UCF swim club gets its feet wet

Jeff Caplan, a sophomore, has founded a UCF swim club. The team consists of two divisions, a club team and a Masters division.

RUTH HEIDT
STAFF WRITER

More sound is coming from the UCF pool as new waves are being made by the recently established UCF Swim Club. For the first time in UCF history, there is a swim club on campus.

Jeff Caplan, a UCF sophomore, took the initiative and has worked to create the new swim club. "I felt it was time for a swim team to be established considering Florida is the second most significant location for the sport of swimming," said Caplan.

Caplan is not only the founder, but is also working as a coach for the morning practices, captain and is a swimmer as well. Besides himself, Caplan has been getting help and support from other students such as Karen Zarger, Justin Daniel and Sabrina Kalish.

The UCF team has to work its way up to the Division I level, but that doesn't mean the competition stops," said Caplan.

Currently the UCF Swim Club has two classifications, a club team and a Masters team. In order to compete in a Masters division meet, the swimmers must be 19 years of age or older. The competition and meets are divided up into age groups in which the swimmers participate. The Masters classification allows students of all ages to compete, unlike certain club leagues, which limit the ages for legal competition.

There are several meets on the schedule for the future, which is one way for the team to get proper recognition," said Caplan.

The team practices 10 times a week. There are two practices a day on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, both in the mornings and afternoons.

"Training is one of the keys in any sport," said Caplan. There is an afternoon practice every day Monday through Saturday and a morning practice on Sunday. The practices range anywhere from 3,500 - 8,000 yards depending on the practice attended.

"Having so many practices gives the team the advantage because you have worked out the kinks in strokes and technique," said Caplan.

As with the creation of any organization, several glitches appeared in the first two weeks. "One of the major problems that we have been having is not the amount of participation," said Caplan, "but the capacity and availability of the pool."

The UCF pool facilities consist of a six lane, 25-yard pool with a diving well containing two spring boards.

PROCTOR, Page 4

Signing on to sign up

ELINNA JACOB
STAFF WRITER

Beginning mid-October, for the spring 2001 registration, the Schedule of Classes book will become the Schedule Web Guide. UCF is moving up in the world, and in doing so, is moving online.

The new Schedule Web Guide will be everything the old course book was and more. It will be fast, user-friendly and updated every 15 minutes for students' convenience and up-to-the-minute accuracy.

"The problem before was that we would print the Schedule of Classes in March and students wouldn't use it to register until the end of August. A lot of changes happen during that time — it was about six months old, and accuracy really became an issue," said Charles Roller, Assistant Director at UCF Registrar's Office, about the timeliness and inaccuracy of the old Schedule of Classes.

"There would be over 1,000 changes per semester in the old Schedule of Classes," said Dale Shriver, a Student Record's Trainer for the Registrar's Office, once students actually started.

ONLINE, Page 5

Board of Regents approves population growth for UCF

JAMES NUNEZ
STAFF WRITER

The Board of Regents, which aids the Legislature in determining fund allocation among Florida colleges by projecting future enrollment growth, recently awarded the University of Central Florida with the largest number of full-time student enrollment slots.

Of the 51,847 full-time student slots that the Board of Regents is permitted to distribute to each Florida institution, UCF was awarded an astonishing 6,303 spaces to be filled by 2003 or 2006. Fulfillment of these could raise UCF's total student body to about 43,000 and distinguish it as the fifth largest university in the United States.

Based on the predicted enrollment numbers presented by the Board of Regents, the Legislature must determine the amount of funds needed by that particular university to reach its goal. Some of these monies are rewarded in the form of a Capital Improvement Trust Fund. The CITF, which is invested every year to a different school, will provide UCF with 6 - 10 million dollars for the funding of athletic and recreational facilities and programs. Other money sources such as PECO, an organization that dis-
UCF - Students, Staff, Faculty & Alumni Special

3.5% over invoice on new and pre-owned vehicles.

2001 Jetta GL
$216 mo/48 mos.*
*Leases are calculated with $1500 total down. Includes 1st payment, 0 sec. deposit, tags and license.

2001 New Beetle GL
$216 mo/48 mos.*
*Leases are calculated with $1500 total down. Includes 1st payment, 0 sec. deposit, tags and license.

2001 Golf GL
$216 mo/48 mos.*
*Leases are calculated with $1500 total down. Includes 1st payment, 0 sec. deposit, tags and license.

We Can Assist You With:
- COLLEGE GRAD PROGRAM
- FIRST TIME BUYER
- CREDIT PROBLEMS

Communications Day a success

Elissa Jacob

Hundreds of students turned out for free food and great prizes Sept. 29 at the 20th annual Communications Day (C-Day) held at Lake Claire. Hyla, a morning DJ blazed music from "Blue Thunder," XL 106.7's big blue radio on wheels. Was this a block party? No, it was the School of Communications' C-Day event - an opportunity for students to see their professors and classmates outside of class and have a good time.

The event was the 20th annual C-Day put on by Quotes, the advertising and public relations club. The annual party held in Lake Claire allowed students, professors and staff to mix and mingle in a relaxed, fun environment.

Adam Mallard, an Organizational Communication student and Quotes member planned and organized this year's event with the help of many others. Mallard was pleased with the student turnout.

"I think it was a great success. The only thing I would change next year is to have more publicity leading up to the event. I really want to thank XU for coming out tonight - they really did a great job entertaining the crowd," he said.

"I think we (XL 106.7) helped draw the students here, also I tried to promote C-Day on the radio everyday this week," said Hyla.

The students entertained themselves with activities and contests. The student who could do the most creative thing with a plastic spoon won a dinner for two at Hop's Restaurant.

C-Day ran from 12-2 p.m. with free food from Olive Garden, Foggare's, Sonny's Subway and Papa John's. Hourly raffles gave away prizes such as dinner for two to Don Pablo's, tickets to a comedy club and tanning sessions.

When comparing the event with the previous years, Frank Stansberry, an Advertising and Public Relations professor, was pleased with the turnout.

"Overall it was better than last year; the students stayed longer and they did more. Last year they just came for extra credit, grabbed pizza and left. It's improving every year, and the kids are having fun," said Stansberry.

UCF slated to become one of the biggest schools in the USA

FROM PAGE 1

tributes small portions of Florida utility taxes to colleges, are used purely for the construction of academic facilities.

UCF President John Hitt believes that this rapid student growth is due, in part, to what UCF offers its students.

"We have a good campus environment, the city of Orlando is attractive, and we have a good mix of curriculums," said Hitt. He is confident that UCF's augmentation is the direct result of Florida's rapid growth. The Orlando Sentinel reports that the number of Florida high school students is rising, and under the Board of Regent's plan, UCF would attract the largest portion.

The rise in the number of applicants for admission to UCF throughout the 1990's supports the Sentinel's report. In 1994, the total number of applicants was about 7,700. This fall, UCF received over 15,000 applications.

Christine Kurle, a senior and executive vice president of the UCF Undergraduate Student Government, believes that UCF is no longer a "second-choice" school, behind such nationally known colleges as the University of Florida and Florida State University. She feels that, finally, students are beginning to make UCF their first choice.

"Part of [the student's] attraction [to the college] is the sense that the University of Central Florida has developed and matured academically," said Dean McFall, UCF's Director of News and Information.

As it has grown, UCF has raised its applicant enrollment requirements. The collective GPA for this year's freshman class was an estimated 3.61, making UCF one of the most selective state colleges in Florida.

Both McFall and Kurle agree that the university has received great recognition through its academic and intercollegiate sports programs. "We've developed programs that stand up to some of the best in the state," said McFall. "We have become a solid institution."

With the rising quality of UCF academic and research programs, as well as the national recognition brought about by the filmmakers of the Blair Witch Project and Minnesota Viking's quarterback Daunte Culpepper, UCF is quickly becoming a substantial competition for stalwarts like UF and FSU.

Officials believe that UCF has done a sufficient job of managing the growing difficulties it has encountered. Despite a few problems with providing a small number of students with the appropriate classes, and others being removed from their dormitories to make room, officials maintain that they are doing everything in their power to make sure every student receives necessary attention. In addition to more dorm rooms, biological science, psychology, business, education, criminal justice, performing arts and teaching support center buildings are planned for construction over the next five years.

"We have a very active enrollment services and student development effort. We closely track incoming freshman and [group] them with advisors in the early stages. They are not without access to resources, I think you see an improving retention record as a result of those efforts," said McFall.

---

edsouth

Extra Cash for college?

Reduce your student loan fees by 50% just by choosing edsouth as your lender. That gives you more money up front for books and supplies. In addition to the low fixed rates, edsouth offers quick application turnaround, quality customer service, and an innovative web site for students.

edsouth is a direct, non-profit corporation based in Knoxville. We provide low educational planning assistance and low-cost student loans to students throughout the South. To learn more about our products and services, call us at 1-800-edsouth or visit our web site at www.edsouth.org.

edsouth

An edamerica serviced lender
College Jobs

Sea World not a good work environment

College students all over know the woes of attending school and having to maintain a job at the same time. As with all jobs, some are good, some are bad and many are quite awful. Through this series we will be exploring both the good and bad jobs that college students hold and have maintained in the past.

Darcy Elena Rodriguez  STAFF WRITER

Andre Small is a sophomore Psychology major at UCF. He spends his working hours at Sea World. The attractions are popular work places for many UCF students. One can find UCF students working in all of the major attractions in Orlando and neighboring areas. Is having a job at one of the attractions a good idea for students?

Small, 18 years old, has been working at Sea World since high school. He works in the merchandising department, which is in charge of vendors who sell goods during the different shows. Small earns $7 an hour.

"I started working in high school for extra cash," said Small of his decision to work for Sea World.

As a highlight of the job, he enjoys free tickets to Sea World and Universal Studios. Small also receives discounts at several stores in the Orlando area.

While the benefits seem enticing, Small said that working at Sea World isn't as great as it sounds. When asked if he enjoys his job at Sea World, he replied: "No, because I don't get recognition for all the labor I do." While he does not appreciate the lack of acknowledgment for his work, Small does note that there are some good points. His friends, he says, are the best part of his job. The overall environment is the worst part however.

Small admitted that working at Sea World in merchandise is not a good job for a college student because of the poor environment. He feels that high school students are better suited for the job. While getting free admission to various theme parks and much needed discounts for college students sounds tempting, the working environment may be just as important, if not more so, than the benefits. Small believed that this is an important tip to remember if you're looking for a job while in college.

Small's job at Sea World is certainly not the best job he's ever held. But is it his worst? "Working in the cornfield," he said took the cake.

Proctor balancing both campaign and school and this concept can be applied to the people elected to office.

FROM PAGE 1

Among some things on her agenda is ensuring the end of the extra one-cent sales tax, to solve the transportation problems that plague Seminole County and to decrease excessive governmental regulations. Protecting the environment while ensuring that private property rights are not violated is a fine line to be walked, but she believes that it can be done.

"I think that if common sense were applied to government at all levels, waste could be decreased and people would feel better about their elected officials," said Proctor.

She admits that it has been tough to manage both her campaign and her job, but she fully intends, if elected, to serve the four-year term with integrity and maintaining the balance between school and political office. She has not declared her major, but believes that this experience will help her to decide where she wants to be when she graduates.

There are plans in the works to participate in a Candidate Forum at Channel 24, Oct. 18. The Libertarian party has also sponsored an event called the Tuesday Conspiracy at the Legendary Station in Fern Park Oct. 3. By having this exposure, she is hoping to raise awareness among her peers for the need to register to vote and make their voices heard.

"This part of my life will always be remembered as an incredible experience," Proctor said. "It has been a hard experience but a good one."

SGA Senate Elections

The SGA Senate Elections are coming up soon! Here are some important dates to remember. The first date is Candidate forum, which is on the 5th of October (Noon). This will take place on the south patio of the student union. The second date is the Senate Elections, which will take place on October 9th, 10th, and 11th. These elections will be administered on-line at the following website: https://polaris.ucf.edu. If Runoff Elections are needed the dates will be October 16th-18th. If there are any questions please contact us at the Student Government office at 823-2191.
St. Joseph's Catholic Church
1501 N. Alafaya Trail
Orlando, FL 32828
407-273-0841
SATURDAY VIGIL MASS:
6:00 PM
SUNDAY MASSES:
8 AM, 10:30 AM, 12:10 PM

St. Joseph's Catholic Church announces that we now do
FREE CRIMINAL REPRESENTATION
*limited to 3rd degree felony & misdemeanors, exclusive of court costs and fines. Available to currently enrolled UCF students only.

For additional information, contact
Student Legal Services.
407-823-2538, SRC 155.

Funded by A&S as allocated by Student Government.

Swimmers aim to be known within the aquatic community

FROM PAGE 1
When compared to the typical Olympic sized pool, the facilities are less than half of that size. This difference poses an availability and capacity problem. Between the time allotted for open swimming, soccer and swim lessons, water aerobics classes, synchronized swimming, water polo and special events, there is not much time left for the two hour practices that are needed for training. Currently the club is hoping to train with the Winter Springs High School team for their afternoon practices. Although the extra attendance aids in the training process by creating more competition and motivation, it also hinders the work. With the numbers on the Winter Springs team around 40 members and the UCF team running between 25 - 30, the pool becomes slightly crowded and prevents proper technique and stroke work.

"Even with the limited space, the team is willing to carry as many as the pool will allow us to have," said Caplan. "One of the main goals is to become known around campus and in the state as the UCF Swim Team," said Caplan. Without high levels of support in any organization it is likely to dwindle down to nothing. Fortunately, the swim club is finding a significant level of support, which makes the process even easier.

"Success will come in time and hopefully in the future we will become a Division I team, but it is not going to come easily," said Caplan, "that's what makes the experience so much more intense."

Online schedule to make registering easier for students

FROM PAGE 1
registering." The new Schedule Web Guide will provide students with convenient access to a list of classes online - no more dog-earring pages and circling course key codes. Using the web guide to register, UCF students will be able to conveniently narrow down classes to choose from online, based on pre-selected criteria. The criteria include: campus location, course level (undergraduate/graduate), student status, honors, web classes or open/closed classes.

