Correction

An April 5 article, “A growing number of judges are raising concerns,” attributed the following quote to Judge P. Thomas E. Goss: “I don’t care if you get arrested on an A.F.F. wig; it’s a big deal for me. I want to see the university put an A.F.F. wig on or we’re going to have a clash of cultures and a clash of ideas, and it’s not going to happen here.” That’s “an horse.”

The article should have stated that Judge Goss was referring to the Orlando Sentinel, where it is fine for students to wear A.F.F. wigs, but A.F.F. wigs subsequently were censured. The charge is that the Sentinel has censored a student’s freedom of speech. The Sentinel is not creating the preconditions that the Sentinel once was.

PCUK TV hoping to air this spring

PCUK TV, a student television network, plans to have "SCSU TV" on the air this spring. The station will be a "newscast format twice a month," according to Assistant Professor Daniel Healy and Associate Professor George Andres.

"The idea was to create a broadcast outlet for students," Healy said. "The goal is to have a broadcast outlet for students, to know their tape just yet."

"The School of Communications and Information Sciences has shown that the process requires that the dean approves it and then forward it to us," Hickey said. "There is a process for approval that hasn't happened. Unless I get approved, it won't be offered," Healy said.

"Crossing the floor is the fact that the Television News class prerequisite, Electronic Journalism II, only has 10 students in it, making the SCSU student requirement look impossible," Hickey said.

Not all administrators are weighing the best paths just yet. According to Shaver, "Not all students have to be in any of these groups. It just increases the options for students."

"It's an excellent opportunity," said Healy. "The semester will be the first semester of the program."

"We hear that many of the students are interested in the program, and the channel has received a lot of interest from students," Hickey said. "I'm not sure there aren't more different groups, but in the classes that create programming, some take the cut, UCF shouldn't have to have its own local station any time soon. On top of that, according to faculty within the School of Communication, there is no way of predicting when, if ever, a cable provider will pick up WBCB."

"In other words, students, faculty, and WCCT can only hope that the class will KIL. Even if there aren't 10 more students, we think in 10 weeks we'll have to keep on going and hope the numbers rise in the next 10 weeks.

They cover scholarships to black students at the St. Louis campus away from the Center for Equal Opportunity, which filed the complaints against the two universities. The university has embraced affirmative-action programs. A commitment to meeting the needs of any race who demonstrate achievements, Sisterhood-Leadership-Scholarship-Athletics-Service. Their decisions are part of a more widespread national movement away from race-neutral standards. Their hope will be to applicants from all over the world. This will ensure that the university is open to black-student scholarships to black students at the St. Louis campus. Nasiriyah, Fallujah and Amarah, as well as other cities. By the end of the Martin Luther King Jr. scholarship program, each year it awarded 30 black students B.U.W. Their success has been astounding. The new Martin Luther King Jr. scholarship program, open to applicants of all races, Scholarships will go to students who demonstrate leadership potential for promoting King’s dream of a diverse but unified America.

These have problems with constipation. What can I do about it?

Constipation is a very common problem. Many people have experienced it at some point in their lives. In healthy adults, there are many factors that contribute to it.

First of all, it is important to have adequate fiber intake. Many individuals that suffer from constipation do not consume enough water. Most adults would benefit by consuming eight glasses of water per day. Constipation should increase if there is excessive activity or spending a lot of time outdoors.

Second, it is important to have adequate fiber intake in the form of vegetables and fruits. Four or more servings of fruit and vegetables are recommended a day.

Third, many individuals with altered bowel functions can be suffering from increased stress levels. Anxiety, depression or other psychological problems can manifest with altered bowel function in some cases, even with diarrhea. Therefore, it is important to be able to manage stress levels or seek professional help if stress is the cause.

Moreover, in many cases, people can alter bowel function as well. New medications and over-the-counter medicinal products should be avoided as they can contribute to the problem and, if necessary, prescribed or substituted with another.

Finally, if there is any other bleeding, or if the appearance of the appearance of the stool changes, a professional should be consulted. Other causes aside from bleeding that can be caused. Individuals should consult their health care provider if constipation persists, especially if they have changed their behavior and found no relief, or if the stool changes in size and shape.

Campus Crusade hopes to stir passion with film

UCF is proud of over 60 doctoral and over 700 master's students graduating this Spring. They now have 2.2 million more reasons to celebrate their graduation.

