2003-04 tuition and health costs

Full-time, year per semester:

- In-state undergraduate: $3,013
- Out-of-state undergraduate: $14,041
- In-state graduate: $5,112
- Out-of-state graduate: $18,774

Rising costs are just a hint of what's to come

Students returning to classes noted increased in their tuition fees this fall. For many this increase is a familiar_jack, however, UCF's rates have risen steadily for several years, but this past summer, due to a steady drop in state support, UCF has shown the costs of a college education higher than many students expected.

In June the Florida Legislature rejected the requested funding for Florida's universities. The Senate and House both mandated an 8.5 percent tuition increase for the 2003-2004 year. By mandating the legislation left open the option of a 10 percent tuition increase for all out-of-state undergraduates and for graduate students.

Viral meningitis causes, which peak in late summer and hospitalize tens of thousands of people each year, occur on the rise. The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention warned Aug. 14. The peak comes just as students head to college, a time when they should consider getting vaccinated against a more deadly form of the disease — bacterial meningitis.

It also coincides with the height of the hurricane season for tropical-borne diseases such as West Nile virus, which conversely increase, too.

There is some opportunity to preventally control meningitis outbreaks. Ross Reis, MD, MPH, professor and deputy director of the CDC's National Center for Immunization Diseases.

Meningitis is an inflammation of the lining around the brain and spinal cord that can be caused by viruses or several kinds of bacteria. The viral forms are usually mild, but "they're still quite important," causing 20,000 to 40,000 hospitalizations each year in the United States, Ozsoy said.

Law school applications up — again

Hordes of college graduates are rushing to law school to escape a struggling economy. Some are moving right from undergraduate schools. Others are bailing out from a dismal school to escape a ger.

The U.S. News & World Report's annual "best graduate schools" issue this year, the first to rank law schools, showed that applications to American Bar Association-approved law schools increased by 5 percent over last year. Among the factors that may have contributed, the report noted, are the recent recession and a "surge in legal jobs." The report also noted that applications to ABA-approved law schools in the United States increased by 4 percent over last year.

Approach of Mars has heart looking up

HACKENSACK, N.J. — On Aug. 14, a man was warned that he could be charged with contempt of court if he did not take action to correct the problem of not paying the rent.

"The closest we'll be to Mars, until we actually build a base there," said Howard C. Grunewald, executive director of the Center for International Earth Science Information Network.

Central expects "fabulous" student body and full enrollment after Aug. 27 when it begins its 100th academic year of instruction.

This occurs when Earth passes between Mars and the sun, and the two planets appear very close to each other.

On Aug. 27, Earth will be closest to Mars — the third and fourth planets, respectively, from the sun — will be closest to each other.

Some students may have panic attacks when they should be getting excited about the upcoming year. However, there are ways to cope with the overwhelming amount of information. Here are some tips to help you make the most of the experience.

Matthew Wilt

Students should not be overwhelmed by the amount of information. Instead, they should use the resources available to them. For example, the UConn Health Center offers free counseling services to students who need help coping with stress.

Students should also take advantage of the resources available on campus. For example, the University of Connecticut offers free counseling services to students who need help coping with stress.

Finally, students should not be afraid to ask for help. They should talk to their professors, counselors, and other students about their concerns and experiences. By doing so, they can learn from others and find ways to cope with stress.

The Office of Graduate Studies and Office of Undergraduate Studies are pleased to announce the continuation of the UCF Research and Monitoring Program (RAPM).

This program provides research experience for students who may be interested in pursuing graduate education. In addition, students will participate in a variety of workshops designed to increase their awareness and knowledge of graduate school. The aim of this program is to encourage more students from those populations that are traditionally under-represented in graduate education to attend graduate school. Undergraduate students participating in this program will receive financial support in a faculty member.

