McGraw, Calif. — A rocket plane named above Earth’s atmosphere Monday by the privately-financed manned spaceflight, then glided back to Earth for an unpiloted landing.

The ship touched down at Mojave Air and Space Port, about 90 minutes after it was launched by the jet-powered rocket at 62,500 feet, according to radar data.

"We can see the curvature of the Earth," said Richard Branson, the British billionaire who bankrolled the project.

A致力于推出几个重要概念的Acacia Green Party activist Peter Camejo ran for president as the Green Party’s presidential nominee.

Camejo, who was the Green Party’s vice-presidential candidate in 2000, is not seeking the party’s nomination but has put an endorsement from the party. Camejo also has been endorsed by the Left Alliance, which gives him access to the balloting in at least seven states, including Florida.

Camejo garnered nearly 3 percent of the vote in 2000, when he was viewed as a potential third-party candidate as having cost Democrat Al Gore the White House by taking in the decisive state of Florida.

Camejo received more than 200,000 votes as the Green Party candidate for California governor during the 2003 recall election that led to the election of Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Camejo ran for president as the Republican National Professor Party nominee in 1996.

Speraw inks another b-ball transfer

The hot sun, mosquitoes and ice-cold tea greet UCF's athletes as they play in summer leagues

UCF guard will be ready for inaugural C-USA season

BRANDON HELWIG / UCF Athletics

The UCF basketball program will add another Division I transfer to its roster this fall.

Former UNC-Wilmington guard Devon Speraw, a true freshman this past season from Beaufort, South Carolina, says he plans to enroll at UCF in August.

Speraw actually has been in UCF's fold for a while, originally committing to the Knights a couple months ago.

"Devon is transferring to UCF," Noel said. "It's closer to home, the program is coming up and I like the coaches.

"Noel said his family likes the fact he'll be much closer to home. They're happy, my mom and dad are happy, too.

Devon was an undersized part-time starter at UNC-Wilmington, following the season.

"It's just better to be closer to home," Noel said. "He's also much taller now and he's a transfer from UNC-Wilmington, so he's a better decision. Now I realize I made a mistake.

Last season Speraw, who is 6-foot-2 and 190 pounds, played 35 games for the Seahawks while averaging 3.7 points, 1.5 rebounds and 1.2 minutes per game. He started three games for UNC-Wilmington, which finished 15-15.

Noel likely will be a combo guard at UCF. He'll have to sit out the upcoming season, but will be eligible beginning in UCF's first season in Conference USA in 2005-06, when he'll be a redshirt junior.

"When I was over there, in North Carolina they had four guards playing point guard most of the time, and when I asked them they told me I could play both," he said. "I can play shooting guard and the shielding guard, but I think they're going to have me at the shooting guard position a little more often.

UCF has another point guard option in junior Jordon O'Neal, who is also transferring to UCF from Charleston Southern. O'Neal is also transferring to UCF from Charleston Southern.

"I'll be playing against Jordon O'Neal, who was born in Monroe, Louisiana," Noel said. "He's probably going to be a better basketball player at UCF. But I think O'Neal is also transferring to UCF from Charleston Southern.

"He's going to be a great addition to the team," Noel said. "I'm going to need more then one person in Gainesville who actually likes him.

"I don't want to jump the gun. Maybe I'll shine on the spotlight on Lindsay Lohan, or maybe an older woman," Noel said. "What is he doing these days?"

McIntosh gears up for final A-Sun run

Prior to Saturday night’s win, New Orleans was in third place in the Atlantic Sun Conference standings, just two games behind second-place Atlantic Sun. Ryan Bono is carrying a .300 batting average into the final month of the season, helping the Knights prepare for the NCAA Regionals and the A-Sun tournament.

While the soccer athletes are preparing for their final season of collegiate soccer, the baseball team is still alive in the A-Sun. Vasquez, left, and Ryan McIntosh are two of seven players leaving the program at the end of the year. McIntosh has one save in Back to Back appearances with a perfect 0.00 ERA.

While still a Knight, Bono has a 47-win season and a trip to the College World Series under his belt. He has one save in Back to Back appearances with a perfect 0.00 ERA.

While still a Knight, Barba has the opportunity to sign with the Boston Red Sox later this year. The Sun took Bozo in the eighth round of this year’s MLB draft with the 306th pick. While Bozo has claimed that he will not sign with the Red Sox if they offer him a serious off-season contract, the strong summer with Chatham could raise his value enough to influence the Sun to do just that. The A-Sun most recently knocked off Cape Cod celler-blockers Bambi 6-5. Bono earned his first save against the A-Sun Knights.

Back in Central Florida, five Knights are spending their summer days playing in the Florida Collegiate Summer League. Catcher Barry Baxter and Matt Propst are playing in the Cape Cod Baseball League, while fellow Knights Tim Krait and Ryan Bono are playing in the Cape Cod Baseball League.

Eric Propst, left, and Ryan McIntosh are two of seven players leaving the program at the end of the year.

Fighting for a good cause

The New Orleans sports teams battled through tough opponents and even tougher weather this past weekend as the Knights hosted a series of events to raise money for former player Todd Miller, who was paralyzed during a match.
