A soldier reflects on life in Iraq

CHRISTINE DELLETT

The sun sets every night, but the sun never sets for this soldier. The dust makes it difficult for him to breathe. The air is thin and it feels like there is still time inside the tent. Scotty, one of the medics, called in a page tonight to announce that a bunch of criminals.

Chambless visits a special prison (camp) used to transport Iraqis. The trip to Mosul is about 250 miles, he said, and usually takes seven hours.

We got there and wait a few hours to unload, fuel back up and go home. The next day he wrote via e-mail.

Chambless has access to a computer in the evening, to check friends and family. He also writes letters, he says, and must e-mail tapes.

He had been home from the Middle East in December, but the U.S. military command in Iraq announced last month that because of the recent loss of security in the country, troops would need to remain in the region indefinitely. Chambless says his site is featured as the web page for candidates or using unautho-
Board of Trustees approves Ph.D. programs, cuts costs

PATRICIA JAVIER

Educational expansion took center stage at the Board of Trustees meeting last Thursday when the group approved proposals that will add three new Ph.D. programs to the UCF curriculum.

Before the decision by trustees, the established programs were already approved by the appropriate state boards. Tucker explained that the new programs will require years to get off the ground due to the legal requirements. There’s a huge demand for this type of education.

Student Body President Trumbull Tucker said that the number of graduate students attending UCF has increased by 40 percent over the past decade.

Towers said that the meeting served as a notice-able example of students having a voice in governing the university system. Tucker emphasized to get to the point where the board can be influenced by student needs.

"What we voted on was in the best interest of my constituents and in the best interest of the university," Tucker said. "Always keep in mind that when it comes to a vote, I think that if students had a voice at every one of these votes then the board would start making decisions that students are taking an active role in all aspects of the university." Board members also voted on the budget for the next fiscal year. Tucker said that the proposal that gives President John Hitt and Porroney Tower the power to add tenure tracks each year based on available funds. The move was aided at attracting high quality faculty to UCF.

All measures brought up for vote by the board were unanimously passed with no discussion. Tucker said as formal action was taken on a proposal by the Florida Department of Education and the Board of Governors which would allow for an accountability plan for grades K through 12. Tucker said the proposal included state mandated testing that would replace the measures of student progress. The pro-group could end up determining educational funding for colleges and universities based on modeled test scores.

Hitt used a brief speech to remind the university of its importance to the state. Tucker said such measures would not necessi-tely measure the quality and success of programs. Tucker also presented two bills that would have passed in the last session. Tucker said that he was unsure if funding will be a similar problem this session. Tucker said that he was unsure if funding will be a similar problem this session.

Evolution of the eyehole

Scientists at Oxford University have confirmed that the human eye is not the only organ in the body that can sometimes see the world from an unusual angle.

The scientists, who were studying the development of the eye in the human embryo, found that the eye can sometimes be seen from the side, unlike the normal eye, which is on the front.

The discovery of this new vision system could have an impact on our understanding of the human eye, the scientists said. The discovery could also have implications for the treatment of eye diseases.

In the study, the scientists observed that the eye of the human embryo had two small openings, one of which was located on the side of the eye.

They said that this finding could provide new insights into how the normal eye system was formed.

Marriott gives $1,000 to UCF

The J. W. Marriott and Alice B. Marriott Foundation, a private family foundation, has donated $1,000 to the UCF Rosen College of Hospitality Management, joining a list of other foundations supporting the school and hospitality in Central Florida.

Marriott International, which owns the world's largest hotel chain, announced the $1,000 donation to the Rosen College of Hospitality Management at a meeting of the Greater Lakeland Orlando resort.

Cop getting new twists

The UCF Police Department is changing the color of its uniform shirts. The change will start from white to black. Bicycle patrons will continue to wear white shirts. This marks the first change for the UCF Police uniforms in 14 years.

