As campus cats continue, literary magazine fends for itself

MORGAN MOELLER

As budget woes continue, Kingdon UCF institution has become a common refrain, and many students have taken to the streets.

The Florida Times Union, a 22-year-old national literary journal, has been the subject of concern throughout the country and around the globe, with distribution to many universities and public libraries. But this year’s entire budget was cut. Reactions and protests have escalated to raise money to pay for the journal, which was ready to go to the presses when the funding had been eliminated.

This year is particularly supported by the College of Arts and Sciences, but it also relies on subscriptions, money, and sales in supplement. This year’s issue has been sold out in many areas at UCF and the College of Arts and Sciences will be hit the hardest. The college previously provided roughly $10,000 a year to The Florida Times Union to operate its costs. This year was a forced to send that subsidy. Associate professor, Laura Leody, editor of the Review, said, "It’s a really big loss and it’s really important, not just as an editorial issue." With the journal facing funding cuts, Leody and students set out to obtain contribution from the community. They "vicked-out" the 2003 and 2004 issues, but this year they are unable to do that due to the funding cuts. Instead, they have added an online subscription option. They have also added a new online program promoting the journal.

Candidate forum for today at Union

HEIDI A. DE VRIES

Students can question the candidates in the Student Government Association presidential election in a forum at noon today at the Student Union stage.

With the three-day voting period starting on Monday, the forum represents the first of the three major joint appearances of the three candidates. Each will represent their views posed by members of the SGA Elections Commission, the candidates, and the media.

President Talakul believes students will recognize that money is one of the most important issues in this election.

"It's crucial that we continue to work to secure those funds that will be necessary to support the campus and the students," he said. "We need to be able to provide the services that students need and that they deserve."
"Women of Excellence" pageant puts brains before beauty

JESSICA E. HAMILTON

Women of Excellence will be on display at the Women of Excellence Pageant, Sunday in the Student Union's Pegram Auditorium.

In this context sponsored by the Student Government House, events will be judged not only for their ability, involvement in the UCF community and entertainment. The winner will receive a scholarship and a trophy.

"This is a pageant marketed first for students in the UCF. Following a string of events, Oct. 15, organizers found nine contestants but have made it to the pageant, with the rest dropping out for personal reasons. Of the women competing for the title, one has had prior pageant experience and another. Therefore is the current Miss Women of Excellence. Finding a spiritual route to which weight control may be the answer for some students.

Nationally known Overeaters Anonymous provides people who recognize they cannot con- trol you eat, it should be moderation. "It’s all about portion size," she said.

Wiltz said the two main things they can stress away from are saturated fat and refined carbohy- drates. When it comes to losing weight, healthy diet and exercise go hand-in-hand. Overeating and eating unhealthy foods can only half of the obesity problem. The other half is inactivity. The Surgeon General recom- mends that adults participate in 30 minutes of moderate physical activity most days of the week. More than one-third of American students engage in the recommended amount of physical activity.

Students who want to engage in physical activity have access to the Recreation and Wellness Center. The center provides a wide array of facilities and exer- cise equipment including a weight room, basketball and volleyball courts.

There are several resources available at www.oa.org. For students who want to begin the process of losing weight, sometimes stu- dents who recognize they cannot control the way they eat will switch to diet soda or water, without realizing that low calories can also become involved in one of the group-sponsored exercise options. There are intramural sports or sports clubs with a large selection of sports from basketball to wrestling. There also several aerobic classes taught by experienced instructors from yoga to dance.

"You need to see how different you feel. If you feel better, it will stick. If you feel no better, see your doctor if you feel you need to lose weight," said Wiltz. Wiltz said that whatever you eat, you should be doing it.

Journal fights for life after budget cut

"It's still unclear whether The Florida Review will receive money next year," the journal's editor said. "But this time Leiby said they will be prepared if they do not receive the money. Leiby has already begun work on grants and plans to increase the subscription base as well. Without UF's regular contribution, subscription rates were responsible for paying the entire cost of the fall and spring issues. Leiby said, therefore, they will help to pay for future issues.

Spigai is determined that they can keep the publication afloat. "We're going to make sure the magazine makes it until next year," Spigai said. As Christians and who are well aware of the evolutionary classification system, the plus-only grading system is supported by the Bible. Baseball takes on second-ranked LSU in home opener

FRANK KIRKUS

The University of Central Florida baseball team begins its 2002 season this weekend with two games against top-ranked Louisiana State University. The Knights and Tigers will play a three-game series in Baton Rouge, La., with games scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

The Knights finished last season with a 38-24 overall record and an 8-11 record in the American-Southwestern Championship Conference. UCF won the A-Sun title on May 6 in Orlando, but lost to Southern Mississippi in the NCAA regionals.

