Campus activism heating up

Originating in the 1960s, student protests have had a long and varied history at the University of Central Florida. The first major protest at UCF occurred in 1968, when students demonstrated against the Vietnam War and the university's policies regarding the Vietnam War. Since then, student protests have continued to be a part of UCF's history, with students using them to promote a variety of causes, including social justice, climate change, and student rights.

Debating America's dominance

Power and security come into focus

Former politicians, professors, and political consultants are now battling for the attention of America's leaders. The debate over America's role in the world is at the heart of this contentious election.

SGA Senate candidates off and running ... almost

Petitions earn candidates face time

SGA Senate elections, originally scheduled to take place this week, have been bumped to a three-day period starting next Monday — a casualty of Hurricane Irene. The unexpected extension gives candidates an extra two days to file their applications thanks to disruptions caused by Hurricane Irene, extra time to campaign. Students can cast their votes Monday through Oct. 5 via the MyUCF portal, available at https://votecenter.ucf.edu or at the SGA tent that will be set up in front of Student Union.
Businessman: ‘Not all Muslims are terrorists’

Another major issue discussed was the extent to which the terrorist acts are specific to Muslims. Sadi explained that the root of the problem lies in the failure of the government to take the necessary measures to prevent terrorism. ‘It is not enough to have a policy; we need to implement it and we need to monitor the results,’ he said. ‘Otherwise, terrorism will continue to flourish.’

Sadi, who is an expert in counter-terrorism strategies, believes that the United States and other Western countries need to adopt a comprehensive approach to counter-terrorism. ‘We need to address the root causes of terrorism, not just the symptoms,’ he said. ‘We need to build stronger democracies, support human rights, and promote economic development.’

Sadi also emphasized the importance of education in preventing terrorism. ‘We need to educate people about the dangers of terrorism and the importance of peaceful coexistence,’ he said. ‘We need to build a culture of peace, not a culture of fear.’

THE UCF HONOR SOCIETY OF
PHI KAPPA PHI

What does Phi Kappa Phi represent?

- Prestige. Phi Kappa Phi is the nation's oldest, largest and most selective all-discipline honor society.
- High Standards. Only the top 10% of seniors and 5% of juniors, having completed at least 72 semester hours, are eligible for membership. Graduate students in the upper 10% also qualify, as do faculty, professional staff, and alumni who have achieved scholarly distinction.
- Awards. Phi Kappa Phi awards more than $500,000 annually to outstanding members and chapters. No other honor society awards as much.

There are many reasons to join Phi Kappa Phi. The best, however, is this: You've worked hard. You've earned it.

U.S. Supreme Court gets final briefs in desegregation appeal PANAMA CITY, Idaho - The U.S. Supreme Court is expected to issue its final action next month whether to hear an appeal from a group of 12 formerly running-school communities.

The Supreme Court has the case up for review but has not set a date for it to be considered by justices in conference.

The case originated in 1978 when Lillie Ayers sued the state, accusing Minnesapia of neglecting its black universes for decades. Plaintiffs successfully demanded more educational funds be put into the historically black institutions and ended the system.

In 1997, the U.S. Supreme Court agreed and ordered remedies.

The U.S. District Court ordered a proposed $430 million settlement - the total in the case in February 2000; a decision after the Mississippi legislature pledged to fulfill its requirements.

Now, plaintiffs are calling for more access to college among financial aid and more freedom for black高等院校 to develop their own programs separate from the board of trustees.

Good day to be committed to diversity

LEGON, Ghana - As the University of Ghana opened its academic year Monday, Matthew E. Wells, 25, and James A. Savage, 22, were among the first students to register for an English course at the university.

The brothers were arrested warning the president's powers to Trap a suspected top al-Qaida op erative wanted for his alleged planned. An alligator was trapped and removed from the area around foreign consulates and government offices in this state's capital.

Today, the primates will help

300 people died from cirro-

sis of the liver and other diseases linked to alcoholism. The vast majority of these people were men.

Scientists are currently working on a medical breakthrough that shows promise in treating those resistant to available treatments.

In addition, scientists have succeeded in creating tissues that can be transplanted later, including those resistant to the bacterial cells.

Drivers wanted:
"Tent City" to oppose war

Shannon explained that although Moore’s appearance is the same as his last, he can’t say if Moore will be recognizing his efforts. Moore, whose celebrated film "Fahrenheit 9/11" made him the subject of much debate, began a 20-state, 60-city screening tour Sunday to encourage young voters in typically swing states to head to the polls on Nov. 2. Dubbed "The Sleeper Uprising Tour," Moore describes it as a "coast-to-coast effort to bring the non-voting majority out of hibernation and kick some political butt," according to his Web site, http://www.michaelmoore.com.

