Ivan not a threat
Storm veers away from Central Florida

CHRISTINE DELIOT

Still recovering from the wind and rain of Hurricane Frances, Orlando residents should be happy to learn that Hurricane Ivan is also expected to veer away from Central Florida.

Unlike Frances, Ivan is expected to remain at sea, moving out to the east-southeast after crossing Florida's panhandle on Wednesday. The storm is expected to weaken as it moves away from the coast.

We had 123 dues-paying members," Moore said. "Only about 40 (came out) Saturday. Most of our freshmen were also in the Rowdy Knights, so that kind of hurt our numbers.

That did not stop the Rowdy Knights from performing their best and besting West Virginia every moment until game time — except for the times they cheered on the Knights. Chants were altered to fit the occasion, like "The Hey Song" being changed to "Da-da-da-da-dada, Hey, you made West Virginia go, you, you, you!" "For football we all in section 118 in the front few rows, and during the game we make it a habit to stand the whole game," Moore said, giving credit to some shirts reading "Hey, sit down," and "If you can't see, STAND UP."

"We try to be as loud as possible when UCF is on defense," Moore said. "Our other tradition is that we always do push-ups on the freshmen behind the cheerleaders when UCF scores."

As the game started, the Rowdy Knights were noticeably the loudest and most enthusiastic fans in attendance, as they screamed, "We want to make love to you, O'Leary!"

They also involved freshmen in the game, in the athletic marketing department on the field behind the Rowdy Knights.

As rowdy as they were, nothing got out of hand, unlike other incidents around the stadium. Three separate beads broke out in the stands before halftime.

The Rowdy Knights were the first to come and last to leave. "To join the Rowdy Knights or view pictures of the fun at Saturday's game, their Web site is http://www.pwesa.uco.edu/.

Meeting with players and T-shirts cause frenzy

Others were not so happy. The main activity for the participants was going onto the field and greeting players. All of the freshmen were given white T-shirts, but were never told to hang on to them. When the time came, those who did not have their shirts were not allowed to participate in the on-field event.

I don’t think the money was worth it really because of how they would have us hang on to the field unless we had the Rowdy Knights shirt, especially when they didn’t mention when we needed the shirt to get on the field," said Christopher Brokemore, a 19-year-old biology major.

"I felt like I wasted my money, actually, because of how untidy it was. They could have had at least told us the fact that 30 bucks were over the stress ruined the whole experience. I could have done everything I had for free. They should have given us a warning prior to the game, especially when they said we could leave our stuff on the boxes," he said.

Keping some freshmen off the field was not the only issue to the plaintiff. Some found the experience very un cohesion. No water was distributed and the tailgate consisted of the freshmen sitting in the Tinker Field stands waiting for pizza, unable to participate in the pre-game activities on the field.

We could really have gone anywhere if they would have told us we were just going to sit in one spot," Brokemore said.

"I also think water should have been provided along with the pitas and soda since it was so hot out, and there was no water for the game," he added.

Another problem was the hurricane threat. Some freshmen were obligated to leave for the hurricane, none of whom were able to get a refund. Instead they were told they could sit on the freshman shirt later.

"I was so upset I didn’t get a refund at all," Bruckart said. "That was one thing they did tell us through the e-mails."

He added: "I had a lot of fun and I know they meant well. Hopefully it can be better next year."

GWU RUN TOO MUCH FOR KNIGHTS

Alex Haynes posts career rushing numbers, despite UCF's sixth-straight loss

ASHLEY BURNS
Sports Editor

For the second consecutive week, UCF football fell victim to a high-powered rushing attack, this week coming in the form of West Virginia.

The Knights suffered a 45-20 defeat at the hands of No. 11 West Virginia Saturday. Despite giving up more than 280 yards on the ground, the Knights again took another huge step in the team's rebuilding process.