The team has a good mix of proven players and young talent. Of particular note is senior guard Dexter Lyons, who scored 22 points in a 70-33 win over Stetson in the Knights' first win of the season. Lyons is being counted upon to lead the Knights this season, and his performance will be key to the team's success.

Other players to watch include junior center Clay Brethauer, who scored 15 points against Stetson, and junior forward E.J. Gordon, who scored 18 points against Troy University. Gordon is one of the team's leading scorers and will be counted on to provide consistent scoring for the Knights.

The Knights will also have to deal with the potent offense of LSU, which scored 112 points in its first two games of the season. LSU is led by senior guard Jared Farren, who scored 25 points against UAB in the season opener.

Overall, the Knights will have a tough challenge in Baton Rouge, but they have the talent and experience to compete with one of the nation's top teams. If Lyons and Co. can play well, the Knights have a good chance of coming away with a victory.

TSU leads UCF by half a game

MATT DUNAWAY

For the first time this season the UCF women's basketball team is making a move on the court. The Knights are currently at 21-7 and will finish the NIT as a three-seed. They both have made the post-season in both conferences. It was last year when the Knights were 20-9 overall, but they lost both games in the first round of the conference tournament.

Both teams are in the top 25 in the latest AP poll, but the Knights are just 0-1 in their last two games. The Knights have lost to Texas A&M 63-60 and 62-57, and to Michigan 58-50. The Knights have not won a home game since they defeated Lipscomb 70-62 on January 18th.

On Saturday against Texas A&M, the Knights were able to pull ahead in the first half, but the Aggies were able to rally back in the second half. The Aggies scored a season-high 28 points in the second half and held on for the win, 82-74.

Knights' head coach Laura Lee Bible said in an interview with the Florida Daily, "We're not a good team right now. We're not hitting free throws as well as we have in the past. We're not shooting the ball as well as we have in the past. We're not playing defense as well as we have in the past. We're not doing anything right, really."

The Knights are currently in a three-game losing streak and have lost two of their last three games.

Men trail Troy State by half a game for first in A-Sun

FEB. 11

Around the Atlantic Sun

Troy State lost at home to UCF, 76-66. The Trojans fell behind early, but continued to make a game of it until the final buzzer sounded. The senior trio of Rob Lewin, Greg Morentin, and Roberto Bujanda scored 21 points apiece, but it wasn’t enough to secure the victory.

‘Player of the Week’

Troy State’s senior center Adam Mark, a two-time recipient of the weekly award, solidified his claim for the Atlantic Sun Player of the Year trophy with a dominating performance in the game against UCF. Mark scored 21 points on 5-9 shooting from the field, dished out 10 assists, and grabbed 13 rebounds, leading the Trojans to a 76-66 win. With this performance, Mark has now scored 1,000 career points, becoming the third Trojan to reach this milestone. Mark’s performance not only helped Troy State maintain their lead against UCF, but also sealed their victory in the game. With this win, Troy State moves closer to the top of the A-Sun standings, securing a strong position for the remainder of the season.

Look inside to see who won the worst prize ever ...

A few weeks ago the would-be straight-to-video chick flick Win a Date with Tad Hamilton! came out. Generally speaking, it was ignored by just about everybody. Everybody except the indie that is. It was more than a movie. It was an inspiration. In fact it inspired us in a very specific way.

Our beloved editor John Thomason hasn't had much luck with the ladies in the past year (give or take his entire life). In one month he had a total of five first dates, with barely a single callback. Poor Thomason was batting a thousand. Which is when I came up with the idea for a contest to go along with our Tad Hamilton review. Any of our readers could submit a 50-word explanation as to why they would make a great date for our lonely editor. It could make a fun cover story, involve our beloved readers and get two people dates for Valentine's Day.

Unfortunately, I inadvertently threw a monkey wrench into my own plan. See, John met a girl at our indie Recruitment Drive party. He and new writer Emily Jane Scott have become quite the item recently; making the whole reason for having the contest moot. We are more than used to our stories not working out how we planned them, so we quickly put Plan B into action.

