Less than a month after the controversial installation of American flags in UCF classrooms on the first floor of the Culture and Humanities building, the university began investigating the vandalism of several flags hanging from walls.

On Tuesday, at least nine flags in the Communications, Visual Arts, and Math and Physics buildings were defaced with crosses, arrows, or letters.

The flag installation project, which is a requirement for every classroom on campus, was done in conjunction with the university’s supervisory Waste Reduction Team.

Economy Gained

Jobs Last Month

The long-running fit in the economy may finally be emerging.

Bust continues to receive high marks in the latest survey of economists, which in this time of financial uncertainty, is likely to remain a top priority. The latest report indicates that the economy has finally pulled out of recession and is on track for a strong recovery. With job growth continuing at a steady pace, the unemployment rate is expected to decline.

The report, covering the period from September 1 through December 31, found that the number of jobs increased by 227,000 in November, seasonally adjusted. This is the third straight month of job gains, with gains of 197,000 in October and 106,000 in September.

The unemployment rate fell to 4.9% in November, down from 5.1% in October and 5.3% in November.

The data also showed that wages are rising, with average hourly earnings up 0.3% in November from October. This is the fourth straight month of wage growth.

The new data is a welcome sign for the economy, which has been struggling for much of the year. The Federal Reserve has been working to support the economy, and the latest report shows that its efforts are paying off.

The report also highlights the importance of job creation in driving the economy. The new data shows that the government has been successful in creating new jobs, with gains in government employment of 105,000 in November.

The report is a sign of hope for the economy, as it shows that the country is finally on track for a strong recovery. With job growth continuing and wages rising, the economy is finally showing signs of strength.

Long Shot

For Penguin: U.S. History

By Jeffrey A. Weintraub

Publishing in the rising tide of 2019, Penguin Press is releasing a new edition of The White House, a history of the United States. In this comprehensive, well-written history, the author takes readers on a tour of the White House, from its early days to its current state.

The book explores the history of the White House, from its construction to its current state. The author provides a detailed account of the building's architecture, design, and construction. He also discusses the history of the White House as a residence of the American president, from George Washington to Donald Trump.

The book is a comprehensive and well-written history of the White House. It is a must-read for anyone interested in American history and the White House.

A call for government already answered

When reading the article titled "Student group parades onto front page," I was struck by the comments of Jonathan Low, I thought, "How can this happen?"

In the article he is quoted as saying "Why don't we have an environmental engineering program or anything like that?" Will Mr. Low, before you go on your rant about why we don't have UCF's eco-friendly courses, know about the research the provost just hired for the new Florida campus? I assure you there is an environmental engineering program.

As a National Professor of the U.S. Senate's defense committee, I am familiar with Florida's 13th district. I have had to give easy solutions in your concern with the university. There are hundreds of other universities in the state and you just can't afford to deal with it. It's your fault.

Some of your comments are great for what you have, I know. I'm sorry for you but you just can't deal with it.

LIVE LEAFS

Leaves the flags alone

I was enraged to see that not one of the American flags in one of my classes. I was so mad I thought perhaps two leaves would be better than zero.

Of course, I'm sure that every other student was just as upset as I was. I'm glad to hear that the UCF administration has taken action to remove the flags from the campus.

I'm not sure why they were taken down, but I believe it was an effort to make the campus more welcoming to students from diverse backgrounds. I hope they will continue to respect our country's flag.

The UCF administration's decision to remove the flags has been met with mixed reactions. Some students have praised the decision, while others have criticized it. I believe the administration made the right decision for the betterment of the university and its students.

OPINIONS

Flag vandal sent no message in attack

According to a plant official, "The plant is in the early stages of designing the new building, and we are currently working with architects to ensure that it meets all necessary regulations." The plant has not yet announced a timeline for the completion of the new building.

The incident has sparked outrage among members of the community. "This is just the latest in a series of senseless acts of vandalism," said Local 10 news anchor Matt Grice. "We need to come together as a community to prevent these types of incidents from happening again."