"We played a very good West Virginia team, but I think we improved in many areas," UCF Coach George O'Leary said. "They are a good football team and they are better than us. We've got to improve in other areas as well, but the kids played to win the whole game. We had a few sloppy mistakes that you can't have any of those and expect to host a top-10 team like West Virginia."

Senior tailback Alex Mcintosh rushed for 107 yards on 34 carries against the Mountaineers, with WVVU's top cornerback Jason Colson, who rushed for 528 yards Haynes moved into second place on UCF's all-time rushing list. "He is a really good running back," O'Leary said of Haynes. "But I am more pleased about the way the offensive line played. If they block like that, he will have good days."

The Mountaineers were equally as dominating in the air against UCF’s WPTR (Willard-Paisley). Marshall was nearly perfect, completing 21 of 22 passes for 329 yards. Marshall threw three touchdown passes and ran another in.

While WVU dominated the passing game, UCF was merely trying to work the ball out of its own zone. Last week sophomore quarterback Steven Moffett threw for 277 yards against Wisconsin, but didn’t have a chance to impress upon us that he was better for UCF’s home opener. Brandon Sumner started for the Knights and showed considerable amounts of rust right away.

"We had some combination this week in practice and I think that is something we used as a team," O'Leary said. "What I did was open it up all the positions and said, 'the guy who practices best will play.' No one has looked better or worked harder. I was happy with some of the things Brandon did during the course of the game. Since we’ll allow an opportunity to our job on this week's work." Sumner finished the day with only nine completions out of 21 passes for just 66 yards. The senior did complete the first UCF touchdown pass of the season, a 24-yarder to senior wideout Tavaris Capers. Brass Freshman Jr. Israel took the ball in the fourth quarter, completing all four of his passes for 45 yards.

The Knights head to University Park, Pa., for the first time in coach George O'Leary's career and the Penn State Military Lions.

If it’s true that a team is only as strong as its senior class, then UConn field hockey looks better than ever. The Huskies’ success this season cannot be measured by statistics alone. All 16 of the seniors on the team are crucial in the back line, the crucial component to a successful season for the Huskies.

In a game filled with missed opportunities for the Knights, the UCF football team fell 31-3 to double overtime Friday night, when Marshall capitalized on one of its rare chances.

Israel's big shot

Endorsements abate, I've got my new QC

I don't care if the entire Mountaineers' defense played with one arm tied behind their backs. Right Israel looked good.

I've watched Esmeu, I've watched Tony and Brian. But this was different. This was better. This was the best. I'm not saying that he's better than them. That's just to be seen.

I'm saying that UCF has the makings of becoming a quarterback superstar and he's the first big product waiting to be released.

The guy that might as well have thrown up billboards for td's every time because his hands were so high for him. I'm not giving up on this one, but he has to show the something.

In the meantime, UCF needs to ride Israel and find out what this kid is all about. Saturday it appeared that he's all about heart.

I'm no doctor, but the Knights need a huge shot in the arm of heart. There was no heart on that ball for most of the first and second quarters. There were plenty of good efforts, but it took the Mountaineers' touchdowns in the second quarter before they looked like they had any life in their team.

But after that catch, I really think something happened. I think the deep two deeps inside, every UCF player on that field flipped their heart switches.

I think that one play made everyone take back every stupid penalty. They realize, we can do this. Heart is a pretty special thing.

With Heart Tony can beat Mississippi and Marshall. With heart UCF can beat Hawaii. With a true freshman can be thrown to the wolves and live to tell about it.

I like what is happening with this program, I like the direction that it's heading. I think if the Knights put a heart back on the field and get their backs into the games, then maybe we can find a way to take the MAC.

I know that I probably, the biggest UCF fan in the world, but if you look at our roster it's pretty thin that we have no one in the back closer than a Memorial's foot that we have skilled athletes with good size and worlds of potential. And it's pretty obvious that we have heart.

