Expensive majors can cost thousands more

Learning how to budget is essential

MONICA PANAKOS

When Nora Reimbold got into the nursing program last April, she was ecstatic— that is, until she received a letter in mid-July. That letter listed the materials she was required to purchase for the fall semester. A stethoscope, a $250 nurse pack, blood pressure cuff, uniforms.

A month later she learned she would also have to shell out $225 for nursing testing fees. Overall, Reimbold said she spent nearly $3,00 to supplies. Overwhelmed, when she came time to pay for everything, she turned to her parents for help from the school— other than a suggestion to get a credit card.

“I thought there was a way to get a grant,” she said. “I didn’t think it was possible because that was the first semester that I felt like it wasn’t going to be the most expensive, but it’s still be a lot better.”

Sismanek, 21, who visited similar woes when she was accepted into the graphic design program, said she had told her folks that she had to buy an Apple laptop. The $2,000 computer did not fit into her budget, so she met with an advisor who suggested that she apply for a grant.

The Student Government Association, many on-campus events and organizations, and student health services, including the Recreation and Wellness Center.

6 percent is for the health fee, paying for the health center.

8 percent goes to the Activity and Service fee, which pays for the Student Government Association and Student Union among other things.

64.5 percent goes to the admissions fee, which pays for enrollment.

3.5 percent goes to the transportation fee, paying for the shuttle.

2 percent goes to building fees, which maintain buildings on campus.

3 percent is for the financial aid office.

2.5 percent goes for capital improvement, or new buildings on campus.

10.5 percent is for the athletic fee, paying for all sports but men’s and women’s basketball.

The board of Trustees determines the amount based on a formula.

The fees are the third highest in the state for health fee and service fee.

At UCF, these fees fund the Student Government Association, many on-campus events and organizations and student health services, including the Recreation and Wellness Center.

Not all students in Florida have to pay these fees or any of Florida’s private universities—which do not fall under the state’s jurisdiction—allow students to opt out of the activity and service fee, while others don’t charge the fee at all.

Students from out-of-state universities, including the University of Texas, have used their state universities for requiring them to pay activity and service fee. They want these fees to be optional. So far, their efforts have been unsuccessful.

“Turning away all of Florida’s private universities—which do not fall under the state’s jurisdiction—allow students to opt out of the fee,” said Sean Rhiannon, the student body president.

All students should be able to opt out of the fee.”

Reimbold said she was told by the Student Government Association and Student Union among other things.

UCF is trying to break its U-CartFinish myth by offering incoming freshmen a program guaranteeing graduation in four years.

The pilot program, Grad on Track, is offered to all freshman students as an optional, voluntary four-year plan tailored by the field of study.

Students who opt into the program and begin on a four-year plan will have more options and financial assistance.

Sismanek encourages students who are not participating in the plan to look into other options.

Running for senate a race before it begins

Candidates time declaring intention

KATE HOWELL

Anticipation and tightly controlled chaos set the scene in the Student Government Association’s office Friday as Senate candidates scrambled to turn in forms before the 5 p.m. deadline.

“I was really nervous the last couple of months to declare candidacy,” said David Rosenberg, senate president pro tempore and candidate for Seat 1 in the college of Health and Public Affairs. “It’s a matter of timing.”

SGA intended its deadline to declare candidacy from Wednesday to Friday to give students who were away from campus a chance to get their paperwork in on time and get a jump on their candidates.

Regardless of their intention, it seems many students took advantage of the extension.

FEES ARE ESSENTIAL FOR RUNNING THE SCHOOL

A 13-year-old girl was arrested at Armstrong Papago Airport on July 17, according to a report released by state authorities. She was charged with a felony for fraudulent use of a credit card.

"The defendant, a 13-year-old female, admitted to the use of a credit card that did not belong to her," said the report. "She also said that she had a credit card and a debit card and that she had used both on various occasions."

The case came to light after the school received a complaint about fraudulent purchases being made on behalf of the student. The school immediately contacted law enforcement, who began an investigation.

The defendant was later arrested and charged with the offense. She is scheduled to appear in court on August 23rd for her initial appearance.

"We are taking this matter very seriously," said school principal, "and we will continue to work with law enforcement to ensure the safety and security of all students and staff."

Partisan watchdogs show their mettle in swing states

NEW YORK — With the nation's eyes focused on the presidential races, partisan watchdog groups are stepping up their efforts to monitor the campaigns in key states. These groups, which include the National Association of Whistleblowers and the Center for Responsive Politics, are working to ensure that the elections are conducted fairly and transparently.

In states like Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Florida, where the outcome of the election is uncertain, these groups are monitoring campaign finance, voter registration, and other aspects of the election process. They are also keeping an eye on potential voter fraud and other issues that could affect the outcome.

"We are not going to let the system break down," said a spokesperson for the Center for Responsive Politics. "We are going to ensure that every vote counts and that the election is conducted fairly and transparently."

Alabama’s Deidre Downs wins Miss America

Ericka Dunlap passes the crown to her successor on Saturday night

JOHN CURRAN
Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Miss Alabama Deidre Downs, an aspiring doctor who put off medical school to compete for the Miss America crown, won it Saturday night.