Dennis Dulnik, the University Registrar, is very positive that the Web Guide will be well received by UCF students. "We're trying to make this as user-friendly as we can. All the students need is the Internet, which they can access from our computer labs and kiosks."

For some students, this might be a big leap. Rhiannon Mack, an Elementary Education major seems skeptical. "I'm not very computer literate, and I hate that everything is going online nowadays," she said. "Overall, I'll probably have pluses and minuses, but it's really cool that it's updated every 15 minutes. I'd love to use it instead of that confusing catalog."

"I'll like it better, and I'd rather do it online. I always had a problem with the old one, because I never knew which campus I was signing up for," said Darin Hunt, a Marketing major.

The Registrar's Office will still be printing a 40-page guide that explains Polaris, gives the academic calendar and explains procedures. "It's basically the first 30-40 pages of the old book without the classes," said Roller.

The new Schedule Web Guide will also have a direct link off the main UCF web page, so students can have quick access.

FREE Pregnancy Testing (Immediate Results)
Abortions

• FREE Nitrous Oxide
• FREE IV Sedation
• FREE Follow-Up Exam
• Licensed Physicians

Birth Control & Gyn Services by:
All Women's Family Planning Center, Inc.

• Pap Smears & Exams
• STD Testing & Treatment

Convenient appointments to fit your busy schedule

Great Discounts on Brand Name Birth Control Pills
Receive $5 off Annual Exam with this Ad

Safe, Supportive, Confidential
All Women's Health Center of Orlando, Inc.
834-2262
Toll Free 1-888-257-2262
341 Maitland Ave
Altamonte Springs, FL 32701
www.abortion-clinics.com

Administration Building takes on new name

The recognition of former UCF president, Charles Milhcan means a new name for the Administration Building. The Humanities and Fine Arts Building is to become Colbourn Hall, in honor of another former president, Trevor Colbourn.
Around Campus:

Students get chance to speak with president

JENNIFER PATerson

President Hitt and Vice Presidents Merck and Huddleston will be holding an 'open forum' for students Oct. 5 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Cape Florida Ballroom. All students are invited to discuss their ideas, concerns and experiences.

Need a Librarian?

Need help for your paper but don't want to walk all the way to the campus Library? A librarian will be available to answer your questions in both the Classroom Building Computer Lab and the Lobby of the Health and Public Affairs Building. Mondays 2-3:30 p.m. Thursdays 10-11:30 a.m.

Welcome center to be built

A 18,000-square-foot welcome center is scheduled to be built in front of Millican Hall, facing downtown Central Florida Boulevard. This is in part due to a $1 million gift from Florida Power Corp.

The center will contain a 200 seat auditorium and offices for undergraduate admissions counselors, satellite financial aid and career advising operations and general information services.

UCF Shakespeare festival facilities to be revamped

Attorney John Lowndes of Winter Park has donated $750,000 to the Orlando-UCF Shakespeare Festival. The money will be used for the renovation of its home in the old Orlando Science Center building in Loch Haven Park.

Completion is scheduled for early 2002. The building will be transformed into two theaters, with offices and other space and will be renamed the John and Rita Lowndes Shakespeare Center.

Last week for faulty art display

The UCF Art Faculty Group Exhibition runs through Oct. 6 in the UCF Art Gallery. Call (407) 823-2676 for more information.

---

Write the 'Health Nut' today

Beginning next week, there will be a unique advice column in the Future—the Health Nut.

Its purpose is to provide you with answers to questions you have regarding mental, physical or even spiritual wellness. We will consult with doctors and other professionals to give you the most accurate, credible and prompt responses.

Our goal is to help you discover, develop and maintain a healthier lifestyle. Please send inquiries to healthnut@ucffuture.com or leave a voice mail in the News Voice-Mailbox at (407) 365-7656.

---

Student Health Services Says BOO

To the FLU

The Flu Shots are coming soon and they’re free to UCF students! Visit the Student Health Center’s Website WWW.SHS.UCF.EDU in the next couple weeks for more information on the arrival of the Flu Shot. You too can say BOO to the FLU!

Student Health Services “We’re Dedicated to Healthy Knights.”
Where in the World
Will You Be in 2001?

Imagine yourself... advising businesspeople in the former Soviet Republic of Kyrgyzstan, teaching English in Thailand, preventing the spread of AIDS in Africa, or promoting environmental awareness in Honduras.

Find out more about 1,000's of exciting international opportunities when Peace Corps representatives visit your campus this week!

Peace Corps
The Toughest Job You'll Ever Love!

For event details, call (800) 424-8580 or visit www.peacecorps.gov where you can apply online today!

---

October 4, 2000 • www.UCFfuture.com

Central Florida Future • 7

News

Paying too much for your phone calls?

Jennifer Paterson
Staff Writer

Pinching pennies for most college students is normal. Between spending hundreds of dollars on books, thousands on tuition, a car, rent and tons of other miscellaneous things too numerous to mention, saving money and cutting costs becomes a big priority. Long distance is more than a convenience for many students; it is a necessary expense. While it is true that the majority of undergraduates at UCF are in state, they are not in-city, which means that per minute billing is a part of their phone conversations.

“My parents only live two hours away,” said Jasmine Kerry. “We do communicate by email, but hearing each other’s voice is very important and I don’t always want to wait for an email reply.”

So how does one know if they are getting the best buck for their dollar?

Everybody knows about the big companies – AT&T, MCI, Sprint – because they have the big corporate dollars to advertise and most people end up choosing one of them.

“When the phone company asked me which long distance company I wanted, I just said AT&T because I hear about them the most,” said student Michelle New.

While it is true that this company is the most popular that doesn’t necessarily mean they give the best deals. Advertisements that lure in customers with rate plans such as $1.000 minutes a month for a set fee or nickel nights can be misleading. It may seem like they compute to a low cost per minute, but often the restrictions and fees are where they get you.

“These deals usually make it so you can only talk on weekends or after 7 p.m.,” said Ian Stone, an International Business major. “This just isn’t conducive to the college student’s lifestyle.”

“We are sporadic, our schedule isn’t so set in stone,” said Business major Davood Azimi. “I have class late on Monday night, during the day the rest of the week, but work on weekends.”

On the Internet there is a site called http://www.tchoice.com/. Here it will allow you to input the amount of minutes you talk on the phone per month with state to state calls as well as the amount that you talk intra-city.

On the Internet there is a site called http://www.tchoice.com/. Here it will allow you to input the amount of minutes you talk on the phone per month with state to state calls as well as the amount that you talk intra-city. Then it will find the phone company with the best all-around rate for you.

For instance, let’s say Gal X talks 150 minutes in-state each month and 60 minutes out of state. She inputs the minutes into the search engine and voila - she has a new long distance plan.

The deal Gal X got was from a company called OPEX. They have an 800 number and give 100 free state-to-state minutes for signing up. The state-to-state calls come to $.0851 per minute. All this for just a $2.00 monthly fee.

Other phone companies charge separate monthly fees for in-state and out of state. On a comparative plan of $.10 cents a minute with a company that charges a five-dollar monthly fee it would be $26 dollars. That’s a difference of over $11 dollars. In one year that adds up to $132.

Greek Beat

Krista Ziliez
Staff Writer

Good service

Delta Upsilon fraternity held their annual sorority competition Lip Service at Headlights on Sept 28. Sororities competed in a lip sync contest and teamed up with fraternity members for individual dances. Sororities collected canned foods for the event which were donated to the Russell Home for the developmentally disabled in downtown Orlando. Delta Upsilon has held the philanthropic event each year since its founding at UCF in 1992. Last year Lip Service raised more than $600 and 2500 canned goods in proceeds.

Greek block party

Greek Appreciation Day invites fraternities and sororities to an Alpha Xi Delta's block party on Oct 6 from noon to 4 p.m. Finnterities and sororities can participate in intramural games and contests. Raffle tickets will be sold.

Greek Beat

Krista Ziliez
Staff Writer

Lip service

Delta Upsilon fraternity held their annual sorority competition Lip Service at Headlights on Sept 28. Sororities competed in a lip sync contest and teamed up with fraternity members for individual dances. Sororities collected canned foods for the event which were donated to the Russell Home for the developmentally disabled in downtown Orlando. Delta Upsilon has held the philanthropic event each year since its founding at UCF in 1992. Last year Lip Service raised more than $600 and 2500 canned goods in proceeds.

Greek block party

Greek Appreciation Day invites fraternities and sororities to an Alpha Xi Delta's block party on Oct 6 from noon to 4 p.m. Finnterities and sororities can participate in intramural games and contests. Raffle tickets will be sold.

Anchor splash

Delta Gamma sorority will hold their annual philanthropy event called Anchor Splash on Oct 7 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the UCF pool. Participants can take part in intramurality pool games such as freestyle and medley relays and team synchronized swimming. The event will also host a sorority volleyball tournament and raffle.

A TOG supports walk-a-thon event

The Alpha Tau Omega fraternity assisted the NCCJ (National Conference of Community and Justice) organization during their annual walk-a-thon event at Lake Eola on Sept 24. Brothers of the fraternity helped set up for the event and participated in various activities including a walk around the lake. Alpha Tau Omega is looking forward to assisting the NCCJ organization again next year.

Correction: The CFF staff apologizes to Acacia fraternity for a misprint that appeared in last week's issue. Acacia was referred to as a coed fraternity. Acacia is not a coed fraternity.
Students, be proud of your school

I attended the President's open forum for the first time, as I was concerned with UCF's problems. It was a great time to voice my concerns to the president and to tell him how I felt about the college love and cherish.

The meeting started and I began asking President Hitt about a possible on campus stadium. He answered and then went onto another student's question. While he was answering, a few more students walked in. I noticed that one of them was wearing a hat. I took a casual glance over at him as he was answering, a few more students walked in.

Something that created utter rage inside me. Something wicked.

I almost fell off my chair! I noticed something wicked. I've been seeing ignorant, disrespectful to the school and the President by wearing a UF or FSU paraphernalia. Why don't you front-runners get off the bandwagon and root for your future alma mater, not a school that you have no relation to whatsoever?

I'm seeing ignorant things like this go on ever since I got here in 1997. Being a part of the University of Central Florida's growth and future is extremely exciting to me and I just can't understand why anyone would not be supportive of it. Our campus is one of the most beautiful in Florida. Not only is it beautiful, but a vast amount of the buildings and facilities are brand new. Academically, we are one of the most difficult Florida schools to get accepted into. Our athletics programs are exciting and are on the rise. I feel that most of the professors are incredible and are highly competent. We, as students, are attending a college that is on its way to become one of the biggest schools in the nation! My point is that if you go to UCF and are paying tuition to this school, why would you want to support a school that you have no relation to what so ever? We should be proud and respectful of UCF and wear its badge with honor not the badges of our rival schools.

- Royce Honak

What's the Health Fee for, anyway??

On my way to class, I stopped for a copy of the Orlando Sentinel. Reaching for it, someone kindly slammed my thumb in the sharply edged metal box. I clapped a napkin over my bleeding digit and headed for the Student Health Center.

Asking for a bandage and some tape, I was told that I could "make an appointment with a doctor." When I told them, "No thanks, I have class in 15 minutes, I just need a band-aid and some medical tape," I was informed that they were "available in the pharmacy." Seeing the look on my face that said "I have no money", they told me I could charge it to my student account. The University, it seems, would gladly charge me tomorrow for a band-aid today.

Don't pay the mandatory $53.00 Student Health Fee, even though I have medical insurance? Where does that money go? While I can't condone the decision that raised the cost of the alumni credit home, I can vaguely understand why it was done. With that increase, the insane price of a parking decal, new-edition-every-semester books, Coca-Cola's bought monopoly on campus, gratuitous $50.00 late fees, athletics programs endorsements, alumni contributions, student health fees, and so on, one would think the University has the financial freedom to give students with cut fingers a band-aid and six inches of medical tape. I'd bet my entire Student Health Fee that athletes on the University's teams don't pay for their medical treatment.

If the University can't provide simple services-materials for self-administered first aid, in this case - I wonder how the students of the proposed growth boom will be provided for. I guess as long as they are athletes, they will be just fine. As it were. I'd rather have my $53.00 Student Health Fee back and go buy myself a first aid kit.

continued on next page

Letters to the Editor

Students, be proud of your school

I attended the President's open forum for the first time, as I was concerned with UCF's problems. It was a great time to voice my concerns to the president and to tell him how I felt about the college love and cherish.

The meeting started and I began asking President Hitt about a possible on campus stadium. He answered and then went onto another student's question. While he was answering, a few more students walked in. I noticed that one of them was wearing a hat. I took a casual glance over at him as he was answering, a few more students walked in.

Something that created utter rage inside me. Something wicked.

I almost fell off my chair! I noticed something wicked. I've been seeing ignorant, disrespectful to the school and the President by wearing a UF or FSU paraphernalia. Why don't you front-runners get off the bandwagon and root for your future alma mater, not a school that you have no relation to whatsoever?

I'm seeing ignorant things like this go on ever since I got here in 1997. Being a part of the University of Central Florida's growth and future is extremely exciting to me and I just can't understand why anyone would not be supportive of it. Our campus is one of the most beautiful in Florida. Not only is it beautiful, but a vast amount of the buildings and facilities are brand new. Academically, we are one of the most difficult Florida schools to get accepted into. Our athletics programs are exciting and are on the rise. I feel that most of the professors are incredible and are highly competent. We, as students, are attending a college that is on its way to become one of the biggest schools in the nation! My point is that if you go to UCF and are paying tuition to this school, why would you want to support a school that you have no relation to what so ever? We should be proud and respectful of UCF and wear its badge with honor not the badges of our rival schools.

- Royce Honak

What's the Health Fee for, anyway??

On my way to class, I stopped for a copy of the Orlando Sentinel. Reaching for it, someone kindly slammed my thumb in the sharply edged metal box. I clapped a napkin over my bleeding digit and headed for the Student Health Center.