"It’s going to be a polarizing tour," Shannon said. "UCF has a large body of thinking, active-minded college students. In both sides, he added. "I don’t expect large amounts of ignorance to occur."

Senate hopefuls focus on constituent relations

Campus Peace Action member Emily Jeffreys, a member of the Tent City project, plans campus means to increase the student body's health awareness. Moore is expected to represent a high number of students: students over 25, small students who have jobs during the day, he said. "Issues that affect them may not affect the rest of the student body but I’d like to bring some of those issues to the student government."

He lists the lack of day-care, the long waiting list for daytime daycare and the poor use of off-campus locations as issues he will address if elected. Next, Shakir, candidate for Health and Public Affairs Seat 4 and a double major in legal studies and political science, wants to tackle higher health care costs. "UCF is in the top three colleges in the state for health care costs," he said.

He also plans to represent professionals on campus. "Personally I’d like to put emphasis on professional organizations because they give as much to UCF."

"Yet, not all candidates are targeting specific groups or stating individual causes. Sophia Blair, a political science and international comparative studies sophomore, said, "I don’t want to hold an event just because a few people aren’t going to agree with it."

Missed days require a longer semester

In the face of unprecedented weather-strengthened hurricanes through Central Florida since the beginning of the school year, UCF has proved adept at altering students' class cancellations and keeping faculty, staff, students and their families safe.

While much of Orange County lost electricity, UCF powered on - even when the power was out.

Participants in the planning process acted like untrained monkeys at a circus, traffic lights, UCF replicas - and down the streets and nearby servers.

Airing and patient staff has quickly cleaned up and replaced the combination of the orphans that any landlocked school would have to expect during a single hurricane season. Teachers on the grounds more times than any landlocked school should have.

Students have legitimate questions about the safety of their schools, their immediate buildings and their other responsibilities may have missed many more.

The beginning of the semester is devastating. At the beginning of a college career, as in the case of UCF's 10,000 new freshmen, it should not be.

The syllabus in virtually every class has had to be either shortened or compacted - the former detrimental, depending on the subject, and the latter detrimental depending on the order in which the class was first written in the course for every student by the current syllabus deadlines.

As long as voice, leader and leader of the enemy doesn't extend the school year, so students won't have had education they paid for. It's his responsibility to ensure that students have options for learning what they paid for.

But even teachers will have to ask themselves if students will be able to make up assignments. What other classes that have had labs canceled may find it difficult to complete practical assignments.

Administrators and teachers alike need a guide for the future of the semester.

If extra days need to be added to the academic calendar, those students who have already paid for class credits need to be given the equivalent of official for the curriculum for every class by the current syllabus deadlines.

As a politically conscious person young in whom is truly concerned with the Bush administration's education policy and John Kerry's stance on the war, I'm displeased by the lack of attention I feel politicians give our age group and the lack of interest that young people have in affecting their political opinions.

However, recently there's been an explosion of nonprofit organizations devoted to reaching young voters that gives me something to get excited about.

Many critics of young adults don't have health care insurance (the highest percentual of any age group), and the current administration has allowed a total of 1.2 million to die during the current office. These statistics are simply unacceptable.

If the youth are supposed to be the hope of the future of our nation, then why is our leader not ensuring that we are able to see a society with affordable health care, security and quality employment?

I understand that everyone has his or her own opinion about who should be the next president, but as young people we should all demand that our voices are heard.

As a college student, we need to elect a leader who will see that we can get a job, after graduation, and make sure our votes are counted. Get involved in the Young Voter Alliance or other youth political organizations, instead of fretting whether you're not tall enough to vote.

of the matter is that the economy in Europe is actually working better than ours. According to the annual European Commission report, European job growth is down.

And by suggesting we return to society in the form intended by the letter of the constitution, you also are implying we should rely, voting rights from anyone who happens to be poor, black, Hispanic, gay or lesbian.

Finally, don't kid yourself. We are not wishing the war on terror. Osama Bin Laden had hoped for a lot of things on Sept. 11, but never among them was a vicious American retaliation against the Muslim world. I sincerely offer my heartfelt condolence to the families of the Beslan victims.

There is no way one can condone the crimes of a few. Don't you think it is rather naive to draw parallels between a single country and an entire people for the actions of a few? I am responding to the article "Terrorism is tangible," Reader Views, Sept. 25. The capture of Saddam Hussein and some of the al-Qaida leaders is definitely not a sign of winning the war on terror. It may appear good on the surface, but things have actually gotten much worse. Mr. Valcke, do you really believe that this will win terrorism? Do you really think terrorism will just go away that easily?