Downs succeeds Miss America 2004 Ericka Dunlap, 22, an aspiring attorney from Orlando, Fla. The University of Central Florida student spent her reigning year advocating the celebration of diversity. She was the first black Miss Florida and the fourth black Miss America.

Downs, 24, of Birmingham, Ala., outsmarted and outperformed 51 other women in a spiced-up version of the 83-year-old pageant that included a head-to-head showdown between the last two contestants.

Miss North Carolina Kristin Elrod was second runner-up, followed by Miss Arkansas Lacy Fleming and Miss California Venus Goet.

Downs, who wants to be a pediatrics, will take up the cause of childhood cancer prevention during her reign as Miss America. In fact, she already has. She helped persuade the state of Alabama to offer a "Curing Childhood Cancer" car tag, the purchase of which will help fund cancer research.

The telecast marked the 50th year since Sept. 11, 1954, when Lee Meriwether was crowned Miss America 1955 during the first Miss America pageant to be televised.

Downs earned a $50,000 college scholarship, a modicum of overnight celebrity and a yearlong reign that can net up to $200,000 in appearance fees.

PENN STATE 37, UCF 13

SAWED!

Despite forcing six turnovers, Lions roar to huge victory

Volleyball finally grabs first season win

ASLEY BURNS

There's good news and bad news for UCF football. The good news is the Knights' first three games, arguably the toughest start in the program's history, are over. The bad news is that UCF is now 0-3.

The Knights head into a much-needed bye week after being handed a seventh consecutive loss, this time by Penn State (2-1) Saturday at Beaver Stadium. The Nittany Lions defeated UCF-PSU in front of a crowd of 107,127 at Beaver Stadium Saturday. It was the second time in three years that PSU shocked UCF in June Colling. The Knights and Lions last played in 2002, but that game was a 27-24 overtime win for the Lions.

"Obviously I think we played some decent ball," UCF Coach George O'Leary said. "But we haven't had the force to make some plays. We didn't put the ball in the red zone while we were in the red zone, and we had plenty of opportunities."

"We were sloppy but we played hard," PSU Coach Joe Paterno said. "There was a lot more looseness and sometimes when you do that, you get a little careless."

The Knights did very little to improve upon the already shaky offense, especially when you consider that this was supposed to be their season to run rampant through the Atlantic Coast Conference. Our big against Wildcats, the offense hit a sea-

Through the first seven matches of this year, the team dominance has been overwhelming. The Knights have been able to dominate in both sets and losses. They have featured Ashley Sumner, the team's leading scorer, with a career-high seven goals. She did a fantastic job out of the field, and as the Knights' top offensive player, she is expected to continue this dominance against the Big Ten Conference.

Without any further ado, let's delve into the details of the match.

The Knights will play against a tough opponent this weekend, the upcoming game is against the University of Pennsylvania, prediction from the experts is that the Knights will win. Ashley Burn's prediction is that the Knights will win the match. This is a crucial match for the Knights, as they aim to cement their dominance in the conference and move closer to their overall goal of winning the tournament.

The Knights lost to Mar-

"With the victory over the Wildcats, the defense, dropping replacement Betnine Cookman (20-30, 30-23) the next evening to pick up the most important win of this season," O'Leary said. "I was glad that we were able to get that first win under our belt." UCF volleyball Coach Steve Hurt said of the match. "This is a big win for the program. The Knights are off to a 2-1 start in the conference and have a chance to go 3-1 this week with a win against the University of Pennsylvania.

The Knights did not make it easy for themselves in the first set, as they were forced to fight hard to maintain a slim lead. However, they were able to pull ahead in the second and third sets, eventually winning the match in four sets.

The Knights will be looking to continue their dominance against the Big Ten Conference, as they aim to cement their place among the top teams in the conference. With a win against the University of Pennsylvania, they will be well on their way to achieving this goal.
Defense still main concern as volleyball nears Atlantic Sun play

UCF jumped out to a 6-3 lead in game one and never looked back. The Knights started strong with a .600 hitting percentage, while Watts was unopposed connecting on all seven of her attempts. The Knights were nearly impossible to the second game, attacking with a .516 percentage, committing only one error while each side had nine kills. They finished the game on a 25-19 spurt. Watts was the hero that night, registereing four kills and four blocks as the two teams traded points to open the game. The Knights never looked back. The weekend didn’t get off to a great start as Georgia (2-2) ran off the first four points of the game before the Knights got on the scoreboard and ticked off a 3-0 victory.

UCF did not look good in the second game, attacking with a .172 percentage, committing eight errors while each side had 10 kills. They finished the game on a 25-19 spurt. Watts was the hero that night, registereing four kills and four blocks as the two teams traded points to open the game. The Knights never looked back.

In the women's league, the Spuds appeared to be an early favorite after they rolled through Wesley by a score of 29-0. UBM also looks strong in the women's league, as they ran out the Original Gagans 28-6.

A full slate of action is scheduled for this week at all leagues, including Intramural and Co-rec action, both at the Intramural Fields. Mon., Oct. 14, is the last day to sign up.