Asking for a bandage and some tape, I was told that I could "make an appointment with a doctor." When I told them, "No thanks, I have class in 15 minutes, I just need a band-aid and some medical tape," I was informed that they were "available in the pharmacy." Seeing the look on my face that said "I have no money", they told me I could charge it to my student account. The University, it seems, would gladly charge me tomorrow for a band-aid today.

Don't pay the mandatory $53.00 Student Health Fee, even though I have medical insurance? Where does that money go? While I can't condone the decision that raised the cost of the alumni credit home, I can vaguely understand why it was done. With that increase, the insane price of a parking decal, new-edition-every-semester books, Coca-Cola's bought monopoly on campus, gratuitous $50.00 late fees, athletics programs endorsements, alumni contributions, student health fees, and so on, one would think the University has the financial freedom to give students with cut fingers a band-aid and six inches of medical tape. I'd bet my entire Student Health Fee that athletes on the University's teams don't pay for their medical treatment.

If the University can't provide simple services-materials for self-administered first aid, in this case - I wonder how the students of the proposed growth boom will be provided for. I guess as long as they are athletes, they will be just fine. As it were. I'd rather have my $53.00 Student Health Fee back and go buy myself a first aid kit.

continued on next page

Letters to the Editor

Students, be proud of your school

I attended the President's open forum for the first time, as I was concerned with UCF's problems. It was a great time to voice my concerns to the president and to tell him how I felt about the college love and cherish.

The meeting started and I began asking President Hitt about a possible on campus stadium. He answered and then went onto another student's question. While he was answering, a few more students walked in. I noticed that one of them was wearing a hat. I took a casual glance over at him as he was answering, a few more students walked in.

Something that created utter rage inside me. Something wicked.

I almost fell off my chair! I noticed something wicked. I've been seeing ignorant, disrespectful to the school and the President by wearing a UF or FSU paraphernalia. Why don't you front-runners get off the bandwagon and root for your future alma mater, not a school that you have no relation to whatsoever?

I'm seeing ignorant things like this go on ever since I got here in 1997. Being a part of the University of Central Florida's growth and future is extremely exciting to me and I just can't understand why anyone would not be supportive of it. Our campus is one of the most beautiful in Florida. Not only is it beautiful, but a vast amount of the buildings and facilities are brand new. Academically, we are one of the most difficult Florida schools to get accepted into. Our athletics programs are exciting and are on the rise. I feel that most of the professors are incredible and are highly competent. We, as students, are attending a college that is on its way to become one of the biggest schools in the nation! My point is that if you go to UCF and are paying tuition to this school, why would you want to support a school that you have no relation to what so ever? We should be proud and respectful of UCF and wear its badge with honor not the badges of our rival schools.

- Royce Honak

What's the Health Fee for, anyway??

On my way to class, I stopped for a copy of the Orlando Sentinel. Reaching for it, someone kindly slammed my thumb in the sharply edged metal box. I clapped a napkin over my bleeding digit and headed for the Student Health Center.

Asking for a bandage and some tape, I was told that I could "make an appointment with a doctor." When I told them, "No thanks, I have class in 15 minutes, I just need a band-aid and some medical tape," I was informed that they were "available in the pharmacy." Seeing the look on my face that said "I have no money", they told me I could charge it to my student account. The University, it seems, would gladly charge me tomorrow for a band-aid today.

Don't pay the mandatory $53.00 Student Health Fee, even though I have medical insurance? Where does that money go? While I can't condone the decision that raised the cost of the alumni credit home, I can vaguely understand why it was done. With that increase, the insane price of a parking decal, new-edition-every-semester books, Coca-Cola's bought monopoly on campus, gratuitous $50.00 late fees, athletics programs endorsements, alumni contributions, student health fees, and so on, one would think the University has the financial freedom to give students with cut fingers a band-aid and six inches of medical tape. I'd bet my entire Student Health Fee that athletes on the University's teams don't pay for their medical treatment.

If the University can't provide simple services-materials for self-administered first aid, in this case - I wonder how the students of the proposed growth boom will be provided for. I guess as long as they are athletes, they will be just fine. As it were. I'd rather have my $53.00 Student Health Fee back and go buy myself a first aid kit.

continued on next page
Do complainers solve problems?

These statements make me wonder if those people making the remarks are doing anything themselves. I heard a phrase once that says the people who complain the most often do the least. From what I have experienced in my life this is true. It's just like the people who don't vote. They groan about taxes and health care and then don't even go to the polls.

While the Future is not owned by UCF, it is still student run and produced. I have a lot of say in what goes on, as do the other editors. I know for myself I am not scared to write about an issue, which may upset some at UCF, and I am sure others on staff feel the same, but as of late nothing has annoyed me enough to do so.

The Future isn't censored. It is just like any other newspaper. I understand the issues I write about in my opinions articles, and regardless of whom I annoy I can say just about whatever I want. Well, whatever I want that falls under the first amendment and won't get me sued. Sure I can write about book prices and tuition being high, but that happens to all of us. I beg you all to send me letters of concern if you think the Future isn't covering some major issue. Send me a letter to print or better yet write something yourself. If you complainers can't get off your butts and do something, then shut your mouths.

Letters to the Editor count.

I'm sending this in response to your article in the Sept. 27, 2000 edition of The Central Florida Future.

I have been noticing lately I have been noticing the huge amount of criticism given to the Central Florida Future about various things. In one sense it's great. It means people are reading and we are doing our jobs. The more people get into the issues the more they are willing to read. However, I keep hearing things like "the Future isn't controversial enough," or "the Future doesn't say enough on student's behalf."

...
Chris Zapater
Staff Writer

When you read the newspaper on a regular basis, you start to think you have read it all. Infanticide, police corruption, George W. Bush being seriously considered for the presidency. Life in Orlando easily can easily render a person jaded and apathetic. But an article which appeared in the Orlando Sentinel on Sept. 17, by Renee Stutman nearly caused me to have an aneurysm.

The Sentinel read: “Investigators posing as ‘high rollers’ threw around $44,000 during their six-month undercover investigation of the two Rachel’s clubs, spending most of the money on things such as drinks, sex shows and tips to club managers. Total spending, including personnel costs, has topped $80,000 according to the two agencies that conducted the undercover probe, the Metropolitan Investigation in Orange County and the City-County Investigation Bureau in Seminole.”

$80,000? As in dollars? How do law enforcement officials attempt to justify this expenditure without breaking into laughter?

How do law enforcement officers who witness human nature’s worst manifestations daily on the streets feel about this gross waste of precious resources?

And what for, to bust some strip-club managers for quasi-pimping and a few girls for engaging in the world’s oldest profession?

What a waste of 80,000 bucks which could have been used for additional crossing guards at intersections near elementary schools, or $80,000 which could have been used to hire another police officer to arrest violent criminals. Congratulations law enforcement, you busted consenting adults who provide other consenting adults with erotic entertainments. How do the expenditures recorded in the Sentinel’s report included: “About $15,000 on a dozen private sex shows—dancers having sex with each other either in a limousine or in the upstairs VIP section of the Rachel’s club in Casselberry. According to court records, agents generally paid each dancer $700, and tipped the manager $400.”

Who helped set it up between $200 and $400.

Apparently in law enforcement, the end justifies the means. It is ethically acceptable to entice girls into having sex with each other by offering them considerable amounts of money, then arresting them for doing so.

At the time the article was printed, the probe had led to 10 arrests on racketeering, prostitution, drug and money laundering charges. Let’s just see how many of those charges result in prosecutions and how many prosecutions result in significant sentencing before we celebrate our moral victory.

Bill Latz, Director of the MBI, was quoted as saying, “The way we spent our money, we spent it appropriately.” First of all Bill, the money was never yours to begin with. It is taxpayer money that should have been used to improve the quality of life for the taxpayers who furnished it by pursuing rapists, armed robbers, and identity thieves.

Although authorities plan to ask the presiding judge to order Rachel’s to reimburse them for the cost of the investigation and subsequent prosecution, there is no guarantee that the City-County will grant that request, and you can bet the farm that Rachel’s will contest the request. Who knows how long the ensuing legal battle will drag on, further depletion the city’s economic coffers? There is no guarantee that the charges will result in convictions, and Rachel’s is certain to secure the best legal representation money can buy for their defense.

$80,000 tax dollars for strippers

Darcy Elena Rodriguez
Staff Writer

In determining whether or not the Board of Regents (BOR) should alter more monies for the expansion of UCF, one must consider a few questions: What does expansion mean for UCF? Is UCF ready for expansion?

Expansion means more money. Few can argue with that. The more tuition-paying students we get, the more money UCF makes. According to the BOR plan, by expanding, UCF will become one of the ten largest schools in the country by 2005 with over 40,000 students.

I don’t know about most UCF students, but I don’t think UCF is quite ready for such a grand scale expansion. We currently have well over 80,000 and the number is increasing every year.

Do we have enough professors at UCF to support so many students? UCF currently has just over 1100 full-time and part-time professors. Do we have enough classrooms? Do we have enough dorm space?

We all pretty much agree that we don’t have enough parking.

UCF is under construction now and with monies from BOR to expand, it will be under construction for many more years to come.

The cost of the construction for new classrooms, dorms, parking, and professors will be rather steep.

This leads to yet another question: Will the monies from the BOR be enough to cover all of this growth?

For one, would really rather not have classes with 3000 people in them like other Florida schools have, whose fans have apparently forgotten what school they were going to and still sport their gear at games. Who needs it?

Don’t get me wrong, I want us to live long and prosper. I also want UCF to remain the great school that it was when I decided to come here.

The joy of small schools is exactly that: having smaller classes. UCF is certainly not small, but the ambience is one where your professors may actually know who you are.

Is expansion inevitable? UCF will grow because people know we are a great university.

When all it comes down to it, the BOR should give UCF monies, lots of monies, because we deserve it. Hey, I know it takes money to make UCF, however, should start by keeping it up to date and up to speed and making sure the cars don’t get stuck in the cardboard box, buses don’t trainloads of folks that are going to keep coming.

What do you think? You can voice your opinions on OUR opinions, just log on to www.UCFfuture.com

Make your vote count at www.UCFFuture.com

Adam Shiver
Staff Writer

Last week we wanted to know if you thought banning the use of cell phones while driving was the sensible thing to do. Here is what you told us:

No way! How would I ever live without talking on the phone while I drive? (21.7%)

It is dangerous to talk on them and drive, but that is my choice. (26.1%)

People should pull over if they want to talk on the phone. That would be much safer. (36.4%)

C) Outlaw it. It is getting people killed everyday. (21.7%)

No Opinion. (6.0%)

It was close, but you all showed us that you feel quite strongly about the subject. Next week we will be inquiring as to ‘How do you feel about the programs “swordplay” will be at the beginning of home games?’

MORE ONLINE

www.ovationcity.com

Oviedo City Cleaners
30 West Broadway
Alafaya Square Shopping Center
(407) 365-3113

$ Gift Certificate

The central florida FUTURE
Knight Publishing, Inc.
120 Alexandria Blvd., Suite 17
Oviedo, FL 32765

What do you think? You can voice your opinions on OUR opinions, just log on to www.UCFfuture.com

The central florida FUTURE
Knight Publishing, Inc.
120 Alexandria Blvd., Suite 17
Oviedo, FL 32765

Editorial
(407) 365-7656
Advertising & Classified
(407) 977-1009
Fax
(407) 977-0019
Email
editor@UCFFuture.com
Web
www.UCFFuture.com

Copyright © 2001 Knight Publishing, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

Opinions in the Central Florida Future are those of the individual writers and are not necessarily those of the editors, advertisers or sponsors. Opinions in the Central Florida Future are those of the individual columnists and are not necessarily those of the editors, advertisers or sponsors. Opinions in the Central Florida Future are those of the individual columnists and are not necessarily those of the editors, advertisers or sponsors.
Insipid thoughts: Extra crispy, or original recipe SGA?

ADAM SHIVER
STAFF WRITER

Does anyone have any clue as to what Colonel Sanders' 11 secret spices are? Sure we all know that thousand island dressing is the secret sauce on the Big Mac, but what 11 spices is that old man Sanders hiding from us?

How do you really know if you're getting extra cheese when you order a pizza with 'extra cheese'? I'm going to order one with and one without 'extra cheese' one day just to find out.

Why is it that Edy's Ice Cream has designed University of Florida, and Florida State University ice creams, and left UCF out? Are the Golden Knight's just not good enough for you Edy? Maybe Tim & Jerry will take care of us.

What do you call those little things at the end of shoe laces? You know, the things that make it possible to thread your laces through the holes. And what company makes these things?

Why are there so many towns and cities in Florida that start with Winter? Winter Springs, Winter Garden, Winter Park... There's no Winter in Florida. Are there towns in the the north, say in Maine, that start with Summer. Summer Town, Summer-ville, Summer Springs?

Why is there always one roommate in a group sharing an apartment that has no idea how to clean? I'm sorry your mommy is not here to wipe your butt and clean up after you. Those of us who are responsible should not have to do your dishes and clean up after you and your frat brothers though. "Bitch, party of one, your table now available."

UCF's Senate recently passed $4,500 for CEL's annual Etiquette Dinner that teaches students how to interact in a business dinner situation. This on top of the $8,000 they were budgeted from SG at the beginning of the year. An $800 portion of the $4,500 is for dance instruction. Who dances at a business dinner for heaven's sake? And why is it $11,781 for a chicken dinner? It must be some kind of gold plated chicken.

If you're getting a fish out of a fish-tank, can you say you're 'fishing' a fish out of the fish-tank?"
UCF students received a much needed reality check from political and social commentator Lewis Black last Monday night. He is best known for his ranting and raving "in a segment [they] call 'Back in Black'" on Comedy Central’s "The Daily Show." Black was invited to UCF by the Campus Activities Board (CAB) Speakers Committee to share his comedic observations about life, ignorance and politics in the Grand Pegasus Ballroom. Only 1,500 lucky students were able to attend the comedian’s rousing performance due to the Ballroom’s capacity limitations. Many of Black’s fans were turned away at the door. The back of the room was completely crammed with standing room only patrons after the seats were filled and even more people were sitting on the floor in front of the stage, making this a fabulous turnout for this free, CAB sponsored event.

