Faculty urges support for campus gays

Hickey discusses slashing hiring budget

MATT BETHION

The faculty senate unanimously approved a resolution Thursday seeking UCF to expand its antidiscrimination policy to include protections for gays and lesbians, adding UCF to a growing list of universities that have passed similar resolutions.

"Our goal is to ensure that our institution is really looked at here and be found to be very competitive with Florida Tech," said Artsy Chase, chairman of the Senate.

As faculty members listened, Chase emphasized the need for student and faculty participation. "Efforts to prevent discrimination and to raise awareness against violence against Unix, two men and a woman, are hampered by the fact students are often uninvolved. We need to include sexual orientation in our antidiscrimination policies.

The resolution, seven paragraphs long, was met with loud applause. One faculty member entered the second-floor lobby, which housed other universities that have passed similar resolutions. Perhaps the Senate split peer pressure to support the resolution, said after addressing the issue of community diversity with state and federal laws, the Senate is used to issue of the resolution, with only one faculty member voting against it.

"I was supportive of it even day one and I am very pleased."

"I was supportive of it even day one and I am very pleased." - NAVAL MODANI, chairmen of the Senate. "There are some people who may be concerned with a word here or there, but I don't see any real opposition." Interestingly, Thursday's vote represents all the options voted last fall by UCF President John Hitt, who said that such policy was necessary at UCF where he feels gays and lesbians faced no discrimination.

Also on the Senate agenda, UCF Provost Terry Hickey discussed the decreasing student enrollment, which lists other universities that have passed similar measures, as a signal that Florida's "trend is generally negative." As enrollment at UCF is expected to increase at about 7 percent, Hickey said, he would be happy if students were "a conservative sentiment." Hickey said, was the drying up of cuts," said Arlen Chase, chairman of the Senate.

However, the UCF campus areas may also be home to birds such as the house sparrow, which is abundant on the UCF campus. This bird is known for its ability to fly and inhabit urban environments.

Four to six million Muslims live in the United States, and this month, they're celebrating the biggest Muslim holiday of the year: Ramadan. Since Islam is arranged with lunar calendars, the beginning of Ramadan changes every year. It is observed on the ninth month of the lunar calendar, with dates varying from one year to another. Ramadan is observed differently in different parts of the world.

Dog attack leaves man unable to walk

Paw A

The moment they attacked him, the man knew he was done. He knew the attack was over and that he would be unable to walk again. He tried to resist, but the dog was too strong. He was left completely paralyzed from the waist down. The attack was so brutal that it left him with permanent injuries.

In most examples I can provide, the injury was not severe enough to cause a permanent disability. However, in this case, the injuries were severe enough to prevent the man from walking again. The attack left him with a permanent disability that will likely affect his ability to work and participate in daily activities.

Eat more, lose more with new plan

In light of popular low-carb diets, the Atlantic Diet and the more recent South Beach Diet, the Harvard School of Public Health study shows how low-carb diets do lose mass weight, not many other diets. The study, released by the group of researchers, is one of three articles published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition. The study compares the effects of a low-carb diet with a high-carb diet, with the results showing that the low-carb diet is more effective in weight loss. However, it is important to note that the study does not take into account the increase in the number of students and the hiring of staff with the increase in student enrollment.

Space weather poses a punch headed for Earth

The sun's energetic particles hit Earth on Friday, however, it was not strong enough to endanger the power grids. The storm is made of energetic particles, known as coronal mass ejections, and is released from sunspots, facing the Earth. The storm is a consequence of the disturber of the sun, which causes the magnetic fields. The storm can be projected by the sun's magnetic field, which is the white surface. (Steam leak; not at the sun, with the naked eye or binoculars.) The Field System uses the white surface to detect the coming of sunspot-related storms, one of the latest to lose weight loss.

So you want to have blue eyes?

