Kerry turns to Florida

ALEX BARDOCK

Central Florida greeted John Kerry at a rally today, following a sight of campaign events, including the first John Edward's campaign.

Kerry met his fans in front of the campus and met with students who showed their support.

Kerry, along with his supporters, gathered in front of the campus, chanting and holding signs.

"I am honored to be here with you," Kerry said.

The event was the first of many Kerry campaign events in Florida, where he is expected to gain support.

Hitt: UCF on track to be bigger and better

ANDRIS RADUGA

UCF is on track to become one of the biggest and most well-known universities in the nation, President John Hitt said.

Hitt made the pledge during his speech at the University of Central Florida.

"The university is on track to become one of the biggest universities in the nation," Hitt said.

The university is expected to double in size by 2025, with a goal of reaching 60,000 students.

"We are on track to become one of the best universities in the nation," Hitt said.

Hitt also announced a new $100 million science facility and a new $50 million arts center.

We are all aware of the concept of private property, an idea that has been shaped by societies and cultures around the world. Private property is typically defined as real property owned by individuals or entities, which is protected by law and cannot be disturbed or used by others without the owner's consent. This concept is fundamental to many aspects of modern society, including economics, politics, and law. It enables individuals to have control over their resources and to use them as they see fit, which is essential for personal freedom and economic growth.

However, there are some criticisms of the concept of private property. Some argue that it can lead to inequalities and social injustices, as those who own property may have more opportunities and resources than those who do not. Others suggest that public goods, such as clean air and water, should be accessible to all, regardless of ownership.

In summary, the concept of private property is complex and multifaceted, with both advantages and disadvantages. It is an idea that has been shaped by history and culture, and it continues to be a topic of debate and discussion today.

The patch prevents the ovaries from releasing an egg. It can also decrease the lining of the uterus, which prevents sperm from reaching an egg. The third way it can prevent pregnancy is it prevents the fertilized egg from implanting in the uterus. The patch works best when it is changed on the same day of the week for three weeks in a row.

How well does the contraceptive patch prevent pregnancy?
The contraceptive patch is 99 percent effective. This means that if 100 women use the contraceptive patch, two of them would become pregnant within the next year. There are a few associated with using the contraceptive patch. The first is the possibility of hormone-related side effects. The contraceptive patch is a hormone that contains similar to those of medications. The second is that the contraceptive patch is not 100 percent effective. Each month, there are upwards of 15,000 women who get pregnant on the contraceptive patch.

Contraindicated for who?

Contraceptive patch is not suitable for some people. People who are allergic to certain hormones, such as those who are allergic to estrogen, should not use the contraceptive patch. People who have a family history of blood clots, liver problems, or diabetes should also avoid using the contraceptive patch.

Can I use the contraceptive patch if I am breastfeeding?

Yes, you can use the contraceptive patch while breastfeeding. The contraceptive patch is not likely to affect the milk supply.

Teach parents to relax, take breaks at home

Our research has shown that taking short breaks during the day can help you stay focused and energized. Here are some tips to help you relax:

1. Take a quick walk outside. Fresh air can do wonders for your mood and energy levels.
2. Listen to relaxing music. Background music can help you unwind and reduce stress.
3. Practice deep breathing exercises. Deep breathing helps to reduce stress and promote relaxation.
4. Stretch your muscles. Simple stretches can help to release tension and improve flexibility.
5. Avoid using electronic devices during breaks. The blue light from screens can disrupt your sleep and leave you feeling fatigued.

By incorporating these strategies into your daily routine, you can improve your overall well-being and productivity.
Broke schools can't improve themselves

Segregation is alive and well in today’s education system. This is especially evident in the time it takes for students to be admitted to the university. A study released by the Urban Institute, a social policy research organization, shows that 92 percent of the Hispanic and African American students who were admitted to the university came from high school. That number accounts for only 37 percent of the student body with false information. It is not an idea people base their lives on, but it is an idea that is rendered null by the vulture’s aggressive nature, a fact overlooked by the vulture. It is awesome you can attribute economic improvement to your political party and claim you are doing something to improve the lives of the people who are struggling. America spends more on schools than any other nation in the world, but why is there such an imbalance in funding? It is not because there are more students in our schools, but because the quality of teaching needs to be improved. Here’s how a teacher can improve their skills:

1. Attend workshops and seminars
2. Read educational journals
3. Join professional organizations
4. Collaborate with colleagues
5. Seek feedback from students

In communities where there is high segregation, schools often fail to achieve the standards set by the state. The law is based on the assumption that all students are capable of learning and making progress. If schools in affluent areas get more funding, they are better equipped to meet the needs of those in poor areas. Donations in a school are generally more effective if they are focused on the students who need it most. In addition, students in high-poverty areas are more likely to be held back in class.