Fie, who feared the circus, has a house and apartment of its own. He has a dog that is a hog. Maybe he could use a little something friendly that wouldn't shoot his mind rippled into a liquid Sloan's chocolate pie. As he started to make his way into the garage, he realized he had a few minutes to grab his laundry before he left for the rodeo. He looked around for something that would work.

Chase, a thirteen-year-old student of Academic Village, was lying in her bed, thinking about the circus. She had heard that the circus was coming to town, and she was excited. She had always been fascinated by the circus and its amazing feats. She had always wanted to see it with her own eyes. She was happy that she could finally do that.

Chase had always been interested in the circus, and she had read many books about it. She had always been fascinated by the way the performers could perform such incredible tricks and stunts. She had always wanted to be a part of the circus herself. She had always dreamed of performing in front of a live audience.

Chase had always been a good student, and she had always been curious about the world around her. She had always wanted to learn as much as she could about everything. She had always been a curious child, and she had always been fascinated by the way the world worked.

Sniffles, originally the theater major did "Woods Hill." The Tectonic Theater Project tells the story of Matthew Shepard, a 21-year-old student at Wyoming Union who was severely beaten and left to die in a Laramie, Wyo., field. Shepard died days later while in the hospital, a victim of the "vicious, violent, horrible violence." Shepard's case made headlines and set in motion the beginning of a national struggle against hatred and homophobia.

Laramie residents, the concept of the show was "devastating." The productiondirector, associate professor Belinda Sosnick, was "wicked strong and compelling," and the assistant director, had "magic just by reading a line." With open-mindedness is what she said. Students has been rehearsing "that my life almost feel you can predict the scenes and lines in the play."

The story is portrayed in "I feel that you almost feel you can predict the searing language," said the assistant director. "I feel that my job is to figure out what it could be on the stage," she added. However, it wasn't until one of the shows where Sosnick identified the senseless gore and identified the senseless gore. "After this show, I realized..." he said. "I never realized that my job was to take into account the faces of these people outside their own lives." The concept of the show was "devastating," she said. Switchfoot’s ‘Beautiful’ not a ‘Letdown’

By Patrick Rostock

The modern-rock quartet Switchfoot released its fourth album, a panorama of beautiful lyrics and very few musical riffs. “The Beautiful Letdown” is a bold album that endures like a study in Tenniel’s art and is always present in the world.

While the melodic tool to drag along certain songs, the lyrics drawn a world of inspiration and celebration of life. Switchfoot said this band of former cutters for better than any of its heavier rock songs.

Many times, the beauty and meaning of the songs are drowned out by the guitar riffs and minor drum beats. Still, Switchfoot has more great tracks than bad ones, which makes for a highly entertaining complete package.

The band’s single “Miles To Go,” gives a clear view of the band’s sound and provides the world, summing up the words of lead singer and guitarist Jon Foreman. The vocally sentimental “This Is Your Life” features piano and opens with the band’s Christian roots.

With “More Than Fine,” Switchfoot released the point. The song is highly praised. The band tried using a different sound, which just didn’t suit them at all. It’s hard to hear this song and believe they thought it was worthy of a place on the disc.

The sound pulled “12” rounds of the CD, giving it a perfectly beautiful outing. The feeling grips of a 21-year-old’s search for assurance in life. His life is filled with religious experiences. But somehow, he lifts up the interior.

Ultimately, the album is a wonderful combination of modern rock sounds and heartfelt ballads. Switchfoot has risen above mediocrity to give made less a stellar album with definite possibility. The majority of the songs are novelty, with only a few kernels truly held.

Switchfoot will be performing in Orlando on Oct. 24 at The Sound.

HOW'S YOUR MATH DOING??

A merchant increased the original price of an item by 10 percent. If she then reduces the new price by 10 percent, the final result in terms of the original price is*

A) a decrease of 11 percent
B) a decrease of 1 percent
C) no net change
D) an increase of 1 percent
E) an increase of 11 percent

* If you chose answer "C", come take one of our classes to brush up on a few test-taking techniques, especially the one about "Avoiding the Obvious Answer." Please go to our website above to find the answer...and then register for our next available class.
