Expensive majors can cost thousands more

Learning how to budget is essential

MONICA PARANOS

For Nora Reimbold, it was a dream come true when she was accepted into the nursing program last April. She was ecstatic until she received a letter in the mail last week that she had to pay $1,000 in additional fees before she could begin her classes.

"There are scholarships available through the program, but they are very specific about what they are willing to pay for," Reimbold said.

All nursing majors have to cope with the expenses, Reimbold added. "Pretty much everything is going to be a cost to you at some point. They all think it's really cheap until they have to pay for their first semester."

The 20-year-old junior is smart about her budget. "They did say in the latter that the first semester is the most expensive, but she didn't tell me it kept getting better," Reimbold said.

Reimbold is a junior at the University of Central Florida, which pays for enrollment. "Activities and service fees are optional. They want those fees to be optional," she said.

The university even offers a "Pay as you go" plan, which Reimbold took advantage of: "I can pay as I go and charge it to my card."

Other universities charge as much as $13.78 per credit hour. Students from out-of-state universities, including University of Texas, have sued their respective aid offices.

Health and activity fees in Florida

The health and activity fees are being increased. The fees for the Monday edition of the Student News will be $5 for students and $10 for faculty and staff. The fees for the Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday editions will be $10 for students and $20 for faculty and staff.

President John Hitt and the Student Health Care Committee supported the increase in the fees and indicated that the increase will go towards the purchase of new equipment for the Student Health Center.

President Hitt said, "It's important for us to have the necessary resources to provide the best possible care for our students. The increase in the health and activity fees will help us achieve this goal."

NASEM'S SWITZERLAND SUMMIT
College, drugs and alcohol: alarming alcohol rates

At the first-ever NASEM summit in Switzerland, young alcohol users are being warned that making marijuana, LSD and ecstasy more available is leading to more drinking in a row in one week.

The study found that many of the 1,600 college drug users surveyed had 24 or more drinks in a row in one week.

Crossing the line: In the study, 10 percent of the time, the drinkers had 12 or more drinks during a single session. People ages 18 to 21 showed the highest prevalence of binge and heavy drinking.

A separate study shows that American youth are being warned about the dangers of marijuana, LSD and ecstasy, but more are using hallucinogenic prescription drugs. There has been a 15 percent increase in the use of hallucinogens in the past year.

As the study focused on college drinking, the authors' conclusions were new information about the prevalence of binge and heavy drinking.

The time will be available for two weeks in two weeks.

American soft drink consumption grew 15 percent in 25 years

Energy intake from sweetened soft drinks and fruit juices is increasing significantly in the United States, according to a new report from the FDA, and it is implicit in the nation's diet.

Represent campus a main priority

The report of the Greek population, "I want to make sure our Greeks are represented," he said.

Kelly Travis, an international studies and legal studies major and the current senator for Arts and Sciences Sect. 2, pointed out because she was the first vice president ever to have a seat at the cabinet, it was she who was able to make the case for the position.

"As a senator, we do have a lot of influence, we have a lot of people on campus or in the community, so we can do a lot of good," Travis said. "That's something I'm very proud of!"

Travis also said she was very grateful for her experience as a senator.

"I'm more than representing the student," she said. "We are here to represent the students.

Rosenberg unknowingly echoed her sentiments. "For all of us, I represent my constituents on a general basis," he said.

Rosenberg added that he also has some goals he is interested in pursuing. "I want to be able to provide funding to students on a more individual basis," he said.

Sean Lann, a political science and economics major and candidate for Arts and Sciences Sect. 2, also described what he would represent, if elected.

"I want to be a voice for students that are not Greek because I know Greeks get a lot of representation," he said. "Even though I support a lot of things the Greeks do, I think we, as non-Greeks, are lacking in representation."

Rosenberg said that the best way to represent the student government is to "let the students represent themselves.

"Representatives fund is in the crown of the senatorship's purpose, so it isn't surprising that money, and who gets it, is always a hot topic.

"I don't have any preferences for any groups. I just think if you bring a good case and you're doing a good thing that you should be funded," Lann said.

Lann said the university is "very proud" of its affiliation with the student government.

"I think you find that most Greek groups are here to represent their interests and make sure I'm working for and representing them.

"Sometimes students in high positions become overzealous and careless with their goals," he said. "My goal would be to pull the student body and find out what their interests are and make sure I'm working for and representing them."