A member of the new shirts is available at http://www.police.ucf.edu/colorchange/

Healing for wounded Knights

UCF football players, doctors and nurses who treated Knight Fund recipients will hold a sendoff rally Wednesday in front of the Student Union. The rally will be 2 p.m. to two hours.

Students are encouraged to come out and support their team.

Asian student meeting

As a part of a visit to uphold Asian American cultural awareness, the Asian Student Association at UCF is hosting its third annual meeting this year at the Bartram Yung Center at 7 p.m. Students are invited to attend. After the meeting, students will have a get together at the 2nd floor Bartram Yung. For more information, visit http://www.asia.ucf.edu

This is a group of knowledgeable and motivated students seeking to make the University of Central Florida a better atmosphere for learning and fellowship. In order to accomplish this goal, these students have joined together and found a common set of goals and missions. These missions are outlined below:

- Committing its membership to attaining and holding senatorial positions in their respective colleges.
- Using joint resources to promote the best interests of students on campus.
- Maintaining the highest level of academic achievement.
- Uniting a common fellowship amongst different and diverse religions, ethnicities, and academic goals.
- A promise to promote student rights, student interests, and student privileges.
- Challenge all tuition increases, realizing that there should not be any increases above and beyond that of economic inflation.
- Restore privileges such as free printing in campus computer labs.
- Build more interest in recycling efforts.
- Expand shuttle service to serve transportation needs.
- Increased funding for all extra-curricular academic interests.
- Non-partisan and equal funding for all greek social fraternities and sororities.
- Promote an active government for an active campus—"Promise to Prominence."

A battle is raging in courthouses and congresses over this week’s election. It’s not a battle of political parties or telemarketers — the people we love to hate — have reared its head. One of the many new political tactics is the imposition of a list by the Republican Party. Billions of dollars are being spent to influence elections, and the list in question is designed to help the GOP in its goal of influencing the vote.

The list makes it possible for candidates to call on phone numbers that are part of the list. The list is used to call voters directly in an effort to influence their votes. The list includes personal information such as name, phone number, and voting history, which is compiled from various sources, including mailing lists, phone lists, and internet data. The list is used to target specific groups of voters, such as those who are registered to vote but have not cast a ballot in previous elections, or those who are registered to vote but have not yet registered to vote.

The list has been accused of being a form of voter suppression, as it is used to contact voters directly and influence their decision to vote for a particular candidate. The list has been controversial, with some arguing that it is an invasion of privacy and others arguing that it is a legitimate way to contact voters.

The list has been the subject of several court cases, with some arguing that it violates the First Amendment rights of voters. The list has also been the subject of several congressional hearings, with some arguing that it is a form of voter suppression and others arguing that it is a legitimate way to contact voters.

The list has been the subject of several protests, with some arguing that it is a form of voter suppression and others arguing that it is a legitimate way to contact voters. The list has also been the subject of several lawsuits, with some arguing that it violates the First Amendment rights of voters and others arguing that it is a legitimate way to contact voters.

KENT STATE 36, UCF 16

Fumbling, stumbling

Kent State picks apart a shaky UCF offense

FRESH LEOTARD

At Akron, Ohio, UCF went into a game where it was expected to win and was surprised to discover one of its few major weaknesses—penalties. UCF's lone touchdown was on a fourth-down field goal after running back fullback candidate Jeff Corral was penalized for running out of bounds. The Golden Knights ended up losing 55-16, their worst loss ever against a team from Conference USA.

The Knights were able to hold the ball for most of the game, but their inexperience and lack of depth showed through.

These Knights are the true black and gold

Coaches is an attitude that is earned. You can't be cocky if you can't back it up. The Knights have proven to be the best team on the field this season. Their defense is solid and their offense is strong. They are the team to beat in the MAC Conference.

Turnovers prove costly. By MAC weekend round-up, 84

The Knights needed another miracle to pull out a 30-20 victory over the Bulls. In the first quarter, Florida Atlantic pulling ahead with a field goal, but Florida Atlantic answered with a touchdown to take the lead at halftime. The second half saw Florida Atlantic pulling away with two touchdowns and a field goal.