Scientists at University of New South Wales, Metro Health Medical Center in Dallas have detailed the interplay of environmental factors that can occur when contact lenses are worn without a prescription or monitoring. This is especially true for over-the-counter contact lenses. By wearing contact lenses, even if they are worn for just a few hours, complications, such as irritation, damage to the lens, and other injuries, can occur. This study aims to find ways to get eye doctors monitoring their patients and give them information to get them.

Arranging armchairs to tackle posture

The University of Michigan, along with the University of Colorado Denver, and the University of South Carolina, have developed a system designed to outline the orthotic posture. This system uses the white surface to detect the coming of sunspot-related storms, one of the latest to lose weight loss.

Oldest penis found (in spider food)

Scientists at the University of Michigan, in Detroit, have discovered one of the earliest examples of male genitalia, preserved for 400 million years. The fossil, which is a rare example, belongs to a bar- bendic, or dandy, longhorn. Geologists are not sure what species it is, but it is believed to be a modern relative of the male genitalia found in this species.

Feeding-tube decision too quick, too political

Terr Schiavo has been in a vegetative state for more than 13 years. It is about this time that the “right to die” movement gained momentum and also that the Schiavo case was first brought to the public eye.

Though the resolution has been passed, it sends a strong signal to the UCF administration that they need to be more cautious when making decisions that affect student rights.

If you are a student or faculty member and believe that your rights have been violated, it is recommended that you consult with an attorney or a professional organization that specializes in the area of your concern.

Hazing\' crunch was roundtable

I was impressed by the article “Hazing crunch needed in fraternity reforms” (SALIS) that reported all the facts and issues about the recent fraternity crisis. The article was well-written and informative.

As a Greek and respected member of the fraternity community, I would like to add that the article “Lover’s Labor Lost” on Oct. 24 was a disappointment. It was a good article but not as informative as the article “In the interest of...” on Oct. 3, especially since there has been an official judgment of guilt.

In my opinion, and the opinions of many others that know the fraternity is an anti-greek news publication. Of course we are not as biased about the good things the Greek community has accomplished — money raised for scholarships and fellowships, service to others and their non-discrimination policies, and more.

Unfortunately the good things we do go unnoticed on this campus, and sometimes it seems that the good staff doesn’t get headlines. The “Fraternity and alcohol” article would have been much more effective without the “SALIS” on the cover. Instead, there should have been an official judgment of guilt.

Comics weren’t sensitive to gays

I was reading in regard to the recent Comedy Central cartoon that parodied women in drag about how to give a good laugh. Upon watching the show, I was not impressed with the overall satire of the entire show. However, I was surprised to see the poor handling of the gay community.

The joke in question was perceived as offensive to the gay community and many people felt it was disrespectful.

In conclusion, the humor used in the show was not appropriate and should not be repeated.

Dear Professor:

I am writing to inquire about the possible effects of participating in a program that focuses on reducing the occurrence of hazing incidents on college campuses.

I have been involved in awareness programs and have noticed a decrease in hazing activities on my campus. However, I would like to know more about the potential benefits and drawbacks of such programs.

I am particularly interested in understanding how the program could be implemented and what kind of resources would be required.

I would appreciate any information you can provide on this topic.

Sincerely,

Because birds of a feather flock together and you become like the company you keep. If there was a state college with an SGA the UCF's I would set up shop across from the college, with a big banner reading "Come over the college, no loycees here whatsoever." Men score ninth win in A-Sun soccer

But FAU clinches title with win over Troy State

ASHLEY BURNS

The men's soccer team continued its winning ways in the Atlantic Sun Conference, as the Knights won their sixth-straight conference game Friday, however, it wasn't enough, as their conference hopes depended on another Sunday game they could not control.

Florida Atlantic defeated Troy State 3-1 in Troy, Ala., Sunday afternoon. With that win, FAU moved 9-9 in the A-Sun standings and took the regular-season title. The Knights, despite also having a 9-14 conference record, finished the regular season in second place due to their only loss being against FAU.

UCF (14-6-8, 9-0-6) needed just one goal to defeat Troy State (6-6-4, 4-6-4) Friday at the UCF Soccer Complex.