Those in the audience not familiar with Black’s rigid, dry and brutally honest sense of humor got a wake up call that night as he got up on stage at 8:20 p.m. He shares his take on many different subjects in his unique are-you-sure-this-man-doesn’t-have-high-blood-pressure style of delivery.

Lewis Black on college education: “What night is it, Monday? You f*ckers should be studying!”

On UCF’s location: “What else can you do here but study and get liquored up?”

On US customs: “Our country doesn’t have a culture, our country has ‘Survivor!’”

Lewis’ take on the Evolution vs. Creationism debate: “We have fossils. Pick you, we win.”

And his opinions of the presidential race and politics today: “George W. has bad ideas, Al Gore has no ideas.”

“I get so angry about this that I actually begin to lactate!”

In the calm after the storm that was Lewis Black’s therapy session for UCF students, The Man himself was kind enough to sign a ton of autographs backstage for adoring fans.

What’s something about life in general that you think our readers should know, since you seem to have such a firm grip on reality?

Lewis Black: “Well, thank you. I think there’s no reason to get married by the time you’re 22 ‘cause you’re gonna live to be 180. They’ll be harvesting organs by the time you guys are that old.”

What do you think of our campus?

LB: “It’s nice, really nice, but it looks like it was built last Thursday.”

You’ve worked with Craig Kilborn and Jon Stewart, which one did you enjoy working with more?

LB: “I enjoy working with Jon more because he’s a friend and also a comedian, so he gets it. Kilborn was good, but Kilborn could only read copy and that’s his problem. But he was great for that role; he was the perfect guy. He looks the way you should look.”

Where and when can your fans see you next?

LB: “On October 11, I’ll be on ‘Late Night with Conan O’Brien.’ There’s an 8:15 so a movie I wrote called The Deal playing on the Sundance Channel. Check out LewisBlack.net for other upcoming events.”

Sure, some audience members may have felt accosted by this brilliant commentator’s sharp words, but overall a good time was had by all. What makes his such a memorable show, even if you don’t agree with his extreme views, is his passionate, vein-bursting delivery.

Playing on the Sundance Channel, check out LewisBlack.net for other upcoming events.

If you’re a really big fan, follow the link on this page to the cool unofficial fan site.

PHOTO BY JASON KOKOTOFF

YOUR DETOX HEADQUARTERS!

Get Clean In 1 Hour
With Herbal Clean!

Their Price $39.99
Our Price $19.99

Get Rid of Unwanted Toxins

Featuring:
- LiquidCarbo
- Liquid Carbo Plus
- Quick Tabs
- Quick Caps
- Quick Chewables

Other Detox Products Available!

SMOOTHIE KING
12140 Collegiate Way
ACROSS FROM UCF - BEHIND APPLEBEE’S
407-381-2900

Presented by

FREE ADVANCE SCREENING
Wednesday, October 11
9:00pm @ Cape Florida Ballroom

Funded by the Activity and Service Fee as allocated by the Student Government Association. Free passes available at the Student Union, Room 215, Student Activities.

Passes required. Seating is limited and not guaranteed. Please arrive early.
As it stands in the movie industry today, there are certain rules that must and always will be followed by major studios. For example, dogs will never die, bombs will always have big red number on the timer, and live-action Disney movies will always have the big one. Dealing with the latter, I’m not talking about The Rock, Armageddon and various other movies made by Disney under the guise of another studio (although I still have nightmares about Con Air). Instead, I’m speaking of the category, Magical World of Disney fare like Hero the Love Bug and That Darn Cat (the innuendo kicks in already). On Sept. 29, another movie branding the Disney name is coming to theaters. Remember the Titans is the name of the film, and while it is a lot better than the typical Disney flick, it still has the same sort of cheese that people can only expect from the big mouse.

Briefly, Remember the Titans is a true story that takes place in a high school in Alexandria, VA. In the early 1970s, T.C. Williams High School and their football team, The Titans, are forcibly integrated. What results in this small Southern town are feelings of prejudice andracism on both sides. However, there is hope: enter Denzel Washington, playing the role of Herman Boone, coach of this newly integrated team. Boone is the invariable football equivalent to the drill sergeant in Full Metal Jacket. He works the team constantly in order to turn them into perfect football playing machines. In order to do this, he also helps the whites and blacks unite into one, helping them to look past prejudice and become comrades. What results is a story that deals with the fact that race doesn’t matter, it’s what’s inside that counts.

Considering all this, the movie should be pretty good, right? Well, Remember the Titans falls into that category of a mediocre movie with a good message behind it. The film is pretty damn corny from the yin yans jokes in the locker room, all the way to Denzel Washington boldly stating “who’s your daddy” to some misbehaving white boys (kill me, please). This is not to say Remember the Titans is just downright anorexic (another Jerry Bruckheimer film, Con Air, has that award), it is just that nothing really stands out about this film that is very spectacular or innovative. Sure it has a great message, but you have to kick it up with some sort of flair that the audience will grasp. Instead, what the viewer gets is about two hours of the same scenarios working themselves out again and again. The plotline in Remember the Titans goes in this order: prejudice, reconciliation, prejudice, reconciliation. See a formula developing? Also, the movie falls into the realm of predictability from the get go. Anyone who has seen either football or the subject of integration, knows how it goes in this former.

The question on everyone’s minds at this time must be, how is Denzel Washington’s acting in the film? In brief, he is quite insipid. Washington is a great actor and merits all the praise that he has received in the past, unfortunately this project of late has not reflected his talent. In Remember the Titans he plays the same sort of stoic that audiences have seen in so many films such as Courage Under Fire and V for Vendetta. Also, even with his top billing in a movie like this, Washington sure doesn’t have a lot of screen time. Remember the Titans is more devoted to the team itself than any one person. With this in mind, it is a wonder why Washington even chose this role to begin with. After all, the character himself is downright unlikable. One must keep in mind that Boone is supposed to be a hard ass. Nevertheless, other the director or Washington could have tried to bring some charisma into the mix. As far as the rest of the cast, everyone is good in his or her roles, but no one really shines. Ethan Suplee, who played the fat, mean Nazi in American History X, plays a fat, mean football player (wow, how versatile). Will Patton (Armageddon) plays the head coach of the team who is demoted to assistant coach with the arrival of Boone to his school. Patton is probably the brightest spot in the entire cast. He character far overshadows Washington’s, probably because he can convey human emotions.

The film is all about the message it’s trying to convey, and it’s a message that has been better put in other films such as Glory, The Tuskegee Airmen or even American History X. Remember the Titans is not horrible; it is just not the excellent film that everyone probably expects. Overall, it is too drippy, sweet, perpetuating the problem of the characters are facing far too simply, and making the solutions to them equally elementary. Washington has done better, Jerry Bruckheimer has done better, but for Disney itself this is just the fish they need to grow legs and lead us ashore to better movie fare (Darwin any­­one?). With Remember the Titans, Disney’s approach is good, but just does not pay off in the end.
Mephisto Odyssey: Experimental Music?

KIM LINDQUIST

Staff Writer

In the era of modern day music, anyone with a computer is able to put something together that sounds somewhat like a song. Mephisto Odyssey is one of those bands that harnesses this technology and uses it to create their music out of the frustration for the death of 80s rock.

The members -- producer/songwriter Mikael Johnston, DJ Josh Camacho, songwriter/producer/guitarist/audio craftsman Orphos Delgandt and sampler Barrie Eves -- claim that Mephisto Odyssey was born as a result of Johnston’s dream of owning a computer. When he followed that dream, a new form of music, a cross between Fatboy Slim, Radiohead and the Beastie Boys, was born.

Their major-label debut, The Deep Red Connection, uses several traditional music styles, such as reggae, rap and string arrangements and combines them with various sounds and beats. There’s a lot of vocal help provided by such names as Angelcat, Jamaika, Paula Frazer and the well-known Static-X.

As you listen to this CD, it’s almost as if another CD comes on after each song. It opens slowly with the annoying and repetitive song “Red Connection,” which, obviously, repeats the phrase “Everybody is kinda freak” over and over again to the sound of a consistent techno background. The next song is “It’s The Man,” which is mixed cleverly with strong beats and fun sounds. The vocals, however, are flat and without style.

The album’s strong points are found in the dance music of “Sexy Dancer” and “Red Dreams,” both of which are excellently put together. They remind you a lot of the music you would hear walking into The Gap or other stores at a mall.

Mephisto Odyssey’s true accomplishment on their debut is found in the haunting ballad “Wish.” Although the lyrics are simple, there is an impressive arrangement including a cello, Rhodes piano, string arrangement, acoustic guitar and drums. Paula Frazer’s guest vocals are reminiscent of Lorena McKennitt’s style: very smooth and airy.

All in all, this album comes recommended if you are into experiencing various types of bland techno and styles so modern they haven’t been named yet. However, if you’re looking for a CD to just sit and listen to, don’t end your search here.

Engine Roar

BRIAN PICKARD

Staff Writer

Continuing in my quest to get people to recognize Florida music, I decided to review a Florida band’s CD instead of the usual national CDs that every other newspaper publication is reviewing. The Central Florida Future should have something different and something original, and that’s what I hope to contribute.

Every now and then, a CD comes along that just blows everything else out there away. South Florida’s The Agency has been making music for years, but their latest effort, Engine Roar, has to be one of the best CDs ever recorded. The album features ten songs of purely emotional rock with truly amazing lyrics.

Starting off with a track called “Zero,” the listener knows he or she is in for an incredible experience. With lyrics that are more poetic than some of the best poetry out there and talented musicianship, The Agency are one of the best bands in their genre. Often compared to Rush and The Police, this rock band from Miami has hard work ethics, playing tons of shows to get their music out there. The third track on the CD, “Single File Line,” is one of my favorite songs on there. It has great harmonies and a really catchy tune.

It’s almost hard for me to describe the type of music they play. It’s just talented, great songwriting, and the songs will be stuck in your head for days. Guaranteed. There are four members of the band: Mike Marsh (drums and vocals), Chris Dreuke (bass and vocals), Klaus Ketelhon (guitar and vocals) and Chris Carrabba (second guitarist on this recording). They now have a new second guitarist playing with them named John Owens.

In my opinion, the best song on the entire CD is track number nine, “Lost and Found.” The song is brilliant as far as the music goes, and the listener can actually feel the emotion and energy they felt while playing it in the studio. The only song that isn’t quite as good as the others is the closing track, “Closing Time.” The song is OK, but it doesn’t pack that punch like the last track on a CD should.

Overall, I can’t complain, it’s still one of the most hard rocking albums I’ve heard to this day. Check out their website at www.theagencyrocks.com, and if you get the chance, contact them and order a CD for yourself.
Anxiety

You don’t have to live this way!

- Caring
- Confidential
- Affordable

Jean Liberman L.C.S.W.
(407) 810-5423
Frank Fine L.M.H.C., N.C.C.
(407) 252-3644

11264 E. Colonial
Corner of Colonial and Alfred in the Albertsons Shopping Plaza

Get Cultured with UCF Music

LISA DURRANCE
Stage Writer

The UCF Department of Music is keeping busy this semester with numerous events and performances that include both the talented UCF music faculty and students as well as visiting artists. Whether you are looking for large ensembles or soloists, the Department of Music has it all, and their fall season promises to be quite entertaining.

The UCF Orchestra and Chorus will be joining members of the Orlando Opera in October to perform L’Enfant et les Sortilèges (“The Enchanted Child”), a French Opera about a mischievous child. In the opera, the child misbehaves and as a result, items in his room and garden come to life to scold him for his insubordination to his mother. The child continues to be a hassle until it harms a squirrel and realizes its foolish behavior.

The opera will not be fully staged (meaning it won’t have major sets or costumes), but should still be very enjoyable for the audience due to the comical nature of the characters and show. Also, if you aren’t too familiar with French, there will be English translations displayed over the stage. During dance sequences and instrumental breaks, the translations will turn into a slide show coordinated with the music.

L’Enfant et les Sortilèges will be performed on Oct. sixth and eighth and admission is $5 for UCF students and $10 for everyone else. It will be performed at St. Luke’s Methodist Church on the sixth at 8 p.m. and at Trinity Preparatory School on the eighth at 3 p.m. If you would like to learn more about the opera or the UCF Orchestra, please contact Mr. John Whitney at (407) 823-2863.

The Marching Knights have also been busy entertaining the crowd at the UCF home football games, and they have even more excitement planned for the rest of the season. Coming up at the Eastern Kentucky Game (Oct. 14), is Trumpet Day. Around 45 trumpet players will come from around the state to join the band during halftime. In addition, famous trumpeter Vince DiMartino will join the Marching Knights and will be featured throughout the show.

Further into the future, the Marching Knights will perform at the UCF Homecoming Game, the away game at Alabama and the final game against Virginia Tech. They will do a shortened version of their Motown Show (recently performed at the William and Mary games in Alabama, and for the finale they will perform a “best of” show featuring the highlights of the 2000 Marching Knights season.

UCF also has many other ensembles that hold performances throughout the year. If classical music is your thing, then you will want to attend the UCF Wind Ensemble concert Nov. 19 at 7:00 p.m. in the Visual Arts Building Auditorium. Or the UCF Orchestra Concert on Dec. first at 7:30 p.m. also in the Visual Arts Building. However, if jazz is more to your liking, then you won’t want to miss the jazz concert on Nov. 16 that will feature the UCF Big Band. Admission is free to everyone at these performances.

The Department of Music also features several small ensembles throughout the semester that are performed by the faculty. They have a variety of ensembles such as a woodwind quintet, a piano trio, solos, duets and other trios. In addition to these performances, they host visiting artists as well. These artists include Mr. James Rodak, a saxophone player from the US Naval Academy Band and Mr. William Takacs, a trumpet player.

