Student death raises questions

Family, friends think fraternity was involved

MEIN A. D. VEDES Managing Editor

The apparent suicide of a UCF football player has prompted police to open two investigations involving his death.

John Yance, 19, was found dead Nov. 10 in his Oviedo home, with a handgun at his side, by a roommate who called police. The Seminole County Sheriff's Office is still considering its review of the circumstances surrounding Yance's death. Sgt. Joe Martin said, "We're waiting for the medical examiner's report." He said "it can take months to complete all the tests."

At the same time, the sheriff's office also is trying to run down leads stemming from a break-in at Yance's home which was stressed with drug paraphernalia, soon after the departure of police who arrived to investigate the death. Police have interviewed one suspect in the break-in, also a UCF student, his investigator Mark Ford said.

The twin investigations have been encouraged and are being watched closely by Yance's family and friends, who suspect there is a link between the two events that they say involves drug use and Yance's involvement with Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

"He was afraid," said a close friend of Yance's family and the mother of one of his friends, who asked that she not be identified. "He called his family and friends the night before [his death]."

She said Yance had never done drugs before entering college. Based upon incidents described by Yance prior to his death, she blamed Pi Kappa Alpha for distributing drugs to its members. However, it wasn't until after his death that police had evidence to prove it.

Hitt proposes a home for football

ALASYL DUNKS Senior Staff Writer

Since 1979, UCF's football stadium has called the downtown Orlando Florida Citrus Bowl home, forcing fans on campus to drive across town to watch their team play.

That may be about to change, with the announcement Tuesday by University President John Hitt and football stadium headini for University of Central Florida Athletic Department Randy Orsini that UCF is studying a plan to build a stadium on campus, just south of the Seminole County Fairgrounds.

The surprise news comes less than a month after the recent approval by the university's Master Plan Task Force of a city-approved development complex located on Alafaya Trail.

According to the police report, officers responded at about 7:20 p.m. to a 911 emergency call about a teen found at 645 Silver Vista Lane, Building 39. They found a body beside the sand volleyball court behind the Pinellas Clubhouse.

Police later confirmed the body was 27-year-old Terry Smith, a Sanford resident.

"It was in the bathroom getting ready to go out when my friend came in, ran and said he thought he heard gunshots," said Kimmie, a resident of Seminole Landing who asked that her last name not be used since the suspect has not been arrested.

"I told him maybe they were firecrackers, and he said, 'No, he saw two black mails running from a car parked right next to mine. I was inside the house and there were a police car double-parked behind mine, and this guy had them both underneath the engine hood. He asked us to go back inside and lock the door,'" she said.

"Seminole Landing is home for the UCF and other college students, three full-time law enforcement officers there at least one day in assigned to each building."

The shooting incident, a couple of students were away for the holidays.

Kimmie said she didn't think anything else had happened, because UCP regularly patrolled the area.

"We did not think too much of it since there was no dead body at all."

Students will not be used at band games.

Fans: More students would attend games.

The UCF football team, which played its first season in 2006, is currently non-scholarship and has not yet been invited to a bowl game.

Their immediate future at the Citrus Bowl is uncertain, with the team's coach, George O'Leary, saying he has no plans to sign any new players.

O'Leary's predecessor, George O'Leary, who is also a former head coach at Florida State University, said that while he would love to see the team at the Citrus Bowl, he is not ruling out the possibility of the team playing in a bowl game elsewhere.

But for now, the team's prospects are uncertain, with O'Leary saying that the team's future depends on the university's ability to raise the money needed to finance the team's operations.

The university is currently in the process of raising $25 million to fund the team's operations for the next three years.

O'Leary said that the money would be used to pay for the team's scholarships, which currently range from $25,000 to $30,000 per year.

The university is also seeking donations from alumni and other supporters to help finance the team's operations.

In the meantime, the team will continue to play games at the UCF Stadium, which has a capacity of 45,000.

The stadium was built in 2004 as part of a $100 million expansion of the university's campus.

The stadium is used for both football and soccer games, and is also available for use by other groups, such as the university's marching band and other student organizations.

O'Leary said that the team's success on the field would be determined by the team's ability to raise the money needed to finance the team's operations.

Dead man did not live at the complex, was not a student.

From Al: "I was only one patrol car. Then we went out around 8:30 p.m. and they were setting up the crime scene, which included our building," she said. "I went down to get my car on the north side of the building and the officer didn't let me, and then I was not allowed back up to where my friends were, so I walked around to go up the stairs where my friends were. Then I saw the body. It looked like it was in the movies. His face was down and his leg was kicked up like he was running away and there was a bunch of cops crowding around him. That's when a police officer escorted me back up and told us what was going on."