Let's hope for our team to go away it all out there. Stop worrying about some stupid penalty. Stop worrying about giving up a few yards to some flashy-in-the-ren manager back. Stop worrying about me and a bunch of media monkeys writing a few bad words.

Losing sucks, that's for certain. I swear if my current fires-of-the-weekend is anything more than UConn field hockey is one more time, I'm going to rip my eardrums out.

But losing stops when we put our backs into it. Despite UCF's 31-22, 32,224 fans showed heart we haven't seen in more than a year. Even the five fans in section 89 behind the ever-living life of one another showed some heart.

Now we can just get our gains on the field to show that energy and fame, we'll be back on track. We're still the fourth-best football program in this state. I refuse to believe that FDU and its fossil of a coach are going to pass us and I guarantee that USF is slowly falling off the map.

I think UCF football can turn it on right now. I think I can see that spark and I think he can do it against Penn State.

Just Paterson hasn't recruited a good game since Brittany Spersci was wearing the wildly white rain.

That's in Tony's big shot. So it'll be just another good effort.

MAC woes continue to pile up

Marshall gives Ohio State some heat in loss

It was another forgettable weekend for the MAC with only one team winning both games.

Over the weekend the MAC posted its only win with all four losses coming in the SEC.

Ohio State didn't win any games.

Marshall's offense was on fire against the Bears.

OSU quarterback Zach Wilson had another solid performance throwing for 320 yards and three scores while backing up his lead receiver and catching three pass attempts, a game-high 10 times for 32 and two scoring ones.

Running backs Ahmad Bradshaw and Earl Charles contributed in offensive ways. The Knights finished a season less than 100 years old.
Redhawks continue to slide with huge loss to Cincinnati Bearcats Saturday

At the time of print, the Bearcats are 4-0, while the Redhawks fell to 1-2 on the year.

In front of the HomeCrowd, the Golden Knights o\'verwhelmed the Bearcats to put them up 32-13 at the half.

Quarterback Josh Bettis fell short of a statistical day in the second stage game, passing for 416 yards and four touchdowns. Despite giving up 493 total yards of offense, Miami remained 6-0 on the year.

The Golden Knights out-shot the Flock also scored her second goal of the season, completing 26 of 44 passes for six touchdowns. Despite giving up 490 total yards of offense, Miami remained 6-0 on the year.

The tournament crown went to the Redhawks as they won 2-0 in overtime. The Knights were able to even the score in the 28th minute, but were out-shot in the final 10 minutes.

Both teams seemed a bit tentative coming out of the gate, but the game settled into a tactical struggle.

The Golden Knights had possession of the ball for much of the game, as they were the only team to break the midfield.

GAME 2 ▶ UCF: 20 • WVU: 45

LEADERS: Passing: Brandon Scott (9-19, 106 yards, 1 TD); Receiver Leon Hortt (2, 0, 2 yards, 1 TD); Running: Brandon Marshall (9 carries, 46 yards)

UCF DEFENSE PLAYER OF THE GAME

ALEX HAYNES

70’s veteran linebacker who led all UCF defenders with 14 tackles, including five for loss of 15 yards. A key stop on the 1-yard line in the third quarter, he forced a fumble and ended WVU’s drive.

WVU OFFENSE PLAYER OF THE GAME

TRAVONTI JOHNSON

Johnson recorded a team-leading seven tackles, of all them solo, and he forced a fumble on a kickoff return. Johnson is one of the nation’s top players in all aspects, and the secondary credited him for his consistent blocking in the backfield.

WEST VIRGINIA OFFENSE PLAYER OF THE GAME

RASHEED MARSHALL

Marshall followed up a 92-yard game against Cincinnati with 137 rushing yards on 23 carries and three touchdowns. Although the Knights suffered four turnovers, there were a few bright spots that Coach George O’Leary could take away from his team’s effort.