All of these performances can be found at the UCF Rehearsal Hall and are free to UCF students with a current ID card (admission is $10 per person otherwise). For more information on the performances, visit the Department of Music Office in Colbourn Hall (previously the Fine Arts and Humanities building) in room 205 or call them at (407) 823-2869.
Aries (March 21-April 19): You’re an independent type, but this week the lesson is to get along with others. A rush order at work dominates Monday and Tuesday. It could thwart your travel plans, too. Perseverance gets an important message through. A new idea you try out on Wednesday or Thursday may not work as well as you’d hoped. Fix it quickly. An authority figure is probably watching. The heat’s on the latter part of the week, but you can find ways to relax. Your sweetheart and friends would love to keep you entertained all weekend. Try not to get into too much trouble.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): A financial deal you’re working on Monday and Tuesday is loaded with variables. You can make a killing at this, but only if you know what you’re doing. In other words, only gamble on a sure thing. Advise your sweetheart or a child against spending too much on Wednesday. You might be the one who picks up the tab if you’re not careful. Something that looks like a disaster on Thursday could turn out well. In an ironic twist of fate, love triumphs. Although the boss may not make up his or her mind until later this weekend, your chances of getting more money are good if you put in the request on Friday. Meanwhile, try to keep your mate and your folks from fighting. If they don’t get along, you’re the one who loses.

Gemini (May 21-June 21): Everybody’s trying to make up his or her mind until later this weekend, your chances of getting more money are good if you’re not careful. Something that looks like a disaster on Thursday could turn out well. In an ironic twist of fate, love triumphs. Although the boss may not make up his or her mind until later this weekend, your chances of getting more money are good if you put in the request on Friday. Meanwhile, try to keep your mate and your folks from fighting. If they don’t get along, you’re the one who loses.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): You might make a profitable trade on Monday. Be willing to get rid of something you don’t use anymore. You can see what needs to be cut on Tuesday and Wednesday. The next problem is getting your co-workers to go along with your plan. Facts will help your argument. Your partner may be in a grumpy mood Wednesday, so try to be extra nice on Thursday. By Friday you may be discussing a household item or a new house you’d like to buy together. If you’re going to do something that big, do more research over the weekend. By Sunday you’ll be looking for something quite different than what you were looking for on Saturday.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You’re most interested in your social life on Monday. Work interferes with your pleasure. You could make a good connection on Tuesday, but try not to spend too much money. You can’t avoid the tough tasks on Wednesday. From then through Friday, push hard to catch up. On Friday you might get an expert’s help. Delegate whatever you can to a professional, if necessary. Over the weekend let your partner do the driving. That’s what he or she wants to do, anyway.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may feel like you’re stuck between a rock and a hard place Monday and Tuesday. The overall outcome looks positive. Don’t be intimidated; that will just make the job take longer. A conflict with an authority figure on Wednesday or Thursday could make you feel anxious. You’re being tested to see if you can handle more responsibility. Show you’re capable under pressure, and you’ll make a great impression.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Travel is confusing on Monday and Tuesday. You can make it through, but probably not without white knuckles. The overall outcome’s positive Wednesday and Thursday, too. Keep that in mind when you start to feel overwhelmed. Also, keep a secret. From mid-Friday through the weekend, most things get easier. Strangely, something you thought was simple could get tangled, and something you thought was too

CONTINUED ON PAGE 21

OFFICERS WANTED: ABILITY TO LEAD UNDER CONDITIONS OF STRESS DEMANDING MENTAL CHALLENGES EXTREME PHYSICAL TESTS FEW CAN QUALIFY INTERESTED?

Marines
The Few. The Proud.
M A R I N E O F F I C E R
Visit Captain Jackson Reene or Gunny Sergeant Mary Fletcher on October 10, at the South Patio/Student Union Bldg. from 10:00 am - 2:00 pm or call toll free 1-800-270-9874 ext 17-73.

Get More Than a Test Score Get Back Your Life
NATIONAL DEPRESSION SCREENING DAY
Thursday, October 5, 2000

- FREE of charge
- Written Self-Test for Depression
- Screening Interview with Mental Health Professional
- Educational Presentation

DEPRESSION IS A DISEASE. Depression screening is a way to find out if you need help. If you suspect you're depressed, look for these signs:

- loss of pleasure
- feelings of sadness, hopelessness, worthlessness
- changes in eating or sleeping patterns
- irritability, anxiety, restlessness
- inability to concentrate
- fatigue or loss of energy
- unexplained aches and pains
- thoughts of death or suicide

National Depression Screening Day is a program of the National Mental Illness Project

LOCAL DEPRESSION SCREENING INFORMATION
Counseling and Testing Center (next door to orientation office)
10:00 am - 3:30 pm
Sponsored by:
The Counseling & Testing Center
Phone: 823-2811
Or call Toll Free 1-800-573-4433
Ryan and Crowe Together Down Under

Ryan Ryan set her sights on Russell Crowe. The couple met last March on the set of their movie Proof of Life. Recently, the two went to Australia for a couple of weeks where they enjoyed all the excitement surrounding the Olympics in Sydney. Since Ryan's split from her nine-year marriage, the couple has been laying low. However, photos of them holding hands and kissing are showing up everywhere. Quaid was the first to file for divorce on July 11. Ryan's filed for divorce shortly after. Both claim "irreconcilable differences." They hope to have joint custody of their eight year old son Jack Henry.

Houston Has A Problem

Last January, singer/songwriter diva Whitney Houston had her bags seized at Keahole-Kona International Airport in Hawaii, after it was discovered that they contained 15.2 grams of marijuana. Houston now faces misdemeanor drug charges. Her arraignment date is Oct. 26. If convicted Houston could get up to 30 days in jail and a $1,000 fine. Officials are asking that she turn herself in before then or they may issue a warrant for her arrest. Deputy prosecutor Charlene Iboshi told sources that if Houston pleads guilty then everything could be handled through paperwork and Houston wouldn't have to make an appearance in court. A spokeswoman for Houston said, "At this time we are unable to comment."

Kathie Lee Won't Go Away

Kathie Lee Gifford is beginning to make guest appearances on talk shows to promote her new pop CD Heart of a Woman. One show that Kathie Lee won't be appearing on is her former home "Live!" Regis Philbin and producer Michael Gelman have said no to Kathie Lee's requests to appear on the show. Regis' ratings have gone up 26 percent since Kathie Lee has left. Gifford is also gaining approval since she left "Live!" She has just landed a role in a TV movie called "Spinning Out of Control." Kathie Lee will play a troubled sitcom star. The movie will appear on E! with Howie Mandel as her costar.

Combs' Court Criticisms

Rapper Sean "Puffy" Combs was in Manhattan Supreme Court for trial on a weapons charge. New York Daily News reports that Combs was criticized for his behavior in court. Assistant Manhattan District Attorney Matthew Bogdanos criticized Combs for his tardiness (by four minutes), suggesting that he should be put in jail if he is late again. Bogdanos was also upset with Combs for wearing sunglasses before the judge. "I apologize for being late," said Combs. "It won't happen again." The start of the trial is set for Jan. 2. Combs's attorney, Benjamin Brafman, said the sunglasses were "none of Mr. Bogdano's business."

Who Wants to be a Millionaire?

Former Playboy Playmate of the Year Anna Nicole Smith, 32, was awarded $449.7 million by a federal bankruptcy judge in Los Angeles. The money was her claim to the estate of her late husband, billionaire Texas oilman J. Howard Marshall. His overall assets are an estimated $1.6 billion. The couple was married in 1994 when he was 89 and she was a 26-year-old stripper. Marshall died a year later. Smith's attorney, Philip Boesich Jr., told the AP that his client was "very pleased" with the judge's ruling, which "puts the matter to rest." Smith's battle for her late husband's money was with Marshall's youngest son, E. Pierce Marshall. He said yesterday's verdict was a "miscarriage of justice" and swore he would appeal.
Dear Sextpert,

I am a freshman who lives in a dorm and it sucks. My roommate and his girlfriend keep me awake at night by having sex in his bed when they think I’m asleep. They always wake me up with the noises they make. I don’t want them to think I’m some kind of prude, but I can’t tell them I’m awake, but at the same time I don’t want to interrupt. What usually ends up happening is that they exhaust themselves and pass out and I finally get to sleep around 3 a.m. Four times a week (sometimes more) this happens! I don’t want to rouse him out, he’s an ok guy, but I am going to flunk if I keep missing my 8 a.m. class. I’m pretty sure she’s not supposed to be in our room past 10 p.m., but if they get in trouble, he would know it was me who told him out. Help!

-Losing Sleep, male, 18

Dear Losing Sleep,

Why don’t you try to tell them when they wake you up? Are you afraid he won’t like you or he’ll think you’re trying to “clock-block” him? Time to take charge. Ask your roommate (and his girlfriend) whether or not you are supposed to be in their room at that time. I think you should tell your roommate when he’s alone. You might want to leave out the number of times you’ve been awake for their raucousness to avoid sounding “perverted.” Just ask him if there’s anything you can do to give them more time with the room to themselves so that they’re not forced to formulate in front of you. If he says that anything like “we will just try to be more quiet” or the ever popular “if you had a girlfriend, you would understand.”

You need to kick it up a notch and threaten to tell the RA about this disturbance. But just in case they are exhibitionists who prefer it if you’re there to hear them, or they won’t stop it, here are some creative (albeit last resort) solutions to your rather common problem.

-Moved-Be-Gone Tactic One: Sprinkle itching powder between your roommate’s sheets and even in his underwear drawer. Who could get busy when he’s scratching himself like a junkyard dog?

-Moved-Be-Gone Tactic Two: Get photocopies of his parent’s photos (and even some other old, authoritative non-sexy people’s pictures) and plaster the ceiling above your bed. Squeaks would appreciate you telling them that their moans and bed pictures) and plaster the ceiling above Centet and get pamphlets on everything from STD contraction to "moving more with the room to themselves so that they’re not forced to formulate in front of you. If he says that anything like “we will just try to be more quiet” or the ever popular “if you had a girlfriend, you would understand.”

You need to kick it up a notch and threaten to tell the RA about this disturbance. But just in case they are exhibitionists who prefer it if you’re there to hear them, or they won’t stop it, here are some creative (albeit last resort) solutions to your rather common problem.

-Moved-Be-Gone Tactic Three: Go to the Student Health Center and get pamphlets on everything from STD contraction to teen pregnancy and abortion. Proceed to place them strategically throughout your dorm room (on his desk, bed, dresser, etc.). This is an easy and sure-fire way to get them to think twice before exchanging bodily fluids and waking you up.

-Moved-Be-Gone Tactic Four: Crash up your stereo (just loud enough for them to hear, not the whole building) and play a “positive him” station. Hearing the preachings of various holy rollers while trying to commit cardinal sin numero uno should make things not quicker than you can say “struck by a bolt of lightning.”

Keep in mind that your roommate is not that big of a moron. He will know what you are trying to do. He may be pissed, but at least you didn’t take it to higher powers and have him reprimanded for his impolite actions. And you will finally get some much needed shut-eye.

Relive the Controversy!

CHECK OUT EXPERT ADVICE ONLINE AT AOL.COM

http://aol.com/expertadvice

You’ll find the Sextpert Archive topics and guidelines for your questions

Write to

Dear Sextpert,

I am a freshman who lives in a dorm and it sucks. My roommate and his girlfriend keep me awake at night by having sex in his bed when they think I’m asleep. They always wake me up with the noises they make. I don’t want them to think I’m some kind of prude, but I can’t tell them I’m awake, but at the same time I don’t want to interrupt. What usually ends up happening is that they exhaust themselves and pass out and I finally get to sleep around 3 a.m. Four times a week (sometimes more) this happens! I don’t want to rouse him out, he’s an ok guy, but I am going to flunk if I keep missing my 8 a.m. class. I’m pretty sure she’s not supposed to be in our room past 10 p.m., but if they get in trouble, he would know it was me who told him out. Help!

-Losing Sleep, male, 18

Dear Losing Sleep,

Why don’t you try to tell them when they wake you up? Are you afraid he won’t like you or he’ll think you’re trying to “clock-block” him? Time to take charge. Ask your roommate (and his girlfriend) whether or not you are supposed to be in their room at that time. I think you should tell your roommate when he’s alone. You might want to leave out the number of times you’ve been awake for their raucousness to avoid sounding “perverted.” Just ask him if there’s anything you can do to give them more time with the room to themselves so that they’re not forced to formulate in front of you. If he says that anything like “we will just try to be more quiet” or the ever popular “if you had a girlfriend, you would understand.”

You need to kick it up a notch and threaten to tell the RA about this disturbance. But just in case they are exhibitionists who prefer it if you’re there to hear them, or they won’t stop it, here are some creative (albeit last resort) solutions to your rather common problem.

-Moved-Be-Gone Tactic One: Sprinkle itching powder between your roommate’s sheets and even in his underwear drawer. Who could get busy when he’s scratching himself like a junkyard dog?

-Moved-Be-Gone Tactic Two: Get photocopies of his parent’s photos (and even some other old, authoritative non-sexy people’s pictures) and plaster the ceiling above his bed with them. Anyone who still wants some lovin’ after seeing pics like these is just sick.

-Moved-Be-Gone Tactic Three: Go to the Student Health Center and get pamphlets on everything from STD contraction to teen pregnancy and abortion. Proceed to place them strategically throughout your dorm room (on his desk, bed, dresser, etc.). This is an easy and sure-fire way to get them to think twice before exchanging bodily fluids and waking you up.

-Moved-Be-Gone Tactic Four: Crash up your stereo (just loud enough for them to hear, not the whole building) and play a “positive him” station. Hearing the preachings of various holy rollers while trying to commit cardinal sin numero uno should make things not quicker than you can say “struck by a bolt of lightning.”

Keep in mind that your roommate is not that big of a moron. He will know what you are trying to do. He may be pissed, but at least you didn’t take it to higher powers and have him reprimanded for his impolite actions. And you will finally get some much needed shut-eye.

Relive the Controversy!