She added, "They told us that they would tow the car that the suspects left behind shortly after the detectives were done with us so that we could leave, but they didn't end up towing it till about 4 a.m. and they didn't clean the body up until midnight."

Pegasus Landing was formerly known as Knights Landing until College Park and UCF purchased it in 2001. Many residents agree the complex is safer now than before, but the murder concerns them. "I was home for the holidays when my roommates told me about the shooting," engineering major Kaare Kurtzke, 19, said. "It kind of freaked me out. I was shocked. I didn't know what to do, besides lock our paper-thin doors. When someone is murdered outside your resident, that was a huge relief, but it was still weird coming back here."

Kimmie said she is still rattled even though the shooting took place weeks ago. "It's a little bit scary at night," Kimmie said. "I will take a while to get over it. I haven't gone near where the body was because it's hard. I can still picture the body there. I try not to go to my car by myself." Since the incident, police have stepped up patrols in the area.

Some residents like James Gasch, 19, and the presence of law enforcement will not make him feel safer. "No matter how much extra security, police or any other changes the residence will make, it won't make him feel safer."

I didn't know what to do, besides lock our paper-thin doors. When someone is murdered outside your resident, it's hard to feel protected. Our security alarms are an extra fee, too, which isn't fair." Officials at Pegasus Landing did not return calls for comment.

Indian club raises money for tsunami relief

KATE MOWL
Senior Staff Writer

SANGAM, UCF's Indian Student Association, has undertaken a massive fundraising effort to raise money for the victims of December's tsunami.

"Our parents were driving along the Indian coast when the tragedy occurred. What my parents described of the destruction and what I saw on televisions affected me deeply," Abhishek Karnik, the president of SANGAM, said. "I am sure that everyone felt the same way and wanted to help the victims in any way they could."

In that spirit, the organization is working with other multicultural student center groups, Valencia UCF, UGA and the International Student Center to raise $4,000 to be used for disaster relief. Any dollar collected will be dropped in the UCF Student Center or at the Indian club's table displayed at the event. The money will be directed to UNICEF and Direct Relief International.

"It is a medical epidemic. In hopes of preventing one, relief organizations like UNICEF and Direct Aid International are working to provide clean water and food. Shelter and the restoration of power is also a primary goal," he said.

With the death toll passing 150,000, the last thing the people of Indonesia, Sri Lanka and India need now is a medical epidemic. In hopes of preventing one, relief organizations like UNICEF and Direct Aid International are working to provide clean water and food. Shelter and the restoration of power is also a primary goal.

If the response is positive, the group will extend the drive for donations throughout the week. There will also be collection boxes in many department offices, the Student Center and in residence halls.

"We are trying to do this thing. If you want to help, you can. That is how we can raise money for the people of this area," Karnik said.

The United States has deployed relief efforts to Asia, and has promised more as the death toll rises.

Build stadium and they’ll come

Students for a stadium

I was excited to hear that we are finally planning to study the feasibility of creating a 'world-class football stadium' in Florida. Perhaps it could be similar had the hurricanes hit
Florida and the rest of the world an opportunity to show that we can work together.

Could that be the reason this something amazing (again, the (obviously). No, I didn't buy tons of aid material continuing school efforts. For some reason, no one knew about it. After 15 years, there has been no difference. All of my fellow alums don't speak about UCF much because there is no community effort, no attempt to reconnect local alumni with the continuing school efforts. Oh yes, I forgot the timing and costing effort to solicit donations from an unemployable slum.

No, I didn't find a new job. Nothing along those lines happened. But at one point I did watch the Bowl halftime over the Citrus Bowl. I was actually couldn't be any happier, I got there. Jews give to victims. A tiny country made up of people from all corners of the globe knows how to extend a hand. Within hours of the devastating recent tragedy in the Indian Ocean, multiple humanitarian missions all departed from head. This included a medical team out of Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem's Hadassah Hospital for six jobs for the worst football team in the country which school has the very own stadium? But there are no students, there are no dorms as an on-campus resident assistant, I am compelled to respond to your article [Hollywood Bowl] Dec. 6, 2004]. John Hitt was not depressed, but threatened by the brotherly love. I pray that the Pikes, who may only be his brothers, come forward and tell the truth.

The positives can be more of a college environment, a sharp contrast as soon as possible. More construction as soon as possible. More, more of a college environment.

I doubt anyone had a better week last week than UCF. No, I didn't get a new job (obviously). I didn't find something amazing (again, the (obviously). No, I didn't buy tons of aid material continuing school efforts.

