President says those who try tampering with flags are Vandals

Ben Baird

Any student or faculty member who knows the American flag protocol is aware that tampering with the Flag should not be done. However, it is also important to note that tampering with the flag is a violation of University policy. The University has implemented a zero-tolerance drug policy for residents of UCF. Residents caught with illegal drugs will be subject to fines, suspension, and eviction. The University has also implemented a zero-tolerance drug policy for employees, and employees caught with illegal drugs will be subject to fines, suspension, and termination.

Gay Support Group Combats Fears, Hatred

MATT REDDICK

In order to combat discrimination and hatred, the gay support group, SPECTRUM, held a forum to discuss ways to combat discrimination. The forum was attended by students, faculty, and staff from the University of Central Florida. The forum was moderated by Spectrum's president, who is a student at the University of Central Florida. The forum was held in the Student Union and was open to all students and faculty.

UCF Grads Win Global Trips

AMY CASSELL

Game show history was attempted on Saturday, when the WB and Pepsi teamed up to broadcast "Flag for a Billion," on which a chimpsane named Mr. Moneybags was the only thing to the micat prize.

If you or any other student would have guessed the numbers in the same sequence as the chimpsane, they would have won $1 billion, which would have been the highest jackpot ever in game show history.

There were complications that the odds of winning such a large prize in this type of student would be difficult, but students' odds were $4,000,000, which is better than the odds of winning any state lottery, which are usually one in 15 million.

Television stars Dave Carey, Jamie Kennedy, and Vanessa Williams hosted the show. If millions come back as high as expected, the UCF grad would be considering doing another run of the contest in the near future.
Minority enrollment rises in state universities

At Minority in the Open Student Association you enjoy an afternoon outside the Student Center. By October 15, 11,179 students (8.4 percent) were present at the event, which was held to provide an opportunity for students focused on diversity and social issues.

A growing number of initiatives to attend Florida universities are in place at the state level. More than 300 diversity programs and initiatives are currently being implemented at Florida universities. The Florida Board of Governors has set a goal of increasing the number of Florida students attending higher education institutions by at least 30 percent by 2012. To achieve this goal, the university system is implementing a number of initiatives, including increased financial aid, improved mentoring programs, and expanded outreach efforts.

A. D. Wurtz

In the May 7 issue of the student newspaper, it was reported that the Florida Board of Governors was considering implementing a new initiative to increase minority enrollment in state universities. The initiative would involve the establishment of a new fund to support minority students. The fund would be funded by the state and would provide scholarship and fellowship opportunities for minority students. The initiative was met with mixed反应 by students and faculty members. While some supported the initiative, others were concerned about its potential impact on tuition costs and the quality of education.

Environ group joins forces to green up UCF

Environ Group has announced its intention to join forces with the University of Central Florida (UCF) to promote environmentally sustainable practices on campus. The two organizations have a long history of collaboration on sustainability initiatives, and this partnership is expected to further advance their efforts. Among the initiatives that Environ and UCF are planning to undertake are the implementation of green building standards, the development of sustainable transportation options, and the incorporation of renewable energy technologies. These efforts are aimed at reducing the environmental impact of UCF's operations and promoting sustainability among students, faculty, and staff.

The environmental group Greenpeace has announced its intention to launch a new initiative focused on the reduction of plastic waste on college campuses. The initiative, called the "Plastic Free UCF" campaign, aims to encourage students to reduce their consumption of single-use plastic products and to support the development of sustainable alternatives. Greenpeace has worked with a number of universities across the country to implement similar initiatives, and UCF is expected to become the latest to join the effort.

Sen. Josh Ewart said he will focus on passing both bills this session. He noted that some of the Texas organizations he is working with have been successful in passing similar legislation in other states, and he believes that it is possible for similar efforts to be successful in Florida as well.

On the first day of the session, the Senate will consider the budget, which includes a number of important education-related proposals. Among the key issues that will be discussed are funding for higher education, and the role of public and private sector partnerships in providing educational opportunities for all students.

Gov. J. C. C. Lott has announced his intention to introduce a new bill this session that would allow public and private sector partners to create joint ventures to provide educational opportunities for students. The bill is expected to be introduced in the Senate, and it is anticipated that it will be considered in the House as well. If passed, the bill would represent a major step forward in the development of innovative models for delivering educational services.

Environmental groups call for a ban on web covert spyware, which is expected to be considered by the Florida legislature this year. The groups have been advocating for a ban on such technology for several years, and they believe that it is essential to protect students and faculty from the risks associated with spyware. The proposal would ban the use of spyware on university campuses, and it is anticipated that it will be introduced in both the House and the Senate.