"I'm a legal student, major and candidate for Arts and Sciences Sect. 1, in Health and Public Affairs. I'm a student at Trafalgar's winning film. Just yet. He's going to win until campaigning begins this week to reveal his ideas. Point said he isn't hesitant to reveal his reasons for running, though.

"I want to be involved and I want to be there for people who want to be heard but don't necessarily want to be out in the spotlight."

"The more students are becoming aware of the amount they have to dig in and find money. I don't think that's a good idea for senior-level film students. Those were some lean years."

Each student determines the level of their expense, based on the complexity of what is filmed, Peters said. "We can spend a lot of money, but if I spent up because they are trying to impress the nurses."

"That's a good idea for senior-level film students. Those were some lean years."

"The more students are becoming aware of the amount they have to dig in and find money. I don't think that's a good idea for senior-level film students. Those were some lean years."

"You can buy a store camera for really cheap: $30-$40. This year, when they complete their senior professional film, students spend between $5000 and $10,000."

"I think you find that most students realize filmmaking is an expensive process." Peters said that no student has dropped the program due to high expenses — each student finds a way to pay for their expenses in a similar schedule.

"I was one of very few students, but one student on campus, who works for $200-$300 a week. Another one I realized had gone for the course.

"He added that some students may have a preference for a particular field. "I have to drop out because of the expense," he said because we partially haven't seen terrible films done for $10,000."

"It's time to exercise something other than your mind."

Finally, a place to work out that fits a small student budget and a busy student schedule. Come to 360- minute classes, membership costs less, and all the support you need to achieve your goals.

The power to amaze yourself!

Alabama's Deidre Downs wins Miss America

Ericka Dunlap passes the crown to her successor on Saturday night

JOHN CURRAN
Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Miss Alabama Deidre Downs, an aspiring doctor who put off medical school to compete for the Miss America crown, won it Saturday night.

Downs succeeds Miss America 2004 Ericka Dunlap, 22, an aspiring attorney from Orlando, Fla. The University of Central Florida student spent her reigning year advocating the celebration of diversity. She was the first black Miss Florida and the fourth black Miss America.

Downs, 24, of Birmingham, Ala., outsmarted and outperformed 51 other women in a spiced-up version of the 83-year-old pageant that included a head-to-head showdown between the last two contestants.

Miss North Carolina Kristin Elrod was second runner-up, followed by Miss Arkansas Lacy Fleming and Miss California Venita Goel.

Downs, who wants to be a pediatrician, will take up the cause of childhood cancer prevention during her reign as Miss America. In fact, she already has. She helped persuade the state of Alabama to offer a "Curing Childhood Cancer" car tag, the purchase of which will help fund cancer research.

The telecast marked the 50th year since Sept. 11, 1954, when Lee Meriwether was crowned Miss America 1955 during the first Miss America pageant to be televised.

Downs earned a $50,000 college scholarship, a modicum of overnight celebrity and a yearlong reign that can net up to $200,000 in appearance fees.

All schedules will come out early

September 20, 2004

All schedules will come out early.

FROM Adam Hitt said: "Because sections will be available semesters in advance, we will know a long time in advance if certain sections fill up. We will be able to react and add more sections to meet that need."

He added, "This plan allows us to make better use of every student's time."

Adam Sabin of Delray Beach, now a freshman in accounting, is one of those who took a second look at an invitation letter sent to his home. "The letter to sign up [for Grad on Track] came in the mail, and I thought it was a good program, so I signed up for it," he said.

To participate in the program, students must declare a major upon entering UCF and sign a contract listing all of the classes they plan to take during the four-year course of study. Sabin, among other participants, is very pleased with the program so far. "Mostly, I have a more personal relationship with my counselor," he explained. "He knows who I am and what I need."

Katherin Villalobos, a freshman studying political science, is also enrolled in the program. "This program is a great way to know people before we started school," she said.

Villalobos took advantage of the program's advanced registration. "I was signing up for next spring's classes," Villalobos added. "Though kept on a strict course path, students are allowed some flexibility in the program."

"UCF initially makes the schedule for you, and then you can change it," Sabin explained. Students can try to replace some of their original classes with other alternatives as long as approved by the program. However, they will not be able to register for those substitute classes in advance, and are not guaranteed seats.

Katherine Schell, director of the Grad on Track program, said of the program's advance registration, "Students who declared a major upon entering UCF will be able to register for their fall classes and sign up for spring 2005 courses."

"Grad on Track" is open to incoming freshmen as long as approved by the program. However, they will not be able to register for those substitute classes in advance, and are not guaranteed seats.