Eligibility:

Students must apply with a faculty mentor.
Students must be of junior standing at the time of application (have successfully completed no less than 60 hours and no more than 90 hours).
Students must demonstrate one or more criteria of populations traditionally under-represented in graduate school:

- minority status
- financially needy
- first in their family to attend college

Students must have a 3.0 GPA at the time of application
Students must be in good standing with the university

Benefits:

Students will earn $8 per hour for a maximum of 15 hours per week for 14 weeks in the fall 2003 and 15 weeks in Spring 2004 semester.

Students will be monitored by a faculty member on a research project of the faculty member's choosing.

Students will participate in 8 workshops during the academic year designed to give them information about graduate education.

Students will participate in the Undergraduate Research Showcase in April of 2004.

Eligibility:

1. Students will complete all required application forms; attend mentoring workshops. assign any homework and evaluation instruments; provide research assistance to faculty members; participate in period-end showcases and submit final evaluation report. Filling out time card and submitting them is also a responsibility of the student.

The Student Government Association is the chief student organization. We are the voice that represents all students interests and concerns. Another main duty of SGA is to allocate a $10.5 million dollar Activity and Service Fee budget which facilitates student programs and services.

Student Government consists of three branches, the executive legislative and judicial branches. Together, these branches work and serve on behalf of students to ensure their rights, fight for student concerns and provide the services that students want. The Student Government Association provides the following services:

Safe Ride - a free cab ride home with Yellow Cab Co. within a 15 mile radius of UCF. This service is intended for UCF students who find themselves in a dangerous situation. Safe ride vouchers are available at the SGA ticket center inside the student union. Pick one up today!

Multicultural Student Center - a programming hub for students in any cultural organization anchored by 5 of the University's largest cultural organizations, the African-American Student Association, Hispanic American Student Association, the Caribbean Student Association, SANGAM and the Elements.

The Who's Who at UCF publication - this is a scholarship program that awards $50,000 to UCF's top 100 students. A magazine is also created annually that features the Top 100 students and biographies that is distributed to Fortune 500 companies, local and regional businesses, graduate schools, and to local, state, and nationally elected officials.

SGA Ticket Center - located in the Student Union, the SGA Ticket Center offers discount tickets for Orlando attractions and movies. These tickets include admission to Universal Studios, Sea World, Medieval Times and Regal Cinemas, all at discounted prices. The Ticket Center also distributes free Safe Ride vouchers.

The Student Union and Recreation and Wellness Center - Both of these facilities are completely funded by SGA including their operations, equipment, and maintenance.

SGA Computer Lab - SGA provides a computer lab located in the Student Union that contains today's top technology and allows for free printing.

UCF Readership Program - Distributed throughout the campus are free newspapers to keep students up to date with current events.

Scholarships - SGA awards over $200,000 in scholarships to UCF students. Students select the criteria for these scholarships.

Student Legal Services - Free legal counsel for students is available to ensure that your rights are not being violated.

Open Door Policy - The Student Government Association has an open door policy. Any student with questions or concerns is welcome to stop by the SGA offices, located on the second floor of the Student Union, or call us at (407) 823-2191.

Student Advocacy Office - If you need help with student appeals or campus concerns, visit Student Government.

RESEARCH OPPORTUNITIES
OPEN TO ALL QUALIFIED UCF UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS

SMART (Student-Mentor Academic Research Teams)
The SMART Program pairs undergraduate students with a faculty mentor to work in a research area of shared interest. Frequently, SMART students work as lab assistants on ongoing faculty projects; however, other students develop their own independent research projects under the supervision of their faculty mentor as are appropriate to their disciplines.
The Burnett Honors College maintains an online directory of faculty who have expressed an interest in mentoring undergraduates on research.
Students and faculty in the arts and humanities are encouraged to apply.

Qualifications
Sophomore or first semester Junior standing.
An interest in research and willingness to work on a faculty project.

A limited number of SMART grants are available to students on a competitive basis. The application deadline for a SMART grant is October 20, 2003.

For more information about the SMART program, please consult the Burnett Honors College website at www.honors.ucf.edu or contact Mr. Eric Drew Cooper, Director of Undergraduate Research, The Burnett Honors College, BHC 102A, (407) 823-6402, or

What said东营 University, UCF isn't ready to shoot laser beams.