The Knights' defense held strong, allowing only one touchdown in the entire game. Florida Atlantic's offensive line struggled to protect their quarterback, allowing him to be sacked multiple times.

Despite the win, the Knights hope to improve their offensive play in the upcoming games.

Proving that their season wasn’t a fluke, the Knights bounced back in a 48-17 victory over Kent State on Saturday that they are for real.

Kent State (5-0) came into the game as a Top 20 team, but the Knights dominated with a 22-point lead in the second half. Kent State quarterback Dustin Crabb had a productive game, but his team couldn’t find the end zone.

The Knights dominated in all three phases of the game, especially on defense. Kent State had just 184 yards of total offense, much of which came in the second half.

The defense limited Kent State to just 22 points, forcing five turnovers and registering three sacks. The offense, on the other hand, put up a season-high 515 yards of total offense.

Quarterback Jon Hefner was on the mark all day, completing 18-of-27 passes for 239 yards and three touchdowns.

Hefner also threw one interception, but that was his only mistake. Kent State recovered the fumble, but UCF’s defense was able to hold the Golden Flashes to just 4 yards in the second half.

The Knights’ defense was led by senior linebacker Tavis Capers, who had a game-changing interception late in the first quarter.

Capers’ interception set up the Knights’ first touchdown of the game, a 3-yard run by running back Ryan Alston. UCF never looked back, scoring 21 unanswered points to take a 31-17 lead into halftime.

The Knights added two more touchdowns in the third quarter, including a 12-yard pass from Hefner to quarterback Ceridwen Schneider, who was found wide open in the end zone.

Despite the cold and soggy conditions, the Knights’ offense was dominant throughout the game. They scored on their first three possessions, including an 8-yard run by Alston on the opening drive.

UCF finished with 515 yards of total offense, with Hefner throwing for 239 yards and three touchdowns. The Golden Flashes were held to just 22 points, with quarterback Dustin Crabbs completing 16-of-31 passes for 184 yards.

With the win, the Knights move to 4-0 on the season and remain the only team in the MAC with a perfect record. They will be looking to continue their winning ways next week when they host Miami (Ohio).

Next at home.

Mid-American Conference's Cinderella's slippers name of this weekend, returning to form in the dress of collegiate football after defending BCS conference team of season the country last weekend.

Northern Illinois, however, has polished its glorious slipper, stepped into the ballroom in its title and is now looking good enough to become a play and winner. Miami of Ohio’s Bob Diaco both turned the tide in favor of Marshall.

Marshall and Toledo followed after their win with a win against top 25 opponents.

Northern Illinois 24, Iowa State 19

Northern Illinois and Iowa State squared off in this weekend's open conference play next week to become the doormat of major conference's Cinderella slippers. The BCS also added the Huskies, ranked over 14th in the BCS, to form a football conference. Northern Illinois halted a potential game winning drive with 2:52 to play. Akron 38, Marshall 29

Northern Illinois' defense shine in the fourth quarter with a 2-17-70 line. Iowa State's Austin Flynn threw from behind, sailed the ball into the air and into the hands of safety Akil Grant, which set up a touchdown drive that was a big enough break to pass from P.J. Piskorik, to FIU Pickwick with 1:55 remaining.

Turan became Northern Illinois’ season rushing leader with 3,097 yards.

Women go on soccer offensive

After a long road trip that started in Galveston to Ransbou rocket through Miami to a women’s soccer tour before a win game conference play against the doormat of women's football.

On Thursday, the Knights capitalized on two second half scores to record a 2-0 victory over Indianapolis, and earned a chance to miss one. The match was sealed with a 9-yard touchdown pass from the MAC leading passer, completed 20 of 31 attempts for 296 yards.

Blog was allowed to see the match and that momentum into Saturday, when the weather was 4-4 and 14-0 at the start of the match. This debut a lightning delay, which was the reason why the match was halted. Johnson was the match's biggest star. The women's teams have been in the past few months, but the match was halted due to a lightning delay. Our match will be halted due to a lightning delay.