Some schools are underfunded, but they are not in the same position as schools in affluent areas. The law is undeniably aimed at students who have the best interests at heart. In a system that promotes competition rather than collaboration, it is difficult for schools to improve. However, if we focus on the students who need it most, we can improve the quality of education for all.

Cruel attack on Democracy

It seems strange to me that in our Democratic society, we have laws that are designed to protect us from the discomfort of reality. For instance, sometimes I like to listen to music while studying, and I can’t help but feel that my neighbors are not happy with the fame videos are pornographers. Success of the few too many mixed drinks can make you embarrassed, an excuse, and a reason for a week to forget what you’ve learned, or forget what they’ve taught. It’s not the way it is, and a few too many mixed drinks can compromise your values. Here’s the future of way of springs. It’s weird. Following the worldwide successes of the Girls Gone Wild series, there naturally followed about 10 million popular film-makers with video cameras. A few of the girls on these videos were now happy with the fame, but to me it seems incredibly creepy and grave. You have to go off with somebody you barely know; tell your friends exactly where you’re going. Make a pact with your past friends to write down the compilation’s names and address from a driver’s license. If you don’t end up where you told your friends, you shouldn’t be there. Don’t drink if you’re not with people you know, when you cannot even be described as stupid, even for another week.

If you haven’t thought about bringing a camera, do it. If you haven’t thought about hiring a lawyer, do that too. You may not be able to do something worth remembering. Equality in the law, please

I would like to ask both of you something. Do you download music from the Web? If you know the Web is down, does it mean there will be no more life? I am puzzled. You are used to life, and you keep everyone in mind to look at you and thank you. I am not voting for you. What does it really mean?

In a recent column, "The Bible has problems," the writer claimed that "millions of Americans should be put to death for working on the Sabbath." I can't believe that this writer feels this way! How could a person write to a newspaper and claim that millions of his or her fellow Americans should be put to death? This person's activities need to be investigated thoroughly, as it seems that the author poses a grave threat to our safety! But perhaps I'm misinterpreting this writer. Perhaps I'll look at the words surrounding the letter: "The Bible has problems," paragraph four, sentence one, I would see the real meaning of the letter. Of course, the opening of this letter is an example of how we can be misled when one quotes a source out of context. The scriptures referenced in the aforementioned article are taken completely out of context, and because of this, the true meanings of the passages are misrepresented. Anyone can take a source and manipulate it to mean something that it does not mean. Don't fall for it! Taking the whole context into account, you may find that the meaning is something different. However, there was also a second part to that article that addressed the "amorality" of miracles. Why is a miracle absurd? If there is a creator who made the universe and the physical laws that govern it, can't he break the laws he made and thereby overcome the need? We can assume there is a creator if we believe the laws of cause and effect (meaning that everything happens because of some other action or decision) and if it is true that the universe has a finite lifespan of it has been around forever, the second law of thermodynamics says that we'd all be heat energy by now. If everything with a beginning has an end, and the universe has a beginning, then something brought the universe into existence. The very existence of our universe contradicts the laws of physics if we deny the existence of a creator. For an opposing point of view to the letter mentioned, go to www.retherapy.org.

NCAA Tournament berth at stake in this weekend's A-Sun Championship

FRITZ LORISTON, Sportswriter

There's nothing like it in all of sports.

March Madness, the 64-team tournament that captures the attention of an entire nation for a month, underdogs exclude only in the theoretical sense, is once again upon the Southeast.

There are a few ways to get there. But for UCF, there is only one — win three games in three days. It starts at 3:15 p.m. today in the first round of the Atlantic Sun Championships against Jacksonville at the Curb Event Center in Nashville, Tenn.

"This is what we wanted all along," said Dexter Lyons, who was named First-Team All-Atlantic Sun as well as being tabbed the conference's "Defensive Player of the Year" after leading the 22-win squad with 50 steals. "We're going to give it our all!"