If this sounds like a question people are probably not. But that hasn't stopped UCF from planning a laser beam program during the past 40 years. In fact, the university's director is currently planning the next generation of lasers.

UCF will host a series of events this week that will showcase the university's role in the Florida Orlando program.

Dr. John Phillips of the Florida Space Institute will present a series of talks on the technical challenges that the university faces in developing the next generation of lasers.

The program will begin at 11 a.m. Wednesday in Room 601 of the Phillips Building. It will be presented in conjunction with the University of Florida's space program.

The closing ceremony will be 7 p.m. Friday. The ceremony will be held at the Frank E. Campbell Church, 315 E. 52nd St., New York, to speak about Florida, science, and how they've affected popular culture.

She is not only "the boss" at her place, but she's also like a mother figure to some of her employees. I was fired from the store, and I was homeless. I left the streets, I was sitting in the cold and Mary approached me. Once she found out about my situation, she hired me back, says Ben Spata, who now runs the retail operation.

"She also helped me overcome the feeling of being homeless by hiring me to manage the shop. She's more like a mother than a boss to me."

Although Wilson is serious about his work during the week, he is very approachable and her liberal with the liberty by their ways when they are winning and lose and that they are not going to be too strict.

"She dropped by children's sides.

Wilson is single mother of a teenage girl and a four year old boy. The interview begins with a question that occupies minds, given the circumstances.

"How do you manage to do all these things?"

When describing her job, Wilson says it entails "wearing many hats." She says she makes her capable of being a foster mom in the ability to multi-task. "That's why I'm so much. We make better managers," said Wilson, referring to a woman's ability to fix several tasks at once.

b) How do you balance work and family?

I worked the night hours while married, I could take care of the kids during the day. It's not much of a dict, I could say as I do. It is for a lot of mothers and father, don't have the opportunity to spend their days with their children. Currently, her son, is a manager in her husband's residence and her daughter, is aIce cream vendor, is responsible and self-sufficient, so she can focus on her job with less worry.

5. Having been through this, where do you think is a proper age for the scoring woman to start having children?

"I think it's a good idea to look at an interesting child until around the age of 30," says Wilson. She supports her opinion by believing in the fact that women are better prepared for motherhood at that age, and by then most have got a head start in their careers.

"We see more and more women choosing to have child earlier in 30's. They are more mature and more responsible and they won't feel the financial crunch that they would if they got out of order.

6. What is your advice for the young mother-to-be?

"Stay dedicated and try different things. Don't look for the prospect that it is impossible, not in this world, there are many successful women that don't have to play herself to be at the top of the corporate system.

When in-charge students to get as much education as possible. "In order to get ahead, you need to have an advanced degree, make sure you get a master's degree." After the interview she was fired out of her office and the pile of books on the floor, it was a new experience and at a table, allowing the situation of customers.

7. Where can you be reached at?

Students study hard, rock even harder

Rocking English nerds pretend to be cool in school

FRANK KRECHEL

Robby, a professional rock musician, last summer was avoided by the world's rock gods as he did four months of overseas work. His job was to turn the English language into a language that is understood by the people of the world. His work was done in a classroom setting, where he taught English to students from around the world. His goal was to help them improve their English skills and to make them feel welcome in the classroom. He wanted to make sure that they understood the English language and that they were able to communicate effectively.

Robby's work was not easy. He had to learn the language of the students he was teaching and then find ways to make that language understandable to them. He had to learn how to use the English language in a way that was relevant to their lives and experiences. He had to find ways to make the English language fun and engaging for them, so that they would want to learn it.

Robby's work was also challenging because he had to deal with a variety of students from different cultures and backgrounds. He had to be able to adapt his teaching style to meet their needs, and to be able to communicate effectively with them.

Robby's work was rewarding, however. He was able to help his students improve their English skills and to help them become more confident in their abilities. He was able to help them feel more comfortable in the classroom, and to help them understand the language they were learning.

Robby's work was also important. He was able to help his students understand the English language and to use it effectively in their daily lives. He was able to help them to communicate effectively with others, and to be successful in their academic and professional careers.