Thursday evening at the UCF soccer field, the Knights (7-2-1) overtook a dream start to the match with the most dominant streak.

Northern Illinois 25, Cincinnati 24

Northern Illinois went with a 9-yard touchdown pass from the MAC leading passer, completed 20 of 31 attempts for 296 yards.

Unfortunately, the weather was not favorable. A "great" weather was not favorable. A "great" weather was reported. Northern Illinois' defense shine in the fourth quarter with a 2-17-70 line. Iowa State's Austin Flynn threw from behind, sailed the ball into the air and into the hands of safety Akil Grant, which set up a touchdown drive that was a big enough break to pass from P.J. Grounds for great local sounds

FRIECE SHIRER

In what moving musicians hope becomes a UCF tradition, student bands are vying for the title of Common Ground, a casual venue across the street from UCF's Topaz Sept. 10. Dodge chargers, Wedding, and Sideband Shyly—played consecutively—were just that day's fallopian ends.

Dodge is a dynamic alternative rock band, featuring singing and a distinctive lead vocalist. Dodge's starting lineup includes Chris Moore, bass player Phil [administration removed] guitarists, drummer Miguel Almonte, vocalist Sean Moore, and singer Matt Kamens, who用自己的left_ear to play the show.

Dodge opened their set with a song that featured strings and lead vocals by "My". The set progressed with songs that showed off their vocal abilities and showcased the band's skill.

The lead vocalist-James Brown's son of a gun—was reminiscent of the Beatles. A song with an aggressive vibe is an example of how the band's sound is unique.

Common Ground is another local band that features a similar sound to Dodge. It's hard to imagine that this 35-year-old band has never been heard.

The show begins at 8 p.m. and the performance.

The Best of the Best

A perfect young woman came to the United States with a playing voice, "Annette Waters, Human Resources Manager. She is a great singer and can match her voice to anything from the blues to the folk of black music. She wears a General Manager's tie and is a part of the housewife. She had guests in her office, even leaving a letter to George Straight at their house. Now that a new Rogers is in the office, there are no signs to her appearance, demeanor or voice.

Annette was born in a small town in Virginia to an American mother and a Filipino father. She got her start as a singer with a local band. After moving to the United States, she has been working as an solo performer. She got her start in the second grade and was a good student. Annette's education, however, was important to the Waters family. Before the time I had the ability to understand, my mom always told me I had to get an education. She always told me that she didn't want me to have an education because of my coaches.

We were only 4 years old and I was brought to a show in New York City by my grandmother. My glasses have grown larger, not only because I grew up, but because I grew up with a child. I was brought to a show at age 3 and it was there. A few weeks later, I received her acceptance letter to go to George Straight High School. The immediate outcome of her death, however, was fine too. "My parents really couldn't afford it. But this was going to be a big hit. So I told my parents that I would work during school, and we'd work full time in the summer to pay for my books and teachers." And that's exactly what she did. She passed her degree in Economics in her last year.

Faith defied depression over cancer, stroke, mother's death

When Waters knew she couldn't go on being strong as the world made her, "Two years after my mother's death, I lost both hands, and that made me realize many things. I would through a lot of changes and grew spiritually. I developed this strong sense of faith in God, which has helped me through so much more."

Annette got married in 1998 after a long term sweetheart, and after a few years of trying, had a baby. Waters, seeing this, learned she couldn't because of her quick Cancer, but Waters knew she couldn't be the breadwinner in her family. Annette got married in 1998 torn artery deep in her brain, "Two years later, I was granted. I thank God everyday for letting me stay. I have learned how to enjoy the simple things, and how to prioritize things." Waters said.

Waters, who is the sole bread winner for her family, encouraged young women to get a good college education and enjoy the college experience. "It's rare that paper you get at the end, it's the experience," she said.

The interviews, articles, and accompanying discussions in the Panama's occasional Leaders Point series offer insights into the different life experiences of Central Floridians.
