreed with that ever came along. Their spirit is part of the spirit that lived in Seattle last week and part of the spirit that has shaped our nation for good and bad, over the years.

Freedom of speech is the sword we live and die by in America.

And as the century closes, that’s value above all else that we should remember.

Companies should follow food standards

CORY MEIER THE DAILY IOWAN

(U-WIRE) IOWA CITY, Iowa — Last week, a federal judge blocked an attempt by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to discipline Supreme Beef, a Dallas meat plant that has consistently failed to live up to newly initiated standards.

The judge ruled that actions taken by the Department of Agriculture could result in “irreparable harm” to the company.

The question that surrounds the judge’s decision is, which is more important to protect against possible harm: one company, or 1 million people?

It is true that temporarily witholding USDA inspectors, which prevents a company from selling its product, might irreversibly hurt the company.

However, it is also true that allowing a known substandard meat-producing facility to continue churning out its possibly tainted product might cause irreparable harm to people across the nation.

In 1995, the government adopted tougher food standards to improve citizen safety. One of the primary goals was to guarantee that meat production and processing would be virtually free of microbiotic contaminants, such as salmonella.

Foodborne salmonella poisoning harms more than 1 million people a year, and more than 550 die from it.

According to Supreme Beef — a supplier of beef to Walmart and approximately half of the ground beef used in the national school-lunch program up to 20 percent of its samples contained salmonella bacteria.

Under the new standards, the maximum percentage of contaminated beef allowed is 7.5 percent. Caroline Smith DeWaal, director of food safety for the Center for Science in the Public Interest, called Supreme Beef’s Level One contamination “an indicator that this plant is not keeping its food safety hazards under control.”

The new standards are neither overly burdensome nor unnecessary. They require plants to identify critical points in the production process at which contamination is likely to occur and then implement prevention plans.

In addition, the company has filed suit, arguing that regulating salmonella levels is within the government’s jurisdiction. It is wrong.

Keeping the public free from harmful products is fully within the government’s jurisdiction — even if it means possibly harming a company financially.

In the 1990 movie "Pretty Woman," Julia Roberts made being a prostitute look good. Almost 10 years later Rob Schneider is trying to do the same. In his newest movie "Deuce Bigalow: Male Gigolo," Schneider takes on his most unique role yet—a male escort.

In this off-the-wall comedy, Schneider plays the title role, a fish tank cleaner who is down on his luck. An ironic stumble into a debonair's pond has him falling into his chance to move up in the world. It is here where Deuce meets Antoine Laconite (Oded Fehr), a world class gigolo. After agreeing to fish-sit while Antoine is away on business, Deuce finds himself in "deep waters" when he accidentally destroys the gigolo's luxury apartment, including his $6000 fish tank.

In order to save his own skin, and with the help of a pimp (T.J. Hicks), Schneider becomes the sexiest gigolo to enter the business?well maybe not the sexiest, but definitely the funniest. In the course of Schneider's attempt to raise the money to fix the trashed apartment, he is behind course and with the help of a pimp (T.J. Hicks), Schneider becomes the sexiest gigolo to enter the business?well maybe not the sexiest, but definitely the funniest. In the course of Schneider's attempt to raise the money to fix the trashed apartment, he is behind course and with the help of a pimp (T.J. If Schneider were a Victoria's Secret model, he'd be the world's wildest one. In addition to his comedic and acting abilities, he is remembered for his claim to fame: "Big Daddy," which has produced a host of imitators. We asked if he'd ever consider returning to T.V., Schneider responded: "Television is merely disappointing, film is heartbreaking." And heartbreaking is something he loves. Schneider admits that there is "genius in simplicity," something many television shows lack today. "I honestly think there will never be another goodsit-com." For Schneider, the truth in that statement does not scare him in the least. As far as he is concerned, right now while making movies he says, "I'm having more fun then ever."

"Deuce" a sure ace at box office

Never underestimate the power of childhood fantasies. Little kids imagining their cars fighting each other grow into computer coders programming cars fighting each other.

"Toy Commander" has a surprising amount of violence for a game rated "Everyone."

Although it is bloodless and there are not any humans involved other than you, killing sentient toys is not the most innocuous activity. The game is built around solving problems; the player must use her vehicles to meet mission requirements from winning a race to finding a bomb, placing it on a bridge and blowing it up.

But many missions require you to shoot plastic figures and vehicles that make up the enemy (commanded by the rogue toy Huggy Bear).