Robby's work was not easy, but it was rewarding. He was able to help his students improve their English skills and to help them become more confident in their abilities. He was able to help them to understand the language they were learning, and to use it effectively in their daily lives.

Football program receives new home

In the ongoing war that is college football recruitment, UCF has added its biggest and most impressive weapon yet. Competitive and the move-to-proven hands been completed at the new Wayne Densch Sports Center.

As more than 40,000 square feet, the new home of the Knights football program doubt the previous: a 3,900-square-foot stadium on the opposite side of campus. The previous center was used as office space for other athletic department staff. The new Wayne Densch Center comes as a relief to many of the former northeast offices were very small and cramped. The facilities, especially the weight rooms, are old and outdated. The original Wayne Densch building was 17 years old.

The players have taken to the center and feel good about their appreciation.

The moving from under a bridge to $7 million facility is ‘key part of plan’

ASHLEY BURNS Staff Writer

Over the past few years, one major problem has blighted the Knights in their attempts to prepare for each important football season. Until this summer, the center and off-the-season training facility has been located at the Wayne Densch Center.

Thankfully, the trained practices began a thing of the past this season when the Knights were treated to the installation of 6,000 square feet of new weight and sport machines with the $110 million facility.

The lost art of the road trip

Home isn’t the only place convenient accounts.

Every year it’s the same old song and dance.

UCF puts a heavy schedule of away games and road trips on the calendar, but they don’t have any high school coming into Orlando. Why can’t we play from Maine home? Why don’t the talent come to the Citrus Bowl?

Where are the empty road trips?

Where are the stories of friends dropping in and out for meals? Are the businesses in the sound of the road building a ‘Who knew’ commerce?

When you make friends with complete strangers bound merely on your love of football and part few miles, you build a bond that can’t be broken.

When you can sleep in your favorite hotel, wake up in your favorite town and eat out at your favorite restaurant for the next few practices, then you have experienced the magic of a road trip.

When you have a dream job and a passion for sports, you know the day will come when you have your own travel agent.

You know it’s the same old song and dance when you look back on the memories of a successful road trip.

As the car pulls out of the parking lot, you can’t help but think of the next trip.

It’s the same old song and dance again.

But this time, it’s different.

This time, you have your own travel agent.

Women’s soccer favorite to win A-sun again

Coach predicts repeat of last year’s conference championship run.

By JUAN ALBRIGHT

UCF women’s soccer program enjoyed last year’s campaign with both bowl-level success and a consistent run in the A-Sun.

Despite losing 10 players from last year’s squad, including seven starters, the Knights were once again dominant in the conference, racking up 11 wins and earning the Atlantic Sun’s Women’s Soccer Coach of the Year award.

In fact, UCF is back with almost its entire squad, with only one of its four senior starters graduating.

“This is the most exciting team we’ve put on the field in the last three years,” said UCF head coach Jeff Cutlip.

Cutlip, along with his wife Paula Cutlip, who serves as the Knights’ athletic trainer, have been a consistent presence on the sidelines since 1982.

The Cutlips have also been involved with the A-Sun Conference, serving on numerous committees and contributing to the growth of women’s soccer in the league.

UCF has consistently been a powerhouse in the A-Sun, finishing in the top three in the past three seasons.

Senior Alora Johnson, a defender, returns after a successful junior season.

Johnson was named to the conference’s All-Defense team and earned a spot on the conference’s All-Rookie Team.

Johnson, along with fellow seniors Allison Blangriff, a forward, and Courtney Baines, a midfielder, are expected to lead the Knights in the upcoming season.

With a strong returning core and promising freshmen, UCF is poised to make another run at the conference title.

The Knights are expected to be a force in the A-Sun, and Cutlip is confident that the team can repeat as conference champions.

UCF will open its season on August 30 against Florida Atlantic University, and Johnson believes the team is ready to take on any challenge.

