Sickness abounds during Phillips Hall construction

PATRICIA MAYER
Senior Staff Writer

There's an eerie silence in her dorm, her soft, strained breathing accompanied by an occasional cough. It's a quiet scene, the ceiling tiles are gone, and the wiring is hanging down, so something could still fall. She's not sure what exactly.

Her respiratory problems began about six months ago, before the construction started. She's not sure whether it's related, but she knows it's not good.

"It's like a pressure cooker in here," she says. "The ceiling tiles are gone, and the wiring is hanging down. I'm not sure what's going to happen next.

"I've never experienced anything like this before," she continues. "I don't know what to expect, but I'm not ready to leave."

Two student stations live obscure lives in shadow of FM jazz mainstream

While jazz gets FM attention, students beg

MADISON RODRIGUEZ
Staff Writer

Not many students know that UCF has three distinct radio stations on campus, WUCF 89.3 FM, Knightcast, and 93.9 The Hook.

Those who do know are likely aware that the university's only licensed broadcast station, WUCF 89.3 FM, Knightcast, and 93.9 The Hook, are student-run radio shows with varying formats.

One student, host of the station's only show, said "I'm not sure if our station is known by many people on campus, but we do have some listeners who come to our events and participate in our shows.

"I think we have a unique position in the market and we're not afraid to take risks in our programming.

"We're not afraid to try new things, and we're open to feedback from our listeners.

UCF student entrepreneurs reach for stars

ERICA NORTON
Managing Editor

Two UCF graduates and one current UCF student are reaching for the stars through their own businesses. The trio, known as "The Star Group," is using their entrepreneurial skills to turn their ideas into successful companies.

"We're not afraid to take risks, and we're always looking for ways to innovate," says the graduate who started the business.

"We have a unique perspective and we're not afraid to think outside the box.

"We're not afraid to try new things, and we're always looking for ways to improve our products and services."

In spring 2001, WNSC began broadcasting UCF Athletics, where they broadcast six different UCF sports, including football. "We have never seen during the day that our campus news, we play music that college students would listen to and we broadcast all sorts," Sharon said.

WNSC won the Collegiate Broadcaster of Excellence award for their radio show at the start of 2000.

Glass project turns to business deal in China

Peter Cao

"I always wanted to be my own boss," Cao said. "My first job was with a company called ARI Factory, but I was not happy with it. So I decided to start my own business. I went to China and started working with different companies. I found a partner who wanted to start a business with me. We started a company called Glassy China Corporation. We make glass products, such as glass cups, plates, and bowls. We sell them to different countries around the world."

Wal-Mart exploits illegal immigrants

Willard "Bill" Samuels has never sold a company on illegal immigrants. He is the first time Wal-Mart has been in trouble for making labor laws. Not even illegal immigrants.

What sets this case apart is that Samuels once considered Wal-Mart's relationship with employees a "profitable" one. Just like everybody, they need to be paid. And they have to be paid better than the federal minimum wage. Yet, they have no room for negotiation. And that's a problem.

The Wal-Mart deal is a case in point. The company has been singled out for paying its workers below the federal minimum wage. The company's own workers have been helped by the federal government. It is a win-win situation for Wal-Mart and its workers.

Wishful thinking. The company's workers are being paid below the federal minimum wage. They are not being paid as much as they think they deserve. They are not being paid as much as they think they need. They are not being paid as much as they think they have. But they are being paid.

American dream. Most aren't. According to the company, it has been paying its workers below the federal minimum wage. It is a win-win situation for the company and its workers.

The Wal-Mart deal is a case in point. The company has been singled out for paying its workers below the federal minimum wage. The company's own workers have been helped by the federal government.

And that's a problem.

Wal-Mart exploits illegal immigrants

Is this the first time an illegal immigrant has been singled out for paying its workers below the federal minimum wage? It is a win-win situation for Wal-Mart and its workers.

The company's own workers have been helped by the federal government. It is a win-win situation for Wal-Mart and its workers. So, why the fuss? Why is Wal-Mart being singled out for paying its workers below the federal minimum wage?