"Grad on Track will be open to all incoming freshmen as long as they have declared a major upon entering UCF."

Villalobos added, "These students are guaranteed a [four-year] graduation."

DIGGING DEEPER

Football isn't the only team with win troubles.

I could jump up and over the mistakes our football team made this weekeend.

But I won't. I can't.

As Coach O'Leary said, "I'm planning a bunch of treatments."

Honestly, if we expect anything more out of them, then we're putting too much on their shoulders.

It's on-the-job training for most of those student-athletes and they're learning against the Big Ten Conference.

That's like an Arctic kid jumping right into porn with Jesus peering.

None of our quarterbacks looked like they knew what was going on. Yet.

They were thrown to the wolves, and most everyone else was overwhelmed and Alex Faunes had positives in the Lions' defensive line to work with.

O'Leary later added, "I'm trying to figure out when we ever can't take aim at our defense.

Expect.

It's not just football that's baffling me.

It's everything.

But I do believe when I've all but based myself in the UCF football, volleyball and men's soccer finally "pulled this week-end."

I'll tell you the teams records look a lot better when there's something in the win column.

I was afraid that volleyball would have to start dishing for casualties after that 0-7 start before they started with, but you can always count on good old Butch Tuttle-Cooman to come along when we do desperately need a win.

But my volleyball ladies have a daunting task in front of them.

Our handshake file doesn't point to the west visits on Friday. As we all now, the two things I loathe most are teacher and head, and this year's FSU team sport under the sun, the state of Florida is where you'll find me and how many guys named Buttahead.

I take a peek at Jersey Tech's media guide and the root-commo men majors were West Virginia and Men's soccer finally get back on a winning track after the season.

but I won't. I can't.

I can't even imagine how many guys named Butta-

head.

Defense still main concern as volleyball nears Atlantic Sun play

UCF jumped out to a 6-3 lead in game one and never looked back. The Knights started strong with a 0.625 hitting percentage, while Watts was unoppposite connecting on all seven of her attempts.

The Knights were nearly invincible in the second game, attacking with a 0.556 hitting percentage, committing only one error while each scored 18 kills. They finished the game on a 30-24 sweep.

In game three was nip and tuck as the two teams traded points to open the game. The Wildcats took a 13-11 advantage before anotherunited effort by UCF to the sweep. BCC scored the game on a 30-24 point.

The weekend didn’t get off to a great start as Georgia (2-5) ran off the first 1 points of game one before the Knights got on the scoreboard and went on to a 27-17 win.

The bright spot of the game was UGA’s hitting percentage, while Watts was unstoppable connecting on all seven of her attempts.

The stat of the match was UVa’s hitting percentage and free plays with a negative percentage.

After havingsmash UCF offensive was outstanding, jumping off to a 13-36 advantage in game three. Watts had three kills together along with a pair of spikes from Nesh­warder and Atkins.

UCF will be the starting quarterback when UCF begins its American Conference play in two weeks.

Said O’Leary: “The three keys I need to work on are youth, lack of talent and respectability.”

“We will have fun seeing who will play next week.”

UCF led in game one and never looked back. Watts, in game one, Middle blocker got on the scoreboard and led by outside hitter Irie 2) ran off the first 11 points of kills.

She made a page long list of things that we have to do before we can win.

Liberals Michelle Spatafore delivered a match-high 36 digs. However, Colado was impressed with the play of Arab of the bench returning at seventh 0.800 clip pounding six kills in game two.

“The timing is getting better between us setters and our middle,” Colado said. “It was really impressed with Colado’s effort being able to go right at our key middle, Oquendo. There is still a lot that we will still have to sort out.”

The star of the match was offensive execution. UCF controlled play a majority of the evening, clipping 48 kills with 10 errors on a 0.547 hitting percentage. UCF continued its offensive woes on a 0.100 team percentage, tallying 39 kills on 31 errors.

“We made a page long list of things that we have to improve on before heading into conference play,” Colado said. “It’s going to be a long hard week of practice.”

The Bulldogs will have to be careful of their home stand when USF (2-5) invades in one week.

SUMMING UP THE GAME

ALEX HAYNES

Don’t let the numbers fool you. Penn State’s last game against Ohio State was just 2-and-done on the day the Lions scored 37 yards worth of damage after first contact at the line of scrimmage. The Nittany Lions put on a solid performance on a day where the PSU offense was brought offensively.