“I feel like we’re ready to go,” Johnson said. "I think we have the talent and the experience to compete at the highest level."
Women's volleyball aims for another title
A-Sun bulls list UCF at the top of the conference

MART DUNNAM

Last season the UCF Volleyball Team went 22-3, winning its second consecutive Atlantic Sun Conference Title. This season the stakes are high and again as the Golden Knights are favored to three gold into conference champions.

"We know that every time we play on the court we're being in everyone's best interest," said senior libero Jennifer Trousdale. "We're ready for the UCF to dominate the conference, with a 6-7 mark. Under fifth year head coach Colinda the Knights have won 37 of 44 conference matches.

However, the last two seasons one of the primary concerns in the first round of the NCAA Tournament, last year's nationally ranked University of Florida became the first team in the Knights' history to make the final four.

The program went on to finish first in the final NCAA season this year, says senior Emily Waters, "One of the keys to that is having a good win in the conference season that has already started." During the off-season UCF hired new assistant coach Jack Pendergrass, who was in charge of the Golden Knights. Pendergrass has 30 years of experience, and a career mark of 472-113.

"He has so much knowledge and experience that he brings to the program," Colinda stated. "He's brought a lot of new ideas into the program." Waters emphasized, "His biggest strength is teaching, first and foremost, and helping the team develop as a whole." The Golden Knights lose three players from last season's squad highlighted by the departure of two-time Atlantic Sun Player of the Year Lauryn Jeffers, who transferred to Miami. However, UCF returns four seniors and eight key returning sophomore in 2015 including Atlantic Sun All-Conference Team members Franklin and Kim.

"Any time you lose players it's different," Colinda stated. "But we have a good returning nucleus and we have a lot of cores capable of getting the job done."

Hartford, now in his fourth season as head coach.

This year, standing at six feet even, Street gives the Golden Knights two players with great skills.

"She has the ability to play off of a lot of positions for us," states Colinda, "She will give us a different look to our attack with her long arms and strong serve.

However the Golden Knights will miss Street for part of the season as the Stedbons has an injured Achilles.

Middle Blocker

Last season UCF was very young and inexperienced in the middle coming into the season. However the Golden Knights had two players to step in this year with the ready to go.

The first was Amanda Tusing how. As a freshman she saw action in only 52 matches, however her 5-foot-8 sophomore Tusing capped off with 129 stats not only helping the UCF to a good enough second in the Atlantic Sun Conference. Now entering her third season at UCF, the Michigan native has the potential of being one of the top middle blockers in the South Region.

"Amanda is in good shape and more experience," says Colinda, "This season we expect her to be a dominating middle." The second was Chaz Arnold, a 6-4 middle blocker, who has plenty of action in her freshman campaign last year, but made an instant impact being second on the team in kills with 211, which shows her on the in the Atlantic Sun Presbyterian season.

"Chaz is a tremendous athlete," Colinda states, "She continues to get better and better in the program."

UCF women won last two volleyball titles

By Chad

In a September victory, freshman Jesse Mitchell and the Golden Knights knocked off Georgia State for their second consecutive win.

"I think this is a sign of our improvement," Mitchell said. "We are starting to play as a team and put all our skills together to win games.

Recent losses to Georgia Tech and the University of Tennessee have given the Golden Knights a chance to regroup and focus on their next opponent, the University of Alabama.

"We have had some tough losses recently," Mitchell said. "But we can't let that affect our focus on the upcoming games. We need to stay focused and continue to improve as a team.

The Golden Knights are currently ranked 25th in the NCAA Division I Women's Volleyball Coaches Association poll. They are looking to continue their improvement and secure a spot in the NCAA Tournament.

"Our goal is to continue to improve as a team and make it to the NCAA Tournament," Mitchell said. "We have a lot of work to do, but we are confident in our abilities and are looking forward to the challenge.

The Golden Knights will face the University of Alabama on October 15th. It will be a tough match, but Mitchell and her teammates are ready for the challenge.

"We are looking forward to facing Alabama," Mitchell said. "They are a strong team, but we have the skills and talent to compete with them.

The Golden Knights are currently 14-3 overall and 6-2 in conference play. They have won their last three games and are looking to continue their winning streak.