With the three toughest games of the season behind, the Knights head into conference play.

"We have to put them in better position to make plays," O'Leary said. "Penn State made plays when they had to make plays. It's the difference between the two teams."

UCF has won the last two meetings against Penn State, including a 30-28 win last year. but the Knights have struggled in the past, losing 27 of their last 33 games.

"It's going to be a long and hard week of practice," O'Leary said. "We have a game long list of things that we have to improve on before heading into conference play." Colado said. "It was really impressive with Oquendo's effort being able to go right at their middle, middle (Oquendo). There is still a lot that we still have to sort out."

For the third straight game the Knights kept the momentum going, opening the game with a 6-0 lead. UCF charged to the marginal to 3-9, but Watts put five straight points on the scoreboard and UCF won the match in game two.

The stat of the game was offensive execution. UCF controlled play a majority of the game, tossing 44 team-kills with only 10 errors on a .425 hitting percentage. UCF continued its offensive woes on a .317 team percentage, talling 22 kills on 61 errors.

"We made a page long list of things that we have to improve on before heading into conference play," Colado said. "It was really impressive with Watts's effort being able to go right at their middle, middle (Watts). There is still a lot that we still have to sort out."

The only concern remaining. . .

With the three toughest games of the season behind, the Knights head into conference play. The Knights have won the last two meetings against Penn State, including a 30-28 win last year. but the Knights have struggled in the past, losing 27 of their last 33 games.

"It's going to be a long and hard week of practice," O'Leary said. "We have a game long list of things that we have to improve on before heading into conference play." Colado said. "It was really impressive with Oquendo's effort being able to go right at their middle, middle (Oquendo). There is still a lot that we still have to sort out."

"I'm impressed with Watts's effort being able to go right at their middle, middle (Watts). There is still a lot that we still have to sort out."

"We have to put them in better position to make plays," O'Leary said. "Penn State made plays when they had to make plays. It's the difference between the two teams."

UCF did not look good in the second game, attacking with a .172 percentage, committing eight errors while each side had 10 kills. They finished the game on a 25-19 spurt. Watts was the hero that night, registereing four kills and four blocks as the two teams traded points to open the game. The Knights never looked back.

In the women's league, the Spuds appeared to be an early favorite after they rolled through Wesley by a score of 29-0. UBM also looks strong in the women's league, as they ran out the Original Gagans 28-6.

A full slate of action is scheduled for this week at all leagues, including Intramural and Co-rec action, both at the Intramural Fields. Mon., Oct. 14, is the last day to sign up.

SUMMING UP THE GAME

Genuinely exciting Penn State receivers Jahan Dotson and Hunters were both on hand for a 5-yard reception to cap off UCF's 37-point day. The Lions scored on their final play of the game, giving them a 37-13 win over the Knights.

Tony Report

Tony Hunt had a fumble & a great field goal, giving him 4 points. His fumble was the second turnover of the game, and the field goal was the third.

UCF Defense

The UCF defense was highlighted by 3 interceptions and 4 turnovers.

In the Numbers

2 Interceptions by defensive back Mike Turen
4 Fumbles lost by Penn State quarterback Jack Miller Sacking yards by UCF defensive back Alex Haynes

New addition to the SGA because this year is the first time Ohio State has decided to vote on gay marriage. Last year, a potential referendum on the spring ballot was defeated at the student initiative level. The movement has been created — whether by the individuals who started it or by various groups on campus, such as the Pride Center, the LGBTQ Student Union and the Greek Council. The alignment of forces that created the movement has resulted in another group that could have resulted in being successful at some point.

This year, however, students are free to ally with others. The first highly publicized gay political party daughters module move one step right or left but instead claims to vote for the protection of the campus through SGA. This is the best way to begin the process in the student body. This year, however, could be the start of something disastrous. Now that one political party has been declared and others will be added, other groups will be beguiled to jump on the bandwagon. The organization and ideas of a party can be a very dangerous temptation of a downward slope.

At this stage of the game, this student body, the SGA is a free independent campus newspaper serving the University of Central Florida. "I think it's a good opportunity to get more exposure to college media."
No terrorist support

Anthony Lewis needs to educate himself more before he starts saying strong statements like President George W. Bush is a terrorist. I think that we need to wipe out all of the terrorist groups who know that if we place a democratic government, and it is successful, other countries will realize that we did something which will effect the lives of Iraqi citizens and neighboring countries in a way they never could have dreamed or thought possible.

Terrorist groups in Syria, Kuwait, and Lebanon are scared that the rest of the United Nations will fully back us once we finish in Iraq. The few missiles left in Iraq and other middle eastern countries know that their time of terror is running short.

I think that we need to wipe out all of the swords in the middle east. If the only way to do this is through militia combat and laser guided bombs, then call me a terrorist too.

Earning respect

Young people have always wanted respect and acknowledgment. You haven’t earned it.

Historically, young people have the worst voter turnout in the nation. In 2000, only half of the voting age population voted, and only a third of you who registered, and only 11 percent of potential voters, yet you seem satisfied accepting only 4.5 percent of the voting class.

You do have a say in this. All you need to do is register, vote, and get your friends and family to vote.