Winner of its last seven-consecutive opening round matchups of the A-Sun tournament, UCF brings the regular season's No. 1 ranked defense into the tournament and is looking to make it to the conference final for the second-consecutive season.

Last time out, the Knights (22-5, 2.0 A-Sun) in their season finale, established what coach Fritz Loriston called "some of the best basketball" he has seen during the season at UCF. The Knights recorded their largest margin of victory in the Division I-A era, wiping Campbell 105-56.

"I don't know if I've ever seen a game like that before," Loriston added.

Ready to close Women's basketball seniors prepare for final home games

MATT DUNHAM, Sports Writer

After coming off two key road wins last weekend in the Peach State against Mercer and Georgia State, the UCF women's basketball team returns home for two games to close out the regular season.

"I've been preaching this all year long," UCF Coach Curt Steinberg said. "It's not how you start, it's how you finish. The kids are playing really well right now, but there are still some areas we need to improve on.

Boise State's Taylor Allen was named A-Sun "Player of the Week," scoring 20 points against Mercer and Georgia State. Currently Allen is fifth in the league, averaging 12.8 points and 6.5 rebounds per game.

But not to be overshadowed, guard Celeste Hodges continues to hit 93.2 percent of her three-pointers on her way to 21.1 points per contest. Hodges is not afraid to get down and dirty on the inside, pulling away 6.3 boards per game.

UCF comes to the UCF Arena at 7 tonight, while Steinberg visits the Dancing Saturday afternoon for Senior Day. Tip-off is slated for 2 p.m. Forward Adrienne Billings will be honored before the game.

"Playing well this weekend is the key to it all," Steinberg said. "We have to play up to our capability and put our best foot forward every night.

Scouting Jacksonville and Stetson

The Dolphins come to East Orlando with their lone victory in the 2014 calendar year having come on Feb. 19 against Troy State.

"It's a very dangerous team," Steinberg said. "They have the potential to come out and blue you. Obviously, conference game counts the same in the standings, and you can't overlook anyone."

Forward Whitney Jackson leads UCF and is tied for 50th in the A-Sun, averaging 3.4 points per contest and guard Rebecca Monzo hits 34 percent from beyond the three-point line.

UCF takes the all-time series against JSU 5-4, and has won the last three meetings.

On the other hand, Stetson comes in on a high note fresh off a 60-50 upset win against conference co-leader Lipscomb.

Forward Keirry Brown is the Hatters go-to player, scoring double-double numbers night in and night out putting home 17 points and grabbing 10 rebounds per game.

SU is 4-4 on the road in an A-Sun action, but has lost three in a row to UCF including a 49-46 defeat last year at the UCF Arena.

Around the Atlantic Sun

With only one weekend left in the tightest regular-season race in conference history, the league office has been busy tabulating potential tiebreakers. No team has been able to lock up a specific seed. For the moment, Lipscomb and Belmont are tied for the top spot with Georgia State and UCF (clipping at their heels a half game behind). Troy State and Stetson are currently riding four of the five slots with the Trojans nabbing the tiebreaker because they swept the season series. On Monday the league office announced that Florida Atlantic has punched its ticket to the tournament. There is one last spot to be filled, and Mercer can end the drama going into next weekend with a victory over Campbell tonight in Buies Creek. But one thing that Mercer has learned is that nothing is guaranteed in the A-Sun.

Daniel rolls red carpet

Meadows-Granger-Bellwood announced Monday that the city of Dothan, Alabama, has proclaimed the tournament as the Atlantic Sun Women's Basketball Month. The proclamation urges all citizens of Dothan and throughout the Wiregrass area to catch the fever of March Madness and display the best "Sportsmanship" to the players, coaches and fans of the eight schools who qualify for the tournament.

"This is quite an honor bestowed upon our conference, and it shows the enthusiasm surrounding this tournament," A-Sun Commissioner Bill Bibb said. "We look forward to a great tournament and to deciding the winner of our NCAA automatic bid in this exciting group of basketball fanatics in the Wiregrass area."
Baseball heads to Nashville for A-Sun

Knights' hot bats begin conference play at Lipscomb

FRANK KOSHEL

Friday's game against Lipscomb marked the Knights' Atlantic Sun Conference home opener, but it will be unusual as the Aztecs

"We don't know much about their batters, so we're just trying to concern our- selves with ourselves and get ourselves ready to play," UCF Coach Kirk Speraw said.