The lesson is do not assume that just because it looks like it is for kids does not mean it's clean.

Of course, this is the type of stuff kids have always played without video games, so maybe there really is not a lesson.

The puzzles that need to be solved require both the ability to figure out a solution and good enough control of your vehicles to pull it off. These are pretty big requirements, though, because a lot of both abilities are required in a lot of the missions. Given enough time, anyone might be able to finish the games, but only at great irritation.

Despite these flaws, "Toy Commander" is full of varied and enthralling gameplay. Missions are relatively short (your goal time for most of them is under 10 minutes), but they usually need to be completed several times in order to be done efficiently enough to win.

Various vehicles need to be used in most missions, and it is mentally stimulating to figure out which to use and how.

There is a multiplayer mode that lets you shoot up your friends in the various rooms of the house. You do have the option of playing capture the flag, but really the point is to dog fight with your friends, like when you were kids viciously beating each other with your Christmas gifts.

"Toy Commander" is not for kids. It's for you.
Dear Nancy,

Recently my cousin called me to tell me she has a drug problem. We live in different states and I haven’t seen or spoken to her in at least a year and a half. We were always really close as children and in high school but we lost touch when we both went off to college. She made me promise not to tell anyone in our family, but I don’t even understand why she called me. How am I supposed to help her?

—Confused Cousin

Dear Confused Cousin,

Your cousin called you because she needs help. She’s obviously not in a good position right now and she probably doesn’t have anyone she can turn to. I don’t know the extent of her problem but I don’t think you should take this on by yourself. I suggest that you contact someone who’s close to where she is and have them at least go and talk to her. Although she had you promise not to involve your family, it will be in her best interest. It’s not necessary to tell the whole family but confide in someone that you’re close to and know that will be of some help. After you become aware of exactly what is going on you can decide what to do from there. Also remember that unless the addicted person wants to recover there’s not much a family can do but be of support.

Dear Nancy,

I’m worried about one of my friends. She’s very intelligent and I know that she could be very successful but she’s not doing anything with her life. She dropped out of college, lives at home and works full time at a dead end job. I asked her what she wants to do in the future and she said she doesn’t think about it. Am I supposed to just stand around and watch her be a loser or can I do something about it?

—Worried

Dear Worried,

What would you like to do? Graduate from college with a degree in her name? Fill out job applications and complete interviews claiming to be her so you can get her the job you think she should have?

Did you ever stop to think that maybe your friend is happy just the way she is? The two of you could have two completely different outlooks as to what being successful is and what is important in life. Or maybe she’s just waiting for her time to come. Everyone matures and experiences life differently, perhaps she just wasn’t ready for college at that particular moment in her life.

I know that with the end of the ’90s approaching it’s hard to imagine doing anything or making any type of living without a college education. But even so your friend will have to become aware of this on her own. All you can do is be her friend. You don’t have to agree with or support her decision but at least respect it. Let her know that you think she’s intelligent and play a positive role in her life.

Also if you have any thoughts of becoming a motivational speaker, please reconsider.

Calling people (especially your friends) losers doesn’t exactly make them feel motivated, if you know what I mean.

UCF professor Telep releases new novel

Patricia Canedo
Staff Writer

UCF Professor and recognized fiction author, Peter Telep, has recently released a third book in his sci-fi series, Descendant: Equinox, and is working on other exciting projects as well. While Professor Telep has taught four classes this past semester, he has also started work on a new series, a novel based on a movie due out in May 2000, and the fourth and final book to his series, Wing Commander.

The new series will be a little different from the book that he has written in the past, Telep has become so well recognized for his sci-fi writing, winning several writing awards including the John Steinbeck Award for fiction. Night Angel 9 will be a medical drama series about firefighters and paramedics. Although the story will be different from what Peter has become so well known for, he has still put in the same amount of research and hard work in that he put in with his other series. He has been consulting with a team of doctors and even did a ride along with the Seminole County Firefighters. Peter says that he puts in so much research to the book so that it will be as accurate as possible. Professor Telep said that he will be delivering the first book of the series in February 2000, the second book in June and the third book in October.

In May 2000 Warner Bros. Studio will release a movie starring Val Kilmer and Carrie Anne Moss. A novel based on the screenplay will also be released, titled Red Planet. Val Kilmer’s character is on the first voyage manned to Mars, when a catastrophe leaves him stranded on the Planet. Carrie Moss is an astronaut still in orbit when she has to decide whether to return home or save Val Kilmer’s character. Professor Telep will be holding a book signing at the Oviedo Marketplace Mall for the novel, Red Planet, the day that the movie comes to theaters.