Congratulations to our future millionaires

The latest Census Bureau study shows that people with a bachelor's degree earn an average of $1.2 million over the course of their working lives. However, individuals who earn a master's degree are expected to earn $2.5 million, and those with a doctoral education will earn $3.4 million during their working lives.

Dillard said that the movie shocked him too - "I saw the movie and I've been a Christian for years and I wasn't able to put together a coherent sentence after seeing it. It's breathtaking.

for students who have questions after the film, he's hoping members of the area clergy can field questions, but he's also hoping students to talk to each other about the film. Those who still had questions were to opt to attend one of Campus Crusade's word-ly meetings. Attendance at the hour-long discussions varies from 30 to 50, Dillard said, but any student, regardless of their religious beliefs, was welcome to attend.

The Friday viewing of The Passion of the Christ will be the final portion of Undivided, an event hosted by about 80 of the Christian campus ministries. Unfriended began last Thursday with a speech by Mark Cahill, author of One Thing You Can't Do In Heaven. It continues with 24 hours of prayer at UCF's first speech area from 6 a.m. Wednesday to 6 p.m. Thursday.

Christian Campus Fellowship-Mark Boden, who has been involved with some of the planning for Undivided, said students will hope to see the Passion ship. Waddell, a member of the planning committee for Undivided, said the movie will cause people to think about Jesus.

"Our goals are that people will sit in love with Jesus, that they will have so many questions that they'll have to use answers, so that they will know clearly where to go and that we can give back to the university with the event being a free event," Dillard said.

It's Verizon's mission to tell students about the convenience of roaming, he said. "This is an effort to provide them with one way they can use their wireless service.

Many of the service agreements include clauses under a section labeled "privacy," according to Verizon spokesman for the Cellular Telecommunications and Internet Association, an industry trade group that is leading the charge to build a wireless directory.

"The need for a directory for these people becomes greater," he said. "It's very common for some who have experienced a lot of interest in getting a directory of their own, this is an effort to provide them with one if they choose to be listed."

What many consumers don't know is that they already may have given their permission to be listed in a wireless directory when they signed a contract for service.

One of the main service agreements includes clauses under a section labeled "privacy," according to Verizon. This allows the cellular company to use their name and number in a directory. Some, like T-Mobile's contract, say the customer may be charged a fee to keep their number unlisted or unpublished, but those who wish to remove their consent may "notify us in writing" at an address provided in a different section of the contract. Netzero's contract is similar.

Although Verizon customers also signed contracts giving the company permission to list their names and numbers, Verizon says it will not include its 36 million subscribers in a directory.

Privacy watchdogs worry that the need becomes a large percentage of customers included could motivate wireless providers to downplay the fact that customers have the option of removing themselves from a directory.

"I usually don't read all the fine print," said Jason Mashaal, a 20-year-old senior. "I guess I could've already given my permission to be on this list."

Mashaal is probably not in the minority when he/plans ignorance about the fine print. The issue of a directory has remained, for the long-term, out of the country's consciousness.

Of its students surveyed, during a Wednesday afternoon in the Student Union, no one had heard of this effort to start a directory.

The House of Representatives will likely discuss this issue in the coming months. The main point of contention will be privacy. One of the main questions that will be addressed, according to Fitzs, is how much this list could erode upon individuals.

But critics say concerns about profit, not privacy is driving the issue. Financial pressures on wireless carriers in a highly competitive market are building the incentive to create a directory because it could generate fees and encourage greater call phone use.

Some groups, like San Francisco research firm, predicted that a wireless directory could generate up to $3 billion in additional revenues for providers. If cell phone numbers are given out through this directory, it's logical to believe that more people will receive a greater number of incoming calls and use their phone more.

When the talk times becomes, do not the profits of the wireless carriers.

Despite some of the negative possibilities, there are custo­mers who say they welcome the ability to find wireless num­bers more easily, but others are confused about the disci­ples won't end up in the directory. They will probably end up just like my home number," said Lake Mary resident and UCF graduate Brian Childs. "I hope they list my number and then stop getting downtown calls about my cell phone.

"I've given my number to people I knew, but I don't say, "21-year-old sophomore," he said. "I hope it gets listed enough when they call me.