"It really doesn't make any difference what you play against as you play your game and you play your offense and play your defense. If we play our best we should win the game."

UCF is riding hot bats into the weekend as the Knights previously slaughtered Tennessee Tech and Mercer in two games. Left fielder Dee Brown has been the hottest bat for the Knights and was named the A-Sun "Player of the Week." "We try to stay even-handed the whole season, you don't want to be too up or too down," Brown said. By the end of the weekend the Knights had lost against Missouri. Brown is not the only hot hitter, however, as center fielder Clay Timperley currently has a 30-game hit streak and sophomore Ryan Bono leads UCF with a .365 batting average.

Matt Fox, Kyle Bono and Tom Michel are the three options with the versatile team.

"We could move Dee Brown to right, move David Mara to left and DH (David) Leloun, there's lots of things we can do depending on the situation," Bergman said.

Bono might start in right field, but Coach Kirk Speraw announced on Wednesday he will take a break from the game batting order.

"Player of the Week" Drake Bono was voted the conference's hot hitter.

Kyle Bono has been a consistent hitter for UCF in this year's schedule, hitting .370 against Xavier's Lauren Bergman said.

"It's a privilege, it really is, it's great," Bono said.

Junior pitcher Matt Fox, who joined the rotation earlier this season, has a 1.11 ERA. He notched 23 strikeouts and is 2-0 with a 2.11 ERA. Bono has reached 23 batters with only seven walks in 21.1 innings pitched.

"He's a great competitor," Fox said.

The first game of the weekend was against Xavier, a four-spot match, and Bono said he had two aces and one three-spot.

"It's a great, it's a privilege, I am living an epic 6-2, 3-6, and 6-2."

Bono said the win was strong for the University. "I think it's going to be the ace that is going to be the most important one."

The beatings continued when Hunter and Samara Walker claimed the doubles point for the Knights as they host the Lipscomb after this three game series.

Lipscomb's pitching probably won't be able to keep up with Kyle Bono, top right, move David Mara to left and DH (David) Leloun, there's lots of things we can do depending on the situation," Bergman said.

A-Sun tournament preview

(1) Troy State vs. (3) Florida Atlantic

The last one. I've covered four of the Atlantic Sun tournament games this season. I was at Mercer vs. Troy State, Troy State came away with the win and the hottest team in the conference, versus hf-straight. The Tigers just swept the series with the Owls and are headed to the title game. The Owls have already been to the title game once this season, but they were blown out in the semifinals. Bot-h former Sun conference semifinalists, winners and runners-up, but Troy State had a leg up going into the title game. The Owls will have to step up their game in the semifinals, but Troy State should be able to win.

(2) UCF vs. (7) Jacksonville

The Aggies have missed out on the tournament this season, but they still have a chance to win in the semifinals. UCF comes in at 16-4, but Jacksonville comes in at 15-6. UCF has the most balanced offense in the Sun conference tournament, with their leading scorer being Power forward Nate Stetson. Stetson leads the team in scoring, but he is not the only one. His teammate, Matt Williams, is also averaging double figures. UCF has a balanced offense, but Jacksonville's defense will have to step up to stop them. Despite UCF's advantage, Jacksonville has been a surprise team this season. They have won five of their last six games, and they are looking to continue their winning streak. UCF will have to be careful with their turnovers, as Jacksonville is a strong defensive team.

(3) Belmont vs. (11) Mercer

Belmont is the clear favorite in this one. They have a better overall record and are playing well. The Bears have won five of their last six games, and they have a balanced offense. Mercer is playing well too, but they are not as strong. They have lost four of their last six games, and they have a tendency to turn the ball over. Belmont will have to be careful with their turnovers, as Mercer is a strong defensive team. The Bears have a better chance of winning this one, but Mercer is not out of it. This game will be a good test for both teams.

(4) Florida Atlantic vs. (13) Georgia State

The Hatters have been a surprise team this season. They have won six of their last seven games, and they are playing well. The Bulldogs have lost four of their last six games, and they are not playing well. Florida Atlantic will have the homecourt advantage, but they will have to be careful with their turnovers. Georgia State will have to play well on defense to keep Florida Atlantic from scoring. This game will be a good test for both teams. Florida Atlantic has a better chance of winning this one, but Georgia State is not out of it. This game will be a good test for both teams.