Following the Professor Telep’s completion of the third book in the Night Angel 9 series, he will be releasing the latest book in the Wing Commander series, Pilgrim Truth will be out in November of 2000 and will be the last book of the series. Professor Telep recently held a book signing at the Oviedo Marketplace Mall, Saturday, December 4th. Professor Telep has been keeping such a busy schedule that while he was explaining his new projects to me, he was signing books and talking to audience members. Although he stated that he will be working on his writing right through the holiday season and unfortunately will not be able to be to work as an administrative coordinator this summer. The position he held over the past summers allowed him among other projects to teach the Oviedo Marketplace Mall an administrative coordinator this summer. The position he held over the past summers allowed him to work with Pegasida directly and be able to help incoming students schedule classes.

Professor Telep is also working on other projects for the future. He is working on establishing a new book deal with Jerry Doyle of Babylon 5. Peter is also being considered to write a novel to tie in with a movie Space Cowboys. The action adventure movie will star Clint Eastwood and Tommy Lee Jones, amongst other. Professor Telep does aspire to some day return to writing scripts for TV shows and movies, he has written scripts for In the Heat of the Night and The Legend of Prince Valiant, in California.

Besides releasing the third installment of his novel his sci-fi Descent, Telep has plans for movie, new novels, and Carson Bros. second novel, the movie, and other projects for the future. He is working on establishing a new book deal with Jerry Doyle of Babylon 5. Peter is also being considered to write a novel tie-in with a movie Space Cowboys. Local Ska-Reggae heroes play a packed Sapphire

Local band, Bughead, returned to Sapphire Supper Club's stage on Friday, Dec. 3. Back in September they appeared there to celebrate the release of their new CD and Madden 2000. Although there were no major releases the band still performed well and gave the audience a good time.

KUNG FU'D has been selling in music stores around Orlando since its release in September. The CD is a great example of the band's ability to play any kind of music they choose. The music style of the CD severely changes in the fourth track. The song Love Is Lovely is a reggae song, mainly focusing on John Gnuechtel's keyboard and Pat Jones's drums. The vocals are also done deeper than the previous songs, overall performed and written greatly.

Each track has its own distinct sound to them. Track number nine, It Won't Be Long, has a faster beat and vocals, John playing the trumpet, mixed with the drums and breaks in between lyrics for outstanding guitar riffs. KUNG FU'D includes a secret song, Bughead does a cover in of "We work hard for the money", reggae style.

In case anyone missed their performance at the Sapphire Supper Club this past Saturday, Bughead has another performance coming up, along with Gargamel. Both bands will appear at the Liquid Cellar on Thursday, December 9th right by campus. This would be a great opportunity to experience the many styles of Bughead.
Dr. Dre

Chronic 2001

Don't expect party anthems in the vein of "Nuthin' But a 'G' Thang," this is a much more subtle assault on the ears. Though he may not have the G-Funk sound anymore, he's still pushing the same tales of misogyny, violence ("Xplosive"), and drug use ("Let's Get High").

Though he won't win any PC fans with "Chronic 2001," it's still premium stuff.

Shawn Mullin
The First Ten Years

It was just over a year ago that Shawn Mullins' voice began to find a regular home on the airways across the country. "Lullaby" had become a staple for most hit stations and was a song that I constantly heard playing in rooms across campus. It was always one that I enjoyed hearing myself.

"Lullaby" was so successful. As for the music itself, "The First Ten Years" contains the purest, crispest sounds that I have heard in quite a while. Mullins' career has been defined by acoustic music that was honed on the road, and that feeling of a man alone with his guitar is captured on a number of the tracks, with styles ranging from light rock to folk ballads.

The highlight of the album comes on the fourth track, "Joshua," a song about a young boy's companion-ship with an older man who taught him how to play guitar. The lyrics, singing and guitar playing all work together on this song to create a laid-back, reminiscent style that captures the listener and carries him through the story. The peak of the song comes in the catchy chorus where Mullins' sings "Oh, way back when/He was sixty-five and I was ten/And I will never be as free again/Oh, way back when" over the sound of a lightly strummed guitar.