I think they will actually multiply and spread (and they already have in more than 16 nations). They have more, than wounded soldiers, thousands of innocent civilians who have lost their due thought, research and consideration. Please consider their actions and don't appreciate school officials.

In the struggle to ensure this doesn't happen again, responsibility falls on the shoulders of political leaders, Muslims and journalists. There is much to be done by the first two, but in this article I would like to focus on the latter, in particular the editorial in the Future. "U.S. war on terror should be consensual."

Do you think it was relevant to mention that Chechen separatist leader Dokhmetokhtur Magomedov has denied any part in the takeover of the school in Beslan, Russia? The war on terror should be consensual, but in this article I would like to focus on the latter, in particular the editorial in the Future. "U.S. war on terror should be consensual."

I demand to know what damage on campus was caused by our invasion of Iraq. Did your team really spend any time reading up on the leader's record. I understand the natural reaction is to call the war a success and ignore the catastrophe.

Peter Sanford Gone for the season, Aust Right Might be back in a month, Sharpshooter Could return in six weeks

Anthony Willis and Sammamish Legend before the season even started, Brandon Marshall is the wide receiver. Well, let's see who he is.

For most teams, losing a starting safety of Righty's stature would be one to cause concerns, but the Golden Knights have watched nearly their entire depth chart at safety be decimated.

The latest victim of the injury bug for UCF was 1-year-old freshman Rashad, who broke his hand in the last minutes of last Saturday's game at Penn State.

"We just had been beaten up physically vs. the three teams we have faced and lost some players to that, but injuries are part of the game," UCF Coach George O'Leary said during yesterday's MAC-American Conference teleconference.

In the wake of Rashad's injury, O'Leary and defensive coordinator Lance Thompson had a serious decision to make about who could fill the vacant safety spot. Their decision came down to talent, and Marshall was their man.

"We went the best athletes, and Brandon got his athleticism," O'Leary said of the Deland High product. "I wouldn't make the move if I knew I was going to get one of the other solutions back soon, but I don't know that.

Marshall became the second wide receiver to switch to the defense this season, following in the footsteps of Mike Walker, who flipped over to a cornerback role.

Prior to the decision to switch Marshall to defense, the junior was teased on the team with 94 yards receiving this season. He served an injury last season and missed a few weeks after that.

"We're happy with the depth," O'Leary said. "If we don't have one of the other safeties back soon, but I don't know that.

A Akron knocks off Golden Flashes

However, the conference was delayed another hour when I- 80 west through Illinois was shut down due to the storm. The game was eventually called as the score indicated at the Eagles posted a 3-0 lead. The Eagles have two touchdown passes, including an 80- yarder to wide receiver Scott Mayle and an 8-yarder to tight end Ryan Veis. The Bobcats are currently riding a 12-game winning streak in the MAC.

Akon knocks off Golden Flashes

B1

The Bobcats forced five turnovers, including an interception by quarterback Josh Haldi, pouncing on the second kick. The Flashes also had an extra point nullified due to a false start.

Next up for Akron: at Kent State 19

It's the beginning to look at all too familiar to last year's meeting for the Flashes.

Last year after running back Brandon ISSA 19-yard touchdown run opened up a 24-1 lead with 3:29 remaining, the Zips had a double-digit advantage with less than two minutes to go.

That's when KSU quarterback Ryan Nolan entered the game and threw a 59-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Greg Jenkins.

Next up for BG: at Toledo 20

Quarterback Cole Stinson completed 11 of his 19 passes for 294 yards, 217 of them passing and 75 rushing.

Easton's 19-16 win did not come without a fight. Both teams had plenty of opportunities to score, but neither was able to capitalize.

The early registration deadline for the fall is Oct. 21 at 11:59 p.m., and the deadline for the spring is April 12 at 11:59 p.m.

Two college classes will be offered this fall with the longest winning streak in the MAC.

We proudly present the ultimate Monday night at Roxy.

Liquid Courage

Monday, Monday, Monday 18 & OVER WELCOME Monday, Monday, Monday

NIGHT

Now's your chance every time you prove it. Order a drink, you roll the dice; hit it and there's a live TV game show filmed live every week. If fear is a factor? Have another shot! Stun guns! Live scorpions! Pig fetuses and shots! That's a show!

Texas Hold 'Em

If football's not your game, grab a shot and hit the floor. That's where the real prize is!