CHECK OUT EXPERT ADVICE ONLINE AT AOL.COM

http://aol.com/expertadvice

You’ll find the Sextpert Archive topics and guidelines for your questions
LEAD STORIES

A New York appeals court ruled in July that a 53-year-old, serial-plastic-surgery patient, who became dissatisfied with her tacked-and-tightened body after 12 operations over a seven-year period, could sue her doctor for malpractice, despite her consent to all surgeries, because she might suffer from the dissociation that comes a person to think his body is ugly. (Doctors contacted by the New York Observer wondered which, if any, of their patients are actually free of the disorder.) The complaining patient had bad work done on her nose, eyelids, chin, eyebrows, flanks, thighs, knees, breasts and tummy.

Central Illinois farmer Dan Ascheleman recently converted his land to a more lucrative use: attracting nuisance animals away with the presence of a predator. According to a September report in The Pantagraph newspaper of Bloomington, Ill., Ascheleman says the tricky part—getting the non-domestic fowls to entrust in an orderly fashion and then collecting it all (10,000 gallons a year)—is a “trade secret.”

Revolve Their Parenting Licenses?

According to Martinsville, Ind., prosecutors, Judy Kidney, 25, of Florence, Ky., killed four of them in March after she drove into oncoming traffic for more than two miles and struck a minivan (also killing three of its occupants); her doctors say she will testify at her upcoming trial that she suffered from postpartum depression and should not be punished. And Jean Newmaker, 46, was charged in Golden, Colo., in September with child abuse for going along with a “therapy” in which four practitioners squashed her 10-year-old adopted daughter to death; the “therapists” were “rebirthign” the child (supposedly to compensate for an abusive biological mother) by getting her to simulate escaping the womb, but they accidentally suffocated her despite her more than 50 pleas for help over a 70-minute session.

The Continuing Crisis

A highlight of the East Finley Summer Festival in Clayville, Pa., in July was the return of the popular “chicken-flying contest” after a 10-year hiatus. As explained by the Observer-Reporter newspaper of Washington, Pa., chickens are placed in ordinary mailboxes, which are then abruptly opened with a tote plunger, which somehow sends them flying hundreds of feet, with the longest flight winning first prize. During chicken-flying’s hiatus, said Festival Heights, Pa., organizers, cow-patty bingo was featured but was not successful.

Recurring Themes

According to news reports in July and August, young men were driving too close to railroad tracks that a passing train violently knocked his surfboard out of his hands (San Clemente, Calif., June). And a 25-year-old woman lost the toes on her right foot when she crawled under a slow-moving train as a shortcut to the correct platform (Mount Prospect, Ill., July). And an inebriated man’s life was saved by his wife, who punched him just in time from the path of a speeding train after he had lingered on the tracks to make an obscene gesture at the conductor (Tresw, Wis., June). Lesson to Kids: Be a Total Screw-Up, Make Millions!

According to news reports in July and August, Arby Wayne Duntley, arrested for killing a young neighborhood girl (Gilet, Okla., August); Robert Wayne Rontx, sentenced for murdering and beheading a 20-year-old woman (Orange, Texas, July); Christopher Wayne Gregory. Application for DNA testing rejected in a murder case against him (Illinois, August); Wayne Stevens. Convicted in the murders of five people at a car wash (Irving, Texas, September); Robert Wayne Harris.

Least Justifiable Homicides

Killed over Access to Mating: Edward William Heckman, 58, was charged in July near Jonesboro, Ga., with killing his ex-girlfriend’s 10-year-old adopted daughter to have sex with him. Baby sitter Robert Cooper, 22, was convicted in June in Calgary, Alberta, of killing two young boys because they hindered his attempted seduction of their mother. A man in his 20s allegedly killed 11 people with an Uzi at a Bogota, Colombia, nightclub in June after rejection by a woman.

Also, in the Last Month...

An off-duty police officer reporting for an MRI while armed had the superpowerful magnet suck his gun away and slam it into the machine, causing one round to fire into a wall (Rockwell, N.Y., August). Singapore’s leading newspaper published a how-to guide to having sex in cars, in support of the government’s campaign to raise the birth rate. The mayor of a French resort town, which has no crime statistics, and a restrictive land-use law, prohibited dying by people with burial space (Le Levandou).

 sentido de la vida. (Doctors contacted by the New York Observer wondered which, if any, of their patients are actually free of the disorder.) The complaining patient had bad work done on her nose, eyelids, chin, eyebrows, flanks, thighs, knees, breasts and tummy.

Central Illinois farmer Dan Ascheleman recently converted his land to a more lucrative use: attracting nuisance animals away with the presence of a predator. According to a September report in The Pantagraph newspaper of Bloomington, Ill., Ascheleman says the tricky part—getting the non-domestic fowls to entrust in an orderly fashion and then collecting it all (10,000 gallons a year)—is a “trade secret.”

Revolve Their Parenting Licenses?

According to Martinsville, Ind., prosecutors, Judy Kidney, 25, of Florence, Ky., killed four of them in March after she drove into oncoming traffic for more than two miles and struck a minivan (also killing three of its occupants); her doctors say she will testify at her upcoming trial that she suffered from postpartum depression and should not be punished. And Jean Newmaker, 46, was charged in Golden, Colo., in September with child abuse for going along with a “therapy” in which four practitioners squashed her 10-year-old adopted daughter to death; the “therapists” were “rebirthign” the child (supposedly to compensate for an abusive biological mother) by getting her to simulate escaping the womb, but they accidentally suffocated her despite her more than 50 pleas for help over a 70-minute session.

The Continuing Crisis

A highlight of the East Finley Summer Festival in Clayville, Pa., in July was the return of the popular “chicken-flying contest” after a 10-year hiatus. As explained by the Observer-Reporter newspaper of Washington, Pa., chickens are placed in ordinary mailboxes, which are then abruptly opened with a tote plunger, which somehow sends them flying hundreds of feet, with the longest flight winning first prize. During chicken-flying’s hiatus, said Festival Heights, Pa., organizers, cow-patty bingo was featured but was not successful.

Recurring Themes

According to news reports in July and August, Arby Wayne Duntley, arrested for killing a young neighborhood girl (Gilet, Okla., August); Robert Wayne Rontx, sentenced for murdering and beheading a 20-year-old woman (Orange, Texas, July); Christopher Wayne Gregory. Application for DNA testing rejected in a murder case against him (Illinois, August); Wayne Stevens. Convicted in the murders of five people at a car wash (Irving, Texas, September); Robert Wayne Harris.

Least Justifiable Homicides

Killed over Access to Mating: Edward William Heckman, 58, was charged in July near Jonesboro, Ga., with killing his ex-girlfriend’s 10-year-old adopted daughter to have sex with him. Baby sitter Robert Cooper, 22, was convicted in June in Calgary, Alberta, of killing two young boys because they hindered his attempted seduction of their mother. A man in his 20s allegedly killed 11 people with an Uzi at a Bogota, Colombia, nightclub in June after rejection by a woman.

Also, in the Last Month...

An off-duty police officer reporting for an MRI while armed had the superpowerful magnet suck his gun away and slam it into the machine, causing one round to fire into a wall (Rockwell, N.Y., August). Singapore’s leading newspaper published a how-to guide to having sex in cars, in support of the government’s campaign to raise the birth rate. The mayor of a French resort town, which has no crime statistics, and a restrictive land-use law, prohibited dying by people with burial space (Le Levandou).
FELIX
by Steve McCain

Crossword

ACROSS
1. Puck's instrument
6. Sits in neutral
11. Short snooze
14. Freeze over
15. Poor
16. Building add-on
17. Tendency to break
19. Semimental drivel
20. Bear-baiting word
21. Charity
22. Senator Lott
24. Bewildered
26. Keanu or Dan
27. Rouen's river
30. Brides' mates
32. Greeting rituals
34. First-rate
38. 1oth mo.
39. x
40. Board-game cube
42. Fish eggs
43. Horse arrester?
45. A realistic goal
48. "Silkwood" star
50. Malicious burning
51. Loos and Louise
54. Regretting
56. The king of France
57. Emcee
58. Hindu discipline
62. Wonderment
63. "Mighty Aphrodite" co-star
66. Fellows
67. Lena or Marilyn
68. Camera-ready proof
69. Vein to mine
70. Directory
71. Punymous foods

DOWN
1. Type of bird
2. Piece of land
3. Emblem
4. Periodical of TV
5. Make a choice
6. Lack of retirement
7. Hard hat's home
8. Majors and Grant
9. Hero and Heroine
10. Medal
11. Broad desert
12. "Home ...
13. Bonfire
14. Home ...
15. Peanut
16. Exempt
17. Pen or Craft
18. "Vogue"
19. "Vogue"
20. Pen of "White Man Can't Jump"
21. Display
22. Ajab
22. Absorbed by
23. Donna by
24. Buffalo
25. Pen or Craft
26. Gloves
27. Ralph Laurent's company
28. Obsessed
29. Writer Hunter
30. Concerning
31. Leading role
32. Fancy socks
33. Native ofsuffix
34. Acquaint
35. Crockett's Waterloo
36. More recent
37. Goodnight girl of song
38. Native of suffix
39. Rigmarole
40. Banyan tree stuff
41. Pen or Craft
42. Book after Joel
43. Actor Chaney
44. Bikini top
45. Crockett's Waterloo
46. "Home ...
47. Fan ...
48. "Home ...
49. Cossack's jacket
50. Goodnight girl of song
51. Crockett's Waterloo
52. More recent
53. Goodnight girl of song
54. Acquaint
55. Native of suffix
56. The king of France
57. Emcee
58. Hindu discipline
62. Wonderment
63. "Mighty Aphrodite" co-star
66. Fellows
67. Lena or Marilyn
68. Camera-ready proof
69. Vein to mine
70. Directory
71. Punymous foods

You almost got us killed by stealing a parking spot that your ex-girlfriend was already waiting for, and now you're celebrating that accomplishment with a disgusting display of utter childishness.

Oh, yeah! We won, baby! They thought they had it, but we beat 'em to it! Hell, yeah!

Go, Jojo, it's your birthday! Go, Jojo, it's your birthday!

Get you in class.

Drunk.

Relaxation Station

Are You Stressed?
Free

Herbology

Yoga

Massage

Raffles

Aromatherapy

Acupuncture

and more!

Monday, October 16

1-5 pm in the Student Union 3rd floor.

For more info: UCF Wellness Center 823-5841
Applications available beginning in October
Catch the spirit and join us in representing UCF to the next generation of students!
Pick up and return applications at the ORIENTATION CENTER, STUDENT RESOURCE CENTER, RM. 227 407-823-5105
Applications are due by October 27 at 5:00 p.m.

O-TEAM 2001
Stepping Beyond!

Entertainment

Radiohead - Kid A

Available 10 03 00

---

Horoscopes continued from page 16

difficult could fall into place. Take a romantic gift to the one you love on Sunday. That would not only be thoughtful, but wise.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): Pass on a great deal that a friend tells you about on Monday. Spend the money on your home, instead. On Tuesday watch for a great deal on something that you buy anyway. Stock up. Send a check to a worthy cause Wednesday, especially one that's deductible. Don't take on new projects Thursday. You've got enough to do already. A technical breakdown on Friday could have you out shopping for a new gadget over the weekend. Don't go for the bells and whistles. Get the one that will hold up best mechanically.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): On Monday your presentation of a new idea gets nothing but arguments. Don't be dissuaded. You can convince everybody with facts, plan your own natural charm. If you're a little short on information, Tuesday's good for finding what you need. You'd better not procrastinate. Somebody's apt to ask for it before Wednesday is over. Look for wise investments on Wednesday, too. Luxury items for your sweetheart top the list. You may have a touch of buyer's remorse on Thursday, but an expensive item of top quality will prove to be a good choice. A class you take on Friday or Saturday could be quite useful. Ask tough questions to get the most out of that investment. By Sunday you may have a new point of view to add to your collection.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You're getting mixed messages concerning work on Monday. That might be due to changes happening there. That's a terrible day to travel, by the way. People will make unexpected lane changes, too. On Tuesday if you come up with an idea that works, get bold and brassy with it on Wednesday and Thursday. If you've presented this well, ask for a raise on Friday. You have a chance at it, so don't botch the opportunity. An argument with a friend about money could mar an otherwise lovely Saturday. Don't make a big deal of it and don't loan this person much, either. Take 'em paid.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): On Monday and Tuesday offer a friend your shoulder to cry on. He or she is going through a confusing metamorphosis. From where you're standing, the less substance than you had hoped. Don't botch the opportunity. An argument with a friend about a family matter, so don't sweat it. Your honey-do list is long enough to keep you busy over the weekend. Don't be afraid to make a mess to get what you want.

If you're a little short on information, Tuesday's good for finding what you need. You'd better not procrastinate. Somebody's apt to ask for it before Wednesday is over. Look for wise investments on Wednesday, too. Luxury items for your sweetheart top the list. You may have a new point of view to add to your collection.

PARTIAL LIST OF EVENTS:

O-TEAM 2001
Stepping Beyond!

Applications available beginning in October
Catch the spirit and join us in representing UCF to the next generation of students!
Pick up and return applications at the ORIENTATION CENTER, STUDENT RESOURCE CENTER, RM. 227 407-823-5105
Applications are due by October 27 at 5:00 p.m.

---
HELP WANTED

$500 helped needed in $500.

Insurance Projects
(No title, Sarah M. Liston) (New York, p. 1.5-Kah, the topmost $2,300) $500 help needed in

Plantagenet in New York to help develop business in business, sporting events, classrooms, etc. $500 help needed in New York

Call Story or Sydney at 550-54-5462.

Wanted: Help in blouse business to work for device, delivery, etc. A 60$-co, $700 help needed in Wanted: $700 help needed in $700.

ISL, however, wanted ISL, English as a Second

Language (ESL) teacher for English to non-speakers, or you are e-

 calling in that field to tell us wants to start a business. If you need help, please call

HELPWANTED

HELP WANTED

Programmed for the Various

Photography, DAILS and SQL under Windows.

NEED A FUN & EXCITING JOB TO GET YOU THROUGH

Back-end & Front-end developer with full development cycle experience.

No experience necessary, will provide training.

Flexible schedule.

* No telemarketing
* No Door to Door Sales

Full Business Training, Start Immediately

May be able to work on that:

EARN WHILE

YOU LEARN

WE ARE LOOKING FOR people with

or experience. Knowledge of Visual Basic, HTML,

for phone interview please call

NO APPOINTMENT NECESSARY!