The bookends of the album are maintained by two up-tempo soft-rock songs, "Lately" and "Changes," both of which are very catchy and fun to just groove to, especially in the choruses. The two are also songs taken from recent movie soundtracks, "Big Daddy" and "The Faculty," respectively. However, the album's greatest strengths come at different times, though, when the drums and other instruments are stripped away and Mullins' sits down with just himself and his guitar. This is especially true on the songs "Evolution Man" and "Canyons & Caverns."

The second is a song about clinging to the contours of one's past that uses a variety of scenes and images to shape visions of times gone by. For those that absolutely love "Lullaby" and "Shimmer," I wouldn't go picking up this album for more of the same. The songs on "The First Ten Years" are of an entirely different vein. However, they all sound wonderful; they are just sparser in their arrangement and a little less mainstream, which is perfectly fine with me.

UCF's Howell Named To All-Southeast Region Team

The National Soccer Coaches Association of America named University of Central Florida midfielder Cally Howell (Winter Park/Lake Howell HS) to the All-Southeast region second team. Howell finished the season with 12 assists, tying her for third on the list of all-time UCF season assist leaders with assistant coach and former All-American Michelle Akers. Howell spent most of the season among the nation's top 25 assist leaders, peaking at 16th, and finished the season second in the Trans America Athletic Conference for assists.

Already one of UCF's career assist leaders with one more year left in eligibility, Howell is a two time All-TAAC selection. Her two assists and one goal in the TAAC Tournament earned her tournament MVP honors and helped the Golden Knights to their fifth TAAC title in six years.

"I'm really proud of Cally," said UCF head coach Amanda Cromwell. "She always gives one hundred per cent on the field and is a tremendous asset to this team."

Also named to the Huntington Banks/Reebok Soccer Classic and Florida Atlantic All-Tournament teams this season, Howell is the first UCF midfielder to be selected to the All-Southeast Region team since All-American and former assistant coach Amy Jones received the honor in 1996.

UCF Landed Six of Florida's Top High School Seniors

The University of Central Florida has recruited six of the top 185 Florida high school seniors during the NCAAA's early signing period, Baseball America magazine announced last week. The state's ninth-rated player, left-handed pitcher Dane Artman (Key West/Westminster Academy), leads the class committed to UCF. Terry Townend (St. Augustine/Nease HS), Paul Lubrano (Winter Springs/Oviedo HS), Blaine Schulte (Oviedo/Oviedo HS), Scott Carmichael (Orlando/University HS) and Justin Cerrato (Clearwater/Clearwater HS) also declared their intent to play for UCF and all appear on the list of top players.

Florida (12), Miami (9) and Florida State (7) were the only in-state colleges to have announced more signings off the list to date.

"I'm pleased that we seem to have raised the bar every year," said assistant head coach Greg Frady, the team's recruiting coordinator. "I think it's a great testament to Coach Frady and his recruiting ability," head coach Jay Bergman said. "The direction that the stadium is going also helped attract top players." The Golden Knights are slated to move into Bergman Field on campus pending the stadium's completion in February.

U.S. Amateur Qualifier & Junior World Tour Star To Join UCF

Stephen Davis (Winter Park/Trinity Preparatory School) and Nick Bos (Ocoee/West Orange HS) have signed national letters of intent to play golf for the University of Central Florida beginning in fall 2000, men's golf coach Brian Craig announced Tuesday. Davis qualified for the 1998 U.S. Amateur tournament and finished in fourth place in Florida's state high school tournament as a freshman. He was named first team All-Orange County for four consecutive seasons.

"I think Steve is an extremely talented player with a good academic record," Craig said. "I have watched him in past tournaments and feel he is going to be a terrific college player!"

Bos is a member of the Future Collegians World Tour and the American Junior Golf Association and has been playing golf for over four years.

Most recently, Bos was selected an FCWT third team All-American. The 1999-2000 District Medalist, Bos also took 10th place at this year's AJGA Innisbrook tournament and 11th at the 1998 AJGA DirectTV tournament.

"When he gets more playing experience, Nick will blossom into an excellent player. He has only been playing golf for four and a half years," Craig commented. "Nick is an exceptionally gifted student too and that attracted me to recruit him."

UCF's men's golf team resumes play Feb. 7 at the Bridges All-American Intercollegiate Invitational in Bay St. Louis, Miss. Craig said he plans to add three more golfers in the spring signing period that begins April 1.