We had several very eligible girls send us very convincing arguments as to what makes them the perfect choice. One girl made the claim that she was too shy for non-con­test dating. She sounded almost perfect. To our shock and delight, though, we found someone even better, someone John had something fundamentally in common with — they're both men.

Meet Jason Stafford, a the­ ister major at UCF. He was origi­ nally overlooked completely because he was a guy. We didn't want any of the nice girls who submitted entries to think this whole thing was a joke. On second­ glance, when we actu­ ally read his e-mail we found it to be by far the best one. If a girl had written this a week ago, she would have been the undisputed winner. To quote his e-mail: "I'd better represent for our side. And it'd be a perfect way to show (with a touch of humor and irony) that the indie is a tolerant and equal opportunity paper." He was perfect!

‘Dateless but Not Dogless’: A singles convention for canine lovers

KATE HOWELL

He’s always waiting for me. He yanks on your hair as if you were his mother. He is loyal and only a little shy, but when you stroke his head he jumps up with excitement. They listen. They won’t bite if you speak to them in a calm voice. They are a wonderful, honest breed.

The news is that a new series of dog shows has been released on video, and the event is a great success. The show is being held in Central Park, and the expectant mothers and fathers are waiting for the dogs to arrive. The dogs are not just a part of the show; they are the show. They are the reason people come.

There is no shortage of people who want to adopt a dog. However, there is a shortage of people who are ready to adopt a dog. The dogs need homes, and the organizers are working hard to ensure that they find good homes.

Dogs are a part of the human family. They are companions, and they are family members. They are a part of the fabric of our lives. They are a part of our families. They are a part of our lives.

Sex and astrology with their powers combined

MARIANNE RAYE

Sex is a tricky thing. Until I discovered astrology, I was always uncomfortable in the bedroom. I thought that sex was only for those who were in a romantic relationship, and I was not interested in finding out more. However, I have found that astrology can help me understand sex.

Putting on the astrological hat, I can see that there is a connection between sex and astrology. Sex is a part of our lives, and astrology is a part of our lives. When we combine the two, we can see patterns and trends that we might not have noticed before.

In this issue...

We have a new feature in this issue of the Central Western News, the Sex and Astrology column. This column will help you understand sex, and it will also help you understand astrology. We have a team of experts who will be writing this column, and they will be sharing their knowledge with you.

Thecolumn will be published every month, and it will be available in both print and online versions. You can find the column in the Central Western News, or you can visit our website to read it online.

This GameDay will feature tournaments for Halo, StreetFighter IV, Tony Hawk’s Underground, Mario Kart—Double Dash, Sugar Storm Break: Meals, Joust Caesar 2: Marved vs. Captains, and BIKK: Extreme. There will also be potluck tournaments with the exception of the Marvel Mech Arena, where entry fees will be assessed. Marved vs. Captains 2 requires a $3 entry fee, which goes into a pot for the winner of that tournament only. So, if you think you’re the best, prove it. Just be prepared to face some stiff competition.

However, tournaments aren’t the only thing GameDay has to offer—there are many other games to be played, including new NVIDIA releases and old-school NES classics. Previous GameDays have included the ridiculous sugar-coated-plate: Crystalove Avalanche and the upcoming milk-studded Steel Bettoblaw. More information, including pot tournaments and future plans, can be found on the OWLA Web site at http://www.orlandowl.com. The site also lists the rules for the various tournaments. For example, this time the Super Street Break: Motor tournament is a team battle. So bring a friend. At the Web site, you can also sign-up for one of this weekend’s festivities. In our opinion, some tournaments like Halo and Sugar Storm Break: Meals appear to be at 64 entrants. You can’t very well throw some smack down on your partner with your thirdshift if the tournament is already full, can you?”

Miracle (R)

December 25, 2003

Danish actor Mads Mikkelsen stars in "Miracle," a heartwarming true story about the 1980 U.S. Olympic ice hockey team which won the gold medal, their first, against the USSR and several other Olympic teams.

According to Realtor.com, people watch a lot of movies, but they aren't so interested in real estate. In fact, according to the National Association of Realtors, people watch the Super Bowl and the Oscars, but they don't watch the real estate market. It's just not on their radar.

But as with most of these legal dramas, I don't enjoy them. As much as I'd love to keep his role a secret, it's not going to happen. I would also recommend this movie to my friends, but I don't think it's going to be a huge hit. It's the kind of movie that says anything and everything, but it's not particularly memorable.