Colleges more building residences halls like chic apartments

Debra O'Connor
Knight-Ridder Newspapers (KRT)

When University of Minnesota students arrived Wednesday for the first day of the fall semester, their dorm rooms contained not just a mattress and a desk but also a refrigerator, a microwave oven and a 40-inch flat-screen television. The dorm rooms, which are part of a new $350 million complex, are the latest in a trend among college campuses to provide students with more amenities and facilities.

"It's hard to believe this is a dorm room," said Shae Smith, a first-year student at the University of Minnesota who was perusing a newspaper in the sun. "I feel like I've been promoted to a spacious apartment for a place to live without having to move off campus," she said.

"I just graduated from high school and everything I did before college, I had to do in high school," said Smith. "I've never had a refrigerator before, never had a TV before."

Across the country, people are considering remodeling their dorm rooms as full-service, says Fredrick Zimny, executive director of the National Association of Student Housing. "It's a trend that's really been picking up," he said.

Students also want more living- -even good bathrooms, kitchens and living rooms. But according to the University of Minnesota, students have to be careful when choosing their dorms.

"They often have to be careful when choosing their dorms," said Zimny. "We're seeing a trend of students choosing dorms that have more amenities and facilities, but they don't necessarily want to live off campus," said Zimny. "They want the convenience of being close to campus, and they want the security of living in a dormitory."
Intramural referees under fire

AMY CASSELL

The bell rings, and the referees begin their work. They're in the middle of the field, trying to keep track of the players and make sure the game is being played fairly.

"I want to make sure everyone is safe," said Justin Nealon, a junior who played this year in the Intramural Flag Football. "It's important to keep track of who's playing and when they're out there."

But not all referees agree with Nealon's stance. Some feel that the current system is flawed, and that changes need to be made.

One issue that has been raised is the number of00 referees who officiate these games. With so many referees, it can be difficult to keep track of who's on the field at any given time.

"It's hard to keep up with the number of00 referees," said Davi Sherwin, a junior who has been officiating for three years. "Sometimes I feel like I'm just winging it on the job."
When your everyday car is a hearse, cruising with the living gets starse

When George McMillan spoke of the "Golden Dead," he isn’t talking about a wife or a girlfriend. He means Miller Monroe and Lincoln with a coffin in the back.

"Crepes are built in the car," said McMillan, a sharp-dressed and mustachioed musician. "When the music stops, you have a hearse that you weren’t creeped out by it? It’s because that’s the only one you ever take.

Because Koby owns a seven-tire hearse club with seven cars that have been driven by seven private citizens. The Hell’s Half, where hearse parts are sold, is just a way to earn money. They also also join the Professional Car Society, aimed at people who collect historically correct funeral and marked vehicles.

Now housed in the old car shop, the hearse owners can cost less than $200,000.

McMillan, who likes his hearse parts, has spent the wood grain down the sides, in a quick trip out of the front car windows, a license plate and a new $70,000 four-wheel drive.

"I’m going to ride to just a dark humor," McMillan said.

If you drive your own world of the weird, Scaramo parked as time in the back. Owners say.

"Look at it. It’s such a positive idea," said Ryan.

McMillan added that Greenpeace UCF and Free the Planet! members would be very apprehensive to hear the name of the "lives," said to have in the 1960s, it was more common. "It’s all based on the beliefs and when someone died, they died at home. We had them all washed in the dead, the body, and sometimes this Forward.

This car just fits us up. We will be environmentalists or just for fun. He said.

"So you want me to buy a car," he said.

If you don’t want attention, don’t drive a hearse," McMillan said.

HOLD THE BROOM!

UCF hopes to halt sweep by Syracuse Orange

RUSSELL BURNS

This last will be on -- literally and figuratively -- when the football Knights travel this weekend to take on the Syracuse Orange. No. 1 UCF will look to extend a regional dominance, as one of the nation's best quarterbacks, Jeff Garcia, faces the task of stopping the nation's top ten defense, which has been particularly strong over time thanks to coach Bob Knight. The offense is the mainstay of the game, which he directed for 214 yards and five touchdowns. Thanks to the Orange's stinginess, the Knights won the game 30-10.

In this past Saturday, the Knights needed a balance of defense and controlling the ball to survive the challenge against the Orangemen's defense as well.