Double Your Pleasure

During the UCF Golden Knights Classic on December 3-4, junior center Camille Howard registered two double-doubles, leading the Golden Knights to a 1-1 record in the event. In a 78-68 loss to Bethune Cookman, Howard scored 16 points and grabbed thirteen rebounds to lead the team, and in a 72-63 win over Fairleigh Dickinson, Howard posted a nearly identical line with 16 points and 12 boards. Junior forward LaDonna Larry also posted a double-double against Fairleigh Dickinson, scoring 15 points and getting 10 rebounds. It was the fourth of her career.

Junior forward Paula Nesbitt also missed out on a double-double against FDU, scoring 10 points and dishing out nine assists.

Injury Report

UCF played the Golden Knights Classic with just eight healthy players, putting Head Coach Gail Striegler at a personnel disadvantage. Sophomore guard Leslie Deaton missed the tourney with a fractured right foot that will keep her out at least two weeks, and freshman guard Ashlee Balance, the team's only true point guard, is out indefinitely right now.

"When Ashlee gets back that'll help us because it will give us another point guard," said Striegler.

"Ashlee's out indefinitely right now," said Striegler. "When Ashlee gets back that'll help us because it will give us another point guard. She's a true point guard."

In the meantime, freshman Diana Hill barely missed out on a double-double against FDU, scoring 10 points and missing 10 free throws.

Improved Point Play

One of the biggest worries for Coach Striegler early in the season is the play of her point guards. Freshman Ashlee Balance, the team's only true point guard, is sitting on the bench with an injury, only able to watch. "Ashlee's out indefinitely right now," said Striegler. "When Ashlee gets back that'll help us because it will give us another point guard."

In the meantime, freshman Diana Hill and junior Nancy Richter will have to share time at the point. Both normally play the shooting guard position.

"Nancy and Diana are going to have to take the point guard position and do the best that they can do with it, and we'll try and relieve the pressure on them as much as we can," said Striegler.

The play of the duo has improved steadily so far. In UCF's first two games against South Florida and Florida, they combined for 14 assists and only 9 points. In the two games of the Golden Knights Classic, however, they combined for 37 points and 23 assists. Against Fairleigh Dickinson, both set season highs in both categories. Turnovers have been a problem though, as Hill and Richter have combined for 42 of them this season.

Tri-fecta Perfecta

In UCF's win over Fairleigh Dickinson, Nancy Richter broke out of a season long shooting slump to nail four 3-pointers in only six attempts. Richter has now made 16 3-pointers in her career; good enough for the third best total in UCF history. During the season, Richter had been tied with Chariya Davis (1995-1999) and Kelli Murray (1994-1996) with 56 career 3-pointers. Richter failed to break the tie until the season's fourth game, going 0 for 7 from beyond the arc to start the year. She needs five more treys to tie

Kate Fetnek (1995-1999) for second place on the list.

UCF Women's Basketball Adds Two Guards in Early Period

University of Central Florida head women's basketball coach Gail Striegler announced today the signing of Nicole Dunson (Corpus Christi, Texas/Mary Carroll HS) and Nichole Hearns (Miami/Miami Edison HS) to national letters of intent.

Dunson, a 5-8 guard, averaged 17 points, 5.3 assists, 4.4 rebounds and 3.6 steals per game over her last three years at Mary Carroll High School. An USA Today Honorable Mention All-American as a junior, Dunson earned Texas Basketball Magazine preseason all-State honors this year.

The two-time first team all-South Texas, Metro District selection, also earned first team all-region and all-state accolades last year. Academically, Dunson is in the top 10 of her class and has been recognized as a Who's Who Among America High School Students. Last year she received a Celebration of Educational Excellence Award from Texas Governor George W. Bush Jr. and the Texas State Board of Education.

Hearns, a 5-3 point guard, is averaging 14.4 points in five games this season at Pearl River Community College in Poplarville, Miss. Last year at PRCC, she was the Lady Wildcats number two scorer, averaging 17.6 points, and was also second on the team in steals with 60 (2.6 per game) and in assists with 58 (2.5 per game) on route to earning all-State honors.

At Miami Edison High School, Hearns led the 1995-96 team to the state championship title earning championship MVP honors as well as all-state and all-Dade County accolades.

Maintaining a lead, a problem for UCF

by the outside shooting of junior Nancy Richter, UCF pulled away down the stretch for a 72-63 victory. Richter hit three 3-pointers in the second half and finished the game with 13 points and six assists.