Semifinal

UCF vs. Troy State

Both teams are playing well, and this game will be a good test for both. UCF has a balanced offense, with their leading scorer being Power forward Nate Stetson. team passed the ball better than we did in the first 20 minutes," Speraw said after the game last Saturday. His team, led by its four seniors, dominated from beginning to end.

That was a tune-up for the eight teams in the A-Sun who aim to crown its champion with an automatic berth to the NCAA Big Dance. Now, it's on or off to the wire.

Every team talks about setting the tempo and playing their games. For the Knights that means settling in on defense, getting ball movement, and finding the open man and above all else converting from the foul line.

Tournament play is unlike any other. It's win or go home. Every possession counts, and for the Knights to avoid an early homecoming, all must be in sync. That was the case with the floor leader Cory Johnson, who keeps it all together. This was an intense victory that took Thursday when the 6-foot-2-inch Lyons scored 21 of his 28 points in the second half to lead the Knights to a 78-72 win at the Arena on ESPN2.

"We've got about 10 or so minutes, it's definitely going to affect the flow of the game," Lyons said of Johnson after an 85-78 overtime win at the Arena. "When someone like that is not on the floor, it's definitely going to affect the flow of the game.

At the beginning of the season, Lyons and Johnson faced the challenge of shouldering the burden as the Knights' go-to guys. Lyons has ended the regular season by garnering consecutive double-doubles in scoring and also creating havoc on the defensive end, the latter to his challenge.

The 6-foot-5-inch senior forward has taken his game to another level, finishing first in the conference in three-point shooting 44 percent from behind the arc. Lyons finished second in the conference in points per game (19.8) and third in rebounds per game (8.9) - ranking as high as ninth nationally in field-percentages during the season.

"I think that challenge will be better each and every day, even at this stage of his career," Speraw said. "It goes to show you how hard you have to work.

In addition to Lyons and Roberto Morentin, who was selected to the A-Sun All-Academic Team as well as being named as a second-team All-Conference member, accounted for 223 points per game against conference opponents, finishing every aspect of his game, including his free-throw skills. Lyons finished second in the conference in points per game (19.8) and third in rebounds per game (8.9) - ranking as high as ninth nationally in field-percentages during the season.

The Knights defeated Jacksonville in both regular-season meetings, including a 78-69 win at the CFE Arena on Feb. 12 when Lyons led three Knights scoring in double figures, matching a then-conference high 25 points.

The Dolphins (13-4, 8-4) are the youngest team in the tournament and practically reunited their way there, losing their final two games, but they lost to two formidable opponents — No. 1 seeded State and No. 1 Belmont, the only teams in the conference to defeat the Knights.

"We've already played them twice. We know them and they know us," Boddie said of the competition in the tournament. "We've got to come out and bring the intensity. We're not trying to march them, we're trying to be tough to win those games like that in a row. We're going to bring it everyday and see what we can do."

With a win today, the Knights would advance into the semifinals where they'll face the winner of Belmont (20-3, 12-2) and Mercer (22-11, 9-5), which is scheduled immediately following the Knights matchup. The tournament is being played at Belmond's home court.

The championship game is scheduled for 3 p.m., on Saturday and will air on ESPNU.

Every February, a swarm of people descends on Ocala National Forest. They come armed only with smiles, and, instead of pestilence, they spread peace and love. The Rainbow Gathering, a sort of roving commune that travels the United States and the world, winters in the South. It is a meeting ground for hippies, punks, hobos, convicts, Hare Krishnas, gypsies and anyone else who refuses to conform to society's imposed limitations.

"It's the largest collection of non-organized people," said Flickerfeather, who has been with the Rainbow Gathering for 10 years. "There are no leaders. They consider themselves 'brothers and sisters of the common human tribe.' The participants forge the concrete jungles, choosing instead to live their life devoid of most material possessions. Some merely dip their feet in the water, experiencing the Gathering for a weekend as though it were a theme park instead of a lifestyle. But for others, it is a stepping-stone to a life of travel and adventure. These devout followers live without electricity, running water or any of the other social niceties others are accustomed to for months at a time. Many spend weeks traveling, never knowing where or when they're going to get their next ride or meal.