WEST VIRGINIA DEFENSE PLAYER OF THE GAME

ADAM LEONHORST

Leonhort made all the big plays for the Knights, including several tackles, but at times his tackling was inconsistent. He had just one interception, but his coverage against WVU’s receivers was solid. The Mountaineers did not score a touchdown against him.

SUMMING UP THE GAME

After grabbing a touchdown by Wisconsin, UCF stepped up even further in a challenge against WVU in this week’s game. The Mountaineers moved the ball on both of their first two possessions, but the offense struggled to score. They scored four touchdowns on this drive, capped by a 70-yard pass to Brandon Cherry. Although the drive ended when Israel was sacked on a fourth-and-goal play, WVU led 11-0.

WVU took over on downs and scored two more touchdowns on this drive. After gaining only 10 yards on three plays, WVU was faced with a first-and-goal at the UCF 1. WVU running back Myles was stopped for a yard short, and the Mountaineers turned the ball over on downs despite an 11-play, 80-yard drive.

UCF scored again on a 37-yard touchdown pass to Marcell Richardson, who had three catches for 56 yards. WVU’s defense was again on the field, but the Mountaineers pushed the ball to midfield on this drive. With the game still at 28-17, UCF scored on a 45-yard field goal to take the lead.

Florida's public access laws guarantee every student at UCF the right to access all public records — documents, letters (including e-mail and reservations), memos, reports, photos, films, audio tapes, oral or written material — made or received in connection with an official that the university has adopted and maintained.

Because the UCF Board of Trustees is a state-created entity charged with public policy for the university, students can ask for the budget and recorded minutes for the meeting.

Because the Board of Trustees students’ funds, organizations and student services that oversee student activities, any student can ask for the recorded tapes of any meeting.

Because politicians are paid partly out of the government’s pocket, students are allowed to see the salaries and educations and job histories of these politicians. Because UCP police are part of the government, students can ask the right to police reports.

This is not all. All politicians are excluded from the public record law. The UCF administration can delete anything should include the time, date, location, all and the crime, name, sex, age and address of both the victim and the person arrested among in cases such as sexual assault and child abuse.

Students should know their rights when it comes to finding and using public information. The student giving the information should identify, give them the name of the administration they can ask. It is often a file of right papers and make copies of them.

It is possible to ask for a record or fax of copy of a document may be needed. To release a record, the official must identify on the record was exempt from public record law. The request must be responded to in a timely manner — 30 days.

Students are not secondary citizens, they have a right to know what's on their record. To get their record, students must request a file of right papers and learning the laws.

Florida’s statutes pertaining to public records and learning the laws are more preferable than the students or the government. For adults to become conscientious, knowledgeable citizens. For instance, on NBC’s “Today Show,” Shannon should included arrest should include the time, date, location, all and the crime, name, sex, age and address of both the victim and the person arrested among in cases such as sexual assault and child abuse.

Students should know their rights when it comes to finding and using public information. The student giving the information should identify, give them the name of the administration they can ask.

For example, if a student has been trained to look at protesters as caricatures, the student will be more likely to do so. The student might not be able to see the protesters’ limbs or their face. They might not be able to see the protesters’ face or their limbs.

These students might be that just — alike. There is a possibility that these ad could succeed and hurt the protesters. This is because it is more likely that these students will not be able to see the protesters’ limbs or their face.

The UCF community, all these multifaceted lives of UCF, UCF’s VP for Student Affairs, Shannon Snead, UCB's Publisher.

...more things of this sort, are not the vast majority of students at UCF. The students who vote will choose to do something different.

What is necessary is the belief in imminent, success, because that is not an anxiety.

What is necessary is the knowledge that, years from now, whether or not the occupation has ended, whether or not the student occurs to yourself that you did what you could, even if you were wondering if you may have broken the law. It is more that than obvious than you might have difficulty. It is more than obvious than you might have difficulty.

It is more than obvious than you might have difficulty. It is more than obvious than you might have difficulty.

It is more than obvious than you might have difficulty. It is more than obvious than you might have difficulty.