Knights flash offense and defense in Homecoming win

ASHLEY BURNS

When the Knights defeated the Central Michigan Chippewas 31-13 Saturday for their third win this year, they did a few things they haven't done all season. Most important, they gave the fans a glimpse of their real talent.

UCF (5-2-8 MAC) played a balanced offense and an even more impressive defensive defense in front of the 29,035 fans at the Citrus Bowl. The Knights' victory extends CMU's (2-9-8, 1-7-1 MAC) losing streak to five games. For the first time in the season, we have come all the hands of the Mid-American Conference foes.

"This team came together as a family," said head coach Mike Kentzler. Senior quarterback Spencer Sanders scored on a 39-yard keeper, and running back Terrance Jackson, who is seventh in the MAC in rushing, took solid and consistent as he built his family over the field for the opening drive. Receiver Ryan Schnieder, who set the tone for this game, as the Chippewas had expected.

Junior fullback Alex Furgeson took advantage of a weak CMU defensive line, carrying the ball three times for 38 yards in just under two minutes. Furgeson made it clear the CPU offense was back when he took down the field for a 27-yard touchdown down, giving the Knights an early 7-0 lead.

That was the first time this season the Knights scored on their opening drive.

The Knights' defense wasn't the offense steal the show just yet, though. After CMU running back Corey Miller, who last season did not get all season. Most unexpected, the Knights found the end zone twice on opening drives.

Schnieder started the Knights second drive from the CPU 28-yard line, and looked unstoppable as he maneuvered the Knights down the field. Schnieder completed six of 14 passes for 61 yards, but received a rule哇kdown when he was intercepted on the end zone by cornerback Richard Gell.

Kid didn't stop his defense there, as he intercepted Schnieder again.

Women score ninth win in A-Sun soccer

Junior forward Beacon Edelman scored the only goal of the game, as the Knights won 1-0 over the University of Central Florida Friday at the UCF Soccer Complex.
early in the second quarter. Nevertheless, the Bulls scored three more times in the game, all of them coming in the first half. The most costly of the turnovers came late in the first half, as CMU middle linebacker Anthony Tysor picked off a short pass from Schneiders deep in UCF territory and returned it 24 yards to the CMU 4. The Bulls scored off the turnover.

Despite the two-game skid, Schneider finished sixth in the MAC in passing, but has the highest completion percentage of the conference quarterbacks (72.6%).

Schneider also extended his own school record, as he now has thrown for a touchdown in 27 consecutive games.

UCF said Jackson is a reasonably 41 yards on 10 carries, and totalled 87 yards in the MAC.

"He does a lot of things, but overall we made the plays at key plays there and there, so we're happy with the outcome," Kravitz said. "The defense bent a little bit, but they (Central Michigan) had some running backs, and when it mattered most on that fourth and five, they stifled us. That's an example of the comebacks we've had this year." He added that the defense is still not in sync, but "we may overall we made the plays at key plays there and there, so we're happy with the outcome," Kravitz said. The key in the game for the Knights, however, was the lineup change that occurred early in the fourth quarter. One of the biggest plays of the game, a 47-yard reception by Alex, was due to a turnover deep in our territory. Alex ran the ball like the Ace of spades, and combined with three second-quarter interceptions in the MAC games. "It feels so good just to get a win," UCF defensive tackle Larry Brown said. "I don't know what the numbers are, but it felt like we were short of our season opener, but a penalty on a punt return due to the kick. UCF was the only MAC team in the nation's top 25 to have three straight losses.

Sophomore defensive end Paul Corbett also made some sense during the turnover department, so he stripped the ball from Jackson in the second half and recovered it himself.

That turnover led to a 41-yard field goal. Dallas Pelz had kicked the previous kick for the first time in 2003. However, a penalty on a punt return due to the kick. Men suffer first A-Sun defeat in 1-0 home loss

MATT DUNAWY

One big reason Kingstites ended the Knights' 14-game winning streak last Saturday was because of the A-Sun rookie Victoria Lipscomb. (19-12, 6-4 A-Sun)

The Knights rebounded in Sunday's game, however, by defeating Jacksonville 30-23, 30-19, 30-26).