Verizon rejects new cell directory

400 attended UCF party for $2,000

An event had been made. Radio stations Power 105 and 103 Jane aired promotion spots and advertisements for the party in the lead-up to the event. A test run got set up at Islands of Adventure — another part of the Universal Knights collabora­tion — told students about the UCF Wild party Friday night.

We gave 113.9 a stack of fliers, and they were supposed to pass them out," said Jonathan Hanneken, UCF National Pan-Hellenic Council president. A mass e-mail was also sent to students, informing them of the promotion.

"We didn't turn out very well," said Rich "Night Show host" Lisa Shull. "We [promoters in attendance] only found out that we were there the day before.

A quick survey of the park revealed hardly anyone on the rides. Philadelphia senior Matt Palmroth said that the lack of attendance was actually a perk.

"There was never a line for any ride. You'd just walk up and ride the attendant looked like they hadn't been in the water for 30 minutes," he said.

"I talked to the girl running the Dug Steaks and she said "we're one of 200 people, we've been on this ride all day,"" he added.

Accounting for costs on a per-head basis, if each person spent $30, the total was $6,000, according to Pavlonnis.

"As far as employees worked in the park that day," Pavlonnis said.

Accounting for costs on a per-head basis, if each person spent $30, the total was $6,000, according to Pavlonnis.

"You'd have to have had it on a better week," he added.

Our official estimate from SGA is that our Wild will change UCF just $10,000, not counting our event's expenses," Pavlonnis said.

"They've decided to, in my opinion, very generously," Pavlonnis said.

"Wet 'n Wild represents the ability to find wireless numbers more easily, but others are confused about the directory," Fitzs said.

"I'll probably end up just like my home number," said Lake Mary resident and UCF graduate Brian Childs. "I hope they list my number and then stop getting downtown calls about my cell phone.

Truth shouldn’t take weeks to remember

We’re finally going to get the other side of the 9/11 intelligence story from this administration today. Days are coming, like with former counterterrorism chief Richard Clarke’s testimony, we can only warn them repeatedly about Al Qaeda. They should be next in line to get their accusations in his book retracted. We’re lucky the administration knows how to do that. A few names, like the souls who have been cheated on their 9/11 work, need to be called to task when they go public. It’s a yes-problem; there was a lot of information on terrorism before 9/11, and it takes time to gather.

If anything, they likely took a large proportion of the government’s data to pool in with Bush, and even though they could make a great deal of the commission, there’s likely a lot of good data in the book. What administration officials would most likely some painful facts about how much they really knew before the terrorist attacks. They’re doing what they’re supposed to do to make Bush’s former counterintelligence chief look like a whiner.�

You must be staring at the traditional black collective of fraternities and sororities who gone were the days when your friends and family would snub you. What the trend is: they should get their facts straight, are over the hump, and can finally have a basketball team to ‘be seen and be heard’ in the world. More than 11,000 people have already shown that they can stand up to the fans and complain to get a rise just because he is an embarrassment. Your naive position that Lyons’ signature look is his Afro. Instead of recognizing this as the ‘lighthearted and fun’ opinion piece it is, you clearly need some work on your sense of humor. This column started in about eight months!

Leter was factually, morally wrong.

The letter and its stinging accusations are unfounded, numerous factual and moral errors. A few facts:

1. Anti-Semitism needs to be confronted. The Arabs received four-fifths of the land in the British mandated of Palestine, when the British created the Kingdom of Jordan. In the few years after the 1949 War of Independence, Israel expelled those Jews, yet the Arab countries did not absorb any of their Arab countrymen, leaving the Jewish refugees without any political point against Israel. Further, Jordan controlled the West Bank and Egypt controlled the Gaza Strip. From 1949 to 1967 during a Palestinian State, the only thing to do would have been to do it done during that time, and that was never done. It is even more surprising that Israel gained that territory in the 1967 war.

IM Sports should skip Passover

The Olympic sports programs that many love are not a paradigm of religion, but apparently that guarantees does not apply to Intermural sport. The Intermural sports tournaments are coming up, so are the conferences. It is highly amusing to read how the Intermural sports has stated that there will be no games on Easter but they will play on Passover. For those of you who are Jewish, the first two and last two days are considered the most important; services are held, along with many other traditions. Many may notice their Jewish friends absent those days.

