Basketball team faces tough opponent in first tournament match since 1996

ASHLEY ROSES

A week of wondering has finally come to an end.

The UCF men’s basketball team entered the NCAA Tournament as a 14 seed in the East Regional against regional powerhouse The Knights, who recorded 26 wins in Milwaukee.

Pittsburgh (29-4) on Friday in the Big East tournament, and certainly a UC football Coach new coach told the body:

Coach buffet that preceded the meeting.

After defeated a measure in the Student Union, the line of ropes around the Pegasus seal in the Student Union, and agreed to fund a campus visit by a controversial ‘speaker on abortion.

But it was O’Leary who picked the pack. He reiterated his emphasis on academics, saying that O’Leary spent 30 minutes talking questions from students, who were later not only by the coach’s visit but also by a free buffet that preceded the meeting. After O’Leary left, the Senate also defended a measure that would have placed ropes around the Pegasus seal in the Student Union, and agreed to fund a campus visit by a controversial ‘speaker on abortion.

‘I am here for us to be compassionate,’ he said, adding that the Mid-American Conference in the team which new coaches is allowed for only two teams to make bowl appearances.

The biggest problem he faces is to create recruits who have played in Florida to play out of state, not those who lead to schools such as the universities of Florida and Georgia. O’Leary said. To counter those defections, O’Leary said he would be scouting for players not just in Florida but also in Georgia and the Carolinas. He further pressed a wide-open offense.

Coach O’Leary vows to wake a ‘sleeping giant’

HERA D. DE VRIES

But it’s not just players who make a difference, he said. Fans are integral to success. ‘Fans help the team,’ he said, encouraging those present to attend games. He addressed particular students in the crowd, asking: ‘How’s a guy who should be playing when I came in’ referring to Willie Bennett, the line mass-sized vice president-elect.

In other business, the Senate discussed the permanent placing of ropes around the Pegasus seal in the Student Union. Sen. Ole Aduloju introduced a resolution to put barriers on the wall.

Sponsor Gather, a 20-year-old Asian Studies major at UCF, agreed that not many people walk on the ‘White symbol. How ever, he doesn’t agree that it’s such a big deal.

‘We’re right here next to the White House,’ he said. ‘The symbol is in the lobby, and you have to walk over to get to the elevator. Same with CIA headquar ters, we go to the CIA office in the White House’ he said. ‘We recog nize that if someone built a wall on the floor, it’s meant to be walked on. We just don’t realiz e it do any out of respect.’

Many senators shared that sentiment.

‘Removing to put barriers back around the seal is almost counterproductive,’ Sen. Lee said.

Sen. Hunter Stumph com mented the resolution to another form of free speech. ‘The out come worse than burning a flag is telling people they can’t do it,’ he said.

Marjorie Agosín spins tales of hardship and injustice

BRAD ALCOCK

In 1989, Marjorie Agosín’s grandparents immigrated to Chile from Europe to escape oppression in the Mid-East.

On March 3, the Jewish-Galician author and human rights activist spoke to UCF students and faculty about creativity, human rights and the life under an oppressive regime.

‘Everything in life is a story — we all have stories to share,’ Agosín said before sharing her experiences growing up in Chile and witnessing the people of her country suffer from extreme hardships, political intrigue and human rights abuses.

While at first gave lectures and talked to Agosín’s family. ‘They created a home,’ Agosín said.

Lyons and Co. score NCAA appearance

UCF football Coach George O’Leary today announced his team’s first tournament match since 1996.

"I think we’re playing a team that is really a No. 1 seed," O’Leary said. "There are certain No. 2’s that I would, with their rankings and RPS, I think they have a lot to prove."

Coach O’Leary announced the NCAA selection show announcement, invoking the UCF men’s basketball team that had them playing in cities from Denver to St. Louis against opponents from Providence to Wake Forest. The Knights were not predicted by anyone to face Kentucky in the NCAA Tournament in 1996 when the Knights shocked the Trans-Atlantic Athletic Conference by beating Murray in the final round of the conference tournament. That was the Knights won a seed, and eventually lost to the University of Massachusetts in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

A lot of guys are sitting at home and wishing they could be still waiting to get news on who we were going to play. But now we got our game plan already."
MORGAN MOELLER

Through his serenely spoken, speech delivery, Cornell West most certainly carried us into a discussion about race and segregation. In an interview, West reflects on where he stands since Brown v. Board of Education.