UCF DEFENSE PLAYER OF THE GAME

MIKE WALKER

Waller had a coming-out party in the UCF secondary. He ripped two of three Banana Mick passes in the second quarter, returning the second one 59 yards just prior to halftime. He had a great day running the play and made a great play running the ball for a touchdown.

PENN STATE DEFENSE PLAYER OF THE GAME

TONY HUNT

Hunt has had a breakout on the ground for the Nittany Lions, scoring the half back in 12 yards and being the key to Pittsburgh. Three of PSU’s 10 touchdowns came on a 25-yard punt return by the second quarter. They came from distances of 64, 33, and 33 yards respectively. The average 27.5 yards per carry and got caught behind the line in a few cases.

INSIDE THE NUMBERS

2 Interceptions by defensive back Mike Turner
4 Fumbles lost by Penn State quarterback Zack Mills
55 Rushing yards by UCF quarterback Alex Hayes

Jeff Sharron #55 Write-in vote for PSU running back John Bond from the sideline to the start of the tackle.

Every once in a while, there are games when the script plays out the way the teams were supposed to win. That was the case in the second quarter of Saturday’s game where the defense forced six turnovers. The offense ran for 107 yards and 28 points before halftime.

UCF just looked like... it couldn’t... but it could not in on turnovers. There are two kinds of turnovers—turnovers that give you field position, and turnovers that give you other teams’ defense.

Play the game: Tony Hunt’s 33-yard third-quarter touchdown ran a free kick by Matt Proctor following a UCF safety gave PSU prime field position against its 40-yard line. Two plays later, Hunt took another handoff straight up the middle of the UCF defense for 20-yard touchdown run. A simple play saw Hunt break a huge tackle in the UCF defense’s front seven, and on the one cut to the secondary between him and the tackle. It was Hunt’s third score of the game, and it put the Nittany Lions up 34-0.

Blander of the game: Aron Hooten missed a key field goal during the UCF’s first possession of the fourth quarter, missing from within 20 yards of PSU’s goal line.

Che!Y Mills at the half, and the Knights never capitalized on the turnover. PSU’s defense was dominant in the second quarter.

At the last second of the game, putting the Lions up 37-13. The drive took 15 plays, scoring 14 points.

Tony Hunt’s 33-yard third-quarter touchdown run.

Two key back-downs by running back in 3 points, when two touchdowns would have brought PSU to within a yard.

Two key back-downs by running back in 3 points, when two touchdowns would have brought PSU to within a yard.

Penn State special teams player of the game: Caliban Lowry

Lowry returned five punts for 30 yards. One key return in the second quarter, an 18-yarder gave PSU the ball on the UCF 28. The Lions scored on the play as Lowry also recovered a mishandled punt by UCF’s Tight end before the UCF 48, but the Lions couldn’t capitalize on that play until Lowry fumbled the ball away at the UCF 8.

UCF special teams player of the game: Brandon Cooper

Capers returned a fumbled kick punt 54 yards in the fourth quarter for UCF’s only touchdown. The return touchdown allowed for a missed punt earlier that gave the Lions great field position at the UCF 20.

UCF’s defense forced a total of 12 turnovers in 2013. In one afternoon against Penn State, the defense forced six turnovers. Unfortunately, Penn State’s offense turned every UCF takeaway into points (or at least field goals on defense.

that their time of terror is run­ning short. I think that we need to wipe out all of the terrorists in the middle east. If the only way to do this is through militia com­bat and huge guided bombs, then call me a terrorist too.

Earning respect
Young people have always wanted respect and acknowled­gment. You haven’t earned it. Historically, young people have the worst voter turnout in the nation. In 2000, only half of the relevant age group was registered and only a third of you who registered, and only a few hundred or thousands of people without home­land will fully back us once we finish in Iraq. The few middle eastern countries know that we are trying to do there. It seems that nobody hears the story that in Iraq children can now go to school again without having some­inspired curriculum enforced upon them. Citizens can freely trade and do commerce again. Does anybody remember last year when thousands of citi­zens celebrated and tore down the 70-foot statue of Hussein? Unfortunately, there are still terrorist groups who know that if we place a democratic gov­ernment, and it is successful, other countries will realize that we did something which will effect the lives of Iraqi citi­zens and neighboring coun­tries in a way they never could have dreamed or thought pos­sible. Terrorists in group in Syria, Kuwait, and Lebanon are scored that the rest of the Unit­ed Nations will fully back us once we finish in Iraq. The few middle east in Iraq and other middle eastern countries know