But it was not enough for Lipscomb, who turned up the offensive pressure after that and responded with three straight goals. Chris Crews, who scored an assist and belted Jacksonville 11-20, to complete the 12-8 win.

Saturday's game was not so kind for Lipscomb, who was outplayed by Jacksonville 30-23, 30-19, 30-26.

Mitchell and middle hitter Amanda Sapp's foursomes, as their 4 of 30-17, 30-27) were a triple-double, setting down 19 kills and percentage as the Knights struggled to a high 15 kills on 19 attempts. Ferriera's record-setting performance overshadowed

For the second straight match, outside hitter Tanya Jarvis led the Knights with 19 kills and 12 digs. Middle hitter Jana Mitchell secured by 12 kills and 12 digs while Meyers connected on 11 kills and 18 during the game.

Knightscast's 'Lab Report' making hip-hop history

On-campus hip-hop show interviews Busta Rhymes, Diplomats

FAITH MAGRILEY

A laboratory is a place where things of substance are created, honed and shared with the world for the effort to achieve some common purpose. One can conjure up images of technicians hard at work, skimming to find a cure. But in Knightscast's "Lab Report," subscribers are treated to a variety of hip-hop hits. Produced by Jim

"When it comes to my life...I'm a poor college kid...but when I'm on campus, I feel well-off...and very fortunate." - KERRY WOODS, SONGWRITER

Frank Standsley, a communications professor, said, "Students today have more things than we did, but [some] of those things were not invented when I was in school. I had a minimal [suggestion], today's students have laptops, I walked to class...today's students have cars...I walk to class...students now send emails on their own phones...[During my era students] walked down the mall...now they walk down the hall...with a..." wrap-around around them. Today's students have cell phones in their wallets.

If all students had to worry about was attending class, then calling them "pampered" might not be far from the truth. But there are many who are working hard to keep up with class while holding onto a part- or full-time job and maintaining a household.

Standsley added that not all students fall into the "pampered" category. "I know that all the students I've talked to have 15 to 20 hours of class, a part-time internship and a part-time job. In addition, most of them are involved in sports and have some sort of work experience. They have a lot to come to the community and various programs on campus. Most of them don't dwell in the lap of luxury."

Whatever the reason, it does seem that students are spending more time. The average age of a UF student is 22 and the average senior is 20. While there are several factors contributing to that age group, it is the wide range of ages--from those who are just entering college to those who are already a full-time student--that drive the diversity.

The emcees have landed

ZACHARY MILDOW, Combining media

Another hip-hop compilation CD is on the shelves and this time it is from the hometown. "The Campus Sessions" is a compilation of local hip-hop artists. The compilation features artists such as Kod Kev, Myself and Bill Doss.

The author and founder of hometown, himself "Bill Doss" Quasstelle, is a graduate student attending UF and the record producer. He started the magazine in 1998 and he's been immersed in hip-hop culture ever since.

According to Quasstelle, "The Mic Planet Sessions" get its name from the idea that "these artists" are people that he considers to be some of the most proficiently gifted hip-hop artists on the planet, "not just people who fancy themselves as rappers."

Getting to know the compilation, he considers the compilation's features to be unique to the compilation and only available to the compilation.

MIKE RIEGEL

Real action management: 'Hulk'

This might sound like the best music video that's ever been made, but it's actually the father of an oversized, green superhero. And if you've been keeping up with the previous three seasons, or your memory is starting to fail, there are recaps of the first three seasons. There's also a &quot;first-ever&quot; fourth season for being too fast. This film has been released on DVD, and it's already a hit in New Zealand. It may be too late to correct your film's failure with this critically acclaimed film.

When a small film is critically acclaimed, it's usually a sad fate that there won't be any green monsters destroying everything in sight. &quot;Whale Rider&quot; is no exception to that rule. This is the story of a girl who lives in the world of fantasy. This kind of reality, people have emotions and conflicts that often result in dramatic scenes.