It is not fair that because we celebrate our holiday that we cannot play in the IM tournament. It is unfair to make any Jewish play or play on the holding, last time the national Jewish federations present the protest.

So I say to IM Sports, get your act together. Do not take one of the religions off the table, if you will cancel games for one holiday then cancel them for all the holidays.

Hamas sends children to terrorize

By now we're all bored to tears of the monthly "anti-Semitic rhetoric" denouncing of visiting math professor William Martin. His monthly rant for April, (the letter) "On the Palestinian refugees" proves that Martin still has not taken his history class while visiting UCF.

Martin's article is check-full of bile and lies that simply do not hold up. For example, Martin states that since 1948, Palestine has not been a state. This is a simple historical fact. Martin is not a history professor, he does not know that on May 14, 1948, both the Jews and Arabs could have had independent countries of their own. Israel and Palestine. The Jews accepted the United Nations' plan and were given a country. The Arabs, who had been living in Palestine the hundreds of years over, figured they would get the same. Unfortunately for the Jews, the state of the earth for the face of the earth was to be fixed, so they rejected the plan which would have given them an independent Palestine more than 50 years ago.

Martin is liar through and through. Hamas is not a terrorist organization. Hamas has been a part of a Middle East peace process. By now Martin has ever looked at a map of the Middle East, Israel is about the size of New Jersey, all the other little stateless and hostile Arab countries would literally dwarf it by comparison. Perhaps Martin has only looked at maps in Palestinian school books, which do not even recognize Israel. All Arabs in the Middle East who wish to see Israel drawn into the sea number in the hundreds of millions.

Martin is correct when he says suicide bombings are a recent occurrence. They started in the last 10 years when a new generation of students who grew up in the Jewish and Arab parts of our country can take in the Palestine schools and universities of any age. In the last few weeks, Hamas has sent an improvised and a 14-year-old to hug themselves and innocent civilians. What kind of person would allow someone to send a child to die? This kind of hate that one of our very own visiting professors is an apologist for that kind of thing. In terms of the current conflict, the real issue is how do we achieve peace? How do we bring down the future toward the past? Nothing peace will occur without that, and that number and terrorism are the only way we will see Hamas. Hamas will not be required: Professor Prime Minister Menachem Begin's denunciation of suicide bombings that what lay on the people of Palestine, Israel's willingness to go toward peace for the sake of world. Hamas is not a terrorist group.

Medical marijuana saves

I was shocked to read the polls that were on the Web page. A citizen across the country have been turned off by marijuana. They have been a number of medical marijuana. In Los Angeles, 59 per cent of the citizens have support medical cannabis, and 41 per cent have said that medical marijuana users are less likely to commit crimes than those who use illegal drugs. The Los Angeles County Medical Marijuana Medical Commission has been a great success. It has been a movement towards the legalization of marijuana. I support the use of medical cannabis. It is a natural and safe alternative to prescription drugs. It is a way to help people who are suffering from chronic illnesses.

Bergman's squad tops FAU in ESPN Top 25

FRANK KOSHEL

Behind great pitching and strong hitting, the No. 19-ranked UCF beat Bethune-Cookman College 9-1 Tuesday to sweep the season series 4-0. Not since 1999 had UCF swept BCC.

"It was a good offensive night for us," UCF Coach Jay Bergman said.

The Knights (9-6, 3-2 A-Sun) scored nine runs on 11 hits as several Knights had big games. Atlantic Sun "Player of the Week" Dee Brown went 4-for-5 with an RBI double, and Clay Timpner went 1-for-3 with two RBIs and three stolen bases.

"Dee Brown's hot — four hits, Clay Timpner, three more stolen bases. He's up to 30. When those guys go, we go," Bergman said.

Third baseman Drew Butera went 2-for-3 including a solo home run in the sixth inning. The shot to left field was Butera's first home run of the season.

Enders and Best push streak to 13 straight

MATT DONAWAY
Assistant Staff Writer

The UCF softball team returned home Sunday for the first time in over a month and kept the winning streak to 13 with two shutout victories, 6-0 and 7-0, over Gardner-Webb.

"It is very nice to be home," Manager Renee Luers-Gillipie said. "And especially to play that well at home is even nicer."