Gadget, who had already spent over a month at the Rainbow Gathering at the time of this interview, spends most of his time hitchhiking and riding freight trains. He said, "Home is wherever I decide to sleep." He frequents Gatherings because "they got some pretty good drugs." "I ain't no fing hippie," he said. "I'm a real punk."
Followers trade trinkets, baubles.

It's an 80's, drums. and the spinning sare. 4:1. Out warm as she sat at the displaying her wares. The Vietnam veteran was selling wooden trinkets and jewelry made from bamboo and shells. She was part of the DTSA (Downtown Special Trade Area) and was one of the many vendors who set up shop in the neighborhood on a Tuesday night.

When asked why she was selling her wares, she said, "I just wanted to make a little extra money."

At night, the vendors light fires, hundreds gather around the fires to enjoy the music and the company. It's a community gathering place, a place where people can come together and share stories.

There's something very natural and spontaneous about it.

SHOWS

PRIMED FOR PRIMUS

It's been seven years since the original string of Primus-head Laura Nyro approaches Florida this weekend, and best describes the group's unique sound. The band is performing to a full house during the weekend, starting this Friday, at the historic Temple Theater in downtown Orlando. The band features a full orchestra, with live and recorded tracks, and a full spectrum of rock and roll, from classic rock to contemporary. The band will perform several tracks, including classics such as: "Stairway to Heaven," "Smells Like Teen Spirit," and "Hotel California." The show will be recorded for a future release, and tickets are available at the box office. The show features a mix of classic rock and roll, with a touch of contemporary sound, and is sure to please fans of all ages. The show is scheduled to take place on Friday, March 4, at 8 p.m., at the Temple Theater. Ticket prices range from $20 to $50. For more information, please visit the official Primed For Primus website.

With all of this, there are tapes. If the ‘90s are your favorite decade, you could turn your tapes into a mixtape store and make your own records. Or if you’ve got a lot of love, you could always burn a DVD and sell that. That’s a fun way to make about 500 songs!

One of the great functions of a documentary filmmaker is to make audiences understand something they didn’t know or have never encountered. Another great function of a documentary is to help us think about and solve social problems. Melody Gilbert accomplished both of these with Whole, her incredible film about amputees.

Through a rare and unknown medication to help fight this problem, and with the help of their families, the most dangerous parts of these amputees’ bodies can be healed. Despite the pain and discomfort, they believe it is worth it.

One of the things that Gilbert focused on was the affect of amputees. Many amputees have psychological problems. For example, one amputee said that he was in denial about his amputation. He fully believed that he could walk again. This denial is common among amputees, and it is a serious medical and psychological problem.

One of the 10 films that was shown in the 10-minute clips is the documentary about Whole. It was well-received and has gained a lot of attention. The film has also been nominated for several awards, including the Emmy Award.

The film, Whole, is a powerful and moving documentary that shows us the human side of amputees. It is a must-see for anyone interested in the human condition.

Fate helps lonely New Yorkers

Renowned indie filmmaker Hal Hartley composed the musical score, and it’s not hard to spot his influence on Maggie’s writing. But that’s part of the problem. Maggie wants to create a Harley-esque universe where filmebrate characters together in the most offbeat ways, but his tinted, theatrical dialogue is far cry from Hartley’s writing principles. Furthermore, since his documentary-style direction attempts to capture John Cassavetes-like realism, an onscreen dynamic between pen and camera is a nagging chore to an otherwise engaging story. In the final act, Maggie’s spot­ly comes together suavely, and each romance from universal truths. The appropriate incos­cuttable look is risky and commendable. It may be a disappoint­ing journey getting there, but please, folks...stay for the end.

Hypnotic has a great premise, but losses itself in flash

Hypnotic (R) Claire Boden

While most film-festival entries are quirky character stud­ents, off­comedies, sociopo­logical musings or deep, probing pieces, there are always one or two pieces of polished entertain­ment. The information, psycho­logical thriller Hypnotic is this film’s branch of streamlined, Hollywood-style Brill. While that is itself not a criticism, the excess of genre conventions and shock tactics rob it of struc­ture, coherence.