The Golden Knights were led in scoring by junior Camille Howard, who recorded her second double-double of the tournament with 16 points and 12 rebounds. Junior forward LaDonna Larry also had a double-double for UCF with 15 points and 10 rebounds, including a team-high four offensive boards.

Junior guard Melanie Prol, who had 20 points and eight rebounds, led Fairleigh Dickinson on the night. UCF (1-3) outrebounded FDU (1-5) 55-37.

Against Bethune Cookman, the Golden Knights fell behind early and were unable to overcome 31 turnovers, losing 78-68 to the Wildcats. Trailing 36-31 at halftime, UCF went on a 12-0 run early in the second half to take a 50-44 lead, but were unable to hold onto their advantage. B-CC went on a 19-6 run with 8:33 left in the game and held off a late rally by UCF for the victory. B-CC was led by guard Dena Thomas, who scored 26 points, 19 of which came in the second half. Janice Haynes added 14 points and 5 rebounds for the Wildcats, and Thomas also led the team with 4 assists.

"They came out aggressive and we were not aggressive," said UCF Head Coach Gail Striegler. "I honestly think that was the difference in the game."

UCF was led by junior center Camille Howard, who scored 16 points and grabbed 13 rebounds. Junior forward LaToya Graham added 15 points and 8 rebounds, while sophomore Khaliah Guillory had 10 points. Freshman point guard Diana Hill led the team with six assists, but also had seven turnovers. The Golden Knights, who outrebounded B-CC 61-40, relied almost exclusively on their inside game for points, making very few shots from the perimeter. Nancy Richter, the team's top outside shooter went 3 for 9 from the field including 1 for 6 on 3-point attempts.

"They were really clamping down defensively and I kept telling our kids to give it to the post players because they were the ones who had been scoring for us," said Striegler. "The guards didn't make anything again tonight."

Bethune Cookman (3-2) followed their win over UCF with a victory over Winthrop in their tournament finale.

UCF returns to action on December 12, traveling to Washington, D.C. for a game against American University.
USF bullies its way past Golden Knights

By Tony Mejia
SPORTS EDITOR

UCF’s only lead against South Florida lasted barely a minute, as center Scott Johnson’s 3-pointer erased a 2-0 advantage. It only got worse from there.

Alton Jackson and Artis Reeves came off the bench with the Bulls up just 14-11 to key a 21-3 run that eliminated any hope of a Golden Knight win, as USF cruised 79-55.

“I think this is the best South Florida team they’ve had since I’ve been here at UCF,” Speraw said. “It’s the deepest, the most talented and the most skilled at all positions. It’s just an outstanding basketball team and they always key from the outside. That more than anything keyed the defensive aspect. It only got worse from there.

Tonight, we were hungry and our half-court defense was really the key. When we get that set we really got the stops,” Speraw said. Coupled with UCF’s inability to knock down the open shot, the Bulls defense was often suffocating, resulting in 20 Knight turnovers and 36 percent shooting.

“Our offensive execution wasn’t up to the challenge tonight,” Speraw said. “We’re pretty shaky right now. When we do execute well, we don’t see a pass we should make that’s open. If we do see it, we don’t catch it. If we do catch it, we don’t finish it. And any number of break­downs right now. We’re a team that’s obviously struggling and we have to find a way to come together as a group and fight our way out of this hole.”

D’Quarios Stewart led UCF with 11 points, but continued to struggle from the field, shooting 4-of-14 from the field. Jason Thornton, Davin Granberry, and Cory Perry all scored seven points in the loss.

Pro, who had 20 points and eight rebounds, led Fairleigh Dickinson on the night. UCF (1-3) outrebounded FDU (1-5) 55-37.

Coach Kirk Speraw will try to get UCF back to playing sound basketball and executing the offense correctly when the team gets back on the court against Flagler after a disappointing loss to South Florida.

Coach Kirk Speraw will try to get UCF back to playing sound basketball and executing the offense correctly when the team gets back on the court against Flagler after a disappointing loss to South Florida.
Lovett returns to lineup
At the 1-04 mark of the first half in UCF's 24-point loss to South Florida, senior forward Mario Lovett made his much anticipated first appearance of the 1999-2000 season.

Lovett missed the Golden Knights first five games this season, a major reason for the team's early struggles. The senior forward from Tampa is the team's top rebounder and post defender, but was sidelined after surgery to remove scar tissue from his left foot early in the preseason.