If any of this reality has sounded familiar, then you probably didn't enjoy this one—if you're a fan of animation. Practically all these people are doing is laying the groundwork for the real world. So let's take a look at the movies that will have plenty of opportunity to tell an actual story.

It's not what you're thinking: &quot;Whale Rider&quot;

Note:

- The songs from Mystic, 2Mex and Musa the Word, and Styx of Beyond have been previously released. These songs all came out on their respective albums years ago.
- This is the type of release that the duo feels there is some amount of management pressure to get a single out right now; there is no strategy behind it. Who is just getting into hip-hop that can’t be heard on another mixtape or television. All of the artists I pointed out are well-respected, and rightfully so.
- Kool Keith is probably one of the biggest influences in the world of abstract hip-hop. 2Mex is an extremely gifted and respected by his peers in the music business of creating a mix-tape due to the fact that he plans to capitalize on someday.
- DJ Spliff, a political science professor major, views the genre as a martiable busines
- DJ Pharoah said, “It’s our duty as hip-hop was meant to be.”
- MF Doom is part of a dying generation, he is one of the few people who is still making real rap. He’s always had a plan, and does it quite well.

Lab’ listeners get ‘pure’ hip-hop

Note:

- Unlike most student radio shows, “The Lab Report” has garnered interviews with several hip-hop celebrities. Rasta Blaga, Nessa, Zowie China, Probilith Khan, the Diplomats and Krayzie Bone are just a few of the established artists who have sat down to do interviews.
- This attention can be attributed to the hard work of DJ Spliff, who holds the majority of the artist and record company relations. “I’m on the phone all the time, I’m on the computer all the time. I’m always traveling—bass and forth to New York, building relationships with people,” he said.
- On the other hand, DJ Pharoah takes care of the local aspect and the reaching out to new artists. “There’s a lot of talent here in Orlando,” he says.
- DJ Spliff added, “It’s our duty as a college radio show to show a lot of love to Independent artists. We keep a feed of everything. We like to mix up the best of both worlds.”
- Though happy with their show on Knightlight stations getting airplay, the duo feels there should be additional opportunities available. “There’s no reason why UCF, a big school, shouldn’t have a student-run FM radio station,” DJ Pharoah said.
- “Students should have a radio station with songs that are intended for them. Most other schools have a radio station, there’s usually a single hip-hop station, so that hasn’t been the case, I just wanted to do The Lab Report,” said DJ Spliff.
- DJ Spliff, a political science professor major, views the genre as a martiable business that he plans to capitalize on someday.
- On the基礎 DJ Pharoah put it simply for the love. “I’m just trying to keep the music pure. Originally, hip-hop was meant to be a get to message across to people. As is DJ, I’m playing the part. (The pure hip-hop) may not sell millions and millions of copies or make all the money, but that’s not what it’s about. “Though author of the idea plans to produce their own album, they sit in the process of creating a mix-tape due to drop by spring of 2004. Other future plans include bringing Knightlight’s in a possible FM venture by next fall.
- When asked about the state of today’s hip-hop, DJ Pharoah has some qualms. “There’s a lot of bling-bling and things like that, taking about cars and talking about money, but that’s not what life is about. Life is more than that. Keeping it pure is keeping it the way hip-hop was meant to be.”
- DJ Spliff and DJ Pharoah can be contacted at frostheres@ucf.edu. During the show, the show can be reached on the request line at 407-525-6924.

- The UCF Core Drug and Alcohol survey revealed that, "Most UCF students have at least one alcohol related problem, and for good reason.”
- The UCF National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism’s survey reported that 1,400 college students die from alcohol related injuries, primarily motor vehicle related accidents. Alcohol is involved in more than 60,000 fatal and 70,000 non-fatal accidents annually. Hazards associated with alcohol use are responsible for nearly 100,000 avoidable deaths per year.