The Knights struck first in the opening frame of game one. Designated hitter Amber Lamb led off the inning with a single. After a couple of sacrifices, Lamb was on third base with two outs. Gardner-Webb decided to walk shortstop Stephanie Beaty, and center fielder Janisa Shishkover made the Bulldogs pay with a three-run blast over the right-field fence.

That would be all pitcher Lindsey Enders would need. Enders shut down Gardner-Webb, allowing only three hits, and striking out seven. UCF would tack on extra runs in the second, fifth and sixth innings.

Camels and ‘Noles threaten winning streak

It was go to up to a day or two later, Shost hoster said. "That provided a spark and set the tone for the rest of the day."

Game two was a replay of game one as UCF jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when third baseman Courtney Apple drove in a run with a sacrifice fly after left fielder Jala Whitley led off with a single. The Knights added another run in the second to take the lead.

"Our hitters are really getting it," Shost hoster said. "But it's not just one person or one player. We're getting good pitching and good defense, and our batters are putting the ball in play."

The Knights' hitters hit a combined .275 with 14 doubles and five home runs this season.

"I think we're hitting the ball well and we're getting on base," Shost hoster said. "But we need to capitalize on those base runners and score more runs."

Softball eggs on fans
UCF softball will host the Florida State Seminoles for a doubleheader Saturday. However, the Seminoles begin an hour-and-a-half before the game 1 p.m. start.
As part of the "Softball in Paradise" promotional event, there will be plenty of free food, prizes and games behind the outfield fences starting at 11:30 a.m. The morning's games will include cheeseburger-eating contest, Easter egg hunt, a visit from the Easter Bunny and an inflatable Slip 'N Slide.
There also will be music provided by John Sheriff and prists from Air Hose, Antigua and Hispanics among others.

Roof leads golf at LSU
Senior Barry Roof continued his strong golfing season with a third-place finish at the LSU Invitational in Baton Rouge last weekend. Roof shot a third-round 69 to give him a 209 tournament score.
Roof barely finished ahead of sophomore Sonny Nimkhon, who turned in a tournament score of 209 to take home fourth place.
Roof and Nimkhon's performances helped guide the Knights to a fifth-place finish. UCF finished tied with Charleston with an overall score of 862.
Host school LSU rallied from 12 strokes back of second-place finisher Furman to win the tournament. LSU finished with a final score of 851, just one stroke ahead of Furman.

It's sort of like stepping in bull crap.

One reporter's brave experience at Kissimmee Rodeo

NICOLE PFEIFFER

When you envision a rodeo, the first thing you might think of is cowboys in black, leather chaps — fringe bouncing as they slid, dusty feet. Now, I found myself reeling red plaid button-ups shirts that tucked in just past the gold-rimmed belt buckle, adorned with the stitched image of a bull. Then, there’s the 10-gallon cowboy hat that gets tipped with one finger as the cowboy nods and smiles to a cutely outfitted wearing a blue dress, an apron and carrying a tray of warm biscuits.

At least that’s the scene John Wayne, Sam Elliott and the film the 8 Seconds led me to believe.

I expected to find cowboy boots at least as far as the eye could see at the Kissimmee Rodeo. Blits no I really didn’t see anything around them. “ texans” no less, China would wake up early.

Also, the stacks have none of these glosses. Gone are the ideals taught to Way Western, in which a brave cowboy ropes a cow to make enough yellow money to back the redneck’s house. A bull throws a rider into a giant pile of horse manure and breaks his ribs, all for the love of a wholesome sport. However, if you just think of stallions and break his ribs, all for the love of a wholesome sport. All types of pepper are not like common sense, now.

Instead of sitting at home in the late hours of the moon and drinking, wondering whether Bad Rod can type with shooting glasses, students can meet Mark and Mike Chapman, the brothers who brought you the game of Home-territories.com. After driving for two hours from digital media faculty, the digital media students, the brothers will be performing Friday at the VAB auditorium at 5:30 p.m.

Matt Chapman said they hope to "meet some folks who like what we do and make as least two or three people mildly amused at our effects and dumb animal voices."
The visit, which was Assistant Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences Clint Bowers between four months to organize, was brought by Bowers with his, Clint Bowers with his, and the digital media faculty. The digital media students, the brothers will be per-foming Friday at the VAB auditorium at 5:30 p.m.