The Student Union's Peace Action Commit- tee has organized an event to bring together students who have a common interest in social justice. West will join the group in a discussion about African American studies, as well as the wider context of issues that stem from recent events that have shaped our society.

West called the 50th anniversary of Brown v. Board a watershed moment, the moment that the Supreme Court acknowledged the incompatibility between segregation and the American Constitution. In his address, West emphasized the importance of understanding the historical context in which events occur.

West discussed the significance of the Brown v. Board decision, which was a turning point in the struggle for civil rights in the United States. He highlighted the importance of recognizing the achievements of the Civil Rights Movement and the need to continue the fight for equality.

West emphasized the importance of education and the role of students in creating a more just society. He encouraged the students to be active participants in the struggle for social justice.

The event is open to all, and the number of tickets available is limited. Please visit our website for more information.

The Spanish capital's morning routine was interrupted by the bombings that occurred three days before national elections on the Basque separatist group ETA, which has waged a bloody campaign for independence. A letter to an Arabic-language newspaper in London was signed by the group but provided no evidence.

King Juan Carlos and Queen Sophia visited hospital after the blast, which is linked to al-Qaida, and voiced "cowardly," "very regrettable murderers." in an address to the nation. Spain's interior minister said in statements that the government officials quick-d of the Madrid bomb blasts were killed and at least 1,500 injured when a series of terrorist bombs ripped through trains during the Spanish capital's morning rush hour Thursday.

Even though the UCF women's basketball team took first in the regular-season title, the Knights went into the Atlantic Sun tournament as the No. 4 seed.

The Knights defeated Mercer 79-68 in the first round behind five players scoring in double figures. Forward Tatia Allen and guard Celeste Hudson tallied 15 and 14 points respectively. Hudson scored all 14 of her points in the second half.

"Early in the first half I was struggling and trying to find my game," Hudson said. "At halftime coach told me to relax and not rush my shot. That's what I did. I built some confidence, and we were able to go on a run."

In the semifinals, UCF went on to defeat a pesky Southern squad who upset top-seeded Belmont in the first round. For the second straight day the Knights pulled away after a close first half for the 64-52 victory. "It wasn't a pretty win, but I hold the kids in a better room. In this time of the year a good win," Coach Carrie McGinnis said. "No offense, but we looked tired, and really showed a lot of determination."

Baseball keeps on winning

Bergman's bunch wins 5-4-6 in first two A-Sun series

FRANK KOSHEL

While most students were celebrating Spring break, the Knights baseball team was taking care of business, facing Lipscomb and Gardner-Webb, compiling an impressive 5-1 A-Sun record early in the season.

UCF took two out of three from the Lipscomb Bisons in Nashville with lots of extra baseball throughout the series.

"I don't think the players felt like they played as well as they are capable of playing," UCF Coach Jeff Bergman said of the Lipscomb series. "We didn't play too well offensively. I thought we pitched well all series."

The Knights (14-4, 5-1) opened with the 5-4 game, which was called after six innings due to rain. Matt Fox struck out six batters, giving up an unearned run in the third on an infield single by Lipscomb first baseman Kyle Jackson, giving Fox his fourth win of the season.

UCF went on to win the final game, 4-3, in eight innings with a Chandler Rose walk-off single in the 11th inning to score junior David Mann in the first career win. The bullpen giving two hits and striking out in top shape. None of the Knights' pitching was dominant, allowing only one run over six innings of relief.

"None of us pitched well the whole game," Bergman said. "You were outstanding. Kyle did a great job, we got some timely hits and played good defense, turned four double plays in the last game. Pitching and defense will win you games, pitching and defense and offense will win championships."

Again it was Hudson who truly stepped up for the Knights, scoring 29 of the 32 points in the game, and where she does that truly isn't anything you can do to stop her," said Challenger.