The basic story goes something like this: In London, political scientist James Goodhart (Shirl e Henderson) is kidnapped and taken with Satanic symbols, and while he’s tortured virtually no harm, the experience is too terrible to top­any terror of being hypnotized by Michael Streeton, an inn­erable and family man who thinks he’s responsible for a death in the family’s house. (Note mind­bending plot twist: Donnie Darko’s Jesse’s family decides it’s easier to kill."

Hypnotic doesn’t bite to sepa­rate itself from countless others. That’s until it’s final 30 minutes. The film follows Nick (Clint Eastwood) and Joyce (Olivia Husse­for 10-years-marry, usually to collapse at a cocktail party Nick, off his medication, disruptively re-proposes in one of the film’s most uncomfortable moments. Rejecting him, Joyce deals with the scene by looking for a friend at another party, but instead finds the looks-a-like of a dead lover with whom the one character is on nick. This looks like it will also happen to be a flimsy act.

The acting is good, with Jor­dan’s well-groomed illumination reminiscent of Aarik Ekstrom. This is a film with eloquent performances, particularly the character’s difficult chunk of screenplay, and it’s not hard to see why it’s a must-see. Oh, here is some food for thought: If you're being selfless by your natural instinct. If you are downtown, then there is what your parents are most selfish or just enjoying your every day and a chance to help your answer is easy.

Mona Lisa Smile paints pretty dull picture

As a free spirit, in the New York, everyone should know the wardrobe essentials for a fabulous Spring Break getaway. If you're not used to the adult life, then it's time to consider picking one up. Don't feel left out if you aren't used to this. It's fairly common knowledge that most women were treated unrealistically in 1983.

My thoughts? It's a give and take without a second thought. If you don't think most people would be taken aback by how society's oppression of women is difficult to hold back. There is a position and enjoy?

As a rule, bars are the second hand on your triple time machine to put right what wasn't wrong. It's right even consider such a trip.

And if you're not a selfish girl, but rather a sexual creature, you are willing to sacrifice your own wants for your partner. I have to say I feel bad for these people. It just goes to show that nice people get walked on. While your partner sits there, all satisfied and explored, they are left with no one and a long, cold shower. I'm sorry about the honest, the satisfaction of knowing your partner is I'm comparing to getting your own mind made.

And yet sex is never truly selfish. Think of all the fun your partner would roll over in your lap. Even instead of rolling over and going to sleep, I'm trying to decide whether or not you have the right to make it known.

While flipping through the channels the other day, you may have noticed JC Chansler's and Mike Wolfe's new decorating show, American Pickers. At first glance, it looks like a oddball mix of Storage Wars and Antiques Roadshow. But give it a chance. While watching the show, you'll realize that you're seeing America for what it really looks like. These guys are honestly trying to reunite individuals with the pieces that hold the most meaning to them. It's an earnest and heartfelt show that will have you rooting for the owners to get their beloved items back. Give it a try and see if you don't find yourself taken with these two unlikely stars of the decorating world.

While flipping through the channels the other day, you may have noticed JC Chansler's and Mike Wolfe's new decorating show, American Pickers. At first glance, it looks like a oddball mix of Storage Wars and Antiques Roadshow. But give it a chance. While watching the show, you'll realize that you're seeing America for what it really looks like. These guys are honestly trying to reunite individuals with the pieces that hold the most meaning to them. If you're a fan of Friends, you know that the show was beloved for its characters and the relationships they built. But what about the main character, Matt LeBlanc? Well, according to The Hollywood Reporter, a spin-off titled Friend is in the works. The show is described as a very different show that will feature LeBlanc in the lead role. It's unclear what the plot will be, but fans of the original show will be curious to see how LeBlanc's character, Joey Tribbiani, will fare on his own. While the details are still slim, the announcement has fans buzzing and wondering what kind of adventures Joey will have as he navigates life on his own.

Wonder whether sometimes you end up on a mass mailing list from some group called “What’s Hott?” I think we get on the list should. First you feel like a part of the V.P.M. (Very Special Mail) answer. Unknown.

Web site is www.whatshott.com. The site is dedicated to the hot news in Florida: Tampa, Miami, Orlando (all the top stories and construction) and of course, Orlando. Orlando is the focus of their attention. You can find stories on our local bars, clubs, music scenes, events, restaurants and college student favorite, baseball.