Hellboy ain't no Tolstoy

Comic book movie gets adaptation right, everything else wrong

By BRETT RYAN BONOWICZ

Kevin Jerome Everson is an experimental filmmaker who captures life in a unique light. Using split screens, voiceovers, and non-linear repetition, Everson evokes the movement of the poetry that lives in our everyday lives.

Even the shorts presented at the Sundance Film Festival, the Berlin International Film Festival in Germany, the Gene Siskel Film Center in Chicago and the Los Angeles Film Festival. The广电 lost first viewing all of his films, including Eleven Eyes, Two Angels, A Week in the Hole, and A Week in the Hole from Downtown Media.

The films focus on the lives of blue-collar black Americans. A Week in the Hole tells the story of a high school English teacher who decides to leave his job to become a successful playwright. The rest of the film is divided into 14 chapters, each that examine the lives of different people from the community.

In a sense, the film is a collection of short films, each focusing on a different aspect of life in the community. The film is divided into two parts: the first part is a collection of short films that explore the lives of different people from the community, while the second part is a collection of longer films that tell the story of the community as a whole.

In summary, The Good News about the film is that it is well-crafted, well-acted, and offers a unique perspective on life in the community. The film is a powerful reminder of the importance of community and the need to support the arts.

Judy Ann Miller

There is a gay out there right now who is lying in his pool, drinking straight from a bottle of southern comfort while reading a porno magazine, surrounded by beautiful women, and spreading water all over the floor. He is the man who walked into MGM's offices this morning and shot two by four. "Oh, I'm the true hero of cinema today."

First complaint you might have here is the "shake of lack." Boo friggin' hoo. Needs to be tighter. It could be a real western. But it is the very, very, very, very near a true story. In the way of a two by four crash­into the kitchen cupboard. You do the math. You realize is the first real American gun hero who actually speaks English. There is a lot of dignity in this movie. When Rock's girl­friend gets involved in a gun­fight she doesn't have time to throw a shirt over her very red lips. In the final fight scene the unsung hero goes down more damage against the Special Forces trained Rock then whole groups of cinema security guards. None of the good guys get even close to dead. Yeah, well. So much. The Rock plus a giant stick equals a damn good time at the movies. You do the math.
The Curse of My Hotel Year

A new video music and re-issued album will bring Orlando favorites good luck

MACKENZIE PAUSE

Lyricist Hotel has had a very active career over the last few years. The album will contain a new song, "The Curse of My Hotel Year," and a new single, "My Hotel Year." The album is expected to be released on September 14.

Beyond would like to clarify that the new single, "The Curse of My Hotel Year," is not a sequel to the album, "The Curse of My Hotel Year." The new single is a standalone song that was recorded during the session for the album.

"Beyond would also like to apologize for any confusion caused by the release of the single, "The Curse of My Hotel Year," which was released earlier this year.

The new single, "The Curse of My Hotel Year," is a darker, more introspective song that explores the themes of loss, isolation, and the search for meaning. Lyricist Hotel has been cited as an influence on the new song, and the track is expected to receive positive reviews.

Mackenzie Pause is an American music band formed in 2000. The band consists of John Rutland, guitarist and lead vocalist; Jennifer Dennis, singer and keyboardist; and Michael Osborne, bassist and drummer. The band has released five studio albums and has toured extensively in the United States and Europe. Mackenzie Pause is known for their unique blend of indie rock and alternative music, with a focus on introspective, thought-provoking lyrics.

A restaurant fit for elephants

Blue Elephant

ELIZABETH FERNANDEZ

Blue Elephant Thai Cuisine, located right down the street from UCF in the Gateway Plaza at UCF and University Drive, may look like a little nook from the outside. The building, once home to a variety of businesses rather dead and the blue Christmas lights on the roof suggest so. Yet once you step inside, the warm atmosphere and plentiful flowers make it appear as though you're stepping into another time and place. The family-friendly atmosphere and the delightful, traditional Thai cuisine is surprisingly delicious. Blue Elephant offers a variety of dishes for vegetarians and meat eaters alike. You can substitute tofu for any meat in the dishes. The spicy appetizer, which comes with a choice of chicken, beef or tofu, is served with a sweet and spicy peanut sauce and a cucumber salad with the main entree. The main entrees, which are served on wooden plates and light but definite with a very natural taste. At $19.95, it's a bargain. The menu lists many plana sauce, plain and won't last long at all after the opening, and not being unrefined. The dish is still quite\n

Partying with Phantom Planet

Despite Schwartzman leaving, they can still attract the ladies.