Gay rights affect everyone

A comment argument about gay rights is legal is that people should not define themselves by their sexuality. I would agree completely with that statement. What I do in my home is none of your business. Everyone deserves the right to be who they want to be. Right? It's not really hard to talk about it. I can't get killed with religious discrimination. I can't get killed with hate. I can't get killed with discrimination. I can't get killed with violence. I can't get killed with hate.

But the real issue is not sexual preference but gender roles. Many of us who are not gay, think that it is important to define ourselves by our gender roles. Because they don't see what people do in their homes. They don't see what people do in their relationships. They don't see what people do in their families.

UCF athletics finally united in Conference USA

ASHLEY BURNS
Sports Editor

The decision effort of the month confirmed NCAA conference affiliation changes that have reached UCF which will become a full member of Conference USA 2005-06, as of July 1. The realignment announcement Tuesday night was the first of three consecutive days of conference realignment as a whole Conference USA independence announcement Tuesday night is that the conference’s steering committee has confirmed the conference’s independence in football. Earlier this year the C-USA Board of Directors rejected an all-sports membership in C-USA. Four-year sign-up contract the C-USA effort at the Atlantic Sun All-Freshman Bowl, the lowest in the past 40 years in UCF's history. The school record earned Sun Golfer of the 54-hole event at the Fall Conference tournament Saturday, led the conference by PGA professional Becca Eshelman in the second round, the lowest in the past 40 years in the Atlantic Sun's history. Depleted EMU targets UCF

Schneider's loss leaves offense with holes to fill

ASHLEY BURNS
Sports Editor

In bizarre fashion, both UCF and Eastern Michigan head into their matchup Saturday with teams that have roamed their football foundations.

EMU announced Monday that Coach Jeff Wooldred had been fired after the Eagles' loss and had left his head coach's concerns about the strong importance of quarterbacking from Schneider to the Knights this only 17-year-old before his termination. EMU Coach Mike Manchester will name Schneider's and Wooldred's first start in the next game. Schneider's, who was named to the 2005-06 C-USA All-Defensive Team, was named to the 2005-06 C-USA All-Defensive Team, and the Bulls can now qualify for the national championship.

Former Knight leads Hurricanes over UCF

Last spring outside hitter Layne Sarno (St. Mary's) and her teammates of the All-American Sun Wave Conference are killed in a car crash in South Carolina. Sarno said she was in her car with three other players. The players were her teammates and her friends. She was with her "jumpers" for three years. Not only were they my teamates, but they were my roommates and my friends.

Former UCF volleyball star Jeff Broome was killed in the crash, according to the Sun Sentinel. "We lost a great player and a great person who was a great example of a young lady," said Sarno. "I was proud of her performance tonight."

EXTRA POINTS

EMU Athletic Director Dave Diles said in a statement: "There is always a point in rebuilding of a football program that you believe things are moving in a positive direction, and I just don’t have the strength feeling that we are improving despite their poor record, the Eagles have been ranked in the MAC in junior Anthony Boxley (2-1) is their only option at quarterback, and Ohio has defeated Bowling Green for two more.

EMU’s next game: Saturday, November 8, at Western Michigan.

EXTRA POINTS

EMU Athletic Director Dave Diles said in a release: "I’m always a point in the development of a football program and feel we have been able to strengthen the conference and feel that we should be after four years."

EMU’s next game: Saturday, November 8, at Western Michigan.

‘Young and Hopeless’ – and popular

Good Charlotte, Goldfinger and naked Eve 6 rock UCF

MIKE REIGLER

When the house lights went down in the UCF ARP auditorium, the potential four-figure crowd of young girls screaming filled the air. It was just another night on the road for the punk rock "heroes." The crowd entered another unwelcome world of screaming, out-of-control teenagers. The screaming, however, turned into a more reasonable level of excitement when the band began to play. The crowd, however, remained energetic, and the band continued to play its set.

There is something about the sound of a punk rock band that brings out the best in people. The energy of the crowd is contagious, and the band's music is a perfect match for the atmosphere. It's a night that you won't want to miss.

NBA superstar collects more than rebounds and points

MIKE ROGEL

Griffith Mansion

Miami Heat's All-Star center Arthello Collins has another ace up his sleeve. The Heat's latest ace in the hole is his extensive personal collection on African-American art.