HELPWANTED

HELPWANTED

FREE LEAFLET DISTRIBUTION FROM 7:30AM-1PM

In real-time market application soft-

CIC++

on East Colonial

TOWNHOMES WITH GARAGES - SHOALS

www.harveycohenlaw.com

Double to meet the agents that can make

The best way to leave with the scouts!

EBERLE WHILE WE LEARN: We will

COPY SERVICES. Needed for Spanish-reading

Financial advisor to instigate technical appro-

Valid banking - Excellent pay for

MEET THE AGENTS that can make

Experienced sales representative, hard work.

Meet the agents that can make it happen!

In a charter plane

Distance learning

Smokers in the world

Bartenders make $500 to $700 per

BEAT the CABBY. Baker, P. L. $500 help

Enter to win a away game

Go on the ROAD!

Brought this coupon in to get 15% off your next meal.

visit us online at: www.quinnssofodika.com

321-3075

Cable lacrosse

Looking for a job in $500. Not a job you

Waste this oil and save $500.

www.greenoils.com/howto

Which one applies to you...

Long distance

3 usage cents for only $500

7 usage cents for only $1,000

$3 usage cents for only $500

(no additional options)

Unlimited  Unlimited service with 1 cent

Usage for only $500

Free Materials Paper available in a variety of colors and sizes. Please fill out the fax in to WINPAL for all UCF students.

CALL NOW: 1-866-513-1000

Federations - Student Clubs

Student Groups

Tallahassee 850-877-1000

TAMU Fellowship

For more information, contact us at 407-923-3238 or visit www.campusfundraiser.com.

www.harveycohenlaw.com

2) Good Pay (depends on experience)

3) Good working environment with line of potential for growth.

For more information please call

(800) 512-8707 and have your contact information.

HELPWANTED!

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

Programmed for the Various

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED
Schneider brings emotion and unorthodox techniques

Player of the Year award in his senior season. He was initially recruited by a number of colleges, including Auburn, but most of the schools lost interest after having questions about whether his mobility was good enough for a Division I-A quar­terback. Schneider was set to go to Houston when former UCF defensive tackles coach Andy Cox, who had known Schneider for a long time, recruited him to come to UCF, and Schneider accepted the invitation. Now, as a redshirt freshman, the hopes of a Division I-A football program rest squarely on his shoulders. But was he nervous making his first ever start in college?

"Actually no, not at all," Schneider said. "We had a real­ly good week of practice and I am as confident as possible right now. As always, you do get anxious, for sure, but you're excited. You don't worry about what other people are saying about you, you're like 'what? You don't really know what he's talking about,' said senior wide receiver Tyson Hinshaw. "Or he might say something like 'I wonder where we're going to eat after this.' It does relax the guys but sometimes you're thinking 'all right, you gotta take the snap now, Ryan.'"

Whatever his mannerisms, Schneider has UCF football on track this season with two consecutive wins, and has brought emotion and hope to a previously forgotten group of players. Still, many questions remain. Is he the real deal? Can he keep this up? What will happen when Penn State comes calling from injury?

But questions have never stopped Ryan Schneider before.
NIU expected to contend for MAC title

FROM PAGE 32

ground. This should bode well for the Golden Knights, who have been improving their running game each week, gaining a season-high 136 yards against Eastern Michigan.

One big question for UCF will be if redshirt freshman quarterback Ryan Schneider can continue his stellar play of last week. In his first collegiate start, Schneider was 38 for 365 yards and two touchdowns. UCF Head Coach Mike Kruczek says that while the Golden Knights offense played its best game of the season against Eastern Michigan, there is still room to improve.

"As a team, we had too many turnovers," said Schneider. "Too many fumbles, I threw an interception. We have to get rid of that. We play a better team and we turn balls over like that, we’re going to lose the game."

Each remaining game this season is of the utmost importance for UCF, as the Golden Knights have to win them all to remain eligible for a bowl game. The team has improved considerably during the past few weeks, and a victory at Northern Illinois would be just one more step in the right direction.

UCF 31 Eastern Michigan 10 • Game Notes (con’t)

FROM PAGE 31

• Two-Minute Drill

With just 1:26 left to play in the first half, the Golden Knights got the ball at their own 20-yard line and went into their two-minute drill offense. This time, however, it was more like a 49-second drill offense. Quarterback Ryan Schneider needed only five plays to lead UCF into the end zone on an 18-yard TD pass to Tyson Himshaw, including a 41-yard completion to Himshaw that got the team into scoring position.

"I was very happy to see us score in a 2-minute type of situation," said Head Coach Mike Kruczek. "That’s why we called the timeouts (on EMU’s previous possession) and thought we had an opportunity in that particular set."

Kruczek said that touchdown was the turning point in the game. "The last touchdown before the end of the half was the straw that broke the camel’s back, so to speak," he said. "It kind of got those guys to. I’m not going to say quit because I don’t like to say that about a team, but I really think they began to evaluate the situation in the game to maybe kind of gear it back some."

• Injury Report

The Golden Knights suffered injuries to three of their top offensive players against Eastern Michigan. Senior wide receiver Kenny Clark sprained his right ankle in the first quarter and did not return. Running backs Eddie Mack and Omar Howard both suffered neck stingers and were also forced to leave the game.

"The only one I’m worried about is Kenny, said UCF Head Trainer Kevin Mercuri. "Just being able to recover and being able to practice like this. Might be out of contact a little bit this week, but he’ll make the trip (to Northern Illinois) next week. The other two will be fine."

Visit TIAA-CREF at the benefits fair.

For generations, people in education and research have turned to TIAA-CREF to help them achieve their financial goals. And for good reasons:

• Easy diversification among a range of expertise
• Solid history of performance and exceptional personal service
• Strong commitment to low expenses
• Plus, a full range of flexible retirement income options

Find out why TIAA-CREF is the retirement organization of choice at more than 9,000 institutions nationwide. Our TIAA-CREF Consultants will be available to answer your questions.

Date: Friday, October 6, 2000
Time: 9:00 am - 4:00 pm
Place: Student Union

UFC Full Photo
Senior defensive tackle Josh McKibben gets a sack against EMU. The Golden Knights will need another good defensive performance to beat Northern Illinois.
The Streak Is Over

Mercer shocked the UCF Women’s Soccer team on Sept. 29, upsetting the Golden Knights 1-0 at Bear Field in Mercer, Georgia. The loss ended UCF’s 23-game TAAC regular season unbeaten streak and its mark of 1127 consecutive regular season TAAC scoreless minutes over 10 games.

Mercer freshman forward Anne-Marie Lapasone stole the ball from UCF defender Noelle Brown and lofted a shot over the head of goalkeeper Jessica Kuhlman in the game’s 39th minute, and it turned out to be the game-winning goal. Goalkeeper Genevieve Reid got the shutout for the Bears.

“We’ve spent a lot of time working on our defense and it showed today,” said Mercer Coach Jodie Smith. “One good Genevieve came up big for us. To win a game like this made them all today. I’m happy for her that Genevieve Reid got the shutout for the defense and it showed Bear Field in Mercer, Georgia. The loss ended UCF’s 23-game TAAC regular season unbeaten streak and its mark of 1127 consecutive regular season TAAC scoreless minutes over 10 games.

UCF’s 14th-ranked Women’s Golf team won the Ole Miss Lady Rebel Invitational by shooting three consecutive 306 rounds on route to a 918 and a five-stroke win over Arkansas State.

UCF’s Tanja Arnold won the individual medalist honors by defeating Amanda Beeler of Arkansas State in a playoff. Both shot 220 (+4) after three rounds, but Arnold pulled out a victory in the playoff. Along with Arnold, two other UCF golfers finished in the top 10. Olivia Hartley finished fourth with a 228 (+12) and Monica Gundersrud shot a 231 (+15) to tie for sixth place.

The tournament win was the Golden Knights’ first of the season, although they have placed highly in each of their three Rolex College Golf Tournaments. Golfweek Magazine has UCF ranked 14th as a team and Gundersrud ranked 28th individually.

— Daniel Mauro
Sante leads team in kills, service aces

FROM PAGE 32

Sante is one of three freshmen starting for the UCF Women’s Volleyball team.

“It’s a big opportunity,” said Sante, who plays the position of outside hitter. “One of the things everyone told me was that when you go to the United States to play in college the freshmen don’t play. It’s great because there are three freshmen on the court and we are 50% of the people out there working hard, trying to win the conference and trying to get us to the NCAA tournament.”

But playing in the U.S. has taken some read­justing for Sante. She says the game here in the U.S. is not as fast as in Puerto Rico and getting accustomed to speaking English on the court is at times difficult.

“Playing here is a lot different than playing in Puerto Rico,” said Sante. “Here we have regular scoring and in Puerto Rico we play rally point. The game is more fast (in Puerto Rico) and it’s harder because you have to be focused all of the time. It’s very difficult for me because English is not my first language and on the court I have to speak English the whole time. I think in Puerto Rico I am more aggressive on the court because I feel more comfortable with the language.”

Despite the differences and language barrier, however, Sante has played extremely well for the Golden Knights this year. She is currently first on the team with 212 kills and 27 service aces, and also ranks fourth with 119 digs. Colado couldn’t be more content with Sante’s progress this sea­son, saying UCF is a better team with her on the court.

“I told her when I recruited her that I needed her to be able to on the court and play,” said Colado. “She posted a double-double the other night with 15 kills and that’s just fabulous for a freshman. We’ll need her to continue to post those kind of numbers for us in order to do well.”

Sante has set goals for herself not only in volleyball but academically as well. She is majoring in business and accounting and plans on taking the CPA after she gets her degree and then hopes to study law. And if that is not enough, her aspira­tions for volleyball include becoming an All­American and helping her team reach the NCAA Tournament.

For Sante, time and experience will make her feel more comfortable playing volleyball in the U.S. It will also make her feel more comfortable being away from home, as family is more valu­able to her than anything else.

“It’s very hard to be away from my family because I am very close to them,” said Sante. “I have three brothers and they are my best friends. My mom is my best friend. It’s very hard but they come and see me two weekends every month. I talked to them everyday about everything.”

Yet, she has found a home away from home through the volleyball team. She currently lives with two other freshman volleyball players, Jenny Frank and Lindsay Whalen, and all three look to provide a promising future for the women’s vol­leyball team. Sante says that the chemistry between the team is incredible and that it has made coming to UCF an easier transition.

“The girls are always trying to make the fresh­men feel good on the team,” said Sante. “We are always going out all together either to eat or to go and hang out. If you don’t have a quarter to do laundry you give the quarter to do your laun­dry. They are very nice.”

Colado is confident that Sante is happy here and respects her for the changes she has had to endure as a freshman leaving her home in Puerto Rico.

“I think that she is very happy here and that makes me happy,” said Colado. “Regular fresh­man have to worry about moving away from home within the United States. She has that added distance to her family. I think that is a hard thing to adjust to but I think she is taking it very well.

FROM PAGE 28

Morgan also needs only four more kills to pass Caitight and move into eighth place on the UCF career list in that catego­ry, and only three solo blocks to take over fourth place in that area.

Saldana moved into a tie at third place for career assists with her 14-assist performance against Troy State. She is tied with Elsye Schneider (1993-96) with 1,697 career assists. Saldana may be able to get to second place by the end of the season, as she needs 277 more assists to get there, a very reachable number.

• Morgan Named to Raider Challenge

Morgan’s 25 kills and 17 blocks earned her All­Tournament honors at Wright State’s Raider Challenge on September 16. That was the second time this season that Morgan has made an All­Tournament team. She was also named to the Colorado Powerbar Invitational Tournament earlier this year for her performances against Colorado and Louisiana State.

Head Coach Meg Colado guided UCF to an undefeated record in 2AAC regular season play last season, and hopes to do the same this year.

• Whalen Does Well

After fighting for playing time early in the season, Whalen has been one of the best and most consistent players on the team over the last few games.

Whalen had a double-double against FAU, and then led the Golden Knights with eight kills against Troy State.

Whalen, Sante and Frank make up a stellar freshman class for the Golden Knights. Sante cur­rently leads the team in kills with 212, and Frank leads the team in assists (388) and assists per game (7.35).

Sante, Whalen and Frank have made co­coming to UCF an easier transition.

The girls are always trying to make the fresh­men feel good on the team,” said Sante. “We always going out all together either to eat or to go and hang out. If you don’t have a quarter to do laundry you give the quarter to do your laun­dry. They are very nice.”

Colado is confident that Sante is happy here and respects her for the changes she has had to endure as a freshman leaving her home in Puerto Rico.

“I think that she is very happy here and that makes me happy,” said Colado. “Regular fresh­man have to worry about moving away from home within the United States. She has that added distance to her family. I think that is a hard thing to adjust to but I think she is taking it very well.

Morgan also needs only four more kills to pass Caitight and move into eighth place on the UCF career list in that catego­ry, and only three solo blocks to take over fourth place in that area.

Saldana moved into a tie at third place for career assists with her 14-assist performance against Troy State. She is tied with Elsye Schneider (1993-96) with 1,697 career assists. Saldana may be able to get to second place by the end of the season, as she needs 277 more assists to get there, a very reachable number.

• Morgan Named to Raider Challenge

Morgan’s 25 kills and 17 blocks earned her All­Tournament honors at Wright State’s Raider Challenge on September 16. That was the second time this season that Morgan has made an All­Tournament team. She was also named to the Colorado Powerbar Invitational Tournament earlier this year for her performances against Colorado and Louisiana State.

Head Coach Meg Colado guided UCF to an undefeated record in 2AAC regular season play last season, and hopes to do the same this year.

• Whalen Does Well

After fighting for playing time early in the season, Whalen has been one of the best and most consistent players on the team over the last few games.

Whalen had a double-double against FAU, and then led the Golden Knights with eight kills against Troy State.

Whalen, Sante and Frank make up a stellar freshman class for the Golden Knights. Sante cur­rently leads the team in kills with 212, and Frank leads the team in assists (388) and assists per game (7.35).
Graduating?
There's help.
(Lots of it!)