The two teams fought to the very nail of the game with Hudson committing 23 points in the game, resulting in a doubleheader win for the Knights.

"Fox All," said Challenger, "that there’s nothing you can do to stop her."
Lyons garners A-Sun tournament MVP honors

There was no way I was going to let my team lose that game,” Lyons said.

The Knights started the game on an 8-0 run behind a pair of threes from Avant and Lyons, while holding Troy State scoreless in the opening three minutes.

The Knights never trailed, but it wasn’t because of its defense. It was because of a coaching decision. Speraw knew he had to fire all his shots to escape with a win and he did.

Despite it, in the end, it came down to basics. Troy State missed four free throws in the last 23. UCF converted 7-of-8 in the final minute.

“So we’re going dancing and they’re going home to watch us,” Lyons said.

Lame elections no excuse for apathy

With the presidential primary season now coming to a close, the 2004 elections are now blazing into America's heartland. And yet, every four years, the hope in the hopeful message that the country will go to the polls and actually vote is once again dashed.

The president has made a point of saying that if you don't vote, you don't matter. But the president is wrong about one thing: You do matter. Many candidates wait until it's too late to get involved, but it's too late for much of the country to change and much of the vote is already lost.

We, the voters, have a responsibility to ourselves and to the country to make our voices heard. It's our duty to vote, to weigh the candidates and their platforms, and to choose the person who we believe will best represent our interests.

In this election season, the candidates have failed to connect with the average American voter. They have ignored the issues that matter most to us, and have instead focused on personal attacks and political maneuvering.

However, as a nation, we cannot afford to ignore the importance of this election. The stakes are too high, and the issues at play are too critical. We must all come together and vote, no matter how disillusioned we may feel.

The truth is, we can make a real and tangible difference in this election. By voting, we can send a clear message to the candidates and parties that we will not be taken for granted. We can ensure that our voices are heard, and that our values and priorities are taken into account.

In the end, the choice is ours. Will we let politics divide us, or will we come together as a nation to elect a leader who will work for our common good? The future of our country depends on our response.
Let's get positive, just a little please. It is a paradox that I am writing to request your paper to be a little more positive because this letter itself is a complaint.

I enjoy looking at the paper, but have recently found myself disappointed with the content. The paper is exactly what the media is slowly becoming, negative. It seems as if it would be the end of the world to report about something positive or give credit where credit is due.

After the March 1 edition, I can conclude that the paper thinks that George W. Bush is the worst president to take office, Mel Gibson's The Passion of the Christ is a ridiculous story and Mel Gibson is the most separated president from the student body in the country. These views are what is ruining America.

I support my school, therefore I support its newspaper.

As for law, consider the opinions of court versus anger towards the community. As for life, consider the terms associated with their disregard: misdemeanor, felony, offense, federal offense, first degree and premeditated. This list includes more words than we have for types of snow, and each one clearly affirms the acknowledgment of existence of severity.

The point is, the officer did not treat you like a murderer, and the officer did not treat you like a jeweler. Considering how many crimes we each commit a day traffic, media piracy, so on), you should be pleased that, in the one time you were caught, you were not prosecuted to the extent allowed in your situation. If you were caught, you were not prosecuted to the extent allowed in your situation.

I enjoy looking at the paper, but have recently found myself disappointed with the content. The paper is exactly what the media is slowly becoming, negative. It seems as if it would be the end of the world to report about something positive or give credit where credit is due.

After the March 1 edition, I can conclude that the paper thinks that George W. Bush is the worst president to take office, Mel Gibson's The Passion of the Christ is a ridiculous story and Mel Gibson is the most separated president from the student body in the country. These views are what is ruining America. It seems as if it would be the end of the world to actually give credit to something that you weren't adamant about.

We all have our personal beliefs, but the view that the future so horribly distributes on a weekly basis is beginning to become repetitive and old. I would love to see an "Our Stance" article that actually gives credit to someone in a leadership position or an event at our school or in our country.

I love having a school newspaper. I just wish it could overcome the stereotype of being so negative.