MIKE BURGETT

RANDBY JURY (PG-13)

Directed by Stephen Frears

February 17, 2004

This is a story about a man named Jack Fincher, who is a jury foreman in a murder trial in which a young, attractive woman is accused of killing her husband.

This is a film that's true to life, with a lot of twists and turns. There are a few scenes that are just too much, but overall, it's a good movie. I would recommend it to my friends, and I think it's going to be a huge hit. It's the kind of movie that says anything and everything, but it's not particularly memorable.

JOHN THOMASON

Usually when a film tastes at the box office, it's no surpise. But occasionally a film featuring by one of the greatest directors of all time, with a stellar cast and myriad innovations will fail miserably with the general public. Following the standard herein, the film would garner a cult following, and years after everyone realised how ahead of its time it was, it would be accepted as a "misunderstood masterpiece."

Time has not been kind to Francis Ford Coppola's biggest flop. Due to the director's experimental love letter to cinema and music, it seems to fulfil all of the above obligations into the last one. But while it's far from a masterpiece, it's one of the most unique movies in film history. Thanks to the recent, beautifully restored DVD release housed just weeks before Valentine's Day this romance/romantic musical will thrill everyone.

I like to go to shows. That’s my bag. My favorite shows are the ones that have something that’s bettering my life. It seems to me that music is becoming increasingly popular at every show I go to. I’m finding out how few of these kids are under 18 or in high school at all. Some of them are just in college, and even they seem to be a different breed of music lover. I think this is a great thing. I think it’s good. I think it’s great. I think it’s amazing. I think it’s amazing.

It seems to be divided among different music genres, from emo and punk to hardcore and metal. Sure, every-}

New records from folk-rom icons McAlachlan, Diffrancio, Amos

KATE HOWELL & ELIZABETH PALMER

When music isn’t just music anymore, we have to ask how it serves us. As an artform, and as a product, music is in the art of any economy. Madonna, Elton John, and Tom Jones are all ulus we’re hearing. They’re not just selling a product, but a status as we treat performance pop as high art, such as Babi Spier’s, whose “music” is more about reading her Kirsten Dunst’s story. But it is about creativity even more.

Sarah McAlachlan

With a following more widespread than any other artist in the business, Sarah McAlachlan has made her mark in a musical sense. Singing poetry about love, death, change, and ice cream, McAlachlan creates musical subjects without shirking originality. If any album, all of this, really has to make sense.

Afterimage is bittersweet. It’s sad, but a better way to immovably typify her voice than to say that she is obsessed with writing. She’s not obsessed with writing, but obsessed with her voice. She’s not obsessed with voice, but obsessed with her whole. But she is obsessed with herself.

Verdict: back to the beginning.

Ani Diffrancio

Ani Diffrancio’s latest project followed from her last one. It’s not self-declared. It’s stinging and rhythm with lyrics that are interestingly creative. “I’ll still be your unnecessary mother.” Her style is perfect for the emotional intensity of a character. In fact, she does it well, despite the emotional responses. Despite the obvious spiral, that is just as easily accepted by a different listener.

Verdict: worth a listen.

Tori Amos

Tori Amos’ last effort is a little more than just a story. She is working in the distance, from a real Delphi oracle, showing us a world we have not yet had to understand.

Verdict: worth a listen.

Amos’ prodigy for folk-rock combined with the rhythmic voice of her Cherokee heritage in her music. She is loved, or so many commercial mainstream musical acts today. Amos, however, is an extremely sexy woman, her voice and beauty. Her beautiful voice is grounded by the singing simplicity of the music and the gentle background it provides behind the album’s title song. It’s not like it.

Verdict: listen to the music.

Three provocative, love stories for your V-Day pleasure

ELIZABETH PIATT
Suicide

Just to prove that there are better ways to die than with guns and sunglasses and Juli­et or The Bridges of Madison County, here is a list of great literature to sati­sfy your need for romance that is more mature, and a lot more subtle.

1. De Lave
Romeo and Juliet
Green Press – January 1995

For all you corny romantics out there who cannot stay accus­tomed analyzing your relationships both past and present, De Lave is a boy after your own heart. This novel spends most of its substance analyzing the faults in loving a woman.

2. South of the Border, West of the Sun
Herma Hancok
Ipub – January 1999

Grove Press – January 1995

V-Day love stories for your produce.