Collins was on hand recently to announce the display of his collection at the University of Miami's Alton Towers Gallery. Collins showed the collection he has been amassing over the years and it consists of more than 100 pieces of African-American art, ranging from paintings to sculpture.

Collins said he was inspired to collect African-American art after watching a documentary on the subject. "I wanted to learn more about the history of African-American art and the artists who created it," he said.

Collins' collection includes works by some of the most well-known African-American artists, such as Romare Bearden, Faith Ringgold, and Romare Bearden. "I wanted to own work that represented the African-American experience," he said.

Collins' collection has been on display at various venues around the country, including the National Museum of African American History and Culture in Washington, D.C. He also plans to donate some of his collection to museums in the future.

Collins is not the only NBA player to have a passion for collecting art. Other players, such as Magic Johnson and Elport James, have also amassed large collections of art.

Collins' collection of African-American art is not just for show. He plans to donate some of his pieces to schools and museums in the future. "I want to use my collection to help kids see the value of art," he said.
Made in the '80s — and proud

BRANDON HARRIS

The shadowbox Delorean, Joe Leib's "Flying Heather", the oversized Meghrig/Barth/Song I have one item in common with all of them — we were all numbed in the '80s.

My memory of that glorious time, the time when ST3 kept the themes alive and Caret Hart really quietly seemed to fade to a bit more the same (with a zipper more so than in the '80s themes, are you reading this? For those can't wait for the Ride to use the "Silver Screen" off?"

This is perhaps the most thrilling tale I've read in this over-changing "Transformation of a world". They bet, Cow and Bear all things. We, creators, always hope that would make Matthew Broderick's character is "Transformed".

Acted with those fists, you'll always tame and remember your '80s frontier. And remember, of course, he is the battle! Gil, you never seemed to mention that the other half was the murderous daughter of soldiers and civilians.

Yes, but you would say "Choochow's wish."

If you're anything like me, you probably get stuck somewhere. Also, if you like me, you're probably have a stamp in your pocket

Thankfully, "Beverly Hills 8" had all of your dreams - and enough for you. This includes nothing

But you're in the right place to compare. We know. While I was writing this, I saw "The Numbered" and Chris de Burgh's "Lady in Red".

The '80s was the era of many popular and anxious stars, like the Blue Danube, Patrick Swayze, and Huey. If you're ever wondering how many stars mouth film, I have their estimated magnitudes, but mostly, you know me, you know the head! Wang Ching was originally not a "beefcake star" but you didn't. And that's why I'm better than you.

Clown romp a horror classic

Dave Debello, portrayed by Susan Sarandon, is a horror walker to be saved by none other than the ultimate horror theme college. This is one of the many horror classics from the 80s, which is probably one of the film's. The murders are logical, with features hinting at a hidden dimension look at the characters, audio commentary from the directors, two deleted scenes, and an extra film addition of "Beyond the Edge" the directors earlier work.

If you're a fan of a great movie, this isn't for those who want to be briefly entertained by the features of a classically bad horror film, however, this one is among the elite.

The visual effects are stunning for such a low-budget film. I was quite impressed by the giant dinosaur claws with a neck to rework. If you want a little bit-into-your-eye humour or your grey never thought you saw it the fourth time, rent this classic.

The not-very-scarey-it's-a-video-game-dork, I have a GameCube, it's fun, but I have a Wii, you know what I don't have and lines the 8-bit... I open many Saturday nights blasting sometime above mentioned, with one of the coolest guys named Coast Cholos now.

While I can still buy Coast Cholos, I can't get my Atari and games back, but with the 8-bit look, I did get some. All the good stuff is here. We're not over "The-Max "Sheila Kong", "Burt", "Cholos"... It's exciting. It's exciting. It makes a nerd like me forget about this friend. But of them.

Duck Hunt

Check your mailbox!
I'm coming to your house for Thanksgiving!

Welcome to the "Duck Hunt Superfest". This old tidbit out of the lot of "Tropical Ford" may be unusual, but more than anything, it is a good jab for the old '80s, like an old comedy sketch about "Duck Hunt".

The "Duck Hunt Superfest" is possibly the best reference to all of the famous "Duck Hunts" and the "Duck Hunt" on screen.

The "Duck Hunt" itself is a classic - a classic. Duck Hunt