I was at least straight about the opinion (obviously) should never be dumb at UCF; there are residence halls. A dorm means you have a community bathroom shared by many. We'll do it for you. UCF Dining Services has a guaranteed lowest prices anywhere in the U.S.A.

Men fixing faulty areas for A-Sun run

Gary Johnson doesn't like losing. Even a two-game losing streak doesn't suit him. That's why he wants to start the New Year on the right note. A-Sun's top defense takes win over Troy

MATT DUNABY  Junior Staff Writer

The UCF women's basketball team completed a perfect week at home with a double victory over Troy on Saturday afternoon.

The Knights entered the game with the No. 1 defense in the Atlantic Sun conference, giving up only 59 points per contest, and the defense held the opposition under 45 points for the second time in a row.

"Our guards did a good job on defense of doubling inside, and getting back outside putting a hand in their shooters' faces," Coach Gail Striegler said. "I thought it was a very good game overall, and we had different players step up at different times."

After missing the FAU game on Monday due to discipline reasons, guard Celeste Bishop didn't touch anything on the floor and responded with an all-around good game.

"The junior was three-of-seven from the floor, scoring eight points, grabbing eight rebounds, and dishing out a team-high five assists," Striegler said. "I'm confident in my team-mates because I know players like (Marron's) junior and Kingpsey Galloway (not capable of) Johnson said, "I know it was going to take a little while and they wouldn't step right in and score 15 points a night. But anything helps. I'd rather see him have 10 points and we win than have 40 points and we lose."

Bingting it back home

Assem Lapp  Sports Editor

Who wouldn't want an on-campus stadium? Someone who could step right into the midst of a game, not feel too far away from the ball, and have a chance to experience the thrill of a college football atmosphere.

But in Orlando, the UCF Athletic Association is conducting a feasibility study to determine whether or not to build an on-campus stadium.

"I'm constructing on a feasibility study of my own about the band forming outside the Student Union," Orsini said. "I've heard the same song and dance about how it would be another stadium could even be remotely considered.

"Think about the students who might not get to the campus often. Think about the students who can walk to the games. Think about a stadium that's really going to the students right in and score a goal every time we have a possession."

"I'm happy and there's noth­

School pride is a stadium away

The hospitality industry throughout the UCF area is already feeling the effects. Orlando Mayor Tom Walters said the moves could "impact us in a positive way." That "way" is hotels, bars and restaurants and the like. Grant ed Walters is a politician in a town which I believe still uses the Pony Express in some areas, but his right.

The only negative the hospitality industry in the UCF area would ever see would be the traffic if the stores ran out of drills. I know what you’re thinking. Won’t a boom in traffic be a boon to traffic in some parts of Seminole and Orange counties? You will have seen the traffic on campus Monday mornings? Los Angeles gridlock looks sparkling in the autumn sun. We deserve better. These teams are all huge rivals no one when it comes to

But guys like Jason Gwaltney don’t come to Jacksonville as often as I’d like. I have this image in my head when he said, "Does a winless football team deserve a stadium?" The senior forward from Hitt and Co. said that if he were to win a few weeks back. Here’s a guy that could have come here and be the next big thing.

We don’t have an on-campus stadium, Guys like Gwaltney don’t come to UCF because we’ve been playing in a rundown Wall House of a stadium while schools like Ohio State and Florida are playing in five-star stadiums. The truth is sad but true. The fact that we’ve had no one come to us in this program joined Division I-A football, UCF’s president, introduced music to UCF’s old design of fun, but until that feasibility study turns into tons of steel being raised next weekend, we’ve had to live as a tampon ad airing during the Super Bowl.

The problem is, though, that Hitt also said, "You can’t recycle those expenses," but exactly what I’ve been living since the feasibility study was done on campus at UCF’s dream. Is this what Florida are doing to their kids? Is this what Florida are doing to their kids? Is this what Florida are doing to their kids?

I looked around and saw reporters asking for blood and gearing up to unleash the stores run. Asking about money is one thing, but we’ve had to live as a tampon ad airing during the Super Bowl. Dream of stadium could soon become reality

Conference last Tuesday that an on-campus stadium is exactly what the football program needs to propel it to Top 25 status.

"There's no secret that the Knights' 0-11 finish was the worst in college football this year, but first-season Coach George O'Leary has barely begun to get his hands dirty with the program recruiting and healing an injured program.

"What it allows him to do is bring people on campus," O'Leary said of how an on-campus stadium will help recruit quality student athletes and help the program.

O'Leary's cause. "But frankly I don't know many people on our campus, they're on our campus they see what this university has grown into. If we so choose to put a football stadium on-campus, as George O'Leary has said, it would be the last piece of the puzzle. He can then sell this university to athletes and produce a successful football program."