3. South of the Border, West of the Sun
Haruki Murakami
2 South of the Border, West of the Sun
This novel is still as rich and mysterious as the author's intelligence is still at the point of arrogance, but the humor, including drawings of the action going on in this book, will keep you laughing. The plot is simple: Hajime meets and falls in love with a girl in elementary school, but he loses touch with her when his family moves to another town. He driffs through high school, college and his 20s before marrying and settling down in a small coastal town. Then his childhood sweetheart reappears, washed down with seaweed. Part coming-of-age tale and part love story, this novel is still as rich and mysterious as all of the author's books. This story will leave you in awe. Forget Pretending Women for the millionth time, and add this story to your Valentine's Day list of books to read instead.

1. The Passion
Jennifer Weiner
Gene Page – September 1997

For the romantic at heart, here is a sardonic, fantastic tale set in Italy during the tumultuous Napoleonic Wars. The Pulitzer interviews the des­cendants of two remarkable people: a simple French maid who falls Napoleon from glory to obscurity and Milena, the real-life, well-known daughter of a Spanish bourbon, whose husband has gambled away their fortune. Their story begins in the mystical central compound of Venice and leads the reader on a tour de force of social manipulation. For all you familiar with the author, this is simply: Waren, too, which will certainly add spice to your Valentine's Day plans. For the uninformed, here is a great way to start your journey into the worlds of Waren, it can only be described as a powerful manipulation of the fiction genre that distills the essence of reality and logic. Read like a very fair lady, this book is a must-read for the romantic at heart. Who, at the same time, rejects the pretentious workings of shallow modern-day romance for the essence of love.

Gamer style: E-dating, blow up dolls and Metroid remade

CHRISTOPHER SCHWARTZ
Suicide

According to a newly released report, 80 percent of gamers are women. Where are they all? We find a few good chick, space wizards and their hero, but the genre seems to lack a secret society. His milkshake brings all the boys

We headed off on the date with a packed car. I was driving, with our favorite photographer Elizabeth Fernandez in the passenger seat. In the back John and Jason talked about their favorite actors and movies. As weird as the whole thing was, they seemed more and more to be kind of a cute uncouple.

One of the main reasons people even entered the contest was for the free meal that we offered in our ad. The indie still has a pretty pathetic budget though, so we had to make our first stop McDonalds. We wanted to take them to a roller rink or ice-skating or something cute like that, but due to time constraints were forced to have the classic poor man's McNugget date.

Not that it didn't go swimmingly. After eating their french fries they had a lot of fun playing in the McArcade. They played a Dance Dance Revolution knock-off and some air hockey. Then they had a long, intimate conversation in the playpen.

After dinner we took them to the 5 & Diner for dessert. John and Jason shared the special "Cherry Chocolate Sweetheart Valentine's Shake." Two straws. Everything was going well until John's girlfriend showed up looking mad. Apparently somebody told her that her boyfriend was out on a date with somebody else.

Her anger dwindled after she saw the lucky winner. Eventually she even calmed down enough to share the sweetheart shake. The plan didn't go as expected. John didn't find somebody to love him. He didn't even get laid. Maybe Valentine's Day is more than all that garbage though, because we can all say we made a new friend.
How Gary gets his groove back

It's had successes in such comedy classics as the "Spongebob Squarepants" film and "The Goonies," but its success story is far from over. Gary, the sponge that we know and love, has been a part of our lives for over 15 years. In America, we have seen him rise to fame, as millions of people watch his antics on Nickelodeon. Gary is a sponge with a mission: to spread joy and laughter to those around him.

In the movie "The SpongeBob SquarePants Movie," Gary and his best friend Patrick are on a mission to save their home, Bikini Bottom, from the evil sea witch. Through their adventures, we see Gary grow and develop as a character, learning the importance of friendship and loyalty.

In the new SpongeBob series, "The SpongeBob Movie: Sponge Out of Water," Gary is taking on a new challenge. He must save the city of Bikini Bottom from a great white shark that has escaped from the aquarium. Gary and his friends must work together to stop the shark before it can wreak havoc on the city.

Gary's success story shows us that with hard work and determination, anyone can achieve their dreams. Gary's story is a true American success story, Gary overcomes his disadvantages and becomes a living legend. He's had cameos in such comedy classics as "The Hangover," and has even made an appearance in a video game. Gary's success story is a reminder that with dedication and hard work, anyone can achieve their goals.

Gary's journey is just one example of the success stories that we see in America. Whether it's an athlete, an actor, or an everyday person, everyone has the potential to achieve greatness. With Gary's story in mind, we can all strive to be the best version of ourselves, just like Gary the sponge.