"He has to get it headed, he has to get it back to 100 percent where he can play the way he's capable of playing," Coach Kirk Speraw said. "But he hasn't practiced in a month and we can't expect too much from him."

Lovett didn't give the Knights much in his debut, playing 11 minutes and finishing with two points and three turnovers. "Obviously you could see he was pretty rusty," Speraw said. "He practiced for three days this week and tried to overcome some things. He ran better yesterday than he ran tonight. I thought he would bounce around a little bit better tonight but we have to get the rust off him."

Perry's ankle keeps him out of starting lineup
Senior point guard Cory Perry didn't start at his customary spot, giving way to freshman Al Miller. Perry has been slowed with a sprained ankle but played a productive 24 minutes, scoring seven points and grabbing a team-high six rebounds while dishing out two assists.

Miller also started at the SoCon Holiday Hoops tournament, logging major minutes. "I'm searching for some changes but I'm not sure if any of the changes we might make are the answer," Speraw said. "We tried a lot of different people playing a lot of different minutes giving everyone a lot of opportunity."

Miller matched up at the point with fellow freshman Reggie Kohl of USF and had two points, three assists and two turnovers. "He's still a freshman," Speraw said. "He's making some good plays but he's still making some freshman errors as well."

Winless start has frustration mounting
Losing three games by a combined 12 points at the SoCon Holiday Hoops only to come home and get pummeled by South Florida is taking its toll on the Golden Knights.

"We're a frustrated bunch," said Speraw. "We're frustrated on the execution side of it, we're frustrated on the execution side of it and we're frustrated on the injury side of it."

Unable to play at his full speed of players, Speraw had trouble putting together a lineup at both ends of the floor. The injury to Lovett and lack of a low post threat has taken its toll on UCF's perimeter shooting.

"This is a bottom-line world but if there's anything, we understand we're not shooting it very well," Speraw said. "We can play a lot better and yet we're right there. In the last five, six minutes of the game, we only put up maybe two or three points. It's hard to win any game that way."

"We keep coming up with more and more problems along the way and it's real demoralizing."

Greenberg concerned by UCF's attack
Despite his team's relatively simple victory over the Golden Knights, USF Coach Seth Greenberg revealed after the game how apprehensive he was about the UCF attack.

"It's easy for me to say, but I know exactly how Kirk feels right now," Greenberg said. "They're going to be a good team. I was scared to death. I have to be honest with you. Watching the Clemson tape, they run good stuff, they execute. They have guys who can make shots."

I thought we got them out of a rhythm defensively. You watch (Jason) Thornton make jumpers against Clemson with people in his face and you say 'whoa.'"

Greenberg's team came in 0-2, having lost to George Washington and Tennessee. - Tony Mejia
Demp's, Lee, Lorenti, And Moore Named to All-Independent Team

Special to the Future

University of Central Florida junior strong safety Damian Deme (Miami/Carol City High Schools), senior receiver Charles Lee (Homestead/Homestead High School), junior center Chris Lorenti (South Daytona/Atlantic High School), and senior defensive tackle Justen Moore (Ocala/Vanguard High School) were named to the 1999 Football News All-Independent team. This is the second such honor for Moore, who was named to the Football News All-Independent team last year. He and Lorenti were on that publication's 1999 preseason All-Independent team as well.

Demp's led the team in tackles for the second consecutive year, finishing this season with 72. He registered interceptions in back-to-back games against Purdue's Drew Bees and Florida's Doug Johnson. He had a team-high 12 tackles against Eastern Illinois, nine tackles against Georgia, eight tackles against Florida and eight tackles against Auburn.

Lee led the team in receptions with 87, and yards with 1,133. He also had five touchdowns receptions. He finished seventh in the country in receptions per game and ninth in receiving yardage per game. His 87 receptions fell one shy of the school record for a season while his 1,133 yards ranked fourth all-time. He finished with a flurry, catching 31 passes for 441 yards in the final three games. His best game of the year came against Auburn when he caught 11 passes for a career-high 203 yards, including an 83-yard touchdown reception. He caught 11 passes for 170 yards, including a 58-yard touchdown against Florida.

Lorenti, a three-year starter and the leader of the offensive line, played 726 plays during the season with a composite grade of 85 percent and seven "roach" blocks. Despite the fact that most of those plays were passes, he surrendered only 1.5 sacks. He recorded a season-high grade of 94 percent against Louisiana Tech, followed by grades of 90 percent against Georgia Tech and Eastern Illinois and 88 percent against Purdue and Georgia.