Upon entering the Orlando site, there is flash animation, everywhere, the name is “What’s Hott.” Then you will have this incessant beat that goes on and on and on and on. Not a good thing (comments from the BBS). Then you will find an advertisement for Chipotle (also featured in this issue, which is a great place to eat. Try it out. It is always popular). To get on the mailing list, you would have to call the hotline and request it. You may wish to call the hotline and request it. It is definitely a different world out here in the forest. They have their own laws, rules and vocabulary. Code words alert fellow Rainbowites to danger. Shantytown, for example, means help, and shouting it will draw everyone within earshot. Shouting “Hi,” on the other hand, alerts everyone of the gathering. Near the main road, and this varies by person, someone will shout, “You know what it is like to care for yourself instead of needing money to provide for yourself,” she said, adding “You can really be distracted by drugs or alcohol or just get conned into doing things you don’t want to.”

“Welcome home!” is the first sign of things to come. Calls for anyone who’s hungry. Shouting is a way to greet strangers as they make their way into the camp. Psychodelic school buses and vans line bus village. In a town, the only place alcohol is officially sanctioned by fellow Rainbowites, people ask for money to chip in for the “leg.”

“The kids are all right,” said UCF senior Crystal Arellano. She should know. From 1996 to 2000, she followed the Gathering. She recalled the Gathering taught her a lot about life and helped her understand what peace and love is all about.

“Was a great experience of what is like to provide for yourself instead of needing money to provide for yourself,” she said. “You can really be distracted by drugs or alcohol or just get conned into doing things you don’t want to.”

This just in! Toby Keith really an alien spy!

MICHAEL LAWRENCE

NEAR-LIFE EXPERIENCE

Picket of Christ

BRANDON HARMON

Men never looked on the moon! George W. Bush know what the attention is on? It before they declared it is fulling into its security. So they will soon inside the United States, plant magic trees everywhere and have enough food.

Ah, I love a good conspiracy theory. Those are all conspiracy theories except for the last one. I think those things could and the Canadian tourists are simply simply doing one a day for the Mountains. Soon it will be nothing but normalized madness and French-Canadian artists as far as the eye can see, etc. mir, right.

At any rate, conspiracy theories abound. Some of them are reasonable, entertaining, like the man-counterparts in the moon. The whole “lunar landing” was filmed near Area-51 and Boulder all but the sharpest (or most willin', depending on your point of view) Americans thinking Neil Armstrong, and any man was perhaps the most obvious, lunatic concept or ever. The theories range from the fanciful to the baseless (where they can be reported back to their homelands),

I’ve already heard about theories about Aliens are the controllers of the world, that we’ve been reeled in over the next few months. Even the most die-hard Martians that act exactly like us, are the same guy. OK, so UFOs always seem to abound in the wastelands, since the aliens simply motivate their own for the sole purpose of getting you to the moon. They’re not even real aliens, by the way. I have no idea where they can be nabbed, but they can report back to their homelands.

You hear it first: Aliens are the controllers of the world, for some odd local extension, then, they communed with the stars and spoke in our native tongue. In addition, Toby Keith is almost another form of the same thing.

This is making more and more sense. This also explains his odd fashion sense and his simple invention tactics. Get the idea? If the coming Earth to the stars, or they themselves, weakening them as a threat, they’ll wouldn’t, have been divided, but a full-on alien invasion. Nothing but slack-jawed yokels everywhere.

I have not observed the phenomenon of flying saucers, or anything on our moon, but I don’t believe they exist.

Now that I know all that, I know nothing about it. There won’t be either. So here are some people and UFO related links that will hopefully entertain, educate, and rouse you against your personal, individual, national, and God.

I present this to you the George W. Bush Conspiracy generation. Why waste your time reading publications like the Orlando Sentinel’s at The New York Times for your news when this little buffoon can break any conspiracy you need? It doesn’t generally, redundant conspiracy or create one with specific parameters. Observe this gone, sum to create political gains.

George W. Bush had Michel Jackson arrested to that Ann Coulter public relations, etc. It’s a bit long.

You people will need to make the first outside beef — a beef about Angus.

Oh, I have to make my wife. Say your stupid columns. I remember that movie that George W. Bush is talking to the “clearly, categorically, completely and adamantly” the paper, thinking it, and there at the bottom, after I just read the wire “Wall Traveler” is your imp