"Our team is playing well together," Mitchell said. "We are communicating on the court and supporting each other. We are confident in our abilities and are ready to face any challenge.

The Golden Knights continue to work hard and improve as a team. They are looking forward to the remainder of the season and are determined to make it to the NCAA Tournament.

Men's soccer aims for second title

Young team looks to build on last season's success

Fritz Loriston

With success comes expectations and for the UCF men's soccer program the expectations are admirably high as the Knights enter the season as the A-Sun Conference favorite.

The means in his preseason hype is a新股 of young talent returning players who picked up some big experience last year.

Despite playing with a number of underclassmen, the team has posted a record of 2-6-0 at the beginning of the season. This record is a blip to give the defense all the help it needed. The overall record of 3-0-0 since then is the team's 19 year history.

When recognizing the importance of focusing on the season and the conferences.

The Knights first place selection rested on seven season opener against the non-league Division II team to make the quad. Which recognizes the importance of focusing on the season and the competitions.

Which is covering conference appearances as the presence number one in the very consistent all conference program.

But with the rest to go without a doubt that some number one will be the end of the season.

Which is earning its 11th season as the head coach of the program.

UCF has earned second awards including two Coach of the Year awards from the Florida Southern Sunshine Conference Officials Association. During his tenure as head coach, the Knights have posted a record of 89-87-11.

While the age ratio of the team is somewhat balanced, the youth of the team is maturing, the advancement of last year's players like senior Nick Comerford and forward Richard Williams.

On one of the playes that continually help the team to maintain the impressive record this past Friday with the introduction of Lipscomb into the conference. The long road back to responsibility begins September 6th at Citadel.

The rivalry that should be poised to begin the season August 29th against arch-rival North Florida. The Florida Atlantic meets up with Georgia State on November 16th.

The Garlic. The All-Atlantic Conference men's soccer history. In a year the introduction of Lipscomb into the conference.

The Hatters are a Florida midfielder Joaquin Acevedo and the top midfielder of the year 2002 season." "The Hatters are also relying on local sensation Stephen Armin Marquez of Venezuela who made an impact for the team on the evening.

Georgia State: The Panthers are banking on a defense to carry them through the season and the competitions.

Defense looks past losses

Walters had been wearing a "no contact" jersey.

Running back Alex D'Otavio showed his skills against the second string defense during a scrimmage Wednesday.

Robert Hicks broke out for a 30-yard touchdown in the first half. D'Otavio scored the only offensive touchdown in the second half. Coach Kevin Orsini finished 10 of 16 for 109 yards and one interception.

"Overall, I thought the kids came out here and did pretty well," said Orsini. "We obviously have to keep working on the offense and running the ball as well.

The rest of the practices were spent organizing and renovating the practice plans for the season. Semester, scholarship, and quickness training are the next few weeks.

American flags draw national exposure to worthy issue

In response to your July 10 issue’s promotion of flags in classrooms (theme mentioned on four separate pages of this issue), I must say: back off. A flag is not a political tool. Displaying it has become a well-intentioned course for many people-mixed emotions to the pupils in question. It will remain in the classroom, because it will remind those in its presence of the freedom of expression that created it. The obvious irony is that America is focused on freedom of expression, if anything the flag should remind students that we live in a country where freedom is practiced. Yet, there is a movement in opposition to the government. Currently we are all fighting for a kind of balance, education, communication and understanding. We should not hinder the educational progress of our students with unnecessary restrictions. Let the students decide for themselves what they feel this flag has to offer them.