Moore led the team in tackles for loss this year with 12 and is the school's record holder in that category with 36. He led the team in quarterback pressures with 29. He was fifth on the team in total tackles with 52, including six against Purdue and six, including two behind the line of scrimmage, against Florida. He also intercepted two passes in 1999, including one against Football News' Independent Player of the Year Tim Rattay from Louisiana Tech.

Lee Announces He Will Pursue Professional Football

SPECIAL TO THE FUTURE

University of Central Florida senior receiver Charles Lee (Homestead/Homestead HS), who led the team this year with 87 receptions for 1,133 yards, announced that he will pursue professional football next year rather than attempt to gain another year of eligibility at the college level.

Lee, who came to UCF as a partial qualifier in 1996, had to sit out his freshman year. If he would have graduated this year, his fourth at the school, he could have petitioned the NCAA to restore the year of eligibility that was taken from him.

"It was a long, drawn-out process making this decision," Lee said. "I had to determine if I thought I was physically and mentally ready to play at the next level and I came to the conclusion that I was ready."

Lee finished seventh in the country in receptions per game and ninth in receiving yardage per game. His 87 receptions fell one shy of the school record for a season while his 1,133 yards ranked fourth all-time. He finished with a flurry, catching 21 passes for 411 yards in the final three games. His best game of the year came against Auburn when he caught 11 passes for a career-high 203 yards, including an 83-yard touchdown reception. He also caught 11 passes for 170 yards, including a 50-yard touchdown against Florida.

"I enjoyed my time here at UCF, the fans were tremendous," Lee said. "I feel I accomplished the goals I wanted to this year and now it's time to move on to bigger and better goals."

UCF women claim first victory of the season

BY DAVID MARSTERS

It took some time, but the UCF basketball program finally registered its first win of the season.

The UCF women finally secured a win on the hardwood, beating the men to the punch by dropping Old Dominion in the final game of the UCF Golden Knights Classic.

From December 3-4, the UCF women's basketball team hosted the UCF Golden Knights Classic, bringing in teams from Fairleigh Dickinson, Bethune Cookman, and Winthrop University for a round-robin tournament. The Golden Knights entered the event winless on the season, and their chances weren't improved any by the fact that only eight team members were available to play. Injured guards Leslie Deaton and Ashlee Balance, along with forward Paula Nesbitt sat and watched as the team played two games in two days.

After dropping their first game 72-68 to Bethune Cookman, the Golden Knights took on Fairleigh Dickinson in the tournament finale. FDU, coming off a 68-62 loss to Winthrop in their opener, took control of the game early on and led for most of the first half.

UCF fought back to tie the game at 22-22, at outscored FDU 14-6 over the final 3:46 to take a 36-28 lead into the locker room. The halftime advantage was the first for the Golden Knights this season.

Maintaining a lead had been a problem for UCF this season, as they blew a six point lead in the second half the night before against Bethune Cookman, but the Golden Knights would hold onto this one. FDU pulled to within four at one point in the second half, but would get no closer. Led

Flagler visits UCF for first time in a decade

BY TONY MEJIA

It should make for quite an interesting evening this Friday when UCF's all-time leading scorer comes home, bringing Flagler College with him. Well, not the entire college, but the men's basketball team at least.

Bo Clark, who scored 2,886 points from 1978-80 while playing for his father, legendary coach Gene "Tooby" Clark, has become a distinguished coach himself, winning 222 games in 14 seasons entering 1999-2000, and brings his team to the UCF Arena for a 7:30 p.m. game.

Flagler, a St. Augustine-based school with an enrollment of 1,650, plays in the Florida Sun Conference in the NAIA Division II, and should present a prime opportunity for the Golden Knights to get their first win of the season.

The Saints give UCF an opportunity to work on their execution before a tough trip that will see the team play at Ohio University and Louisville in a three-day span before returning home to play UNC-Wilmington.

"It's a tough week on student-athletes all across the country with finals," Speraw said.

With it being finals week, the Golden Knights will have to balance getting their season back on track with finishing up strong on their academic courses.

"Hopefully we can put some good practices together before Flagler comes in to play a lot better and more to our capabilities," Speraw said.

"It's a tough week on student-athletes all across the country with finals," Speraw said.

"They're focused a lot on their academics, and yet we have to get a lot of things accomplished on the basketball side of things and fight our way out of this hole."