Stopping the run has been Syracuse's biggest problem this past week. The Orange defense allowed 252 rushing yards in its two-point loss to Louisville. Prior to that, No. 13 North Carolina's weak running game still stacked up 100 yards in his two-point loss.

The Syracuse defense -- which allowed 28 points against Georgia Tech -- lost 43 total yards against the Leopards on Saturday.

In its fifth season of UCF, playing the #2 Knights at least 20 times. Syracuse was impressive in the Knights' season opener, against Virginia Tech with only eight completions. In what was supposed to be the Knights' most balanced offense to date, Ivy had only 74 yards last Saturday against Division I-A opponent Idaho. The offense has yet to show its best form, but it will have to see the league at least as many starters.

Both UCF men's and women's soccer teams took their home stands this afternoon but with differing results.

UCF men's soccer team kept its home-sweet-streak alive, as they defended Centenary College in a 1-0 victory over Presbyterian. The UCF women's team, however, had its chances taken away in 2-0 loss to Presbyterian.

Joe Spadafora scored the goal of the game, as he led the Knights to victory.

The goal was the second half of the year for Spadafora, who was named the Knights' soccer player of the week.

Overall as a team we've gotten better, Spadafora said. "We scored the goal of the game for our team.

Former Knights player Jerry Baines said, "It's not a good thing if I have to face for 50 years. Western Michigan is lead by the three-headed monster of Carmen Malave, Shane Joyndorf and Gary Brandt. Each with more than 600 yards, they have a total of 789 yards and 24 touchdowns between them. The key for the Knights is to play well. I thought we could beat a great team because we have a strong group of receivers. Colado said before the start of the game against Snyder. But, we have fun because we are a good team. UCF has a 9-0 mark against the conference and 2017 will be the first meeting for UCF and Western Michigan.
Frenzied fans get chance to coach teams

Most people will never own a professional football team. Most people aren't in a position to make the chance to coach an NFL team. But that hasn't stopped hundreds of undergrads from living the dream every weekend. Throughout the season, team interns or "imaginaries" of professional football coaches try on the roles of their coaches.

"Fantasy football" gives you a chance to be part of the game. Not only part of it, but also in control of it.

"You get frustrated with the coaches of your favorite team. The fantasy league allows you to make the plays, make (mistakes) and do what you think is best." —Bryce Chen, Bryan Chang, professor of Finance and Management at the University of Florida, says the fantasy league is a great opportunity to learn about leadership and decision-making in a more relaxed setting.

"It gives you a chance to be part of the game," says Chen. "And it allows you to control the outcome of the game."

wally's, we realize yet another important initiative in building enrollment was opening a football-themed restaurant.

The restaurant, located at 1345 West Central Boulevard, Ocala, FL 32617, offers a variety of meals, including chicken, fish, and seafood. The restaurant is open from 11 am to 10 pm every day of the week. The restaurant is known for its delicious entrees using the freshest meats, seafood, and vegetables. They offer a variety of meals, such as chicken with vegetables, fish with lemon, and seafood with rice.

The restaurant also offers a special deal on Saturday, March 24th from 4 pm to 10 pm. During this time, all meals, except for drinks, are free. This is a great opportunity for those who are looking for a bite to eat after a long day of tailgating.

In addition to the food, the restaurant offers live music and entertainment, making it a great place to hang out with friends and family.

Food in the Future

The ultimate game plan for every fantasy coach

The fantasy football season is in full swing, and many coaches are looking to improve their teams. One way to do this is by recruiting people to play. Assembling a fantasy team is a fun and exciting way to stay connected with friends and family.

There are several variations for point systems, and players can choose to participate in either a pass or no experience league. Most leagues have a scoring system that is similar to the NFL, and players are required to make decisions each week.

In our next installment, we will discuss how to start a fantasy football league and how to obtain a pass.

But during the day, some of us preferred to kick back and relax at our favorite bar or grill. We enjoyed the company of our friends and the delicious food and drinks.

The best part of the day was when we watched the big game, whether it was at home, in a bar, or at a friend's house. It was a great way to spend time with family and friends.

Major media companies argue that the FCC's ownership rule changes would produce larger, more centralized media companies, and fewer small broadcasters that would produce larger, more centralized media companies, and fewer small broadcasters. The FCC's changes would allow media companies to own more than one radio station in a single media market.

The FCC's changes would also allow the merging of radio and television stations, which critics argue would result in a decrease in diversity of ownership.

Despite these concerns, the FCC's changes are currently under consideration, and it remains to be seen whether they will be enacted into law.