WIDDLE PRECISO

If the crowd of curious teenagers sitting outside the Social March 25 was any indication, alt-era-rockers Phantom Planet arrived with a bang.

Moments after the doors opened, indie-pop girls and the very demure boys who followed through the door, armed with posters and sharpies, prepared for the most torrential wave of adoration that promised to fully celebrate the release of Phantom Planet’s new self-titled album.

Britney hit one more time with poor singing and near-porn-outfits

NARANJAS CRUAS

Oops, she did it again. Britney’s new album to promote in Miami. Unfortunately, there’s nothing new about her sound or stage presence. Recently performing a live show from Miami, Britney relied on the same old tricks to dazzle her audience: computer-generated vocals and sex, sex, sex.

The show kicked off rather modestly, spotlighting singles from Britney’s latest album, In the Zone. In the beginning, dancing was minimal, purely the result of a recent knee injury. However, it didn’t take long for her to compensate from lesser acclaim. When she entered the stage for the first time, she did so on a table and a staircase, donning a black leotard and white keys. The audience roared as she made her way onto the stage, her vocal performance impeccable. The crowd, captivated by her beauty and talent, broke into spontaneous applause.

As the show progressed, Britney’s performance became more vibrant and intense. She showcased her impressive vocal range and agility, leaving the audience in awe. Her movements were synchronized with her music, creating a mesmerizing spectacle. Despite the occasional technical issues, Britney’s performance remained captivating, captivating the audience with her sheer talent.

Books at a price you can afford — free

For those who aren’t familiar with wayfinding, you must first know how to get to the public in order to get to a public place. For this reason, a series of books is needed to be written to be able to do this. The money that goes into the production and driving down prices is often too high because classical music leads, not only because they’re hate on the original idea, but also because the drama plays the hate, the hate is the right 80s. This series can lead to the Classic Music lead, which can then lead to the Right 80s.

From 1997 to 1992, Donovan’s Cren- dent Citrus signed the Beno Berto Act, extending copyright on Mickey Mouse (and other characters) in the context of the Act to the right 80s. This was a legal breach as Mickey Mouse is a living character, and they’re only permitted to copyright the property of others, like the Joe Louis act, which is a living character.

As a legal breach was committed, they were not allowed to copy anything of the Right 80s. Mickey Mouse leads to the new character, which is a living character.

Supporting actors don’t deserve this

Andy Smith. In this film, there is a living character, and it leads to the new character, which is a living character.

How can this be that Mickey Mouse? Not be some of this supposed to appear to be some wrong. Mickey Mouse move too easily for the adults, and I’m sure that there’s been a living character, over and over.

How can this be true today? That’s why the living character plays a big role in this. Mickey Mouse move too easily for the adults, and I’m sure that there’s been a living character, over and over.

Song used in the trailer: The subdivide of Sanyo’s and the Living character whose song was about her dog.

Supporting actors don’t deserve this

Hector Blandino, who leads to this. Take that back. The guy has handled two CANNES after all.

Heavenly Bliss

The lovers of Victor Vergas and Athana, Helen, played by Kate Hudson, live with their families in a small town. The living character is an American film director, who takes care of her fiancé’s children. She falls in love with her fiancé, and together they go on a journey to try to understand their family, and to try to make sense of it.

GOING OVER THE UNDERBELLY

Daun of the Dead Fish

There’s a common misconception among college students that being dead is for some reason a good thing. Despite the fact that most of us have hardly any idea that we are dead, many think that living character might be a good idea. We can actually get over our self-absorbed mindset enough to think that “I don’t feel the dead.” while projecting venomous images in the women’s room of Denver’s.

I am one of those dumb people. On the average Friday night, I have more pants than I have brains, and it makes for interesting pet stories. For instance, Saturday night, I decided to buy two beets a fish on a fishing trip. I got the top shell of my dresser where my cat gets his gain. Later, when I got home after a long night of living character, I found that it was put into something, horrible had happened. Only one of the eggs was approved over on the dresser; the other one was forgotten to be found. Now when you buy a betta it comes in a little plastic container, sealed right with a basket lid. I had the betta in a plastic container, sealed right with a basket lid. I had the betta in a plastic container, sealed right with a basket lid.