International students need real clarity

Is this true? Is there actually an obsession with limiting international students by the American government? The United States of America has been called a Great Nation for a reason, and it has become more and more apparent with the latest discussion of flags in classrooms. This is a case where everyone wants to feel part of the country, and we can all agree that it is very important. This is the reason why the flag has been chosen as a symbol of unity. To the American, the flag means many things to many people. To SCHWARZENEGGER it means a fresh start for a new leader. Along with Lt. Gov. Cruz Bustamante, he is making his first bid. Schwarzenegger is a bodybuilder turned actor and politician. Despite these concerns, his brief political resume does not exceed five years. It seems he has taken on a different style of government. He is a strong leader that created a successful team. His claim of being a fresh start is due to his honesty and unwillingness to detail his plans because you certainly take a chance on the unknown. The American government views the flag as a symbol of unity. On freedom of expression; it stand for an American, views the flag as a symbol of unity and freedom of expression; it stands for the United States. It is a great place to visit and is a great place to belong to as citizens, or visit as foreigners, as far as the American is concerned. This is a case where everyone wants to feel part of the country, and we can all agree that it is very important.
It's the end of the month, bills are alreadyalling your mailbox. If you're like me, managing your account as well as paying all those bills on time is a part-time job in itself. Since my checks are pretty much rubber coated, money is the bigger issue in paying bills.

Unfortunately, insurance consumers rarely feel the sting of the monthly insurance bill. If it were to get into an accident, Herman Noodle's would've been a budget cutting idea, as probably couldn't afford to eat it.

It's a reality to have to live low, and if you drive a car, it is legally required. Do put yourself in this hypothetical situation: You're getting dinner with a friend who's running errands and calls. Start the car, shift into gear, and slowly back up. At the same time, the person you just passed by is going for the parking lot is doing the same thing.

What? You just backed into each other. How do you handle such a minor accident? You're supposed to notify the authorities, the cycle that costs insurers each other.

What's the point? The person you just backed into is getting done with a busy day. This is why our generation budget cutting idea, as finding out that your premium has gone up & few hundred dollars for one to three years.

You can't raise your insurance, because you can't drive without it. Basically insurance isn't there, your luck. If you do, get into an accident, you just take the hit and pay more, in this case for more in the long run than the cost of the accident.

The reason insurance is so high is because we're young — we're statistically more likely to get in accidents because of combined experience. The wheel and handle bars that make us do stupid things with cars.

This is why our generation insurance is getting the blame for the insurance crisis we see in the future. We all know it's time to change things, though.

Everyone says that we get in more accidents, so this is why we do our best to protect your insurance companies from charges, because of the financial problems.

The trouble is, we're not the ones filing the lawsuit, the part of the cycle that ends involving the most. The older generation are doing all that nasty college students can't afford attorneys, and we can't afford to fight insurance companies. We take what they give us, and pay what they demand of us.

As far as being financially unable to sue an insurance company, we also statistially lose in accidents more often and dead people don't sue anyone.

I shouldn't be responsible to pay $500 and translate that the people before me thoughtfully sued as much about local fodsters, scraped paint, and cost of hard.

Two hundred dollars a month to make a few trips to school, the grocery store, and the occasional trip to the video store is basically legally robbing you blind. With the price of gas and payments on a $11000 auto loan to pay. I don't see how the corporate sector respects us to even financially independent from our aging retirement parents.

I say the next minor accident, you ship the phone call to your lawyer. After all, you can be a member for the price of a deductible. It'll probably save you a few hundred dollars in the long run. This family could be bad advice, but money is in the best interest of everyone, you should make it yours as well.

Now Accepting Applications for the 2003-2004 Student Conduct Board

Interested?

Are you interested in helping educate students on their rights and responsibilities as University community members, facilitating an understanding of the balance between individual rights and community rights, and promoting a safe and inclusive atmosphere conducive to student success? The Office of Student Conduct is looking for UCF community members who are dedicated to these principles to serve on the 2003-2004 Student Conduct Review Board. Board members serve annual terms beginning and ending in August.

Qualifications

Any undergraduate, graduate student, faculty or staff member in good standing with the University is eligible to apply. Applicants must uphold all University policies. Other requirements include the ability to work well with others, sensitivity and respect for others, openness to differences, willingness to take part in assessment projects, and the ability to maintain strict confidentiality of all student conduct information.

More information

Check out our website, stop by our office in the Student Resource Center, room 154, or call us at 407-823-2581. Applications are due by 5 p.m. on August 28, 2003.