The argument remains as to whether UCF is doing the right thing by spending $45 million into an on-campus stadium while the city of Orlando is still working on a plan to renovate the Citrus Bowl, the Knights' home for the past 25 years. Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer and the Florida Citrus Sports executive committee had hoped that UCF would in some way contribute to the Citrus Bowl's upgrades. If the Knights end up soliciting the plans for a new stadium, they would undoubtedly end up on-campus at some point as the Citrus Bowl would have to close for at least one season.

UCF has been one of the many teams nationwide that has played in a municipal stadium, as opposed to an on-campus stadium, throughout their preference."

UCF has been the home of the Florida Citrus Bowl since 1949, and the Knights have played in municipal stadiums in the Orange Bowl and the National Champion USC Trojans in the Rose Bowl. However, it is quite evident that UCF has a hard time following in their national champions' success.

"Good athletes help you win," O'Leary said. "Good coaches help you win. For us as administrators, the better people we have the better chance we have to win."

"It takes total team effort. You have to work with what you have and we do." —Marcus Avant

UCF 75, Jacksonville 23
The UCF men’s basketball team sealed its two-game losing streak yesterday, girding out a 69-65 victory over visiting Jacksonville.

"If UCF continues to play the way it has been over the last few games, we will be a team of destiny," head coach Gary Johnson said. "They’ve been consistent and we’ve been able to play at a high level for extended periods of time."

UCF had five players score in double figures, and they out-rebounded the Dolphins 39-36 on their way to victory. Former forward Marcus Avant led the Knights scoring 14 points, a career-high. Avant shot 6-for-6 from the field through the final 6:52 left in the game by an average of 11.3 points per game. He also leads the team with a .406 field goal percentage, and fourth on the team in assists, averaging 13.4 points per game this season. He’s averaging 6.5 points and 3.3 rebounds per game. The defense isn’t so much as much as the Knights allowed at least seven points in the final six minutes.

The offense wasn’t as bad as the defense, allowing 71.4 points per game. Last season the Knights, (9-4, 2-3 A-Sun) got off to a quick start and level the score at 52 with 6:52 left in the game.

UCF allowed Jacksonville 23-5 in the final seven minutes.

Senior guard Gary Johnson said. "I could play every minute of every day." The offense didn’t seem to be on pace.

The Knights are 3-3 in their post-Christmas games this season, allowing 71.4 points per game. Last season the Knights allowed at least 70 points only twice in 16 games. The defense isn’t as bad as it has been in the Knights below average free throw shooting, 19-for-23 (82.6 percent) from the line.

UCF then had an offensive spark for this team, averaging 11.3 points per game. The defense wasn’t as bad as the offense, allowing 71.4 points per game. Last season the Knights, (9-4, 2-3 A-Sun) got off to a quick start and level the score at 52 with 6:52 left in the game.

Defense continues to propel women’s run

From B1

"After missing the game on Monday and letting my teammates down, I knew I had to have two good practices," Hudson said. "We know we had to pick up our defense, and not have any dry spells on offense."

The two teams went back and forth in the first half, but UCF (6-3, 3-1 Atlantic Sun) was able to control tempo, holding an 18-4 lead with 4:46 left. Troy (1-8, 1-3 A-Sun) was held to only one field goal for the rest of the half, and guard Claudia Johnson canned a 3-pointer to beat the clock, giving the Knights a 27-18 advantage going into the locker room.

The Trojans started the second half strong, and were able to get within six at 19-25 at the 11:36 mark. UCF responded, and pushed the lead into double digits with a lay-up from center Ali Roberts and a mid-range jumper from forward Shelby Weber.

"They were double teaming us in the paint, and that allowed Shelby to get some open looks," Striegler said. "You have to find out what the defense is going to give you, and take advantage of it.

Both Weber and Roberts finished in double figures, with 14 and 11 points respectively. However, Striegler is still not satisfied feeling her squad has won back-to-back games.

"We’re still not executing the way we want to on offense, and we’re still not finishing some of the easy looks," Striegler said. "That’s something we have to work on.

The Knights also welcomed point guard LaShay Weber back into the fold. Weber, who missed the previous two games due to injury, led the team with 14 and 11 points, respectively.

"You have to find out what the defense is going to give you, and take advantage of it."

Preventing You for a Future in Medicine

If you’re interested in a future in medicine consider Barry University’s Master of Science in Anatomy program. Whether you want to strengthen your application to medical or dental school or build a career in research or academia, Barry’s anatomy program can help you succeed. You gain a broad knowledge of anatomy, but you also gain valuable experience conducting original research in a medical school environment. And with full scholarships and a fully paid assistantship in your second year we make it even easier to reach your goal.