Log on today and register to get the right start in the real world.

www.ucf.egrad2000.com

You'll be amazed—no screaming either. Promise.
(tear out the url and save it for next time you're online)

egrad2000.com
The right start in the real world

everything you need to succeed
UCF Gets Revenge on FAU

Last year, after going undefeated in the Trans Atlantic Athletic Conference, the UCF Volleyball Team lost to Florida Atlantic University in the championship game of the TAAC Tournament. The loss ended the Golden Knights’ season prematurely, preventing them from going to the NCAA Tournament. Last week, however, UCF got a little revenge.

In a Sept. 26 match that was televised on Sunshine Network, the Golden Knights defeated FAU (4-12) in four games; 15-2, 15-8, 14-16, 15-10. Freshmen outside hitter Leyre Santaella Sante had a double-double with 25 kills and 12 digs, while fellow freshman Lindsey Whalen also registered a double-double with 11 kills and 12 digs. Setters Becca Saldana and Jenny Frank also had double-doubles for UCF, with Frank totaling 29 assists and 20 digs, and Saldana having 27 assists and 12 digs.

Despite being in the same conference, the UCF-FAU match did not count as a conference game in the TAAC standings.

UCF Wins Conference Opener

UCF dominated Troy State University (11-4, 0-1) last Friday, defeating the Trojans 15-4, 15-2, 15-4 in the Golden Knights’ first TAAC match of the year. Leading the UCF attack was freshman outside hitter Lindsey Whalen with eight kills, while team captain Shelly Driggers had seven kills and an .875 attack percentage. Junior middle blocker Piper Morgan also had seven kills, and added two block assists.

“I’m pleased because they absolutely dominated this match,” said UCF head coach Meg Colado. “They did not let up, and they did not give up easy points. We absolutely dominated that match, mostly by our serving and defense.”

UCF (8-7, 1-0) now begins a stretch of three conference road matches in five days, beginning with an Oct. 6 match at Georgia State and continuing with Mercer and Florida Atlantic.

“Georgia State will be tough to beat at home,” said Colado. “We’re going to put in a serious focus week of practice,” Colado said. “We’ll be ready for them.”

The Golden Knights’ next home game is against Stetson, another TAAC opponent, on Oct. 18 at 7:00 p.m. in the UCF Arena.

Morgan and Saldana Move Up in UCF Record Books

Junior middle blocker Piper Morgan’s two block assists against Troy State gave her sole possession of fourth place in school history with 215 career block assists. Morgan was tied with Michelle Cutright (1992-95) going into the game.

NOTEBOK. Page 26
Catch the UCF vs Northern Illinois game here!

Join Smokey Bones and for the ULTIMATE PRE-GAME TAILGATE PARTY starting at NOON SEPTEMBER 16th

TWO ORlando LOCATIONS:
1490 State Rd. 436, Casselberry (at 436 & Howell Branch Rd.)
407-673-4901
3400 East Colonial Drive, Orlando (across from Fashion Square Mall)
407-894-1511

UCF Head Football Coach Mike Kruczek will be the Honorary M.C.!

Fun begins @ 4:00pm

FOOD & PRIZES PROVIDED BY THE FOLLOWING SPONSORS:
Universal Studios
Arabian Nights
Burger King
Boston Market
The Future
Aloma Bowl East
Aloma Cinema Grill
UCF Credit Union
Pirate's Cove Golf
Pizza Hut
SAK Comedy Lab
Terror /Church St.
Pizzeria UNO
Disney World
College Suites
Smoothie King
Eastwood Golf
Wedgfield Golf
Oviedo Bowl
Capone's Dinner
Hop's
T.G. Lee Dairy
Fazoli's
Water Mania
Frito Lay
Wet n' Wild
Olive Garden
Bubbalou's BBQ
Disney World
Medieval Times
Mystery Fun House
Orlando Reg. H.C.
UCF Alumni Assoc.
Pizza Hut
Chick-fil-A
Twin Rivers Golf
Sleuths Myst. Dinner
Smoothie King
Orlando Solar Bears
Coke

A night of Fantastic Food, Fun, and Prizes! Coed teams of 4 compete in a full night of events including: Boat Races, Volleyball, Tug-of-War, Mellonball, Pajama/inner-tube pool race, BK Sip-off, and more...

Sign-up online @ www.intramurals.com/ucf
Page overcomes injury to win starting job at UCF

DAVID MARSTERS  STAFF WRITER

Rotator cuff surgery is not a pleasant experience, and certainly not something that is easy to come back from. Major League Baseball pitchers sometimes spend an entire year rehabilitating an injury like that, and often are never able to regain the form they possessed before the surgery. But UCF defensive end Don Page has not let injury get in the way of his college football career.

Page, a redshirt freshman, originally had shoulder surgery while he was a fullback and linebacker at Foley High School in Alabama. He originally signed with Auburn in 1998, but did not meet initial eligibility requirements until after the season, and never enrolled there. In 1999, Page came to UCF touted as one of the most talented defensive ends ever to don the Black & Gold. But he injured his shoulder once again during the second week of the season, and was forced to take a medical redshirt. When spring practice rolled around, he was back with the team and won the starting right end job for the fifth year senior Fred Harley.

During this year’s fall camp, Page held onto the starting position, and started the first two games of the season. But he re-injured his shoulder against Northwestern State and played only sparingly against Akron because of the pain. Once again, however, Page bounced back and returned to the starting lineup the following week against William & Mary.

"It’s been a hard road," said Page. "I’m still not back 100 percent. I still have some strengthening to do on my shoulders. Right now, it’s holding up and I’m just praying that it holds up the rest of the year."

"It gets sore after every game," he said. "It’s not bad where I’m just crying out in pain, but it’s that sore feeling. I feel I can go the whole way."

And last week at Eastern Michigan, all of Page’s hard work paid off, as he had his best game as a Golden Knight. Page made six tackles, including two for lost yardage. He had a pass deflection on the game’s first play, and also got a sack of EMU quarterback Walt Church. Most impressive though, was a play that Page made during the game’s third quarter. With UCF leading 24-3, Eastern Michigan mounted a drive that put them inside the Golden Knights’ red zone. On second down from the 15-yard line, the UCF defense ran a 39-yard line, almost going all the way for a touchdown.

"He pretty much gave it to me," said Page. "We were in a drop coverage for the ends and I just stared it down the whole way. We’ve been doing it all year. That’s what we drop for, expecting to get a pick. I should have cut back and I would have scored."

UCF Head Coach Mike Kruczek was impressed with Page’s ability to catch and run with the football.

"Looked like a damn defensive back," said Kruczek. "I mean I was shocked. I saw that ball and he sucked it up like a sponge. I was kind of hoping he’d score. He’s a heckuva athlete. We’re going to have a great defensive line eventually."

With Page, fellow redshirt freshman Brent Bolar, and sophomore Elton Patterson, the defensive end position is in good hands at UCF. As the starters, Page and Patterson have combined for 49 tackles, including 15 for lost yardage, and six sacks this season.

If Page is able to stay healthy, the future of the UCF defensive line is very bright. And with Page’s determination and resilience, it is likely that he will be keeping that future bright for a very long time.
Offensive Player of the Week
Ryan Schneider

In his first collegiate start, Schneider completed 27 of 38 passes for 365 yards and two touchdowns, and he also scored a rushing touchdown. He went 17 of 21 in the first half alone, including competing his first five passes in leading UCF to a touchdown on their first possession of the game.

Defensive Player of the Week
Don Page

The redshirt freshman defensive end had six tackles, including two for lost yardage. He deflected a pass on the first play of the game, had a sack of EMU quarterback Walt Church, and also intercepted Church in third quarter when the Eagles' had moved inside UCF's 20-yard line and were poised to score.

- Baker scores his first collegiate touchdown
On UCF's first possession of the game, redshirt freshman tailback Corey Baker caught a screen pass from Schneider and did the rest by himself, outrunning one defender and diving for the goal line for a 10-yard touchdown. It was the first touchdown of his college career. Later in the game, Baker finished the Golden Knights' scoring with his first ever rushing touchdown, punching the ball in from the 1-yard line with 7:42 left to play in the fourth quarter. Above all else, though, Baker said he was happy with the way UCF was able to run the ball late in the game.

- Collins Gets the Ball
With injuries to tailbacks Eddie Mack and Omari Howard, senior fullback Dwight Collins was able to get some carries in the fourth quarter. Collins, who came to UCF as a tailback but moved to fullback in his sophomore year, rushed for 38 yards on just four carries, a 9.5 average. It was the most times Collins has carried the ball in a game since 1997.

- Defensive Linemen Becoming Sprinters?
Defensive linemen Don Page and Josh Mackh have wheels. Well, almost. During the game, each showed considerable speed during returns of EMU turnovers. Near the end of the first half, EMU's offense was trying to get into field goal range, but Mackhinen recovered a fumble by EMU quarterback Walt Church at midfield and returned it to the Eagles' 31-yard line before being tackled from behind, giving UCF a chance at a Hail Mary pass.

Page also ended an EMU attempt at a scoring drive, intercepting Church at the UCF 10-yard line and returning the ball 25 yards down the sideline. Had Page been able to get around the player who tackled him, he likely would have gone all the way for a touchdown.

UCF offense explodes in Schneider's first start

David Marsters
Staff Writer

Redshirt freshman quarterback Ryan Schneider made his first collegiate start easy against Eastern Michigan, going 27 of 38 for 365 yards and two touchdowns, leading the Golden Knights to their biggest offensive output of the year. UCF gained 501 total yards in the 31-10 victory, eclipsing the mark of 432 yards against William & Mary. Both passing yards (365) and rushing yards (136) were a season high.

"We had a really good week of practice and I was real confident in everything we were doing, so I think when you're confident in what you're doing, it kind of gets rid of the butterflies," said Schneider. "We knew they were going to probably blitz us a lot because it was my first start and they were probably going to come out and rattle me."

Though Schneider was the star of the game, much of UCF's success can be attributed to the play of the offensive line. The much criticized group had their best effort of the season, allowing Schneider to be sacked only once and opening up big holes for the Golden Knight running game.

"We gave the quarterback time to sit in there which was key," said offensive line coach Robert McFarland. "We felt like they were going to heat up Ryan which they did. They brought a lot of people. I thought our running backs, tight ends did a great job protecting as well. At the end of the game when we needed to run the football to keep the defense off, I thought we were able to control the line of scrimmage and run the football. Of course, when you have a guy like Corey Baker back there, it helps."

Baker rushed for 96 yards on 18 carries, both career highs. Senior wide receiver Tyson Hinshaw also set career highs, catching 12 passes for 206 yards. It marked only the seventh time a UCF receiver has topped the 200-yard mark.

By the Numbers

365 Number of passing yards by redshirt freshman quarterback Ryan Schneider in his first collegiate start.

1 Number of times Schneider was sacked by Eastern Michigan, after having his answer questions all week about his lack of mobility. It was the second fewest amount of quarterback sacks that UCF has given up in a game all year.

96 Number of rushing yards by redshirt freshman tailback Corey Baker, the most by a UCF player this year.

6 Number of fumbles by UCF, only two of which were recovered by Eastern Michigan.

17 Number of tackles by junior middle linebacker Tito Rodriguez, making only his second start of the season after coming back from arthroscopic knee surgery.

30 Number of rushing yards by Eastern Michigan, a team that had previously averaged 115.8 yards per game.

12, 206 Number of catches and receiving yards, respectively, by senior Tyson Hinshaw, both of which are career highs.

Hinshaw's performance marked only the seventh time in UCF history that a Golden Knight receiver has topped the 200-yard mark.

21 Number of consecutive games in which senior wide receiver Kenny Clark has made a reception, seventh on UCF's all time list. Clark needs one more to equal Isaiah Burton (1997-98) and Mike Dickinson (1990-92), who each caught a pass in 22 straight games.

50 Percentage of third downs successfully converted by UCF, their second best third down conversion rate of the season. The Golden Knights went 7 of 14 on third down.

501 Number of yards of total offense by UCF, consisting of 363 passing yards and 136 rushing yards. It was the Golden Knights' highest offensive output of the season.
UCF hopes to continue momentum against NIU

David Marsters
 staff writer

For the first time since the 1998 season, the UCF football team has a winning record. The 3-2 Golden Knights would like to keep it that way against Northern Illinois this weekend, but that will be a tough task than the one they faced last week against Eastern Michigan. UCF will play this year, with the Golden Knights already having lost to Akron and defeated Eastern Michigan. NIU plays in Huskie Stadium, which has artificial turf as a playing surface. While that may have hampered UCF earlier in the season, the Golden Knights are now used to the artificial surface, as they have now played on it in two of the past three weeks. One big advantage for NIU, who is expected by many to compete for the MAC Championship, will be that this is their Homecoming game, never an easy task for the visiting opponent. The Huskies are 2-2 this season, beating Illinois State and Ball State, and losing to Northwestern and Auburn, both nationally ranked teams. NIU Coach Joe Novak says that while high expectations are fine, his team has to go out and prove it on the field.

NIU, Page 24

Sante finds a home away from home at UCF

Natasha Berk
 staff writer

Most people can relate to the feeling of leaving home and going to college. Leaving your parents, friends, and your familiar surroundings. Facing the task of meeting new people and learning your way around. UCF freshman volleyball player Leyre Santaella Sante had to endeavor all of this and more. Not only did she have to leave her parents and her three brothers to go to college, but she also had to leave her country, Puerto Rico. Sante left her native culture behind for the opportunity to play volleyball in America, and she couldn’t be happier.

“The weather here is like home,” said Sante. “There are a lot of people that talk Spanish like me. I love the campus and (Head Coach) Meg (Colado), because she has helped me a lot.”

At age 10, Sante began playing volleyball for a club team in Puerto Rico, where women’s volleyball is among the most popular of sports. Despite being a co-captain of the Puerto Rican National Team, many people in her home country told her that should not get a chance to start in her freshman year of American collegiate volleyball. Those voices must have gone in one ear and out the other, however, as Sante, Page 26